A saloon run by John Depew, at Batesville, Ohio, was blown up with dynamite. The building was wrecked, but no one was hurt. The community in which the saloon is located has a large temperance element, and the drastic measures employed to get rid of the saloon is credited to this source. Some arrests may follow.

Ate Her Own Father.

Berlin special: In Krickwiez, Silesia, a septuagenarian weaver named Jungnitsch, was recently murdered during his sleep by his insane daughter. The murderess afterward cut her father's body up into small pieces and made his flesh her food for several days, until the deed was discovered by their neighbors.

Wild Cab Horse Killed.

A spirited horse attached to a hansome cab owned by the Frand Bird Transfer Company, in a runaway at Indianapolis, dashed headlong into the entrance to the "Pops" store and was instantly killed. Driver Clark escaped death by jumping.

Our Trade with Mexico.

Our Consul at Matamoras, Mexico, says that our trade with Mexico is increasing. Only 20 per cent. of the imported goods sold in that place last year came from Europe. The rest came from the United States.

Wages Increased.

The Buffalo, N. Y., Furnace Company has increased the wages of its 500 employes 20 per cent. The works are running night and day.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2, 43c to 44c; oats, No. 2, 24c to 25c; rye, No. 2, 48c to 50c; butter, choice creamery, 17c to 19c; eggs, fresh, 10c to 12c; potatoes, new, per barrel, $1.25 to $2.00; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 4c to 6½c per lb.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 1, white, 43c to 44c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 28c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, No 2, 44c to 46c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2, mixed, 43c to 44c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 28c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 46c to 48c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.50; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2, yellow, 43c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 29c; rye, 47c to 48c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 74c to 75c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 23c to 25c; rye, No. 2, 49c to 51c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.25; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 48c to 50c; oats, No. 2 white, 30c to 31c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 3, 43c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; barley, No. 2, 46c to 48c; rye, No. 1, 51c to 53c; pork, mess, $10.25 to $10.75.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.50; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No 2 red, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 2, 47c to 49c; oats, No. 2 white, 32c to 33c; butter, creamery, 17c to 18c; eggs, Western, 13c to 14c.

MURDER HIS TRADE.

H. H. HOLMES ACCUSED OF DIABOLICAL CRIMES.

More of His Devilishness Coming to Light Every Day—Startling Discoveries Made in Chicago—Building with Mysterious Chambers—Bones Found.

Fiend in Human Form.

There is incarcerated in Moyamensing Prison, in Philadelphia, a man who, according to his own admission, has deserved hanging a dozen times, and, if guilty of half of the crimes laid at his door, is, without doubt, the arch-criminal of America. The name he is known by in prison is H. H. Holmes, but he has as many aliases as a chameleon has colors, and, when at liberty, he could change them as quickly.

Holmes' real name is Herbert, or Herman, Mudgett, and he was born in Gilmanton, N. H., about thirty-four years ago. His father was Levi H. Mudgett, and he was postmaster of Gilmanton Corners. He gave his son a good education, the boy graduating from the village academy with honor.

When but 18 young Mudgett married Clara Lovering, the pretty daughter of a well-to-do citizen of Louden, N. H. Mudgett supported his wife for awhile, first by teaching school and after by clerking in a store. Then he took a notion to study medicine, and partly through his parents' and his wife's parents' assistance he become a student in the University of Vermont, at Burlington. His wife in the meantime supported herself as a dressmaker. By and by Mudgett went to the medical college at Ann Arbor, Mich. Here he run out of funds. He and a chum went to work during the summer vacation on a farm. One day it occurred to Mudgett that it was possible to obtain a quantity of money by swindling a life insurance company. It is said that he told his plan to his chum, who at once fell in with it. The chum had his life insured under a fictitious name, and shortly after they procured a body from the pickling vat of a medical college, boxed it up and shipped it to Connecticut. Then it was given out that the chum had died, the body was palmed off as his, and Mudgett got the insurance money, some $12,500.

THE HOLMES BUILDING IN CHICAGO.
[The star shows Holmes' office.)

After securing his degree Mudgett began the practice of his profession at Moore's Fork, in his State. His wife was with him for awhile. She bore him a child, and then went back to her parents on a prolonged visit.

Commits Bigamy.

The young doctor built up a fairly good practice, but did not ask his wife to return to him, as he thought his field of action too circumscribed and he talked of going to Chicago to establish himself there. His was a flirtatious nature, and meeting an adventuress in Boston, he married her. She soon found that his means were poor and left him. Then he paid his real wife a visit and told her he was going west. That was the last she had heard of him for several years. Believing that she was deserted she went to hard work as a dressmaker to support herself and her child.

Holmes, by which name he is afterward known, then entered into various schemes in Chicago. He employed a typewriter named Minnie Williams. He learned that she and her sister were worth $50,000 and determined to have the money. He persuaded Minnie to live with him. Then they sent for her sister Annie. The latter soon disappeared and no clue has ever been found of her whereabouts. It was not long after this that Minnie also disappeared.

Then Holmes met Benjamin F. Pitezel. They laid a plan to defraud the Fidelity Mutual Life Insurance Company of Philadelphia. Pitezel took out a policy for $10,000. In September last the body of a man was found in a certain house in Philadelphia. By his side was a broken bottle of carbolic acid. He was identified at the time as the man who, under the name of B. F. Perry, had rented the house some time before. The doctors said he had died in a natural manner. The body was buried in the Potter's field.

HOLMES IN HIS CELL.

Then Holmes came forward with a man named Howe to represent Mrs. Pitezel, who claimed that the body was that of her husband. It was exhumed and she identified it. The insurance money was paid. The largest share went to Holmes. He then persuaded Mrs. Pitezel to let him take care of three of her five children. She agreed and he took them with him. They have not been seen since, dead or alive, until the finding last week of the bodies of two of them in the cellar of a house in Toronto, Ont., and every circumstance indicates that they were murdered by Holmes.

Holmes Arrested.

In some way the insurance company became suspicious. When Mrs. Pitezel was pressed she admitted that the whole thing was a conspiracy and that Pitezel, she believed, was alive. She was arrested, as was Howe. Then the detectives chased Holmes from city to city until they arrested him in Boston. Pitezel has never been found and the belief is strong that he was murdered by Holmes. When the children could not be located detectives began to hunt for them. They were tracked with Holmes to Detroit. Then one of them seems to have disappeared. The other two were traced to Toronto. It was discovered that Holmes rented a certain house in that city and that he had two children with him. A search was made. The earth forming the floor of the cellar had been disturbed. The detectives began to dig and soon they uncovered the nude bodies of the two children. Where the other one is, whether dead or alive, whether or not their father is living, and whether or not Minnie and Annie Williams were murdered are matters the police and detectives are trying to solve. That the Williams girls met death at the hands of Holmes, there is scarcely a doubt. That they died in Chicago in a violent manner has been proved almost conclusively. The police found in a stove in a three-story brick building at 701 63d street, which was built by Holmes and in which both he and the Williams girls lived, a quantity of charred bones, buttons known to have been on a dress owned by Minnie Williams, and the partly melted portion of a watch chain which was positively identified as having been the property of the girl. The contents of the stove were quickly dumped, and portions of bones too badly burned to admit of positive identification as belonging to any particular portion of the body were found.

MINNIE WILLIAMS. ANNIE WILLIAMS.

All of the ashes and debris removed from the stove was carefully preserved. The police are now of the opinion that not only Minnie Williams but her younger sister, Anna, and the boy Howard Pitzel met death in this house. Anna Williams has not been seen or heard of since Holmes left the 63d street building. If she has fallen victim to Holmes' murderous instincts she will be the sixth he has killed—Pitezel, his three children and the two Williams girls.

Holmes pleaded guilty to conspiracy in defrauding the insurance companies out of about $250,000, and was awaiting sentence therefor when the bodies of the children were found and the suspicion that he murdered Pitezel was aroused.

THE TORONTO COTTAGE.

Of course he disclaims all knowledge of the manner of their death.

EXPRESS IS HELD UP.

Chicago Limited on the Lake Shore Boarded by Robbers.

Masked men boarded a west-bound Lake Shore and Michigan Southern express train at Reece Siding, Ind., at 12:35 Wednesday morning, forced open an express car and at the point of revolvers compelled the messenger to unlock the safe. It is known that at least $8,000 was taken. The train is a heavy one, made up of several express cars, baggage and mail cars, two coaches and three Pullmans.

Reece Siding is a lonely spot in the woods, between Archbold and Stryker, about ten miles west of Wauseon. A blind sliding is used by this train nightly to allow the western express to pass. This usual stop is well known to those familiar with the locality. For a mile in each direction the woods are dense close to the railroad right of way.

The noise of the coming western express was ringing louder and louder when Conductor Darling, who stood by a coach, saw three masked men ride out of a road from the woods which led directly to an express car which crossed it. He was ordered inside the coach and at the same time three men, approaching the other side, joined their companions in demanding admission to the express car. This was gained at revolvers' points, and the express messenger, under threats of instant death, was compelled to open the safe. The entrance to the express car was made quickly and no commotion was created in the other cars. The robbers seemed to know just how to handle the railroad men and to board the cars. Their evident familiarity with cars and the time the trains met give rise to suspicions that they are railroad men.

Express and railroad officials at Toledo were at once notified when the train reached Bryan. Superintendent Blodgett and Manager Caniff left at once on a special train for the scene of the robbery, notifying the police officials of all adjacent towns to be on the lookout for the robbers. Officials express the opinion that the robbery was committed by persons in close touch with the road and its methods, or at least the express company, for that night an unusually large sum of money was, express officials say, carried in the express safe. This admission gives rise to the belief that a much larger sum than $8,000 was carried off.

PULSE OF THE PRESS

The Dead Stambuloff.

A generation hence Bulgaria will honor Stambuloff as a national martyr.—Buffalo Press.

He was a strong man and used strong measures, which gave his enemies their opportunity.—New York Herald.

A thousand Stambuloffs should take the place of the one foully murdered by Russian sympathizers.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The assassination of the exponent of a popular cause, however, will not suffice to suppress the aspirations of a nation.—Philadelphia Record.

There is little reason to hope that the murder of Stambuloff will heal the feud and reconcile the courts of St. Petersburg and Sofia.—New York Tribune.

We presume that if he had not interfered with Russian plans in regard to Macedonia he might be alive to-day.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

He (Stambuloff) seemed the one strong man in a nation of weaklings, and he commanded not only obedience at home, but respect abroad.—New York Sun.

The assassination of Stambuloff, the Bulgarian Minister, was clearly the result of as wicked a conspiracy as the political history of Europe has known.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Whether by connivance of the Prince or by friends of Panitzaa, or by one of half a dozen other possible causes, Stambuloff is dead, and with his death, it is hardly to be doubted, dies the hope of Bulgarian independence for many years to come.—Syracuse Post.

Modern life has had no more striking example of the essential vulgarity and brutality of undemocratic power and usurpation than this startling tragedy of Southwestern Europe. Stambuloff was slain without doubt, if not by the direct orders of the Russian Czar, certainly then in pursuance of a policy which was hatched in the brains that serve him.—New York Journal.

Grover's Girls.

Grover always was partial to girls.—Pittsburg Press.

Time wears on, still Grover sees nothing but bloomers in store.—Pittsburg Leader.

Baby McKee has one more chance of becoming Grover's son-in-law.—Hoxawottamie Herald.

Presidents have to meet with disappointments just like the common run of mortals.—Jackson Whig.

That sign of "Boy Wanted" which was hung out at Gray Gables is still out.—Grand Rapids Herald.

In course of time Uncle Sam may look for a President among the President's daughters.—Boston Herald.

President Cleveland sings it this way: "There's just one more girl in this world for me."—New York World.

Although a son failed to arrive, Mr. Cleveland has the satisfaction of greeting another new woman.—Indianapolis Journal.

There is another dimpled darling in the Presidential houshold. Ruth becomes a sister every two years now.—Augusta Chronicle.

If this thing of girl babies being born to President and Mrs. Cleveland keeps up, the ratio will soon be more than 16 to 1.—Ohio State Journal.

We feel it a duty to caution Mr. Cleveland against the free coinage of girls as a thing likely to destroy the parity of the sexes.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Girls are much more valuable than boys, especially at this time, when the new woman is taking possession of the earth.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

As there is no politics in this the entire country, without regard to sex, age, or condition, sends its most hearty congratulations and good wishes. The White House has a trio of charming children.—Elgin News.

While ex-President Harrison is discouraging matrimony by declaring that women on the bicycle repel the admiration of the male sex, President Cleveland is promoting matrimony by proving that marriage is not a failure.—Bloomington Bulletin.

The Endeavor Convention.

Only fourteen years of history and 2,500,000 members! That is a marvelous record and a marvelous promise for the future.—Courier-Journal.

The success of the great convention is a fine commentary on the safety, speed and comfort of the American railway system.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The record of this organization is most gratifying. It stand as a refutation of the ideas advanced by cynics and others that the world is growing worse.—Kansas City Times.

The Christian Endeavor meetings furnish conclusive evidence that the institutions of Christianity are maintained with their old fervor and that men's lives are vitalized by a living faith.—Chicago Tribune.

These earnest, self-denying young men and women gathered together to advance the spiritual kingdom of righteousness preach to the world a sermon far more effective than the most polished effort of the mere pulpit orator.—New York Tribune.

In the face of three great armies like the Sunday school children, the Society of Christian Endeavor and the Young Men's Christian Association, the spectator may well ask himself what there is to the talk of a decay of the religious spirit.—Buffalo Express.

The churches are rapidly finding out that if they want to retain their hold on the young people of the land they must put forward something more than the ethical and moral attractions of religion. They must appeal to the social side of human nature. It is the development of this sentiment which accounts in a large measure for the growth of the Christian Endeavor societies.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Expulsion of Modjeska.

Mme. Modjeska, in view of her expulsion, will add to the list of her American admirers by her vigorous denunciation of the government which has so long dominated Poland.—Chicago Tribune.

Modjeska, the actress, is barred out of Russia for making a patriotic speech at the Chicago World's Fair. She will no doubt find compensation in a more abundant harvest of shekels in America.—Minneapolis Tribune.

So Mme. Modjeska has been expelled from Russia on account of a speech in favor of the Poles, which she made a long time ago in Chicago. It seems that Russia not only intends to punish free speech in Russia, but whenever there is a possible opportunity she proposes to punish free speech in America.—Boston Globe.

Notes of Current Events.

Senator Brice is said to have bought a cottage at Newport.

Fire in the little village of Lorneville, Ont., left fifty families homeless.

August Votthold, a St. Louis cigarmaker, committed suicide in the police station at Syracuse, N. Y.

NIAGARA FALLS EXCURSION!

Thursday, August 8, 1895.

—VIA THE—

Lake Erie & Western R. R.

"Natural Gas Route."

On Thursday, August 8, 1895, the Lake Erie & Western R.R. will run their popular annual excursion to Cleveland, Chautauqua Lake, Buffalo and Niagara Falls at following very low rates, viz.:

Peoria	$7 50	Fort Wayne	$5 00
Bloomington	7 00	Muncie	5 00
LaFayette	6 00	Connersville	5 00
Michigan City	6 00	Rushville	5 00
Indianapolis	5 00	New Castle	5 00
Tipton	5 00	Cambridge City	5 00
Lima	4 00	Fremont	4 00

Sandusky, $4 00.

With corresponding reductions from intermediate points.

In addition to the above, the purchasers of these tickets will be given privilege of special excursion side trips to Lewiston-on-the-Lake, including a steamboat ride on Lake Ontario, 25 cents. To Toronto and return by Lake from Lewiston $1.00; to Thousand Islands, $5.00. Tickets for the above side trips can be had when purchasing Niagara Falls ticket, or at any time on train.

Besides the above privileges with that of spending Sunday at the Falls, we will furnish all those who desire a side trip from Brockton Junction to Chautauqua Lake and return FREE OF CHARGE.

Tickets of admission to places of special interest at or near Niagara Falls, but outside the reservation, including toll over the International Bridge to the Canadian side, elevators to the water's edge at Whirlpool Rapids on the Canadian side, will be offered on train at a reduction from prices charged after reaching the Falls.

Do not miss this opportunity to spend Sunday at Niagara Falls. The excursion train will arrive at Niagara Falls 7.00 A. M. Friday, August 9, 1895, and will leave the Falls returning Sunday morning, August 11, at 6 o'clock, stopping at Cleveland Sunday afternoon, giving an opportunity to visit the magnificent monument of the late President Garfield, and many other interesting points.

Tickets will be good, however, to return on regular trains leaving the Falls Saturday, August 10, for those not desiring to remain over. Tickets will also be good returning on all regular trains up to and including Tuesday, August 13, 1895. SECURE YOUR TICKETS, ALSO CHAIR AND SLEEPING CAR ACCOMMODATIONS, early. Those desiring can secure accommodations in these cars while at the Falls. For further information call on any agent Lake Erie & Western R. R. or address,

C. F DALY, Gen. Pass Agent,
Indianapolis Ind.

HORSEMEN

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood.
Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc.
Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts.
Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses.
Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy.
Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address

AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist Auburn.

TOWER'S SURFACE.... CULTIVATOR

IS THE PIONEER OF ITS CLASS,
And as now perfected

Cannot be equalled for Corn, Potatoes, Cabbage and Tobacco Culture.

IT IS A PERFECT ERADICATOR
Of Morning Glories, Cockleburrs, Barn Grass and other noxious Weeds.

EQUALLY AS EFFICIENT
IN WET AS IN DRY SEASONS.

All the Agricultural Experiment Stations in the country have decided in favor of surface culture, and all of them who have tested it, have decided in favor of the Tower Hoe Cultivator for that purpose.

Manufactured by
J. D. TOWER & BRO.,
MENDOTA, ILL.

SUBSCRIBE

FOR THE COURIER.

HILDA

Charlotte M. Braeme

CHAPTER XXV.

When Bertie Carlyon left him Paul Fulton stood lost and bewildered in a storm of feeling and thought. He knew not whether to be pleased, or curse his fate. What a source of pride and joy for him, his daughter, his own child—one of the loveliest and fairest women in England—gifted with grace and dignity fitting for a queen—married to a nobleman high in rank, position and wealth; one with whom it was an honor to associate. To be known as Lady Bayneham's father would be to secure at once position and standing. What a proud moment for him when he could speak of my son-in-law the earl, my daughter the countess! He had been longing for the prestige of rank; here it was, almost thrust upon him. And yet cooler reflection told him that his own folly stood an impassable barrier between his child and himself. In claiming her he would lose far more than he could gain. He must proclaim himself to be the ex-convict, Stephen Hurst; no spurious statement would hold good in a matter so important. He must destroy the new reputation so proudly built on the wretched past. He must acknowledge to Lady Grahame that, in telling her he had never been married, he had been guilty of a deliberate lie, and so lose all chance of making her his wife.

It maddened Paul Fulton to see so many and such great advantages in his grasp, yet not to be able to reach them. His daughter, who could reflect such honor and distinction upon him, was as far from him as though she were dead. He did not dare to claim her. Calm reflection told him such a step would bring nothing but disgrace upon him, for it would entail the revelation of his past life.

Paul Fulton resolved to fly. He had met and conquered all his enemies; but one stole upon him unawares; and that was, love for the fair and gentle lady who was his only child. When the election was ended he determined to leave, and not come near Bayneham for some time.

The election did end at last, and Albert Carlyon, Esq., was returned by a triumphant majority, thanks to the untiring energy of Lord Bayneham and Mr. Fulton. Then the guests who had been together began to speak of leaving. Bertie had duties—he must go; Mr. Fulton declared that he had imperative business, but he yielded to his host's entreaties, and promised to remain for four days longer.

That promise altered Paul Fulton's life, and brought years of sorrow and misery to his innocent daughter. He began to love her; men may be blind, foolish, or cruel, but nature must speak; there were times when the strong, false man longed for one word from his daughter's lips; longed to clasp her in his arms and tell her she was his own, only child. He raved at himself for the thought. Should he wreck the reputation he had so carefully and assiduously won, by one moment's weakness? No, he would leave danger and Bayneham far behind him.

That very afternoon Lord Bayneham and Bertie Carlyon had gone out for a ramble together, and Mr. Fulton had been assisting Miss Earle in transplanting some very choice slips given her. By some unknown accident, he contrived to inflict a pretty severe wound upon one of his fingers whilst Lady Hilda was standing near.

The wound, slight though it was, bled profusely. Mr. Fulton, like many other people, could bear pain, but the sight of blood unnerved him. He turned sick and faint, and leaned against the wall for support.

"I have some adhesive plaster," said Barbara Earle. "I will fetch it in a moment." And she disappeared as she spoke.

Lady Hilda gazed pityingly at the handsome face blanched with fear.

"Let me bind it up for you," she said, "until Miss Earle returns."

She went up to him and took the wounded hand in her own. As she stooped to fasten the handkerchief round it, her golden hair touched him, and the contact was like an electric shock to him; the warm, soft fingers held his own so gently, the fair face was so sweet with its pitying look—and she was his own, only child. He forgot all danger and everything else in the world, save that she was the little child whom he had held in his arms; he bent down and kissed the golden head drooping near him. Then his heart died within him when he found what he had done.

Lady Hilda started up, her face glowing with a burning blush, her eyes full of indignant fire; but it was no look of love that met hers. Mr. Fulton's face was unutterably sad. She was about to exclaim, when he said, "Hush, my dear; as you value your own happiness be silent, I—I knew your mother years ago, and you looked like her then."

Miss Earle returned before Lady Hilda had time to speak. She looked with amazement at the strange expression of that fair young face, but made no remark; she bandaged the wound carefully, and then both ladies withdrew, leaving the perplexed Mr. Fulton to find a way out of his difficulties.

"That I should have been so mad!" he exclaimed; "but how could I help it? She looked so fair and winning, so like poor Magdalen; and after all she is my own child. But what shall I do? I must explain all to her, or she will tell Bayneham, and we shall have a scene."

Lady Hilda was dismayed; the secret her mother had kept so well was then known to this handsome stranger, who had made himself universally liked. But she had no time to collect her thoughts; there was a grand dinner party that evening, and she had much to arrange.

Mr. Fulton wished a thousand times over that he had gone away as he intended; he saw but one way out of his trouble; he must see Lady Hilda, tell her all, and rely upon her fears for observing the secrecy necessary for him. He wrote a note as follows:

"I pray you to keep silence over the little incident that occurred this afternoon until I see you. I can explain it. The honor of a family—my life almost—depends upon your silence. Will you grant me an interview? I knew your parents, and have much to say to you. Will you meet me in the library after dinner this evening? I will not detain you long."

He wrote the note, never thinking that there would be any difficulty in giving it to her, but he found it impossible. In the drawing room she was surrounded by visitors. Sir Henry Atleigh, of Comble Abbey, took her down to dinner. After dinner she held a little court and there seemed to be no room for him in the group. He never realized, before, the difficulty of doing anything underhand.

At last his opportunity came. Sir Henry Atleigh spoke of a photograph he had seen lately from one of Ary Scheffer's finest pictures.

"We have one like it, I believe," said Lady Hilda, rising and moving toward the large table on which books and rare engravings lay scattered.

"Let me assist you in looking for it," said Mr. Fulton, who had long been waiting for this chance. He followed her to the table, and in giving her the photograph she sought, laid his note upon it. He read the hesitation in her face as she half threw it from her. "For your own sake," he whispered, "for your husband's sake," and her hand closed over it.

It was adroitly managed, but it happened unfortunately that the Countess of Bayneham witnessed the little transaction, unseen by them. She was seated in her own favorite chair, at some distance from the large table; but she was watching Mr. Fulton as he rose, and plainly saw him offer the folded note to her son's wife. Her first impulse was to rise and demand to see it; her second was to laugh at her own folly. It might be a memorandum, or a thousand other things; why should she suspect anything wrong? She smiled, and blamed herself for her unjust suspicion and folly.

If the countess could have seen the burning indignation on Lady Hilda's face as she read those few lines she would have judged her more charitably thereafter. No, certainly—a thousand times over she would refuse to meet the stranger, who, a month ago, was unknown to her. Why should she? If he knew anything of her parents, let him tell it to her husband. At least her suspense would be ended then, and she had lived lately with a sword suspended over her head. She tore up the note contemptuously and flung it to the winds.

That night Mr. Fulton sat until late in the library, but Lady Hilda did not come near, and he grew desperate.

"I must see her," he said to himself; "she will betray me; how madly I have acted! She must see me, and know who I am."

This was more easily said than done. Lady Hilda carefully avoided him the next day. She had not decided what course to pursue. She longed to tell her husband all, but dared not. Then Paul Fulton wrote again.

"I must see you," he said. "Reasons, both sacred and important, compel me to speak to you. I ask you, for your dead mother's sake, to meet me to-night; not in the house, where I cannot, perhaps, speak to you alone. Go after dinner to the Lady's Walk, I pray you, and let me see you there."

With this note carefully folded, he haunted the drawing rooms, but no Lady Hilda appeared. Fortune, however, favored him again. Going up the grand staircase he met the countess with her daughter-in-law. He passed them with a deep salutation and some jesting words, placing the note in Lady Hilda's hand as he did so, unobserved, he believed, but seen again by the watchful eye of Lady Bayneham. She made no remark, resolving to know soon what this mysterious correspondence meant.

When Lady Hilda read the second note she was almost in despair. What could he know of her parents, this strange man whom she dreaded? Why should he summon her for her dead mother's sake? She must go; there was no help for it.

They dined alone that evening, and only Lady Bayneham's watchful eyes saw how worn and anxious was the expression of that young face, on which a new shadow had fallen.

Lord Bayneham left the ladies early; he had been riding all the morning, and was tired. He lingered for a few minutes by his wife's side, watching her slender fingers busily engaged in a pretty piece of netting. It seemed like fate that he should notice her bracelet, it was both elegant and costly, one that he had presented her with soon after their marriage—delicate pearls set in pure pale gold.

"That is the prettiest bracelet you wear, Hilda," said Lord Bayneham. "I flatter myself I am a good judge of pearls; these are fine ones, are they not, mother?" he said, appealing to Lady Bayneham.

She came forward and looked at the bracelet.

"They are very fine ones," she said, coldly.

Lady Bayneham could never again be cordial with her son's wife, until she knew why she received notes from a gentleman who was almost a stranger to her.

Lady Hilda saw the little group disappear with fear and dismay, for she knew she must keep the appointment, made so much against her will.

CHAPTER XXVI.

It was still early; the fragrant summer evening had given place to a dim, cool night. With a strong distaste for the interview awaiting her, Lady Hilda hastily put on a large dark shawl, which shrouded her figure, and went out to the Lady's Walk. She could reach it by the staircase which led from her own private suite of rooms. In the distance she saw the tall figure of Mr. Fulton coming quickly toward her.

"It is sorely against my will that I am here," she began; "but you asked me to come for my mother's sake. Tell me what you have to say."

"Much," he replied, "that cannot be hastily uttered. Lady Hilda, do not fear me. Look at my face. Have I the appearance of a man who sought this interview for any foolish, vain reason of his own?"

She looked at him; there was a faint gleam of light coming from the moonlit sky, and by it she saw that the handsome face, usually so careless and gay, was sad and full of deep emotion. Her calm eyes dwelt upon it, but they read nothing there.

"You may trust me," he said; "You might trust me with your life. Let us walk down the path; you will be cold if you remain standing."

They then went down the broad path together. "My time is very precious," said Lady Hilda, coldly. "I run great risks by remaining here."

"I know it," he replied. "I asked you to come, for your mother's sake. Do you know who she was, and what was her story?"

"I know it all," said the young girl, sadly. "My mother's fate has clouded my life."

"Thank Heaven, I am spared that long explanation," he replied. "I half feared you might still believe you were Lady Hutton's daughter."

"I never thought that," she replied; "and one must not ever so lightly blame the dead; but I wish I had been left to share my mother's fate. I should have brightened her life, and have been saved all the sorrow and shame of feeling myself half an impostor."

"It was done for the best," he said, dreamily.

"I suppose so," she replied; "but this is not what you wanted me for. You knew my parents—what have you to say of them to me?"

"You speak of your mother," he continued; "did you never hear of your father? Did no one ever mention him to you?"

"Yes," she replied, bitterly. "My mother, on her deathbed, told me of him."

"May I ask what she said?" he inquired. "Some people do not possess the art of painting an agreeable portrait."

"That cannot possibly concern you," she replied. "Tell me your business quickly, and let me go. My father's name brings no music to my ears. Perhaps before now he has met my mother, and rendered her justice."

She raised her pure, calm face to the night skies as she spoke, and Paul Fulton stood abashed and humbled before the serene innocence and dignity of his child.

"Hilda," he said, "has it never struck you who I am?"

A cold dread seized her. She had never thought of him until the day he touched her golden head with his lips, and looked so sadly upon her. Now an awful fear came over her; who could he be that knew the secret her mother had kept? She turned and looked at him; coldly and calmly her eyes rested on his agitated face, and by the faint light of the moonbeams she resembled a spirit more than any living being.

"Have you never thought of me," he said, "or wondered who I was?"

"Never!" she replied.

"Would you not care to see your father, Hilda? With all his faults, he loved you."

"My father broke the sweetest and truest heart that ever beat," she replied, passionately; "how could I wish to see him?"

"Hush, child! hush!" he said, sadly; "your words stab me. Try to care for me, Hilda. I am your father, Stephen Hurst, and I place my life in your hands."

Her fair face grew even more deadly pale.

"My words of greeting to you, father," she said, sadly, "are, that I wish I had died when I was a child, before I knew my hopeless, dreary fate."

"Can you say nothing kinder, Hilda?" he asked; and for once there was real dignity and true feeling in his words. "I have not been a saint; but you are my child, and I love you."

She walked on unheedingly, her fair hands clasped passionately; the fate her dying mother had predicted and feared had come to her.

"What have I done?" she said, wildly, looking up at the still serene heavens. "Why should this fate have fallen upon me?"

"Hush, Hilda!" said Paul Fulton. "I shall do you no wrong, child; we can keep each other's secret. I do not want to interfere with you. I should not have said one word, but I feared you would tell Lord Bayneham about what occurred the other afternoon; you looked so like your mother when I saw her first, that I could not help it."

At her husband's name a low cry came from Hilda's lips. What a web of sorrow, shame and disgrace was woven around her, and he knew nothing of it.

(To be continued.)

NO USE FOR A CAMERA.

The Old Mountaineer Didn't Want His Picture Taken.

An hour before noon I overtook a young man with a camera who was making snap-shots by the wayside. A few minutes later we met a mountaineer on a mule with a sack of corn behind him, and after salutations had been exchanged the artist said he would like to take his picture.

"Is that thing fur takin' pictures?"

"Yes—takes a regular photograph."

"Would it look like me?"

"Of course."

"And the mewl?"

"Yes."

"Then I'll hev to disappint ye. Thar' was a feller up yere with a squintin'-masheen like that and he met my brother Bill. He sot Bill on a rock and squinted at him and jogged along. When he got down to Knoxville he fixed the pictur' up and was showin' it around when a feller says to him:

"Whar' did ye meet this yere critter?"

"Up above Cumberland Gap."

"And mought his fust name be Bill?"

"I reckon."

"And his last name Scott?"

"The same."

"That's about all they said, but in the co'se of three days a lot of revenue officers cum along and gobbled on to Bill, and he's in Albany prison doin' time yit. They dun reckoned he was Texas 'till they saw his pictur'."

"But as the revenue officers don't want you, that removes the objection explained the artist.

"It 'pears to, but it don't do it," replied the old man as he looked up and down the road. "You take my pictur'. You go down to Clinton. You show it around. Purty soon a feller cums along and says:

"Durn my hide, but that looks like ole Jeb Scott, up in the hills!"

"Yes, it's the ole cuss hisself."

"Whar'd ye meet him?"

"Over on the Clinch river."

"The dear ole critter! How peart he's lookin' on that ole mewl o' his! I'd gin a dollar to shake hands with him!"

"Wall," continued the old man, "in about three days I'd be roostin' in jail and hev only myself to blame fur it, while them revenue fellers would be jest tickled to death."

"But I thought they didn't want you!" protested the artist.

"No, I reckon they don't, but they would as soon as they saw the pictur'. Some of 'em would recognize the innercent ole critter who locked seven of 'em up in a stable while the boys were totin' a moonshine still out of a ravine and over the mountains, and as I hain't much of a hand to talk I'm afeard I couldn't explain how I happened to fall asleep and leave 'em thar' 'till they cut thar' way out through the roof. You can squint at the ole mewl and the bag of co'n all day if it will obleege ye, but don't pull trigger 'till ole Jeb Scott gits down and hides behind a log!"

Tragedy in the Hotel.

Heavy tragedian (at a local hotel): "Prithee, landlord, dwells there within the precincts of this hamlet a machinist?"

"A machinist? Yes, sir."

"Then take to him this bird of many springs. Bid him wrench asunder these iron limbs, and then, for our regalement, to chisel slices from its unyielding bosom, for we would dine soon. And, pray you, do it quickly. Yon peas you need not carry, for those, with dext'rous management, we can swallow whole. Away!"

SCENES AT THE MEET OF THE LEAGUE OF AMERICAN WHEELMEN AT ASBURY PARK.

AN INCANDESCENT LAMP.

Light from a Mixture of Gas from Benzine and Oil.

An incandescent lamp has been invented in Germany to burn oil. A sectional view of it is shown herewith. The apparatus is designed to consume benzine, and it consists of a reservoir and a U-shaped tube leading from its base to the burner, which is a lower level than the reservoir. At the mouth of the tube is a valve, which also forms with its chamber or body the gasifying chamber. From the tube above or beyond the valve there is led a curved pipe which ends in a small nozzle or fire-drawn orifice. There is provided a handle for regulation of the valve. The passage from the valve to the burner is continued from the valve body through a nozzle which is surrounded by orifices for admission of air and leading to an ordinary oil burner. The gas passing through the nozzles mixes with air and forms a mixture which may be lit in the ordinary way.

INCANDESCENT BURNER FOR OIL LAMP.

EX-PREMIER STAMBULOFF.

The Famous Bulgarian Statesman Recently Stabbed to Death by Cowardly Assassins.

CUSTOM WAREHOUSE.

Active Work on the New Appraiser's Store in New York City.

Congress last session authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to make contracts to the extent of a million dollars for the completion of the new warehouse for the Government appraisers in New York. On March 4, $200,000 was appropriated for immediate use. The original appropriation on Sept. 14, 1888, was for $850,000 for the site, which occupies the entire block bounded by Washington, Greenwich, Christopher and Barrow streets, and $650,000 for a ten-story pressed brick and granite building. This latter sum was found to be inadequate, and has been expended in the construction of the first two stories. The contract for the entire work was given to Michael Giblin, of New York city, in November, 1892.

NEW CUSTOM WAREHOUSE.

The building, when completed, will be about 130 feet in height, and will have a frontage of 214.3 feet on Washington street. It will be finished in two years if the Supervising Architect's office finishes the drawings and plans at once. The drawings have yet to be made. This new warehouse will be capacious enough to meet all possible requirements of the appraisers' stores for many years to come. The delay in its construction costs the Government more than $75,000 a year for the rental of private property to hold the stores. What is commonly known as the "Chicago construction" is being employed in the new structure. The outer walls serve merely as inclosures, and not as supports, except for their own weight, the entire weight of the floors being upheld by hundreds of columns and girders.

A Novel Scheme.

Of all the fin de siecle schemes to draw trade, the one recently gotten up by a shoe dealer in a town in the interior of Pennsylvania is probably the most novel. He offers a bicycle to the boy through whom the largest quantity of shoes is sold in two months. Naturally, nearly every boy in town has interested himself in the matter, and, as a result, he is making life miserable for "his sisters, cousins and his aunts," besides his father, mother, Sunday school teacher, etc. Each boy participating in the contest is given a pack of cards on which his name is written. These cards the boy distributes to his friends, requesting them to buy their shoes during the two months at So-and-so's, and present at the store one of the cards on which his (the boy's) name is inscribed. The storekeeper places the amount of purchase upon the card and files it to the boy's credit. At the expiration of the two months the various amounts will be summed up, and the boy whose account is the largest gets the "bike."

A NEW SEWER INLET.

One That May Be Easily Flushed and Cleaned When Desired.

The sewer inlet shown in the accompanying illustration is a German invention that has recently been introduced. The design is to exclude street dirt from the sewer and to afford a ready means of flushing the inlet. To effect this a partition is placed at the mouth of the inlet and the base of the inlet proper is connected with the street water main. A siphon trap is provided to cut off sewer gas.

When it is desired to clean the inlet, the hinged cover is opened and the deposits in the chamber are removed with a scoop. Then the valve is opened, and water rises in the inlet in a strong stream, which the cover throws back, so that the entire space is filled, up to the level of the gutter.

A further flushing takes place when the valve is closed, and all the surrounding parts of the sewer are washed clean. Each cleaning requires about forty gallons of water, and one man can clean from 100 to 200 inlets a day. The illustration is taken from Engineering News.

A NEW SEWER INLET.

THE LATEST IN BICYCLES.

By an Ingenious Arrangement They Can Be Folded.

A folding bicycle is the newest novelty in the steel line. By a simple and ingenious arrangement the connecting rods of the frame may be folded until the machine is reduced to the size of one wheel, as shown in the illustration.

The inventor claims for the folding

THE BICYCLE THAT FOLDS UP.

bicycle the possibility of storing it in one's room, the ease with which it may be carried up or down stairs or hoisted in dumb-waiters or elevators. It can be readily doubled up for carrying on the shoulder up and down bad roads. Such a bicycle can be readily placed in a carriage or other vehicle for transportation. The inventor claims further that in its folded shape the bicycle may be securely locked, but seems to forget that in its portable shape it presents an extraordinary inducement to the intending thief.

The folding bicycle is one of the things that, now that it has been invented, will cause people to wonder why it had not been thought of before. Dwellers in flats, however, where there are tenants given to storing their wheels in the lower hallway, will be inclined to send their personal thanks to the genius who has shown how the most unwieldy thing ever invented—that is, while in a state of repose—may be made less obtrusive and less dangerous. There is no reason why it shouldn't be hung up on a peg out of everybody's reach.

A NEW ELASTIC TIRE.

It Is Not for Bicycles, but for Vehicles of Every Kind.

It was the general use of the pneumatic tire on bicycles, no doubt, that suggested an elastic tire for vehicles of every kind. The accompanying cut shows a tire of this nature, which has just been patented by a man in Kansas.

This device is made of spring wire, and, of course, it is not to be inflated as the rubber tires are. It has a neatly fitting base section for the felloe, and its outer surface expands under the pressure of contact with the ground. The rod shown in the central recess of the outer surface is intended to hold the tire firmly and compactly in place. If desired, the tire may be wholly or partially covered with rubber, leather or any similar material.

TIRE FOR VEHICLES.

A Stumbling Block.

To many of the residents of New England, the final "g" seems as great a stumbling block as is the letter "h" to some English folk. "Good morning, Uncle Ephraim!" said a passerby one cool morning in early spring to a good old man who was pulling up the weeds in his wife's flower garden. "Good morning!" responded Uncle Ephraim, in his quavering treble. "It's a pooty cold mornin', now ain't it? I was in the house fixin' one of our curtings that had fell down till 'most eight o'clock, an' I hadn't any idee how cold it was, though I might have told by lookin' out at the mountings. But when I'd been out here workin' in my garding a while, I declare my fingers got to feelin' so cold I had to go in an' get my mittings!"

Width of the Thames.

The river Thames is from 800 to 1,500 feet broad in London and seven miles broad at the Nore. It is navigable 115 miles above London bridge.

Rainiest Spot in Scotland.

Glencoe, in Scotland, where, according to local legends, when it is not raining it is snowing, the annual rainfall is 127 inches, or nearly as much as Sitka, in Alaska.

PAPER HEID'S TECK PLUG TOBACCO

Consumers of chewing tobacco who are willing to pay a little more than the price charged for the ordinary trade tobaccos, will find this brand superior to all others.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio. Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.

1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.

ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,

Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.

By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.

ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,

Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS,

Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 90 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue. ELEGANT CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.

No. 7188 $35. W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

BEFORE AND AFTER DRING.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

PATENTS

Caveats, and Trade-Marks obtained and all Patent business conducted for MODERATE FEES. OUR OFFICE IS OPPOSITE U. S. PATENT OFFICE and we can secure patent in less time than those remote from Washington.

Send model, drawing or photo., with description. We advise, if patentable or not, free of charge. Our fee not due till patent is secured.

A PAMPHLET, "How to Obtain Patents," with cost of same in the U. S. and foreign countries sent free. Address,

C. A. SNOW & CO.

OPP. PATENT OFFICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

1-3 OFF

ON ALL SUMMER GOODS.

To close out the balance of our Summer Stock we will make a reduction of 33 yer cent on all our Summer Clothing, Hats, Shirts, Underwear, Shoes, and Furnishing Goods of all kinds at the

GLOBE

Clothing & Shoe Co.,

Gandy Block, North Side of Square. Auburn, Indiana.

Shull's Shoe Store

Is the Place to Buy

Your Shoes.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,.....AUGUST 1, 1895.

TIMES-POST.

The Times-Post Bliss' new paper, finds it takes something besides talk to support a paper and especially just now when the field is overcrowded with journals as able, and much better backed by public sentiment. A paper with but one idea, that of free and unlimited coinage of silver, will find that people are getting tired of this one idea business, and when they get tired of a thing, they stop throwing in their silver dollars to support it. So the Times-Post, now only two months old, is in trouble financially. Centliver, the only man who likely put any cash into it, has got tired of i', and closed his mortgage and now offers the plant for sale. Who the next sucker will be, we don't know.

From Mrs. Leighty.

The following is Mrs. Leighty's second letter to the St. Joe News. We borrow them for the interest we know our readers have in Mrs L. and because we know the News won't object. The News is welcome to borrow from the COURIER at any time.

GRINELWALD SWITZERLAND,
June 27th

I started from London Monday morning at 10:30 and arrived here Tuesday evening at 5 o'clock, after a continuous ride of 29 hours. We crossed the channel at Folkstone and B. o.l.e and from there to Paris. The ride from Paris was very mountainous and rough, making it very uncomfortable and necessarily slow. Grindelwald is in one of the most beautiful of the high Alpine valleys, and is about 4000 feet above the sea level.

The valley is about 12 miles long and 4 miles wide. It owes its celebrity to its beautiful scenery and to two great glaciers—branches or arms of the immense ocean of the ice which covers the Bernese Oberland. Everywhere in sight are snow capped mountains. I walked to the largest glacier to day; it was about 6 miles there and back. It is a mountain of solid ice and is said to be moving slowly and carrying with it rocks and earth.

There is what is called the Blue Grotto, by which you can really go through under this vast mountain of ice. It is beautifully ornamented with cakes of ice cut into fanciful figures and lights are placed so you can see through it.

I saw a great avalanch of snow slide down the mountain while up there; it sounded like a cannon. You can see the mountain called the "Young Bride" from here, It is the most completely covered with snow of any, it being 50 feet deep in places.

The sun is warm here during the middle of the day but it gets cool at night. It is now hay harvest; they do not use horses on their small farms. I saw them carry the hay in bundles on their backs to the shed. Horses and cows are plenty and are herded on the sides of the mountains. A farm of 5 or 10 acres here will support a family; they raise potatoes and vegetables but no fruit here. Every nook and corner is filled with the greatest variety of flowers I ever saw. Wild daisies, buttercups etc. The houses are decidedly Swiss, made with strong wooden frames and plastered outside with cement. The old houses have roofs sloping to the ground. I was in one yesterday that had a stone floor and barn for goats and chamois all under the same roof.

Every cottage has its lace makers, girls 11 and 12 years of age being experts at it. Some of their work is perfectly lovely. In our party of congenial spirits there is one from Massachusetts, one from Philadelphia and one from New Jersey and myself. We are going to Rome together and think ourselves perfectly able to see the world and take care of ourselves anywhere. I took a ride of 22 miles yesterday to see the great Stubach Falls; went in carriages. It was a delightful ride.

Music Lessons.

I will be ready to resume my work, next Monday July 29. All pupils will do me a favor by calling and getting their lesson hours, this week. I am introducing the latest method of fingering by Dr. Wm Mason, and will be glad to receive any who wish instruction in that line. In addition to this I will start a class in Harmony and Composition Lessons either private or class. Call and see me for terms.

FLORA HOFFMAN.

Benjamine Swander who lives across the river from Hursh, Ind., has been having some trouble. Last winter he hired two young men to cut wood for him and it appears that they did not split it as fine as he wanted it and hence he refused to pay them in full for the job. The matter has run along until a week or so ago it was again brought up and Mr. Swander still refused to settle. Last Thursday night Mr. Swander's wood was all burned, four loads of drain tile broken and eight rows of corn across a forty rod field were cut to the ground. It is supposed to have come about by the trouble over the wood but there is no proof that the young men who cut the wood are guilty. It is however quite a loss to Mr. Swander, and probably had the wood matter been satisfactorily settled he would not have lost the wood tile and corn.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Footholds in Forei'n Markets

The introduction of American goods into foreign markets, is becoming more a necessity as the demand for other products declines. By reason of our enormous resources and capacity of production, and the never ending series of ingenious inventions in which time, labor and cost are economized, we have a surplus of product that in point of price and quality can fairly dispute the market with the keenest competition. From examples of this fact as recently given by a well-posted and experienced exporter to the New York Sun, we quote the following instances of successful rivalry: "In wire nails, native invention has given us machinery superior to any in use in Germany and Belgium, and wire nails are being shipped to every part of the world in increasing quantities. These nails landed in England are not only cheaper than thehmoe article, but can undersell with a profit those made in continental Europe.

"The same can be said of barb wire. In this we have beaten England, Germany and Belgium in their own markets. Five years ago the cheaper labor in these countries practically prohibited the American article. In this time, the genius and industry of American workmen has revolutionized the business of manufacturing wire in this country, and enables us to supply the world with it.

"In the steel business, in rails, for instance, the American rail competes with German and English rail in Cuba, with extending inquiries from South America. American locomotives are shipped to Brazil, Argentine and Australia, and set up in running order at prices other makers cannot quote.

"In agricultural implements, such as harvesters, mowers and headers, these are being shipped in great quantities to Russia and South America, with orders constantly increasing.

"In the gold and diamond mines of South Africa, the iron pipe used is produced in America. Gold mining machinery used in the Transvaal is largely American. Bar iron is shipped from the United States to Japan, China, and other Eastern countries, and cotton ties and hoop iron are placed on the Bombay and Calcutta markets. Shipments of coal are made for gas making purposes from the United States to Great Britain, while in the Spanish and English West Indies, American coal has an open market as far down as Grenada, the most southerly of the Windward Group of Islands in the West Indies."

Other products could be named, such as tools, shoes, dry goods, cotton fabrics and chemicals, but the examples quoted are sufficient to show the trend and significance of American trade with foreign countries.—Age of Steel.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely mailed.

WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 233 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Views On Free Coinage

Judge B. Morse, United States consul at Glasgow, Scotland, has written a letter to the democrats of Ionia, Mich., his former home, in which he warns them to think twice before committing themselves to the unlimited free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1. He says:

"This money, if coined in this way, would belong to the millionaire silver mine owners, one-half of whom are aliens. It would double their wealth. Foreign silver bullion owners can bring it to this country and have it coined. They can bring their 50 cents pieces in and have them stamped dollars by this government. If gold and silver are kept at a parity they can exchange their 50 cent pieces for gold dollars. The government could stand this but a short time. A corresponding inflation and expansion of prices would occur. Men who are working on salaries would receive money with just half the purchasing power it has now. Every business man who has money in the bank will have its purchasing power reduced just half. It will affect all others in the same way. Those who have the means to speculate in gold and other commodities will reap the benefit. The great mass of producers and consumers will bear the burden of the losses. It means "Black Fridays" on Wall street, and failures everywhere. In the end the government will be compelled to settle down to a sound money basis. The free coinage of silver, as advocated by the 16 to 1 men, means national bankruptcy and repudiation, because as a nation the United States will not be able to pay its just debts in the same currency in which they were contracted."

LAKE SHORE EXCURSIONS.

Account of the 26th Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell tickets to Boston and return, August 19 to 26 inclusive, at very low rates.

These tickets admit of visits to Chautauqua Lake, Niagara Falls and Saratoga, and also give passengers choice of many different routes going and returning.

ATLANTIC COAST.

For your vacation can be made on the low rate excursion tickets to Boston over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., August 19 to 26 inclusive.

BOSTON

Over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry, August 19 to 25 inclusive. A folder of information containing a map of Boston, side trips, itinerary and other matter about rates and routes, sent on receipt of two-cent stamp by A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O.

The Eagle Manufacturing Co. at Auburn Junction are making all kinds of light and heavy castings.

Jewelry Stock Cheap.

The Fine Stock of Jewelry, Watches, Silverware, Cutlery, etc., of the late

Charles Bassett, AT WATERLOO

Will be sold by the Administrator at public auction, on

TUESDAY,

AUGUST 6, 1895

THERE WILL BE BARGAINS IN GOOD WATCHES and CLOCKS.

FINE SOCIETY BADGES & PINS

Such as Masonic, K. P., C. E., etc.

Optician's Outfit

IN FULL

CHANCE FOR SOMEBODY

Silverware

In odd pieces, but fine, such as Castors, Butter Dishes, etc.

Spectacles

Piles of Them

Gold Rings

PINS

and everything in that line

Show Cases

The Finest Made

SMALL COAL STOVE

And a vast number of articles in this line

Don't fail to come and BUY CHEAP, CHEAP.

A. B. Walsworth

Administrator.

LOW PRICES!

If you are going to the Lake you need a nice, cool Outing Shirt; something you feel easy and comfortable in. Our assortment is somewhat broken, but if you will glance at our Show Window possibly you will see what you want in size and price.

WE ARE CLOSING THEM AT LESS THAN COST.

Percales, Flannels, Cheviots; Anything in Summer Weights goes. Straw Hats cut in two. 50C. STRAWS FOR 25C., ETC Don't fail to take advantage of these low prices. Our loss is your gain.

G. H. YESBERA,

THE CLOTHIER.

Smoke THE "DINGER!"

E. W. Bisher, AUBURN.

THE DEKALB WOMAN.

SHE VISITS THE QUEEN AND IS ON INTIMATE TERMS WITH THE NOBILITY.

We often refer to the high standing of the DeKalb man and the DeKalb woman, and we are glad to note that our high regard for them is shared by Queen Victoria, ruler of the most enlightened and powerful nation on the face of the earth, except the United States of course Mrs. Leighty of St. Joe, wife congressman Leighty, is now in the Old Country and writes as follows to the St, Joe News:

London Hotel, London,
Sunday, June 23, 1895.

Although this is a beautiful morning I did not go out; thought I would stay in my room and rest, as tomorrow we begin our journey to Switzerland. Yesterday we spent at Windsor Castle. It is about 25 miles from London. The grounds inside the Castle gate, which means the yards and buildings, contain 17 acres. The estate contains 72 square miles. It was a great day, as the Queen had just arrived from Scotland and the carriages of her Majesty were all out. In the afternoon the Royal party had a luncheon in the park, and a review of the Royal Guards, and what is called the "Musical Ride." About 60 mounted soldiery, all on black horses. They were caparisoned with white coverings, that looked like polar bear skins, and white and gold bridles, each man carried a flag and was covered with a steel coat of mail from head to waist, and a sword at his side. The band played several tunes and horse and rider kept time to the music, going fast or slow and keeping step, after an hours exercise they formed in twos and escorted the Royal party back to the Castle, which was about three miles. The driver put our carriage in a good position, and we stood up in it as everybody else did that had one. It was the most magnificent sight I ever saw or ever expect to see. The whole scene was so grand. The trees seemed to be four or five hundred years old had been planted with artistic hands. The town of Windsor has about 12,000 inhabitants. On Friday we went to Priory Reigate, the home of Lady Henry Somerset, to what is called in England, a garden, party. There was about a thousand invited guests; we were taken there in special trains. Small tables were placed on the lawn and we were served with tea, coffee, lemonade, cakes, fruit etc. A band of girl musicians furnished music. We were privileged to go through the house and sit where we pleased, and spent and enjoyable afternoon, indeed. I have taken a ride on top of a London "drag" and an underground railroad. I have decided to go to Rome after leaving Grindelwald. I shall make a short stop in Genoa, Florence and other cities. Am feeling well and doing everything that the rest of the party are doing and more to. I will close now as I am going to Exeter Hall at three o'clock, to the farewell meeting of the W. C. T. U., and this evening will go to Westminster to hear Canon Wilberforce preach.

A card from Mrs. Leighty dated June 27th, says: I send you a message from Alps; snow and ice are all around us. We sleep under feather mattresses. I took a ride of 22 miles yesterday in the mountains; feel a little stiff this morning but will try it again to-day with a walk on top of the Alps in the snow.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Can be found in office both Day and Night.

First National Bank

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left six months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph Calls promptly answered at all times.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

CASH

Paid for

Scrap Cast Iron

At

Auburn Foundry AND Machine Works

YOU WANT THE BEST.

J. G. CLAPP,

Wide-a-Wake Photographer

Has the Finest and Best Line of

Picture Mouldings, Easels, Etc.

Any size Picture Framed and Matted—RIGHT.

If you have Old Pictures to Enlarge, and want Pictures that will

KNOCK AGENTS WORK SILLY,

Leave your Orders

WITHOUT FEAR

With Us

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895 Franklin P. Sweitzer is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, by Emeriah Sweitzer for divorce, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 8th day of October 1895 being the 2nd juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7, 1895.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 25th day of July, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

D. Y. Husselman, Att'y.

Notice of Vacation of Alley.

Notice is hearby given that a petition will be presented to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their September session for the year 1895 asking said Board to vacate a part of the alley running between lots fifty (50) and (51) in the town of Vienna in DeKalb County, Indiana, said part of said Alley sought to be vacated, extending from the west side of State street in said town to a point forty-two (42) feet south west of said west side of State street aforesaid.

July 27, 1895. 31-3g

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

Notice is hearby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Sheets, deceased, will sell at public sale, at the late residence of said decedent, one mile south of Auburn, in Jackson township, in the county of DeKalb, and state of Indiana, on.

Saturday August 24, 1895,

the personal property of the decedent, consisting of growing crops, household goods and other articles. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock p. m.

TERMS.

All sums of five dollars and under cash: sums of over five dollars a credit of nine months will be given by the purchaser giving his note with approved security, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws.

R. S. S. REED, Administrator

J. E. & J. H. Rose, Att'ys. 31-33

PROBATE CAUSE NO. 4078.

STATE OF INDIANA } ss
DEKALB COUNTY }

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895.

David Eberly, Victor D. Eberly, Rollin Eberly, Mary Eberly, Willis Eberly, Ella F. Lowman and Isaac W. Lowman impleaded with others are hereby notified that Myron S. Kutzner as executor of the will of Jonas Eberly deceased, has filed in the Circuit Court of DeKalb county, Indiana, a petition making you defendants thereto and praying therein for an order and decree of said Court authorizing the sale of certain Real Estate belonging to the estate of said decedent, and in said petition described, to make assets for the payment of the debts and liabilities of said estate; and that said petition, so filed and which is now pending, is set for hearing in said Circuit Court at the Court House in Auburn, Indiana, on the 7th day of October 1895.

Witness, the Clerk and Seal of said Court, this 6th day of July 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk DeKalb Circuit Court.

W. H. Leas, Att'y. 29-31

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

Irvin O. Buchtel vs Thomas Campbell } Before Jacob Walborn, Justice of the Peace of Union Township, said county.

Thomas Campbell is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against you, before said Justice of the Peace, by Irvin O. Buchtel, on account, wherein he claims the sum of $12.56 and that attachment has been issued and property attached, and that said cause will be determined on the 16th day of August, 1895, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Witness my hand and official seal this 23rd day of July, 1895.

JACOB WALBORN, Justice of the Peace. SEAL 30-32

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895 Harrison W. Jones is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, for divorce by Rebecca Jones add that the same will be heard and determined on the 7th day of October 1895 being the first juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7, 1895.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 11th day of July 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

J. E. & J. H. Rose, Att'ys. 29-31

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Not all Smoke...
But Red-Hot Fire!

It's a true saying that "There is Always Fire Where there is so much Smoke" Below we quote a few sparks that indicate which way the wind is blowing. The Bishop & Lackey plan has started RED HOT FIRE in all sections of the County. These Hot Shot Mercantile Wonders are fast smoking out the old Credit Crowd.

Read what we say, and if in doubt, write or come and see some of these Bargains.

1 Case Bleached Muslin, Regular Price 8c.
Our Price 6c

1 Case Bleached Muslin, Regular Price 9c.
Our Price 7c

2 Cases Bleached Muslin, Regular Price 10c.
Our Price 9c

5 Bales Unbleached Muslin, Regular Price 6c.
Our Price 4c

3 Bales Unbleached Muslin, Regular Price 7c.
Our Price 5c

8 Doz. Ladies' Umbrellas, Regular Price $1.50
Our Price 1,00

25 Doz Men's Unlaundried Shirts, Reg Price 75c.
Our Price 50c

75 Doz Ladies' Emb'd Handk's, Reg. Price 25c.
Our Price 10c.

We call attention to our large stock of

Black Dress Goods

bought direct from manufacturer.

We are closing out Millinery, Capes, Suits and Summer Dress Goods at Decided Bargains.

Bishop & Lackey

Leading Merchants - Auburn, Indiana.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of David Wiley, deceased. late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN M. STONEBRAKER, Administrator.

July 17 1895. 30-32

Baxter & Brown, Att'ys.

Notice of Sale of Personal Property.

Notice is hereby given, that I, John M. Stonebraker, Administrator of the estate of David Wiley deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on at the residence of the decedent, in Fairfield township the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

Saturday August 10 1895

Hay in the mow, three head of work horses, one spring colt, one two horse wagon, one new road wagon, one mower one set double harness good, one set new single harness, one hay rack good; one good hog rack, one watch, tenant's interest in corn on the ground, rye in the bin, oats in the bin and other articles of farm produce and farming implements.

TERMS OF SALE:

For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of twelve (12) months will be given.

Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving Valuation and Appraisement Laws, will be required.

Sale to begin at 10 a. m.

JOHN M STONEBRAKER, Administrator.

A Crowning Success.

C E DeVos, editor of the Cooperville (Mich.) Observer, is a worthy example of what push and energy, with keen business propensities, will accomplish. In a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. DeVos said: "I was born in Keene, Canada, in 1855. In 1857, I migrated with my parents to Pella, Iowa, received a common school education, drifted into the printing business, and removed to Battle Creek, Mich., where I became foreman in the large printing house of Gage & Son. I recently purchased the paper of which I am now editor. My life work has been very confining and exacting and, as a result, my health gave out and I broke down with nervous exhaustion and sleeplessness. I was in such a condition that I could not sleep until completely worn out, my appetite failed me and I had to choke down what little I did eat. About two months ago my attention was directed to Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep needed, my appetite returned and became as ravenous as a wolf's my weight increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear and active, in fact, I was restored to health and I look and feel an entirely different man." Inquiry and observation has proved Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be a truly wonderful cure for all nerve troubles, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency and sexual general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport 31 35

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

The B. & O. will run the following popular excursions:

TO SYRACUSE, IND.

On July 29 and 30, August 5, 6, 8 and 9 the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Syracuse, Ind. at a very low rates, account German Camp Meeting, Young People's Alliance Meeting and English Camp Meeting to be held at Oakwood Park. Tickets will be good for return until August 20. 30 31

TO ROME CITY IND.

On July 29 to August 14 the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Rome City Ind. at rate of one fare for the round trip account of Island Park Assembly. Tickets will be good for return until August 17. 30-32

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

On August 1 to 27, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md, at a rate of one fare for the round trip, account of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society and Mountain Chautauqua Meetings. Tickets will be good for return until August 29, 1895. 30 33

For further information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Ill.

Farmers, when you thresh, call at Hebel's meat market for fresh meat for your thresher hands. 28-30

CARRIAGE REPAIR SHOP: We are open to do all kinds of carriage repairing, blacksmithing, horse shoeing and wagon work. Bring your old buggies in and get them made good as new. All work guaranteed. Scott & Baker, corner Jackson and Fifth street. Campbell's Old Stand. d3t&wtf

Magno Mud Cure—On the Wabash Line

The only Magno Mud and Lithia Water Baths in the world are located on the Wabash Line near Attica, Ind. The Indiana Mineral Springs. This great resort is famous for the cure of Rheumatism, Skin and Nervous Diseases. Modern accomodaion in the elegant hotel and bath house which cost over $150,000. Rates are very reasonable. Beautiful souvenir book which tell all about the place will be mailed for the asking. Address C. S. Crane, General Passenger Agent of the Wabash Line, St. Louis, Mo.

CLASS OF '67.

The members of Spencer Dills' class of 1867 are requested to meet Monday evening at Baxter's law office, to organize an association. All members of the class are urged to come.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Wednesday's Daily.

$40 per month salary! A few energetic ladies and gentlemen wanted to canvass. Above salary guaranteed. Call or address, Mrs. T. P. Scott, Auburn, Ind.

Miss Alta Fissure of Albion was killed instantly Monday by a lad who thought to scare her. He pointed a small rifle at her, saying, "I will shoot you." The gun some how, went off, the ball going through her head, and she only lived a minute or so.

Thursday's Daily:

Yesterday, the DAILY COURIER had on its telegraphic page an account of the train robbery on the Lake Shore road near Toledo. The Chicago and Indianapolis dailies did not get it till to-day.

Mrs, A. B. Walsworth has gone to visit her brother, Charles Bassett at Anderson.

Leave orders at the Fair View fruit farm for fine raspberry bushes. Any variety you wish, red or black. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31 33

With an education you have recognition, social standing, and an easy way to make a living. If a teacher, the Fayette Normal University, can aid you to double your wages. Enter the Fall Term which opens Aug. 27th.

J. A. Campbell, the veteran insurance agent was over from Butler yesterday. He had been up to Corunna investigating the fire losses in which his companies are interested.

Friday's Daily:

Mrs. A. B. Richar is with her daughter Delia and little son Edmund went up to Fairfield to day, to see her mother, Mrs. Wm. Buss, who is quite sick.

Call at Fair View fruit farm for choice strawberry plants. Ready to set Sept. 1. No agent prices. Any variety you want. Will bear well next season. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31-33

Ralph Moody went to Edgerton to-day noon to play ball in a game between that place and Bryan. Ralph is getting quite a reputation as a player, having been called on several days in each week lately.

The expenses are so low at the Fayette Normal University that a thorough education is placed within the reach of any earnest young man or woman. The president would be glad to answer all inquiries concerning special courses. Write him for catalogue.

Mrs Murch of Butler and Mrs Barns, went down beyond the Junction yesterday afternoon to visit their old time friend, Mrs. Fremont Smith. They were hospitably entertained of course and Mr. and Mrs. Smith took their carriage and brought them back in the evening.

John Pepple and wife reached home Wednesday and after a few days of visit with the friends here, will proceed to their future home at Smithville, Texas. Mr Pepple says the trip was a delightful one and they enjoyed the grand mountain scenery very much. They spent some time at Colorado Springs, went to the top of Pike's Peak, made the most of their splendid opportunities for sight-seeing.

"Where would you advise me to attend school the coming year?" asked a lady teacher, of one of the leading educators of this state. "I know of no better place was the response, "than the Fayette Normal University, of Fayette, Ohio."

The C. L. S. C. ladies were nicely entertained by Mrs. Will Ryan and Mrs. R. S. McClellan at the home of Mrs. Ryan Tuesday afternoon. About twenty were present. At five tea was served and a pleasant time was had by all.

Pearl Click was found by his mother last evening lying out in the yard where he had been playing and had fainted. She called a doctor and after some effort he was brought to consciousness. But it gave rise to a story that his mother found him dead. It was heart trouble, the same as when he fainted in school some time ago. He is subject to it, and it seems to be in a dangerous form.

Jack Bland is a pi(e)ous young man. This afternoon his stomach took on that "tired feeling" that only pie can heal. So he plunged across the street to secure the coveted pastry, and when near the south side, he stubbed his toe, plowed forward and began to smell around under the sidewalk. He got his quarter section of pie, however, and now there is peace within.

Every column of a newspaper contains from 5,000 to 25,000 distinct pieces of metal, according to the size of the paper and the type says an exchange. The displacement of one of these means an error. Is it any wonder that errors sometimes occur? Still some people think it is awful to see mistakes in a newspaper, and when they find one they make it a point to tell the editor about it.

Goshen News: There is an old tree to the north of the east entrance to the court house that has been slowly dying for several years. A mischievous firecracker on the Fourth snapped itself into a hollow place near the ground and helped along the work of old age in shortening the old tree's days of usefulness and beauty. It started a fire that smoldered there for several days and burned out a large cavity in the heart of the forest stranger. For stranger it is, although it has been many years since Judge Egbert brought it here from afar and gave it a home in beautiful Court Park. There is none of its ilk in these parts and if any resident of this vicinity can name the foreigner he has modestly kept the fact to himself. It is these reasons—that its name is unknown to local citizens and it was planted long ago by Judge Egbert—that cause court house attaches to note its decline with regrets, to say nothing of the loss of beauty to the grounds which its removal will entail.

Saturday's Daily.

The many friends of Frank Holman, formerly at Cedar Creek, will be interested to learn that he is now residing at East Saginaw, Mich. Of course they are getting along all right.

Mr. and Mrs. Brad Harris reached here yesterday to attend the funeral of Edwin Rainier. They were taking their summer vacation at Martha's Vineyard, Mass. when a telegram reached them telling the sad news. There was no boat to leave for the mainland till next morning. So they waited and on Tuesday morning left Boston reaching Waterloo yesterday

John R Coffroth, died last week at his home in Lafayette, this state. He was for many years a prominent attorney, and also prominent as a democratic politician. Many of our older people have listened to his eloquent speeches.

Mrs. Kiblinger and daughter Katie came home yesterday after an extended visit with her people at Millersburg.

As neat a job of painting as we have seen lately is the residence of Herb Weaver on South Main street. It is lovely and is the work of E. C. Foltz.

Will Elson moved his family to Logansport where he has a position in a factory there.

California juries do not have to be unaminous" in civil cases now. Nine of the twelve" good men and true" can decide a case.

Miss Mabel Knepper, of Lizonier is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Scott.

Jessie Coe, daughter of H. E. Coe, came over from Butler this morning, for a visit with friends.

Tuesday's Daily

It is a big thing to say but nevertheless true, that a great multitude of people have crowned Simmons Liver Regulator, the "King of Liver Medicines." There is nothing like it for Malaria, Rheumatism, Chills and Fever Constipation, Biliousness, Sick Headache, Indigestion and all troubles arising from a sluggish or diseased liver. Simmons Liver Regulator is the prevention and cure for these ailments.

Uncle Henry Shull showed us last week, a letter from his daughter Rebecca now Mrs. Allison at Phillipsburg, Montana. Her health is fairly good. Her letter speaks of going out that day, July 13, to pick strawberries. That seems rather late for us, but probably up in the mountains it is the usual time there. He also lately has a letter from his son, Josiah at the same place. He is now county clerk of his county, Granite, and like most DeKalb boys, makes himself at home on the front seat. He speaks of the hard times that have fallen on the mining interests but says he and his are well and prospering fairly.

A few weeks ago R Shull purchased five dozen pairs of ladies shoes of a firm in Rochester, New York. Eight pairs were sent about one week ago and the other box which contained fifty-two pairs was delayed and did not reach here till this morning. Mr. Shull rolled the box in the store and thought at the time that it seemed light for that many shoes and he began to look at the box and found it had been broken open. He got Mr. Pomeroy and some others to watch him open the box and there was fifty-two empty boxes but no shoes. Mr. DeLapp the Lake Shore agent was sent for to come and see the box of nothing which his company had shipped Mr. Shull for shoes. Mr. DeLapp will undoubtedly look up the matter and see where the shoes were delayed.

The whistle on the Auburn Foundry and Machine Works engine sounded the first time this morning since the fire on the afternoon of March 22d. The same whistle that called the men together so many times, before the fire and the same whistle that was warped and cracked by the fire is again in place and its coarse sound may be heard all over DeKalb county. It has been repaired and sounds as well as ever. We are glad to note that this institution is so near completed and again running full time. It will be remembered that only a little over four months ago there was nothing to be seen but the ashes of what was once, and is now one of Auburn's enterprises.

Frank Hoff has a big candle about four feet high, which he will light in a few days and let it burn day and night till it is consumed. A scheme will be arranged by which those who buy groceries will get a number or check by making a guess on the time it will take the candle to burn out. The lucky guesser will get a prize. If the prize winner is a man of family he will get it in groceries. If a single man, he will get cash. Take a look at the big candle.

Waterloo is to have a Farmers' and Soldiers' Jubilee Aug. 21. They are doing a big lot of advertising and expect a big crowd. There will also be fireworks in the evening.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Monday's Daily.

NO MORE WOOD—Our subscribers who were to pay in wood, should not deliver any more till we call for it, as we have plenty at present. 24tf

Mrs. Martha Britton is in Ashland, O., visiting her grand children.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lanning of Moores, parents of Geo. Lanning were the guests over Sunday in the family of their son.

A colored camp meeting is in progress at St. John's The admittance is 10 cents and of course the proceeds go to "Blind Tom." It commenced, Saturday and will continue nine days.

M. B. Mahurin and family, of Indianapolis, arrived on the noon train today and are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence, Rant Mr. Mahurin as a brother of Mrs. Rant.

Christie Fell had quite a serious accident Saturday. He was taking a colt, belonging Will Kessler, out to the pasture, when it got frightened at the ice wagon and tried to jerk away from him. In the struggle the boy had the third finger of his left hand broken and the end torn and mutilated, and the second and little one were put out of place. Dr. A. L Hines dressed his hurts and he is getting along all right.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Marian Hoffman died at the Margaret Sheets home south of town, Saturday. He was about twenty-two years old and had been failing for some time. His mother is a daughter of the late Mrs. Sheets, and brother to Martin Sheets.

J. G. Clapp, the photographer took a picture of the procession that followed the remains of Edwin Rainier to the cemetery Sunday. The view was taken just as they were approaching the cemetery. Mr. Clapp is doing considerable out door work.

Tuesday's Daily.

The big candle.

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

That four-foot candle.

Hon. T. R. Marshall returned to his home in Columbia City, yesterday.

Editor Strayer of the Ashley Times was in the city last evening.

Choice Berkshire sow and pigs for sale or will trade for wheat. A. G. Lodewick. 31-33

Mrs. Tefft and daughter Rowena are at Detroit visiting the family of her sister, Mrs. Myles.

Martin Hook, of Franklin, was here today, on his way to visit his son John at Huntertown.

Remember the sale of jewelr's stock at Waterloo beginning August 6 and lasting several days. 29 31

Schaab Brothers have a "leader" ad in this week's paper. Read carefully, their list of seasonable bargains.

Mr. Harrison's Normal is progressing finely with a good attendance. Mr. Nottingham, however, has closed his work in penmanship. He had large classes.

Will Rickel and daughter Edith returned this afternoon from Rochester where he was called last week by the death of his father.

Remember the sale of personal prop- of the late Mrs. Margaret Sheets, is now set for 1 o'clock of Aug. 24. See notice. 31 33

Mrs. Sophia Baird goes to-day to Ohio, where she will visit friends at Wooster, Orrville, Osnaburg, Canton, and other points for about three weeks.

Wm. Eckert, of Fairfield, was here Monday, as he and the family of Mr. Ringer, his wife's father, had some matters of business to attend to.

As noted in yesteeday's DAILY, Geo. Reader had left home, caused by unsound mind. A search has been kept up since yesterday but he has not been found yet. Sheriff Stroh was at Busco but no one there had seen him. A number of the citizens of the south side were out till after minnight looking for him.

J. G. Clapp went down to Chas. Watson's in Jackson township this morning to take a family group. Mr. and Mrs. Watson were too feeble to ride to town so Mr. Clapp was taken to the home.

Ernest Fischler has his foot smashed while filling the soda fountain in his store last night. The big copper generator which contains the gas fell on his foot. The accident was a painful one and will lay him up for some time.

Nan. Phillips has put down a nice cement sidewalk and interior walks, and fixed up parking at his residence in McIntyre's addition. It is the first one in that part of town, and the other enterprising residents are now inclined to follow his good example.

The W. R. C. will give a chicken pie social at the Nickey & Gandy rooms on East 7th street Thursday afternoon Aug. 1. Supper commencing at 5 o'clock, mite 15 cts. Everyone buying a supper will be entitled to a ticket on the silk slumber robe. It is hoped at this time to dispose of all the numbers.

Keeran sisters are putting in the foundation for their new house. It is of new kind, a large, strong tile, the first of the kind ever used here. It comes from St. Louis and is said to make an excellent foundation being cheaper than stone, though not as cheap as brick but much better. The places are hollow and laid in courses like brick.

Pitcher's Castoria.
Children Cry for

The County Institute.

The DeKalb County Teachers' Institute will be held the last week of August as usual, or August 26 to 30. The day instructors are Prof. R. J. Aley of the chair of Mathematics, Indiana State University; Prof. A. W. Moore of the chair of Philosophy, University of Chicago, and Hon. D. M. Geeting State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The former high standard of evening entertainments will be provided and will be announced in due time.

Date Set

The Northeastern Indiana Poultry, Breeders' Association at their meeting the other day, fixed the date for the first annual poultry show. It is to be Dec. 24 to 28 inclusive. They have already been in correspondence with leading poultry raisers and feel assured there will be a big display. The association will no doubt prove a good thing, not only for those interested as poultry raisers but for the country at large. The industry has become a very important one.

Carriage Repairing.

Dorsey Pilgrim and Ed. Cutter are in charge at the John W. Shaffer wagon shop on South Main street, and in addition to continuing to make the best wagon in the country, they make a specialty of carriage repairing, which they will do neatly and promptly. Both are skilled workmen and guarantee good work and satisfaction. Call on them when your buggy or wagon needs a neat, prompt job of repairing. tf

ANTI-SLANG

A number of Hartford City girls met, one evening last week, for the purpose of organizing an anti-slang society, says the Hartford City Republican. A leading society lady was elected president. Before taking her seat she said in a clear, calm, well modulated voice: "Really girls, I am too much rattled by the honors conferred upon me to give you much of my gab. It is the first time I ever tumbled to anything of this kind, and I hardly know how to catch on. However, I will try to be sufficiently up to snuff not to let any flies light on me while doing the president act of this society. I am with you in this move, and we ought to extend an invitation to the married ladies. Let our motto be: "Shoot the Slangist."

ENTERTAINMENT.

Saturday evening will be the temperance entertainment at the Grove Bethel church by the S. S. class. After the entertainment there will be a social on the lawn. During the social there will be Instrumental music by Miss Maggie Snyder, the Grove Bethel Orchestra and the Union Chapel Band. A good time is evidently expected. The Program will begin early. Every body is invited. Come early.

Is Very Popular.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhœa, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord 31 35

Half Rates to Colorado,

On August 11 and 12 the North-western Line will sell excursion tickets to Denver, Colorado Springs, Manitou, and Pueblo and return at half rates—one fare for the round trip—tickets good for return passage, leaving Colorado points on August 20 to 25, with privilege of further extension until September 1. For full information apply to agents of connecting lines, or address A. H Waggnener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place, Indianapolis Indiana.

Heartily Recommends It.

My boy was taken with a desease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31-35

What makes a good school? Strong, capable, experienced teachers; a clean, pure town; varied and well-planned courses of study; large, well-ventilated buildings and rooms; simple and reasonable accommodations; and a large attendance of earnest, energetic, noble young men and women. These requisites are all to be found in the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, Ohio. Send for Catalogue.

Geo. Erlston chips in again, as regularly as clockwork to pay for his COURIER and that of his sister. He evidently understands business methods,

M. B. Masters has had a severe attack of Cholera Morbus which lasted about twenty-four hours. Dr. Hines was called and straightened him up and he is all right now.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

THE KING
SIMMONS
LIVER
REGULATOR

Reader, did you ever take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is BETTER THAN PILLS. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

WE SELL

The Bissel and Syracuse Plows, the Osborn Disc Spring and spike tooth Harrows, the Church land Roller, the Portland Washing Machines and the Osborn Grain Drills. Give us a call before buying elsewhere.

31-32 MORR & BAKER.

Pears and Pears.

W. S. Purdy brought in the most remarkable bunch of pears to-day, that we ever saw. It was a branch that broke off of a large pear tree on the old Philip Grube place where Marion Crume now lives. This branch is a small one and the most of its length has no fruit, but at the middle there is a dense cluster of pears extending not more than six or seven inches, but they number 28, all fine, well developed pears. Anyone who lifts the branch can easily see why it broke off.

John W. Rickel Dead

A telegram received by T. H. Sprott his morning, about eight o'clock says that John W. Rickel died suddenly last evening at his home at Rochester this state. His son, W. D. Rickel is here, and started for Rochester over the Wabash road at noon. We have no particulars as to the cause of his sudden death.

NEW MUSIC STORE

A. J. Rogers add J. K. Stafford have purchased the Musical Instrument business of Brown, Culbertson & Boland and have located in the Sebring Building on North Main street where they will have a full line of pianos, organs etc. Mr. Rogers is an experienced piano dealer and practical piano tuner, and will give this branch of the business special attention. He has had a large experience in this line. Mr. Stafford is well known all over the country and our people are invited to consult them when needing either goods or work in their line. 125tf

SLICK ARREST.

THE "WIDOW" OF MARVIN KUHNS FIGURES IN AN INCIDENT.

Yesterday two parties, brothers named Relyea, came here from Defiance and wanted to be put on the road that would lead them to Plymouth, Ind. Mr. Small of whom they asked went with them to Marshal West and he told them that the best way would be to follow the Postal line across a county or two and then inquire as that would lead them in that direction. They then informed Mr. West that they were chasing up a couple who had left Defiance with a rig they had an interest in. The man, they said was their brother, Albert Relyea and the woman was the noted Dell Bird, who was the sweetheart of the notorious Marvin Kuhns at the time he was arrested here for the part he had in a murder near Fostoria a short time after the bloody fight with officers at Churubusco. The horse was the property of their mother but the buggy was half Albert's and a half belonged to one of the brothers. After hearing their tale, the Marshal told them he believed the parties were here in Auburn. So they went and got Sheriff Stroh and after going the rounds of the hotels and not finding the pair, they found the horse and rig at Trout's livery barn and later Relyea and Dell Bird were found in bed at the Glazier House. The man was taken over to the jail, while the woman was allowed to occupy the room till morning. This morning the brothers came to the sheriff and said they were willing Albert should go free as they did not intend to prosecute him, but only wanted their property The sheriff sent a dispatch to the sheriff at Defiance and got an answer to the same effect. So the pair were turned loose on an agreement to get out of the state, and they shook off Auburn's dust in a hurry. Those who saw the woman say she is not as good looking as when last seen here, but is as tough as ever. The arrest and getting rid of a bad lot, was pretty slick.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, . . . PUBLISHER.

We do not speak in disparaging tones when we say that a woman who wears bloomers has loose habits.

Mrs. Peary is right in going after her husband. Think of a man loose up where the nights are six months long.

If Chauncey Depew refuses to marry that $8,000,000 heiress we hope she will kindly remember that there are others.

It is a query whether Mr. Gladstone, anticipating the fall of Rosebery, stepped down and out on account of his failing eyesight or because of increasing foresight.

The manner in which Chicago's latest bond issue was snapped up in England indicates that Editor Stead's book has had no greater influence there than it had here.

Chauncey M. Depew has discovered that it is as easy for a man to be poor on $50,000, when his necessary expenses amount to $52,000 per annum, as for a clerk on $1,000 with a family of seven to be in the same condition.

Herbert Spencer says that "a man is merely an infinitesimal bubble on a globe that is itself infinitesimal compared with the totality of things." Has Mr. Spencer ever taken the measure of a graduate just leaving college?

The tickets sold on the steamers plying between Chicago and Milwaukee appear to have matrimonial permits attached to them. It is when the boat assumes that peculiar rocking motion that the connubial delirium fastens itself upon the impressionable young mind.

A homesteader in western South Dakota has made a peculiar request of the land office officials at Rapid City. He says the late rains washed away forty acres of his homestead, and he wants to get another tract of the same size. As there is an abundance of land in that part of the State, his request may be granted.

The large number of deaths from lightning strokes during the recent thunder storms illustrates the perversity of fate. Some of the victims were killed in the street, others under trees and bushes, still others in the open fields. One woman was killed while standing in an open doorway, and a husband and wife were stricken down at the breakfast table. Some of the deaths were due to dangerous exposure, but others could only be attributed to that kind of chance which is called a fatality. The moral probably is that the one person in a million born to be struck by lightning will not die of disease or by drowning.

The citizens of Brooklyn are justly proud of their shade trees and have adopted a system that prevents the ravages of caterpillars. On the two sides of each block the residents select a man, with assistants, to burn out the caterpillars' nests by means of a safety torch fixed to the end of a long pole. The web attached to buildings or fences are removed by hand. The nests are easily found and destroyed early in the season, but if the caterpillars are allowed to go ahead and scatter over the tree, it is impossible to arrest their blighting work. In the absence of a city forestry department the shade trees have hardly one chance in ten of reaching a vigorous growth.

It is the opinion of experts in cotton manufacture that the 45,000 bales of Egyptian cotton imported into this country last year is a benefit to American cotton interests. The Egyptian fiber is decidedly inferior to our sea island cotton, but is longer and more silky than upland cotton, and mixes with it to advantage in the manufacture of thread, fine yarn, underwear and hosiery. The production of sea island cotton could be largely increased without danger of an oversupply. It is in demand in the European manufacture of cotton warp silk, and often passes for silk. There is no question about our sea island cotton being the finest in the world, and the trouble is that not enough of it is grown.

Retail Chicago cigar dealers charge lack of trade to the bicycle on the theory that all the young men are saving their cigar money to buy wheels. Directors of transportation lines point to the shrinking revenues and gasp: "Bicycles did it." Vessel agents peer down into cargoless holds and cry out: "Bicycles have banished horses, and without horses there is no corn to be carried." Theatrical managers gaze blankly at rows of empty seats and abuse the bicycle craze. And now Coney Island is in danger of going to the bad because the discriminating young man and his best girl on Manhattan Island would rather wheel through Central Park than swelter on the hot beach. It is probable also that bicycles are cutting down the profits of liquor saloons very materially.

Russia's transaction in the matter of the Chinese loan is one of the most singular among recent political developments. In effect, the operation seems to have been that the Russian Government, wishing to maintain either actual or pretended close relations with its Oriental neighbor, made a bid for the privilege of serving China with its £16,000,000 sterling, which China did not feel at liberty to reject. But Russia itself neither had the requisite money nor the means of raising it directly. Hence it had recourse to a continental friend with plenty of idle money and a sentimental attachment to the Russian Government. France virtually accepts this note-of-hand of China, endorsed by Russia, and, as occasionally happens in private life, the endorser of the note takes all the thanks and credit, and its accepter all the risk. This may be fairly called a novelty in international finance. England has now and then resorted to a somewhat similar procedure, but only in cases where a colony virtually leaned on the home government for financial help.

The Standard: How is it that such extraordinary stories get into circulation? Dr. John Hall, of New York, has been obliged to correct, in a published letter, one of the stories representing him as a millionaire in real estate holdings, as having an income of over $50,000, and as receiving in marriage fees alone not less than $30,000 yearly. As to the last item, he says it is more than he has received in marriage fees during the forty-six years of his ministry. As to the real estate property, he recently offered to a friend as a gift $800,000 of it if he could find it. The amount of salary attributed to him—from $30,000 to $75,000—is absurdly beyond the reality. This is just a sample of the stories which get into circulation—who can tell how? Has reckless newspaper reporting any share in the matter?

Judge Ross, of the United States Circuit Court of California, has decided that the government cannot bring suit against the Leland Stanford estate to recover the money loaned to him and the other "Big Four" stockholders of the Central Pacific road. The judge admits they got the money, or bonds, and that "the acceptance of the bonds was an implied act of the stockholders to pay them." But he says there was no explicit, unqualified provision for repayment. And then the judge goes on to say that "the government had no intention of making these men individually responsible." Acting on that assumption, he holds that the general government cannot sue the men who took its money. The tone of the judge's decision is not a satisfactory one, and his sympathies seem to be enlisted on the side of the defendant. On every doubtful point he rules in favor of the latter and against the government.

Bolivia the other day presented an ultimatum to Peru for a violation of territory during the latter's recent revolution. Peru promptly refused to apologize, and now there is a prospect of war, the purpose of Bolivia being to get back one or two of her old provinces now held by Peru and shutting her out from the seacoast. If the war were confined to Peru and Bolivia, it would not be much of a struggle. Peru has had no navy since her war with Chile, and four or five thousand men are all that either of the belligerents could muster in case of war. The situation, however, is a very contagious one. War spreads in South America easily and rapidly. It is already reported that Ecuador has made an alliance with Bolivia. There is a possibility that Chile may also side with Bolivia, and in that case Argentina would certainly side with Peru. As Brazil is not on good terms with Argentina, she might take a hand in also. What the outcome of such a Kilkenny fight would be no one can say.

Most Determined Negative.

Miss Mollie Elliott Seawell has a sketch of "Paul Jones" in the Century. She quotes a portion of Jones' own account of the battle between the Bon Homme Richard and the Serapis:

"I directed the fire of one of the three Cannon against mainmast With double-headed Shot, While the other two Were exceeding well served with grape and Cannister shot to Silence the Enemie's musquetry and clear her Decks, which was at last effected. the Enemy Were, as I have since understood, on the instant of Calling for quarter, When the cowardise or treachery of three of my under officers induced them to call to the Enemy, the English Commodore asked me if I demanded quarter, and I having answered him in the most determined negative, they renewed the battle with redoubled fury."

What Paul Jones calls a "most determined negative" was the celebrated answer that will ever mark him as one of the bravest of the brave. The two ships, lying head and stern, enveloped in smoke as they repeatedly caught fire from each other, and neither one in position to fire an effective shot, a sudden and awful silence ensued. Presently a call came from the Serapis: "Have you struck?" to which Paul Jones answered: "I have not yet begun to fight."

Old-Fashioned Wives.

A pretty young married woman said in our hearing the other day:

"Lorraine is such an old-fashioned wife."

"And what," we queried, "do you mean by that?"

"Oh," laughed the gay little matron, "such queer notions about her duty to her husband and home. Why, she declines all invitations unless he is included, and never, under any circumstances, is away from home when he returns at night. Then she always gets up to breakfast with him, and even goes so far as to prepare herself certain favorite dishes for him, instead of leaving such fussiness to the cook. She doesn't go away in the summer until he is able to go, too, and, in fact, she fusses over him in the most absurd fashion."

After the pretty creature had vanished to join a party of friends at dinner a reflective mood stole over us, and in the twilight we thought how much happier many a household would be if there were more old-fashioned wives instead of the type which we had just had a chance to study.—Philadelphia Times.

Cochineal Culture.

The cochineal insect resembles nothing more nearly than a black currant, and has little more animation than one; but the bright carmine or lake exudation from his body, which serves him for blood and us for dye, is a better color than the juice of the currant. A cochineal plantation has a singular aspect. The larvae, being very delicate and rather thick-witted, have to be tied upon the cactus plant, which is to be their nursery and nourishment at the same time. Thus one sees hundreds of the shoots of the prickly pear—the cactus in question—all bandaged with white linen, as if they had the toothache. In this way the insects are kept warm and dry during the winter, and induced to adhere to the plant itself. When they are full grown they are ruthlessly swept from their prickly quarters, shaken or baked to death, and dried in the sun. The shrivelled corpses are then packed in bags, and sold as ripe merchandise at about twenty-five dollars a hundredweight.

TARIFF IS THE ISSUE.

NO GOOD REASON WHY IT SHOULD NOT BE SO.

Democrats Will Appeal Confidently to the People on the Record of the Country Since the Wilson Bill Was Adopted—McKinley's Admission.

The Next Campaign.

The Republican press insists that the tariff is to be the real issue between the two great parties in the next national campaign. There is certainly no reason why it should not be, as without exception all the leading Republicans have shirked a plain declaration on the currency question, and therefore party lines cannot be drawn on the silver issue. The Democrats have no wish to ignore the tariff question, but on the contrary will appeal confidently to the people on the record of the country since the Wilson tariff was adopted. In 1890 and 1892 the people voted by enormous majorities for free trade and against McKinleyism. Unfortunately for the party of tariff reform, the hard times which resulted from the Republican tariff and financial legislation led to a reversal of popular sentiment in 1894, and by demagogic pretenses that the Democrats were responsible for the business depression, the Republicans secured a majority in Congress. But their triumph will be a very short one. With less than a year of a liberal trade policy the industrial situation has changed from stagnation to the greatest activity. The most partisan Republican organs admit that there has been a wonderful revival in all branches of trade and manufacturing, and that already over a million workers have had their wages increased from 5 to 25 per cent.

On the other hand, the Republicans will go before the people threatening to again unsettle industry with the uncertainty of increased tariff rates. They will be forced to declare for a renewal or increase of McKinley duties, thus preventing manufacturers from making contracts for raw materials or selling goods except to fill temporary orders. To the demand of the business interests for a rest from tariff agitation and a fair opportunity to test the Wilson tariff they will reply with a threat to thoroughly revise and increase duties on imports.

Under these circumstances can there be any doubt as to the verdict of the country? Is there any reason why the people should prefer a policy of free trade restriction and business depression to one of freer trade, lower taxes and industrial prosperity?

The Tin Bunco Game.

No American can read without a little disposition to blush for his countrymen the report of Special Agent Rolker, of the Geological Survey, on the occurrence of tin ore in the United States. It is only four or five years since shares of stock in a tin mine in the Black Hills were being sold, on the strength of reports of chemical analysis showing it to be the richest tin ore in the world, while there were geological reports showing the vast extent of the deposits. This ore was going to be mined and reduced at less cost than any other tin ore in the world, and yet a protective duty of over $40 a ton was essential to the development of the mines, and that duty was granted. It was to protect American capital, yet most of the capital that went into that ill-starred enterprise was English. A photograph was taken of President Harrison at Temescal, California, with a pile of tin for a background, and it was used as a campaign document. After all of this Mr. Rolker reports: "No tin is being produced in the United States, and the tin occurrences of this country are so far only of geological or mineralogical interest, with indications of prospective value in a few instances." The tin-mine business thus far unhappily presents many of the aspects of a bunco game, except that a large part of the American people took part in it.—Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin.

McKinley's Admission.

As to the claim that there is no real revival of business, we may cite Gov. McKinley himself, who said at Cleveland: "I think that business conditions show a general improvement. Take Canton, for instance, where I passed last Sunday and Monday. Most of the works are in operation, and while of course the city is not back to the point where it was before the business depression conditions are much improved. The general outlook, I think, is favorable."

It is noteworthy that the Governor himself makes no demand for return to the tariff legislation which the committee of which he was chairman perfected in 1890.

One Way Out.

Foreman (Hayville Screamer)—In this editorial on "Hard Times and Democracy," you say: "Thanks are also due to Cleveland's pernicious free-trade policy for hardships here at home. Remember how last fall the two factories in our midst suspended operations and reduced wages!"

Editor—Yes; that's right.

Foreman—Well, both those factories have got orders ahead for six months, and wages have been raised 10 per cent.

Editor—Here, give me that proof! I'll make a note of it and add: "Under the promise of the return of the Grand Old Party to power, the influence of the Democracy for harm is gone, and the country is recovering."—Puck.

The Iowa Campaign.

Republicans of Iowa have nominated for Governor Gen. E. M. Drake, a railroad president with an office in Chicago. His nomination was attended by a scandal of unusual proportions, whether the stories told in the Republican press were true or whether they were invented and circulated by hostile Republican politicians for purposes of blackmail or malice. Temperance Republicans of the State also were cheated by the neglect of the convention to make any platform declaration in support of their principles. Many Republicans will refuse to vote for the candidates, but there will be no organized bolt, nor any general unorganized defection at the polls.

The Republican ticket, however, will lose many votes from these and other causes. The panic is ended, and the Democratic tariff and financial policy is vindicated. There are no bankruptcies, great strikes, "industrial armies" of tramps, and multitudes of the unemployed to be produced as arguments against the Democratic party. The day of Republican "landslide" victories has passed. These facts give the Democrats in Iowa a fighting chance. It should be improved to the utmost. They may make great gains, even if they should fail to carry the State. The Republican majority in 1894 was about 80,000. In 1893 the Republican majority was 32,000. The majority this year can be reduced below that of two years ago. Such a result would be an encouraging prelude to the campaign of 1896.

In this view Iowa Democrats have an important duty to perform. It is evident that a change is in progress on the national issue of free silver. It is not the part of wisdom to anticipate now the national issues of next year. Iowa Democrats should fight the State campaign of 1895 on the State issues of 1895. The immediate State issues are sufficient to employ all their energies.—Chicago Chronicle.

France Lowers Duties.

One of the first results of the election of a free trade president in France has been a considerable reduction in the French tariff on goods imported from Switzerland. In 1892 the Swiss offered to reduce their tariff on French goods provided France would make similar reductions. The protectionists, who controlled the French fiscal policy, refused. But the experience of three years showed that the tariff war between the two countries was injuring France far more than Switzerland, as the latter country was buying goods, formerly taken from France, in Germany and Italy. So France has reduced the duties on thirty articles of Swiss production, the Swiss duties being correspondingly lowered. Both countries expect to profit by the increased commerce which will follow the decreased tariff.

Another Burden on the Foreigner.

The esteemed Tribune, rendered unhappy by the better times that have put an end to calamity politics, insists that our new tariff "was contrived for the benefit of foreign rather than American producers." We suppose it must be the foreigners who are paying the increased wages of our workingmen—which is rather hard on them after having paid the tariff taxes under McKinleyism.—New York World.

The Business Revival.

Every indication points to a heavier volume of trade this coming fall than has been known for several years.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The prospect for the calamity howlers grows gloomier every day, and the dawn of an era of prosperity throughout the country means sure death to these parasites.—Detroit Free Press.

The business revival puts the Democratic party in a strong position before the voters, and the Republicans will not have the easy time of it they have been reckoning on.—Springfield Republican.

The calamity howlers are a good deal perplexed by the unmistakable indications of business revival, and it exacts of them some laborious special pleading to make the present situation accord with their predictions.—Philadelphia Times.

The Republican papers resisted the improvement in business as long as they were able. They were unwilling to admit that improvement was taking place. They made themselves ridiculous by calamity howls even after their news columns announced the unmistakable improvement in business. Now that they deem it inexpedient longer to deny the fact, they insist that the Democratic party is not entitled to any credit for it.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

An Unpleasant Lesson.

Teacher—Now, Willie, read your lesson out loud from the board like a good boy.

Willie—Please, ma'am, it makes my head ache to read lately. I don't feel well. I want to go home.—Chicago Chronicle.

CORN FOR THE WORLD

GREATEST CROP IN THE COUNTRY'S HISTORY.

Estimates of Conservative Statisticians Place the Yield at 2,375,000,000 Bushels—Railway Managers Put the Figures 25,000,000 Higher.

Prospect Is Good.

Confronted with a corn crop which promises to be hundreds of thousands of bushels larger than the largest ever recorded in the history of the country, the question arises: What is to be done with it? Railway managers estimate the crop at about 2,400,000,000 bushels, and even allowing that the interests of railway properties may have caused such managers to let their imaginations color the facts, the estimates of conservative statisticians based on the latest Government crop report make the crop over 2,375,000,000 bushels.

Shortly after the war there was a time when corn had to be sacrificed in various ways to get rid of it, but only twice since 1874 has the yield reached 2,000,000,000 bushels. In 1889 the yield was 2,112,892,000 bushels, and it was thought to be a record breaker for all time. The crops of 1891 aggregated 2,060,154,000 bushels, and the surplus was so great that in Kansas the corn was burned for fuel, it not being worth shipment out of the State. However, some of the best posted men in the grain trade are of the opinion that none of the crop of 1895 will need to be burned, even though it exceeds any previous crop by 300,000,000 bushels. On the contrary, the statistical position of supply and demand would seem to justify the opinion that this enormous corn crop will be a great boon to the country and prove the financial salvation of many a farmer whose wheat crop has been nearly ruined.

It takes a long stretch of the imagination to grasp the fact that 82,000,000 acres of corn, one of the largest acreages known, are now flourishing under the most perfect weather conditions ever seen. Railway managers have already begun to arrange proper transportation facilities for the corn, and the chances are that every bushel of it will be used up or sent out of the country at fairly good prices.

In view of this prospect it will be of interest to note certain facts in connection with our corn crops. In the first place, it is a fact that as a rule the larger the total yield the greater has been the export, and generally speaking, the greater the yield the larger has been the percentage of the whole exported. The three largest and two smallest yields for the last thirteen years will pretty fairly illustrate the general fact. The figures are as follows:

Year.	Bush., crop.	Bush., export.	P. Ct. export.
1890	2,112,892,000	103,418,709	4.85
1892	2,060,154,000	76,602,285	3.72
1889	1,987,790,000	70,841,673	3.57
1888	1,456,161,000	25,360,869	1.74
1891	1,489,970,000	32,041,529	2.15

INDIAN WAR ON.

Wyoming Settlers Arm Themselves and Prepare to Fight.

The Indian war has broken out in earnest. The vague rumor that a white man and his wife and child had been killed in the Wyoming Salt River Valley, and that settlers in retaliation had killed six of the redskins is confirmed. The excitement among the settlers in Northwestern Wyoming over the threatened uprising of the Bannock and Shoshone Indians is growing more intense every day. They are leaving their ranches in large numbers and gathering at favored points for mutual protection in case the irate Indians return to seek vengeance for the death of their brother braves.

The story of the killing of the three whites and six Indians is spreading alarm at rapid rate. The settlers are becoming thoroughly aroused, and if they are not soon protected by government troops they will take the field in protection of their own homes and lives, and they are well qualified by long experience in this country to do even more effective fighting than the regulars. The Indians realize that the cowboys are more dangerous than the troops. The reds know they can surrender to the soldiers and they will be in no further danger, but when the frontier volunteers go out to hunt Indians they fight as the Indians do themselves. They shoot to kill and kill all in sight.

The trouble originated when thirty men set out from Jackson's Hole to arrest a band of Indians for violating the State game laws. In Hoback canyon they discovered an Indian camp and at daylight surprised the Indians and captured them all without a shot being fired. In this camp they found 135 green elk skins. Each Indian was started back for the Hole with a white man at his back with his rifle across his arm ready for any emergency. The squaws were in the rear with the packs, and William Crawford in the rear of the squaws with the constables in charge. When nearly through an Indian let out a war whoop and every Indian, squaw and all, broke from the trail and attempted to escape. The posse immediately opened fire, and in the laconic language of the report, "all the Indians were killed except one papoose." The posse immediately covered up all trace of their deadly work, shot the Indian horses and hastened back to Marysville, Jackson's Hole. The settlers there immediately began to prepare for the worst.

SEAT OF THE INDIAN TROUBLES.

Governor Richards said: "This Indian trouble must be settled quickly, and unless the Washington authorities take decisive action soon I will make a State matter out of it and order out the State troops to arrest all of the roving Indians who are causing the trouble and turn them over to the authorities. I am determined that the Indians shall be made to respect the laws of the State as well as their white neighbors. The authorities at Washington do not seem to understand the situation and are careless in regard to correspondence on the subject. My predecessor, Governor Osborne, wrote a letter to the Interior Department in relation to these Indians killing game last summer. That letter was never answered. Neither was the one I wrote last month."

R. S. Strahan, ex-Judge of the Oregon Supreme Court, died at Portland.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

SOBER OR STARTLING, FAITHFULLY RECORDED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes.

Condensed State News.

MISHAWAKA is to have a new Christian church.

JOHN HIDE of Staunton, was killed by a Vandalia train.

JOHN STEVEN'S barn, near Martinsville, was destroyed by lightning.

WHITE cap notices are being served on many persons in Daviess County.

GRANT COUNTY now claims to have three of the largest oil wells in the State.

BEN LAPIDUS robbed four clothing stores in daylight at Madison, and nearly escaped.

MADISON County is infested with robbers. Supposed to have headquarters near Elwood.

A 10-YEAR-OLD boy at South Bend exploded a cartridge with a stone. He only has one hand now.

CHAS. BURGER, aged 18, fell into a chute in the sewer pipe works at Brazil and was smothered to death.

THE old settlers of Eaglestown will hold their twenty-fifth annual meeting in the grove near that place on Aug. 10.

A TEAM driven by John Defard and Joseph Baum, of Frankfort, was struck by a passenger train. Baum's injuries may prove fatal.

EVERY business house in Brazil closed its doors during the funeral of County Clerk Wherle, who was accidentally shot by Hon. G. A. Knight.

NAY & ADAMS'S sawmill, together with a large amount of lumber and logs were burned at Max, eight miles west of Lebanon. Loss, $5,000; no insurance.

FRANK E. HALL, of the Standard oil company, was murdered at Whiting, and his body placed on the B. & O. tracks. He was robbed of his watch and $600 in cash.

DEATH came in a peculiar manner to David Troyer of Peru. He was sitting on the porch at his home, and his nephew, Hiram, was trying a revolver in a shed. The weapon was fired and the ball passed through the boards and entired Mr. Troyer's head.

WILLIE HOOVER, 7-year-old-son of A. A. Hoover, principal of the Ohio side schools at Union City, met with a painful accident recently. While playing around Snooks' tile factory he, in some manner, got caught in the ten-foot fly-wheel, cutting several large gashes in his head.

THEODORE BRIZENDINE was driving from a neighbor's to his home in Eden, when his wife and four-months-old baby were in some way thrown from the buggy. The wife's neck was broken and she died instantly, and the baby was so badly injured that it is throught it will die. The tragedy is supposed to have been caused by reckless driving by Brizendine.

ED STILES, the 15-year-old son of Alexander Stiles, living near Martinsville was out hunting with a short rifle and sat down on a fence to rest, when the gun discharged. The course of the bullet was upward along his breast bone, through his chin, and found lodgment in the roof of his mouth, after passing through his tongue. The boy is severely wounded, but may recover.

THE contract of the Amazon Hosiery Company will expire at the Northern Prison December 1, and the board has been informed that the company will make other arrangements. This will throw about 200 men out of work. Secretary Hicknell, of the Board of State Charities, believes that the only remedy lies with the Legislature. The next General Assembly, he thinks, will be compelled to solve the problem of furnishing employment to the prisoners.

FIRE at Tyrone, destroyed the general store, saloon, billiard hall and liquor storage house of James Gee, also two dwellings and an icehouse. Loss, $25,000. The whisky was stored in barrels in the second story and James Gee took the bungs out of two barrels and lighted a match to inspect them. They exploded and caused the fire. Mr. Gee is so badly burned as to render his recovery uncertain. John Berry, his clerk, was seriously but not fatally burned in rescuing Mr. Gree.

PATENTS have been granted to Indiana inventors as follows: Elias C. Atkins, Indianapolis, and N. H. Roberts, Pasadena, Cal., rotary plow; John T. and S. W. Collins, Kokomo, bank cutter and seeder; John R. Etter, Crawfordsville, electro-medical apparatus; Sebastian C. Guthrie, Evansville, dispensing case or cabinet; Anton Hulman, Terre Haute, shutter fastener; James J. Keyes, Peru, basket; Britton Poulson, Fort Wayne, road grader; Rudolph H. Ripking, Aurora, extension table.

THE estimates of State Statistician Thompson as to the wheat crop in Indiana are that his ante-harvest figure of 20,000,000 bushels was not far from right. He thinks that one-fourth the crop will be required for seed, and one-half consumption, which will leave only 5,000,000 bushels for sale, as compared to 35,000,000 bushels last year. Fred P. Rush, authority on the wheat crop, says the yield in the State is not more than 18,000,000 bushels, or about 40 per cent. of the average crop. He says the wheat will grade 20 per cent.

DANIEL BRITTENHAM, a farmer, living two miles south of Windfall, was seriously if not fatally injured by having his arm caught in the wheels of a threshing machine. He was working near the wheels, when his shirt sleeve caught in the cogs of the wheels near his elbow. He made a desperate effort to rid himslef himself by tearing away from the sleeve, but the material was too strong, and his arm was drawn into the cogs, catching near the elbow of the left arm to the wrist, grinding the flesh on one side of the arm to a pulp to the bone. In trying to extricate himself he threw his hand further into the machinery, cutting off the palm of the hand and three fingers.

A DOZEN or more old soldiers of Clinton County are making arrangements to attend the dedicatory ceremonies on the Chickamauga battlefield, to be held Sept. 19 and and 20. They propose to travel the entire distance with team and covered wagons and will start on their journey the first day of August, taking their time to it, hunting and fishing on the way and having a good time generally. Their outfit will be elaborately painted in the colors of "Old Glory," with the names of the companies and regiments in which each of the party served during the war, printed where it can be conveniently read by comrades on the way.

JOSEPH ARBUCKLE, a mail carrier between Ord Springs and Deputy, was engaged in a runing race, a few miles east of Crothersville, when his horse stumbled, throwing him to the ground. Before he had time to get up he was trampled under the hoofs of one of his associates horses. He was carred to his home, where he died.

VICTOR H. SMITH, aged 17, who lives with his brother, seven miles northeast of Seymour, was killed. He was hauling a large load of four-foot wood to the brickyard, near the city. On the way he struck a slough. The front wheels buried themselves and the wood tumbled forward, knocking Smith from the wagon. When found the front of the wagon was standing on his breast and life was extinct.

IMPORTANT FOOD TESTS.

How to Produce More Economical and Healthful Articles for the Table.

The official food analyses by the United States and Canadian governments have been studied with interest. The United States government report gives the names of eighteen well-known baking powders, some of them advertised as pure cream-of-tartar powders, which contain alum.

The report shows the Royal to be a pure cream-of-tartar baking powder, the highest in strength, evolving 160.6 cubic inches of leavening gas per single ounce of powder. There were eight other brands of cream-of-tartar powders tested, and their average strength was 111.5 cubic inches of gas per ounce of powder.

The Canadian government investigations were of a still larger number of powders. The Royal Baking Powder was here also shown the purest and highest in strength, containing forty-five per cent. more leavening gas per ounce than the average of all the other cream-of-tartar powders.

These figures are very instructive to the practical housekeeper. They indicate that the Royal Baking Powder goes more than 33 per cent. further in use than the others, or is one-third more economical. Still more important than this, however, they prove this popular article has been brought to the highest degree of purity—for to its superlative purity this superiority in strength is due—and consequently that by its use we may be insured the purest and most wholesome food.

The powders of lower strength are found to leave large amounts of impurities in the food. This fact is emphasized by the report of the Ohio State Food Commissioner, who, while finding the Royal practically pure, found no other powder to contain less than 10 per cent. of inert or foreign matters.

The statistics show that there is used in the manufacture of the Royal Baking Powder more than half of all the cream-of-tartar consumed in the United States for all purposes. The wonderful sale thus indicated for the Royal Baking Powder—greater than that of all other baking powders combined—is perhaps even a higher evidence than that already quoted of the superiority of this article, and of its indispensableness to modern cookery.

Japanese Hats.

The nobles and swells of Japan now nearly all wear stovepipe hats on solemn and dressy occasions. The same hat is handed down from generation to generation, like the Mikado's crown. Many of those on the street during the festivities celebrating the return of the Emperor were evidently brought over soon after Commodore Perry came, and the rest must have come in installments since 1859, for they represented every fashion of headgear since that date. It is worth noting also, that in the whole throng there was no drunkenness, no disorder, no quarreling.

The Japanese of the ordinary sort do not wear a hat at all, nor does any Jap consider a hat necessary as a head covering, but merely for the dignity of it. And the dignity of the dude is enhanced by wearing his stovepipe tile at least two sizes too large. In the army and by the policemen neat blue cloth caps are worn, like a New York Police Captain's. Women wear no head covering at all, or in very cold weather bring their shawls over their heads. Peddlers and rickshaw men knot a white kerchief over their locks, and the bonzes or beggar priests wear curious hats like inverted bread bowls, still carrying out the idea that a hat is a badge of office rather than clothing.

One of the queerest official head dresses is no longer seen in Japan. The downfall of the Shogunate withdrew from view forever those queer hats that looked like a Belgian paving block tied on the top of the head with a string.

How Antitoxine is Produced.

In the antitoxine or diphtheria cure the horse is made the medium of production of the remedy, much as vaccine is produced from calves. The horse is inoculated and his blood is used to counteract the diphtheria germ. Antitoxine stables are being established everywhere and, as blood is the only thing asked of the animals, small horses are generally preferred.

The invention being a French one, it has naturally made more progress in that country, and in Paris alone a stud of 136 horses is kept for immunizing purposes. Twenty of these animals are maintained by the Government for the benefit of the hospitals and the poor. Other studs are kept in different parts of the country. That the animals flourish, despite the periodical loss of blood, is proved by their general appearance of well being. One pony has supplied 420 quarts of blood and is apparently good for as many more, so that the triumph of science is complete in obtaining a cure for the dread disease without sacrificing the life or health of man's noblest friend.

But It Isn't So.

"If you will take notice," said a tenant of the New York Chamber of Commerce, "you will see that there are no flies on us, or in our office. Haven't seen one since we moved in. I was commenting on this fact the other day, when an old inhabitant told me that flies will not stay at an elevation of over thirty feet above the ground. Since then I have kept watch, and have come to the conclusion that he knew what he was talking about."—Detroit Journal.

Opposed to Frog Eating.

A decree has been issued in Belgium forbidding any Belgian to capture or destroy frogs, to consign them by any conveyance, to export them for sale, or to buy or sell them, either whole or in part. King Leopold is determined his subject shall cease to be frog eaters.

A Saddening Sight.

First Tramp—Lookee here, Jim. Here's a man been killed on the railroad; all cut to bits.

Second Tramp (sadly)—Too bad! too bad! Thim clothes would 'a' just about fit me, and they's all spoiled."—New York Weekly.

LIEBERKUHN estimates that the extent of respiratory surface in the human lungs is not less than 1,400 square feet.

Summer Weakness

Is caused by thin, weak, impure blood. To have pure blood which will properly sustain your health and give nerve strength, take

Hood's Sarsaparilla

A MIGHTY DESERT WIND.

More Deadly Than a Cyclone or a Blizzard.

The samiel is a hot, noxious, electrical wind, which passes over the sandy deserts of Arabia and Africa. It moves with the quickness of lightning, and passes in narrow currents for a few minutes at a time. It deals instant death to every man or beast happening to face it, and it is said that it so decomposes them that their limbs fall asunder. The approach of it is indicated by a thick haze in the horizon, and travelers, if they have time, throw themselves on their faces, with their feet toward it, till it has passed. The sirocco is another blighting wind, which prevails in Italy and adjoining districts about April. The West Indian hurricanes are of a totally different description, being simple vortexes of great force, and they have been known to blow heavy cannon out of a battery and carry a man over a ten foot wall.

FINLAND is properly Fonland, the land of the marshes."

MERITED REWARD.

SALES OF LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND,

Unequalled in the History of Medicine. Honesty, Excellence, Faithfulness Fitly Rewarded.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

Never in the history of medicine has the demand for one particular remedy for female diseases equalled that attained by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never in the history of Mrs. Pinkham's wonderful Compound has the demand for it been so great as it is today. From Maine to California, from the Gulf to the St. Lawrence, come the glad tidings of woman's suffering relieved by it; and thousands upon thousands of letters are pouring in from grateful women, saying that it WILL and does positively cure those painful Ailments of Women.

It will cure the worst forms of female complaints, all ovarian troubles, inflammation and ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb, and consequent spinal weakness, and is peculiarly adapted to the change of life.

Every time it will cure

Backache.

It has cured more cases of leucorrhœa by removing the cause, than any remedy the world has ever known; it is almost infallible in such cases. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills work in unison with the Compound, and are a sure cure for constipation and sick-headache. Mrs. Pinkham's Sanative Wash is frequently found of great value for local application. Correspondence is freely solicited by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., and the strictest confidence assured. All druggists sell the Pinkham's remedies. The Vegetable Compound in three forms, — Liquid, Pills, and Lozenges.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

★ ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR ★

IMPERIAL GRANUM

IT IS ★ THE BEST ★ FOOD FOR NURSING MOTHERS, INFANTS, AND CHILDREN

★ JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York. ★

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att'y fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

FRANKLIN COLLEGE, New Athens, O. Board, tuition, room, and books, $3 a week. Catalogue free.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

NEWS OF EDUCATION.

REMARKABLE GROWTH OF THE SUMMER SCHOOL.

A Woman Wins the Degree of Bachelor of Science in Civil Engineering—Colleges in This Country—Fads in the Schools.

Where Teachers Train.

The summer school idea has spread in America with amazing rapidity of late, "summer institutes" and "summer assemblies," springing up in all parts of the country. Chautauqua leads in popularity, though the school at Martha's Vineyard enjoys the distinction of being the oldest and broadest in its methods. The first summer school ever founded was that inaugurated by the eminent naturalist, Prof. Agassiz, on Penikese, island, the neighbor of Martha's Vineyard. The Chautauqua school of pedagogy was last season placed in charge of the president of the Teachers' College of New York, Walter L. Hervey, Ph. D. He will again be its dean this season. With an able corps of assistants, principally professors and instructors from the Teachers' College, he puts into practice the methods of teaching adopted at that institution, the finest of its kind in existence.

The Chautauqua School of Pedagagy, known as the Teachers' Retreat, offers for 1895 courses designed to meet the needs of teachers in elementary and secondary schoods, in normal and training schools, and of school principals. Seven departments are open—psychology and pedagogy, methods of teaching English literature and composition, nature study and primary methods, botany and geology, experimental science, form, drawing and color and expression.

In a number of the courses laboratory and field work are included, and in all the courses opportunity is given for definite work toward a well-defined aim. A progressive course covering three years, supplemented by definite reading and study to be done between times with suitable tests, leads to the Chautauqua teacher's certificate. The number and variety of the courses enable the students of the retreat to return year after year without duplicating their work. The observation classes are an important and interesting feature. These number as pupils the little sons and daughters of the summer cottagers, who are taught by the retreat professors that the student teachers may learn the practical ways of applying their theoretical knowledge of instruction. At Martha's Vineyard the summer institute offers additional inducements for the training of teachers this coming season, including instruction in all grades, from the kindergarten and primary through the regular college course. A presentation is made of the most practical and philosophical methods of teaching.

Besides these two leading summer schools which are offering special departments in pedagogy, others younger, but promising, are being formed in many and widely separated localities. Some are State schools, as the Connecticut one, and that at Plymouth, N. H., which is the only free one in the country. The National Summer School at Glens Falls, N. Y., is doing good work, while the Virginia one is on the same plan as the institute at Martha's Vineyard. The new school at Ann Arbor, in connection with the University of Michigan, has a college of pedagogy. At the Agricultural College, at Lansing, Mich., whose botanical gardens are noted, the summer students camp out. Harvard University has its summer school at Cambridge, Mass. Even New Jersey lays claim to one, the Avalon Summer Assembly, at Avalon, including a school of forestry, while the Brooklyn Institute has opened a summer school at Cold Springs, Long Island.

Our Colleges.

The general impression produced by the commencement day reports from all over the country, says the New York World, is that we have a great many colleges in this country, and that they are turning out a great many graduates. The impression is not erroneous. The increase in the resources of higher education in the United States during the last thirty years is one of the most prominent features of our national development. While the other nations of the civilized world have been standing still or at best moving slowly in the matter of college growth, we have passed them with a rush, until we now head the list in the number of colleges, the number of students and the amount of endowment devoted to this worthy object.

Not only is this growth highly creditable to the educational spirit of the age, but there is one feature of it which distinguishes it from the collegiate history of Europe and which is worthy of special attention. This is the fact that while we have quite a number of well endowed and thriving State universities, the larger number of our colleges and the greater endowments represent the voluntary gifts of the private friends of education. This is true of no other country. Nowhere else is wealth so generous and so judicious in its bestowal of bounty. The endowments given to colleges by citizens of the United States in the past thirty years far exceed in amount all that has been given for the same purpose by all the rich men in all the great countries of the world in all history. Nothing like it has ever been seen.

With such an origin and such a history our colleges must be typical and genuine American institutions. Their foundations must be deep down in our national life, their strength is a part of the strength of the nation, and they are yet in their early youth. Our great universities are really the creation of the past thirty years. If the recent rate of growth is maintained, as it has every promise of being, another generation will make us the most profoundly as well as the most widely learned nation the world has ever known.

Fads in the Schools.

When the public schools get away from the rudiments of an English education, says the Atlanta Constitution, the tendency is to drift to the special fads of certain reformers, who are eternally tinkering away at our educational system. One good thing about our old-fashioned schools was their freedom from these new-fangled notions. They trained up a race of men and women whose intelligence and culture are the crowning glory of American citizenship, but they did not study one-fourth as many text-books as are now used in the schools. If they wanted to find out something about alcohol and tobacco they learned what they wanted to know at home. Their time in school was devoted to the elementary studies, and the teacher who paid too much attention to matters outside of a practical English education was never wanted long in one place. Something will have to be done to reduce the number of text-books and special studies or the schools will do the children of the poor very little good.

Made Her Word Good.

Mrs. Minnie Hickox, who has just entered upon the discharge of her duties as teacher of the public schools of Cooke City, Mont., is a lady who cannot fail of success in any given direction. Her ambition and grit would stand many a man in good stead. She is one of the few women who are equal to almost any emergency and is deserving of praise for her indomitable pluck.

She left Livingston recently to open the Cooke school. Upon arriving at Cinnabar, the terminus of the railroad, she found that the stage would not leave that day on account of the washing out of the bridge across Gardiner River. The stream was so swollen that the stage driver dare not undertake to make a ford. This was a dilemma not counted on by the plucky little school teacher. She had given her word that she would be in Cooke on the first day of the week and she determined to make it good, even if she had to continue her journey on foot and swim the streams. There was no time to be lost, and so she started out.

All there was left of the Gardiner bridge was a single stringer. Nothing daunted, the lady stepped boldly onto this and walked across the raging river. It was a perilous undertaking, even for a man, and a woman less brave and cool-headed than Mrs. Hickox would have been very likely to have become dizzy and lost her balance. Mrs. Hickox, however, proved herself equal to the emergency and reached the opposite bank of the roaring mountain torrent in safety. As luck would have it, she found a family enroute to Cooke camped close by, and securing a horse, mounted it and continued her journey. It was a pretty long ride for a woman who had never ridden a horse—the distance being sixty miles over a rough mountain road—but Mrs. Hickox kept on her weary way until she reached her destination. Upon arriving at Cooke she was so badly used up with her long ride that when she got off her horse she had to be assisted into the hotel. She had the satisfaction, however, that she kept her appointment.

Commencement Day in Georgia.

Hitch up the ox team, Johnny, an' drive
'em to the gate;
For me an' yer mother's goin' to see Moll graduate;
An' Jenn's a-bakin' biscuits, an' Sally's
a-slicin' ham,
An' I'm jest so proud o' Molly that I don't know where I am!

Yer mother raised the chickens that bought her books, an' sweet
To me was the daily labor in the summer's burnin' heat,
When I thought of her bright eyes beamin' an' said to myself: "I'll state
Thar ain't no gal in the country so fitten to graduate!"

So I plowed in the summer sunshine, an'
worked in the winter's cold;
An' I've bought her the finest dresses that ever the store-men sold;
An' I'll see her there, with her bright, sweet eyes, like stars in the twilight late;
An' maybe there'll be some tears in mine
when I see her graduate!

I never was much on larnin'—for my means was mighty small,
But I reckon when Molly comes back home she'll know enough for us all;
An' thar ain't a gal in Georgy, though you hunt for 'em soon an' late,
That'll look as sweet as Molly when she comes to graduate!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Young Woman Architect.

Miss Marian Sara Parker, of Detroit, is the first woman to graduate from the department of engineering of the University of Michigan. She recently won the degree of bachelor of science in civil engineering. She has taken the full course provided for those who desire to become civil engineers, except the field work in surveying, and for this she substituted drawing. However, she has taken all the theoretical work of the course and has stood all the time well at the head of her class.

MISS MARIAN SARA PARKER.

Miss Parker entered the university four years ago from the Detroit high school, from which she graduated in 1891.

Her object in pursuing this course, she says, was to become a practical architect. Upon finishing her course she expects to practice her profession somewhere in the West, which she believes to be the most promising section in which to settle. Her desire and determination in overstepping the ordinary bounds of woman's activity by seeking a technical education were not at all of a spasmodic nature. She asserts that it has been her steadfast intention for at least ten years.

A violent discussion is going on in France over the co-education of the sexes, and French public sentiment is much opposed to the attempt to introduce it.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

Now the druggist's face is beaming, as the nickels to him pass
And he thinks there's fun in selling froth at half-a-dime a glass.
—Boston Courier.

"Isn't Smith a poet?" "No; can't borrow a quarter to have his hair cut—that's all!"—Atlanta Constitution.

First girl—"Cholly isn't such a fool as he looks." Second girl—"No, indeed. He couldn't be."—Washington Star.

Jack—"To feather your nest you must have money." Tom—"Yes, there is nothing so delightful as cash down."—Truth.

"She—"Have you ever loved another?" He—"Yes, of course. Did you think I'd practice on a nice girl like you?"—Life.

"I hate these bicycles built for two," said Miss Jemmison. "It encourages people to talk behind your back."—Harper's Bazar.

Little girl—"What is tact, papa?" Papa—"Something every woman has and exercises—until she gets married."—New York Weekly.

Tommy—"Paw, what is the board of education?" Mr. Figg—"In the days when I went to school it was a pine shingle."—Indianapolis Journal.

He—"Is this the first time you've ever been in love, darling?" She—(thoughtlessly)—"Yes; but it's so nice that I hope it won't be the last!"—Tit-Bits.

Blow, blow, blow,
Wind of the summer sea;
But you can never blow as much
As it takes to board by thee.
—Augusta, Ga., Chronicle.

"Guy, do be quiet," said mamma: "you are so noisy." "I'm obliged to make a noise, mamma; somebody might take me for a girl."—Philadelphia Times.

Clara Winterbloom—"There is only enough to about half fill this trunk. What shall I do, fill it with papers?" Mrs. Winterbloom—"No; let your father pack it."—Brooklyn Life.

Caller—Your coat-of-arms is very pretty; but couldn't any one else use it? American Hostess—No, indeed. We paid the designer $10 extra to have it copyrighted.—New York Weekly.

"Who is the master of this house?" asked the agent of the man who answered his ring. "Well," was the curious response, in a resigned tone, "I am the husband and father."—Life.

First little girl—"And isn't your cat afraid of mice?" Second little girl—"Oh, no, not a single bit." First little girl—"That's queer. And she's a lady cat, too, isn't she?"—Somerville Journal.

Van Pelt—"Isn't $4 a day rather high for a hotel in the mountains?" Landlord—"But my dear sir, you should think of the scenery." Van Pelt—"How much do you charge for that?"—New York World.

"What's the matter with that horse?" said the animal's owner at the race track. "He's fast asleep," replied the stable boy. "Well, leave him that way. It's the only time he is ever fast."—Washington Star.

"He has money to burn," is a phrase played out,
In this season before dog days are felt;
And now to ease a financial doubt,
We are prone to say, "He has ice to melt."

Mrs. Keene—Mason. Mr. Keene—What, dear? Mrs. Keene—The next time we go to the opera, buy your friend a seat alongside of us so you won't have to run out to see him between acts.—Boston Courier.

Cass—But how do you know that was Benedict's wife that sat beside him in the train? Bass—Why, didn't you notice that he addressed all of his conversation to the lady in the next seat?—Boston Transcript.

Fond Father—I hardly know what business to put my son in. I know practically nothing about his ability. Friend—Take him for a sea voyage. That will show what there is in him.—Philadelphia Record.

"Mamie is such a conscientious little goose," said one summer girl to another. "How's that?" "She thinks she must go to the trouble of breaking one engagement before contracting another."—Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

Edwin—What do you think I have in this locket, dearest? The postage stamp on your last letter. It has been touched by your lips. It often touches mine. Angelina—Oh, Edwin, I'm so very sorry. I moistened that horrid postage stamp on Fido's dear, damp nose!"—The Waterbury.

"The summer girl is only a little lower that the angels," remarked the young man in knickerbockers. "Wait until you pay for her ice cream, her boat rides, her merry-go-round trips, and you'll think she comes a good sight higher," replied the cynic.—Yonkers Statesman.

"It's a great pity," said the convicted burglar to his lawyer, "that you couldn't have made that closing speech of yours at the opening of the case." "I don't see that it would have made any difference." "It would, though. Then the jury would have been asleep when the evidence came in and I'd have stood some show."—Washington Star.

Pawnbrokers' Signs.

The sign of "the three balls" adopted by pawnbrokers is borrowed from that of the Lombards, or Italian bankers, who first opened loan establishments in England, and who gave the name of Lombard street to the locality where they resided. The most celebrated of the Lombard merchants were the Medici, afterwards princes of Florence, and their arms were three pills, gilded of course.

About the worst use you can make of a man is to put him in charge of a strawberry festival to raise money for a church.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Do Flies Talk?

An ingenious inquirer, armed with a microphone, or sound magnifier, has been listening patiently through long hours to the curious noises made by house flies, and reports his belief that they have a language of their own. The language does not consist of the buzzing sound we ordinarily hear, which is made by the rapid vibration of their wings in the air, but of a smaller, finer and more widely modulated series of sounds, audible to the human ear only by the aid of the microphone. Probably this fly conversation is perfectly audible to fly ears, which, as every schoolboy knows who has tried to move his hand slowly upon them, are very acute. The hope is expressed that, since the heretofore inaudible whispers of flies have been detected and recorded, some inventor may construct a microphone which will enable us to make out the language of the microbes, and so surprise them in the horrible secret of their mode of operations.

Open the Safety Valve

When there is too big a head of steam on, or you will be in danger. Similarly, when that important safety valve of the system, the bowels, becomes obstructed, open it promptly with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and guard against the consequences of its closure. Biliousness, dyspepsia, malarial, rheumatic and kidney complaint, nervousness and neuralgia are all subjugated by this pleasant but potent conqueror of disease.

Going One Better.

Mrs. Sharppe—"I'm going' to stop tradin' here, an' deal with Lightweight & Co., the new grocery firm across the street. He lets his customers guess at the number of beans in a bag, an' gives a reward for correct guess."

Mr. Quicksale—"My dear madame, if you'll continue to give us your custom, we'll let you guess at the number of beans in two bags."—New York Weekly.

Miss Brown of Dalton.

By the simple Wine of Cardui Treatment of Female Diseases, thousands of afflicted women are restored to health every year. It corrects the menstrual irregularities from which nearly all women suffer, and is being universally used for that purpose now. Ask your druggist for McElree's Wine of Cardui. Speaking of this class of women diseases, Miss Laura P. Brown of Dalton, Ga., says: "I have been suffering from excessive menses for two years, constantly getting worse, and I feel that McElree's Wine of Cardui has saved my life. I looked forward to each month and thought I could not endure such misery another time. I can't express my gratitude for the wonderful relief."

A Great Lawyer's Carelessness.

Great Criminal Lawyer—I worked very hard to get you off, but I failed.

Convicted Murderer (hotly)—You might 'a' known you would. Three o' them men you let on that jury was respectable.—New York Weekly.

Linwood Park, Vermillion, Ohio,

A delightful summer resort located on the south shore of Lake Erie. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate road offered during the entire summer.

THE liver secretes a kind of animal sugar. In the hepatic tissue this has been found in the proportion of two parts in a thousand.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

SELF-RESPECT is the ballast of our life ship. Without it, let the craft be what she will, she is but a fine seacoffin at best.

THE Nickel Plate road has compiled a list of country homes along the south shore of Lake Erie, willing to accommodate summer boarders, and a copy will be mailed to any address by enclosing a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road or to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent.

IN almost all countries the birthday of the reigning sovereign is regarded as a popular holiday.

There Is Nothing

"Just as good" as Ripans Tabules for headaches, biliousness, and all disorders of the stomach and liver. One tabule gives relief.

THERE are lots of things in the world more dreadful than the devil.

THE Evangelical Sunday School Convention will be held at Linwood Park, Vermillion, Ohio, Aug. 7th, and low rate excursion tickets will be available via the Nickel Plate road. Ask agents.

IT is wrong to do anything easy.

ENCLOSE a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road for an elaborately illustrated art souvenir entitled "Summer Outings."

THERE are men who profess to desire to make their home happy, and yet who keep away from it as much as possible. And yet they are not so inconsistent as their course seems to be.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

FOLLOWING the example of Sweden, Russia has gone in for a State monopoly of the manufacture and sale of spirits.

Tobacco-Weakened Resolutions.

Nerves irritated by tobacco, always craving for stimulants, explains why it is so hard to swear off. No-To-Bac is the only guaranteed tobacco habit cure because it acts directly on affected nerve centers, destroys irritation, promotes digestion and healthy, refreshing sleep. Many gain ten pounds in ten days. You run no risk. No-To-Bac is sold and guaranteed by Druggists everywhere. Book free. Ad. Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

IF a man is patient, it is because he has tried impatience, and found that it failed.

AUG. 19TH the date!!
Niagara Falls the place!!
Nickel Plate the Road!!
Ask agents for schedule of special train and low excursion rates.

NO WOMAN can ask a man for money so gently that it will not make him mad.

PISO'S Cure for Consumption has saved me many a doctor's bill.—S. F. HARDE, Hopkins Place, Baltimore, Md., Dec. 2, '94.

NATURE is the same in a civilized man as it is in a savage.

THE first Niagara Falls Excursion of 1895 will be run over the Nickel Plate road Aug. 19th. Ask agents for time and rates.

THINGS are not what they seem. Free lunch, for instance, is not free.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

A CLEAN cow and a clean stable go with clean milk, good butter, and clean cash.

LOW RATES TO LINWOOD PARK,

Vermillion, Ohio,

Are offered during the summer months by the Nickel Plate Road. A delightful summer resort.

CONVINCE a man in an argument that he is wrong, and he will hate you.

It is better to remove than to hide complexional blemishes. Use Glenn's Sulphur Soap, not cosmetic.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

IT takes a particularly smooth man to work another smooth man.

THE First Excursion on the Nickel Plate Road to Niagara Falls will be Aug. 19th. Ask agents for schedule of special train and rates.

LEAVES ITS MARK

—every one of the painful irregularities and weaknesses that prey upon women. They fade the face, waste the figure, ruin the temper, wither you up, make you old before your time.

Get well: That's the way to look well. Cure the disorders and ailments that beset you, with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

It regulates and promotes all the womanly functions, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

Friends' Oats

(Kiln Dried)

Superior to any . . Rolled Oats... Sold only in 2-pound Packages

At All Grocers

MUSCATINE OAT MEAL CO. MUSCATINE, IOWA

USE NO SOAP

with Pearline. 'Twould be absurd. It isn't necessary. Pearline contains everything of a soapy nature that's needed or that's good to go with it. And Pearline is so much better than soap that it has the work all done before the soap begins to take any part.

You're simply throwing away money. It's a clear waste of soap—and soap may be good for something, though it isn't much use in washing and cleaning, when Pearline's around. 681

Millions NOW USE Pearline

"Forbid a Fool a Thing and That He Will Do." Don't Use

SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH

For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

RIPANS TABULES

W. C. Lloyd, a workingman, living at No. 66 White av., in the Eighteenth ward, Cleveland, O., first bought Ripans Tabules of Benfield, the druggist. In an interview had with him on the 8th of May, 1895, by a reporter named A. B. Calhoun, residing at 1747 East Madison av., Cleveland, Mr. Lloyd said that he was at present out of a job, but expected to go to work next week at the Bridge works. "Anyway I have the promise of a job there," were his words. He had been out of employment since last fall. We will let him tell his story in his own words: "Work was a little slack, and I was feeling so bad that I concluded to lay off for a few days, and when I returned my place was filled, so I've been out ever since. I don't care much, though. I've been gaining right along by my rest and treatment. Last fall I went to a doctor who was recommended to me as a good one and with quite a reputation. He gave me medicines of all kinds for nearly six weeks and I got no benefit that I could see. In fact I don't believe he knows what is the matter with me. A friend of mine called one evening and told me he had been using Ripans Tabules for a short time, and had never found anything that helped his stomach and liver troubles as much as they did. He handed me a circular about them, which I read, and concluded that they were just what I needed and would fit my case exactly. I dropped Dr. —— at once, went over to the drug store and got a 50-cent box of them, out of which I took two a day for a while, and within three days noticed and felt much improvement. That was about the middle of December. Last February I got another small box of the Tabules and took part of them only, as I was feeling so much better that I didn't think I needed any more. The rest of the box I gave to John C— the other day. If I had heard of them at the time I stopped work I could have saved my doctor bill, and, better than all, probably kept right on with my work. But I do not begrudge the time lost nor the doctor bill, as I feel I am well paid for having learned of the Tabules. I now feel no pain whatever in my stomach, liver and bowels active and regular, and eat like a well man should eat."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

TEXAS — VIA — Wabash Line

Do you know that the farmer has more opportunities for making money in TEXAS than almost any State in this great country? Interest yourself in the subject and see how true this is.

REMEMBER, THE WABASH

Is the Great Steel Rail Highway to all points West and Southwest. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address the nearest Agent of the Wabash System, or write to

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

RIDGE'S FOOD

THE BABY'S LIFE depends on the food it gets. Insufficient nourishment is the cause of much of the fatality among infants. Improper food brings on indigestion. If the food is right the digestion will be good, and "Ridge's Food" is the best. There is nothing "just as good" or "nearly as good." It is the best in the whole world. Have you a baby? Its life depends upon how it is fed.

Sold by Druggists. 35c up to $1.75.

WOOLRICH & CO., PALMER, MASS.

F. W. N. U. - - - - No. 31—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

LYON'S 7 WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Prominent Traveling Salesman.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN—I began taking LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS some time since for a very bad case of nervous dyspepsia and insomnia, and I am glad to state that it is doing for me what all other remedies tried by me failed to do—cure me. I have about finished my third box and I am more than pleased with its results, and I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering with nervous dyspepsia as a first-class medicine, and one that has merit. You are at liberty to use this letter in any manner you may see fit, as I am anxious indeed to have every one know who suffers with this dreadful disease how to get well.

Very truly yours,

G. R. RHOADES.

885 North Mississippi Street, City.

VITRIFIED BRICK

A recent paper, sent us from Coffeyville, Kansas, by Geo. H. Picker, has a write up of that town in which it seems they have are abundant supply of natural gas, which will be news to many here. Mr. Picker is interested in the brick works, and we give the item relating to that industry:

The Coffeyville Vitrified Brick Company was organized in April 1894 with a capital stock of $29,000.00. The officers are W. H. Mabor, Chas. M. Ball. Geo H. Picker, and George Francis. They have a capacity of 30,000 brick per day and employ 30 or more men. The brick are manufactured from a pure shale of superior quality and the supply is practically inexhaustaible as it underlies the whole fifteen acres of land owned by the company. The brick all pass through the great Raymod Repress machine the only one of its kind west of the Mississippi. They are consequently smooth and perfect in shape and elegant in finish. They are 8¾ by 4¼ by 2⅜ inches in size. The material ftom which the brick is made renders the breakage very light and makes a saving of at least ten per cent. to the purchaser. They are burned by natural gas and are of a uniform rich cherry red color and as hard as stone. The company also makes as their chief specialty a paving brick 9x4½ by 2½ inches which has been found a perfect material for street purposes With faces and edges true as a steel die and being burned with natural gas in patent kilns they are absolutely uniform in color, hardness and size, and are pronounced by city engineers to be the best brick on any market for that purpose. The company's plant is located at the junction of three great railroad lines and they can ship at a moment's notice to all parts of the United States. They have made 5,000,000 brick and are making them as fast as their machinery can work. They sell them as rapidly as they are made and when once introduced into a place it is no trouble to find a ready market.

Found A Cure.

When moving into our present home I found a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm left by a former tenant. On the label I found the statement that it was good for cuts and burns. I can testify to the truth of this. Nothing in all my experience has found its equal for treating blisters or burns. F. E. Barrett, manager Le Sueur Sentinel, Le Sueur, Minn. Pain Balm is also a sure cure for Rheumatism. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31-35

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Battle AX PLUG

The largest piece of GOOD TOBACCO ever sold for 10 CENTS

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the township trustees of the several townships of DeKalb County, Indiana, have made and returned their enumerations of the white and colored male inhabitants over the age of twenty-one years of their respective townships; that the said enumerations are now on file in my office, subject to the inspection of the public, who are invited for examination thereof with a view to the correction of any errors, mistakes or omissions therein. The following list shows the aggregate number of white and colored male inhabitants over the age of twenty-one years as returned by the several township trustees of DeKalb County, Indiana, for the year 1895.

TOWNSHIPS	WHITE	COLORED
Butler	208
Jackson	318
Concord	533
Newville	190
Stafford	126
Wilmington	1026	2
Union	822	2
Richland	395
Fairfield	381
Smithfield	396
Franklin	336
Troy	147
Keyser	1056
Grant	536
Total	6470	4

F. A. BORST
Auditor DeKalb County.

Graves Of a Nation

Where the Presidents of Our Country Lie Buried.

George Washington is buried at Mount Vernon, Virginia; John Adams at Quincy, Massachusetts; Thomas Jefferson at Monticello, Virginia; James Madison at Montpelier, Virginia; James Monroe at Richmond, Virginia; John Quincy Adams at Quincy Massachusetts; Andrew Jackson at Nashville, Tennessee; Martin VanBuren at Kinderhook, New York; William Henry Harrison at North Bend, Ohio; John Tyler at Richmond, Virginia; James K. Polk at Nashville, Tennessee; Zachary Taylor at Louisville Kentucky; Millard Fillmore at Buffalo, New York; Franklin Pierce at Concord, New Hampshire; James Buchanan near Lancaster, Pennsylvania; Abraham Lincoln at Springfield, Illinois; Andrew Johnson at Greenville, Tennesse; Ulysses S. Grant at Riverside Park, New York; Rutherfore B. Hayes at Columbus, Ohio; James A. Garfield at Cleveland, Ohio; Chester A. Arthur at Albany, New York. —August Ladies' Home Journal.

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB The World's Largest Clothing Store. CHICAGO, ILL.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Corunna Fire.

Levi Hartman, of Corunna, was here to-day, and gave some additional notes in regard to the fire at that place. He owned the building north of Thomas' hardware store, a wooden building, and between it and Thomas' brick building was a wooden ware room used to store things. But all went together of course, Mr. Hartman's building was occupied on the first floor by N. Barker's saloon; the upper room was a hall, used for public purposes. In the lower room, or basement, Mr. Hartman was just putting a tenant with a butcher shop into the basement, and in a day more it would have been doing business. Mr. Hartman's entire loss including the chairs and other furniture in the hall, will foot up about $2,200 and no insurance. Mr. Thomas had $7,000 insurance but his loss will be considerably above that.

Since writing the above, trustee M. E. Reynolds, of Richland township called in. His home is in Corunna, and he has for some time kept the papers and books of his office in Mr. Thomas' store, and though the township has for many years had a small safe in which to keep these papers, it was not big enough to stand such a hot fire. The safe, when opened was still very hot, and it was found that the papers were nearly ruined. This will make it difficult for him to settle with the commissioners, although no one will question his honesty or the correctness of his accounts. He has had several streaks of bad luck since he was elected to this office. He lost some money that had been deposited with J. L. Davis, before that failure, and several years ago, had a lot of his papers stolen.

Y. P. R. C.

OVER 3000 PUPILS IN THE COUNTY STUDY THE READING CIRCLE BOOKS.

Report to the State Department of the work of the young people's Reading Circle. Several schools failed to send in any report.

CORPORATION	NO. PUPILS	NO. BOOKS READ
Butler tp.	140	399
Concord "	319	1135
Fairfield "	260	907
Franklin "	262	807
Grant "	113	331
Jackson "	302	974
Keyser "	29	40
Newville "	85	271
Richland "	326	1189
Smithfield "	212	560
Stafford "	88	414
Troy "	178	1126
Union "
Wilmington "	81	160
Total in "	2395	8153
Ashley town	44	91
Auburn "	211	615
Butler "	17	71
Waterloo "	105	433
Garrett City	292	730
Total in Towns	669	1940
Total in County	3064	10,093

The above is an excellent showing for the Reading Circle work, as far as reported, though some have not yet sent in the report. In the townships, Troy shows the highest per cent of pupils who read as compared with the total number enrolled.

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This Medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord. 3

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts newlife to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed onreceipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. old by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y30

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

A Household Treasure.

D. W. Fuller, of Canajoharie, N. Y. says that he always keeps Dr. King's New Discovery in the house and his family has always found the very best results follow its use; that he would not be without it, if procurable. G. A. Dykeman, druggist, Catskill, N. Y., says that Dr. King's New Discovery is undoubtedly the best cough remedy; that he has used it in his family for eight years, and it has never failed to do all that is claimed for it. Why not try a remedy so long tried and tested. Trial bottles free at Robbins & McCord's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1. 3

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

A TRIBUTE TO EDWIN NORTH RAINIER.

From Friends and the Brothers of His Beloved Order.

EDWIN NORTH RAINIER, son of Joseph Rainier, was born at Auburn, November 20th, 1868, and died at the home of his parents in Auburn, on Wednesday, July 24th, 1895, at 11:20 o'clock, p. m., aged 26 years, 8 months and 4 days.

Mr. Rainier was born, and grew to manhood, in Auburn. His boyhood days were pleasant and happy. He was surrounded by parents, relatives and friends who encouraged him to deeds of kindness and honor, and he imbibed, and ingrafted into his being the lovliness of his surroundings, and from which abide many pleasant memories; and his best monument is in the hearts of those who knew him longest and best.

He was educated in the schools of his native town where he graduated with high honors as a Junior in 1885, delivering his class oration in Latin, and where he not only received, but merited, the highest regards of his teachers, scholars, classmates and friends, the latter being only limited by his acquaintances, because to know Edwin Rainier was to be his friend. A year later, in 1886, he graduated from the Auburn High School, this time delivering his oration in German, and his attainments were of such high order that the Board of Education awarded him as a prize a scholarship in the Adrian college.

After graduating he entered the store of his neighbor, W. H. McQuiston, as a clerk, and remained one year, or until his employer retired from business. He then entered the store of Schaab Bros. in the same capacity, where he remained ever faithful to every trust until two years ago, when he went to the city of Chicago to enter the store of Alexander Revell & Co., and remained with them one year, when on leaving their employ, he was given a very flattering letter of reccomendation, testifying to his unqualified honesty, integrity and ability, a document which he retained and prized very highly. He next entered the employ of A. M. Warner & Co., of Chicago, dealers in dry goods and gents furnishing goods, and who were not slow to discover his merits as a man and his ability as a salesman and rewarded him by promoting him to the position of general manager of the gents' furnishing department of their large establishment, which position he held at the time of his death.

Last week he was granted a vacation by his employers that he might enjoy a visit to his old home and see his parents and friends, when sad to relate, in the meridian of his manhood, with hope and aspirations reaching onward into the future, and upward toward the achievment of deeds which might make the world glad that he had lived, he was in an unexpected moment, almost without notice, arrested by the summons which will sooner or later be served on all of us, and compelled to carry his accounts to the great inspection room of the hereafter, which in his case, we confidently expect, and have every reason to believe, will be marked "Approved."

In 1885 the subject of our sketch espoused the cause of Christianity and united with the M. E. church of Auburn, and remained a consistent and honored member until his untimely death.

On November 8th, 1893, Bro. Rainier knocked at the door of Castle Hall, No. 191, Knights of Pythias, at Auburn, which was duly opened, and he was admitted and given the rank of Page. November 10th he was advanced to the rank of an Esquire, and November 24th to that of Knight. Here, again, the noble character of our brother shed new lustre to his surroundings, his manhood and honor standing the most severe tests of the Order; and here, within the sacred precincts of the lodge room, ties and friendships were formed that the grave cannot efface, but which will ever live in the hearts of his brethren in Pythian Knighthood.

Mr. Rainier's nature and character was one in which were most beautifull and happily blended all those traits that go to make one better for having known and associated with him; being ever willing to add to the joys, subtract from the sorrows, multiply the pleasures and divide responsibilities with his frsends.

We loved him because he was frank, candid and sincere and looked with an eye of charity upon the failings and mistakes of men.

But no eulogy that could be written, no tribute that we can bring to the memory of our deceased friend and brother, can equal that which is accorded him by his neighbors who have known him from his early childhood until his death, and who are here enmasse on this sad occasion to pay respect to his memory.

But there are none who know so well the full measure of his noble generosity, of his kindness of heart, as do his immediate family relatives who were the recipients of all that was good of a noble and loved son and brother and feel as though we should pause here and draw the veil over a sorrow so sacred. So friend and brother, we bid you a kind FAREWELL.

FLORAL TRIBUTES.

The floral offerings were numerous and very beautiful. There was a broken column sent by Warner & Co., Chicago, where he was employed. A broken wheel was sent by the clerks, ladies and gentlemen belonging to the same establishment. The Auburn Alumni Association of which he was a member, contributed an open book, and there was a floral pillow from the Knights of Pythias and a harp from some of the young men who were his intimate friends. The clerks of Bishop & Lackey gave a large bouquet of American Beauty roses, and Schaab Bros. sent a lovely bouquet of Marechal Neil roses. Then there was a large bouquet of carnations from his graduating class. Besides these, there were many single tributes of flowers sent by friends for those who were not members of any society or group of friends. There were scores of these for such universal and spontaneous evidences of respect for the dead, and grief at his loss, has seldom or never been seen here.

Two From Lakeside

Mr. Cobb, who is home from his recent visit at the old home at Berlin Heights, Ohio, stopped a few days at Lakeside, to attend the assembly there. He saw many of the DeKalb people and made many acquaintances. And this enables him to tell several entertaining things that happened. One day he went out on his wheel for a ride of a few miles and in company with him, went Prof. Blakesley, who is musical director of the assembly and who is also an ardent wheelman. Mr. B. was anxious to get back in time to conduct the large body of singers in his charge, and to do this he wished to get back in time to change his bicycle pants or knickerbockers, for a more suitable pair to appear in before so large an audience. But it was about fifteen minutes past time, as the two wheelmen, heated and somewhat dusty, spun up past the great building and headed for the hotel where Prof. B. was to change his apparel, but the fates willed otherwise. As the big class saw the Professor spin by, they called him and laughingly persuaded him to stop and take charge of the waiting singers, and never mind the short pants. So as he did not wish to delay the work, he stopped, went in, mounted the drygoods box used for the purpose, and took his baton in hand, and music began. Soon he was lost to all but the music of the many voices and worked so vigorously that the box broke through and let him in half out of sight to the great delight of his class. The evening of the grand concert Mrs. Sadie Yesbera had just sung one of her powerful solos, and at about the middle of the program Morris Widney sang one of his best. It will be remembered as closing with "Go to Sleep My Lady, Dear", and he gave it in a very effective way. But just as the audience went into raptures over the song, the electric lights died out and the audience went wild with applause. There was a laugh from 3000 auditors at so proper a conclusion, and then all rushed out of the big hall. And when Prof. Blakesly got up and shouted for them to stay and hear the rest of the music, a dog in the audience set up a vigorous barking. But the audience had gone and could not be called back. The songs were left for some other time.

CALIFORNIA LETTER.

ALHAMBRA CALIFORNIA, July 26

EDITOR COURIER,

Auburn Ind.

DEAR SIR:—Having promised many of our friends to write about our journey and about California I thought expedient to write to our friend the COURIER and in this way all can have access alike. We started on our journey from Chicago on Tuesday evening at 10 p. m. in a Pullman tourist Sleeper. Being very tired we retired soon and Wednesday morning morning found us at Fort Madison, crossing the Mississippi. Going through, Missouri we found excellent crop prospect, but Kansas certainly will have a harvest of corn. Corn as far as the eye can reach and of that deep green hue that denotes plenty of water. It seems the question in Kansas this year is not one of rainmakers but how to store it for future use. The further west we flew the more was there a visible supply of water. We reached Trinidad, Col., Thursday about 3 p. m., and crossed the mountains at an altitude of about between 7000 and 8000 feet. The scenery and mountain air are superb this time of year and the pure water a sample of which we obtained at the Summit, was indeed superior to that of the Old Oaken Bucket. Our first stop after descending was at Raton. It was raining easily and the Mexican Greasers who generally lounge about when trains arrive were conspicously absent. On Friday morning we reached Albuquerque N. M., and found to our sorrow that the heavy rains had washed away a bridge on our road about forty miles west, causing us a delay of about seven hours which we whiled away very pleasantly at this semi cosmopolitan place. Saturday morning found us whirling along the Plains laden with volcanic deposits, then again past mountains of red and gray granite and formations of matter difficult to tell through the desert where the temperature of my fever thermometer indicated 102.5. We came to Barston at 3 p. m., our train having made up about five hours of the seven lost. Our trip, excepting going through the Mojave Desert was a most pleasant one, quite cool all the way and part of the way an extra coat or shawl would have added comfort to the traveler. At 4 p. m., we entered San Bernardino among oranges and lemon groves galore, arrived at Pasadena the crown of the San Gabriel Valley at 7:30 p. m., and Los Angeles about 15 minutes later. If there were any tired passengers they did not manifest it. All were enthused over the grand scenery, profusion of flowers, fruit laden trees, breathing in the balmy non malarial atmosphere, and all that marred our feelings was the parting or rather breaking camp of our fellow travelers. The following were our companions from Chicago to Los Angeles: Misses Susie B. and Della A. White, of Cincinnati, O.; Mrs. T. Thomas, Cleveland O.; J. W. West, King City Mo.; Geo. Webber San Diego, Cali.; Mrs. Sophie Winfield Los Angeles Cali.; Misses Sarah E. and Emma Bell Anderson, of Hartwell M.; Miss Emma L. Hames, of Toledo O.; and S. C. Urey, of Fairfield Center Ind. We are all well and fearing our letter too lenghty will promise to write again and give our friends some idea as to our opinion of California

Very Tru'y,

O. F. RUDOLPH.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Rehoboth S. S.

The Rehoboth Sunday School will hold a picnic at the S. J. Tarney Grove on Saturday, August 10, to which Sunday Schools and their Superintendents are invited to attend and take part, as are also the pastors of the various churches.

DeKalb and its Towns

Yesterday F. E. Miner, of Columbia City, came over here to start in on a plan of work, somewhat new to most of our people. He will write a brief statement of the business, etc of each business man, and then publish in it book form. There is no cost attached, as far as the individual interviewed is concerned, but nearly everyone will take a book, the price being only fifty cents. The firm however, gets its money by selling the book to parties who desire a full list of the business men of the community. It seems to us like a good plan, and surely not expensive. Mr. Miner is well known to several of our people, as he was for some years, the active reporter, of the Columbia City Daily Commercial. He has now helping him in this county, Mr. S. M. Knoop of Claypool, Kosciusko county, a student at Ann Arbor. Our people will find that both are gentlemen. They expect to get a full list of business men in all the towns and villages of the county. The COURIER wishes them success. The name of the book is as given above.

Deering Binder.

At the sale of the David Wiley property August 10, near Corunna, as advertised in the COURIER, there will be a good Deering Binder sold along with the other property. It was overlooked from the list by mistake. Don't forget this good chance to get a fine binder. 31-32.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS

On August 5 and 6 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Lima, Ohio, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Union Veterans' Union, National Encampment, and Woman's Veteran Relief Union. Tickets will be good for return until August 10, 1895 31

On August 19 to 25, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Boston, Mass., going and returning by the same route, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Knights Templar Conclave.

Circuitous route tickets will also be sold at rate of 60 per cent. of the sum of the first class limited fares via the routes selected.

Tickets will be good for return until September 10, but are subject to an extension until September 30, if deposited with Joint Agent at Boston, after September 10. 31 33

TO WAWASEE, IND.

On August 4 the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Wawasee Ind. at very low rates account engineers excursion to Jones Landing. Special train will leave Auburn Junction at 7:22 a. m.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic. DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS. "MOTHERS' FRIEND"

We Offer You a REMEDY Which INSURES Safety of Life to Mother and Child.

Robs Confinement of its Pain, Horror and Risk.

My wife used "MOTHERS' FRIEND" before birth of her first child, she did not suffer from CRAMPS or PAINS—was quickly relieved at the critical hour suffering but little—she had no pains afterward and her recovery was rapid.

E. E JOHNSTON, Eufaula, Ala.

Sent by Mail or Express, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed Free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

Accident.

The six year old son of H. Hoffmyer o Corunna fell out of an apple tree last Thursday, and broke one bone of the forearm and dislocated the other bone. Dr. Phillips was called in and the lad is now doing well.

Right Arm Paralyzed!

Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine and has gained 31 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."

MRS. E. H. BULLOCK, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

Full oft with starch and gloss serene,
The linen collar starts the morn;
Full oft at noontime it is seen
All wilted, wrinkled and forlorn.

That's what you must expect of such a collar; it's the linen of it. The stand-up collars won't stand up, and the turn-down collars will wilt down. The easy, cheap, and pleasant way out of this is to wear "CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS. These goods are made by covering linen collars or cuffs on both sides with "CELLULOID," thus making them strong and durable, and waterproof, not affected by heat or moisture. There are no other waterproof goods made this way, consequently none that can wear so well. When soiled simply wipe them off with a wet cloth. Every piece of the genuine is stamped like this:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

Insist upon goods so marked if you expect full satisfaction, and if your dealer does not keep them, send direct to us enclosing amount and we will mail sample. State size, and whether a stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

The CELLULOID COMPANY 427-29 Broadway, New York.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Restored Manhood.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

POWDERED AND PERFUMED

(PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO. Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

Pitcher's Castoria. Children Cry for

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. AUGUST 8. 1895. NUMBER 32

SAY : :

HOW MUCH DO YOU OWE?

Who holds your mortgage? How much interest are you paying? Do you owe a building loan association anything? If you do, how much interest are you paying them? Unless you are better posted than the majority of people who have such loans, you cannot tell. You think you are paying 6 per cent. Do you know (of course not) that you are paying at least 12 per cent. If you think not, just figure it out yourself. Now then, are you not paying 6 per cent interest and 6 per cent premium? Certainly. Well now don't you know that premium and interest are the same thing—its all interest. Can you afford to pay 12 per cent interest to a loan association when even your banks only charge 8 per cent and you think they are charging too much, and when do you expect to have your loan canceled or paid off in full? You have been told 72 or 78 months. Now then, we undertake to say that it will take you 100 months, if you will call on us we will show you so you will be satisfied that we are right. Now then, we are prepared to loan you money on monthly installment plan for 8 per cent, we charge you no membership fee and you do not have to make three or more payments in advance so that if on account of insufficient security or bad title your loan is rejected you will not lose one cent. You pay nothing unless your loan is granted. We are making farm loans at from 3 to 5 per cent with privilege of partial payments.

ANOTHER THING!

There is scarcely a day but what there is some traveling agent for some building loan association in Auburn soliciting business, selling stock upon which they charge you a membership fee of from 50 cents to $1.00 per share, which amount goes to the agent and you never get back this money thrown away. If you will call on us we will take your application for all the stock you want in the BEST (we can prove it) building loan association in the state the INDIANA MUTUAL OF INDIANAPOLIS, and charge you NO MEMBERSHIP FEE AT ALL. This is certainly fair. If you have any investment stock in any association just write them a letter and ask them the withdrawal value of same, their reply will probably open your eyes. What would you say if you would deposit $8.00 per month in your bank for one year and wanted to withdraw the same and they would offer to pay you only about $80? The bank would only have to do this in one case to be compelled to retire from business. Now you pay ten dollars membership fee and 8 dollars for 12 months making 108 dollars, you lose the 10 dollars membership fee and 10 cents per share each month for expenses, making 12 dollars, or a total of 22 dollars loss upon which you would receive 6 per cent interest for average time on 96 dollars, making 2 dollars and 88 cts. from 22 dollars would leave you a loser of 19 dollars and 12 cents. In our association your stock is worth all you have paid in, with its interest added, so that upon withdrawal you do not get less than you paid. We want the people of Auburn to become familiar with this matter, and would like to have any that are interested to call and talk with us, we can give you some pointers.

We are still in the Real Estate, Insurance and R. R. Ticket business.

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN INDIANA.

Nicholson Bill.

The people of the little town of LaOtto believe in giving the new Nicholson law a trial. A man by the name of Williams who deals out the fire water at that place refused to comply with the law and the citizens at once took steps to enforce it. A league was formed of about 200 of the best citizens of the vicinity and a subscription amounting to $1000 was soon secured to be used in enforcing the law. Attorney E. A. Myers, of Garrett, was secured to prosecute the cases and Monday the saloon keeper was arrested and convicted of the first charge. Tuesday he was taken before the court on a second charge and gave bail for his appearence for trial. There are several other charges pending against him and before it is through with the people expect to see the new law thoroughly tested. It is arousing great interest in both DeKalb and Noble counties and the outcome will be awaited with great interest.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills, DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winnesheik Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

You can have most any article of iron or brass manufactured at the Junction Foundry.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

Nearly a Conflagration.

FIRE STARTED IN THE COAL BIN IN THE KIBLINGER FACTORY.

This afternoon a fire was discovered in the coal bin at the Kiblinger Factory, and had it not been for its early discovery it might have resulted in a big fire. A pipe from the furnace runs through the coal house and to protect it a box was built around the pipe. It appears that coals from the furnace set the box on fire. The fire was several feet below the coal and it had burned long enough to blaze up above the coal. Several of the workman began to remove the coal, throwing it out in the street. The fire engine was also brought out and considerable water was used. The damage will amount to only a few dollars.

Lucky Fire

Saturday night during the thunder storm a large straw stack belonging to David McCrory, father of W.H. McCrory, over in Allen county was struck by lightning and burned. The family were aroused by the light but it was only beginning and did not appear to be anything of great importance they went back to bed. The light however soon blazed and they hurried out to find a big straw stack on fire only two or three rods from the barn and about the same distance from several stacks of wheat. They at once set to work to save the barn and the wheat stacks and some neighbors coming in they managed to keep the stacks and barn wet, and a heavy shower that was falling helped them greatly and at last the property was saved. It was the narrowest chance we ever heard of.

How It Acts.

After using Drummond's Lightning Remedy for rheumatism, according to direction, for ten days. Mr. John W. Boyenton, of Hampton, Va., writes that he can walk and attend to business which he could not do before. This remedy has a remarkable record of cure—not only relieving pain, but restoring all the functions of the crippled limbs. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles of their remedy with full direction for use. Agents Wanted. 32 34

All Free.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it, free. Call on the advertised druggist and get a trial bottle free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pill free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 4

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Got The P. O. Again

A month or so ago the people who have for many years been getting their mail at Concord P. O., found themselves without a postmaster or even an applicant for the place, and the whole postoffice plant was abandoned. The packages of mail were dropped at St. Joe and distributed from that place. Of course this was inconvenient for many people and such as lived handy to other points particularly to Auburn, had their mail changed the handiest place. The trouble came by Richard Ervin, the postmaster having resigned. He has since died. As no one else seemed to want the place just then, the abandonment of the service could not be avoided. Since then, Henry Baker, who had been postmaster for several years, concluded he could take it and the other day his commission came, and business has been resumed again at the old stand. We are glad of this, for we had got tired of putting a big label, "CONCORD" on a big package of COURIERS, when we knew it would not go to Concord at all, but to her big sister near the river. It is all right now.

Mrs. Leighty's Letter.

No. 8.

St. Joe News.

Geneva, Switzerland,
July 2nd, 1895.

I received a letter at Berne that had been forwarded from London, and fortunately for me, it fell into the hands of some of our party, who knowing how anxious all of us are to hear from home kept it for me, and as this is the first and only letter I have had from home, you may be sure it did me a world of good. I am going to bring the envelop back to show you through what trials it had passed to find me.

We left Lucerne yesterday morning and came directly here, which will be our headquarters for a few days. We go from here to Turin, from there to Rome for one week, then to Genoa and from there to Pisa and then to Paris and from Paris back to London and then to Southampton, where I shall start for home on the City of Paris of the American Line of Steamships. Let me say to you I find myself looking forward to that time with a great deal of pleasure; although through all the trip I have been in the best of health and constantly surrounded with pleasant people, and have enjoyed every minute of the time, yet after all "there is no place like home."

Geneva is one of the oldest and most populous cities of Switzerland and capitol of Canton of the same name. It is beautifully situated on both sides of Lake Geneva, where it narrows to a point and forms the river Rhone. This river enters the lake turbid and yellow with mud, and leaves it here through the city—not more than twenty feet from our hotel to the bank of the river—the clearest and most beautiful water I have ever seen; seemingly to change from deep green to pale blue as the shadows flit across its surface. Just off from our window are three large buildings or boats, called floating laundries, where the people come to wash their clothes. They spread them out on boards and rub them with with soap and pound them with paddles, after which they put them in a long trough and immerse them in the clear, swift, running water which thoroughly cleanses them. Above there is a place for drying them. As the whole city comes here to wash you can imagine it is a funny sight; literally washing their dirty linen in public.

Here have occurred many stirring events of the world's history. Two thousand years ago these mountains and valleys echoed and re-echoed with the fierce war cries of Cesar's Roman Legions. Here along the Rhone he built a wall sixteen feet in height and nineteen Roman miles in length to interrupt the passage of the Helvetii, and when they attempted to cross he fell upon them and of 368,000 only 110,000 escaped. The lake is crescent shaped and nearly 50 miles in length; greatest breadth 8 miles. The scenery on its shores is celebrated world wide for its beauty and grandeur. To the south and east rise the mountains of Savoy along the lake; still further off Mount Blanc, covered with snow and ice hundreds of feet deep, rises 16,000 feet above the level of the Mediterranean Sea; its top reaching high above the clouds, which are broken and whirled over its summit in tumultuous masses of mist and snow that no words of mine can give you an idea of. As I look at its ice covered top, I shiver as I think how fierce and cold the wind is blowing up there.

We have arranged to spend the 4th as high up its sides as we can safely go, and will make the glaciers ring with hearty American cheers, none the less hearty if there is too much treble for the bass. Though the mountain is nearly 60 miles away, its image is often reflected in the clear waters of the lake.

In 1541 John Calvin, the great reformer and founder of the Presbyterian church, took up his residence here and established an institution of learning which still exists. He impressed the stamp of his rigid morality on the people to such an extent that the town wielded a great influence over the spiritual life of the civilized world, and became the center of education for Protestant people of every country. The old church where he preached still stands. They show many relics of him. I sat in his chair while in the church to-day.

They show us the house of Voltaire and a little way off from our window on an island in the river is a statue of Rousseau. On our way to Mont Blanc we will visit Chatean of Madame DeStael. Anything connected with these people is of interest because they have enriched the literature of the world with the brilliancy of their genius. I always get a little homesick to see my friends when I stop to write letters, and think of the five thousand miles that separate me from them.

Our party for Rome have employed a courier, whose duty it is to look after our baggage and do our talking for us; I mean our French, German and Italian, and to see that we choose. He attends to getting the party ready at train time. We expect him to earn his money. Then we have a conductor; he is a son of the Lord Bishop of Wooster. We think he is very scholarly and accomplished. His duty is to look after our route from place to place, and to plan excursions to places of most interest. Our hotels so far have been very good and comfortable. We have been invited to a banquet by the American Consul and shall attend. All the Americans in the city will attend and it will no doubt be a grand affair; lacking of course fine dresses, as tourists and travelers cannot be equipped with those.

This perhaps will be my last letter, as after Rome, my course will be homeward and it is so hard to find time to write.

JOHN ALHOUN.

A HUMBLE NAMESAKE OF THE GREAT NULLIFIER WEARS ANOTHER MAN'S CLOTHES AND GETS INTO TROUBLE.

It was not the "great commoner" John C. but a humble namesake of his a colored gentleman who bore the famous name for probably the same good reason that so many famous names are borne by humble darkies in the south. This especial Calhoun was brought to Auburn yesterday by a detective and taken to 'Squire Walborn's office to account for stealing a suit of clothes, coat, pants and vest., from Horace D. Harding yesterday Mr. Harding it seems was away from home, and no one at the house, but the neighbors saw a negro go into the yard, and soon after go away. When Mr Harding came back he saw the house had been badly overhauled, and soon missed a suit of clothes. A man whose name we did not learn, happened along, and assisted to find the darkey and brought him to town. We believe this man is some sort of detective. The negro proved an interesting odd character. He plead guilty, and when 'Squire Walborn asked him what made him steal the clothes, he answered, "Well you see, somebody stole mine," and added that he was on his way from Chicago to Detroit, and going in shirt sleeves this cold evening didn't agree with his ideas of comfort There were several striking passages in the conversations between him and Mr. Walborn. The latter asked him how old he was. He said he didn't know, and added "my mudder died when I was about seventeen, and never told me when I was born. We were common sort of people and didn't put on much style about these things, and my mudder never talked about it and I didn't care to ask her such a question." The Squire asked as to his full name, whether he had a middle letter, so it would read "John C. Calhoun," but he 'lowed not. "We were just plain folks and somewhat reserved and never put on style over names, nor talked much about sich things". The Squire asked if he had been traveling over the country in his sleeves. He said he had for, "I never likes to carry no packet or sich thing along with me when I travel." The squire told him he would have to be bound over to court as he had plead guilty and would have to go to jail till court set. He at once asked when court would set, and when told it would begin in October he was very much discouraged and tried to make a dicker with the justice, whereby the latter would chuck him into jail on a sentence for a certain number of days, "So I can serve that right away and get out that much sooner." The justice was obliged to decline this very sensible proposition, and explained to his man, that a justice's powers did not extend that far. The colored brother seemed much cast down to think he must lie in jail till October, and then possibly get a sentence for some time more. He didn't seem to comprehend it all. He said he had generally found work at odd jobs about a hotel and was working his way from Chicago and Detroit, where he heard there was a good chance for such work. It seemed sad to the reputed descendant of the great Nullifier, John C. that the good people of Detroit must be kept so long out of his valuable services. But so it was. The Goddess of justice had him down and the man who might have been adorning the corridors of the Hotel Cadillac in Detroit is now doing an indefinite "time" in the Hotel de Stroh in Auburn. How hath the mighty fallen!

Superior to Any Other.

In order to introduce Chamberlain's Cough Remedy here we sold several dozen bottles on strict guarantee and have found every bottle did good service. We have used it ourselves and think it superior to any other. W. I. Mowery, Jarvisville, W. Va. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31-35

Always IN THE Lead!

That's where we aim to have you find us

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.

Don't go with us; we want to be first in the field. Realizing the fact that THE EARLY BIRD CATCHES THE WORM, we are showing a very large line of

MEN'S HATS & CAPS,

BRAN SPLINTER NEW

From the Factory, such as you are sure to want for fall wear. A complete line of NEW FALL

Neckwear,

Embracing the very latest styles of both Domestic and imported Novelties.

14 Pieces New Dress Goods.

1st Consignment of new Fall and Winter Clothing.

A fine line of New Carpets—Ingrains, Brussels and Moquettes.

WE INVITE YOU to CALL

and hope to be able to please you.

Schaab & Bro.

AUBURN

Don't Forget

That we are

HEADQUARTERS

FOR

Bryan Plows, Ball Bearing Disc Harrows, Superior and Empire Grain Drills, Turnbull Wagons and Eckhart Buggies.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland

AUBURN, IND.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Known Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, Commerce and Crops, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

To Buy Rome.

The New York World's London correspondent cables as follows: "A story comes to me which would seem preposterous except for its apparently unimpeachable authority. It is that a number of wealthy Spaniards have addressed a serious communication to prominent and rich Catholics in France, Austria, and England, proposing to raise a fund to purchase Rome from Italy and thus free the Pope from his imprisonment (albeit voluntary) and make him again a temporal ruler. Italy's almost utterly bankrupt condition is quoted as a reason for the belief that the Government would accept the proposition. The scheme seems wild enough were it not that Italy's condition is now one of the most alarming elements in the European situation and rapidly driving her helplessly taxridden people toward anarchy."

Mrs. Talmage's Death.

Mrs. T. DeWitt Talmage died at Danville, N. Y. Since the burning of the Brooklyn Tabernacle last year, Mrs. Talmage has suffered from nervous prostration, and has never fully recovered from the shock sustained then. Mrs. Talmage was the second wife of Dr. Talmage. His first wife was drowned while boating in 1862, leaving a daughter, Miss Jessie, and a son, who has since died. Within two years afterward the doctor married Miss Susie Whittenmore of Brooklyn. She became the mother of five children, the Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage, Mrs. Dorin, Mrs. Mangan, Miss Maud and Miss Daisy Talmage.

A Vicious Bull.

At Valparaiso, Ind., Louis Rich and his son George, aged 10, entered a field in which was kept a vicious bull. While at work the bull charged down upon the pair and began to gore and trample the old man. The boy had a revolver and fired several shots at the enraged animal, but did not succeed in getting him away from his father, who had been thrown down and was being terribly mangled by the brute. At length the infuriated animal left the dying father and attacked the son. The boy continued to shoot at him, and after being quite badly injured himself killed the bull. The elder Rich lived one hour, and the boy is dying.

Faithful Even Unto Death.

Bart Regan, a driver for Brewer Norton of Anderson, Ind., was driving out with his wife and daughter. The horse plunged over a precipice and the trio were injured. Regan was only bruised, and, lifting his wife and daughter, took them to town in a vehicle. The daughter attended her mother all the way, and, even when the physicians called, refused to have her injuries attended to until her mother was pronounced out of danger. Then she fainted, and shortly afterwards died.

Richard Leach Electrocuted.

Richard Leach was electrocuted at Sing Sing prison, for the murder of his wife, Mary H. Leach, which occurred Dec. 11, 1895, and his electrocution took place within eight months after his crime, an almost unprecedented short time in these days of stays and appeals. There were no sensational features connected with the electrocution, Leach preparing for and meeting death as calmly as though it was a common place affair.

Plunge From a Balloon.

Professor Elliott and Mary Peak of Jackson, Mich., were probably fatally injured by falling from a balloon at Vandercook's Lake, near that city. The couple made a double ascension and were to make a parachute drop. When 100 feet high the balloon split and the aeronauts fell headlong to the ground. Elliott struck first and Miss Peak fell on him. Miss Peak's arms and legs were broken.

Steam Boat Conflagration.

The Big Sandy wharf boat at Cincinnati caught fire and was totally destroyed. The fire communicated to the Carrolton and Bedford. The Carrolton was burned to the water's edge and the Bedford was slightly damaged. Fireman Kiff was overcome by the heat and is supposed to be insane. The total loss will probably reach $150,000.

A Baby Killed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Williams, with their two children, residing in Westfield, Ohio, were driving home after a visit to his brothers when the nut that held a front wheel came off, letting the wheel run off and the buggy drop. The horse became frightened and kicked, killing their baby, aged 9 months, and injuring Mr. Williams seriously.

Cooked His Flesh.

At Carry, Ohio, George Emerine drew the fire out of the firebox of a traction engine and after it had cooled climbed inside to do some repairing without letting the water out of the boiler. He was unable to get out, and when found 10 hours later his flesh was cooked so badly that in many places it dropped from the body. He will die.

Rice Crop Ruined.

Continuous rains have ruined the rice crops in many parts of Japan, and a famine is feared. Many lives have already been lost and the damage done is enormous.

Newspaper Sold.

The Times-Post, an evening daily paper of Fort Wayne, Ind., has been sold.

His Sister Did It.

At Brazil, Ind., Sherman Johnson is dying from his wounds, and his sister is now locked up in the Greencastle jail to await his demise, in which case she will be charged with murder. She is Mrs. Andrew Stableton, and is but 16 years of age.

Drank Carbolic Acid.

At Kokomo, Ind., the little child of Rose Coverdale drank two swallows of carbolic acid, literally burning out its mouth, throat, and stomach. The child cannot recover.

A Fatal Leap.

At Phoenix, Ari., Aeronaut Barke made an ascension by moonlight in a hot air balloon, but in descending with his parachute, he fell on top of a house, sustaining injuries from which he shortly afterward died. His partner, Nelson, made an attempt a short time before. Nelson had got a short distance from the ground, when one of the ropes broke, precipitating him to the earth. He escaped with only a broken arm.

The Earth Trembles.

Advices from the Tonga Islands state that earthquakes have been prevalent of late in the islands. Several of the shocks were quite severe, but no serious damage was done.

ROBERT J.,

The King of the Turf, Defeated By Joe Patchen.

Cleveland special: Thursday was the banner day in the history of the Glenville track. It was estimated that 15,000 people saw the races. And such races—Robert J., the king of the turf, is king no longer. The honor was wrested from him by that game black stallion, Joe Patchen, in the most exciting speed contest ever seen on a grand circuit track. It has been known since last season that Joe Patchen was a great race horse, but even his warmest admirers did not believe that he was speedy enough to defeat the phenomenal Robert J., when driven by Ed. Geers, the "silent man." In the auction pools Robert J. sold for $25 and the field for $5. In the books the Hamlin world beater was barred. He was supposed to have a cinch on the race, and most of the betting was on Joe Patchen for a place. After the first heat, which was won by Robert J., $1 on the field would have brought $50 on Robert J. The second heat was the beginning of the surprise that was to follow. The favorite and his rival came into the stretch neck and neck, after having paced the middle half in one minute. Jack Curry, who was driving Patchen, seemed to push the black whirlwind under the wire and be won by the shortest kind of a nose in 2:04¼. The last two heats were a trifle easier for the black stallion, although he won by less than a length each time. It was the fastest four heat race ever paced and the last heat in 2:05¼, was the fastest fourth heat ever paced.

The time was 2:05¼, 2:04¼, 2:05, 2:05¼.

CLOUD BURSTS.

More Disasters Reported from the Storms in the West.

Cripple Creek (Col.) special: A freight train on the Florence and Cripple Creek Railroad was caught in a landslide and derailed near Adelaide. A succession of cloudbursts occurred at the head of Eight Mile Creek, about twelve or fifteen miles north of Adelaide. Engineer Ben Gove and Fireman Maurice Lyons saw the water coming down the creek. Lyons managed to escape by climbing up the side of the mountain. Gove is supposed to have been drowned. Brakeman Dolan is known to have lost his life in the water. The flood struck the town of Adelaide doing great damage. A hotel is said to have been swept away and Mrs. Car Lee Tracey and a man named Watson were drowned. Six persons are known to have been drowned at Adelaide, and two others are reported missing. The railroad for ten miles near Wilber has been washed away. No definite information is obtainable up to a late hour Friday, but it is known that much damage has been done in the path of the storm. It will be at least a week before the railway can be repaired. The damage is estimated at $100,000. More destruction is reported at Camp McCourt.

FATAL WRECK.

Three Tramps Killed and Several Others Seriously Injured.

A special from Canton, Ohio, says: A freight train on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad broke in two on a heavy grade near Stark Siding. The rear end crashed into the first section and ten cars were wrecked. A dozen tramps were riding in a furniture car which was smashed to splinters. When the train men came up they were horrified to see arms and legs of human beings sticking from all parts of the wreckage. Thomas Collins, of South Bethlehem, Pa., lived just long enough to give his address and state that his mother, Mrs. Dennis Collins, should be notified. Three others, badly mangled, were taken out. Two of them were dead and the third died on the way to the hospital. Michael Morgan of Cleveland, had his head cut open and may die. Adolph Sudden of New York, John Lugan of Chicago, Charles Eckert of Philadelphia, Louis Simpson of Pittsburgh, William McCoy and Charles Wilson of Soho, are badly hurt.

A Monstrous Blaze.

A disastrous fire broke out in the center of the manufacturing district of Menominee, Mich., and before it was controlled had done damage which is roughly estimated at over $200,000. Four men were seriously injured. Chief Krantz of the fire department, had his nose fractured but went back to the fire. He was afterwards carried out of a building in an unconscious condition. Aid was asked for from Green Bay but did not come. A partial estimate of the losses and insurance is as follows: A. Spies, loss $60,000, no insurance; Girard Lumber Company, from $50,000 to $75,000, fully covered by insurance; Bay Shore Lumber Company, $100,000, fully insured; dwellings and hotel, about $12,000, partially insured; Clark Match Company, $20,000, insured; Donovan & O'Connor, $20,000, the most of which is protected by insurance. The city was in great danger of being reduced to ashes, but the gallant work of the fire department stayed the flames.

Favors a Protectorate for Hawaii.

San Francisco special: Congressman Hilborne, who has spent some weeks in Hawaii, has returned. So far from intending to urge the annexation of those islands by the United States, he is emphatically opposed to such a course, on the ground that the population is not prepared for self-government. He says that the present government is not satisfactory to the people there, and that if left alone the Queen will likely be reinstated. He says that President Dole is popular. He thinks the Japanese are the most aggressive and dangerous. Mr. Hilborne favors a close reciprocity arrangement that will secure us their market, and a strong protectorate. He favors the laying of an ocean cable by our government for financial and national reasons.

Indian Trouble About Over.

Market Lake (Idaho) special: A United Press courier returning from the seat of the Indian troubles in Jackson Hole country reports everything quiet so far as actual hostilities go. There are many small bands of Indians scattered over the country, mostly heading towards their reservations, wishing, it is supposed, to avoid coming in contact with the soldiers. The settlers are, however, greatly alarmed, not knowing what the roving bands of red men might do, and are leaving their farms and rushing to the nearest villages for protection. Most reports of the actual danger of the situation, however, have been greatly exaggerated.

Tug Boat Lost.

Racine (Wis.) special: The tug Mollie Spencer, Captain Roach, came into port for coal and received a telegram from Chicago to watch out for the wreckage of the tug Calumet, supposed to be lost. No sign of wreckage has been here. Tugs have gone out to search for her. The body of Captain Hatch, of the Kate Kelly, which foundered off North Point last fall, was picked up off Kenosha. The body was identified by the captain's son. One floater was picked up here Thursday, and two more bodies were recovered Friday. All are supposed to be of the crew of the ill-fated Kelly.

The Nicholson Law.

Judge Taylor, of the Circuit Court, at Terre Haute, Ind., has decided the test case of the Nicholson law, brought by the Terre Haute Brewing company. The court room was crowded with spectators. Lamb & Beasley and Samuel R. Hamill represented the contestants and Prosecuting Attorney Huston the State. The court delivered a lengthy opinion, in which he did not pass upon the constitutionality of the law, but in effect held that it was inoperative because of a blunder of the Legislature in the wording of the penal clause of the act.

Gas Explosion Wounds Four Men.

A terrific explosion took place in the blacksmith department of the Johnson steel plant at Lorain, Ohio. Gas accumulated in a forge, owing to an impact of cinders, which united with the hot air blast from the blower, causing an explosion that shook the entire plant. Four men, whose names have not been learned, were badly injured. A huge nail was driven into the abdomen of one of the blacksmiths, tearing out a portion of his entrails. He cannot recover.

Ohio Populists.

The Populists of Ohio met in convention at Columbus and nominated the following ticket: Jacob S. Coxey of Stark, for Governor; John H. Croster of Hamilton, for Lieutenant Governor; George Harper of Greene, for Treasurer; William Baker of Licking, for Attorney General; E. D. Stark of Cuyahoga, for Supreme Judge; William A. Gloyd of Tuscarawas, for Board of Public Works; Thomas N. Hickman of Morrow, for Clerk of the Supreme Court.

Hundreds Perish.

Marinette (Wis.) special: The probability is that 100 residents of Beaver island, located in Green bay, at the entrance of the Straits of Mackinaw, have been burned to death in forest fires, which have desolated the entire island during the last few days. The other night the island was enveloped in flames which could be seen by passing vessels for many miles out into Lake Michigan.

Bones in a Well.

While workmen were excavating for the foundation of the new $40,000 Milliken Hotel at Bowling Green, Ohio, they unearthed the bones of a human body in an old well which had been abandoned a number of years ago. This well was frequented by early settlers in passing through the black swamp. A tavern was located near by, which was destroyed by fire.

A $100,000 Blaze at Lima, Ohio.

Fire destroyed four business blocks at Lima, Ohio. The loss will reach $100,000, with small insurance. The fire started in John Brice's shoe shop, and before it could be extinguished the Lawler block, the Hughes' block, and the Manning Bros. block, all three-story high, were destroyed. The fire was started by one of Brice's watchmen while attempting to light his pipe.

Killed His Daughter While She Asked Him for a Kiss.

John Sharbo of Brady, Pa., murdered his 4-year-old child Nellie in the most heartless kind of fashion by knocking her down with a heavy kick and then battering her head to a jelly with a heavy club, as she asked him for a kiss. He was drunk and had been beating his wife. Sharbo made his escape.

China Must Pay Damages.

Washington (D. C.) special: Under instructions from the State Department United States Minister Denby is now engaged in investigating the damages sustained by the American Missions at Cheng Tu, China, during the rioting there. The Chinese Government has already given assurances that it will pay a suitable indemnity.

Typesetting Machine Record.

Charles E. Poe, a machine typesetter on the Merganthaler machine at Cincinnati, in seven hours and fifty-six minutes continuous work turned out 76,300 ems. The copy was carried to him and slugs removed. This beats Taylor by 13,000 ems. Poe's performance is attested by trustworthy witnesses.

Supposed to be Lost.

The schooner Fala, which sailed from Hawaii the latter part of May with a large number of natives on board, never reached her destination. It is presumed she capsized. A box of one of the passengers drifted on shore, and this is all that is at present known of the ill-fated vessel.

Burned to Death.

Fire of an unknown origin attacked the house of William Hogan of Marion, Ohio, destroying furniture and badly damaging the house. Loss, $1,800, insured. Mrs. Hogan was severely burned, and her six-years-old son died from injuries received in the fire.

Making Good Crops.

Winfield (Kas.) special: Copious rain showers have fallen in this vicinity and prospects for more rain are now good. The water will materially aid the corn crop and hopes of a large yield are now entertained.

Buried in Quicksand.

The waterworks tunnel at Ghent, Ky., connecting the pumping house with the river caved in, catching three workingmen and William Woodam, the Superintendent. He was covered with quicksand and is dead. The others were rescued.

A Roofer's Fatal Fall.

Fred Metzger, a roofer, while slating a house at Columbus, Ohio, slipped, and, falling to the pavement, sustained fatal injuries.

Election Frauds.

Eight judges and two clerks of election boards, in the third Congressional district of Chicago, have been indicted for election frauds.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 45c to 47c; butter, choice creamery, 17c to 19c; eggs, fresh, 11c to 12c; potatoes, new, per barrel, $1.00 to $1.30; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 4c to 6½c per lb.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 66c; to 68c; corn, No. 1 white, 41c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 43c to 45c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2, mixed, 42c to 44c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 26c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 49c to 51c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, 48c to 49c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 49c to 51c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 76c to 77c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 48c to 50c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 31c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 69c to 70c; corn, No. 3, 42c to 44c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; barley, No. 2, 46c to 47c; rye, No. 1, 48c to 49c; pork, mess, $9.50 to $10.00.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 73c to 74c; corn, No. 2, 48c to 49c; oats, No. 2 white, 31c to 32c; butter, creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, Western, 13c to 15c.

TOILS DRAW TIGHTER

CHICAGO POLICE THINK THEY WILL CONVICT HOLMES.

The Modern Bluebeard's Gauzy Tale Concerning Pitzel—Says the Latter Committed Suicide—The Mysterious "Mascot" Located in Arkansas.

Holmes Tells a Story.

H. H. Holmes tells to the Philadelphia police an entirely new version of his connection with Pitzel, who is supposed to have been murdered for his life insurance. He says the two had on foot a plan to defraud the insurance company; that while in Philadelphia Pitzel became despondent over financial difficulties, the sickness of his daughter in St. Louis, and other matters, and threatened to commit suicide. Holmes then avers that he jokingly remarked to Pitzel: "Well, your body is as good as any other, but I would not advise you to do anything rash."

On the following day, Sunday, Holmes says he went to the Callowhite street house where Pitzel was stopping, and found a note telling him that the suicide had been accomplished. The letter pleaded that Holmes look after Pitzel's children, and suggested that there would be no difficulty in getting the insurance money from the Fidelity company, now that the dead body of Pitzel could be produced in evidence. Holmes then told of the appearance of the corpse, and said that he sat in the room with the body for over an hour. He finally made up his mind that since Pitzel had taken his life there would be no harm in destroying any evidence of suicide, so that he might be able to get the insurance on Pitzel's life without any difficulty.

Holmes has confessed that he thereupon dragged the dead body to the second floor, laid the corpse on the floor, pried open the mouth of the dead man with a pencil and poured in a quantity of explosive chemicals. He then, he says, placed a lighted match to the man's mouth, when the explosion which so horribly disfigured the corpse followed. To give the more forcible impression that Pitzel came to his death by an accidental explosion Holmes stated to the police that he got a pipe of Pitzel's, filled it with tobacco, lighted it, then blew out the flame, after the tobacco had been partly consumed, and placed the pipe beside the dead man's body.

H. N. MUDGETT, ALIAS H. H. HOLMES, AND HIS SUPPOSED VICTIMS.

Search in the basement of the Chicago house has revealed almost everything suggestive of dark crime except a corpse. Skeletons and bones were there, but these may have been procured from medical colleges or other sources; they furnish no proof of murder. More mysterious vats, tanks, retorts and kindred devices have been unearthed. And most important of all, there has been found in the Arkansas penitentiary a man who is said to have been closely associated with Holmes in his fraudulent life insurance deals and who assisted in the transfer of the Fort Worth, Texas, property of the missing Williams girls. This man is known by the name of Hatch, A. E. Allen, A. E. Bond, Caldwell and "Mascot," and it is thought was Holmes' confidential agent. He is serving a fifteen-year term for horse-stealing, and he is now 55 years old. He claims to know all about the disappearance of the Williams girls and the Pitzel children, but refuses to tell until he is pardoned for his present term and relieved of two more indictments for horse-stealing. Holmes not long ago asserted that the man Hatch took the Pitzel children to Toronto, in the company of Minnie Williams, and that if he could be found he could clear up the mystery of their death.

An attorney went from Chicago to Little Rock to treat with the authorities of Arkansas for the release of the old man, and the strongest influence will be used to secure all he knows. One other man now held by the Chicago police is thought to know enough to convict Holmes. This is Pat Quinlan; but in convicting Holmes he will also convict himself, so he has the strongest incentive to keep his mouth shut. On the other hand, Hatch will have the reward of liberty for his disclosures, in case the latter are conclusive. So it is upon him that the police pin their faith.

WEATHER AND CROPS.

Not a State Report Tells of Unfavorable Conditions.

The reports as to conditions of crops throughout the country and the general influence of weather on growth, cultivation and harvest are summarized by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as follows:

Illinois.—Exceedingly favorable week. Severe local storms northwest counties on Friday, damage not irreparable. Corn growing splendidly, roasting ears in early fields. Oats, wheat and rye threshing retarded. Late potatoes, gardens, pastures and second crop clover, millet and fodder crops growing finely. Fruit abundant in central and southern sections. Fall plowing general in same sections.

Wisconsin.—Heavy soaking rains have generally benefited corn and potatoes. Pastures again becoming green and milk supply increasing. Threshing and fall plowing now general. Cranberries promise a fair crop. Tobacco growing finely.

Michigan.—Very beneficial showers in southern half of State, but not enough rain in northern half. Corn and potatoes generally improved, but pastures are still very poor. Oats harvest well along, straw short and yield of grain light.

Indiana.—Good growing weather, with several rains. Corn earing and growing fast. Potatoes look well. Pastures recovering. Wheat and rye threshing done. Oats threshing continues. Fall plowing progresses rapidly.

South Dakota.—Temperature averaged about normal. Fair to copious, though scattered, night showers benefited all late crops, but more general rains needed. Fine harvesting weather and wheat harvest advanced. Corn growing rapidly and potatoes and flax improving.

Nebraska.—Small grain harvest nearly completed, and some threshing done; yield very heavy in northwestern section. Corn has continued to suffer from drought in southeastern section, where about one-half crop is now expected. Corn in northern part of State needs rain, but is not damaged; in southeastern part it continues good.

Kansas.—Abundant rains in west half of State, light rains in east half, greatly benefited all crops west, permitting threshing and haying east. Harvest begun in western counties. Much corn dead in Dickinson, Cloud and Washington Counties for want of rain this season.

Iowa.—Temperature and sunshine about normal. Considerable damage to crops by local wind and hail storms. Oats harvest about completed and threshing in progress with heavy yields. Corn steadily maintaining its lead and promises to break previous records.

Missouri.—Threshing, stacking and haying progressed rapidly under favorable conditions, except in eastern counties, where they were delayed by showers, with further damage to grain and hay. Corn is in roasting ear. Sorghum, millet, tobacco, potatoes and apples doing well.

North Dakota.—Weather favorable, but considerable damage done by heavy hailstorms, and some damage by smut and rust. Harvesting wheat will begin this week. Rye and barley nearly all cut. Corn backward.

Kentucky.—Cool and cloudy with well distributed showers. Wheat and oats in shock damaged by heavy rains. Condition of corn exceptionally fine. Tobacco progressing finely and some complaint of too rapid growth. Pastures greatly improved by rains. Warmer dry weather needed.

Oklahoma.—Temperature and sunshine slightly above normal. Precipitation consisted of local rains badly distributed. Crops of all kinds made good growth. Rain will be needed next week.

Arkansas.—Crops somewhat improved, though showers have been too frequent for best results. Upland cotton very promising, but lowland cotton very poor stand and not fruiting well. Corn continues very fine generally. Fruit fine and plentiful.

Minnesota.—Week cool and dry, very favorable for harvesting and maturing grain. Threshing begun, barley big yield. Potatoes excellent. Pastures and corn much improved. Haying nearly completed, yields generally light.

Close of the Harvey-Horr Debate.

While it is not likely that the Horr-Harvey debate has had the result of converting any one from his deep-rooted convictions it may, and undoubtedly has, broadened the views of many. The mere fact that Mr. Horr and Mr. Harvey could keep each other so busy in making replies is of some value as an indication that the subject is broad enough to admit of inspection from opposing sides.

From the opening of the finance controversy there has been a general feeling that the public would be helped and enlightened by the collection of the arguments on both sides and the arraying of these arguments one against the other. Through Mr. Harvey and Mr. Horr each faction to the financial question has presented its case, and in such a way that the arguments pro and con come into immediate contrast. The rules of debate forbid a contestant to submit an opinion for which he cannot immediately offer a logical explanation, the result being that there is little chance for the slurring of doubtful points and the suppression of adverse facts which are possible in a mere ex parte argument.

It is, of course, to be regretted that the debaters buried their arguments in such an enormous mass of verbiage, but the arguments are there and may well repay the digging out. On the whole, a public which has shown a genuine desire to get enlightenment on the financial issue can hardly fail to find some profit in this general stirring up of the fundamental facts.

The Comic Side of The News

Arizona comes to the front with a petrified human heart. That's mighty hard to beat.

Mrs. Frank Leslie is coming home again. There will be general curiosity to learn his name.

Michigan has decided that for judicial purposes an oath administered by telephone is binding. That decision seems to be sound.

Cincinnati has a woman's street-cleaning brigade. 'Tis woman who rules the world, and the broom is oftentimes her weapon.

Speaking of the silver movement the Chattanooga Times refers to "the sober second thought in Kentucky." Is there any such thing?

An Aard wolf in the New York zoological garden's "happy family" made a meal of three terrier pups the other day. That was indeed Aard.

The rubber trust announces that it will materially raise prices Sept. 1. In other words it purposes to substitute an "o" for the "u" in its name.

For the first time in five years Kansas and Nebraska have all all the rain they want. This is also the first year that "rainmakers" have kept out of those States.

A New York paper demands "some sort of invention which will make shipwrecks safe." That isn't a bad idea. But after it is secured we give notice now that we shall rise and demand an invention to make railway wrecks enjoyable.

TWO MOBS IN A RIOT.

DESPERATE RACE RIOT AT SPRING VALLEY, ILL.

Italians Commit a Brutal Crime Under the Plea of Avenging a Comrade's Murder—Men, Women and Children Are Shot and Clubbed.

Feud of Long Standing.

A settlement of 200 negroes, who live in what is called the "Location," near No. 3 shaft, two miles west of Spring Valley, Ill., was attacked by 500 white miners. Many shots were fired and bricks and missiles of every description were used by the combatants. Forty of the negroes were wounded and several of them may die.

The uprising was caused by a white man, an inoffensive and popular young Italian, being held up, robbed, and almost murdered by a gang of five negroes, between the city and the "Location." Barney Role, the man who was assailed, was coming from Spring Valley on his way home when he was suddenly ordered to halt by four or five negroes, who made him throw up his hands while they robbed him of $50 and his watch. After robbing Role the negroes fired five shots into his body, three taking effect. The wounded man could give no description of the men except that they were negroes whom he had frequently seen around the "Location."

This robbery and attempt at murder happened at 1 o'clock Sunday morning. The police were at once notified, and a force of twelve extra men was put on to hunt the murderers down. At 7 o'clock in the morning five colored men were arrested and brought to the jail.

By this time the affair was pretty well known throughout the city and a big crowd gathered around the city bastile. There were cries of lynching. Some one rang the fire bell, augmenting the crowd still more, until the police were compelled to remove the prisoners and bring them to a better place of safety. As the mob became greater it became bolder. A brass band was got out and about 500 men marched to General Manager Dalzell's house. A committee went in to see the manager and told him the whites wanted him to discharge every colored man or they would run them out of town themselves. Manager Dalzell refused to submit to their demands. He was jeered, and the mob struck out on its march to the "Location." When they were about half way there Manager Dalzell, by taking a circuitous route, headed off the enraged whites.

Mayor Delmorga, who is an Italian, was in the buggy with him. The Mayor stepped out of the buggy and addressed the crowd. He counseled peace, but they brushed him aside, saying if Dalzell would not run such a murderous set of negroes out of town they could. They continued the march. A little way further they met Chief of Police Hicks and a few deputies. The officers were unable to check the progress of the march.

Mob Makes the Attack.

The mob, headed by the Italian band, with music playing, then went direct to the negro village. The column proceeded slowly and the band rendered several national anthems. About fifty members of the mob were armed with shotguns, rifles, and revolvers, and the others carried clubs and sharpened sticks. The men wanted blood, and the constant warcry, given in Italian, was: "Kill the niggers! Drive them out! Blood for blood!"

The negroes had been warned of the intended onslaught of the Italians, but were deceived by the appearance of the brass band. As houses were reached the rioters struck out the windows and where doors were locked broke them down. The interior was ransacked, the women insulted, and the men dragged forth and clubbed and shot.

That there was not a large number of immediate fatalities was not the fault of the rioters, as they used every endeavor in their power to kill the men outright. One reason many negroes escaped was that the weapons of the rioters were mostly old, rusty guns that had not been used for many years, and in addition the men were not skilled in the use of them. Had modern rifles been discharged in the same manner as the old shotguns and muzzle-loading rifles the list of dead would have been enormous.

The raid of the Italian miners upon the negroes had been contemplated for several weeks. In fact, ever since the negroes were imported into Spring Valley at the close of the three months' strike last summer the miners speaking a foreign tongue have been laying plans to drive them out.

THEY CROSS IN BALLOONS.

The Latest Scheme for Smuggling Chinamen.

A Montreal dispatch says: The revenue officers have been astounded by the discovery of the latest scheme of the smugglers of Chinamen for getting the Celestials across the lines into the United States. The scheme is the neatest that has ever been concocted and the authorities are at a loss to know what to do to frustrate it. There is a very large and clever gang of smugglers with headquarters in this city and it is from here that most of the operations are said to start. Recently the actions of the gang were stopped while attempting to smuggle Chinamen by means of a rope stretched across the river in the vicinity of Ogdensburg. Now the gang have directed their abilities to the vicinity of Toronto and Niagara Falls and this time the transportation is by means of balloons. The Celestials are shipped from various points to that vicinity and wait there for favorable conditions for their novel mode of travel.

In the dead of night the balloons ascend under the guidance of expert aeronauts, who pilot the way across to some point in New York. Several parties have already been sent and landed safely. Chinamen are met as soon as they arrive in British Columbia and if they wish to go to the United States they are made to sign a contract agreeing to pay $200 at so much per week. For this sum they are guaranteed safe transportation across the border. The Chinamen are then brought to Montreal. The large Chinese boarding houses here provide accommodations for them until all is ready. Then they are sent to the vicinity of the Niagara River.

The balloons meanwhile are shipped in sections to the starting point and when everything is ready the men are taken to some out-of-the-way spot, where the ascent is made. If wind conditions are favorable the balloon is safely carried across the line and a stop made in some unfrequented part of the State.

News of Minor Note.

Comedian Edward Leslie stopped a runaway team at New York and saved four lives.

A. C. Cade was shot and killed at Sparta, O. T., by Bud Ray, marshal of the town.

As a result of a feud a dynamite bomb was thrown in the hamlet of Mart, Texas, and five members of the Phillips family were killed outright.

Hector Louis Francois Pessard, a well-known publicist, died at Paris. He was at different times connected with a number of Paris papers.

HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM OVER THE STATE.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties, and General Indiana News Notes.

Minor State News.

THE divorce business at Fort Wayne is on an alarming increase.

SPICELAND is to have a new bank headed by Murray Wildman.

SAMUEL DOOD, an aged veteran, was found dead at Logansport.

MILO THOMAS' hardware store at Corunna is in ashes. Loss, $15,000.

THE business portion of Kent, near Madison, was wiped out by flames.

PETER WEBER was fatally burned by a gas explosion at an Anderson glass factory.

WAKARUSA is jubilant over the prospect of getting a buggy and wagon factory.

WALTER WILKINS, 15, was thrown from a colt near Shelbyville, and fatally injured.

MRS. ELIZABETH DAVIS, said to be 104 years old, is dead at the Delaware County Infirmary.

WM. MCQUEARY attempted to board an electric car at Evansville, recently, and was killed.

EARL FOREMAN was instantly killed at Goshen, by falling in front of a wagon loaded with stone.

WM. DOUGLASS, aged 21, committed suicide with laudanum under the floor of the dining hall at the Wabash fair grounds.

PROSECUTOR BALDWIN of Noblesville, says he will stop the sale of the Indianapolis People, and other obscene papers, in that city.

THREE prisoners in the Madison jail escaped by sawing out several iron bars in a window and lowering themselves to the jail yard.

FRANK TUTTLE'S barn was burned, south of Muncie, recently. A self-binder, wheat, corn, and fifty tons of hay burned, with no insurance.

ALL fruit growers agree that southern Indiana's apple crop, this season, will be the heaviest and the best that has been raised for many years.

THE One hundred and twenty-fourth Indiana Regiment and the Fifteenth Indiana Battery will hold their annual joint reunion at Lynn, Sept. 4 and 5.

RICHARD WILHITE of Fountain County, was a drummer boy during the war. He is now insane over the delusion that he is again playing the sticks on the battlefield.

THE City Council of West Indianapolis unanimously passed a resolution offering a reward of $500 for any information leading to arrest of the murderer of little Ida Gebhardt.

DAVID MARTIN, aged 15, and Al. Ruskin of Greentown, aged 11, were on a bed playing with a revolver, when the weapon was discharged, tearing away the jaw of Ruskin. The injury is probably fatal.

WALTER, the 17-year-old son of A. J. McPike of Paragon, was stealing a ride on an I. & V. passenger train recently. In jumping from the train, his head struck against a car on the side track and he died from the effects.

WILLIAM ECKERMAN, the 19-year-old son of Louis Eckerman, of Terre Haute, has been missing for several months, and from information received it is believed he was drowned in Lake Michigan, while working on a Chicago boat.

ONE farmer in St. Joseph County reports three kinds of potato bugs, the last variety being to all appearances poison-proof. These, with cabbage worms, grasshoppers, chinch bugs, Hessian flies, the early drouth and the late frost, made things quite interesting for that farmer, and he is philosophically wondering, "What next?"

JAMES M. SANKEY of Terre Haute, Geo. W. Hall of Raleigh, and Samuel Bowan of South Bend, representing the State Live Stock Sanitary Commission, have just completed an investigation of the extent of the Texas cattle fever in Putnam County. They report that the disease has spread and now appears in four counties—Putnam, Hendricks, Park, and Morgan, and that 250 head of cattle have been quarantined. Fifteen deaths have occurred so far, and every effort is being made to suppress the disease. Dr. F. A. Bolsar of New Castle, State Veterinary, was present during the investigation.

A. D. HENSLER and other farmers of Liberty Township, Howard County, were made the victims of the old tin box swindle last week. A man giving his name as John Schmidt, a horse buyer, went to Hensler several days ago, engaged boarding and Mr. Hensler's assistance in buying horses, they purchasing a large number of animals, some being paid for and some not. Schmidt brought with him a small tin box which he said contained $2,000 in cash, which he kept at the Hensler home while buying and shipping. The other day Schmidt mysteriously disappeared and has not since been heard of. The defrauded farmers took the tin box to Kokomo, expecting to be made whole out of the $2,000 it was supposed to contain, but when Sheriff Sumption cut it open with a hatchet there was revealed to sight two ordinary clay bricks, nothing more.

ONE of the boldest robberies ever perpetrated in that section of the country occurred the other night within a stone's throw of the city limits of Union City. The residence of David Potter, just north-west of the city limits, was the scene. Mr. Potter was aroused about 2 o'clock by a loud crash. He jumped from his bed and was confronted by four men with red handkerchiefs over their faces. Mr. Potter was seized and bound, and his wife and son were similarly treated. Mr. Potter had taken a large quantity of wheat to town the day before, and it is supposed the robbers entered for the purpose of getting the money he received. However, they found nothing but a certificate of deposit from one of the banks. The robbers left with but a small sum and a gold watch. Mr. Potter was bound with wire and his flesh was cruelly cut. The marauders came in buggies and left in that way. The doors were burst in with fence rails.

JOHN DUNN, employed at the Kenneth quarries, took a walk on the Panhandle track, and while in the act of stopping to light a pipe was struck by the Chicago express and instantly killed. Dunn was 45 years old. The accident occurred near Kenneth station, four miles from Logansport.

WHILE fishing with a seining party, on the Wabash River south of Williamsport, William Keefer fell from a boat and was drowned. It is supposed he became entangled in the seine, as the young man did not rise after sinking. No help could be rendered him. He was a respected young farmer living near Williamsport.

COMMODORE MCCAMMON, aged 41, was struck by a south-bound freight train on the Pennsylvania road and instantly killed. The accident occurred at Speed's Station, eight miles north of Jeffersonville. McCammon leaves a wife and

CHAPTER XXVI.—(Continued.)

"Will you tell me how and when you saw your mother, Hilda?" asked Paul Fulton, humbly.

She told him the story of her mother's death. Through the hard, worldly nature some sharp sting of remorse pierced him.

"Great heavens!" he cried, "to think that I came here, seeking my new life, and find my wife's grave and my living child!"

"She gave me one message for you," said Lady Hilda, gravely. "It was to tell you that, dying, she blessed and forgave you."

"Did she say that?" asked Paul Fulton, hoarsely, while his eyes grew dim with tears. "Poor Maggie, she loved me dearly and well."

That moment's softening touched his daughter more than any words could have done.

"For your mother's sake, say to me that we are friends."

She turned to him and laid her hand in his.

"It shall be so," she said. "For her sake I repeat her pardon and her love."

"Hilda," he said, gently, "you are an angel to me; if you had sent me from you in disgust I should have gone straight to the bad, for I am a reckless man. You have saved me. I will try—it is never too late—I will try and be more worthy of you; I will not shame you again. I told you that it was my life you held in your hand. Now time presses. Listen to me. We must both preserve our secret. I have entered upon a fresh life. I am rich, and men respect me. I am going to marry; nay, do not start from me, child; that cannot hurt your mother now. I am going to marry one who will do great things for me. I see honor and rank and the good word and praise of men before me. I see a better and higher life, but all this depends upon you. I suffered, Hilda; no one knew it. Shame and disgrace cankered my very soul. I believe I hated your mother because her loyal heart ever found excuses for me. I could not suffer shame again. If our secret should become known, were I to say you are my child, or if you were to call me father, my story must be known; men must know that I am Stephen Hurst, the ex-convict; and if this should come to pass (mind, I hate heroics, I say it calmly), if this ever gets known, I will kill myself. I shall not wait for scorn and contempt, to destroy me. You see I leave my life in your hands."

"I have no wish to make it known," she replied sorrowfully; "my happiness is destroyed. I cannot endure to look in my husband's face and know that I have deceived him. I have no business here; my place is amongst the poor and shame-stricken. If Lord Bayneham knew my story, I believe he would send me from him. If I conceal it, it will kill me. Where am I to look for help? Who can aid me?"

"Those are false, sentimental notions," said Paul Fulton, more touched than he cared to own by her sorrowful face and despairing words. "You have done no wrong; you are a gentleman's daughter. Lady Hutton made you a lady in every sense of the word. Keep your secret, and you will be happy enough."

"I did not expect you to understand me," she said; "it is the concealment I hate. But we must not linger. What more have you to say?"

"Nothing," he replied. "You know I leave here early in the morning. I shall never return, Hilda. We must remain as strangers, and do not forget that you hold my life in your hands. I shall avoid you—it will be less painful than seeing you, and not daring to claim you as my child. Are you willing?"

"Yes," she replied in the same hopeless tone, "it will be best so; only promise me one thing—if I die first, you will tell the whole truth to my husband; he will never betray you."

He promised without the least intention of ever keeping his word, and they turned toward the house.

"Hilda," said Paul Fulton, "you are my own child. Let me hear my name once. Say 'God bless you, father,' before we part."

She turned her fair, sad face to him, and he never forgot it as he saw it then. The breath of the summer wind was not more sweet and faint than the voice that said: "God bless you, father! Good-bye!"

"If I had kept her with me," said Paul Fulton, as through the mist of warm tears he watched Lady Hilda enter the house, "I should have been a different man."

That night, while darkness and silence fell upon the old castle, there was one beneath its roof who seemed to die a living death. That night a fair young face lost its radiance and youth; a pure, loving heart rebelled wildly against dark, stern fate; a golden head tossed wearily to and fro; and in the darkness there came to her again those solemn, terrible words, "I visit the sins of the fathers upon the children."

The young, beautiful, and beloved lady of Bayneham prayed for death; life had grown too painful to bear.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Lady Bayneham had been thinking—a mental exercise she did not often indulge in. This world for her was but a path of roses, in which she had found few thorns, and she had nothing much that required thought; but this night, when a young heart near her was breaking with sorrow, Lady Bayneham could not sleep, for she was thinking.

She knew the world well; its strange ways were old legends to her. She had heard many stories where a handsome, accomplished man of the world prided himself upon winning the liking of a beautiful young wife. The whole artillery of flirtation was a well-known business to Lady Bayneham. If a note had been clandestinely slipped into Lady Bayneham's hand, she would calmly and quietly have torn it in pieces before the writer's face, without the trouble of words. She had seen how Hilda blushed and trembled when she received the note; and the brilliant, experienced woman of the world felt something like pity for the young novice.

"I have no doubt," said Lady Bayneham to herself, "that she is dreadfully puzzled what to do over the matter. Poor child!—she is so simple, and so sweet. I think I must tell Claude—he will know just what to do; and if I speak to her, she may consider it interference."

The countess believed she was performing a kindly, motherly action in seeking her son, and telling him what she had seen; accordingly she was the first in the breakfast room. Mr. Fulton, in accordance with his arrangements on the previous evening, left while the morning was still dawning. Barbara Earle had taken breakfast, and gone out into the grounds. Lady Hilda was in her room. Hence the countess had a clear field; and when her son entered, she went into action at once. With her second cup of tea she commenced a preamble.

"I think you know me too well, Claude, ever to suspect that I could be capable of any impertinence or interference; is it not so?"

The earl assured his mother that she possessed all the cardinal virtues and no faults.

"I am speaking seriously, my son," continued the lady. "I have a sincere liking and affection for your beautiful wife; but she is very young, and knows nothing of the world. She is so innocent and simple that I mention to you a circumstance I have observed, which in another would not have excited my attention."

"What has Hilda been doing?" asked Lord Bayneham, with a smile; "has she broken some terribly severe law of etiquette?"

"No," replied the countess; "Lady Hilda's manner is perfect. It is not that, but our late visitor, Mr. Fulton, was a very handsome man, and one who could fascinate where he chose."

"Well, and what can that possibly have to do with Hilda's shortcomings?" demanded Lord Bayneham quickly.

"If you will allow me time, Claude, I can explain," said the countess, with dignity.

"On the first evening of his arrival, we all remarked how much he seemed struck with Hilda. Mind, I insinuate nothing against him; he is only a man of the world; but I believe he has been trying to get up a sentimental kind of friendship for her."

"What makes you think so?" asked the young earl, indifferently, for he saw nothing remarkable in any one admiring his wife.

"I noticed a little circumstance that struck me rather unpleasantly," replied Lady Bayneham. "I saw him on two occasions slip a note into her hand."

"You must have been mistaken, mother," said her son, quickly, his face flushing hotly. "My wife would never receive a letter from any one."

"It is true," continued the countess; "I do not say there was anything in them; for, knowing Hilda to be one of the purest as she is one of the loveliest of women, I am sure there could be nothing wrong about it. I would speak to her myself, but it is a delicate matter to interfere with; but with a few well-chosen words you can put her on her guard; she is so very young and inexperienced."

"You are very kind, mother," said Lord Bayneham, rising hastily; "but I cannot understand how a note could have nothing in it. I must see Hilda and ask her about it."

"Do not be rash or foolish, Claude," said his mother; "there is no necessity for any scenes or any emotion. Speak to your wife quietly, for perhaps there is nothing in it. Hilda never sees any one but you. Do not force me to regret that I have treated you like a sensible man."

"I must have it explained," said Lord Bayneham, quietly but firmly; "I must see those notes, or know what they were about. None shall either insult or act impertinently to my wife."

"I do not think any one will ever try," said Lady Bayneham; "be prudent and sensible, Claude. Suppose, after all, there was nothing on the paper but the name of a book or a song?"

"Tell me how they were given," he said, "and I can judge for myself."

Lady Bayneham, who began to repent of her undertaking, then told him of the two little scenes she had witnessed, and his face grew dark.

"If that man dared to write nonsense to my wife, I would follow him to London and thrash him!" he cried. "I can see how it is Hilda did not tell me; she was afraid I should quarrel with him."

"Nothing of the kind," said Lady Bayneham, trying to allay the tempest she had aroused. "She very likely never thought of naming it at all; she cannot run to you every time any one either speaks or writes to her."

"Then why have you named it?" asked Lord Bayneham, impatiently. "If there is nothing wrong, extraordinary, improper, wonderful, or anything else in it, why did you come to me?"

"Claude, I quite despair of you," said the countess, haughtily. "I have explained my motives. Your wife is young, beautiful and untrained in the world's ways; it is your place to warn her, and see that her very innocence and simplicity do not cause her to act imprudently."

Lord Bayneham sighed; he was not quite clear as to what his mother really meant. He saw one thing plainly; she was not actuated by any unkind feeling toward Hilda; but, before he had time to reply, Barbara entered, her face glowing with exercise, and her hand filled with choice fern leaves.

"See, aunt," she said, touching Lady Bayneham's face with her fresh red lips, "I have found all these treasures; they will make your collection complete. Good morning, Claude; you look—well, not one-half as bright as the morning."

For the first time she noticed the uneasy expression of both faces.

"I am sorry to hear Hilda is not well this morning," she continued. "Pauline tells me she has not left her room; so I will go and see her."

"If you are not otherwise engaged, Claude," said Lady Bayneham, as Miss Earle quitted the room, "perhaps you will go with me round the shrubbery. I should like a short walk before the heat of the day comes on."

"I am quite at your service, mother," he replied, listlessly, longing to be with Hilda, and read, for his own satisfaction, the truth in her beautiful eyes.

"Let us go down the Lady's Walk," she said, taking her son's arm. "I like the quiet shade."

They turned down the broad shady path called the Lady's Walk; tall branching trees met there overhead, forming a depth of cool shade.

Lady Bayneham wished some time to elapse before her son saw his wife, resolving to give a change to his thoughts and ideas. Of all fatal deeds that morning she committed the most fatal.

The morning air was soft and clear, the birds sang sweetly, the flowers bloomed, and all nature was smiling and gay. As they drew near the end of the walk Lord Bayneham saw something shining and glittering in the long thick grass.

"What have we here?" he said, stooping for the shining prize. He nearly dropped it again, in uncontrollable astonishment. It was his wife's bracelet, the one he had seen upon her arm the night before, and had spoken to his mother about; it was the very same; there were the costly pearls and the pale pure gold, with his initials and those of his wife entwined.

"Hilda's bracelet!" cried Lady Bayneham, in sheer wonder; "why, how did that come here? How careless to drop a valuable piece of jewelry like that! Is it injured?" she continued, for her son did not speak. "How strange that it should be here!" she said, taking it from his hand. "Why, Claude, Hilda wore this last evening; I saw it on her arm when you bade her good night. How came it here?"

No reply came from the young earl; but a strange dark look gathered over his handsome face, marring its beauty with passion.

"She must have been out this morning," said Lady Bayneham; "yet Pauline said she had not quitted her room. Can there have been a robbery, Claude?"

"We must inquire," said Lord Bayneham sternly. "This bracelet was on my wife's arm when I bade her good night; this morning I find it here; who has dropped it?"

For a moment the mother and son looked steadily at each other; then Lord Bayneham turned to re-enter the house. In the hall they met Lady Hilda's maid—pretty, smiling Pauline—who dropped her most coquettish courtesy before the young earl.

"Is Lady Hilda down yet?" asked the countess.

"My lady has been indisposed all the morning," replied the maid; "she has not yet left her room."

"Has she not been in the park?" asked Lady Bayneham, quickly.

"My lady is ill," said Pauline again, with a look of astonishment, "and has not left her room."

"Hush, mother," said the earl, when the maid had passed on. "Ask no questions from servants. Hilda will explain it, and we shall find no mystery after all. If she is dressed we will go to her room."

"Perhaps you had better go alone," said Lady Bayneham; "if there has been no robbery it is all right. Since Lady Rushe's jewel robbery I have always been nervous."

"I prefer your accompanying me, mother, if you will," said Lord Bayneham; "in your eyes I read a half doubt of my wife. Come with me, that I may show you how groundless it is."

They went together up the broad staircase and through the corridor to the door of Lady Hilda's room. A sweet, low voice, that expressed both pain and fatigue, bade them enter. Lady Hilda had risen, and was sitting in her little boudoir, the untasted breakfast on a table by her side. Lord Bayneham forgot his errand when he saw her pale face and dim eyes.

"Have you been ill, Hilda?" he asked, anxiously. "Why did you not send for me?"

"I did not sleep," she replied, looking with some surprise at her visitors, "and my head aches. Do you want me for anything?" she asked, "or is this a morning call?"

She tried to smile, but Lord Bayneham saw her pale lips tremble; then he remembered his errand.

"We have been puzzled," he replied, with a smile. "I have been for a walk with my mother this morning—quite a good boy, you see. Last night, when I left you, you wore this bracelet; it was fastened on your arm, and this morning I found it in the Lady's Walk, and you have not quitted your room. How came it there, Hilda?"

He held it out as he spoke, and a long, low cry came from her pale lips.

"Look!" cried Lady Bayneham, and Claude, springing forward, caught his wife as she was falling, pale and senseless, to the ground.

"There is your answer," said the dignified countess, as she rang the bell. "Take care, Claude. It seems to me that there is a dark shadow hanging over our house. Why should she faint? There was nothing so alarming in your words."

(To be continued.)

Watt and the Screw Propeller.

In the case of most of the greatest mechanical inventions—Watt's among the number—it has not been the ideas or the inventions by themselves that have brought success, prosperity, or even satisfaction to their owners. These results have had to be painfully and slowly evolved out of long and costly practical demonstration and experience of the alleged merits of the invention. James Watt toiled, suffered and endured for more than twenty years, after his discovery of separate condensation in 1765, before he could see that his steam engine would ever bring him anything but disappointment, loss and misery.

It is highly characteristic, however, of Watt's fertile and original genius, and significant of what he might have done to develop the marine engine at the commencement of its history, had he taken the matter up, that upon the two principal occasions we know of when he applied his mind to the subject he made very pregnant suggestions. Thus, when Watt sent drawings of his engines to Soho in 1770 for Mr. Boulton to construct one for experiment, and had been told that it was intended to make an engine to draw canal boats, Watt wrote: "Have you ever considered a spiral oar for that purpose, or are you for two wheels?" And to make this meaning clear he sketched a rough but graphic outline of a screw propeller. This is, perhaps, the earliest suggestion of a screw propeller, except that it was proposed by Daniel Bernouilli, the mathematician, in 1752.—Nature.

Don't Twist Your Syllables.

The unconscious exchange of syllables is a form of mis-speech to which most of us are occasionally subject, and the remarkable words thus evolved cause considerable amusement to the quick-witted listeners.

A certain young lady who, to her intense mortification, often reverses her vowels thus, says she is entirely unconscious of it, even after speaking.

One summer evening she was sauntering with a friend toward the village postoffice of the little town where they were staying. On the way they encountered an acquaintance with a handful of letters.

"Ah, good evening,' she said, in her peculiarly gracious, suave manner. "Are you strailing out for your mole?"

The mystified young woman made some inarticulate reply and passed on. As soon as the friend recovered her gravity she gasped: "I suppose you intended to ask Miss May if she was strolling out for her mail?" The same young lady was relating a sad story of various misfortunes which had overwhelmed a dear friend.

"Think," she concluded pathetically, "of losing husband, children, property and home at one swell foop!"

A roar of laughter rent the roof, and for that time she spoke no more.

Pneumatic Shoe Soles Now.

The pneumatic principle has been applied to boots. The air tubes lie between the upper and lower soles, and give a springy movement to the foot calculated to reduce friction with the ground and to alleviate fatigue.

The Order of the Templars was founded in 1119.

THE question, Which is the most useful of all the inventions of the present age? would be a very interesting subject for discussion in a debating society, but the question, Which is the most popular of recent inventions? is hardly open for debate. The bicycle is so far in the lead that other competitors for popular favor are not even within sight.

And there is good reason for its great popularity, for the bicycle is a real treasure—a source of health and of power as well as of delight. Pleasure trips are no longer restricted to slow and very limited excursions on foot, or to expensive drives, or to the confinement of public conveyances; for the bicyclist can get the full benefit and pleasure of a brisk walk without the fatigue of it, while at the same time getting over more ground than a horse can cover, and enjoying the variety of scene which comes with rapid motion.

But it is the women who have most reason to bless the inventor of the bicycle, for it has done more to enfranchise them from the restraints imposed upon them by time and distance than anything else that we can think of could have done. Not only young women, but women who are well along in middle life; not only light women, but pretty heavy women; not only robust women, but delicate women—any woman who is reasonably active can ride a bike, and soon learns to feel at home upon it.

Then, instead of having to support a weight of perhaps 150 or even 200 pounds every time she puts her foot down, she only requires to exert a pressure of perhaps ten or twenty pounds, and instead of covering perhaps two feet at every step, she will advance over six feet for every revolution of her wheel. Thus she will get exhilarating open-air exercise, which will refresh and strengthen her for indoor work without much expenditure of time.

The New Woman Awheel.

Breaking a Century Record on the Elgin-Aurora (Ill.) Course.

Before long the bicycle will compel the improvement of the country roads, and the farmer's wife instead of having to wait till her husband has time to hitch up and take her for a drive, will mount her wheel at any time and go off to visit her neighbor or to do an errand in the next village; and will get through her housework all the more easily afterwards.

The price of bicycle is kept pretty well up by the ever enlarging demand, but the time must come before very long when the supply will exceed the demand, and then prices will fall, and almost every family will find some way of getting a wheel.

The Quality of Tact.

Tact is not dishonesty, writes Frances E. Lanigan, in the Ladies' Home Journal. It does not mean the suppression of the truth nor the expression of an untruth, but it does mean the withholding of gratuitous disagreements from arguments in which they are quite superfluous; it also means the effort to induce an agreement kindly when possible, and if an agreement is impossible it demands a gracious acceptance of opposing views. Tact cannot be said to be synonymous with policy; tact is always honest and policy cannot invariably be said to have that distinguishing mark.

The Dainty Picnic Girl.

At dinner in the leafy woods
Her lemonade she sips,
And nibbles at the cake she holds
Between her finger tips.
Her beau is there, and ere the rest
Are half done eating, she Declares she has partaken of
"A great sufficiency."

But when she homeward goes at night,
She to the cupboard flies,
And pork and beans, with beef and greens,
And pudding, cakes and pies,
She wildly grabs with both her hands
To hunger overcome,
And wags her jaws without a pause
And says, "Yum, yum, yum, yum!"

About Bargains.

Every woman whose incomes requires her to pause and ask the price of what she buys catches the bargain fever at some period of her life, but those who have enough to live on in reasonable comfort recover from it and thereafter immune. The intelligent shopper soon learns that the real bargains for persons who seek really good articles are in the main those things that are sold toward the end of the season to save the cost of storage, to make room for new goods, and to avoid the disaster that attends a change of fashion. A few of the shops that address themselves almost exclusively to the rich have bargains about which no great fuss is made. There is never a crowd in these shops, though their business may aggregate millions a year. Many of their sales are made in single large orders. Others are made through correspondence. They send salesmen with goods to the homes of rich women who find it inconvenient to come out for their shopping. Many thousands of dollars' worth of the costliest goods are sent out upon approval every day.

Shrewd Business Wife.

Congressman Johnson of North Dakota has a wife who is of rare value to him as a business manager. Mr. Johnson is a farmer on an extensive scale and during his sojourns in Washington Mrs. Johnson assumes entire control of 1,800 acres under cultivation. In the spring of 1893 Mr. Johnson invested heavily in hay lands. Before the hay was ready to cut he was called to Washington by an extra session of Congress. He tried to find a man who would attend to his hay for him during his absence, and, failing, allowed his wife to assume charge of the big hay farm. The harvest came on, and Mrs. Johnson was in the fields bright and early in her top buggy, and, when one field was cut, selecting another, and then another. All of the hay of the Johnson farm was mown, and then Mrs. Johnson leased hay tracts in the vicinity of Petersburg until the total cut amounted to almost 300 tons. Mr. Johnson himself says that he never in his life had a crop looked after in a more business-like way than the hay crop of 1893.

False Hair Unfashionable.

It is reported that the style of coiffure which will be the fashion among women this year is causing great depression in the artificial hair trade, which in this country gives special employment to perhaps 2,000 or 3,000 persons, and in France to about twice that number. This season the hair is to be worn much after the fashion of our grandmothers, flat and hiding the ears; but, instead of the old-time ringlets, the coiffure will be carefully undulated. The effect, it is said, will be striking, but the style does not lend itself to the wearing of postiches, or chignons, of more or less prominence. Whenever there is a demand for these articles the workers in artificial hair, as distinct from the coiffeur, are very busy and make a good deal of profit, and, of course, should fashion be against them there is corresponding depression.

Men Are Dependent.

Mrs. Russell Sage, the wife of the Wall street millionaire, is an earnest advocate of the higher education for women. In a recent interview she said: "Women have a wonderful ability for conducting business affairs thoroughly and methodically, without having had the least training for them. I know a woman who has been treasurer in a large concern for years, yet she had no business education or discipline before she got the place. There are dozens of such instances. A woman left a widow with a family of children will struggle along as best she can, and bring them up without bothering anybody about them. A man left in a similar situation immediately gets another wife. Men are far more dependent upon women than they are aware of, and this dependence is pitiful when they are left alone."

Best Type of Beauty.

Miss Edith Giffin, selected as prize-winner by the committee of judges in the California beauty contest.

The Empress Eugenie, before leaving Paris for Cape Martin, gave Lieut. Col. Bizot the campaigning kit of the prince imperial, and also that which she herself used in her sad pilgrimage to the scene of her son's death in Zululand.

Mrs. Deacon, since her divorce, does not encourage exhibitions of friendship or sympathy toward her.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Let Us All Laugh.

This world would land in glory yet
And make a lively stir,
If in these days we could forget
The mad thermometer!
—Atlanta Constitution.

The Wife—It must be bedtime, Husband—Hardly; the baby hasn't waked up yet.—Life.

"Hi, Jimmy, wot's de matter?" "Back's blistered." "Swimmin' or lickin'?" "Both."—Chicago Record.

"They say Hamsby is generous to a fault." "Yes, he is, if it happens to be one of his own faults."—Buffalo Express.

Host—Never shall I forget the time when I first drew this sword. Chorus—When was that? Host—At a raffle.—Firefly.

Young Man (in periodical store)—I want a Fireside Companion. Lady Clerk (archly)—How would I do?—Texas Siftings.

A.—I hear that your friend X. has gone to South America. Was it upon his physician's advice? B.—No; his lawyer's.—Tid-Bits.

The summer girl is great on changing her suit. She goes seaward with diamonds and returns home with hearts.—Yonkers Statesman.

Belle—Mr. Joiyer is such a nice man. He said I had a voice like a bird. Nell—Yes; he told me you sang like an owl.—Philadelphia Record.

Jagson—I see that your pretty typewriter is gone. What's the matter? Hogson—Married. Jagson—The girl? Hogson—No; I!—Syracuse Post.

"Isn't he rather fast?" asked the anxious mother. "Yes, mamma, in one sense of the word. I don't think he can get away."—Indianapolis Journal.

How to make the new dress: Take the material for two skirts and make the sleeves, then take the material for one sleeve and make the skirt.—Nashville American.

Oh, sweetly tender was her look,
Her hair was bright as gold;
I bought three copies of her book,
And then her glance grew cold.
—Chicago Times-Herald.

Patient—The heat is so oppressive, doctor, I feel like committing suicide. Doctor—Oh, that would never do. As I said before, my friend, what you need is a change.—Life.

"That woman dispenses a great deal of social lemonade." "What do you mean?" "Simply that she is always saying sour things in a sweet way."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Papa!" "What is it, Johnny?" "I read a poem in my school reader which spoke of 'dogs of high degree.'" "Well?" "Papa, does that mean skye terriers?"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Nibbs—What a perfect poem the count's rich wife is!" Dibbs—Yes; the count is the only man I know of who can make poetry pay him thirty thousand a year.—New York World.

Won't some inventor, sage or mentor,
Find that chief of boons,
The wear-resisting, long-persisting,
Non-bagging pantaloons?
—New York Recorder.

She—Oh, my! there's something gone down my back! He—It's one of those thundering bugs, I suppose. "No; I guess it's one of those lightning bugs, George."—Yonkers Statesman.

Cawker—"Barlow made a rash prediction just now." Cumso—"What did he say?" Cawker—"He said that the time would come when it would be respectable to be honest."—Judge.

She—Do you know, Harry, father has forbidden you the house? He—Forbidden me the house! I never asked him for his house. His daughter is good enough for me.—Boston Transcript.

"Have you the 'Relics of By-Gone Days?'" asked the young lady, entering a book store. "Yes," replied the polite clerk, with a bow, "we have some of last year's calendars."—Yonkers Statesman.

If a bicycle's known as a "bike,"
A tricycle must be a "trike,"
And when winter comes round
It will doubtless be found
That an icycle goes as an "ike."
—Washington Star.

Lea (sadly)—I don't know what to do with that son of mine. He's been two years at the medical college, and still keeps at the foot of his class. Perrins (promptly)—Make a chiropodist of him.—Puck.

"Yes," said the girl who was chewing gum, "it is simply awful the way the poor people do suffer this frightful weather. How I pity them! And the worst of it is, of course, that one's hair simply won't stay in curl."—New York Recorder.

"And you say Dodkins is married?" "Yes." "Why, I thought he hadn't a cent of money." "He hadn't. But he's all right now. The young lady has any quantity of cash. All he will have to do now is to clip the coupons off the bonds of matrimony."—Washington Star.

Little Girl—Did the newspaper reporters notice your papa was at the great banquet last night? Little Boy—Yes. Little Girl—Mamma said she couldn't find your papa's name in the list. Little Boy—No, but the list ends up with "and others." That means papa. They always mention him that way.—New York Weekly.

Naughty Deacon.

Madge—"Have you see much of Mrs. Giddiwun of late, deacon?"

Deacon—"Well, what I haven't seen of her at the opera I saw when she was bicycling down the avenue against a stiff breeze yesterday."—New York World.

Magistrate—And why did you roam about in the streets during the night? Defendant—I was afraid to go home. Magistrate—Are you married? Defendant (joyfully)—Oh, your worship, I suppose you know what it is, too.—Tit-Bits.

•HORSEMEN•

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeny, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.

1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.

ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our PAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.

By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $1.00 per box.

ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS,

Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.

Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 60 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
No. 71614 $35. ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO., W. S. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

..... THE .....

GRAND WIND-UP

Of this season's business is now to commence. Everything must be turned into cash by September 1. Here is what we propose to do:

COMMENCING AUG. 3,

AND

ENDING SEPTEMBER 1,

We will sell any SUIT in our house, no matter what kind, light or heavy weight, at

ONE-HALF PRICE

This means a saving to you of 50 cents on every $1.00 worth of goods you buy.

Boys' Clothing,
Children's Clothing.
Men's Odd Pants,
Boys' Odd Pants,
Children's Knee Pants.

New suits can be bought from us cheaper than old ones can be mended.

Globe Clothing & Shoe Co.,

Gandy Block, AUBURN, IND.

Buy

Shull's

Shoes

Smoke
THE "DINGER!"

E. M. Bisher,
AUBURN.

LUNG'S

Restaurant & Lunch Room

Located Two Doors North of Kruger's Grocery, on Main Street.

BOARDERS WANTED
By MEAL, DAY and WEEK

ALSO
FURNISHED ROOMS.

We also carry a new and fresh stock of
CANDIES, FRUITS, TOBACCOS, CIGARS, ETC.

GIVE US A TRIAL

REMEMBER our Lunch Counter and Fresh Fruits.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,.....AUGUST 8, 1895.

CHANGE TRUSTEES

NEW BOARD FOR THE ENTIRE COUNTY IS THE RESULT OF TODAY'S MEETING.

The township trustees all make their final settlements with the county commissioners to-day and go out of office. The retiring trustees were elected the first Monday in April in 1890 for a term of four years, and have held this extra year and a quarter, by changes since made in the law. The fourteen retiring members are:

Butler township	W. H. Fair
Concord "	B. A. Woodcox
Fairfield "	R. H. Sherlock
Franklin "	Wm J. Whetsel
Grant "	G. O. Dennison
Jackson "	J. J. Walter
Keyser "	Fred Schultheiss
Newville "	Leslie Strong
Richland "	M. E. Reynolds
Smithfield "	James O. Blake
Stafford "	Joseph Wilson
Troy "	W. S. Morgan
Union "	R. S. S. Reed
Wilmington "	H. J. Crooks

NEW TRUSTEES.

The new board of trustees was elected at the general election last November, as the old April election has been wiped out by law. The new board hold office also for four years beginning with the first Monday in August, in 1895 and their successors will be elected every four years from last November. The names of the new trustees are:

Butler township	Albert Thrush
Concord "	Jno. W. Henderson
Fairfield "	J. Hewitt
Franklin "	John W. Brown
Grant "	Geo. W. Crooks
Jackson "	Wilson S. Dancer
Keyser "	Edward Kelham jr.
Newville "	A. E. Chapman
Richland "	James Finch
Smithfield "	N. T. Jackman
Stafford "	H. D. Webster
Troy "	Willard Eudy
Union "	Willis D. Madden
Wilmington "	John J. Eskright.

Of the new members only one, Mr. Dancer, has experience in the work of his office. He served as trustee of his township, several years ago, and made a good record. We are acquainted with a number of the others, and have reason to believe they will make acceptable officers. Of the outgoing officers the COURIER speaks with pleasure resulting from an acquaintance of many years with the most of them. Mr. Wilson, Mr. Crooks and Mr. Morgan had been trustees before, and the five years of experience had made all the board very efficient in their duties. They will retire to private life with the respect of all. Some have been subjected to criticism of course, but we apprehend that the more their work is studied the less it will be criticised. Our people hope much from the care, good judgment and business tact of the new board. New laws have kept, adding to their work and to the expense of the office, and it should not be expected that they can perform these added duties at the same low cost as prevailed twenty years ago. Those who are inclined to grumble at the cost of the office, should study the amount and kind of work to be done, and then if not satisfied, should find fault with the legislatures that made the laws.

NELSON C. TRUSLER, present city comptroller was nominated for mayor of Indianapolis, by the republicans Saturday evening. It is believed that Tom. Taggart, the present head of the democratic state committee will be chosen by the democrats to run for the same office. If so, he will probably be elected.

Sunday Weddings

George Ettinger, of Waterloo, and Meda Frederick, of Auburn, were married at 8 o'clock Sunday morning by Rev. J. D. Brosy at the parsonage. Miss Emma Muhn acted as bridesmaid and Lester Till as groomsman. After the ceremony the bride and groom drove to Waterloo where they spent the day with Mr. Ettinger's parents. Mr. Ettinger is employed in the Kiblinger factory and is quite an industrious young man. Miss Frederick is a daughter of the late George Frederick and is well known in Auburn. They will reside with Mrs. Frederick on north VanBuren street.

Married by Rev. J. D. Brosy at the parsonage Sunday at 9:30, Augustus Harding and Mattie McClellan. Both of these young people are worthy and well known throughout the county. The COURIER extends congratulations to both these newly wedded couples.

GOOD FARM FOR SALE.

One mile and a half south of Auburn, the old A. D. Goetschius farm of 110 acres, in good condition. Good brick house and other good buildings. For terms inquire at the farm.

A. D. GOETSCHIUS jr.

The Eagle Manufacturing Co. at Auburn Junction are making all kinds of light and heavy castings.

GRAND RECEPTION

TO MRS. J. D. LEIGHTY, ON HER RETURN FROM LONDON, ENG.

Special to the DAILY COURIER.

ST. JOE, Ind., Aug. 3.—The leading society event of the season was the reception tendered Mrs. Kate A. Leighty wife of Congressman Leighty, of this district at Hotel Leighty, on last evening. The arrangements were under the management of the W. C. T. U. of this place, and of which society she is an honored representative. The occasion was the return of Mrs. Leighty from the International W. C. T. U. Convention which was held at London Eng., the 10th of June to which she was a representative from this state. During her sojourn in foreign lands she visited the principal cities of England as well as on the continent including a trip among the snow capped Alps and down through the cities of Italy as far as Rome where she spent a week taking in the sights of that old city. Mrs. Leighty speaks in glowing terms of her trip abroad, and we are glad to welcome her safely home. The reception tendered her last evening was only a token of esteem in which she is held not only by her sister members of W. C. T. U. but also by the community in which she lives. The hotel was beautifully decorated with flags and bunting and one of the most unique arrangements was a small boat placed on a large mirror to represent the ocean. The little vessel was manned by sailors and occupied a prominent place in the center of the principal table over which hung the letters W. C. T. U. An elegant supper was served in two courses to the invited friends after which beautiful little souvenirs of the occasion were presented to each guest present. The Hicksville Orchestra discoursed sweet music during the evening and lent splendor to the occasion. Also some excellent literary selections were rendered by Miss Harriet Dills of Westminster seminary, Ft. Wayne. H. W. Longley of Chicago in a few well chosen words in behalf of her many friends welcomed her back to her native land to which Mrs. Leighty gracefully responded. It was an evening happily spent by all present and the memories of the occasion will linger long among those who were so fortunate as to be present.

LET OFF EASY.

Frank P. Lamont, an absconding bookkeeper from Washington, D. C., was captured at the Wayne hotel in Fort Wayne, one day last week by the employer whom he had robbed. Lamont arrived in the city Sunday night and registered at the hotel and remained about the office for the greater part of the time ever since until Tuesday morning, when he left and failed to return for the balance of the day or night. Early yesterday morning H. L. Biscoe, Lamont's former employer, a wholesale lumber merchant, arrived in company with a friend, Mr. George Bartlet. They inquired for the missing book keeper, and being informed that he had not returned, were starting out to search for him when he suddenly appeared at the door. When confronted by the man he had robbed he broke down and confessed to the steal. The amount stolen, $2,000 was recovered all but $400, which he had spent. Mr. Biscoe did not wish to prosecute, as he stated that the young man had grown up in his employ and was one of the best and most trusted men about the establishment. He said he thought the lesson would do more for Lamont than legal punishment, and gave the latter a sum of money sufficient to go west and commence life anew. Lamont left at noon for Chicago, Mr. Biscoe accompanying him to the depot, and advising him to secure a situation of some kind and send for his wife, whom he left in Washington. The robbery only occurred last Saturday. It was said that Lamont had trouble with his young wife, and began to drink. He was sent to the bank with the money, $2,000, and having the money in his possession, concluded to skip out with it, and going to the depot, took the first train in this direction. He was located here by means of a check which he sent to his wife. The woman immediately informed the firm of the fact and Mr. Biscoe lost no time in coming.

"A Bit of Finesse."

This is the charming name of a charming story, the work of an Indiana authoress, and though not her only one, it alone would make her claim to high literary rank, secure. Mrs. Harriet Newell Lodge, whose home is in our own beautiful capital city, Indianapolis is the author of the book of which we give the title in this heading. It is not one of the old, regular stereotyped stories. The title itself shows that, for as a new departure is shown in the name, a no less new departure is taken in the plot of the story. Whoever reads it will find it a refreshing and entertaining plot, an ingenious and attractive one, and it fixes the interest so tenaciously that one wonders to have reached the conclusion so soon. But what we started to say is this, that as our beloved state has had but few names honored in literature, Mrs. Lodge's works should be a direct appeal to every book reading Hoosier, to encourage Hoosier literary effort and at the same time secure enjoyment for himself, by reading at least, this one of her works. We think they can be had at Willis' City Book Store in Auburn, or least he can send for them. Let us spend a part of our leisure hours in the study of Indiana authors.

"Where would you advise me to attend school the coming year?" asked a lady teacher, of one of the leading educators of this state. "I know of no better place was the response, "than the Fayette Normal University, of Fayette, Ohio."

Struck By Lightning

The storm Monday night, or rather this morning, did a good deal of damage in burning property.

OUR OPERA HOUSE.

This fine new structure was struck and some of the bricks in the east gable were loosened. Damage slight.

AT FT WAYNE

The biggest loss was R. T. McDonald's training barn, an immense structure 200 feet long. Here was where his fine horses were kept and trained, five of them perishing in the flames. It was on his farm just outside the city, and some think it was caused by spontaneous combustion. But it was probably caused by lightning.

WHETSEL'S BARN

The barn of Martin Whetsel near Sedan was struck by lightning and totally consumed. No particulars received.

BOHLER'S BARN

The barn of John Bohler, northwest of Waterloo, was struck, and totally destroyed. Not a thing was saved. No word as to insurance.

GEORGE GROGG DEAD!

Word was brought to town yesterday Sunday, forenoon, that George Grogg had died as a result of the injury received by the kick of his gun which was accidentally discharged on Friday, as he was letting down the hammers. A brief account of the accident was in the DAILY of last Saturday, though the accident occurred Thursday evening. It is supposed that some internal organ was injured by the recoil or "kick" of the gun, and being an internal hurt, nothing could be done to relieve him. Death came about 10 a. m. of Sunday. The funeral will be Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the M. E. church here, and in charge of the A. O. U. W. and K. P. order, to both of which he belonged. He had $2,000 insurance in the A. O. U. W. Sunday autopsy was held. Dr. F. M. Hines and Dr. Willard Swarts, doing the work, in the presence of Drs. Sebring, D. J. and Vesta M. Swarts, A. L. Hines, Nusbaum, Carey and Ford. This showed that death was caused by the injury to the intestines by the kick of the gun. Drs. M. F. Porter and P. Drayer, of Ft Wayne, were also present. They had come up to see if an operation could save his life. But he was not in a condition to stand the operation.

Advertising Schemes.

The best advertising to be had is liberal space in a good local newspaper. Our merchants need not expect bad advertising to pay. Hotel registers, cards, maps and pictures, to be hung up in the post office or depot, pamphlets, booklets, paper bags and wrapping paper advertisements and like schemes are of little value and cost like fury. Probably one person in one hundred looks at such ads. We don't believe any traveling man ever looks at the cards in the hotel registers, and supposing he does, he is a seller not a buyer. The price for fake ads. is all out of proportion—entirely too much. One dollar a card would be very dear; but more frequently patrons are soaked for from $3 to $5. That amount of money would buy handsome space in the local newspaper for a month—four issues—and 10 000 or more people would see it. There's nothing so good as newspaper advertising. Just give the scheme fakir the go by when he comes along and he will understand that you are "onto his pitchin'." He is fraud.

Famous Lectures

John G. Woolley who opens the Institute Lecture Course, the 26th has just given three new lectures which have placed him in the front rank of American Oratory.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS

Before the national convention of college boys, Cleveland, Ohio, July 2, '95.

THE VOICES OF THE CENTURY

Was given by him before the National Conference of Reforms, Staten Island, New York July 4, 1895.

CHURCH RESOLUTIONS VERSES SALOON RESOLUTIONS.

International Convention United Societies Y. P. S. C. E. Tent Endeavor Boston, communion July 11, 1895.

YOU WANT THE BEST.

J. G. CLAPP,
Wide-a-Wake Photographer

Has the Finest and Best Line of Picture Mouldings, Easels, Etc.

Any size Picture Framed and Matted—RIGHT

If you have Old Pictures to Enlarge, and want Pictures that will

KNOCK AGENTS WORK SILLY,

Leave your Orders
WITHOUT FEAR
With Us

The Stylish Dressers

Are Trying to Solve the Problem

Of what they shall wear in fall and winter apparel

YOU WILL BE RELIEVED OF ALL ANXIETY

In this direction by calling on G. H. Yesbera, Auburn's Popular Merchant Tailor, and inspecting his up-to-date Patterns and Styles that are arriving daily.

THE FALL SEASON
OF TAILORING
HAS FAIRLY OPENED

And if you need a suit and want it in season, come early and make your selections while the patterns are fresh

Perfect Fit Guaranteed

G. H. YESBERA,
Leader in Merchant Tailoring

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of James A. Hammond deceased late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JAMES A. S. HAMMOND,
Aug. 6, 1895. Administrator.

LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that I intend to apply to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county Indiana at their September session, 1895, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time together with the privilege of allowing the same to be drank on the premises where sold. The premises where I desire to sell said liquors are located in section Six in Jackson township DeKalb county, Indiana and described as follows: A two story frame building situated on real estate bounded by the Wabash, St, Louis and Pacific Railroad right of way on the east, on the south by the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad right of way, on the west by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern right of way and on the north by the north line of Jackson township all in Auburn Junction, DeKalb county Indiana, the particular room in said building in which I desire to to sell said liquors is the west room on the first floor. I also desire to carry on the business of a Restaurant keeper in connection with said business, to be carried on on the first floor in the room east of, and separated from the room where where said liquors are to be sold as above stated.

SAMUEL Y. MCANALLY.

August 5, 1895.

LAKE SHORE EXCURSIONS.

Account of the 26th Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell tickets to Boston and return, August 19 to 26 inclusive, at very low rates.

These tickets admit of visits to Chautauqua Lake, Niagara Falls and Saratoga, and also give passengers choice of many different routes going and returning.

ATLANTIC COAST.

For your vacation can be made on the low rate excursion tickets to Boston over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., August 19 to 26 inclusive.

BOSTON

Over the Lake Store & Michigan Southern Ry., August 19 to 25 inclusive. A folder of information containing a map of Boston, side trips, itinerary and other matter about rates and routes, sent on receipt of two-cent stamp by A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS

On August 19 to 25, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Boston, Mass., going and returning by the same route, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Knights Templar Conclave.

Circuitous route tickets will also be sold at rate of 60 per cent. of the sum of the first class limited fares via the routes selected.

Tickets will be good for return until September 10, but are subject to an extension until September 30, if deposited with Joint Agent at Boston, after September 10. 31-33

On August 12th the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Rome City, Ind., at very low rates account Maccabee Day of the Island Park Assembly. Special train will leave Auburn Junction at 8:50 a. m.

Deering Binder.

At the sale of the David Wiley property August 10, near Corunna, as advertised in the COURIER, there will be a good Deering Binder sold along with the other property. It was overlooked from the list by mistake. Don't forget this good chance to get a fine binder. 31-3

I. O. BUCHTEL,
Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

--Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins,
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Franklin P. Sweitzer is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, by Emeriah Sweitzer for divorce, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 8th day of October 1895 being the 2nd juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7, 1895.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 25th day of July, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

D. Y. Husselman, Att'y.

Notice of Vacation of Alley.

Notice is hearby given that a petition will be presented to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their September session for the year 1895, asking said Board to vacate a part of the alley running between lots fifty (50) and (51) in the town of Vienna in DeKalb County, Indiana, said part of said Alley sought to be vacated, extending from the west side of State street in said town to a point forty-two (42) feet south west of said west side of State street aforesaid.

July 27, 1895. 31-3

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

Notice is hearby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Sheets, deceased, will sell at public sale, at the late residence of said decedent, one mile south of Auburn, in Jackson township, in the county of DeKalb, and state of Indiana, on.

Saturday August 24, 1895,

the personal property of the decedent, consisting of growing crops, household goods and other articles. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock p. m.

TERMS.

All sums of five dollars and under cash: sums of over five dollars a credit of nine months will be given by the purchaser giving his note with approved security, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws.

R. S. S. REED, Administrator

J. E. & J. H. Rose, Att'ys. 31-33

NOTICE OF ATTACHMENT.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

Irvin O. Buchtel vs Thomas Campbell } Before Jacob Walborn, Justice of the Peace of Union Township, said county.

Thomas Campbell is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against you, before said Justice of the Peace, by Irvin O. Buchtel, on account, wherein he claims the sum of $12.56 and that attachment has been issued and property attached, and that said cause will be determined on the 16th day of August, 1895, at 9 o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Witness my hand and official seal this 23rd day of July, 1895.

JACOB WALBORN,
Justice of the Peace. SEAL
30-32

LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice to the citizens of the town of Ashley and Smithfield township, is hereby given that the undersigned, a male inhabitant over the age of twenty-one years, will make application to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county, at their next regular session in September, 1895, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors, in a quantity less than a quart at a time with the privilege of having the same drank on the following premises, to-wit:

Lot number three (3), block number twenty one (21) in original plat of the town of Ashley DeKalb county, Indiana,

I wish also, in the same room to sell cigars and tobacco.

SHERMAN KNISELY.

August 8, 1895.

ROYAL Baking Powder.
Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Advance Sale

A Convention of

ELEGANT, EXCLUSIVE BLACK DRESS GOODS.

The First Break For Fall, 1895.

The Grand Opening Display and sale of Black Dress goods and Novelties for Fall and Winter of 1895, which we announce to-day, is the satisfactory accomplishment of our special efforts to excel anything heretofore attempted in Dress Goods in DeKalb County.

This Advance Sale includes the Choicest Novelties in Silk, Silk and Wool and Wool fabrics direct from the looms of the leading French, English, German and American producers, and nowhere in this vicinity is shown so diversified, complete and large a collection.

You will be Surprised And More than Pleased With the Fine Qualities And Low Prices.

Henriettas, Storm Serges, Serges, Crepons, Cravenetts, Coverts Persian Mixtures, Lancelots, etc.

We also show Full Line of

Winter Cloaks, Winter Furs, Hosiery and Underwear!

CASH BUYING, CASH SELLING, is our way.

Bishop & Lackey.

LEADING MERCHANTS

TRUSTEE'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Annual statement of receipts and expenditures and balances on hand of the several funds of Concord township, DeKalb county, Indiana, made to the Board of Commissioners, August 5, 1895, by B. A. Woodcox, Trustee:

	RECEIPTS	EXPEND'S	BALANCE
Road Fund	226 45	171 31	55 14
Additional Road Fund	1433 81	824 44	609 37
Township Fund	1983 84	1415 44	568 40
Special School Fund	3372 00	3177 46	194 54
Tuition Fund	5763 01	3794 20	1968 81
Dog Fund	129 74	75 00	54 74
Totals	12908 85	9457 85	3451 00

SPECIAL TRUSTEE'S REPORT OF DEBT OF CONCORD TOWNSHIP, AUGUST 1ST, 1890.

NO VOUCHER.	MONTH	DAY	YEAR
74	Jan.	25	1887	Special School	200 00
75	July	29	1887	" "	500 00
77	Oct	10	1887	" "	775 00
82	Aug	19	1888	" "	500 00
83	Oct	20	1890	" "	685 00
90	July	1	1890	" "	46 32
					2706 32
89	April	26	1890	" "	95 22
23	June	29	1893	" "	23 30
				Total principal of debt	2824 84

INTEREST PAID ON ABOVE INDEBTEDNESS. SINCE AUGUST 1ST, 1890.

RECEIPTS	MONTH	DAY	YEAR
14	Sep	11	1891	For interest paid	207 17
91	Jan	13	1892	" " "	163 00
22	Jan	7	1893	" " "	237 41
57	Jan	19	1894	" " "	232 17
97	Jan	3	1894	" " "	159 60
207	July	22	1895	" " "	65 00
				Total principal and interest	1889 19

The above is a correct statement of the Indebtedness of Concord township when I took charge of the Office August 6, 1890, which statement may be verified either at the Trustee's office, or Auditor's office, DeKalb county, Indiana.

Records will show that the township is now out of debt.

STATE OF INDIANA, DEKALB COUNTY.

The undersigned, being duly sworn, on oath says the above report of the indebtedness of the township is true and correct, to the best of his knowledge and belief.

B. A. WOODCOX, Trustee.

Subscribed and sworn to before me, this 5th day of August, 1895.

F. A. BORST,
Auditor DeKalb County.

NOTE:—The first statement given above is the settlement made with the commissioners. The second shows the principal of the indebtedness of the township at the time Mr. Woodcox became trustee. The third shows the interest paid on the indebtedness. The entire amount of both principal and interest is now fully paid off.

The Daily Times Post was offered for sale by the mortgagee, Louis Centlivre, yesterday morning at Ft. Wayne. The only bid made was by C. D. Tillo, the manager of the Ft. Wayne Newspaper Union. His bid was $700, with the understanding that he was to assume the mortgages, and the property was knocked off to him. There are mortgages of $1,300 on the press and engine and one of $600 on the material of the old Monday Morning Times, which paper was merged by Gart Shober, its proprietor, into the Times Post. It is not known what will become of the paper now. It was issued yesterday under Mr. Tillo's management but he is undecided as to its future.

The social at Grove Bethel Saturday was a great success. The program given by the class was excellent. Miss Maggie Snyder was present and treated them to excellent music, and Miss Servoss of the Auburn schools recited for them. Of the twenty-seven members of the class, twenty-two were present and took part.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed.
WILCOX SPECIFIC CO.,
228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Wednesday's Daily.

$40 per month salary! A few energetic ladies and gentlemen wanted to canvass. Above salary guaranteed. Call or address, Mrs. T. P. Scott, Auburn, Ind.

Thursday's Daily:

H. W. Mounts of Garrett was here to-day. He is now in the law office of E. A. Myers at that place.

The Anderson Daily Herald says: Mrs. A B. Walsworth of Auburn is the guest of her brother, the jeweler, Chas. Bassett.

Leave orders at the Fair View fruit farm for fine raspberry bushes. Any variety you wish, red or black. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31 33

Vina Cool returns to day to her home in Logansport. Gertie Caruth accompanies her and later they go to Mazenkuckee to spend a couple of weeks at that beautiful resort.

A G Lodewick on the Fairview Farm north of town has raspberries and blackberries on his vines yet. He has a great variety of small fruits, and will sell plants as well as fruit.

Mrs. Hebel and her daughter, Mrs. Stevens, went to West Virginia today, where they will visit the family of William Groscop, whose wife is Mrs. Hebel's daughter.

The Rehoboth Sunday School will hold a picnic at the S J. Tarney Grove on Saturday, August 10, to which Sunday Schools and their Superintendents are invited to attend and take part, as are also the pastors of the various churches.

Horr and Harvey have finished their debate on gold and silver. And pretty soon the people will be asked to buy the book. But judging from what we have read of the debate no one will be much wiser for reading the book. Horr and Harvey make the money.

With an education you have recognition, social standing, and an easy way to make a living. If a teacher, the Fayette Normal University, can aid you to double your wages. Enter the Fall Term which opens Aug. 27th.

The many friends of Mrs. W. P. Harter and her sister Mrs. Miller will will be interested to learn that Mrs. Miller after thirteen years of married life, presented her husband with a nice girl baby born last Saturday. It is now "Aunt Nettie" and she is as well pleased over the event as anyone. This reminds us that Mrs. Harter is now sojourning at Petoskey.

John Pepple and wife started south to-day, going first to Chicago over the B. & O., and then on the M., K. & T. route to their future home at Smithville, Tex. They had spent a few days visiting here, but found it would take them all summer to get around, and as business was pressing could stay no longer. Many kind wishes follow them

Friday's Daily:

Mrs. A. Park of Kendallville went home to-day noon. She has been visit- friends here.

An education is the best legacy. Send your son or daughter to the Fall Term of the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, Ohio.

Dr. Wesley Hines and wife of St. Joe were in the city this morning.

Sheriff Stroh came back from Kendallville yesterday with Geo. Reader. Arrangements are being made to take him to the Asylum.

The big candle was lighted to-day noon when the Kiblinger whistle blew, and there have been plenty of watchers standing around it since.

There will be communion services at the Lutheran church next Sabbath. To this service everybody is invited. d&w

The nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Mat Zerwes on West 9th street on Friday of this week at 2:30 p. m. All the members are urged to be present. d&w

A better education means a better opportunity for a happpy, successful, useful life. The Fayette Normal University has inspired and helped hundreds of young men and women who have since won the success in life that they so richly deserve. Fall Term begins Aug. 27.

Call at Fair View fruit farm for choice strawberry plants. Ready to set Sept. 1. No agent prices. Any variety you want. Will bear well next season. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31-33

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Patterson, of Galesburg, Ill., have been visiting a few days at the old home in Waterloo. To-day they visited their old neighbors in Auburn including the families of A. B. Richards and J. A. Barns. W. A. Patterson and wife of Waterloo were here with them.

The difference between Pills and Simmons Liver Regulator, is just this: Pills don't go down very easy with most people, and feel them afterwards. While Simmons Liver Regulator in liquid or powder is very pleasant to take, and the only feeling that you have afterwards is the great relief that it gives from Constipation, Billiousness, Sick Headache and Dyspepsia. It is a mild laxative and a tonic.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Mrs. J. W. Shaffer has purchased a house and lot in the McIntyre addition and will reside there.

Mrs Granville Erick of Spencerville, sister of Mrs. J. C. Prosser is spending the week with the latter.

The statistics of crops etc. of DeKalb county that we publish to-day should be cut out and preserved by every farmer and business man.

Elmer Bower, son of J. B Bower, of Fairfield and nephew of J. C. Henry of this place was married to-day to a lady whose home is near Detroit.

Hon. J. D Leighty was here to-day. He says Mrs. Leighty had a very enjoyable trip over in Europe and had good health all the journey through, but was of course glad to be at home again.

The COURIER has just finished stationery for Myers, Liniger & Co, Manufacturers of Hoops and hard and soft wood lumber at the Junction. These gentlemen have their factory all ready to commence work.

At the funeral of the late Marion Hoffman were three of his intimate associates young friends from his former home at Newark Ohio. They brought lovely floral tributes as a mark of the esteem in which they held him. They are Elmer Holler, Edward Hurch and Charles Green.

C. H. Bliss is in town this week, in the interest of a telephone exchange for Auburn. If Auburn could get a telephone exchange at a reasonable rate for subscribers it would be a fine thing. It is not a question of the utility of an exchange, but a question of cost. We hope he can furnish our people a system at a reasonable cost.

The unreliability of much of the news dispatches sent out from several points is shown by the sensational reports of an Indian massacre in the far west, one day last week. It was stated for a fact that Indians had killed every person in a settlement called "Jackson's Hole" in the Indian country. Now the facts come out that nothing of the kind occurred. No Indians came to the settlement. The only item of truth is, that the Indians are very much dissatisfied at having several of their number arrested for killing game contrary to a state law.

Dr H. Darling D. D. S. has lately put in a new dental chair. This is one of the latest and best chairs made and is composed of more than a dozen parts. It is adjustable and can be operated to suit any sized person. The doctor has all the latest improvements in dentistry.

Pearl Kelley started this morning for a visit with her mother in Omaha, going on the 7-15 Wabash train. She goes by way of St. Louis and will reach Omaha to-morrow noon. A number of her young friends accompanied her to the train to "see her out of sight" and wave good wishes at her as the train started. She expects to return in time to begin school at Westminster in September.

As Henry Cloy was driving along Main street this forenoon with the beer wagon loaded high with empty barrels and kegs, the pile somehow got loose and began to drop off and roll away in a fashion not often seen. Henry's attention to this little irregularity on the part of his kegs and barrels, was called by 1117 voices yelling at him "Your kegs are fallin'." Henry stopped his team, lifted them onto the rack and having cooled off his ruffled temper, went on to his destination. Henry may not be a church member, we rather think he isn't, but he can rustle an empty beer keg with the best of 'em.

After several trials the W. R. C. last evening disposed of the tickets for the drawing of the silk slumber robe. At the social last evening, they found at 9 p. m. that 47 tickets were left. So they sold the whole 47 in a lump at auction. Some one bid 25 cents. Then another raised it. H. C. Shull bid 50 cents, and some one raised it again, when he bid 2 cents apiece, 94 cents, and at once said, "I make it an even dollar." He got the lot. The envelop containing the chosen number, which had been locked up several months in the COURIER office was opened, and the number read "111" Looking at the book it was found that A. P. Green's mother an old lady of 84, held this number. All were pleased that she got it.

Saturday's Daily.

Rev. H. A. Croy in Gas Addition has been seriously ill, apparently the result of an attack of grip some months ago.

Mrs. S. Henry and her father Mr Dice called here yesterday. She has been visiting relatives at LaOtto, Churubusco and other places. Her present home is at Reading, Mich., where Mr. Henry is in the oil business. They think Reading a pleasant place to live.

Miss Dora Boyd who lives with her parents about six miles east of town has gone entirely blind. She went to bed a few evenings ago her eyes as good as usual and next morning she was blind. She has been taken to Ann Arbor for treatment.

Ashley Times:—John Henry and wife, of Auburn visited his brother-in-law, Daniel Gonser, Sen. By the way, Mr. Henry is building an opera house in Auburn which will be one of the finest in northeastern Indiana. It is of modern style and finish and on the plan of the auditorium at Chicago. The citizens of Auburn surely should appreciate what he is giving them.

J. J. Latson made the editor a present of a lot of fine early potatoes last week. They are the "Burpee Earliest of Early" and as fine a quality as we ever saw. Mr. Latson says they are as good for use late next spring as any of the late varieties. He expects to keep some to sell for seed in the spring.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Monday's Daily.

Mr. and Mrs. George Knepper were at Hamilton yesterday.

Phil Ryan was in town a few hours to-day. He went east on the 2:04 Wabash.

Mrs. A. B. Walsworth has returned from her visit with her brother Charles Bassett, at Anderson Ind.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Samuel Squires and wife called up Saturday evening. He was in town to see about some matters connected with the estate of his father, Nathan Squires, he being the administrator.

Kuizner & Myers have a curiosity at their livery barn. It is a stuffed colt that has five legs. Three of the legs are in front but only one of them is developed, the others being short.

T. C Ford and family and Miss Ethel Buffner drove over to Hicksville yesterday, returning in the evening. They spent the day with Mrs. Ford's parents, G. W. Lewis and wife.

Mrs. W. T. Allison at Phillipsburg Montana in remitting for the COURIER writes that all are well out there, though they are having hot weather and dull times. Our people will remember her as Miss Rebecca Shull.

Two men went over Niagara Falls Sunday. They were out in a sail boat some ways above the falls, when a sudden storm upset the boat and they drifted into the rapids. Crowds of excusionists saw them go over.

J. A. McClure down below the Junction has good reason to be fairly contented. He has a good farm, good buildings including a dwelling that cost over $2,200, and does not owe a cent. So although crops are not the best this season he feels safe as to "wintering through." He got it all by hard work, and not by indulging in luxuries or in idleness.

T. C. Ford brings word from Hicksville of the death of Os Allen's little boy, Paul, who was buried there yesterday. It appears that the boys had a way of coming up behind each other and suddenly striking one under the knee to see him tumble. Little Paul was struck in this why and fell backwards striking the back of his head. At first it did not seem serious but about two days later it resulted in paralysis from which he died. It is another case of rough play and practical joking that is too dangerous to be allowed. But even such lessons as this are soon forgotten.

W. H. Dirrim one of our well known citizens has been nearly helpless for a couple of weeks caused by a strange blindness. He does not know the cause, but a part of the time he could see nothing. Yesterday he could begin to see a little so as to distinguish colors. In his helpless condition it was thought best that he and his wife should stay at John Picker's, Mrs. Picker being their daughter. We hope he may yet recover.

There is a good deal of complaint over town about boys gathering up old iron and brass and selling to the traveling junk dealers. Of course in most cases, the boys got their old iron in the proper way, but in some cases, they do not. We have heard of a case where a brass article was taken off an engine standing in town, and for which the boys probably got five cents. The junk dealer in selling it by the pound as old brass, got about twenty cents. But the owner of the engine will have to get a new one at an expense of between two and three dollars. Junk dealers and boys, should both be more careful. The boys have no right to deal in this way, without the consent of their parents, and both they and the junk dealers could be made some trouble. But the best way is for the boys to be sure and get their scrap iron honestly, before they sell it.

Tuesday's Daily.

Simp Johnson and wife, a girl, born this morning.

FOR SALE,—all kinds of small fruit trees and bushes, most popular varieties at much less than agents' prices. Call at Fairview farm north of town.

Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson came home Friday noon from an extended visit with relatives in Ohio. Her son, John Sibert came back with her, as she was in poor health. She had taken sick after reaching there, but able to be about a little now. Mr. Sibert will return to his home in Shelby county in a few days.

Will Schaab has got a flowing well now. Auburn has an abundance of flowing wells.

Choice Berkshire sow and pigs for sale or will trade for wheat. A. G. Lodewick. 31-33

Mr. Harrison's Normal is progressing finely with a good attendance. Mr. Nottingham, however, has closed his work in penmanship. He had large classes.

Remember the sale of personal prop- of the late Mrs. Margaret Sheets, is now set for 1 o'clock of Aug. 24. See notice. 31 33

Read the new ad of Lung's Restaurant and Lunch Room. They are located two doors north of Kruger's grocery on Main street. They take boarders by the day or week, and also carry a fine line of tobacco, cigars, candies and fruits.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland have a corn cutter put up on the same plan of a self binder. One row of corn is cut at a time and tied in bundles. It is a piece of machinery that certainly took a good ingenious to figure out. The time has come when the farmer can get a machine to do almost any kind of work. Brown, Culbertson & Boland are not slow to add the latest in agricultural implements and hardware.

WE SELL

The Bissel and Syracuse Plows, the Osborn Disc Spring and spike tooth Harrows, the Church land Roller, the Portland Washing Machines and the Osborn Grain Drills. Give us a call before buying elsewhere.

31 32 MORE & BAKER.

Carriage Repairing.

Dorsey Pilgrim and Ed. Cutter are in charge at the John W. Shaffer wagon shop on South Main street, and in addition to continuing to make the best wagon in the country, they make a specialty of carriage repairing, which they will do neatly and promptly. Both are skilled workmen and guarantee good work and satisfaction. Call on them when your buggy or wagon needs a neat, prompt job of repairing. tf

Is Very Popular.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhœa, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord 31-35

Half Rates to Colorado.

On August 11 and 12 the North-western Line will sell excursion tickets to Denver, Colorado Springs, Manitou, and Pueblo and return at half rates—one fare for the round trip—tickets good for return passage, leaving Colorado points on August 20 to 25, with privilege of further extension until September 1. For full information apply to agents of connecting lines, or address A. H. Waggnener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place, Indianapolis Indiana.

Heartily Recommends It.

My boy was taken with a desease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

What makes a good school? Strong, capable, experienced teachers; a clean, pure town; varied and well-planned courses of study; large, well-ventilated buildings and rooms; simple and reasonable accommodations; and a large attendance of earnest, energetic, noble young men and women. These requisites are all to be found in the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, Ohio. Send for Catalogue.

Lutheran S. S. Picnic

The Lutheran Sunday School will hold a picnic on Saturday August 17, at the fair ground. Several other Sunday schools have been invited, and others are invited, to attend. A regular program will be given, including music, address, etc. And one of the Auburn bands will be present.

E. H. BOTTENBERG,
Supt. of S. S.

S. S. Picnic.

Norris Chapel four miles east of town, will have a Sunday school picnic on Saturday August 24 in the grove just east of the church. It is an all day basket picnic and many other schools will be invited to join. A good program is prepared. All come.

A Crowning Success.

C. E. DeVos, editor of the Cooperville (Mich.) Observer, is a worthy example of what push and energy, with keen business propensities, will accomplish. In a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. DeVos said: "I was born in Keene, Canada, in 1855. In 1857, I migrated with my parents to Pella, Iowa, received a common school education, drifted into the printing business, and removed to Battle Creek, Mich., where I became foreman in the large printing house of Gage & Son. I recently purchased the paper of which I am now editor. My life work has been very confining and exacting and, as a result, my health gave out and I broke down with nervous exhaustion and sleeplessness. I was in such a condition that I could not sleep until completely worn out, my appetite failed me and I had to choke down what little I did eat. About two months ago my attention was directed to Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep needed, my appetite returned and became as ravenous as a wolf's my weigh increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear and active, in fact, I was restored to health and I look and feel an entirely different man." Inquiry and observation has proved Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be a truly wonderful cure for all nerve troubles, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency and sexual general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport 31 35

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

AGENTS WANTED! To Take Orders.

Trade established, position permanent, weekly pay. WE PAY LIBERAL SALARY AND EXPENSES TO SUCCESSFUL AGENTS. Now is the best time to start. For terms write quickly. ELLWANGER & BARRY, Rochester, N.Y. Mount Hope Nurseries. Established 1840.

THE KING OF SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Reader, did you ever take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is BETTER THAN PILLS. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

First National Bank

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left six months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. MCCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. MCCLELLAN, Cashier.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph Calls promptly answered at all times.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Can be found in office both Day and Night.

Notice of Administration.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of David Wiley, deceased, late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN M. STONEBRAKER, Administrator.

July 17 1895. 30-32
Baxter & Brown, Att'ys.

CASH

Paid for

Scrap Cast Iron

At

Auburn Foundry AND Machine Works

Notice of Sale of Personal Property.

Notice is hereby given, that I, John M. Stonebraker, Administrator of the estate of David Wiley deceased, will offer for sale at public auction, to the highest bidder, on at the residence of the decedent, in Fairfield township the following described personal property, belonging to the estate of said decedent, to-wit:

Saturday August 10 1895

Hay in the mow, three head of work horses, one spring colt, one two horse wagon, one new road wagon, one mower one set double harness good, one set new single harness, one hay rack good, one good hog rack, one watch, tenant's interest in corn on the ground, rye in the bin, oats in the bin and other articles of farm produce and farming implements.

TERMS OF SALE:

For all amounts not exceeding five dollars, cash in hand. For amounts of five dollars and upwards, a credit of twelve (12) months will be given.

Note, bearing six per cent interest after maturity, with approved security, and waiving Valuation and Appraisement Laws, will be required.

Sale to begin at 10 a. m.

JOHN M. STONEBRAKER, Administrator.

WANTED

A comrade or son of a veteran, who wishes to go to the great encampment of the G. A. R. at Louisville next month, to handle the genuine original war photographs taken by U. S. Government photographers during the war of 1861-65. These views are wonderfully realistic war scenes and very interesting. There is money in them. Send at once for catalogue and terms. 32 33

The War Photographic Co.,
No. 21 Linden Place, Hartford Conn.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - - PUBLISHER.

Life is too short for long engagements.

Every summer resort has its own ideas of style.

Some men haven't energy enough to stop work long enough to rest.

China ceded Formosa, but Japan is experiencing difficulty in reaping the harvest.

The Boston authorities have decided that hereafter not a sparrer shall fall without their knowledge.

"What is there to live for?" asks the Toledo Blade. Well, let's get even with the coffin trust for a while.

St. Louis keeps right along at about one-third of the population of Chicago, but is crawling up to New York slowly but surely.

There is plenty of silver in the Denver mint, but $80,000 worth of gold is missing, and in its stead are traces of a little steal.

A Philadelphia policeman who shot a 10-year-old boy offers as an excuse the plea of self-defense. Perhaps the boy attacked the officer with cigarettes.

A New York man who eats five pounds of steak, twenty eggs and drinks twelve cups of coffee at a meal ought to take something for his appetite.

An amateur poet who sent in a bit of doggerel the other day referred to the editor's "wickerwork recepticule." It is perhaps needless to say that he struck it the first time trying.

In spite of the pertinent query of Miss Willard, "Why can't men be beautiful?" Chauncey M. Depew is reported to be entertaining the idea that he has sufficient attractions to overcome the "new woman."

The joint entry of the French and Russian squadrons into the harbor at Kiel may or may not have significance, but the sight was not pleasant to the eyes of the young war lord who regards the great German empire as his personal property.

A man in Hackensack, N. J., recently bought a neighbor's wife for $50, payable in monthly installments of $6. We don't know whether he struck a good bargain or not, as we have lost track of the regular Jersey list prices for such goods, but it strikes us that $1.50 a week is pretty high.

The sugar trust has joined the other trusts in marking up the necessaries of life. Its excuse is that the consumption of sugar is about to be increased by a very large fruit crop. "All the traffic will bear," is the business motto of all the trusts, and they apply it in anticipation of future demands.

The adoption of a system of phonetic spelling is a reform that will come slowly, if at all. Many years would be required to teach people that the new method was not simply bad spelling; and until they could be got out of the opinion that it had its inspiration in necessity instead of choice, they would ridicule the writer and the practice.

A Minnesota hotel advertises, "Fine porcelain bathtubs free to commercial men." This hotel deserves to live in history as the first establishment of its kind on earth which was ever known to give anything free to commercial travelers. It reminds the Commercial Traveler of what Gen. Sherman said about St. Louis hotels during the war: "Rates, four dollars per day; board and lodging extra."

A pair of St. Louis lovers, tired of life, though apparently not of each other, committed suicide by taking poison, cutting both their throats, and shooting each other through the heart. A little more ingenuity might have managed it so that the bodies would then have rolled into the water. They expended a great amount of surplus energy, however, as it was; quite enough to have served a quartet more of foolish people.

Queen Victoria is reported to have a private fortune of $175,000,000. Statisticians with a taste for easy arithmetic and tough propositions have figured it out that if a man could live and work and save $500 a year right along he could accumulate a fortune of the same size in 350,000 years. No candidates for a job of that length have appeared, and there is no disputing the fact that the queen business is a pretty good business after all.

If the coming woman is really taking to the higher education in good cookery, as is reported of her, then all will be forgiven. Even political economy and sociologic problems will bear pleasant family discussion over a table containing a well-cooked dinner. Perhaps therein lies the hint of feminine final supremacy, for what can man refuse the being who makes an art of pleasing his palate and delighting his digestion? Beauty itself must yield as a supreme influence to the staying power of this new and subtle force.

Miss Martha Wilson, of Mount Vernon, N. Y., died recently, and her heirs have now discovered that between her 87th and 90th years she spent $500,000 of which she was left in control by her sister. Up to her 87th year she was very penurious because she had little money. When her ship came in, however, she squandered money right and left. As a landlady she was ideal, it being her habit every now and then to send the tenants receipted bills for their rent, flowers on Easter Sunday, lavish gifts on Christmas, and at other times checks for handsome amounts. Occasionally she would give a house to a friend. In this way the good old lady managed to squander the $500,000 in three years. The Wilson heirs are now trying to get hold of the scattered estate, but they will not have half as much fun as the old lady had in spending it.

The word "bike" is a source of distress to many of the Eastern papers. They want it eliminated, but they would be wise to attune their senses to it with what speed they may. "Bike" is not beautiful, but it is short, expressive, and unique. It certainly strikes the ear as pleasantly as "dude," that was accepted after protest; as "mugwump" or as "bulldoze." "Wheel" would do, but the bicycle, as its name declares, has two wheels, while "cycle" has another use and meaning. This is a busy world, and the rider who has learned to say "bike" will not unlearn it, even to oblige the distinguished purists of the East.

It is telegraphed from Washington that the fusty halls of Congress are undergoing extensive alterations and improvements. Thousands of electric lamps are to be put in, that each night session may glitter like a ballroom and all the statesmen be kept awake instead of sleeping comfortably, as they would prefer. New furniture is to be provided; the ventilation is to be improved, and altogether the staid congressional rooms are to be rehabilitated into cleanliness and an air of luxurious presentability. Good. Now all that is necessary is that the new Congress should renovate and improve the congressional statesmanship to match the furnishings.

Probably too much attention is being paid to the vexed bloomer controversy, but this does not mean that the controversy is not likely to continue. It will go on until either the costume changes or the popular point of view changes, so that, from growing familiarity, the bifurcated thing no longer seems strange. Whatever the outcome, the bloomer discussion is here to stay. Note the recent flurry in Canada, when a member of a board of education tried to prevent school teachers from wearing the new costume. Note a similar effort to abolish the bloomer by calling it an article of "male attire." Note also that these efforts have failed lamentably. While the wordy rumpus continues the new bicycle costume, advancing firmly and boldly on its two legs, is working its way into public toleration. The accusation that the new garment is "male attire" may be parried now by calling attention to the fact that as it is already worn by women as much as men, it is no more man's attire than it is woman's. To cap the climax, there comes an edict of the west park board of Chicago prohibiting racing wheelmen from wearing their meager racing suits. This last looks like an insidious flank attack of the advocates of bloomers. Can it be that the new woman, having appropriated male attire for herself, means to drive the new man into petticoats and stays?

Though it be a sad fact that Mark Twain is bankrupt there still remains the duty of drawing the obvious moral of his downfall. He was a great and popular humorist and his nimble wit still insures him a salary that millions of men would covet. In the heyday of his success he was literally coining money. Everything that he wrote for the magazines brought a high price and his books ran through edition after edition, netting half a dozen average fortunes without the author incurring a risk or responsibility. Of course the publishers were also reaping a golden harvest and Twain thought to divert this into his own exchequer by establishing a publishing house of his own. With two or three partners he launched into the enterprise and the event shows that he had less financial ability than that character of his own creation, Pudd'nhead Wilson, who was philosopher enough to say, "Put all your eggs in one basket and watch that basket." Mark Twain's house first published the Grant memoirs. They had a sale so enormous that Mrs. Grant alone realized a quarter of a million as her share. Of course the profit of the publishers must have netted them a fortune, yet that, in addition to $70,000 advanced by Mark Twain's wife, was lost in future ventures. He can yet make an easy living, but the days of his great opportunities are probably past. He was a success in the literary field and should have been content to remain there pursuant to the old adage that admonishes the shoemaker to stick to his last. Twain is no business man. He was without experience and had no opportunity to develop any latent executive ability he might have possessed. He was making money fast enough to satisfy even an unreasonable man, and yet with a greed scarcely consistent with humor, he wanted it all. He abandoned his "forte," and declined to act upon his own good advice—leave well enough alone.

How They Fooled Charley.

Friends of Charley Leffert, a popular young railroad clerk, are telling a good story at his expense, says the Louisville Commercial. They say that last Sunday night he took a young lady to church. When they entered the church a few drops of rain had fallen. Charley had no umbrella. When church was over several wags in the neighborhood stood in front of the church door with their umbrellas raised. This gave the congregation who were about to leave the church the impression that it was raining.

The people in church were afraid to venture out, although the stars were shining brightly. Of course, Charley and his girl were among those who anxiously waited for the rain to cease, but the wags hung about the door with their raised umbrellas, and no one ventured out. Then to do the proper thing Charley gave a little boy a dime and chased him to the nearest drug store to telephone for a coupe. The coupe arrived in due time and Charley pushed his way through the crowd. When he reached the pavement and looked up the stars shone bright and beautiful, but it was too late to dismiss the coupe.

His ride of three squares on a beautiful night cost him $1, and now some of the church people say Charley was putting on style.

Was a Financial Success.

Antwerp's exhibition was a financial success after all; the shareholders have been repaid the amount they invested, with 10 per cent additional.

MRS. CLEVELAND AND THE NEW BABY.

—From a sketch made at Buzzard's Bay for a New York paper.

LEPROSY IS FEARED.

A VISIT FROM THIS LOATHSOME DISEASE IMMINENT.

Story of Father Damien—National and State Boards of Health Should Use Caution—Disease Is Now in Many States—The Plague Elsewhere.

Comes from Foreign Countries.

A terrible and constantly increasing danger menaces the people of the United States. Unless stern and determined measures are taken by the national and State boards of health to vigorously exclude leper suspects from entering our Atlantic and Pacific ports, as well as from the Mexican and Canadian borders, we may within a few years be placed in the position of India, which to-day has a leper population of close upon 132,000, all of which has been developed within the memory of living men. And if a close scrutiny is not kept by our consuls in foreign countries on the invoices of goods sent from places where lepers abound the contagion may spread here to the same extent it was in Europe in the twelfth century, when there were no less than 20,000 lazar houses on the continent and 2,000 in France alone.

THE BACILLI OF LEPROSY.

The disease is now among us. The Eastern and Southern States have had the germs brought to them direct from three sources—the West Indies, Canada and Southern Europe, the Western States from China, Northern Europe and Oceanica. The leprous taint has taken hold in Louisiana, Florida, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin and California, and it is also to be found in a lesser degree in Texas, Oregon, Utah, South Carolina and the State of New York.

FATHER DAMIEN.

But from all foreign countries from which the dreaded disease has been brought to our shores, the worst is China. The immigrants from there have penetrated every city in the land, carrying along with them the leprous germs, which, through laundries and cigar factories, where they have been employed, have distributed the seeds of the disease by wholesale. Statistics gathered by the State of California have shown that the disease has been established on a firm footing there, and that it is distinctly attributable to Mongolian lepers, some of whom, discovered in New York, were quarantined on North Brother Island, where they still remain.

The development of the disease in Hawaii can be traced from the genesis in 1850. To-day 1,200 of the worst cases have been herded together in the leper settlement of Molokai, which has proved conclusively the contagiousness of the disease. The most notable case on record in this connection is that of the humanitarian, Father Damien de Veuster, who in 1873 left his cure in Hawaii to give up his life for the unfortunates kept apart from the rest of the world at Molokai. When he first took upon himself this act of self-sacrifice, and to which he died a martyr, he was a robust, healthy man. Three years later he developed incipient tubercular leprosy, the most horrible and virulent phase of the disease. Within ten years he was a corpse.

SHOWING "LEPER CLAW."

What shall be done in view of the facts recited to arrest the further spread of the disease in America? The State sanitary codes ought to be amended to specifically include leprosy as an infectious, contagious or pestilential disease, equally with cholera, yellow fever, small-pox, diphtheria, ship or typhus, typhoid, spotted, relapsing and scarlet fevers, which are the only ones particularly named in the sanitary code as to be reported to the State Board of Health. Next, the National Board of Health should force on Federal legislation looking toward the complete isolation and segregation of lepers who may emigrate to this country. The same national body should also take steps to bring about an international conference for the better protection of all countries against the curse of leprosy. But especially and above all the national board of health should see to it that the State Department shall instruct every United States consul to carefully watch the onward march of leprosy in those foreign countries to which they are assigned, and to be imperatively instructed to refuse their consular certificates and signatures for any goods proposed to be imported to this country against which there is the slightest suspicion of their being handled by lepers, during the processes of production and manufacture, not forgetting to put an absolute boycott or quarantine on those ships the cargoes of which are handled by leper stevedores, a not unusual circumstance in the British West Indies.

If, however, these precautions are not immediately carried into effect, a prominent physician asserts that we may have within the next ten years at least 250,000 to 500,000 lepers included among the inhabitants of the United States.

HE HOLDS THE CHAMPIONSHIP.

Rev. W. A. Hunsberger, of Milwaukee, and His Unique Record.

He says he does not like notoriety, but whether he does or not fame seems bound to come to Rev. W. A. Hunsberger, of Milwaukee, Wis., who is already the champion matrimonial knot tier of this country and who is every month breaking his own records in that unique line. The month of June, consequently, was his best month so far and the record he succeeded in making during its 30 days was 52 marriages. And almost all of the couples who come to Rev. Mr. Hunsberger are strangers to him and to the city. The railway trains and the excursion steamers bring couple after couple, and by some strange coincidence they seem to find their way at once to the parsonage of the Grand Avenue M. E. Church, where Rev. Mr. Hunsberger proceeds to tie the knot which makes them happy—at least for a little while.

Rev. Mr. Hunsberger has not resided in Milwaukee very long—only since last October, in fact. Up to that time he was a Michigan man, and a few years ago was pastor of the Methodist Church in Allegan. It is not to be supposed that he had the slightest foreknowledge of the fame which was to come to him when he accepted the call of the Grand Avenue M. E. Church in Milwaukee. When he left his Michigan flock they bid him God speed with every demonstration of regret. The short time that he has been there has sufficed to make him as great a favorite in his new church as he was in his old.

REV. W. A. HUNSBERGER.

No one dares to predict what Mr. Hunsberger's record will be in the future. During the winter months he did not do a startling hymeneal business, probably because those months are not popular for weddings. In April business began to pick up, and in May he married 25 couples. This was thought to be a splendid record, but when June had rolled around and it was found that he had tied 52 matrimonial knots during the month people stood aghast and wondered what was going to happen. There may be still more occasion for wonderment in store for them.

TALL TOWERS SWAY TO AND FRO.

A Rigid Structure Would Inevitably Collapse.

Every person who has looked upward on a tall smokestack or monument or shot tower has been impressed with the idea that the object had an oscillation. People who know all about the subject explained it to themselves or to others, but "there are others," who did not know whether movement was actually in the object or in their own eyes.

A CHIMNEY'S VIBRATION.

Well, such objects do move. Take the tall chimney of the West Chicago street railway power house, of which there is a cut in this explanation. It has an oscillation equal to about two feet, which is indicated by the dotted lines. The oscillation begins at the center of gravity of the tower. Some of these towers sway more than others, but they all sway. A man to whom a reporter put the question said, substantially:

"If such an object did not have that vibratory movement it would fall. There is no such thing known in mathematics as rigidity. The earth is in constant motion. I have tested that and proved it, and so have others."

"What causes this oscillation in a tower or monument or smokestack?"

"Three things—the condition of the earth upon which it stands, the effect of the heat and cold and that effect depends upon the material out of which the object is constructed, and, third, the wind. And then, again, the manner in which the object is constructed has something to do with the movement of which you speak. The expansion by heat is about 1 in 800 for wrought iron, nearly the same for steel, 1 in 800 for brick, and three times as much for sandstone. This is for a warming up of 180 degrees.

A CHIMNEY'S VIBRATION.

"The oscillation due to wind is easily understood except that everybody is not aware the wind acts in gusts even when to the ordinary observer it may seem to be steady. The pressure of wind for every square foot of surface that is exposed to it (perpendicularly) varies from little more than nothing up to some 50 pounds for the highest possible wind velocity in this part of the world.

"The third kind, due to ground tremblings, is the least except at times of earthquake shock, but is none the less a fact. Observations with large transit telescopes tend to sustain the theory that any particular section of the earth's surface continually is changing in position of level, the same in principle, though vastly less in extent, than the change in level of the surface of a board that is floating on a sheet of water the surface of which is ruffled by the wind."

Crows Hold Court.

Dr. Edmondson assures us that in the Shetland islands the holding of crow courts is of very common occurrence. As a rule a hill or field is selected to act as a courthouse and the session commences. The proceedings are conducted in any way but silently, though as to the exact mode of procedure, whether counsel are employed or a jury impaneled, no ornithologist has been able to inform us. All Dr. Edmondson tells us is that after a great deal of cawing the whole court falls upon the unhappy prisoners, and they are promptly exterminated, after which the court rises and the crows disperse, each to his own district.

She—It must have been an awful storm to blow away the lighthouse. Cholly—Terrible, my dear! But it could only have been through carelessness that there was a lighthouse in such an exposed place.—London Tit-Bits.

Madame—I have been charmed with your visit, baron. I shall forever lead a good life that I may have the pleasure of meeting you again hereafter. The Baron—My dear madame, do not, I pray you, be too good.—Illustrated Bits.

Our idea of a smart woman is one who can go out and make a salad on five minutes' notice.

LEFT BY THE G. O. P.

DEFICIT IS ONE OF THE REPUBLICANS' LEGACIES.

Treasury Embarrassments Caused by Mortgages of the Reed Congress—Calamity Howlers Don't Know They Are Dead—Prohibitive Duties.

Republican Deficit.

When Tanner said "God help the surplus," he fastened by confession on the Republican party all the blame for the deficit which Secretary Carlisle finds at the close of the fiscal year.

Treasury embarrassments caused by the mortgages of the Reed Congress predestined the panic of 1893 and the deficit of 1895. It was an embarrassed treasury which engendered the distrusts of the Government's ability to continue redemption of currency notes. It was a McKinley tariff which hampered trade and prevented a normal increase of customs revenues. Long before Harrison vacated the White House every financier in America perceived that trouble was impending and that the Government must issue bonds or default in its payments. Harrison's Secretary of Treasury had the bonds ready, and only by sharp practice was able to drag along until the 4th of March, 1893.

Republican extravagance made a deficit and a panic, which, by reducing trade and revenue receipts, prevented the immediate success of Democratic efforts to administer the government economically and honestly.

A Democratic tariff is encouraging trade. The Government's receipts are increasing. Wages are rising. Mines and factories are busy. The farmer is getting better prices. The merchant is selling more goods. Exports are more active. American securities are attracting purchasers. A Republican administration left financial confusion and universal gloom. The Democratic administration will leave confidence in the good faith of the Government, a balance in the treasury, a prosperous condition of business, and a hopeful people.

If the policy of the Harrison administration and the Fifty-first Congress had continued to this date, it would have increased the national debt by hundreds of millions, if it could, indeed, have avoided the disgrace of a suspension of specie payments.

We are dealing with a Republican deficit. Under Democratic management we shall wipe out and recuperate from its effects, as we overcame the Republican panic and restored the activity of business.—New Democrat, Georgetown, O.

Prohibitive Duties Yield No Revenue.

The New York Press insists that in order to secure more revenues the country must return to the McKinley tariff. At the same time that tariff-hating organ demands the imposition of duties sufficiently high to "keep American markets for our own goods," and asserts that under Democratic rule "our market has been handed over to foreigners."

It does not appear that the Press understands the real nature of the protection swindle which it advocates. For in favoring a tariff high enough to shut out foreign goods and keep our markets for ourselves, it loses sight of its claim that a high tariff is necessary in order to raise large revenue. If it is sound public policy to keep out foreign goods by a prohibitive wall, how is it possible to obtain any revenue from duties on goods? On the other hand, if foreign products come in in spite of duties of from 50 to 120 per cent., how is the home producer benefited? If foreign goods are sold instead of those manufactured at home, it does not matter that their price may be increased by added customs duties, so long as they take the place of domestic products. The short-sighted manufacturer who wants protection so that it will prevent outside competition, will not be satisfied with anything less than the total exclusion of foreign goods. But if a tariff is constructed on those lines how will it yield large revenues?

It must be apparent to every intelligent citizen that the two reasons which the Press gives for returning to McKinleyism directly contradict each other. A high tariff either excludes foreign goods, in which case no revenue is derived, or else it admits them to our markets. It cannot prevent competition and at the same time provide for public expenses. It is either a barrier to commerce or a fraudulent pretense to benefit our home industries. In either case it is an exploded superstition.

Splendid Results from "Free Wool."

The great impulse and quickening which the Wilson "free wool" tariff and lower duties have given to American manufactories of woollen fabrics are daily becoming more and more evident.

The demand for American raw wools under the new tariff has so increased that the price has risen about two cents per pound. During the eleven months ending with May last 185,231,341 pounds of wool (eleven-twelfths of which were by the Wilson law free of duty) were imported to meet the new and large demand of our expanding woollen industries. This vast amount exceeded by 136,000,000 pounds the imports of the corresponding period of the previous year. In nine months ending May last 71,320,453 pounds of clothing wool were imported.

The American people will save on their clothing and other woollen goods tens of millions of dollars every year through the operation of the Wilson tariff. Manufacturers are placed by it in the best position they ever occupied. Already labor also has begun to profit by the Wilson tariff, and in forty woollen mills wages have been reported advanced. "Protectionists" are dazed and dismayed by these splendid results of free trade in wool.

Don't Know that They Are Dead.

The calamity wailers who are trying to convince the American people that the country is suffering from the blight of free trade do not seem to realize that their laments fall on closed ears. Their wilful blindness to the wonderful improvement in trade and industry which has followed the adoption of the Wilson tariff resembles the perversity of a miner who had fallen down a shaft. Thinking that the unfortunate man was dead, his comrades placed him in a coffin and started to carry him to the graveyard. On the way the supposed corpse pushed off the coffin lid and, sitting up, asked: "Where am I?" "Whist, ye blackguard," was the reply, "don't you know when you're dead?"

The McKinleyites who were laid out in 1892 are foolish enough to think that the defeat of the Democrats last fall means the revival of the high tariff corpse. But the elections of 1894 merely showed that the people were disgusted with Democratic delay in abolishing protection, and now that the result of less than a year of tariff reform has been to restore the prosperity which McKinleyism blighted, there will be no more talk from the late lamented.

Abandoning McKinleyism.

The Chicago Tribune, one of the leading Republican organs of the West, refuses to join with its high tariff contemporaries in their claim for the restoration of McKinleyism. In a recent editorial that paper shows that it realizes that the drift of public sentiment is against returning to protection, and advocates an increase in internal revenue taxation to meet any deficit in the public revenues. The Tribune's conversion to sound economic doctrines is further emphasized by its statement that there is no way in which the revenues can be so easily increased as through direct taxes.

This change of position on the part of a Republican paper is important as evidence that the logic of Democratic good times is convincing the people that any further agitation for high tariffs and trade restrictions would be injurious to the business interests of the country. Newspapers reflect the sentiments of their readers and patrons, and, if a prominent Chicago daily finds it expedient to oppose Republican tariff tinkering, it shows that the business men of that city are satisfied to let well alone. Of course the narrow partisan papers, which are paid to spread lies by the monopolists who were benefited by McKinleyism, will continue to publish what their owners dictate. But the independent press is finding that the tide of commercial prosperity is running too strong to check it by demands for the high taxes and commerce restriction which caused the panic of 1893-94. It therefore avoids the tariff question or favors tariff reform. In either case these papers furnish proof of the wisdom of the Democratic policy.

Wages in America.

The American monopolist revives the high tariff chestnut that in twenty-six Republican States wages in 1890 averaged $1.33 per day, while in eighteen Democratic States wages averaged only 87 cents per day, and claims that this is evidence of the beneficent effects of protection. The fact that the alleged statistics are untrustworthy is not of much importance, for cooked figures are the principal stock in trade of the high tariff jugglers. But the monopolist's statement is in itself the clearest proof of the falsity of the claim that high tariffs make high wages. For it is certain that the great and glorious McKinley tariff was the same all over this country. The workingmen in Alabama and Vermont were protected just as much as those of Massachusetts or Illinois. There was no difference between the burdens of taxation laid on California and on New York. Yet the rate of wages varied in every State of the Union, though not according to their political complexion, as stated by the monopolist. Why? The protectionists who pretend that wages depend on tariffs, have never tried to explain how it comes about that the same high tariff policy produces such varying results in different States. Not only that, but in the same States, for wages in various parts of New York State, for instance, differ as widely as they do in Georgia and Pennsylvania. Will not some protectionist come forward and clear up this mystery? If not, the natural inference will be that protection does not and cannot raise wages, and that the pretense that it does is a piece of demagogy by which the working people were deluded into voting for the high taxation policy.

Two Hearts that Beat as Two.

Foraker took the stump in McKinley's campaign in 1891, though he prayed every day that McKinley might be defeated. The Governor will make a showing for the party's sake; but he will be against Foraker for Senator, and Foraker will be against McKinley for President. The Governor would prefer Brice to Foraker for the first-named office, and rather than support McKinley for President Foraker would vote for Wade Hampton of South Carolina, Simon Bolivar Buckner of Kentucky, Joe Wheeler, the "rebel" cavalry leader of Alabama, Grover Cleveland of Buzzard's Bay, or the devil.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The People Have Seen Light.

This country grew rich under the McKinley law for awhile, and the fact deceived those who knew no better. But the people are now beginning to understand that the country increased in wealth not because of protection, but in spite of it. They see that the $1,000,000,000 taken annually from the earnings of the people to enrich the trusts and favorites was a draft upon the bone and sinew of labor. They understand now that this money serves as a fund by which earners may buy comforts for their families, and thus increase the volume of business among tradesmen.—Kansas City Times.

Responsibilities Not to Be Shirked.

The people are delegating too much power to individuals. We are exalting officialism to an undue degree. Citizenship means more than voting and paying taxes. We cannot shirk our responsibilities or unload them upon men chosen to official position.—St. Louis Republic.

Yes, It "Razes" Wages.

"Protection raises wages," wrote the Republican tariff liar. But the intelligent compositor set it up "Protection razes wages," and his free trade friends congratulated the editor on his eclipse into truthfulness.

Something New in History.

Ex-Gov. Foraker says "there will be no treachery in the Ohio delegation to the next Republican national convention." If true, that certainly will be something out of the ordinary.—Toledo Bee.

Impure Blood

Manifests itself in hives, pimples, boils, and other eruptions which disfigure the face and cause pain and annoyance. By purifying the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cures these troubles and clears the skin. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes that tired, drowsy feeling so general at this season, and gives strength and vigor.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye to-day. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure habitual constipation. Price 25 cents.

How Sumner Evaded a Question.

When the Prince De Joinville was at Bathurst any years ago he was received by the Royal African Corps, black troops officered by white men. He attended a dinner party, wherein mulattoes appeared in full evening dress, low bodices, lace handkerchiefs, and fans. Afterward, dining at Washington with Charles Sumner, the great abolitionist, the Prince amused himself by telling about his Bathurst dinner, and asked Sumner whether he had ever given his arm to a negress. The Prince awaited his answer with some curiosity, to see whether he would dare answer in the affirmative before the American ladies, who were quite sensitive on the color question, but he got out of it very adroitly. "My dear Prince," said he, "in every religion each man has his own share of work. I preach and you practice. Don't let us mix the two things up together."

MANY WOMEN SUFFER

FROM LACK OF INFORMATION.

Doctors Are Too Reserved. A Woman Should Be Dealt With Openly.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Women are often allowed by their physicians to suffer much from lack of information and anxiety.

Many medical men are vain, and it is a struggle for them to acknowledge that they do not understand a case. Women do not investigate; they have faith in their doctor, and often wreck their lives through this unfortunate confidence.

In the treatment of female diseases men work from theory; and it is not to be expected that they can treat as intelligently those complaints from which they have never suffered, as a woman can who has made the organism and diseases of her sex a life study.

Women afflicted with female diseases are wise in communicating promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Their distressed condition is due to womb trouble, and their symptoms tell the story.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the one remedy that removes the cause, and restores health, courage, and happiness. The druggists sell more of it than all other female medicines. Why?

The following short letter speaks for itself. Mrs. Parker is a very young wife; only twenty-one years old. She was suffering untold misery when she wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice. See the result.

Can evidence be stronger than this?

"I deem it my duty to announce the fact to all my fellow-sufferers of all female complaints that your Vegetable Compound has entirely cured me of all the pains and suffering I was enduring when I wrote you last May. I followed your advice to the letter, and the result is wonderful."—MRS. CHAS. PARKER, Little Falls, Minn. Any druggist has it.

FRIENDS' OATS

Friends' Oats
FOR OLD AND YOUNG.
ALL GROCERS SELL
FRIENDS' ROLLED OATS

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief. Price 25 cts. ASTHMA. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass.

CATARRH CURED FOR 50 CTS. WHEN ALL ELSE FAILS. Most Quick Byron. Causes Cool. Use in time. Sold by druggists. INSUFFLATION

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

IMPORTANCE OF COMMODIOUS PLAYGROUNDS.

Children Must Have Room in Which to Exercise—What Becomes of Woman Graduates—Practice of Giving College Degrees Is Denounced.

Reform Is Needed.

The experience of older cities has been of incalculable value to the founders and managers of public schools in the west. We have profited by adopting what was best in the older sections of the country, and avoided their errors to a large extent. The result is school buildings of the most approved and convenient type, in the construction of which the health of the children is a prime consideration. As a rule commodious playground surrounds the buildings, thus combining two important elements in the physical well-being of pupils.

After years of agitation Philadelphia has awakened to the importance of playgrounds around schools. "It has always been difficult for the people in the closely built portions of the Quaker City," according to the Times, "to know what to do with their children in play hours. The parks are distant, the public squares infrequent, and the streets, the only place left for poor children to play, are practically forbidden to them by the necessities of rapid railway travel. Playgrounds of some sort have thus become an urgent necessity. The yards of the school houses are very inadequate, but they are the only thing available for this purpose and their use is so obvious that every one who thinks about it must wonder that it was not thought of before.

"The good people who have brought about this very simple provision for the comfort of the children, and have undertaken the necessary care of the school yards and of those using them, are entitled to gratitude and support. But the fact that there are so very few school houses in the city surrounded by playgrounds of any considerable size calls attention to a very serious error or oversight that ought to be avoided in the future. It would be difficult and costly now to enlarge the spaces surrounding most of the existing school houses, but the new schools are usually in advance of the population, and wherever a public school house is to be built, care should be taken to secure sufficient space to provide an adequate playground, for use both during the school session and in the summer vacation.

"Our public schools have not kept pace with private schools in the recognition of the importance of physical care and recreation. With all the advance in methods of instruction, attention is fixed on the class room only, and the playground has been forgotten. Yet healthy bodies are essential to the formation of healthy minds, and a first step in this direction would be to give the children abundant breathing space and room in which to exercise when out of school."

College Degrees.

The New York World, under the head of "Humbug College Degrees," says: In again refusing to accept a college degree as doctor of laws President Cleveland has set a good example. It is also a badly needed example. The country has a large variety of humbugs. Some of them are more or less harmless, but the man who goes around pretending to be a master of all the arts, a teacher of all the laws and a laurel-crowned expert in all the sciences, when as a matter of fact he could not pass an honest examination for teacher in a primary school, is a very pernicious humbug indeed. The number of such humbugs is already large and it is increasing. Some of them never saw a college in their lives. More, however, are college graduates. Some of them are even college professors. Some are the authors of pretentious volumes on learned subjects in which profound ignorance is concealed by still more profound obscurity. But no matter where found they one and all set up for 22-degree Brahmins, sole oracles of learning and sole keepers of the altar before which the profane must offer their sacrifices of ghee. Mr. Cleveland has done well not to become one of these. He has acted nobly in resisting the temptation to become a humbug doctor of laws.

We Teach Them Cruelty.

The Indian brings to his papoose a miniature bow and arrow that he may begin in infancy his training as a future hunter. The civilized man brings to his baby a whip; he doubtless could not say for what reason, but the lesson is one in cruelty. With this whip he is taught to strike the cat, the dog, his brothers, and even his parents. The person who is struck pretends to cry, and every one else laughs, and so he is taught to take pleasure in the sufferings of others; for he has no comprehension of the fact that the manifestations of pain are only a pretense.

If no whip is at hand, he perhaps is taught to pound with his fists, to strike with open palm, or to pull hair, stimulated to increase these demonstrations by the encouraging laughter of lookers-on. It is "so cute" in the baby. By-and-by when, in a fit of angry disobedience, he strikes mamma in the face, he is surprised to be struck by her in turn, and no doubt wonders at her injustice, as well he may. In the spirit of retaliation, which is a spirit of cruelty, children are taught to strike the chair or door against which they have fallen, and to say, "Naughty chair, to hurt baby."

The child does not distinguish, by reason, between revenging himself upon an inanimate object and upon a person; so it is not surprising that, when he is hurt by some one, accidentally or not, he flies at the person in a fury and puts into practice the lesson he received in regard to the chair.

Cruelty to animals is often taught by the acts of older people. The father kicks the cat or dog, and, when remonstrated with, replies angrily, "Let it keep out of my way, then;" and the child imbibes the idea that dumb creatures have no rights which creatures who can swear and scold are bound to respect; and, instigated by the former lessons of taking pleasure in the sufferings of others, amuses himself by tying tin cans to the dog's tail, or swinging the cat by hers. A refinement of cruelty is often taught children by the unkind remarks of older persons concerning those who are unfortunate in birth or surroundings.

Commencement Time.

The unusually large number of graduates going out from the leading colleges and universities this year is especially noteworthy when viewed in connection with the recent financial depression. It would not have been surprising if the hard times had lessened the number of graduates for several years by compelling the students to leave their college courses unfinished and by keeping would-be collegians out of college altogether. But instead of this the natural increase in numbers has gone on almost unchecked. It seems likely that the business depression has worked both ways; it has doubtless kept many away from college, but it has perhaps kept others in college because of the difficulty of securing positions in the world of business. At any rate, the colleges are turning out the full quota of graduates this year, and at many institutions the graduating classes are larger than ever before.

One very significant fact which is made prominent at commencement time is the rapidly increasing number of higher degrees granted by American universities. The number of graduate students has been growing steadily in the last few years, and all the leading universities have made some special provisions for advanced instruction. In a number of institutions the regular college work has become of comparatively little importance, so rapidly have the graduate departments grown, and some of the newer universities are seeking to confine themselves almost entirely to advanced instruction. As a result many students who a few years ago would have gone to Germany or England for their finishing touches and higher degrees are content to receive both in this country. There is now scarcely any department of knowledge in which some American university cannot make a creditable showing, and it is no longer necessary to go abroad in order to be thoroughly educated.

It was formerly the fashion to sneer at newly fledged college graduates, on the assumption that they were very conceited young persons who thought they had a monopoly of the world's knowledge. The fashion is happily outgrown, and to-day it is universally recognized that while a college education is not everything it is a very desirable thing to have and an excellent preparation for the practical work of life. Perhaps the college graduates of to-day are in reality less conceited than were those of a few years ago. The growth of advanced studies and the whole system of college teaching has impressed upon them the fact that they have but made a beginning, and that education is a matter of a lifetime. Perhaps such knowledge as they have is of a kind less despised by practical men of the world than that gained by their predecessors. For there is an intimate connection to-day between college studies and the most important practical affairs of life. The college graduate, even if he has gone no further than the college, has an advantage in every walk of life over the young man who has not gone to college.

Then welcome to the young men and women of '95, and may their highest hopes and aspirations be realized.—Chicago Record.

The Small Boy on Essay Writing.

I don't believe 'twas hard to do,
When Homer wrote to Troy;
There were no rules for him to watch,
No grammars to annoy.

He had no slang to guard against—
He spelt the easiest way;
The subjects were not threadbear then
Because he had first say.

And Dante had it easy, too,
In Florence when he wrote;
He made each phrase as he went on;
There were no words to quote.

The common talk of every day
Was good enough to use;
"Too trite" was something never heard,
There were no terms to choose.

Old Chaucer had no task at all;
He wrote what came along;
He put down just what people said
And couldn't spell words wrong.

You see no one had tried before
To write this brand-new speech,
So Chaucer fixed it his own way
For all the schools to teach.

It wasn't bad when Shakspeare lived;
The right no one could tell;
There were no dictionaries then—
No wonder he wrote well.

Now it gets harder all the time;
Each word must mean just so.
The very turn you'd like the best
Is one that will not go.
—Journal of Education.

Women Graduates.

An English review, mindful of the class curious to know what becomes of the women graduated from the universities of that country, finds that of the 720 who have been at Newnham between the years 1871 and 1893, 37 were foreigners, who have gone home, and whose subsequent career is unknown; 16 have died, 374 are engaged in teaching, 47 of this number being married, and 230 are living at home, 108 of the latter number having married. Of those who have been at Girton since its foundation to the year 1893, 467 students in all, 335 have completed their course, 123 are teaching, and 45 are married. The Girton statistics show that while the young women who obtain the honor-degree certificates marry, not as many of them marry as of those who take the ordinary pass degrees. But that does not seem to prove anything, because the number of honor students is usually much smaller than the other class of students.

The latest catalogue of Harvard University records the names of 19,535 graduates, of whom 10,179 are living, Dr. Furness of Philadelphia being the senior alumnus. Four classes, 1821, 1824, 1825 and 1830, are extinct. A count of all the degrees granted by the college since its foundation sums up 22,260 and one of the latest of them is that of A. M. conferred upon Joseph Jefferson, the actor.

Harvard has just given its diploma to 678 graduates, Yale to 575 and the University of Michigan to 691. Never before were there so many college-bred men and women in the world as to-day.

MARKED MONEY.

Curious Mania for Writing Sententious Sentiments on Bank Notes.

A mania for advertising and putting strange communications on the back of the paper money of the Government has broken out. As a general thing torn bills are used, as that gives the man with the mania an excuse for his work, for he uses the slip with which the pieces are put together for his purpose. On a bill that came into the hands of one man on Dearborn street was a slip on which was printed "Shake the bottle." When he turned it into the bank the receiving man, whose quick eye caught it, asked: "Did you bring the bottle with you?"

On a $5 bill handed over a bar on Monroe street was a slip on which was this:

"Touch not, taste not, handle not."

A Dearborn street bank took in a $500 bill not long ago on the back of which was pasted a slip that had printed on it the ten commandments.

A cashier in a mercantile house on Randolph street has a bill of $2 denomination on which is a slip, and on the slip is written in a woman's chirography an offer of marriage. The writer puts it thus: "I give up my last money on this. I send it out into the world, hoping it may return to me with a good man who will love me and take care of me." But no address accompanies the offer.

A bill is in a frame in an express office. There is a hole in the bill, and a note explains that the hole was made by a bullet fired by a train robber. The bill was in the side pocket of the express messenger.

A bill handed in at a cigar store on Madison street had this on the back:

"Don't come back to me until you can bring your silver brother with you."

A physician in the Venetian building has a private mark on a $5 bill which he sent afloat several years ago. It comes back to him about twice a year.

A wholesale merchant over on Adams street was in China and Japan a few years ago. He gave a Japanese functionary a $5 bill as a souvenir, placing on the same a private mark. About three weeks ago it came into his possession again. He is confident that he is not mistaken in the mark, and does not feel complimented over the idea that his Japanese acquaintance did not think enough of him to keep the bill.

A business man of this city relates this: He went from Chicago to Pittsburg on a sleeper. He paid the conductor for his berth, giving him a marked $5 bill. He went from Pittsburg to Cleveland the second day, and on the third day he bought a sleeping car ticket for his return trip. The conductor handed him the same bill he had given to the other conductor.

There is a bill floating about the country somewhere on the back of which is a prescription written by a reputable physician several years ago. It is a "sure cure" for the grip and was put there by the doctor out of a fancy that it might save somebody's life.

Another one is in circulation, presumably, on which is written: "If this should fall into the hands of Reuben Middleman he will please communicate his address to his brother James, General Delivery, Boston, Mass., on or before January, 1896. After that in England. He knows where."—Chicago Tribune.

A Slave from Boyhood.

(From the Red Wing, Minn., Republican.)

"I am now 24 years old," said Edwin Swanson, of White Rock, Goodhue County, Minn., to a Republican representative, "and as you can see I am not very large of stature. When I was 11 years old I became afflicted with a sickness which baffled the skill and knowledge of the physician. I was not taken suddenly ill but on the contrary I can hardly state the exact time when it began. The first symptoms were pains in my back and restless nights. The disease did not trouble me much at first, but it seemed to have settled in my body to stay and my bitter experience during the last thirteen years proved that to be the case. I was, of course, a child and never dreamed of the suffering in store for me. I complained to my parents and they concluded that in time I would outgrow my trouble, but when they heard me groaning during my sleep they became thoroughly alarmed. Medical advice was sought, but to no avail. I grew rapidly worse and was soon unable to move about, and finally became confined continually to my bed. The best doctors that could be had were consulted, but did nothing for me. I tried various kinds of extensively advertised patent medicines with but the same result.

"For twelve long years I was thus a sufferer in constant agony without respite. Abscesses formed on my body in rapid succession, and the world indeed looked very dark to me. About this time when all hope was gone and nothing seemed left but to resign myself to my most bitter fate, my attention was called to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Like a drowning man grasping at a straw, in sheer desperation I concluded to make one more attempt—not to regain my health (I dared not hope so much), but, if possible, to ease my pain.

"I bought a box of the pills and they seemed to do me good. I felt encouraged and continued their use. After taking six boxes I was up and able to walk around the house. I have not felt so well for thirteen years as during the past year. Only one year have I taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I am able now to do chores and attend to light duties.

"Do I hesitate to let you publish what I have said? No. Why should I. It is the truth and I am only too glad to let other sufferers know my experience. It may help those whose cup of misery is as full to-day as mine was in the past."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

Inventor of the Winnowing Mill.

"Fifty-three years ago I invented the winnowing mill now in common use," says Moses Gilman of South Sangerville. "If I had had it patented I might have realized a fortune from it, as all the machines that have been built since have been upon the same principle. Even the thrashing machine separators, which have superseded the old-time flail, use the winnowing mill substantially as I first made it for clearing the chaff from the grain. I have invented many other things that were valuable, but I never asked for a patent." Mr. Gilman, though 77 years old, is still at it, inventing, and says if his strength and reason hold out he is going to produce some valuable new ideas yet.—Lewiston Journal.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Was Willing to Work.

The tramp was very humble when he asked for something to eat.

"Please, mum," he said, "I'm starvin'. Won't you give a poor feller as has lost all his fam'ly a bite to eat?"

But there was something cold and suspicious in her manner. She was inclined to doubt his honesty from the start.

"Want pie, I s'pose," she said sharply.

"No, mum," he answered meekly. "I'm afeared pie'd be too rich fer me now."

"Doughnuts, mebbe," she suggested.

"No, mum," he replied. "Doughnuts is all right, but I ain't expectin' 'em. A poor lone man that's down on his luck can't afford to be partickler. Some cold victuals that's left over'll do a hungry man plenty good enough. Ain't you got a little stale bread that the dog don't want?"

"Poor man," she said, considerably mollified. "I believe you really are hungry."

"Yes, mum—starvin', regularly starvin'."

Then she tried the last test of sincerity.

"See here!" she said. "A man that's real hungry will work to get something to eat."

"I'll work," he replied promptly. "I'm a workin' man. I've worked fer the city. Give me suthin' to eat an' I'll work fer you."

"I'll try you," she exclaimed; and then, after he had eaten enough for two men she said:

"I s'pose you can use a hammer and saw?"

"No, mum," he returned apologetically.

"Well, you can handle a shovel, anyway."

"No, mum."

Her first suspicions returned and she eyed him sharply.

"You said you'd work for your dinner," she exclaimed.

"Yes, mum," he replied. "But I ain't used to workin' except on the municipal sewer pipe extension plan."

"What's that?" she asked.

"W'y, mum, all a feller has to do is jest to step up an' draw his pay. I've drawn mine now, an' I cheerfully certify that the cookin' was good. Good day, mum."—Times-Herald.

He Had a Snoring-Room.

"I'm only a smooth-water sailor," the late millionaire horseman, John A. Morris, used to say. He had his yacht, the Cora, named for his wife, built for the shallow waters around New Orleans, and found it almost totally unfit for the rougher element here. Its cabins were like the rooms in a house, and all its furnishings and equipments were sumptuous. It was slow and rolling, says a writer in the New York Times, but was good enough to go to the races in. When in command of the deck Mr. Morris made it a rule to concede the right of way to every craft he met. "These people are working," he would say, "while I am only out for fun. It is my business to give way to them." But, with his customary shrewdness, he had another reason, which he never mentioned: "By getting out of the way of these people I make them my friends. If anything were to happen—if the Cora were to run down a vessel by any chance, these people would not make much of a fuss about it. They all know me and my boat, and never give way, because they know I shall do it." He snored like a bull. On the deck of the yacht he built a snoring room, where he could bellow and snort without disturbing his guests. The boat was stocked with the finest wines and liquors, cordials, etc., but they were for his friends. He never touched them. He was the finest carver I ever knew. He used the most wonderful knife, and never was known to miss a joint. When the Cora was at New Orleans Mr. Morris turned it over to his young friends. Every day some young lady would receive a note to the effect that the yacht was hers the next day, and as many of her friends as she cared to invite.

An Echo of the Summer Resort.

He was in the ribbon department. She saw him and rushed to meet him.

"Ah, I have found you at last!" she cried. "This weary search that began away last summer is now ended."

"What," he asked in perfect composure, "can I do for you?"

"I want our engagement broken. It has worried me more than tongue can tell."

"Certainly, miss. Is there anything else to-day?"—Judge.

Laugh and Grow Fat!

You shall do both, even if you are a slab-sided, pallid, woe-begone dyspeptic, if you reinforce digestion, insure the conversion of food into rich and nourishing blood, and recover appetite and sleep by the systematic use of the great renovator of health, strength and flesh, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which also remedies malarial, kidney and rheumatic trouble, nervousness, constipation and biliousness.

Burr's Infinitisimal Soul.

When the timid colonial clergymen were afraid to criticise Aaron Burr's treason, they asked Lorenzo Dow what he thought of Burr's meanness. He raised both hands like a great V, and shouted: Aaron Burr, mean! Why, I could take the little end of nothing whittled down to a point, punch out the pith of a hair, and put in 40,000 such traitor souls as his, shake 'em up, and they'd rattle."

THE Nickel Plate road has compiled a list of country homes along the south shore of Lake Erie, willing to accommodate summer boarders, and a copy will be mailed to any address by enclosing a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road or to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent.

Sit Up Straight on Your Bicycle.

There is absolutely no reason for stooping over the handles in either of the two ways so commonly seen—and there is no excuse for so doing—in ordinary road riding. It may be necessary for the "scorcher" to assume the one or the other of these attitudes—to sprawl with the body straight but almost horizontal, and the head close to the handle bar, or to bend the upper part of the back as if trying to break it in the middle, and throw the shoulders forward as if desiring to make them meet across the breast. Even so—one who is not "scorching" does not need to make himself a hideous object to look at, and also to reduce the benefits of wheeling to a minimum, so far as its effects on the chest capacity is concerned.—Scribner.

THE First Excursion on the Nickel Plate Road to Niagara Falls will be Aug. 19th. Ask agents for schedule of special train and rates.

WHAT is said to be the largest ice rink in the world has just been opened in London. The hall measures 22,000 square feet, of which 10,000 are covered with ice.

Skinny Sufferers Saved.

Tobacco users as a rule are always below normal weight because tobacco destroys digestion and causes nerve irritation that saps brain power and vitality. You can get a quick, guaranteed relief by the use of No-To-Bac, and then if you don't like your freedom and improved physical condition you can learn the use of tobacco over again, just like the first time. No-To-Bac sold under guarantee to cure by Druggists everywhere. Book free. Ad. Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

Linwood Park, Vermillion, Ohio,

A delightful summer resort located on the south shore of Lake Erie. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate road offered during the entire summer.

THE present Sultan of Morocco is descended from an Irish girl who became a member of the then royal harem more than 100 years ago.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

LAST year the Christian Endeavor Societies of the Presbyterian Church in the United States gave to missions $31,307.79.

AUG. 19TH the date!!
Niagara Falls the place!!
Nickel Plate the Road!!
Ask agents for schedule of special train and low excursion rates.

DAKOTA has a town named Patronage. Patronage is generally considered a good thing out of which to make capital.

Disorder.

That is the state of your stomach. You know it, you feel it, you show it. The remedy you need is Ripans Tabules. Safe, Sure, and Effective.

IN India cats sometimes have the cholera. Thus do the most terrible visitations prove blessings in disguise.

ENCLOSE a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road for an elaborately illustrated art souvenir entitled "Summer Outings."

"THAT was a pretty hard story to swallow," said the cellar when the upper part of the house fell into it.

I AM entirely cured of hemorrhage of lungs by Piso's Cure for Consumption.—LOUISA LINDAMAN, Bethany, Mo., Jan. 8, '94.

THEOLOGY sometimes mistakes fanaticism for faith.

LOW RATES TO LINWOOD PARK,

Vermillion, Ohio,

Are offered during the summer months by the Nickel Plate Road. A delightful summer resort.

DON'T hire a lawyer to help you quarrel.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WINNERS don't play other men's games.

THE first Niagara Falls Excursion of 1895 will be run over the Nickel Plate road Aug. 19th. Ask agents for time and rates.

GREAT BOOK FREE.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now distributing, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at the above address, this little COUPON with twenty-one (21) cents in one-cent stamps to pay for postage and packing only, and the book will be sent by mail. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains over 1000 pages and more than 300 illustrations. The Free Edition is precisely the same as those sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away. They are going off rapidly.

COUPON No. 112

DROPSY TREATED FREE. Positively CURED with Vegetable Remedies. Have cured many thousand cases pronounced hopeless. From first dose symptoms rapidly disappear, and in ten days at least two-thirds of all symptoms are removed. BOOK of testimonials of miraculous cures sent FREE. Ten Days Treatment Furnished Free by Mail. DR. H. H. GREEN & SONS, SPECIALISTS ATLANTA, GEORGIA

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att'y fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

"Thoughtless Folks Have the Hardest Work, but Quick Witted People Use

SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

PASTE STOVE POLISH. BRILLIANT LABOR SAVER. BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH is cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. H. F. Barnes, a reporter for the Sunday Herald, published at Canton, Ohio, under date of May 27, 1895, writes to the Ripans Chemical Company that he knows a workingman who has been benefited by Ripans Tabules after a severe attack of the Grippe, and he appends the following statement with permission to publish:

"Testimonial of Thos. J. Meals of the City of Canton, Stark County, Ohio:

"I had an attack of the Grippe four years ago this spring that left me in a bad way. My nervous system was broken down and my digestive apparatus in a condition that made me miserable for days.

"While able to work at my trade, as sheardman in a rolling mill, I suffered more or less all the time with my stomach. Bitters and tonics were literally taken by the gallon, and every variety of pills and potions that promised relief. I derived some benefit from the use of some of them if I continued taking them, but if I quit a few days my old trouble would return. Noticing the advertisement of the Ripans Tabules, for impaired and bad digestion, I concluded to invest in a few of them, which I am pleased to inform you have proven all or more than I expected of them. While I have taken but a few of them, they have done me more good than all the other remedies that I have tried. They relieve the belching and sour stomach almost at once, and I feel better in every way since I commenced taking them. The distressing headaches, which I always had preceding a fit of indigestion, have entirely left me. I will be glad to recommend the Tabules to anybody suffering from stomach troubles. (Signed) Thos. J. Meals, Canton, O."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

TEXAS
— VIA —
Wabash Line

Do you know that the farmer has more opportunities for making money in TEXAS than almost any State in this great country? Interest yourself in the subject and see how true this is.

REMEMBER, THE WABASH

Is the Great Steel Rail Highway to all points West and Southwest. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address the nearest Agent of the Wabash System, or write to

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DONBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

Powdered and Perfumed. (PATENTED.)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc. PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO., Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

FRANKLIN COLLEGE, New Athens, O. Board, tuition, rooms, and books, $3 a week. Catalogue free.

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper

LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Prominent Traveling Salesman.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN—I began taking LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS some time since for a very bad case of nervous dyspepsia and insomnia, and I am glad to state that it is doing for me what all other remedies tried by me failed to do—cure me. I have about finished my third box and I am more than pleased with its results, and I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering with nervous dyspepsia as a first-class medicine, and one that has merit. You are at liberty to use this letter in any manner you may see fit, as I am anxious indeed to have every one know who suffers with this dreadful disease how to get well.

Very truly yours,

G. R. RHOADES.

885 North Mississippi Street, City.

Found A Cure.

When moving into our present home I found a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm left by a former tenant, On the label I found the statement that it was good for cuts and burns. I can testify to the truth of this. Nothing in all my experience has found its equal for treating blisters or burns. F. E. Barrett, manager Le Sueur Sentinel, Le Sueur, Minn. Pain Balm is also a sure cure for Rheumatism. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31-35

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Like a Great Railway.

With its branches running in every direction, are the arteries and veins which convey the blood to every part of the system. A cold, sudden changes or exposure, may cause poisonous acids to clog the circulation, and then comes rheumatism. Beware! if you value life, remove obstruction with Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles by express—enough for a month's treatment,—with full special directions. Agents wanted. 32-34

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord drug store. 4

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB The World's Largest Clothing Store, CHICAGO, ILL.

Love is Still on Deck

Dr. Love at the County Home drops us a letter now and then, as he has something of a literary taste. His latest is to inform the people of the county that they have raised on the farm 1,100 shocks of good wheat ready to thresh. The "Doctor" also advertises for a "good woman" and as an inducement adds: "Dr. Moses Love has never been married, has no wife nor children." Well, Moses the fact that you are not married, may account for your having no wife, but not for the lack of children, for there are people right here in Auburn, that ——— well, we won't say further. He adds "Dr. Moses, wants a woman who can spell, read and write and talk english language." And here again Moses is tolerably safe, for he has made the conditions easy. We assure him that most modern women can spell and read fairly, can generally write a handsome hand, and every last one of them can talk. If the learned Doctor don't believe this last assertion, let him marry one of them, and then some night come home drunk and get into bed with boots on. But his strong hold on the chances for a good marriage are set forth in the last clause, where he says he is a wealthy farmer. That settles it. Dr. Moses Love is as good as married, for he has the two needed requirements, has avertised in the COURIER and has the shekels.

July Frost.

It often happens that we have a frost every month in the year, and that, too, without doing much damage. This has happened so far this year. For after the frosts we had in May and June, the last day of July brings a light frost. Yesterday morning it seems there was a slight frost. Word came that a field of corn a few miles east of town was cut down by frost and a report from Jackson of hurt done to potato fields.

LICENSE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that I intend to apply to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb county Indiana at their September session, 1895, for a license to sell spirituous, vinous and malt liquors in a less quantity than a quart at a time together with the privilege of allowing the same to be drank on the premises where sold. The premises where I desire to sell said liquors are located in section Six in Jackson township DeKalb county, Indiana and described as follows: A two story frame building situated on real estate bounded by the Wabash, St, Louis and Pacific Railroad right of way on the east, on the south by the Baltimore and Ohio and Chicago Railroad right of way, on the west by the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern right of way and on the north by the north line of Jackson township all in Auburn Junction, DeKalb county Indiana, the particular room in said building in which I desire to to sell said liquors is the west room on the first floor. I also desire to carry on the business of a Restaurant keeper in connection with said business, to be carried on on the first floor in the room east of, and separated from the room where where said liquors are to be sold as above stated.

HENRY J. MOSSEY.

August 5, 1895,

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg required to settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle. Is of more value than any other kithchen utensil Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satifactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth Kokomo, Ind.

"Mothers' Friend" Cures Rising Breast.

I have been a midwife for many years, and in each case where "MOTHERS' FRIEND" was used it accomplished wonders and shortened labor and lessened pain. It is the best remedy for RISING OF THE BREAST known, and worth the price for that alone.

Mrs. M. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

Sent by Express or mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed. WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Statistical Report.

The following is a statistical report of DeKalb county as taken by our township assessors and compiled by the Indiana bureau of Statistics:

Acres of wheat sown in fall of 1894	28 525
Acres of corn planted in 1895	25 372
Acres of oats sown in 1895	20 957
Acres of barley in 1894	313
Acres of rye sown in 1894	2 384
Acres of buckwheat sown in 1895	93
Acres of flax sown in 1895	27
Acres of Irish potatoes planted in 1895	1 543
Acres of sweet potatoes planted in 1895	15
Acres of melons planted in 1895	29
Acres of tobacco planted in 1895	1
Number of acres in strawberries outside of garden in 1895	81
Number of acres in timothy meadow in 1895	20 159
Number of acres in clover in 1895	10 122
How many rods of drain tile laid on your land past twelve months	38 778
Total rods of drain tile now on farm	334 883
Bushels of timothy seed saved for year ending April 1, 1895	535
Bushels of clover seed saved for year ending April 1, 1895	1 349
Gallons of milk taken from cows during past twelve months	1 612 865
Pounds of butter made past twelve months	433 331
Pounds of cheese made during past twelve months	430
HORSES, BY BREEDS.
Number all breeds	6 882
Number died during past year	953
MULES.
Number of mules, all ages	56
Number died during the past year	2
CATTLE.
Number of all breeds	9 442
No. milch cows	5 370
Number cattle dying during past year	201
HOGS.
Number pigs under three months old	11 907
Number hogs three months old over	12 779
Whole number died during past year	1 152
SHEEP.
Number Costwold sheep	287
Number Merino sheep	534
Number Southdowns	1 083
Number of all other breeds	15 284
Number of lambs	9 012
Number pounds wool clipped in 1894	120 654
Number pounds wool clipped in 1895	89 214
Number of sheep killed by dogs past twelve months	263
Number of sheep died of disease past twelve months	731
POULTRY.
NOTE—This applies only to those who raise poultry.
Dozens of chickens sold and used past twelve months	7 605
Dozens of turkeys sold and used past twelve months	1 110
Dozens of geese sold and used past twelve months	70
Dozens ducks sold and used during past twelve months	1 115
Dozens of eggs sold and used past twelve months	355 906
BEES.
How many colonies bees now on hand	1 325
ORCHARD TREES.
Number bearing apple trees	79 244
Number of bearing peach trees	5 753
Number of bearing pear trees	6 115
Number of bearing plum trees	1 538
Number of bearing quince trees	1 062
Number of bearing cherry trees	12 638
Number of grape vines, bearing	15 525
MISCELLANEOUS.
Number of binders	907
Number of mowers	1 244
Number of threshing machines	38
Number of clover hullers	28

Winona Assembly.

Work at the Presbyterian Chautauqua is now in progress, and there is a good attendance reported. Dr. McIntire, of Denver, lectures on the "Great Canon of of Arizona" Aug. 8 is "Good Citizenship" day. Prof. Stanley Coulter lectures Aug. 10. "Home Mission Work" is Aug. 4. Christian Endeavor work is from Aug. 16 to 22. Lectures on China and on South America, Aug. 13. August 12 a lecture on Korea. August 11, lectures on foreign Missions. Programs can be had by addressing "Winona Assembly" Eagle Lake Ind. There is so much that would be of interest that we have not space to publish all.

BATTLE AX PLUG

THE LARGEST PIECE OF GOOD TOBACCO EVER SOLD FOR 10 CENTS

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts newlife to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y30

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE POWDERED AND PERFUMED (PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, pails, tubs, etc.

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO. Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

Governor's Day.

MORE THAN 50,000 PEOPLE WITNESSED THE REVIEW.

Governor Mathews And His Staff All Present.

Thursday was Governor's Day when Governor Claud Mathews and his staff reviewed the entire Militia of the state of Indiana. A street car, neatly decorated with streamers of red and white around its upper edge and blue about the footboard, carried Governor Mathews and party to Fairview Park, reaching there at noon. The Governor and Mrs. Matthews took lunch at the restaurant pavilion at the park. The crowd was so large that one could not get any where near the number by making a rough guess, but the estimates were all the way between 50,000 and 75,000. The parade was grand, and every company in the state participated including the artillery companies. The reporter was in the city at about 2 p m. and found it almost an impossibility to get on a car to get back to camp. Two or three companies were stationed as guards to keep the crowd back. After the parade the majority of the large crowd paraded the grove in which the tents are. Indianapolis girls are here who have little or no reputation and we also suppose that there are some of the most respectable here. Some of the companies have their headquarters advertised as "Mashers Avenue" etc. But none of such nonsense is allowed in Co. K. Capt. Kuhlman believes in fun but does not care to run things to extremes.

One of the features of the state encampment is the brass bands. There are five of them and there is not a poor one in the lot. Every afternoon they appear on dress parade and no military company outranks them in appearance. After 6 o'clock mess two or three of the bands give concerts in the woods and attract more attention than the remainder of the white duck town. There is a possibility that this is the last year that these bands will take part in state encampments. Camp life has already grown irksome to them and one or two have asserted that they will do no more state service and declare that it will not be long before all withdraw. The bands have about one hour of actual service a day. The evening concerts are given voluntarily, as they afford the members a means of disposing of their time. Gen. McKee has pressed the rule of keeping the troops in camp very close. The band men especially are talking roundly against the restrictions and slipping over the lines is not uncommon when passes are denied them. The bands have no guard duty to perform. Their business in the camp is solely to furnish music. The only penalty to which they are subjected is a fine of a day's pay for leaving camp without a permit. If caught they are taken to the guard house.

The colored companies are quite sociable. Last night Co. M. came around and serenaded Capt. Kuhlman and to-day noon they gave a grand dinner at their headquarters to the officers of the Third Regiment. Some members of the company received calls to-day from Mr. and Mrs. Kibbe. He was formerly a Garrett man. The reporter also acknowledges a call from Miss Lillie Blood, formerly of Auburn, and her lady friend. Since the appointment of Sergeant Lobmiller to quartermaster, Co. K. is faring well so far as rations are concerned. Cal. Houser just informed us that he was on dress parade to-day for the first time in thirty-five years.

Among other things that the Indiana national guard has to contend with while in camp are chiggers. They outnumber the soldiers 20 to one. The Fairview park chiggers never had so much talent to work on and they are making the most of their time. Lieut. Clark awoke, the other morning, in time to see a chiggar or some other crawling thing dragging his boots out of the tent. Every man in the Third regiment is said to have a red spot the size of a half dollar in the small of his back, just beyond the reach of fingers.

Geo. Bishop has been appointed Sergeant of the Signal corps. Lieut Clark is appointed as Junior officer of the Day for Friday.

LATER.

The troops will break camp Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and will march to the city, arriving down town about 4 o'clock. The march will be continued through the principal streets. There will be in line four regiments of infantry three batteries of artillery, one signal corps and five bands. All the troops will be ordered to join in this march, and it is expected to make it the most imposing military spectacle that has been seen in Indianapolis since the war.

We will leave for home at 5:30 Saturday evening and will reach home at about 11 o'clock by special train over the Lake Shore.

Friday was a quiet day at Fairview. The only excitement is when the boys catch a colored boot black and pin him up in a blanket. Some of them run as soon as the boys say "get a blanket."

The fine baker's bread the boys have been feasting on since they came has run out and now they are doing the hardtack. Other rations are good and enough of them. Capt. A. L. Kuhlman is acting major this afternoon in the absence of Major Bowman, who is assisting in court martial.

The "nigger wenches" that are thick in camp are quite ready talkers. One passed a crowd of Company K. boys today and remarked that Corp. Wolf was the best looking fellow in the lot. Some of the men informed her that he was married though.

Harry Trentman went up town this morning and got his "Dingers" that E. M. Bishop expressed him. The boys from other companies patronize Harry as they say they cannot get anything fit to smoke any where else on the ground. The Dinger advertises itself.

Today will be the last full day of service in camp. The tents will probably fall before tomorrow noon. The companies will have to march to the city a distance of seven miles and then parade some of the principal streets.

There were three ex-Adjutant Generals witnessed the review yesterday, Gen. Lew Wallace, James R. Carnahan and Nicholas R. Ruckle.

Gen. Lew Wallace, was Indian's adjutant general under Governor Morton in the first weeks of the war for the Union, said; "I went through this camp carefully with Governor Mathews and his staff. I noticed particularly the condition of the quarters and the appearance of the men. As to the camp, take any ten regiments in the service during the war, and the condition of this camp of instruction would be better than the camp of eight of such ten regiments, and the men looked of the better sort. Evidently the discipline of the camp was good; intelligently enforced by the officers and willingly obeyed by the men. As they passed in review they impressed me as fine-looking, manly soldiers. Indiana has great reason to be proud of them, and they may be relied upon when an emergency arises."

The Trip Home

FROM THE CAMP OF INSTRUCTION AT INDIANAPOLIS.

The Indiana National Guards that were in camp at Fairview Park, Indianapolis, broke camp at noon Saturday. The first call to take down tents was at 9:30 and at 9:45 one of the big cannons was fired and the tents dropped. This was a grand sight to see. In ten minutes from the time the tents dropped they were all carried to the headquarters and the boys began to get ready for the march to the city. The distance was seven miles and was made on foot by the entire national guard. They were three hours in traveling the distance. Several of the members dropped out in the march but were taken up by the city ambulance which followed the procession. The troops were marched to the union depot where special trains conveyed them to their homes. The companies from the north part of the state left at 6:40 and Co K. arrived home at 1:15 Sunday morning. Too much credit cannot be given the Auburn boys for the gentlemanly manner in which they conducted themselves in camp and on the way home. But there are some exceptions. Two boys left camp Friday and did not return, and two or three others filled up on whisky at Indianapolis and were quite noisy coming home. There was considerable excitement in camp Friday night at 12 o'clock. Long roll call was sounded by the drums and the captains ran down along the tents where their men were quartered and ordered them to get out in full uniform with side arms and gun, as there was trouble in camp. Then what a mess in every tent. One man from Auburn put on his shoes and coat and side arms and got out for roll call and forgot to put on his pants. Some of the boys were badly scared. After roll call they were informed that they could go back to their tents as they only wanted to see how quick they could get out. Hon. Nick Ensley called Friday night and shook hands with the Auburn boys. He had all arrangements made to give us a reception but on account of the serious illness of his son Ollie, could not do it.

Obituary

John W. Rickel was born in Wayne county, O, April 13, 1825. Came to Auburn, Ind., in 1847. Was united in marriage May 29, 1852, with Miss Rachel C. Hicks, to whom were born a son, W. D. Rickel, who now resides at Auburn. The wife and mother departed this life May 30, 1859. On the 5th of April, 1860, he was united in marriage with Miss Mary Ralston of Plymouth, O. To them were born, three daughters, Dimmie E. Mrs. Minnie A. Rouch and Mary Lincoln, deceased.

Mr. Rickel attended Oberlin College for several years, after which he devoted some years in teaching, and after this engaged in the mercantile trade. In 1863 he was admitted to the DeKalb county bar. For the past thirty years he was engaged in the practice of law.

In 1865 moved with his family to Owatonna, Minn. The severity of the winter rendered it impossible for the family to remain in that climate, therefore removed to Auburn, where he filled various positions of honor and trust and was treasurer of the School Board for seven years. In 1878 moved to Rochester.

During the residence of himself and family in this place he was an active, industrious citizen. In his profession, business affairs and social relations he was courteous, upright and prompt. His devotion to his home, his wife, son and daughters was such as to be seemingly uppermost in his mind and first in the performance of duty. The sudden and unexpected demise of the loved husband and father is a bereavement that time cannot remove or memory efface.

The immediate cause of Mr. Rickel's sudden death was heart disease. He had for some time been in even better than ordinary health, and had been heard to say he had not been sick for twenty-five years But on the day of his death, as he walked down the street on his way to his home, he was taken with heart failure, and fell. People across the street saw him and hurried to him, laid him on the grass, and with a gasp or two he was dead. He was carried to his home, where of course the news came as a great shock. His death occurred July 25, at he age of 70 years, 3 months and 12 days.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

A TRIBUTE.

To the Memory of the Late Marion C. Huffman.

Marion Christian Huffman, son of William H and Sarah E. Huffman, was born April 28, 1869, and died July 27, 1895, at Auburn, Ind., within a few miles of his birthplace, aged 26 years, 2 months and 29 days.

He received his education in the common schools of this county. He was known as a quiet, industrious, obedient and trustworthy boy; kind to his associates; true to his friends; affectionate and obedient to his parents; ever mindful of the comfort and welfare of his mother.

In November, 1883, he moved with his parents to Newark, O., where he completed his growth to man's estate on the same lines so well begun in youth. Here he entered into the great school of life, which taught him to circumscribe his actions and keep them in due bounds toward all mankind; nor was this a task for him, who listened to the wishes of his mother and followed the precepts of his father. Early in manhood he learned the barber's trade, which he followed until May 1, of this year, when his failing health compelled him to give up work and return to his parents.

January 4, 1895, he knocked at the door of Newark Lodge, No. 97, F. & A. M., and he was admitted and made an Entered Apprentice in due and ancient form. March 1 he was passed to the degree of a Fellow-craft and April 28 was raised to the sublime degree of a Master Mason. Brother Huffman, though young in the order, had been deeply impressed with its truths and teachings and became a true and lawful brother. He had been taught the lesson of brotherly love, relief and truth. He had the designs drawn upon his trestle board for the erection of his Masonic edifice, in wisdom, strength and beauty, but his column is broken; the working tools of life have slipped from his hands forever, and his sun has gone down on his career before it had reached its noon. Death has claimed its own and transfered him into that summer land where the bond of our friendship is made perfect and our love immortal and unchanging.

Card Of Thanks.

We desire to tender our heartfelt thanks to all of our neighbors and friends for their thoughtful assistance and sympathy during our late bereavement, the death of our son, Marion Huffman.

MR. AND MRS. WM. HUFFMAN.

Bull Fight

Not the kind that Mexico and Spain have for fun, or to entertain their people who enjoy such bloody spectacles. But this was a very unpleasant experience our friend I. B. Brandon, and his son, Ass, had Thursday eve. Elmer Miller and his father-in-law, Geo. Apple, happened along in time to see the close of the trouble, and from them as well as from Mr. Brandon's people we learn some of the facts. Mr. Brandon was milking, when the bull got in his way and he undertook to drive him off, fin-taking a club to him. This only made the animal all the worse, and he plunged at Mr. Brandon, and struck him in such a way as to knock him down. Mrs. Brandon saw the trouble and called to her son Ass, who came to his father's rescue, just in time. But the bull turned on him, and with one lunge knocked him over, and as the impetus of the rush carried the annimal forward he stepped on Aza's leg, bruising it seriously. Luckily the bull had been dehorned, or he might have killed one, or both.

Ulla Brandon had a fight with the vicious bull last night. He had returned from Waterloo and was putting the horse in the stable when the animal tackled him. Fortunately there had been a load of broken brick put in front of the barn door and Ulla used plenty of them and kept him away. This morning he put the bull in the barn and in doing so had another fight. But one brick struck on the fore leg and another on the end of his nose and he gave up and walked in the barn like a pet. The animal will be slaughtered Tuesday. This trouble has all been brought about by the boys from town teasing the bull when he was in pasture. They would get on one side of the fence and throw clubs at him.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Mrs. Leighty Home.

Mrs. Leighty reached home according to the St. Joe News, and a reception will be held in her honor to-morrow, Friday evening. Mrs. Leighty has a wide circle of friends and her recent letters from Europe, have given her the reputation of a ready writer who was able to tell on paper what she saw in her travels. Her letters have been so very interesting that the COURIER has taken the liberty to copy all of them from the St, Joe News. We would feel we had failed in our duty to DeKalb county if we did not thus recognize one of its most worthy ladies.

Heart Disease 30 Yrs!

Short Breath, Palpitation.

Mr. G. W. McKinsey, postmaster of Kokomo, Ind., and a brave ex-soldier, says: "I had been severely troubled with heart disease ever since leaving the army at the close of the late war. I was troubled with palpitation and shortness of breath. I could not sleep on my left side, and had pain around my heart. I became so ill that I was much alarmed, and fortunately my attention was called to

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

I decided to try it. The first bottle made a decided improvement in my condition, and five bottles have completely cured me."

G. W. McKINSEY, P. M., Kokomo, Ind

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

"CELLULOID" COLLARS AND CUFFS are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," thus making them strong, durable and waterproof. When soiled they can be cleaned by simply wiping off with a wet cloth. No other waterproof goods are made with this interlining, consequently no other goods can possibly give satisfaction. Do not forget that every piece of the genuine is stamped as follows:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

Insist upon goods so marked and refuse anything else if offered. If your dealer does not keep them you can procure a sample from us direct by enclosing amount and stating size and whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair.

The Celluloid Company, 427-429 Broadway, New York.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies. Especially recommended to married Ladies. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. SEND FOR CIRCULAR. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.

Restored Manhood.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. AUGUST 15. 1895. NUMBER 33

SAY : :

HOW MUCH DO YOU OWE?

Who holds your mortgage? How much interest are you paying? Do you owe a building loan association anything? If you do, how much interest are you paying them? Unless you are better posted than the majority of people who have such loans, you cannot tell. You think you are paying 6 per cent. Do you know (of course not) that you are paying at least 12 per cent. If you think not, just figure it out yourself. Now then, are you not paying 6 per cent interest and 6 per cent premium? Certainly. Well now don't you know that premium and interest are the same thing—its all interest. Can you afford to pay 12 per cent interest to a loan association when even your banks only charge 8 per cent and you think they are charging too much, and when do you expect to have your loan canceled or paid off in full? You have been told 72 or 78 months. Now then, we undertake to say that it will take you 100 months, if you will call on us we will show you so you will be satisfied that we are right. Now then, we are prepared to loan you money on monthly installment plan for 8 per cent, we charge you no membership fee and you do not have to make three or more payments in advance so that if on account of insufficient security or bad title your loan is rejected you will not lose one cent. You pay nothing unless your loan is granted. We are making farm loans at from 3 to 5 per cent with privilege of partial payments.

ANOTHER THING!

There is scarcely a day but what there is some traveling agent for some building loan association in Auburn soliciting business, selling stock upon which they charge you a membership fee of from 50 cents to $1.00 per share, which amount goes to the agent and you never get back this money thrown away. If you will call on us we will take your application for all the stock you want in the BEST (we can prove it) building loan association in the state the INDIANA MUTUAL OF INDIANAPOLIS, and charge you NO MEMBERSHIP FEE AT ALL. This is certainly fair. If you have any investment stock in any association just write them a letter and ask them the withdrawal value of same, their reply will probably open your eyes. What would you say if you would deposit $8.00 per month in your bank for one year and wanted to withdraw the same and they would offer to pay you only about $80? The bank would only have to do this in one case to be compelled to retire from business. Now you pay ten dollars membership fee and 8 dollars for 12 months making 108 dollars, you lose the 10 dollars membership fee and 10 cents per share each month for expenses, making 12 dollars, or a total of 22 dollars loss upon which you would receive 6 per cent interest for average time on 96 dollars, making 2 dollars and 88 cts. from 22 dollars would leave you a loser of 19 dollars and 12 cents. In our association your stock is worth alll you have paid in, with its interest added, so that upon withdrawal you do not get less than you paid. We want the people of Auburn to become familiar with this matter, and would like to have any that are interested to call and talk with us, we can give you some pointers.

We are still in the Real Estate, Insurance and R. R. Ticket business.

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN INDIANA.

A West Pointer.

Will Zeigler has a photo sent him by a former pupil of his, who is now in the U S. Military Academy at West Point. He had been in Mr. Z's school the last term he taught in Ohio, and later obtained an appointment at West Point as a cadet. He has just passed successfully his examination for this, his third year, and next year will graduate. The picture shows a fine, straight built young man, in the familiar cadet gray. The close, tight-fitting uniforms make the young men appear much more slender than they naturally are. But the school is one of the most thorough and valuable in the world. They received the highest training both mental and physical, and so severe is the work, that less than half ever complete the four years course. But those who do, are of the best, and this fact helps to give our West Point officers high rank all over the world.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills. DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winnesheik Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

You can have most any article of iron or brass manufactured at the Junction Foundry.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Killed Instantly.

Mr. Brooks of Garrett the man Chris Fell had trouble with in Berg's Saloon was run over by a B. & O. train and killed at Syracuse Wednesday night. It appears that he came down this way from Syracuse a short distance and sat down on the track to wait for the passenger train that is due at Auburn Junction at 12:09 a. m. and fell asleep. A wheel passed over his head smashing half of it in a horrible manner.

STATE CHARITIES

The state meeting of the various Board of Charities of Indiana will be held at Ft. Wayne, October 15, 16 and 17. The president of the association is E. A. K. Hackett of Ft. Wayne and the secretary is Alexander Johnson of the same place. Any information or program can be obtained of them. This meeting will call together from all over the state the members of the various state charitable boards, and those interested in the cause of asylums, prisons, etc.

Superior to Any Other.

In order to introduce Chamberlain's Cough Remedy here we sold several dozen bottles on strict guarantee and have found every bottle did good service. We have used it ourselves and think it superior to any other. W. I. Mowery, Jarvisville, W. Va. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

How it Acts.

After using Drummond's Lightning Remedy for rheumatism, according to direction, for ten days. Mr. John W. Boyenton, of Hampton, Va., writes that he can walk and attend to business which he could not do before This remedy has a remarkable record of cure—not only relieving pain, but restoring all the functions of the crippled limbs. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles of their remedy with full direction for use. Agents Wanted. 32 34

All Free.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it, free. Call on the advertised druggist and get a trial bottle free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pill free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 4

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

FAR EAST

HISTORIC SCENES VIEWED BY A DE-KALB BOY.

BY GEO. M. HENDERSON.

Of the many roads of historic interest, leading from Boston, perhaps there is not one more traveled than the famous Paul Revere route leading to Lexington and Concord The way to visit either of the latter points is by wheel or carriage, instead of by rail, that you may stop at each of the many monuments at either side of the road, read the inscription upon them and sort o' absorb the grandness of the real scenery surrounding you. A few days since I had the pleasure of making this journey by wheel, in company with a party of Harvard students of the summer school. We left Cambridge at sunrise in the morning, passing out by the elm under which Washington took command of the American army, on through Arlington Heights, where we first stopped. Just beyond Arlington about two miles, is an old well, with a slab, bearing the following information to passers by: "At this well, April 19 1775, James Hayward, of Acton, met a British soldier, who raised his gun and said, "You are a dead man" and "so are you" replied Hayward. Both fired. The soldier was instantly killed and Hayward mortally mounded." As this was the road traveled by the British in Revolutionary times, nearly every half mile some monument stands out to inform people of some important incident taking place, of which it marks the site. After reaching Lexington we rode immediately to the Battle Grounds, where a very conspicious monument marks the spot of the first battle of the Revolutionary war. This monument serves the double purpose of also marking the grave of the soldiers who were killed in the battle. From the Lexington monument we copied the following: "The 19th of April, 1775 the die was cast. The blood of these martyrs in the cause of God and their country was the cement of the union of these states, then colonies, and gave the spring to the spirit, firmness and also resolution of their fellow citizen They arose as one man to revenge their brethern's blood, and at the point of the sword to assert and defend their native rights. They nobly dared to be free. The contest was long, bloody and affecting. Righteous Heaven approved the solumn appeal; victory crowned their arms; and the peace liberty and independence of the United States of America was their glorious reward." We spent some time in and about Lexington and then proceeded to Concord. The road is a winding one, over hills and through valleys and a very ideal one from a wheelman's stand point at least Concord is not a large village, but a sort of a summer resting place. Before reaching Concord, on the east perhaps a mile, we stopped at the "Way-side Inn" of which Hawthorne wrote, from thence we went direct to the Concord Antiquarian, an old house built in 1770. This house was once owned by John Brown, of Harper's Ferry fame. The house, so far as possible, has been furnished as if it were still occupied as a family residence, and the old kitchen especially, with its broad fire place, its churn and spinning wheels and all the old fashioned implements of house keeping, make it a novel sight. In it is furniture from "The Old Manse," including the study chair of the Rev. Daniel Bliss, the great grandfather of Emerson; an old piano, one of the first made in America; antique, high-posted bedsteads; ancient bureaus, mirrors and clocks; a cream pitcher once belonging to Robt Burns and a bit of tapestry from the bed chamber of Mary, Queen of Scots, and the lantern which was hung in Old South Church to signal Paul revere. Here are the tortoise shell combs, the high heeled shoes, the fans and the patch boxes of long forgotten belles. One room contains the desk of Henry Thoreau, his bed, his chairs and many personal belongings From this place we rode to Sleepy Hollow Cemetery. Ascending the hill by the path, at the west, Nathanial Hawthorne's grave is seen surrounded by a low hedge of arbor vitæ. His epitaph consists only of his name on a plain white stone. The grave of Thoreau is just behind with a granite stone. On the opposite side of the path is the grave of R W. Emerson, to which thousands of visitors come every year. A great pine stands near the grave, which is now marked by a monument of beautiful pink quartz, in its native state, as it came from the quarry. Near by is the grave of his mother. Many others of note are buried in Sleepy Hollow the Alcotts and Ripleys. We then visited the Emerson homestead as well as "the Old Manse," home of Hawthorne, during the latter years of his life; and from thence to Waldon Lake or pond. This is quite different from Indiana ponds. It is perhaps as beautiful a spot as can be found in America. It is a basin of water nestling among low hill. Its rare and lovely beauty attracted alike poets, philosophers and naturalists. Emerson rambled around it. Here he made his rustic study. In his poem, "My Garden," Emerson immortalized Walden Pond. Here Thoreau built his hut and lived, and the site of his house is now marked by a visitor's memorial in way of a pile of rocks, each visitor adding one to the number. The road or park leading to "Thoreau's hut" is a rambling one, down hills, through the woods, away from all civilization. After leaving Walden we returned to Concord and "took in" the monuments. Those which most impressed us were the "North Bridge Monument" and the "Minute Man." I spent some time studying the details of the latter monument, as the costume of the expectant soldier, the old fashioned plough upon which he leans, and the old flint-lock musket, which he grasps, are careful copies of the originals. Upon the granite base are cut the first lines of Emerson hymn: "Few towns can furnish a poet, a sculptor, and an occasion." Crossing then the North Bridge, we stopped at the grave of the British soldiers, who for a hundred years, have lain on the spot where they were hastily buried after the battle of Concord. By this time it was getting quite dark, and we reluctantly gave up looking for sights, and hurried to the Fitchburg station where we took a train for Boston, making the baggage master happy with twenty wheels. We have visited many of the points reached by boats and by rail from Portland Maine on north to Gray Gables on south and more can compare with our trip to Concord and Lexington by wheel.

Serious Accident

Sunday evening Charles McClellen with his wife and the latter's sister, Mrs. Hohmiller were driving about town, and among other points visited they drove through Evergreen Cemetery. While in the cemetery Mrs. Hohmiller went to get out of the carriage, and as she stepped one foot on the ground the horse started, thus throwing her off her balance and as the toe of the foot on the ground had caught in a small depression, she was still more helpless and was thrown to the ground in such a way as to break her leg just below the knee. She was helped into the carriage and taken home where Drs Swarts were called and set the fractured member. It was found that the large bone was broken and considerably shattered and it may be the other is injured. She suffered considerably last evening for a time but is to-day resting easier, and apparently in a fair way for an early recovery.

Geo. F. Root.

The famous music teacher and composer, Geo. F. Root died this week at his home in Chicago. He had been a well known teacher and composer years before the war and has taught more or less, ever since until the infirmities of age prevented. Before the war he had composed and given to the public many popular songs including "Hazel Dell," "Only Waiting," "There's Music in the Air," etc. But his greatest fame was made by the war songs he sent broadcast over the land and into homes and camps. Among these were, "Just Before the Battle," "Battle Cry of Freedom," "Vacant Chair," "Tramp, Tramp," and in fact nearly all of the war songs that attained popularity. They were, perhaps, not of the highest musical or poetic order, but they were such as to reach the popular heart and mind in those stirring times, and some of them will always be popular for the patriotic and home sentiments they so touchingly embody.

Another Accident

Junction Correspondence.

Yesterday afternoon about 4:30, Carl Harris thought he would hitch up his father's horse to a light wagon and go to the creek and get some gravel for his father's full blooded Plymouth Rocks, which he is taking good care of as he intends to enter them in the poulty show next winter and receive first premium. Carl drove down to the creek with his brothers Onto and Walter and some other boys, loaded up his gravel, and in starting out broke his singletree. Onto wanted him to unhitch and go home with the horse and they would haul the wagon in by hand, but this did not suit him so he took off the holdbacks, and patched up the singletree and started. Everything went well until they got up to Clyde Woodcox's when some other boys tried to get on the wagon. Carl commenced to whip up the horse at which she started off at a brisk gate. Carl then began to hold in on the horse. At this the wagon run up against the horse's legs and she became frightened and started to ran going past old Mrs. Benner's and by the time he reached the B. & O. railroad the horse was uncontrollable and turning the corner started back for the creek. In the meantime the rest of the boys jumped out. But Carl stuck to the wagon until they reached the pike where the horse left the wagon throwing him out on his arm and putting it out of place. Carl walked most of the way back, but never offered to cry. Dr's. Matheny and Himes were called and set it without much difficulty. Carl says he will leave the holdbacks where they belong next time and patch the singletree in some other way.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

AGENTS WANTED! To Take Orders.

Trade established, position permanent, weekly pay. WE PAY LIBERAL SALARY AND EXPENSES TO SUCCESSFUL AGENTS. Now is the best time to start. For terms write quickly. ELLWANGER & BARRY, Rochester, N.Y. Mount Hope Nurseries. Established 1840.

PEOPLE ARE BUYING EARLY

The Fall Trade is opening up much earlier than ever before.

WE BUY EARLY

as possible because we feel that we not only get the Closest Prices, but also the "CREAM" of everything in our line. No doubt you feel the same as we do. At any rate we are prepared to show you a very

CHOICE STOCK OF

New Dry Goods,
New Clothing,
New Hats and Caps,
New Gents' Furnishings,
New Carpets

Which we have bought for cash and are offering at the lowest possible living prices. All Summer Goods at Less than Cost.

SCHAAB & BRO.

Don't Forget

That we are HEADQUARTERS FOR

Bryan Plows, Ball Bearing Disc Harrows, Superior and Empire Grain Drills, Turnbull Wagons and Eckhart Buggies.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland

AUBURN, IND.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

Some expectant people are astonished every time they are disappointed.

The great objection to the Fitzsimmons-Riordan fight is that it was really to a finish.

It is said in its crusade against the horse the bicycle is bringing even nightmares into disrepute.

It is a fearfully significant fact that all of Murderer Holmes' female victims were comparatively new women.

Holmes, the Philadelphia insurance swindler, either is a remarkable criminal or a remarkable liar—or both.

There is no room for doubt that Japan is a highly civilized nation. Not a single brass band accompanied her armies.

A Deadwood court has divorced a husband twice from the same woman. This looks like a queer shortage of raw material.

The novelist is the only human being who appears to be able to make good soldiers out of Indians. Uncle Sam has tried it and failed.

Never bear more than one kind of trouble at a time. Some people bear three kinds—all they had, all they have now, and all they expect to have.

Howard Gould won $100 with his $50,000 yacht the other day. This hardly entitles Howard to be called a chip of the old block. The per cent of profits is entirely too small.

The immigration laws are inadequate. There is absolutely no clause under which London poets may be prevented from contracting to labor on the American lecture platform.

A Scotch newspaper refers to Mrs. Lease as "one of those strange men found frequently in America who write under a feminine nom de plume." Mary is entirely a self-made man.

The Pennsylvania woman who has just gone to prison for three months as a common scold would perhaps have preferred the old-time ducking stool and an earlier return to her neighbors.

Be not ashamed to confess that you have been in the wrong. It is but owning, what you need not be ashamed of, that you now have more sense than you had before to see your error, and more humility to acknowledge it.

For the Sultan of Turkey to send $200 to the free-ice fund, a very worthy New York charity, was most commendable. Such an act can cover a multitude of sins, yet spread over the Sultan's collection it shows still a wide fringe of wickedness.

It seems that the Spaniards not only fired on the Carrie A. Lane, but boarded and searched her. It is claimed that she was in Spanish waters, but if our ships are to be thus treated on every possible occasion Spanish waters may disappear from American seas.

The dress of the mistress of the house has a bearing on her influence. Injunctions as to care and precision in the household work come with greater emphasis from one who herself is habitually neat in attire than from one whose slovenly looks are a perpetual example for untidiness everywhere.

Some one has said truly that "brains constitute the motive-power of mankind," and certainly the intelligence which comes from true education and mental discipline is one of the main elements of our increasing civilization. By adding to it in our own case we add to the general fund, and do our share towards the uplifting of the race. Even more fully do we do this in building our own character.

Health is the one thing needful; therefore no pains, expense, self-denial or restraint which we submit to for the sake of it is too much. Whether it requires us to relinquish lucrative situations, to abstain from favorite indulgences, to control intemperate passions, or to undergo tedious regimens—whatever difficulties it puts us under, a man who pursues his happiness rationally and resolutely will be content to submit to.

Chili is the American Japan. With a limited territory and population it is the most vigorous of all the South American republics, and is even with Mexico, or ahead of it, in the use of modern business and political methods. Notwithstanding the Balmaceda civil war, Chili is exceedingly prosperous. As a military and naval power Chili is formidable and is in a position to command general respect on both hemispheres.

Quaint news comes from Kentucky. Mr. Stivers, a widower of Lancaster, has brought suit against Miss Katherine West, a pretty schoolma'am, for breach of promise, and Judge Saufley, of that circuit, says that the jury, before which the case will go must be composed of women, who, under the new constitution, are eligible for jury service. The world will watch this case with intense interest to see whether the sympathies of a feminine jury lean toward the lone, lorn widower or to the fair Minerva of the alphabet and multiplication table.

With the exception that the war in Cuba is daily growing in dimensions, that a battle is on between the rebels and the Government of Ecuador, that Brazil is in a row with England over the possession of Trinidad, that risings are imminent in Nicaragua and Honduras, that a revolt has begun in Salvador, that an uprising is threatened in Guatemala, that Peru and Chili are making faces at each other again, that Colombia is in domestic turmoil, and that Venezuela is wrangling with England and France, the republics to the south of us seem to be in a happy and contented frame of mind. The condition of all of them appears to be normal.

We are taught, both by religion and that law of civilization which we call humanity, to feel for the sorrows and distresses of our neighbors. Without the sentiment of pity, society would be little better than a menagerie of wild beasts, wherein each fought for his own hand and no one gave a thought to the sufferings or the rights of others; but pity makes these wild beasts into men, and substitutes for the selfishness of individualism the community of race and the duty of mutual help.

The acquisition of cheap motive power by utilizing the force of part of the water that pours over Niagara Falls will not be a clear gain to the aggregate of power in the United States. The supply of petroleum is falling off, following the precedent set by natural gas. It is estimated as probable that the exports from this country will show a big decrease for the current year, because the oil is wanted at home. The failure is mostly in the Pennsylvania regions, but that is a most important one, as the 80 per cent. of refined product obtainable from the Pennsylvania oil is nearly double the yield from the oil that flows in the region from which Chicago and surrounding territory is supplied.

Conan Doyle has been giving interviews to English newspapers about his recent lecturing tour in this country. He frankly admits that, in a pecuniary sense, the business is not what it is cracked up to be. Those huge bags of good American gold which Dickens and Thackeray waved so jauntily over the rail to their welcoming friends on their return from wandering on this foreign strand, are no more to be picked up at the bottom of the American lecture-rainbow. Of the kind words of the people in this country Dr. Doyle speaks with much appreciation, but the non-buttered parsnips seem a real disappointment to him. Yet we should have thought the astuteness of Sherlock Holmes would have prevented his creator from cherishing illusions on this subject, even if his self-love had not restrained him from publicly mourning over the fact that his net returns amount to a less sum than he could easily have earned in his own study at home. With us at least it is a matter of common knowledge that the rich harvests of lecturers, native or foreign, are gone never to return. Matthew Arnold's second lecturing tour in the United States was a distinct failure financially. He told his friends that his object in coming back was the apostolic one of confirming the churches in the faith; but he found the faithful very well content with their first visitation, and, at any rate, not at all anxious for confirmation at one dollar per head.

Considerate Patients.

Amusing if apocryphal stories are told of the extreme care for the feelings of their physicians displayed by some patients. One such tender-hearted man, seeing his physician coming along the street, slipped into a doorway to avoid him.

"Why did you do that?" inquired his companion.

"Well," said the man, whose health had been poor until within a year, "it's so long now since I've been sick, that I'm really ashamed to meet him."

An instance of still greater delicacy is recorded of a man whose case had been pronounced hopeless by his physician, but who afterward regained perfect health. He met the doctor on the street some time after his recovery, and the latter had difficulty in making his former patient stop to speak with him.

"What's the matter?" inquired the physician, bluntly.

"Why," returned the other, "you said I was dying, and I'm ashamed to have you see me alive and well."

Such tenderness as this merits the approval with which a quack is said to have commended a conscientious swallower of his medicines.

"Ah, my dear sir," he said, with strong emotion, "you deserve to be ill!"

To Tax Wheels in 'Frisco.

The Board of Supervisors of San Francisco, Cal., has been considering the feasibility of taxing bicyclists. Many of the members are in favor of the measure, but dare not say so openly because the wheelmen are a powerful voting faction. One who is most outspoken in its advocacy gives the following novel reason for his position: "The fact of the matter is," said he, "that the bicycle is superseding the horse to such an extent that a number of industries which have heretofore supported thousands of people are practically ruined. These are livery stables, hay and feed farms and their agents, the blacksmith, the horseshoer and the carriage and wagon maker. I am told that 15,000 men and women in San Francisco are riding wheels. Now, the effect of this is to destroy many thousands of dollars' worth of taxable property, and I should say that the wheelmen ought to have no scruple against paying a fair license for use of the streets. Of course, I am not prepared to say whether the license should be $1 or $2, or even a greater sum, per year."—New York World.

Some Old Roman Millionaires.

It seems to me that, taken in general, we are a very ignorant lot of people in this last decade of the nineteenth century. Our wealth, much as we boast of it, is comparatively puny compared with the wealth of men of old. There was Marc Antony's house that was sold to Messala for over half a million, and Scaurus' villa was burned at a loss of over twelve millions.

Otho spent over fourteen millions in finishing one wing of a palace commenced by Nero. Nearly $36,000,000 was found in the coffers of Tiberius, and Caligula spent it all in less than a year. Paulus could make a little trifling present to the mother of Brutus of a pearl worth over $30,000. So let us be modest. We are a cheap people, even the wealthiest of us.

Do You Know This?

Lamp chimneys should never be washed in cold water and should always be thoroughly dried before use; after washing, or if new, they should be warmed before the lamp is lighted, to prevent cracking.

IRELAND'S NEW SECRETARY.

THE new chief secretary for Ireland, Gerald Balfour, is a brother of Arthur Balfour who held the same post a few years ago and who gained the distinction of being the most cordially hated man in Ireland. Gerald was born in 1853 and entered Parliament in 1885 as a representative from the central division of Leeds. The post which he holds is one that involves a vast amount of labor and a great deal of responsibility.

TROLLEY IS DOOMED.

New Underground Plan of Propelling Electric Cars.

The new wheelless underground system of electrical propulsion, as applied to street railways and hauling for terminal freight, which has been introduced by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, is being watched with interest by the mechanical world. A perfect storage battery car has been the dream of electricians for years, and that is just what the Westinghouse Company professes to have made.

The Westinghouse system is certainly a novel one, but at a test which was made at the company's works, at Pittsburg, Pa., it was considered highly satisfactory in every way. There were a number of practical men present at the time the test was made, and they expressed the opinion that the system was a good one. No unsightly stringing of wires overhead is required, and that is certainly something in its favor. Another is the comparatively small expense connected with the laying of tracks on any road on which it may be worked.

CAR AS IN MOTION.

Instead of a deep excavation requiring to be made, as in the case of a road worked by cable or an underground electric road, a number of "studs" are inserted in the ground at certain distances along the track. Each car is fitted with a "shoe" extending the entire length of the car bottom, and also with a small but powerful storage battery. The battery supplies the electricity to the shoe, the shoe to the studs as it passes over them, and by this means the car is propelled forward or backward, as the motorman wishes. The studs are placed two abreast in the road or street, and no two sets of studs are further apart than the length of a car. These studs are perfectly harmless until the shoe touches them; then they receive the full force of the generator from the shoe.

RELIGION STAMPED ON HIM.

A Text Was Tattooed on This Young Frenchman's Forehead.

A man upon whom religion had left its mark ineffaceably was observed at Ellis Island recently, says the New York World. He was one of a number of French immigrants brought before the commissioner for examination. He was a tall, handsome young man, a skilled iron worker. Attention was drawn to his personal appearance by the fact that he wore his thick hair brushed down over his forehead to his very eyebrows. When he was asked by the commissioner the reason for this extraordinary coiffure, the French youth looked embarrassed for a moment, and then replied that he wore his hair in this manner to hide a mark on his brow.

MAN WITH A MARK ON HIS FOREHEAD.

"What is the mark?" was asked. He tossed his hair back and exhibited a skillfully executed piece of tattooing, which, on examination, proved to be a text from the Bible, done in minute, but perfect letters. It was in French and read:

"Dieu est mon Berger je n'aurais besoin de rein." ("The Lord is my Shepherd, I shall not want.")

He stated that the tattooing was done at the request of a cranky aunt when he was a 12-year-old boy.

CYCLES ON THE TRACKS.

Wheelmen Can Now Ride Over the Country on Railroads.

There are times daily when a railroad company is not actually using its tracks for the passage of trains, and it is everywhere conceded that the right of way at such times unquestionably belongs to the tramping thespian, wending his way back to New York from some profitless tour. No one heretofore has ever questioned his right to the track at such times. His is a second mortgage that recognizes only the superior power of the locomotive, which is deaf to all argument. But Hamlet will have to fight for his rights, for they may be encroached upon by the bicycler.

George E. Heaton, of Kalamazoo,

THE RAILROAD BICYCLE.

Mich., has patented a device by which an ordinary safety bicycle can be fitted to railroad tracks of any gauge. The attachment is very light and in case the company needs the track for their own purposes the bicycler can readily lift his machine off the tracks to a place of safety.

Centuries Old.

Of all the quaint and curious customs of the House of Commons, none is more amusing than the strange ceremony which marks the termination of its every sitting. The moment the House is adjourned, stentorian-voiced messengers and policemen cry out in the lobbies and corridors, "Who goes home?" These mysterious words have sounded every night for centuries through the Palace of Westminster. The performance originated at a time when it was necessary for members to go home in parties for common protection against the footpads who infested the streets of London. But, though that danger has long since passed away, the cry of "Who goes home?" is still heard night after night, receiving no reply, and expecting none.

New Telephone Appliance.

A small electric lamp is being used instead of a bell in some telephone exchanges in England. The call for connection lights the lamp.

THE BIG SLEEVE DIFFICULTY.

J. Bull realizes that there will be little room for anybody else on that side of the car.

A YEAR'S COMMERCE.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS FOR TWELVE MONTHS.

Returns Now Available, Making It Possible to Form Some Idea of the Course of Trade—Praise for the President—Republican Debts.

For the Fiscal Year.

The returns of imports and exports for the past fiscal year are now available, and it is possible to form some idea of the course of trade. For the year ending June 30, 1895, our exports were $808,059,419 and our imports $743,742,849, an excess of exports of $64,316,570. Our exports were less than in any year since 1889, and our imports were less than in any year in the same period, with the single exception of 1894. That year showed the effects of the panic of 1893, which, by making money scarce, forced us to rush our products to the foreign markets and economize in our purchases.

To see how much or how little influence tariff changes have had on our foreign trade it may be worth while to give the figures from a time before the passage of the McKinley law:

	Exports.	Imports.
1889	$742,401,375	$745,131,652
1890	857,828,684	789,310,409
1891	884,480,810	844,916,196
1892	1,030,278,148	827,402,462
1893	847,665,194	866,400,922
1894	892,140,572	654,994,622
1895	808,059,419	743,742,849

The years 1889 and 1890 were under the old tariff of 1883. Part of the year 1891 and all of 1892, 1893 and 1894 were under the McKinley act. The greater art of 1895 has been under the Wilson law. The abnormal exports of the fiscal year 1892 were due to the enormous crops of 1891, which sold at good prices in consequence of a scarcity in Europe. Aside from this, it will be observed that our export trade did not grow under the McKinley law. It was smaller in 1893 than in 1890, and even than in 1881. Our imports, on the contrary, increased under a tariff that was meant to exclude them. They were greater in the year from July 1, 1892, to June 30, 1893, than in any other year in the history of the country, either before or since. They were nearly $123,000,000 greater in that year than in the one just closed, when we were to have been overwhelmed by a "flood" of foreign pauper-made goods.

In 1893, under McKinleyism, the balance of trade "against" us, as the protectionists put it, was nearly $19,000,000, while in 1895, under a low tariff, it was over $64,000,000 in our favor.

We are just recovering from a period of depression such as it took us six years to get over under the high protective tariff of 1873. Short crops and stagnant manufactures last year limited our exports. But now we have the promise of good crops, and our manufactures are flourishing. We are freed from the apprehension of having our industries deluged by excessive imports. As in former low-tariff periods, our imports have not been sufficient to keep up the revenues of the Government. The indications are that next year's commercial returns will be the most favorable we have ever known.

A Short Session of Congress.

It is intimated from Republican sources of intelligence that the session of Congress to begin next December will be much shorter than the first session of any Congress in many years. There is comfort in the suggestion. It is as certain now as it will appear a year from now that there will be no material change in tariff nor in silver legislation. There is more than a two-thirds Republican majority in the House—enough to pass a bill re-enacting the McKinley tariff over the President's veto. But there is not even a McKinleyite bare majority in the Senate, and it is doubtful if any bill could pass that body reinstating the measure repealed last year. McKinley is too much of a Presidential candidate and too much in the way of ambitious rivals for any measure to pass Congress of which he would be the popular embodiment in a campaign. The friends of every other Republican candidate would unite to defeat a bill of which he would be the representative before the people.

These considerations render it certain that no tariff legislation is possible in the next Congress. It is extremely improbable that the friends of different Republican candidates would unite on any tariff measure. The different factions will be suspicious of each other. The leaders of each faction will determine that it is better to let the Democratic tariff stand than to pass a Republican tariff bill of which some other leader of a faction might reap the benefit among the voters. The situation as to silver legislation is less complicated.

With the certainty existing that neither the tariff nor the currency system can be disturbed, there is no reason why the session to begin in December, 1895, should extend beyond April, 1896. All routine and non-partisan acts can be introduced, perfected and passed within a month after the holidays. There is absolutely nothing else to keep Congress in session. Even the dreary and exhaustive speeches of members in their "grand stand displays," to use a local idiom, ought not to occupy many months.

It is reported that ex-Speaker Reed, who expects to occupy the chair again, is completing his lists of committees that their names may be announced within a week or two after the session begins, instead of waiting until after the holidays. He is in favor, evidently, of the short session scheme.

Deserved Praise.

The Washington Post is an independent journal with Republican inclinations and deeply saturated with the spirit of jingoism that is more or less rampant in the land at the present time; hence no one would willfully suspect it of being in close sympathy with President Cleveland. Yet in an editorial discussing the third term bugaboo that has frightened so many timid persons of late, in which it expresses the opinion that Mr. Cleveland has no thought of accepting another nomination, the Post pays the following just and well-deserved tribute to the President:

He has had all the honors that the nation could bestow, and he has requited the people's trust with faithful and devoted service. We have seen him impressing upon public sentiment his conviction as to finance, the tariff and the organization of the government. Coming here a practically unknown man, from a provincial city, he has made himself the most conspicuous and striking figure of his generation. He can retire two years hence with a name that will embellish history long after his traducers shall have been forgotten. He will live in the world's memory as one of the brilliant galaxy of our greatest men.

Republican Committee's Debts.

The matter of the debt of the Republican National Committee has become a national scandal. The affairs of that body for a dozen years have been managed by a lot of spendthrifts. At the close of each campaign since that of 1884 they have been indebted to speakers whom they employed, to individuals and local committees who provided halls and paid the expenses of meetings and for other obligations. National notoriety was given to the transaction in which the Republican committee repudiated its contract with Anna Dickinson in 1888, when she went to Indiana with an explicit agreement to make speeches for Harrison. They refused to pay her bills when the campaign closed and were sued for the amount. Doubtless her mental derangement was precipitated by this exasperating event.

Notwithstanding the Republicans carried the election in 1888, the committee's bills were unpaid, and the total debt at the commencement of the campaign of 1892 was $100,000. It is now alleged, and not disputed, that the committee auctioned off the convention of that year to Minneapolis for a secret bonus of enough money, in addition to the amount openly paid, to discharge the committee's debt of four years' standing and growth and to redeem it from bankruptcy. It is said, however, that all the money contributed by Minneapolis to pay old debts was not expended for that purpose. The big hotel bills of the highflyer members of the committee were discharged, but not the indebtedness incurred for other purposes. The disastrous campaign of 1892 left the committee worse off than it ever had been before. The present debt is not less than $250,000. Judging from these facts, there is no probability in a public allegation that the managing men of the committee are laying plans now to bid off the next convention to the city that will pay the committee's debts, in addition to other legitimate expenses.

Morton Is a Marvel.

Secretary Morton, of the Agricultural Department, is one of the marvels of Washington. Though the oldest man in President Cleveland's cabinet, he is easily the most active. His own department, writes a correspondent, he manages with an ease and skill quite astonishing to veteran observers. There is not a detail of its operations with which the Secretary is not familiar and which he does not keep an eye on from day to day. Let the smallest cog in the whole machine slip or a bearing begin to creak for lack of oil and the alert ear of the farmer statesman is sure to detect it. As for money saving, he is the worst crank on that ever seen at the capital. Ninety-nine cabinet ministers out of a hundred make a poor mouth and say they could do ever so much better if Congress would only give them enough money. Morton, on the other hand, actually covered back into the treasury last year $750,000 which he did not need. Morton has cleared out the cormorants and the fifth wheels, and he can't be fooled on the price of a lead pencil or the value of a wagon load of waste paper. At the same time the agricultural statesman keeps an eye on the other departments of the Government. He is well up on finance and diplomacy, especially finance, and if Carlisle and Olney were to fall ill Morton could easily run all three shops and still have plenty of time to gossip with his friends and carry on the largest private and semi-public correspondence in the business. As a business man, a theorist, a story teller and a letter writer Morton is simply marvelous.

Against Wind and Tide.

Republican papers are evidently beating up against a head wind. Not only is the wind dead ahead, but the tide is running strong against them. Every sailor, every yachtsman, knows how discouraging sailing is with both wind and tide against one. It compels a resort to all kinds of expedients. One has to run on one tack as close into the wind as possible until shallow water is reached and there is danger of going ashore; then veer around with the accompanying flapping of sails and start out upon the opposite angle. Judging from the rate of progress made, with the wind rising and the tide strengthening, it is more than doubtful that these craft will reach the port for which they are sailing in 1896.—St. Paul Globe.

Vindicating the Democratic Policy.

The opponents of Democracy won an ephemeral triumph by attributing the hard times to the party in power. The good times which have come under Democratic rule are as surely attributable to the Democracy. The clouds of discontent have blown away; business is booming all over the land; the policy which was predicted to ruin industry has set every mill humming and every furnace blazing; the tariff which was prophesied to reduce wages has raised wages everywhere. The people are contented, prosperous, happy.—Boston Post.

Sustain the Democratic Party.

The Democratic party, being the party of the constitution and of the people, maintaining equal rights and privileges to all citizens and preserving the balance of power between the Federal government and the respective States, will continue while the nation endures and should command the support and fidelity of the men and women of Utah who have so many reasons for upholding intact the principles of the constitution and of the declaration of independence.—Salt Lake Herald.

Which Knows Best?

Benjamin Harrison has announced by his next friend that he will not be a candidate next year. But his son Russell, who is running a horse car railroad over at Terre Haute, says the old gentleman doesn't know what he is talking about, and so an anxious public is once more left in doubt.—Springfield Journal.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

It's the summer fly that bustles,
Till within the spider's gates.
And the spider never hustles,
But he gets there while he waits.
—Truth.

"They say Cholly has more money than brains." "Then why don't you set your cap for him?"—Life.

Mrs. Peastraw—"How on earth did you get yourself so dirty?" Johnnie—"I was in swimmin'."—Truth.

"So your papa is willing to trust me with you, is he?" "Yes. He seemed sure you'd fetch me back to him."—Life.

She—"Yes, I am very fond of pets." He—"Indeed. What, may I ask, is your favorite animal?" She (frankly)—"Man."—Fashion Review.

Mack—"My wife made me a present of a $50 bill yesterday." Wyld—"You're in luck." Mack—"I don't think so. I have to pay it."—Brooklyn Life.

Bachelor—"I am told that a married man can live on half the income that a single man requires." Married man—"Yes. He has to."—New York Weekly.

Winks (who keeps house)—"We had an old-fashioned potpie for dinner to-day." Minks (who boards)—"We had an old-fashioned chicken."—New York Weekly.

Boy—"I want to buy some paper." Dealer—"What kind of paper?" "I guess you better give me fly-paper. I want to make a kite."—Philadelphia Record.

"Bingle's wife says she thinks heaven must be something like Boston." "What does Bingle say?" "He says he is tempted to become an agnostic."—Washington Star.

"Villain!" she hissed. "Deep-dyed villain!" The tattooed man looked hurt. "Indeed, ma'am," said he, "I hasten to assure you that it is only skin deep."—Indianapolis Journal.

The grocer's grown so very cute
That, measuring out some plums,
He fills the vessel with the fruit
And counts in both his thumbs.
—Chicago Record.

Wiggles—"What's the matter with you, old man?" Waggles—"Oh, several things." Wiggles—"Well, get engaged to one of them, and then let the rest alone."—Somerville Journal.

Ellis—"Miss Ballad has a remarkably sweet voice." Warburton—"She ought to have; it has cost me about sixty pounds of chocolates in the last six weeks."—Boston Courier.

Bolton—"What is the difference between a specialist and an ordinary physician?" Colton—"You'll know quick enough when the specialist sends in his bill."—Somerville Journal.

Guest (pushing them away from him)—I don't like the way you cook eggs at this restaurant. Waiter—What's the trouble, sir? Guest—You don't cook them soon enough.—Chicago Tribune.

Clerk—That gentleman you sold a bottle of hair dye to three weeks ago was here again to-day. Druggist—Was he after another bottle? "No, sir. He wanted to know if we kept wigs."—Life.

Old lady (to motorman on trolly car)—"Ain't you afraid of the electricity, Mr. Motorman?" Motorman—"No, ma'am, I ain't go no call to be afraid. I ain't a conductor."—Philadelphia Record.

"Well," said the camel in the circus parade, "there's some comfort for me after all." "What do you mean?" "My hump is pretty bad, but it might be worse. I don't ride a bicycle."—Washington Star.

Guest (angrily)—What has become of that waiter I gave my order to 'most an hour ago? Head Waiter—I don't know, sah, but most likely he's waitin' on some gent wot tipped him, sah.—New York Weekly.

Bellefield—I understand that Mrs. Spiffins claims to be a self-made woman. Bloomfield—It isn't quite true. My wife has seen her add the finishing touch—put on her complexion.—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Hoax—That horse of mine sets a good example that some men would do well to follow. Joax—Why, the nag is no good. He interferes. Hoax—That's just it. He interferes, but only with himself.—Philadelphia Record.

Cobble—I don't think the landlord of the Ocean Bar House liked what I said to him before I went in bathing. Stone—What was that? Cobble—I asked him if there were any other sharks around.—Harper's Bazar.

Sally—An' after we are married, will you keep on lovin' me? Rube—I'll love you till—till the cows come home, as the feller says. Sally—Y-a-a-s, an' then go down to the grocery an' let me do all the milkin'.—Indianapolis Journal.

The reason none can understand,
But examples there are plenty—
One pound is the weight of the fish you land—
And the fish that escaped weighed twenty.
—Chicago Record.

"Say," said the city editor, "it seems to me that this expression of yours about showing a clean pair of heels is not just the thing in the report of a bicycle race." "All right," answered the lazy reporter. "Just stick in a 'w' and make it a clean pair of wheels."—Cincinnati Tribune.

Recently Discovered.

It is said that a new material has been discovered in one of the Western States—which one will not be told for a while yet—that may make its finder fabulously rich. The material answers the purpose of graphite in every way. Outside of the imported graphite, the mines at Ticonderoga have supplied a great part of the stuff from which the leads of pencils are made. The discovery has been kept very quiet, but the stuff is said to answer all the requirements, and can be sold for one-half the price of the present material.

Makes the Weak Strong

Hood's Sarsaparilla tones and strengthens the digestive organs, creates an appetite, and gives refreshing sleep. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the one True Blood Purifier.

Hood's Pills the after-dinner pill and family-cathartic. 25c.

Aug. 19TH the date!!
Niagara Falls the place!!
Nickel Plate the Road!!
Ask agents for schedule of special train and low excursion rates.

To Protect Fruit from Birds.

Take a ball of brown thread and fasten the end to one of the twigs of the tree and then cross the thread from branch to branch in a dozen different directions.

Mrs. P. C. Adams.

Thousands of women, especially in the spring of the year, are nervous, tired, have headache, sick stomach, fainting spells, dizziness, scanty or profuse menses, weak back, constipation; their sides, shoulders and limbs ache constantly—in fact they suffer from general debility of the whole system. The superior tonic qualities of McElree's Wine of Cardui make it the leading remedy for this class of troubles.

Mrs. P. C. Adams, Chattoogaville, Ga., writes: "Two years ago I was taken sick with indigestion, fainting spells, constipation, falling of the womb, and various other symptoms, and kept getting worse and worse. After taking four bottles of McElree's Wine of Cardui in connection with Thedford's Black-Draught tea I am able to do any kind of work that a woman can do."

D. L. Coker, Calvina, Fla., says: "McElree's Wine of Cardui has brought rosy cheeks back to one of my cousins after she was given up to die by two of the best physicians."

STUDY common sense and comfort rather than custom and fashion.

THE Nickel Plate road has compiled a list of country homes along the south shore of Lake Erie, willing to accommodate summer boarders, and a copy will be mailed to any address by enclosing a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road or to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent.

Statistics of Duels in Italy.

Duel statistics, gruesome though they are, are interesting reading. An Italian "man of figures" has taken the trouble to ascertain to what extent his country has contributed, during the last ten years, toward the increase in the army of duelists. The following figures are the result of his researches: "From 1884 to 1894 no less than 947 duels were fought in Italy over newspaper controversies, 730 by rival lovers, 377 over political questions, 289 for insults, 183 for private reasons, and 19 over gambling quarrels. In 79 cases the cause of the duel was unknown. Journalists and officers in Italy are first among duelists. Of the 538 duels fought in 1884, 156 were fought by journalists and 165 by officers in the army. Of dueling lawyers there were 64; students 63; professors 22; Deputies 14; engineers and architects 13; servants 6; and bankers 2.

I AM

A WORKING GIRL.

I Stand Ten Hours a Day.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

"I have suffered terribly with bearing-down pains, giddiness, backache, and kidney trouble. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I recommend it to all." — MAGGIE LUKENS, Thirteenth and Butte Streets, Nicetown, Pa.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

Friends' Oats

(Kiln Dried)

Superior to any . . Rolled Oats... Sold only in 2-pound Packages

At All Grocers

MUSCATINE OAT MEAL CO. MUSCATINE, IOWA

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

SHADOW TABLEAUX AND HOW TO GIVE THEM.

Can Only Be Shown at Night in a Darkened Room—How to Produce with Living Models Those Illustrated in This Article.

Fun for an Evening.

Shadow tableaux or pictures have been before presented to you under the name of silhouettes, that have been shown for the most part singly, while the present ones are represented in groups, some of which are really very laughable. The pictures can only be shown at night in a darkened room, and an excellent way to produce those illustrated with living models is as follows:

FIGURE NO. 1.

First erect a small platform or stage, and from the ceiling in front of it suspend a large white sheet of not too close or firm weave, permitting it to reach to the floor of the platform. Behind the sheet stand the performers, between it and a light, a lantern having a funnel-shaped reflector being the best for amateur entertainments of this character. By the aid of such a light the figures are silhouetted or outlined against the sheet in the same manner as a shadow is cast on a blank wall by placing a light behind the substance.

FIGURE NO. 2.

The audience will of course sit in darkness a few feet from the platform. The performers will take the various poses illustrated and remain as quiet as possible during the exhibition of each tableaux, which may be shown for about two minutes. The person who arranges the various poses will see that nothing is wanting to perfect the picture before the curtain is allowed to be raised. Of course the curtain is indispensable. It should be hung from a pole and may be drawn back by a cord which has been slipped through the rings and fastened to the front upper corner of the curtain. The hand which draws back the curtain should not be visible to the audience. The master of ceremonies announces each subject as the curtain is lifted.

FIGURE NO. 3.

The tableaux portrayed at figure No. 1 shows a boy patting his little sister kindly on the back. Sister is sulky and will not be consoled or persuaded to give up her toy cart. "A Little Sulky" might do as a name for this.

"The Sleepers," pictured at figure No. 2, are rudely disturbed from their noonday nap on a park bench by a policeman. They should wear very ragged clothes and look like tramps.

FIGURE NO. 4.

At figure No. 3 are pictured a foreign-looking student and his sister, or some nearer relative, taking refreshments at a table, which is arranged beneath some foliage, from which dangles a spider, whose presence startles the thirsty pair. "A Summer Table" would be a very good title for this.

An appropriate title for the picture shown at figure No. 4 will be "A Carryall at Home." Papa kindly lends his back to the three little ones and assumes a crawling position, and mamma, fearful lest baby should fall from the human carryall, throws out her hands as if to catch him. Doggie's surprise at the curious conveyance is expressed in his position. If the living pet cannot be trained for his part a toy animal may take his place.

FIGURE NO. 5.

Tandem driving is very fashionable, and you might dignify the picture shown at figure No. 5 by the name "Driving Tandem." Brother, crowned with papa's high beaver hat, holds two chairs in rein as proudly as if they were horses, and flourishes his whip threateningly. Sister, with dolly in arms, rides behind. Doesn't it look real?

FIGURE NO. 6.

"After the Circus," shown at figure No. 6, is no less comical than any of the other tableaux. All the figures seem to be in action. The girl is dancing on an ottoman, the boy, with a young child on his back, occupies two chairs and a third serves as a horse, whose reins he holds in both hands. The dog stands on his hind legs in a curious manner and looks attentively at his master, who is absorbed in driving.

Isn't the tableaux given at figure No. 7 extremely funny? You might name it "Four-in-Hand." The schoolmaster has four seemingly repentant transgressors to punish. His cane looks formidable and his face wears a very angry expression. The broom, umbrella, "stovepipe" hat, and other odds and ends may be supplied or omitted, as desired. I think their introduction would add to the effect of the picture, however.

FIGURE NO. 7.

The various titles, you will observe, are a play upon words, but this will only add to the fun of the performance. You may easily arrange an evening's entertainment during the holiday week with the assistance of the present illustrations and surprise some of your grown friends. The big people in the pictures might be represented by some older boys and girls. A few rehearsals will be necessary before you can finally ring up the curtain on a perfect representation of these jolly shadow pictures.—The Delineator.

THE FEMALE MOSQUITO.

IN the accompanying illustration the great American mosquito is portrayed in a manner admirably calculated to impress the mind with her abilities. It should be said at once that the blood-sucking mosquito is always a female. The male mosquito is a well-behaved insect and only drinks water. Projecting from the mosquito's head in the picture of the complete insect will be seen a straight cylinderical spike. It is a tube or trough, no thicker than a hair, and is terminated by two small fleshy lips. This tube contains the instruments by means of which the mosquito penetrates the human skin, fills herself with blood and leaves behind a deposit of virulent poison. No less than six piercing instruments are contained within that little tube. They are shown in the picture of the head and elsewhere on a still larger scale. When the mosquito settles down to business, all these instruments are pressed on to the skin at once, and a very intricate boring operation begins. The trough-like lower lip may be seen to bend in the middle, and the mosquito fills herself with blood, which passes into the body through the upper lip. It is believed that the instrument attached to the base of the upper lip is used to inject poison into the wound.

ALLAN PINKERTON.

Without Exception the Greatest Detective the Country Ever Knew.

Without doubt the greatest detective the country has ever seen was Allan Pinkerton, the founder of the national detective agency which bears his name, and who achieved such fame in connection with the administration of Abraham Lincoln, he having been his especial guard. Pinkerton was a born detective, though during the early years of his life he was a cooper. He was born in 1819 in Scotland. When he came to this country he located in Illinois and established a fine business, following the trade he had learned in his native country. He continued as a cooper until he was 33 years old. Then, through a lucky accident, he entered upon the true work of his life.

In 1850, when State banks and wildcat money were the order of the day, counterfeits were common, and the storekeepers throughout the country were frequently swindled. One day a saddler of Dundee, where Pinkerton was located, came to him and said that he had been taken in by a bogus bill. He said he thought he could point out a suspicious character. Pinkerton followed the man whom the saddler indicated. The cooper-detective was disguised as a workman and succeeded in shadowing the man he had has eye on without exciting his suspicious. At last he traced him to an island in Fox River, and there a complete establishment for making counterfeit money was discovered. The entire gang was arrested and Pinkerton became famous throughout the country.

It was seen that the cooper had the making of a detective and he was appointed deputy sheriff of the county. In this capacity he soon became the terror of cattle thieves, counterfeiters and evil doers generally. Soon after he was tendered a position as deputy sheriff of Cook County, but he did not remain long in this capacity, for the Illinois Central and Rock Island Railroad, recognizing his ability as a detective, prevailed upon him to organize a detective agency for the protection of the road against train robbers.

It was in the capture of express thieves and bank robbers that Pinkerton achieved his most remarkable successes. Beginning with the Maroney robbery in 1858, where after months of persistent shadowing, he recovered nearly $40,000 for the Adams Express Company, he conducted the work in scores of similar cases and was usually successful. He captured the notorious Carbondale bank robbers, recovering $35,000. Then came the great robbery of the Adams Express Company on the New York and New Haven Railroad, Jan. 6, 1866, when a gang of six thieves burst open the safe and secured nearly $700,000. Allan Pinkerton secured the conviction of the guilty men, and got back all but a very small portion of the money. The following year he succeeded in breaking up the formidable Reno and Anderson gang, who had for years been the terror of the West, plundering towns, robbing stores and blowing open safes with apparent impunity. So greatly was public indignation aroused against these desperadoes that after their arrest they were taken from the jail in New Albany, Ind., by 100 masked men and hanged.

ALLAN PINKERTON.

In his whole life Allan Pinkerton never touched cards, never made a bet, or indulged in any form of gambling. He was fond of driving and horseback riding, and in his later years took much pleasure and spent much of his spare time in literary work. In all he produced seventeen books of his thrilling experience as a detective. At the age of 66 years he died of cancer of the stomach.

Mermaids in Folk Lore.

All the world over there are legends about mermaids. The Chinese tell stories not unlike others about the seawomen of their southern seas. Mankind is taught on the most excellent evidence that a mermaid was captured at Bangor, on the shores of the Belfast Lough, in the sixth century, while another caught at Edam in 1403 was carried to Haarlem and kept there for many years.

"Doctor Cureall."

One of the most remarkable developments of the automatic machine is a "Doctor Cureall," in Holland. It is a wooden figure of a man, with compartments all over it, labeled with the names of various ailments. If you have a pain, find its corresponding location on the figure, drop a coin into the slot, and the proper pill or powder will come out.

The Coming Woman.

I love the coming woman,
I love her pretty ways,
With music and with sweetness
She fills my fleeting days;
I kiss her laughing dimples,
And stroke her hair of gold,
For my dainty coming woman
Is only four years old.

—Williamsport Grit.

A cross temper finds a pin stuck in every chair on which it sits.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

THE Great Northern Steamship Company, whose vessels ply on the great lakes, has announced that it will give a prize of $250 in gold for all babies born aboard its steamers Northland and Northwest this season; $500 for twins and $1,000 for triplets. The only condition is that the officers of the company shall name the babies.

BULLHEADED courage was shown in a recent sewer gas accident in London. A man went down into a sewer and did not come up, another man descended to look for him, and was followed, one after another, by three others. The sixth man who entered the death trap succeeded in bringing up the fifth still alive and in getting out the bodies of the first four.

THE census report covering statistics of churches, just printed, shows that there are 143 distinct denominations in the United States, beside independent churches and miscellaneous congregations. The total number of communicants of all denominations is 20,612,806, who belong to 165,177 organizations or congregations, having 142,521 edifices.

IT appears that the comparatively few losses to the Japanese troops in the Manchurian engagements in the recent war with China were not altogether due to the bad markmanship of the Chinese. As a means of protection against the cold the Japanese wore a quantity of floss silk under their outer clothing, and this acted more or less as a bullet proof shield.

IT is claimed that E. E. Kessler, of Richmond, Ind., was the youngest private soldier in the war. He was born June 10, 1849, and enlisted in Company B, Sixty-eighth Ohio Veteran Volunteer Infantry, at Napoleon, Ohio, in September, 1861, at the age of less than 13 years. In June, 1865, at the age of 16 years, he was mustered out, having served for three years and nine months as a private soldier. Some enlisted at an early age as drummer boys, but none, it is said, carried a musket at an earlier age than Mr. Kessler. He declared his age 18 in order to get into the service.

A Ghastly Spectre

Disease is ever, but in no form is it more to be dreaded than in that of the formidable maladies which attack the kidneys and bladder. Bright's disease, diabetes and gravel may alike be prevented, if inactivity of the kidneys is rectified in time with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, sovereign also in cases of rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation, malaria, biliousness and nervousness.

Long and Short Lives.

According to the figures of a great life insurance company, commercial travellers and agents live longer than men in any other kind of business, notwithstanding the hazards which attend transportation by rail and water. Next to them come dentists, teachers and professors, including music teachers, hatters, clergymen and missionaries. Next come bankers and capitalists, who seem to live just a trifle longer than butchers and marketmen. Lawyers and jewellers follow, and they are succeeded on the list by merchants, peddlers, milkmen and pawnbrokers. Then come gardeners, laborers, civil engineers and canvassers, bookkeepers and bank cashiers, artists and architects. Newspaper men come next, with the printers, physicians, and gentlemen who are not engaged in active employment. Then follow the apothecaries and photographers, and after them in order bakers, cigarmakers, real-estate agents, army officers and soldiers, liquor dealers, mariners and naval officers. Shortest lived of all seems to be the auctioneers, boarding-house keepers, barbers and drivers.

NIAGARA FALLS EXCURSION

Aug. 19th, via the Nickel Plate road.

WHEN a woman gets fat enough to shake when she laughs, she should be old enough to be a grandmother.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

Maid Marian—And is it true that Mrs. Vantageur was married in haste?

Maud Muller—No; she had on a gray serge suit.

THE First Excursion on the Nickel Plate Road to Niagara Falls will be Aug. 19th. Ask agents for schedule of special train and rates.

Appearances Often Deceptive.

Tramp—"Please, mun, I'm almost starved."

Housekeeper—"I saw you enter half-a-dozen hou es before you got to this one, and you staid a good while in each."

Tramo—"Yes, mum, but they was all boardin' houses."—New York Weekly.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

IT is estimated that during the past thirty years, 1,200 tons of ostrich feathers, valued at about 850,000,000, have been exported from Cape Colony.

Tobacco Tattered and Torn.

Every day we meet the man with shabby clothes, sallow skin and shambling footsteps, holding out a tobacco-palsied hand for the charity quarter. Tobacco destroys manhood and the happiness of perfect vitality. No-To-Bac is guaranteed to cure just such cases, and it's charity to make them try. Sold under guarantee to cure by Druggists everywhere. Book free. Ad. Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

"WHY do you go to the concert if you don't care for music?"

"To amuse myself. You have no idea how happy I feel when it's over."

LOW RATES TO LINWOOD PARK,

Vermillion, Ohio,

Are offered during the summer months by the Nickel Plate Road. A delightful summer resort.

IT is noticeable that a little man is always very mild in his testimony against a big man in court.

"An Ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure." Ripans Tabules do not weigh an ounce, but they contain many pounds of good. One tabule gives relief. Try for yourself the next time you have a headache or bilious attack.

MANY a great man has been fooled by a bad friend.

THE Nickel Plate road runs an excursion to Niagara Falls Aug. 19th.

PEOPLE who really want to do good will sooner or later find out how.

ENCLOSE a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road for an elaborately illustrated art souvenir entitled "Summer Outings."

ARGENTINA has its name from the silvery reflection of its rivers.

PISO'S Cure for Consumption relieves the most obstinate coughs.—REV. D. BUCHMUELLER, Lexington, Mo., Feb. 24, '94.

ENOUGH complimentary tickets will kill the best play.

EXCURSION to Niagara Falls, Aug. 19th, via the Nickel Plate road.

IT takes a rarely brave man to make an honest critic.

Linwood Park, Vermillion, Ohio,

A delightful summer resort located on the south shore of Lake Erie. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate road offered during the entire summer.

DON'T mistake a cushioned pew for the stool of repentance.

Beauty marred by a bad complexion may be restored with Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

AUGUST 19th the date
Low are the rates
Niagara Falls the place
Via the Nickel Plate road.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; soften the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

THE first Niagara Falls Excursion of 1895 will be run over the Nickel Plate road Aug. 19th. Ask agents for time and rates.

FAIR SAILING through life for the person who keeps in health. With a torpid liver and the impure blood that follows it, you are an easy prey to all sorts of ailments. That "used-up" feeling is the first warning that your liver isn't doing its work.

That is the time to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. As an appetizing, restorative tonic, to repel disease and build up the needed flesh and strength, there's nothing to equal it. It rouses every organ into healthful action, purifies and enriches the blood, braces up the whole system, and restores health and vigor.

"Wash us with Pearline!

"That's all we ask. Save us from that dreadful rubbing—It's wearing us out!

"We want Pearline—the original washing-compound—the one that has proved that it can't hurt us—Pearline! Don't experiment on us with imitations! We'd rather be rubbed to pieces than eaten up." 499

Millions NOW USE Pearline

"Use the Means and Heaven Will Give You the Blessing." Never Neglect A Useful Article Like

SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

PASTE STOVE POLISH. BUSTLESS LABOR SAVING BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U.S.A.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR

IMPERIAL GRANUM

IT IS THE BEST FOOD FOR Dyspeptic, Delicate, Infirm and AGED PERSONS

JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York.

RIPANS TABULES

Mrs. James Taylor, who resides at No. 82 Bailey avenue, Kingsbridge, New York, on the 14th of December, 1894, said: "My age is 65 years. For the past two years I have had liver trouble and indigestion. I always employ a physician, which I did in this case, but obtained no beneficial results. I never had any faith in patent medicines, but having seen Ripans Tabules recommended very highly in the New York Herald, I concluded to give them a trial. After using them for a short time, I found they were just what my case demanded. I have never employed a physician since, which means $2 a call and $1 for medicine. One dollar's worth of Ripans Tabules lasts me a month, and I would not be without them if it were my last dollar. They are the only thing that ever gave me any permanent relief. I take great pleasure in recommending them to any one similarly affected.

(Signed) MRS. J. TAYLOR."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

TEXAS

— VIA —

Wabash Line

Do you know that the farmer has more opportunities for making money in TEXAS than almost any State in this great country? Interest yourself in the subject and see how true this is.

REMEMBER, THE WABASH

Is the Great Steel Rail Highway to all points West and Southwest. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address the nearest Agent of the Wabash System, or write to

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. MCCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MARKFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

RIDGE'S FOOD

THE BABY'S LIFE depends on the food it gets. Insufficient nourishment is the cause of much of the fatality among infants. Improper food brings on indigestion. If the food is right the digestion will be good, and "Ridge's Food" is the best. There is nothing "just as good" or "nearly as good." It is the best in the whole world. Have you a baby? Its life depends upon how it is fed.

Sold by Druggists. 35c up to $1.75!

WOOLRICH & CO., PALMER, MASS.

WE SELL

PRINTING OFFICE OUTFITS

at reasonable rates and upon liberal terms. Warrs FOR PARTICULARS. FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No fee's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

FRANKLIN COLLEGE, New Athens, O. Board, tuition, room, and books, $3 a week. Catalogue free.

F. W. N. U. - - - - No. 33—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

THE

GRAND WIND-UP

Of this season's business is now to commence. Everything must be turned into cash by September 1. Here is what we propose to do:

COMMENCING AUG. 3,

AND

ENDING SEPTEMBER 1,

We will sell any SUIT in our house, no matter what kind, light or heavy weight, at

ONE-HALF PRICE

This means a saving to you of 50 cents on every $1.00 worth of goods you buy.

Boys' Clothing,
Children's Clothing,
Men's Odd Pants,
Boys' Odd Pants,
Children's Knee Pants.

New suits can be bought from us cheaper than old ones can be mended.

Globe Clothing & Shoe Co.,

Gandy Block, AUBURN, IND.

Closing Out!

TAN SHOES AND SLIPPERS

JUST LOOK AT THE PRICES.

One lot Ladies' and Misses' Oxfords, mostly small sizes, worth $1 to $1.75, for	50c
25 prs. Ladies' & Misses' Tan Oxfords, worth $1.25,	$ .90
Ladies' " " " 2.00,	1.40
" " " " 2.50,	1.75

MEN'S TAN SHOES:

One lot Men's Tan Shoes worth $2.00 for	$1.50
" " " " " 2.50 for	1.75
" " " " " 4.00 for	2.50
" " " Black Shoes, worth 3.00 to 4.00 for	2.00

These are all desirable goods and worth the marked price, but are broken lots and must go to make room for fall stock that is beginning to arrive.

Shull's Cash Shoe Store. AUBURN.

FREE STREET FAIR
AND STOCK MARKET
ALSO SIXTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY OF
Peru, Ind., Aug. 26-31

Gov. Matthews and staff will be present on Aug. 27 to celebrate Peru Day. Miami tribe of Indians will parade. Balloon ascensions and races daily. High dive from 80-foot tower into a net. Niagara Falls painting, largest in the world, value $15,000, exhibited free. Midway Plaisance—World's fair production, cost of $10,000—by Chicago Columbian Amusement Co., A. Jahn, Mgr. Will give also Streets of Cairo, in which will be given Sword Combats, the Marriage Ceremony, Dancing Natives in the costumes of their native country. Turkish Theater, Persian Theater, Palace of Illusions, containing the Magician's masterpiece, Galatea, The Century Group and Niobe. World's Fair Search Light that was placed on Manufacturers' Building at the World's Fair, will positively be lighted every night. Fine Art display. Bicycle Races, and Parade with Lanterns on Wednesday, Aug. 28. Military Competitive Drills. Fancy drills by Volpert Zouaves. Daily parade of Fancy Stock. No Entry Fee charged. Ten Bands of Music. Pure Food Exposition.

One Fare for Round Trip on Wabash R. R.

The Evil Eye.

Antiquitie hath held that certaine women of Scythia, being provoked and vexed against some men, had the power to kill them only with their looke. The Tortoises and Estriges hatch their eggs with their looks only, a signe that they have some ejaculative vertue. And concerning witches, they are said to have offensive and harme-working Eies.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

$5.00
—EXCURSION—
TO NORTHERN MICHIGAN
VIA
G. R. & I.
On Wednesday, Sept. 4,

the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad will run their Annual excursion to Northern Michigan. Tickets will be sold from all Stations on Southern division to

Mackinac Island,
Petoskey and
Traverse City

Good returning until September 14th. Excursion rate to Mackinac Island will be $6.00. Passengers purchasing tickets to Mackinac Island will be allowed to stop off at Petoskey either going or returning. Avail yourself of this opportunity to visit Northern Michigan with slight expense at this delightful season of the year.

For further information address G. R. & I. Ticket Agents or,

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich

WHEAT.

L. J. Miller our wheat buyer says there is a good deal of inferior wheat in the crop of this year, so that only a small part of it will go in as first grade and get highest price. The price on this account runs from 50 to 65 or 70 cents, according to quality. He says there is some excellent wheat, but it is not as common as the poorer grades.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

THE AUBURN COURIER.
OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.
JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.
Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.
THURSDAY,.....AUGUST 15, 1895.

CENTURY RUN.

SECOND ANNUAL RUN, INDIANA DIVISION CENTURY ROAD CLUB, SEPT. 2nd, 1895.

The course has been arranged with care and embraces over 70 miles of excellent Gravel Pike. The start will be from Auburn running via Garrett to Avilla returning via Postal line to Auburn, thence to Ft. Wayne via Leo, thence to Maysville returning via same route. Below is a 12 hour Schedule, though following same will be at the option of the rider. The time limit allowed for a Century is 16 hours and riders must finish within this limit to be entitled to honors.

SCHEDULE.

Leave Auburn at 5:30 a. m. and arriving at Avilla at 6:20, nine miles.

Leave Avilla at 6:25 a. m, and arriving at Auburn at 7:30—nine miles.

Leave Auburn at 7:40 a. m. and arriving at Leo at 8:50—twelve miles.

Leave Leo at 9 a. m. and arriving at Ft. Wayne 10:10—fourteen miles.

Leave Ft. Wayne at 10:30 and arriving at Maysville at 12—sixteen miles.

Leave Maysville at 1 p. m. and arriving at Ft. Wayne at 2:30 p. m.—sixteen miles.

Leave Ft. Wayne at 3 p. m. and arriving at Leo at 4:10 p. m.—fourteen miles.

Leave Leo at 4:30 p. m. and arriving at Auburn at 5:30 p. m.—twelve miles.

The run is open and free to all and a big time is anticipated. Entries should be sent or given to district centurian, R. W. Cobb, Auburn, Ind., on or before Sept. 1st.

Famous Lectures

John G. Woolley who opens the Institute Lecture Course, the 26th has just given three new lectures which have placed him in the front rank of American Oratory.

CHRISTIAN POLITICS

Before the national convention of college boys, Cleveland, Ohio, July 2, '95.

THE VOICES OF THE CENTURY

Was given by him before the National Conference of Reforms, Staten Island, New York July 4, 1895.

CHURCH RESOLUTIONS VERSES SALOON RESOLUTIONS.

International Convention United Societies Y. P. S. C. E. Tent Endeavor Boston, communion July 11, 1895.

Reward of Genius.

The men who write the songs which are sung around the world do not always—very seldom, indeed—profit by their peculiar gifts. There died the other day in a charity ward of one of New York's city hospitals a composer and song writer whose songs were once on every lip, but whose life had been from first to last a bitter struggle. His first composition, which brought the publisher a fortune, was sold for $15. For another, of which half a million copies were sold, he received $200, while the publisher cleared by it $50,000. So it was all through his career; he filled the world with song, but his own life was a prolonged lamentation; a wail of discontent and despair. In his later years misfortune led him into excesses which are so often the refuge of the weak, and he was wont to quench his thirst by the proceeds of impromptu compositions, some of which were among the most popular of his productions. How little we know, as we listen to the melodies which catch and bewitch us, out of what heartaches and fierce wrestling with eager appetite and fierce temptation they may have been born.

JOHN M. ALLEN.

As a Member of Congress His Name Is Familiar.

John M. Allen of Mississippi has been steadily in congress since the Forty-ninth session, to which he was elected from the First district of his native state. Mr. Allen was born in Tishomingo county in 1847; was educated in the common schools and served in the Confederate army throughout the war. He was graduated in law in 1870 at the University of Mississippi; in 1875 was elected district attorney for the First Judicial district of the state; served four years, and was then elected to congress. At the election for the Fifty-third congress he received a large majority over the Populist candidate.

ALLEN OF MISSISSIPPI.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Gold To Be Coined

A dispatch dated August 6 from the treasury at Washinton says: Mr. Preston, director of the mint, in explanation of the shipment of $10,000,000 in gold bullion from New York to Philadelphia, said to-day that it was the present purpose of the government to coin with reasonable rapidity all of its stock of gold bullion. This amounts to nearly $60,000,000, about all of which is in New York, Philadelphia and San Francisco. There is said to be no special significance in this order for the coinage of the gold bullion, as it is said to be solely for the purpose of making it available for all purposes.

The militia boys who returned from camp by way of Peru have gotten into trouble. This, however does not have reference to our company for they returned by way of Ft. Wayne. The Journal says: While some of the militia companies of northern Indiana were returning home from the state encampment, the members helped themselves to the glassware, silverware and other articles of value in the Titus restaurant at Peru, and it is understood that the companies have been notified that all pay will be withheld until Mr. Titus is reimbursed. Meanwhile, an effort will be made to ferret out the guilty soldiers, so that they may be drummed out of service.

Our attention has been called to several nuisances in Stamets' Addition. A COURIER representative investigated the matter and feel that if we say anything we should condemn them all. The proper authorities should investigate.

Century riders in the Annual run Sept. 2d will be required to register at the COURIER office, before starting and upon finishing, also at the St. James Hotel, Avilla, Hotel Leo, The Randall at Ft. Wayne, both ways and at Maysville.

Carriage Repairing.

Dorsey Pilgrim and Ed. Cutter are in charge at the John W. Shaffer wagon shop on South Main street, and in addition to continuing to make the best wagon in the country, they make a specialty of carraige repairing, which they will do neatly and promptly. Both are skilled workmen and guarantee good work and satisfaction. Call on them when your buggy or wagon needs a neat, prompt job of repairing. tf

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

On August 28 to September 5, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at a rate of one fare for the round trip, account of the National Local Preachers' Association Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until September 7, 1895.

For further information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Ill.

A dispatch from Whiting says that Frank Smithson an employe of the Standard Oil Company was fatally burned yesterday morning by falling into a tank of boiling wax. He managed to catch hold of a large steam pipe to which he clung until his cries brought help. The flesh on his lower limbs was literally cooked, the flesh being burned until the bones were exposed. All the boys who were members of the Auburn Rifles and participated in the suppression of riots at that place last July a year ago will remember the large oil tanks and how easily one could be burned to death in the employ of that company. Some of the boys visited the oil works every day during their stay in Whiting.

BUTLER.

Esquire Potter is reported seriously sick.

Mamie Prosser, Nettie Plowe and Orin Knisley are also reported sick.

A new front with plate glass has been put in the Hensler hardware building.

A new firm by the name of Welden from Montpelier, Ohio, occupies the Susie Worth building. This building was recently purchased by Edwin Keith of Chicago.

Prof. Coe is doing eastern Ohio and Cuyahoga county on his wheel. J. A Campbell accompanied him to Seneca county, where rain and mud forced him to return by rail. The professor continued his journey by the same means.

A heavy rain last Sabbath about the forenoon church hour depleted the churches of their usual attendance

S. G, Stone and Mr. Miller our popular grocery man left Monday for a trip over the Indiana gas field on wheels. They propose to travel by easy stages of 25 to 50 miles per day and do the various towns on the route.

E. A. Campbell and family have returned to their home in Toledo.

A. G. Jones is visiting in Garnet and other points in Kansas.

Jerome Brown, Mark Bailey and Will Powe visited Rome City last Monday on their wheels.

Geo. Casebeer, a former well-know citizen of Butler was buried a week ago,

The Loutzenhizer & Bratten steam thresher barn losses, amounting to $1,830 insured in J. A. Campbell's agency, have been adjusted to the entire satisfaction of the assured.

Corn in the vicinity of Butler promises an immense yield.

Our Street Fair promises to be a great success, judging from the inquiry that is being made about it and the effort to get ready for it.

A Watery Grave

A FEW AUBURN PEOPLE WITNESS THE YOUNG MAN FALL FROM THE STEAMER

With all the Merrymaking Come Sorrow.

A part of the crowd from Auburn who were at Rome City yesterday witnessed a most horrible sight. It was those only however, who happened to be on the steamers and saw a Mr. Alderman, of Hawpatch fall from the boat into the deep lake, about six o'clock last evening. We give the particulars as we got them from Mrs. O. Y. DeLong and Mrs. Dave Neff who with several others were on the steamer following the one the man fell from. There were two steamers on the lake one larger than the other and they were returning from a trip down the lake but were well at the west end. The young man was on the first boat, and we were told, was playing with a baby. His brother was beside him. In some way not known to any one he fell from the boat backward. A lady who stood next to him gave the alarm by screaming and shouted that a man had fallen from the boat. As soon as possible the boat was stopped and the captain warned the passengers to remain on their seats or they would all be where the young man was. For if they all rushed to either side the steamer would up tip. The larger steamer was following close to the rear and when stopped was near the place where the young man went down, He came up near the boat and tried to swim and did stay above the water but soon sank to the bottom. Mrs. O. V. DeLong said he was but a few feet from her. One man took off his coat and was going to dive for him but the captain informed him he would not get out as the current would draw him under the boat. The passengers were under the same orders they were on the first boat. As soon as the word was brought ashore many small boats left for the scene. The steamers took no more passengers but stopped for the evening. The COURIER representative rowed to the scene and there were dozens of boats which contained men who were trying to find his body. They were all using long poles with hooks on the end. There were perhaps one hundred boats there which contained excursionists and the banks of the lakes were crowded with people. The search for the body was kept up till dark and the work abandoned till this morning. The unfortunate young man and his brother only lived seven miles from the lake and had driven there in the afternoon and the first thing they did was to take the ride on the steamer. The crowd at that place yesterday was the largest of the season. Thirteen excursions were run there from different directions. Thousands of people expressed their sympathy for the young man but all was of no use The young man, it is said was not a drinking man and the blame is not laid to liquor. The exact cause of the accident will probably never be known. People did not remain long on the islands after the accident, but crowded to the depot and waited there for their respective trains more than two hours.

A Delightful Surprise.

The evening of August 7, 1895, came, and to many it will never depart, but will stand in their memory as a parenthesis between years and events. A white mark will be drawn over this date in their calendars to help them to more full remember the enjoyable time had at Allen McClellan's, of Jackson township, that evening.

On this date was Mr. McClellan's birthday. Thirty six years of life had "Old Time" numbered against him, and in order to make it a period to be remembered by him, his friends entered into a plot to so completely surprise Mr. Mc. that ever after he would believe in surprise parties.

Stealthily they went to work inviting guests, nor did they pause until the whole country-side was invited.

At last the eventful evening came, and with it came the guests by ones and twos, by carriages and wagon-loads; they came until over one hundred had gathered, and yet they kept coming. But where was Mr. McClellan? He who could not be surprised was away threshing and would not be at home that evening. At last all was ready, and a carriage was sent post haste for the victim. He came and was conquered. Then after Mr. McClellan had become reconciled to his fate, festivities opened up in full force. Their large dining room and parlor were turned into a banquet hall in which fifty could be seated at the table. The first fifty were seated and Mr. J. H. Pyle had just said grace when music from an unseen orchestra filled the room with soft dreamy vibrations. The music was furnished by the Grove Bethel orchestra which was led by Mr. Obe Boren But now of the banquet, ah! No where save in fancy or in dream."—but that matters not. The music was good, the banqet grand and everybody enjoyed themselves. A watch chain and guard, purchased by the guests was presented to Mr. McClellan. Samuel Brown made the presentation speech which was replied to by Mr. McClellan in a few touching and well chosen words. He thanked his many friends for the present and for the delightful way in which they had surprised him.

The younger generation lead by Miss Laura E. McClellan carried their plays and merry laughter out on the lawn and there by the dreamy moonlight they enjoyed themselves as only young people can.

Mr. and Mrs. McClellan entertained assisted by Miss Laura, their guests in such a cheerful manner that it was near morning before they all left.

May Mr. McClellan live to see many more years of life was the wishes of all those who helped him to remember this birthday. A GUEST.

The Hot Weather Continues.

And you must of necessity wear Garments that are Cool and Comfortable. Don't say it is too late to blow yourself for Summer Clothing, for we will make prices on all SUMMER SHIRTS, LIGHT COATS, STRAW HATS, Etc.

That you can afford to buy for a month's Wear.

MEN'S YOUTHS' and CHILDRENS' Light Suits at Your Price. Buy for next year.

Boys SEERSUCKER COATS and VESTS In smaller sizes 25 cents.

ALPACAS and SERGES at your own prices.

We Keep Everything to keep you Cool but Beer and Ice Cream. Come and look over what we have and see if we can interest you.

LOOK AT OUR AD

When we Speak about Fall and Winter Apparel.

G. H. YESBERA,
The Peoples Clothier.

P. S.—Our new Piece Goods and Fall Hats are in.

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Sarah A. Mortoff and others of Smithfield township, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county state of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Thursday the 5th of September, 1895, the same being the 4th day of their September term, 1895 of Commissioners' Court.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit:

Beginning thirty (30) rods west and three hundred and twenty (320) feet north of the south east corner of the southwest fourth of the north east quarter of section four (4) of Smithfield Township, DeKalb county, State of Indiana and from thence in a southwesterly and southeasterly course until it enters the M. P, Barker drain of said Smithfield Township and there to end. said ending being two hundred and thirty-two (232) feet north of the southwest corner of the northwest fourth of the northeast quarter of section fifteen (15) of said Smithfield township, DeKalb county, Indiana.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Orlando Elliott, and	Eliza A. Elliott,
John D. Miller,	Michael Zircher,
Jonn Gramling	Peter H. Gramling,
William B. Conrad,	Sarah A. Mortorff,
Ira Jackson'	Sarah Mortorff.
Tracy Conrad;	Marshal H. Dunlap
Zidanis Grear,	Jane Gibbs,
Sarah J. Fisher,	John Hammond,
Lewis Chapman,	Charles Parish,
Esther Snowberger,	Thomas Hammond,
Baltzer R. Shoudel,	Nathan Elliot,
Joseph R. Rohm,	Joseph Hohl,
Smithfield Township	Richard Gramling,

Fort Wayne and Jackson Branch of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad, Grant L. Dunlap.

F. A. BORST,
Auditor DeKalb Co.

First National Bank
AUBURN, INDIANA
Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left six months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

OBITUARY.

Elizabeth Hogen Shipe was born in Starke county, Ohio, January 24th, 1834 In the fall of 1852 she came to Steuben county, Indiana, with her brother-in-law, Samuel Teters. On January 24th, 1861, she was united in marriage to Ephraim Shipe and proved herself an affectionate mother to his four children. To them were born a son and five daughters. The son and two daughters preceded her to the land of rest. In January, 1866, they united with the M. E. church to which she was a faithful member until death. For many years she had been afflicted with a disease that proved incurable. In the hope of benefit she went to Ann Arbor last spring for treatment. After a stay of four months she returned to her home and good medical treatment continued but without relief though all that skilled physicians and loving care could do, was done. She fell asleep August 2, 1895, at the age of 61 years, 6 months and 9 days. August 4, a large concourse of friends followed her to her last rest in Fairfield cemetery. The services were by Rev. J A. Irvin, of Angola.

Mr. Shipe and the children desire to thank the friends and neighbors for their thoughtful kindness all through this affliction.

GOOD FARM FOR SALE.

One mile and a half south of Auburn, the old A. D. Goetschius farm of 110 acres, in good condition. Good brick house and other good buildings. For terms inquire at the farm.

A. D. GOETSCHIUS jr.

The Eagle Manufacturing Co. at Auburn Junction are making all kinds of light and heavy castings.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

—Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

DR. W. W. CAREY,
AUBURN, - - INDIANA
Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.
CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.
Can be found in office both Day and Night.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
CORUNNA — — INDIANA
Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph
Calls promptly answered at all times.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett,

J. P. Crimmins,
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
Capital Stock.—
—$45,000.00.
—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—
Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Franklin P. Sweitzer is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, by Emeriah Sweitzer for divorce, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 8th day of October 1895 being the 2nd juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7, 1895.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 25th day of July, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

D. Y. Husselman, Att'y.

Notice of Vacation of Alley.

Notice is hearby given that a petition will be presented to the Board of Commissioners of DeKalb County, Indiana, at their September session for the year 1895, asking said Board to vacate a part of the alley running between lots fifty (50) and (51) in the town of Vienna in DeKalb County, Indiana, said part of said Alley sought to be vacated, extending from the west side of State street in said town to a point forty-two (42) feet south west of said west side of State street aforesaid.

July 27, 1895. 31-32

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

Notice is hearby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Sheets, deceased, will sell at public sale, at the late residence of said decedent, one mile south of Auburn, in Jackson township, in the county of DeKalb, and state of Indiana, on.

Saturday August 24, 1895,

the personal property of the decedent, consisting of growing crops, household goods and other articles. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock p. m.

TERMS.

All sums of five dollars and under cash; sums of over five dollars a credit of nine months will be given by the purchaser giving his note with approved security, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws.

R. S. S. REED, Administrator
J. R. & J. H. Rose, Att'ys. 31-33

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of James A. Hammond deceased late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JAMES A. S. HAMMOND,
Aug 6, 1895. Administrator.

Advance Sale

A Convention of

ELEGANT, EXCLUSIVE BLACK DREGOODS.

The First Break For Fall, 1895.

The Grand Opening Display and sale of Black Dress goods and Novelties for Fall and Winter of 1895, which we announce to-day, is the satisfactory accomplishment of our special efforts to excel anything heretofore attempted in Dress Goods in DeKalb County.

This Advance Sale includes the Choicest Novelties in Silk, Silk and Wool and Wool fabrics direct from the looms of the leading French, English, German and American producers, and nowhere in this vicinity is shown so diversified, complete and large a collection.

You will be Surprised And More than Pleased With the Fine Qualities And Low Prices.

Henriettas, Storm Serges, Serges, Crepons, Cravenetts, Coverts Persian Mixtures, Lancelots, etc.

We also show Full Line of

Winter Cloaks, Winter Furs, Hosiery and Underwear!

CASH BUYING, CASH SELLING, is our way.

Bishop & Lackey.

LEADING MERCHANTS

TRY

GELLER'S

....CELEBRATED.....

Ice Cream

AT THE NEW

ICE CREAM PARLOR

SECOND DOOR NORTH of KRUGER'S GROCERY

YOU WANT THE BEST.

J. G. CLAPP,

Wide-a-Wake Photographer

Has the Finest and Best Line of

Picture Mouldings, Easels, Etc.

Any size Picture Framed and Matted—RIGHT

If you have Old Pictures to Enlarge, and want Pictures that will

KNOCK AGENTS WORK SILLY,

Leave your Orders WITHOUT FEAR With Us

CASH

Paid for

Scrap Cast Iron

At

Auburn Foundry AND Machine Works

Smoke THE "DINGER!"

E. M. Bishop, AUBURN.

Tuesday's Daily.

Mrs. A. B. Richards is home again and reports her mother, Mrs. William Buss, still very poorly.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop, father and mother of G. A. and E. M. Bishop are visiting them.

Read about the corn cutting machine of which Brown, Culbertson & Boland have a notice this week.

Every article sold by the Foster Furniture & Carpet Co., of Fort Wayne, is guaranteed free from any fault of manufacture. They handle only goods of established reputation.

Joseph Huet, the incoming trustee of Fairfield township, was a caller to day in company with his predecessor, R. H. Sherlock. He informs us his wife is quite sick and has been for a week past.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sorg, who has been visiting in the family of John Berg, returned to their home in Hesse Cassel, Allen county, this morning. Johnie Berg went them to spend a couple of weeks.

Wednesday's Daily.

T. J. Saxton left to day for Elyria O, where he will remain a few weeks.

Leave orders at the Fair View fruit farm for fine raspberry bushes. Any variety you wish, red or black. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31-33

Quality way up, prices way down, on Furniture & Carpets at Foster's at Fort Wayne.

Mrs. Henry Spitler, of Cedarville, is visiting her son L. Spitler of this place. Her grandson, Bert Spitler of the same place, accompanies her.

Remember the sale of personal prop- of the late Mrs. Margaret Sheets, is now set for 1 o'clock of Aug. 24. See notice. 31-33

A G Lodewick on the Fairview Farm north of town has raspberries and blackberries on his vines yet. He has a great variety of small fruits, and will sell plants as well as fruit.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

Read the new ad of Lung's Restaurant and Lunch Room. They are located two doors north of Kruger's grocery on Main street. They take boarders by the day or week, and also carry a fine line of tobacco, cigars, candies and fruits.

Ft. Wayne Journal:—The Indian commissioner, who is now in Peru paying the claims to the members of the Miami tribe in that section, will arrive in this city either on Tuesday or Wednesday to pay the claims due the members of Miamis on the Richardville reserve. The total amount to be disbursed among all the members of this famous band is $43,000. Each Maimi in this county will receive as his or her share the sum of $99.45.

Call at Fair View fruit farm for choice strawberry plants. Ready to set Sept. 1 No agent prices. Any variety you want. Will bear well next season. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31-33

Thursday's Daily:

Dr. Sheffer and J. W. Dills, of St. Joe, were in the city yesterday.

Dr. Matheny and wife returned to-day from an extended visit through the western states.

The society of C. E. of the Presbyterian church will give a social next week. The date and particulars will be given soon.

Mrs. McManus, wife of Senator S. B. McManus and daughter Mrs. George Elliot are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. West.

Dave Fulkerson, of Cedarville, with daughter and grandson, were here yesterday, and selected a monument at Madden Brothers' Marble Works.

The brick work on Dr. Fitch's new barn is completed and it will soon be ready for the roof. When completed this will be one of the best barns in town.

Some of the gravel roads leading out of Ft. Wayne are charging toll for bicycles. This is certainly an unreasonable charge. Why not charge pedestrians toll? They do as much damage to the gravel as the wheel.

Miss Mattie McBride second daughter of Judge R. Wes. McBride arrived here yesterday from Wawassee, or Cedar Beach where she had been staying for a time. Her home is in Indianapolis.

George Weeks, with his parents and sisters left this afternoon for Edon, O. Saxby McIntosh also accompanied them. He will probably help George get his printing office in shape.

About sixty dollars will buy as much furniture now, as one hundred dollars in the spring of 1893. The Foster Furniture & Carpet Co., of Fort Wayne, will prepay freight to this town on goods purchased of them.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic. DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

Poorly made furniture is dear at any price. If well made it lasts a life time; if poorly put together, it soon is apart. The Foster Furniture Co., of Fort Wayne is exceedingly careful to handle only the best made goods the market affords.

The big steel trusses for the Opera House came this morning and Mr. Henry and a gang of men were busily engaged in getting them to the building. They will be put in position as fast as the workmen can do the work.

Dr. Phillips came down from Corunna to-day, Thursday for a brief business visit. He reports old Mrs. Shook as doing well after her severe accident. She broke her arm at the wrist, a bad fracture, and the Doctor has been treating her. She will soon be all right again.

Quite a number of counterfeit half dollars are in circulation in Columbia City. The coin is a very poor imitation having only one thing in its favor, the weight. The looks of it is not at all genuine, and to feel it one can readily detect it.—Later. Fred Schroeder was captured and is now in jail; supposed to be the man.

A large barn belonging to the widow Conklin, who lives about one mile west of Potter's Station was struck by lightning yesterday morning and burned to the ground. The barn contained between three and four hundred bushels of wheat, a large amount of hay, farming implements, wagons, buggies and harness. Loss about $800, with no insurance. Policy had but recently expired and by neglect had not been renewed.

The Lowells are by far the best Ingrain carpet made, They do not, however, cost you any more than others if you purchase them of the Foster Furniture & Carpet Co., at Fort Wayne.

Friday's Daily.

Choice Berkshire Sow and pigs for sale or will trade for wheat. A. G. Lodewick. 31-33

J. N. Rickel of Waterloo was here on business last evening. He is putting up E R. Shoemaker's new residence at that place.

Marriage licenses have been issued to LeRoy Nelson and Nellie N. Sheldon and James Bowen and Blanche McCullough.

The grade for the new side track to the Eckhart Carriage factory has been completed and the ties will be put down and the rails laid in a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Beams and daughter Mada, of Spencerville were here yesterday the guests of friends. They also made Dr. Corey a call.

For Sale,—all kinds of small fruit trees and bushes, most popular varieties at much less than agents' prices. Call at Fairview farm north of town.

The "National Union," published at Warsaw has entered on the thirty fifth year of its existence and is still as bright as ever. Brother Zimmerman never gushes but he gives his readers a sound paper and an able one. That is better.

The National Guard will probably receive their pay for service at the late State Encampment soon. The adjutant general is working on the pay rolls. He says the payment will be made at the earliest possible moment.

Citizens of Ft. Wayne have donated several hundred dollars to the fund for providing a suitable silver service for the U. S. battle ship that is to be named "Indiana." It appears that each state that has a war ship name for it, donates a silver set for the captain's use.

Rushing into the active business of life without proper preparation is suicide. The years of youth should be devoted to study. Prepare yourself for assuming a good place in life by taking a complete course in some one of the many departments of the F. N. U., Fayette, O.

Do you wish to become a teacher, a teacher, a superintendent, a high-school principal, a book-keeper, a banker, a fine penman, a stenographer, an elocutionist, an artist, a skillful musician, or what is more important still, a successful, sensible man or woman? If so, the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, O., offers you the opportunity. The catalogue will interest you.

Saturday's Daily:

T. J. Saxton is visiting at Cleveland, O.

A boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bailey yesterday morning.

Ex Surveyor Jake Hook was in the city to-day shaking hands with friends.

Dr. Samuel C. Metcalf one of the best known physicians of Ft. Wayne died at his home there last evening.

Jim Lewis has been working up at Waterloo this week. He has the job of doing the tin work on E. R. Shoemaker's new house.

Hon. Nich Ensley is in town for a few days' visit with his former neighbors, Mrs. Ensley and daughter, Amber, have been here several days.

Mrs. Jacob Stealy died at her home in Angola this morning, Aug. 10, at 5:30. A letter from her son, Geo. Stealy this forenoon brings the sad news.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sorg of Hesse Cassel, Allen county drove up here yesterday, and are the guests in the family of the latter's brother, John Berg.

Burglars broke into a farm house in Elkhart county a few nights ago and stole everything they thought of value including $2,800 worth of promissory notes.

Miss Helen Ralston is now engaged at the Bishop & Lackey store as a clerk, and likes the work very well, though of course it is a little confining till one becomes accustomed to it.

John Treesh has had quite a good summer's work in putting down cement sidewalks and crossings. Now he has a big job over at Garrett where he will put down over 300 feet of walk around the school house there.

Miss C. E. Strickland writes us that they are now located at Otis, in the Berkshire Hills of Massachusetts, and will remain there during the summer, This is one of the noted summer resorts of the east, where people of leisure and means spend the hot months in the cool air of the hill country.

Miss Mamie Long, came down from Waterloo this afternoon to visit a few days with the Courier folks, her old neighbors, and with other friends in town. Her home is at San Diego, Cal., but she has been in Waterloo and Pleasant Lake some weeks as many of her relatives live there.

A son of Prof. Latta of Purdue University came up from Lafayette to-day to visit at Cal. Husselman's. The latter met him and took him out home. Prof. Latta will arrive on the 7:35 train, having been absent elsewhere lecturing we oresume. Our people will remember him as one of the lecturers at our "Farmers' Institutes." He and Mr. Husselman having worked together in these institutes over different parts of the state, have become warm friends.

Mrs. W. B. Brown and son Carl returned to-day on the 12:25 train over the B. & O. They had been visiting relatives at Fostoria, Ohio. Quite an incident occurred as they went out. In approaching Hamler, a station this side of Fostoria, two men in a buggy went to drive across the track and the horse was struck squarely and thrown from the track and instantly killed. The train was backed up to see what had been done. The horse was dead, but except broken shafts the buggy was uninjured. The men were not hurt.

W. H. McGiffin, of Fairfield, was in the city Wednesday.

Monday's Daily.

The new church at Lockwood's in Jackson township was dedicated yesterday.

It is said that 15,530,368 pupils sat on school benches without cushions in the United States last year.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

The corn crop for this year is estimated at 2,400,000,0000 bushels. The hogs will smile all over when they hear about it.

Asa Brandon is to-day moving into his new residence west of the railroad near the Lake shore station.

Thomas Chandler, three miles east of Lisbon, in Noble county, has a sale of personal property on Saturday, August 17.

Hon, Nich, Ensley went back to Indianapolis to-day on the noon Wabash. Mrs. Ensley and little daughter Amber will remain a week or so longer.

Mrs. A. Lewis and son Harry were the guests over Sunday of friends in Hicksville. They were guests of Os. Allen and family.

Geo. Lanning left at 4:30 this morning to drive to Reading, Mich. Mrs. Lanning and daughter are there and Mr. Lanning will remain with them a couple of weeks.

Auburn got another nice rain yesterday in the forenoon. As with nearly all our showers this year, it was a straight down pour while it lasted.

Miss Ollie Froehlich who has been visiting the family of her uncle, Charles Eckhart, returned to Waterloo to-day noon, and in a day or so goes to her home in Toledo.

Shull, the shoe man had a dray load of boot and shoe boxes come the other day. And this lot had shoes in them. This compels him to make a closing out sale as noted in his new advt.

Mrs. P. T. Barnum, widow of the dead showman, married last week. Her husband is a wealthy Greek nobleman, Demetrius Kallas Bey, and is said to be an excellent man.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

The college at North Manchester which for a time had been in charge of C. E. Kriebel formerly of Butler has been purchased by the Dunkers and a full set of professors provided. It will start out the coming school year in sound shape.

Mr. Merica has secured as his other lecturer besides Dr. Nourse, Rev. Dr. A. J. Fish, of Toledo, O. Dr. Fish has been a leading attraction at the great assembly meetings of the country and is one of the foremost lecturers of the land.

Read the letter in to-day's issue from Geo. M. Henderson, who is at Cambridge Mass. It describes a trip on wheel from that place to Concord and Lexington Battle grounds. It is an interesting article and it gives our readers a faint idea of the magnificiant scenery along the way.

The Courier job department has been crowded with work this week, and we have added an extra man, Mr. Alvord. People appreciate our efforts in giving us their job work. We are thankful for all of these favors. This week a job goes over to the Wilmot mills in Noble county.

A farmer in the south part of the state recently had his house entered by burglars who bound him tightly with wire which they brought along. It was very painful, but effective. His watch and loose change and other valuebles were taken, and then the burglars drove off in a buggy the same way they had came.

A mulatto at Dallas, Texas, last week shot and killed the girl he was to marry. As he stood up for the ceremony she declared she would not have him and started to go away, when he shot her. The young man was a graduate of the colored college at Raileigh, N. C. the same one, we suppose, where Mrs. Ebiers has been employed.

J. J. VanAuken went to Churubusco this morning to run a big ditch from that place to South Whitley. The ditch was surveyed about four years ago and since then the matter has been brought up in court. Mr. VanAuken will go over the distance and confirm the report of the county surveyor. He is hired by McNagny and another attorney and will receive $5 a day and expenses.

Angola Herald:—County Treasurer Taylor reports that George Lounsbury threshed on his farm near Orland in one day and made five sittings of the machine 1420 bushels of wheat and 320 bushels of oats. The wheat grew on 63 acres, and represents an average of over 22½ bushels per acre, which is a good yield. The total 1740 bushels also represents a pretty good day's threshing—probably the largest ever done in the county.

Editor Higley, of the Butler Record, was here to day. Saturday there was a new song put into his mouth." It runs like this:

Hychee, pychee, puddin' and pie
Kiss a little boy an' make 'im cry.

This new song began Saturday, and he considers it the musical edition of the Butler Record. Editors are not usually in such good luck but Bro. Higley says he has started out to beat Bro. Willis. But he must not forget that Bro. Willis has about nine laps the start.

The trustees so far do not appear to be publishing their reports as required by law. There are some who think they are not required to do so but we believe they are mistaken. These reports of receipts and expenses should be published whether the law commands it or not. The people want to know what is going on and are willing it should be paid for.

Tuesday's Daily.

Dr. A. J. Fish, of Toledo, Ohio, has been engaged as one of the lectures for the County Institute Lecture course.

Remember the great Institute Lecture Course beginning Monday evening, Aug. 26.

Mrs. Nelson of Butler and Miss Carrie Turner went to Geneva, Ind., to-day to visit a week with friends.

Mrs. E. Zimmerman and daughter went up to Norval, Mich., to-day noon to spend a few day with friends.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. David Shull west of town a ten pound girl, Saturday afternoon. They had been married eight years in vain up to this date.

Frank Myers has gone to Toledo, where he has a position with the great shoe house of Smith, Simmons & Penbody.

Frank Fisher, a nephew of Sylvester Zimmerman is here visiting relatives. His home is at Rockport, Mich., we believe.

Miss Sarah Hoagland called Tuesday in company with Mrs. F. M. Kosht. Miss Hoagland is staying with her sister, Mrs. G. D. McGown east of town.

E. H. Fisher, and Will Bovlich, both of Newville, called on the Courier to-day. They were in town on a business trip and of course made their old friend a visit.

Ralph Moody went down to Churubusco this morning. He will play ball with the Busco nine at Columbia city to-day This game was the result of a challenge between the nines of the above places and is for $100.

Miss Ollie McClure left at noon to-day for Benton Harbor, Mich., where she will be the guest of friends for a few weeks.

Hiram Boley and wife from near Quincy, Mich. accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Miser of Franklin township, Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Soule and Mrs. M. A. Miser of Waterloo, spent the afternoon yesterday with the family of Frank N. Beidler. Mr. Boley is an uncle to Mrs. Beidler whom she had not seen in twenty years.

Heartily Recommends It.

My boy was taken with a decease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31-35

NOTICE.

To Whom it may Concern:

Notice is hereby given to all persons who have removed sand or gravel from my farm known as the Wesley Work farm in Butler township, DeKalb County, Ind., to desist from taking any more gravel or sand from said farm, and all who have taken sand or gravel in the past are hereby notified to settle for the same with me attorneys Woodhull & Gilbert, of Angola, Ind., if they wish to save costs.

Frederick Vandercook

August 10, 1895. 33-34

A Crowning Success.

C. E. DeVos, editor of the Cooperville (Mich.) Observer, is a worthy example of what push and energy, with keen business propensities, will accomplish. In a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. DeVos said: "I was born in Keene, Canada, in 1855. In 1857, I migrated with my parents to Pella, Iowa, received a common school education, drifted into the printing business, and removed to Battle Creek, Mich., where I became foreman in the large printing house of Gage & Son. I recently purchased the paper of which I am now editor. My life work has been very confining and exacting and, as a result, my health gave out and I broke down with nervous exhaustion and sleeplessness. I was in such a condition that I could not sleep until completely worn out, my appetite failed me and I had to choke down what little I did eat. About two months ago my attention was directed to Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep needed, my appetite returned and became as ravenous as a wolf's my weigh increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear and active, in fact, I was restored to health and I look and feel an entirely different man." Inquiry and observation has proved Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be a truly wonderful cure for all nerve troubles, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency and sexual general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport 31-35

Corn Harvester.

Auburn, Ind, Aug. 12, 1895.

Mr. Farmer,

We will start a McCormick Corn Harvester on the farm of Cal Husselman one mile north of Auburn on Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 20th and want you to come and see it go. Respectfully Yours

Brown Culbertson & Boland.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

THE KING SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Reader, did you ever take Simmons Liver Regulator, the "King of Liver Medicines?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is Better than Pills. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

The Hoosier Girl

Promotion comes to the Hoosier, man or woman as naturally as sunshine comes in spring. Miss Maggie Easly who has been so prominent in physical culture work and simlilar lines, has just been elected Instructor and Principal of the Department of Elocution, Dramatic Expression and Physical Culture in the Township High School at Pontiac, Ill. The College there is one excellently equipped and progressive, and the appointment is quite a compliment. There were nearly fifty applicants for the place. The very next day after accepting this place, she was notified that she had been elected to the chair of Elocution and Oratory of the Southwest Kansas College at Winfield, Kansas. We are pleased to hear of her good fortune.

Butler Chapel

The Butler Chapel Sabbath Schoo will give a picnic entertainment on the 24th day of August, 1895. The entertainment will be held in the grove on the land of Mr. Henry Smith, ½ mile north of Butler Chapel, Butler township, DeKalb county, Indiana. A cordial invitation is hereby given to all the surrounding Sabbath Schools and their friends to come and share the festivities of the day. Good music will be in attendance, Come one, come all, and let us make this a joyful day in the Lord.

Phillip Noel,
Supt. Butler Chapel S. S.

S. S. Picnic.

Norris Chapel four miles east of town, will have a Sunday school picnic on Saturday August 24 in the grove just east of the church. It is an all day basket picnic and many other schools will be invited to join. A good program is prepared. All come.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord drug store. 4

St. Joe Picnic.

The annual reunion picnic of the old charge of the Lutheran church will be held at St Joe, Thursday, Aug. 22d. The gathering will be held in a beautiful grove on the banks of the St. Joe river Good boating and fishing, and a delightful place to spend a day's outing: Prominent speakers will be present and the famous Botterton Family Cornet band will make the woods ring with music. Ample preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd.

All Free.

Those who have used Dr. King's New Discovery know its value, and those who have not, have now the opportunity to try it, free. Call on the advertised druggist and get a trial bottle free. Send your name and address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pill free, as well as a copy of Guide to Health and Household Instructor, free. All of which is guaranteed to do you good and cost you nothing. Robbins & McCord's drug-store. 4

WANTED

A comrade or son of a veteran, who wishes to go to the great encampment of the G. A. R. at Louisville next month, to handle the genuine original war photographs taken by U. S. Government photographers during the war of 1861-65 These views are wonderfully realistic war scenes and very interesting. There is money in them. Send at once for catalogue and terms. 32 33

The War Photographic Co.,
No. 21 Linden Place, Hartford Conn

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - - PUBLISHER.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE.

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings of an Important Nature.

THE FIRE RECORD.

A Monstrous Blaze at the Quaker City.

Philadelphia Special: The Philadelphia Fire Department was called on Tuesday to fight the fiercest, most destructive and most dangerous fire that has visited this city in nearly a score of years. Property valued at nearly half a million dollars was laid in ruins, a hundred people rendered homeless and a dozen firemen and policemen succumbed to the awful heat and smoke.

The property destroyed includes the paper box factory operated by Brown & Baily, in which the fire originated, occupying a big plot fronting on Willow street, and extending northward between Eighth and Franklin streets; W. J. Buck, Sons & Co.'s chandelier factory at the northwest corner of Eighth and Willow streets, fifteen dwellings on the south side of Willow street, east of Eighth street, and ten dwellings on Franklin street, north of Willow, while at least twenty-five other dwellings on Eighth, Franklin and Callowhill streets were more or less severely damaged.

Once started, the fire assumed the proportions of a conflagration, and the locality in which it occurred made the chances of disastrous destruction more than probable. Surrounded on every side by hundreds of dwellings, many of them of ancient construction, and all sun baked and dry as tinder, the chances were decidedly in favor of the flames.

Mothers were separated from their children in the mad rush to escape, and when the little ones could not be found at once, were restrained with difficulty from rushing back into the burning homes in a wild attempt to rescue them.

Soon firemen and policemen began to succumb, and the houses on the limit of the fire were thrown open to receive them. Hospital ambulances were early on the ground and the men were generally quickly resuscitated.

It was two hours before the fire was gotten under control, and fully two more before the firemen could safely relax their effort. Even then the smoking ruins blazed in places, and at times, made many feeble attempts to renew their destructiveness.

A MONSTROUS BLAZE.

The Town of Lockport, Ill., Almost Wiped Out.

Lockport, Ill., a town of 3,000 people on the drainage canal, five miles from Joliet, had a narrow escape from destruction by flames. The loss is probably $250,000. Two engines and two hose carts were sent by the Chicago fire department in response to the urgent appeal for help, a chemical engine from Joliet, and the only engine which Lamont could send to the scene of the conflagration, saved the town from being in ashes. The Lockport fire fighting apparatus and the water facilities were totally inadequate to subdue the flames after they had gained considerable headway. One-half the business buildings of the town were consumed. The city hall and records, the postoffice and contents, the Chicago & Alton depot and freight house, and the telephone exchange were among the victims of the flames.

Crippled for Life.

Simon and Edward Kastead, father and son, were frightfully hacked and stabbed by William Rose, a negro, in Kalamazoo, Mich., while they were trying to protect three girls whom Rose was trying to overtake on a lonely street. The father had part of the muscles of one arm severed and received a thrust over the heart, and the son received a bad gash in the neck and several deep thrusts in the body. The girls had taken refuge from the negro in the Kastead yard and the two men were attacked when they ordered him to leave. Rose was arrested. His victims will be crippled for life.

$10,000 Diamond Robbery.

Mrs. George H. Zeigler of Philadelphia, who with her husband and child, is stopping at the Washington Hotel, Kansas City, was robbed of diamonds valued at $10,000. The family was absent from their rooms when a man to whom they had been introduced, called, and going to their rooms quietly, walked away with the jewels which had been left upon the table. Superintendent Conkling, of the Pinkerton agency, said that one of the most astute confidence men in America was reported to be in this vicinity and this dodge was just about appropriate to his calibre.

His Frightful Plunge.

At Madison, Ind., while descending a hill with a traction engine Harry Jackson, the engine, lost control of his engine. It was precipiteted down a forty-foot embankment and completely wrecked. Jackson was terribly, if not fatally injured his left leg being shattered below the knee, his right foot crushed and other injuries inflicted. Samuel Steele, who was riding on the machine, jumped and saved himself.

Drowned.

William Altimers of Topeka, Indiana, while in attendance at Island Park Assembly, Rome City, Ind., was accidentally drowned, falling from the deck of the steamer, in twenty feet of water. The body has not been found. Altimer was 21 years of age and unmarried.

Both were Killed.

While Mrs. Minnie Pouli was walking along the W. and L. E. tracks, carrying a 2-year-old babe in her armes, she was struck by an incoming passenger train and both killed.

Deliberately Planned.

A Victoria, B. C., special says: Mrs. Hartwell, of Toronto, Ont., one of the victims of the Ching Tu riots in May, has arrived from China on her way home. She says: "Chinese authoritses now are over anxious to make reparation for the injuries inflicted, although the attack upon the missionaries was deliberately planned by the Governor of Sechuen province and carried out under the direction of his officials." Rev. Dr. Hart, the head of the Canadian Methodist church, is now at Pekin, in consultation with the British authorities in reference to the claim of damages.

Americans to be Protected.

Minister Denby has been instructed by Acting Secretary Adee, to secure protection for American citizens at Panyag, China, a place about forty miles from Foo Chow, where the American mission is reported to have been looted by the natives. No additional outrages have been reported to the State department.

Killed by Corn Salve.

Philip Vasbinder, one of the oldest residents of Anderson, Ind., is dead. His death was from gangrene, superinduced by a corn salve applied to a bleeding toe where a corn had been cut. The toe was amputated, but the poison had been absorbed throughout the system.

AT THE STAKE

These Negroes Will Be Burned if the Citizens' Posse Arrives in Time.

Tulsa (I. T.) special: For several days reports have been coming in of horrible outrages perpetrated by a gang of negroes in the thinly settled country south of Sapulpa. Three women have been taken from their homes and outraged by them, from the effects of which one has since died. Stores and dwelling houses have been robbed and numerous horses stolen. Deputy United States Marshals and citizens have been scouring the country, and were rewarded the other evening by the capture of the whole gang. They were captured by light horsesmen and Deputy Marshals B. Irwin and Jesse Jones, who are on their way to Ft. Smith with their prisoners.

Great excitement prevails among the citizens here and a large body of men are attempting to intercept the Marshals. The names of the negroes are now unknown but they were supposed to be citizens of the Creek Nation. Over 100 men are in the party trying to intercept the Marshals and are riding hard. If they succeed and their present intentions are carried out the negroes will be burned at the stake.

WANTS TO COME.

The Hawaiian Republic Insists Upon Becoming a Part of the United States.

Honolulu special: R. Castle, the new Hawaiian minister to Washington, has left for Vancouver en route to Washington. His wife and son accompany him. The following was adopted on the 20th instant by the legislature:

Resolved, That the senate and house of representatives of the republic of Hawaii hereby declare anew their fealty to the policy of the annexation of this country to the United States of America.

Resolved. That we put forth this sentiment in the firm belief and sincere hope that all who have the interests of the nation at heart and all who support or are friendly to the republic of Hawaii, will be impelled to even greater continued effort to bring about this relation.

Trolley Accident.

From fifteen to twenty people were more or less seriously injured in a street car accident near Crown Hill Cemetery, Indianapolis. The injured are:

Mrs. Martin, leg broken and badly bruised.

Susan Dennis, bruised about the lower limbs.

Martha Sweeney, both legs broken.

Margie Rice, face badly battered and bruised.

Edith Christ, back sprained and badly bruised.

T. B. Brown, leg broken.

Several others were more or less seriously injured. The wreck was the result of a misplaced switch, a heavy motor plunging into a trailer, loaded with people returning from the Old Settlers' reunion. All the injured will probably recover.

Horrible Death of a Child.

Ferdinand Dye resides about 12 miles south of Richmond, Ind., and he, with all of the family members, were out in the orchard, some distanee from the house, leaving one child, Stella, who was 11 years of age, alone. She took some matches and went into a closet to play with some candles. She had lighted one, when a draught of air closed the closet door, and she was imprisoned, as the latch was on the outside. The candle caught her clothing, and the little prison was soon a mass of flames, while, to make matters worse, a can of coal oil that was in the closet also caught and exploded. When the family arrived upon the scene and opened the door they found the child burned into a shapeless mass, her head and one arm being burned completely off.

A Building Falls.

The middle section of the big, unfinished eight-story building on the northwest corner of West Third street and South Fifth avenue, New York, fell down shortly before noon Friday. The whole interior of the building was wrecked. A number of workmen were buried in the wreck—how many is not known. Eighty odd men were at work in the building. The great majority escaped. One was taken out dead and four seriously injured. A dozen or more are yet supposed to be under the wreck. Some ran away in their fright and may be heard of later. The accident was caused by the floors in the center section of the building being overloaded.

A Holocaust.

Fire consumed the Transfer Hotel and several buildings adjoining on Main street, Pendleton, Ore. Four bodies have been recovered from the ruins and one man is still missing. There were twenty-nine guests in the house at the time of the fire. The fire originated on an upper floor in the hotel and was caused by a man dropping a lighted match near gasoline.

Both Were Lost.

A party of young men were bathing in the canal at Somerville, Ohio. James Johnson, colored, was attacked with cramps, and Oliver Whitney, a white man, went to his assistance. Johnson held his would-be rescuer's arms and both were drowned. Their bodies were recovered one hour after the accident from ten feet of water.

Mrs. P. T. Barnum Weds.

Mrs. P. T. Barnum, widow of the American showman, was married in New York to D. Callias Bey, a gentleman who is said to be a Greek, though bearing a Turkish title.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 44c to 46c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 11c to 13c; potatoes, new, per barrel, $1.00 to $1.30; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 4c to 6½c per lb.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 66c; to 68c; corn, No. 1 white, 41c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 46c to 47c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2, mixed, 42c to 44c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 24c to 26c; rye, No. 2, 49c to 51c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 44c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, 48c to 49c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 23c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 48c to 50c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 47c to 48c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 3, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c; barley, No. 2, 46c to 47c; rye, No. 1, 44c to 46c; pork, mess, $9.00 to $9.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $6.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 47c to 48c; oats, No. 2 white, 30c to 31c; butter, creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, Western, 13c to 15c.

KILLS THE HOPPERS.

MACHINE THAT SLAUGHTERS 8,000 BUSHELS A DAY.

Minnesota Scientists Tackle the Farmers' Terror in a New Way—Canvas and Kerosene Send the Pests to Death.

"Hopper-Dozers."

Minnesota scientists have tackled the grasshoppr pest in a new way. Canvas and kerosene is the combination, before which the tiny hoppers go down to their death. Out there it is known as a "hopper-dozer." The State pays the expenses of the slaughter, and the slaughter is terrific. Think, if you can, of 8,000 bushel baskets packed with hoppers. That was the average record in a day of killed and wounded insects at the height of the scourge.

Dr. Otto Lugger, Minnesota's expert on bugs, is the man who utilized the curious "hopper-dozer," says the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Why he calls it by that name it would be interesting to know. Perhaps it is because it sends the hoppers to their last sleep. He was invited to do something to rid the farms of their voracious brigades of hoppers early this summer. He found evidences of enough of them to kill all the crops in Minnesota. The rains helped to kill off some of them, but science had to do its share in the extermination. In the neighborhood of Taylor's Falls Dr. Lugger found a grasshopper-infested district covering fifty or sixty square miles. The insects were descendants, he thought, of a previous generation which had made trouble in 1890. They were of the so-called pellucid or California variety.

There happened to be a State appropriation for killing hoppers, and this was turned over to the executioner. "I had 200 hopper-dozers built after the most approved fashion," said Dr. Lugger to a correspondent, "and purchased sixty barrels of kerosene oil. All we asked of the farmers was that they run the machines. That they were anxious to do this is shown by the fact that there was a fight for the machines. Every farmer in the section wanted one and wanted it at once. We could not get them built fast enough to supply the demand. The same thing was done at Rush City, Duluth and other points, although there were not as many of them furnished at these places. I estimate that these machines killed about 8,000 bushels a day during the time that they were all running. I do not think that this is exaggerated in the least, as there were over 400 of the machines, and at the end of a day's work from three to ten bushels could be taken out of each machine with a shovel. Just about one hopper in ten that dies does so in the machine, so you can see that my estimate is not a large one by any means."

THE "HOPPER-DOZER," BY WHICH 8,000 BUSHELS HAVE BEEN KILLED IN ONE DAY.

"What is the nature of the machine?" he was asked.

"It is something of the nature of an overgrown dustpan, and is made of tin. It is about eight feet long by two feet wide, runs on three small runners, and is drawn over the ground by a horse. At the front of the machine is a trough filled with coal oil, and behind this, at right angles, a piece of canvas rises to a height of three or four feet. As this machine is drawn over the ground the hoppers jump into it, the canvas preventing them from jumping over. They fall into the oil and that is the end.

"Some of them strike the oil head first and die instantly. Others only touch it with their feet or bodies and are able to jump out again. It makes little difference in the end, however, as they cannot live over three minutes if they have even the smallest drop of the oil upon their bodies. The fact that only those which get into the oil head first die instantly is the reason that such a small percentage of them are found in the pan at the close of the day's work.

THE GRASSHOPPER.

"Of course the hopper-dozers are only a makeshift. I am conducting experiments now which I hope will show me a much better way of getting rid of the pests than the very clumsy one of gathering them up on a dustpan. A little while ago I read in some paper that in certain counties in Colorado the hoppers were dying in great numbers with some sort of a disease. I sent to the postmasters of a number of towns in that State asking them to send me some of the insects that were diseased. I received a large number, and there is no doubt in my mind that they are really afflicted with a disease that is contagious in its nature. We are trying to find out if the insects which we have in this State are liable to this disease. If so we will then know how to deal with them in a scientific manner."

BARRED BY A RAILROAD.

Illinois Central Refuses to Allow Chicagoans to Cross Its Tracks.

Actual conflict between citizens and armed officers of the Illinois Central Company on the Chicago lake front because passage to and from the lake front was denied to the people has brought the question of rights to a decisive issue. Mayor Swift declares the crisis has been reached. He proposes to protect the people against a repetition of the outrage of exclusion. John Dunn, assistant to the president of the company, announces he will not budge from the determined stand taken by his force of men with revolvers He says citizens were denied right to cross the tracks out of regard for their lives and intimates the corporation will fight any opening of streets. In short, the company's position is construed by city officials to be a determination to stick for alleged vested rights. This earnestness on the part of both contestants makes any more conferences and consequent agreements impossible.

Chicago's lake front on Wednesday was in the possession of fifty armed men, hired by the Illinois Central Railroad Company to blockade passage to the harbor from Randolph to 12th streets. They had clubs in their hands and revolvers in their pockets. They were instructed to use both if necessary on any person who insisted on his right to an approach to piers in navigable waters, and, in carrying out the instructions, they compelled a score of women to imperil their lives Wednesday night.

This climax of the contest between the corporation and the municipality was caused by the action of the company in retaliation for the order to tear down the Van Buren street viaduct. Special Officer O'Keefe was called into the general manager's room and ordered to secure a large force of assistants. He was informed that at sundown the people were to be taught they had no right to a passage to the lake front. He was told to furnish his assistants with weapons and to arrest peacefully in all cases where a beating was not necessary, any man, woman or child who tried to enter Chicago from the steamboats. This order, said to be without precedent in the history of maritime matters, was put into working force at the time when the people were returning from Lincoln Park and Windsor Park Beach by boat.

TAYLOR HAS THE MONEY.

South Dakota's Defaulting Treasurer Has Raised the Cash He Promised.

W. W. Taylor, the defaulting treasurer of South Dakota, has been in Chicago the past three weeks. The purpose of his visit was to collect $100,000, which, besides all his other property, he will turn over to South Dakota. He said he had been entirely successful in his mission and the money now in hand was ready to be paid into the treasury. It has been a question of considerable doubt in the minds of the citizens of South Dakota whether Taylor would be able to raise this $100,000. Now that he has raised it a much easier feeling will prevail. "I am going to Pierre to plead guilty and be sentenced," said Taylor, "and I am anxious to be serving my time."

W. W. TAYLOR.

CROP CONDITIONS.

General Outlook for Corn Is Flattering—Much Rain in Places.

The reports as to the conditions of the crops throughout the country and the general influence of the weather on growth, cultivation and harvest, made by the directors of the different State weather services, say that the general outlook for an exceptionally fine corn crop continues flattering. Except in the Dakotas and Minnesota where it is somewhat late and in Indiana where it is maturing slowly, the crop is generally in advance of the season and early corn is now practically made over the southern portion of the corn belt. Kansas and Missouri report much of the crop made, and in Missouri the largest crop ever raised in that State is promised. Six hundred Iowa reports, all counties being represented, show the condition of corn as much above the average in sixty-one counties, above average in eight counties, while thirty counties promise a crop below the average. In Nebraska corn is in excellent condition in the southwestern part of the State and in the counties along the Missouri River; but has been much injured in the southeastern section, except in the river counties. In Indiana, while corn is maturing slowly, it is in good condition. In Ohio the outlook is less favorable, being poor in the uplands and on clay soils. Kentucky reports corn prospects unprecedented. No unfavorable reports respecting corn are received from the Southern States except from portions of Texas and the Carolinas, where in some counties drought is proving injurious. In Texas cotton is needing rain on upland; and the southwest portion of the State, North Carolina, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana report improvement in the condition of cotton over the previous week, while the outlook in South Carolina is less favorable. In Missouri there has been too much rain for cotton and the crop is grassy and the outlook unfavorable in Arkansas. Spring wheat harvest has begun in North Dakota and continues elsewhere in the spring wheat region. Tobacco is in good condition in Virginia and growing rapidly in Kentucky and continues in excellent condition in Maryland, but in Ohio it is not doing well. Light local frosts occurred in Northern Indiana and in Northern Maryland and in the mountains of West Virginia. No damage reported except slight injury to corn in Maryland. Drought continues in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Southern Texas and in portions of Maryland and the Carolinas, where crops are being injuriously affected.

Philip Hauffman and Michael Snyder were arrested at Coney Island, New York, charged with running an illicit still at Neptune avenue. The men rented the house one year ago, since which time they have lived in it and carried on their work. The whisky was stored in a cellar under the rear extension of the house.

Sir T. F. Wade died at Cambridge. He was born about 1820 and entered the army in 1838, serving afterward in China and elsewhere. He was advanced to the rank of K. C. B. in 1875 for his exertions in negotiating important treaties with the Chinese Government and obtaining treating facilities in that empire.

Louis Stern, of New York, was sentenced at Kissengen, Germany, to two weeks' imprisonment for insulting a public official and to pay a fine of 600 marks for resistance to the authority of the state.

TWO SHIPS GO DOWN.

AT LEAST TWENTY-SIX LIVES ARE LOST.

British Vessel Prince Oscar Strikes an Unknown Boat—In Ten Minutes Both Go to the Bottom—One Entire Crew and Six of Another Lost.

Horror in Mid-Ocean.

The British steamer Capac, from Valparaiso, brought to Philadelphia Thursday night seventeen shipwrecked mariners and the news of a terrible disaster that occurred on July 13 a short distance south of the equator. The mariners are the survivors of the crew of the British ship Prince Oscar, which was sunk after collision with an unknown vessel, which also went down, but with all hands on board. Six of the Prince Oscar's crew were drowned soon after they left the sinking ship by the capsizing of the small boat into which they scrambled. From the size of the unknown vessel it is thought she carried a crew of least twenty men. The seventeen survivors were huddled into one small boat, with neither food nor water, but were fortunately picked up by the British ship Dharwar, from Melbourne, Australia, for London. From that ship they were transferred to the steamer Capac and, without money or clothing, they were landed. Captain Clipperton, the English consul, will care for them until they can be sent to their homes.

Midnight Disaster.

The disaster occurred shortly after midnight in latitude 9:30 south, longitude 28:20 west. The Prince Oscar, which was bound from Shields, which port she left May 27 for Iquique, laden with coal, was going at a clipping gait on the port tack before a brisk wind and with all canvas set. It is estimated by the crew that she was making about six and a half knots an hour when suddenly there loomed up directly under her bows a four-masted vessel. The mate asserts that the stranger had no lights burning, and after she was sighted it was impossible to alter the course of the Prince Oscar.

The iron hull of the latter struck the unknown full amidships, knocking her almost on her beam end and crashing through the woodwork until her prow was more than half buried. The stranger went over almost on her beam ends as the Prince Oscar backed away from the rebound. As the crew of the Prince Oscar stood peering through the darkness they saw the stranger partly right herself and then she rapidly began to sink. They listened in vain for some signs of life, but not a cry for help nor a word of command came from the stricken vessel.

The pumps were manned, but there was no hope from that source. Life boats were ordered cut adrift, and the men were told to jump and swim for their lives. They all went overboard and with the exception of two unfortunates reached the small boats. Captain Henderson, who was the last man to leave the ship, went over in his night garments and swam fully two miles before he was picked up.

Three Days of Hardship.

Both boats hovered about the scene of the wreck until daylight came, when they headed they knew not where. Twenty-four hours later a heavy sea struck the boat commanded by the mate and capsized it. The occupants, eight in number, were thrown into the sea, and the already overcrowded craft which Captain Henderson commanded put quickly to the rescue. They were successful in getting four of them aboard. The rest were drowned.

There were now seventeen men in the small lifeboat, with nothing to eat, nothing to drink and barely room to stretch their weary limbs. The sun was broiling hot, and their hunger and thirst were almost unbearable. Toward evening of the second day one of the crew discovered a small cask of fish oil stowed away in the boat. This was dealt out to the survivors in small doses, and they used it to moisten their parched lips and tongues.

For three days and nights they floated thus on the bosom of the South Atlantic, and just as they were about to abandon hope they sighted the ship Dharwar from London, bound for Melbourne. They succeeded in attracting the attention of those on board and were soon on her decks.

SUPREME JUDGE DIES.

Justice Howell E. Jackson of Tennessee Passes Away.

Howell Edmunds Jackson, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, died at his residence at West Meade, six miles west of Nashville, Tenn., at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the 64th year of his age, of consumption.

Judge Jackson was appointed by President Harrison in 1890. He had been in failing health for the last four years, but it has been only in the last eight or nine months that the progress of the disease began to cause his family and friends uneasiness. Quite lately he seemed to improve slightly. He went to Washington to sit in the second hearing of the income tax cases. He stood that trying trip only fairly well, and after his return home appeared to lose strength rapidly.

JUSTICE HOWELL E. JACKSON.

Judge Jackson was twice married, the first time to Miss Sophia Malloy, daughter of David B. Malloy, a banker of Memphis, who died in 1873. To this union were born four children, as follows: Henry, Mary, William H., and Howell Jackson. Henry Jackson is at present Soliciting Freight Agent of the Southern Railway, with headquarters at Atlanta, Ga.; W. H. Jackson is District Attorney of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad at Cincinnati; Howell E. Jackson is manager of the Jackson cotton mills at Jackson, Tenn. In 1876 Judge Jackson married Miss Mary E. Harding, daughter of Gen. William G. Harding.

Sparks from the Wires.

Twenty residences were burned at Berlin, Md. Loss, $200,000.

Miss Stella Dye was burned to death in her father's house at Arlington, Ind.

N. C. Narramore, a well-known Los Angeles statesman, was killed by robbers on his California ranch.

Charlotte Neilson, well known to the American stage, was quietly married at the chapel of the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York to Joseph H. Neill, a wealthy planter of Guatemala, Central America.

HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM OVER THE STATE.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties, and General Indiana News Notes.

Minor State News.

A COMPANY of men are digging silver near Richmond.

A WIND-STORM unroofed houses and damaged crops at Brazil.

VINCENNES has sold $5,000 of city school bonds at a premium of $77.

MILO THOMAS' hardware store at Corunna is in ashes. Loss, $15,000.

THIRTY valuable hunting dogs have been poisoned at English, recently.

BROWN, the only county in the state without a railroad, has 2,300 voters.

MRS. ARCHIBALD THACHER of Martinsville, said to be 104 years of age, is dead.

A COMPANY has been organized at Lafontaine to develop the oil territory in that vicinity.

ONLY one order for the relief of poor has been issued in Cass township, Clay county, during the last five years.

THE Shepard Canning Works, of Anderson, which burned, is preparing to rebuild the plant at an expense of $7,000.

THE little son of Perry McDonald was caught in the machinery at Schimmer's cooper shop, at Columbus, and may die.

A "GAS BELT" brigade of G. A. R. men is being formed at Anderson to attend the national encampment at Lousville in a body.

REV. G. P. FUSON has resigned his pastorate of the Baptist Church at Crawfordsville, where he has been for eight years.

THE closing of saloons at Hobart, on Sunday, has resulted in the shutting up of all candy and cigar stores, barber shops, stables, etc.

JUDGE FRANCIS T. HORD is making a collection of pictures of the Judges of Bartholomew County who have served on the bench, going back to 1823.

VALPARAISO is getting rather sporty judging from the number of sporting societies it now supports. The latest feature is the "Pointing Gun Club."

HENRY SLAGLE, a boy about 16 years old, was run down by a Toledo, St. Louis & Kansas City through freight train near Decatur and almost instantly killed.

SAMUEL CLINTON, North Clinton, is dead from burns received while fighting a fire in his wheat field. He worked so hard that he became exhausted and fell into the fire.

HARVEY LAWSON, son of a wealthy farmer living near Lapel, while stealing a ride on a freight train over the Big Four, at Anderson, fell between the cars and was fatally injured.

CONVICT John Smith in the prison south, set fire to the bed in his cell, hoping to cause a stampede among the prisoners and thus gain his liberty. He was nearly suffocated by the smoke.

WM. HUBER, and employe of the Reeves foundry, at Columbus, walked out of a second-story window at Mrs. Bell's boarding-house, and was very seriously injured about the feet and back.

FOR a week Ben Ross, who resides near Coburg, Porter County, had been suffering excruciating pain in the ear. A physician was called and a large, healthy bed-bug was taken out of the drum.

LOUIS BROOKS, one of the best-known young men in Goshen, was run over by a Baltimore & Ohio express at Lake Wawasee and instantly killed, his head being severed from the body.

THE new gas well drilled near Swaysee by the Wabash Fuel Company, is one of the strongest in the State, its daily flow as measured being 4,000,000 feet. So powerful is the gas pressure that five hundred feet of casing was forced out of the hole and it was with the greatest difficulty the well could be anchored.

ARRANGEMENTS are being made to have a battalion of two hundred veterans go from Crawfordsville to Louisville on Sept. 10 to the G. A. R. National Encampment. They will go via Indianapolis and will be in command of Gen. Lew Wallace. Their banner will be inscribed: "Lew Wallace Veteran Battalion, Indiana."

Jesse Smith, a well-known farmer of Monroe County, met with a terrible death. He and James Douglass were running a traction engine, when it got out of order, and Smith crawled under the machine to repair it. The ponderous machine started backward and the rear wheels cut his body in two. He died in a few hours in terrible agony.

SHERMAN NOBLE, an employe of the American tin-plate works, at Elwood, while at work met with a bad accident. A sheet of wet tin dropped into the both of acid flux and melted tin, causing the mixture to explode and fly all over his head and chest, burning him in a terrible manner. He will recover, but will be scarred for life.

PATENTS have been issued to the following residents of Indiana: Charles H. Anspach, Cedar Grove, thill coupling and support; William K. Bellis, assignor to Bellis Cycle Company, Indianapolis, bicycle frame; James Bennett, Greencastle, running gear for wagons; Cecilia A. Brewer, LaPorte, washing machine; Peter Deville, Huntington, frame for barns or other building; Lewis Fetch, Van Buren, potato digger; Charles Helm, Indianapolis, electric alarm lock for tills; Leon D. Housee, Hartford City, hose coupler; John J. Kirkham, Terre Haute, process of and apparatus for manufacture of gas; Herman Lauter, Indianapolis, desk for typewriter machine; William M. Leads, Walnut, land marker; Edward Miller, jr., Evansville, rail chair and nut lock; William Nutt, Crawfordsville, circuit closer; Jacob V. Rowlett, Richmond, hand wheel plow; Gottlieb Schnasse, jr., and T. Pfaffrath, Elwood, pneumatic press; Jesse Warrington, assignor of one-half to Nondyke & Marmon Company, Indianapolis, hominy mill; Henry Westphal, Indianapolis, plow.

OLIVER NEWCOMB, son of John Newcomb, of Howard County, died recently from a peculiar cause. Nine years ago the boy was buried by a cave-in at a gravel pit, but apparently recovered from his injuries. A short time ago he complained of his head hurting him and death followed.

THE regimental reunion of the Ninety-ninth Indiana will be held at Logansport, beginning on the 27th inst. Business sessions will be held both on the 27th and 28th, and there will be a campfire on Tuesday evening. Orlando Powell, D. M. Vannice, J. A. Miller, G. W. Julian and J. C. McGregor of Logonsport, will welcome visiting delegations.

THE three weeks revival of all religious denominations of Anderson has closed. Forty-seven conversions were made during the meeting, and 1,256 pledges signed by men to abstain from the use of tobacco and liquors. The average nightly attendance was from three to five thousand.

AN effort is being made to exchange the guns now in use by the Indiana Guard for arms of a later pattern. Those now in use are of the pattern of 1873. In recent years the government has exchanged the arms of the regular army and equipped it with the latest model. The old arms, which are much newer than those used by the National Guard, are now stored in the arsenals and it is these that are wanted for the Guard.

DONT OVER-EXERCISE.

The Danger Which Confronts the Novice of the Wheel.

When Corbett, always rugged far beyond his fellows, goes into training, no exacting exercise is undertaken at the outset, so greatly do his mentors fear the evil consequences of over-exertion. The young men of the Yale and Harvard crew, exercise gently all winter in the gymnasium before undertaking any severe work upon the water, and even then the solicitous "coach" permits no man to reach the limit of his endurance. Zimmerman, king of the bicycle, as Hanlon was emperor of oarsmen for so many years, trains in precisely the same manner. When out of form in consequence of a long period of inactivity, he resumes work with the utmost care, avoiding all fatigue and over-exertion. Every few days his task is slightly increased and in the course of time he is ready for the starter with every muscle trained to its utmost capacity, and a reserve of strength up his sleeve, to use the expressive words coined by the great cycler himself.

What a contrast there is between all this and the reckless expenditure of energy by the young woman and the young man who have just become enamored of the bicycle. With no previous training of any kind, and no attention to diet beyond that involved in consuming as much ice water, cake and ice cream as possible, reeling off miles by tens and twenties, and then go home overstrained and almost in a state of collapse to recuperate slowly and repeat the folly when they have sufficiently recovered to drive nature to another dangerous test.

Just Found the Door Open.

In front of the Tombs the other day was a little crowd in which the central figure was a woman about 60 years old whose son had just been sentenced to two years in prison for robbery.

"Did any one ever hear of such monstrous injustice!" she exclaimed. "The judge was agin him from the start, as was plain to all. Robbery! Why, how could they call it robbery? Billy found the door of a tobacco store open and went in to see what was wrong."

"And while he was looking around he smoked a cigar," said one of the crowd.

"He owned up that he did, but if the man had been there wouldn't he have paid for it?"

"But he took away two boxes," said another.

"Of course he did, but wasn't he intending to go back and ask the price of them?"

"But they said he took all the money out of the till!" put in the third man.

"He may have done that," said the mother, "but wasn't it to keep the money safe for him as owns the place? My Billy a robber! Never! It's not in the blood. Think of two years in prison for that innocent boy!"

"That's a pretty severe sentence," said a man in an effort to show his sympathies.

"Severe! I should say it was!" shouted the woman. "Why, when his father robbed a grocery store of $200 worth of stuff they didn't give him but a year and a half in the jug!"—Free Press.

The Lincoln Monument.

Erected at Edinburgh to commemorate deeds of Scottish soldiers in the American rebellion.

A Historic Calaboose.

The famous old prison known as the Ludlow street jail entertains a different class of prisoners than that found at the Tombs, says the New York Advertiser. There is not very much real vice in Ludlow, and rarely poverty and filth. Before imprisonment there for debt was abolished men went willingly to jail to escape liabilities, and lived in luxurious seclusion until things squared themselves—unless they ran out of means to square the jailer, when luxuries departed and jail life became a reality. Boss Tweed and Jacob Sharp are two of the most distinguished names which have adorned the guest roll at the Ludlow street institution. Tweed was finely treated, but turned ingrate and escaped from jail after only a brief period of incarceration. Being subsequently captured in Spain, he returned reluctantly and ended his days in Ludlow street.

Why She Couldn't Use Them.

This is what was heard in a theater the other night. They were in a private box, and she was both pretty and well dressed. But she was in a bad temper because she could not see the stage. "Why," said he, trying to mollify her, "did you not bring your opera glass?"

"I did, but I can't use it."

"Is it broken?"

"No, but I forgot to put on my bracelets."—Tit-Bits.

Statistics of Farms.

Ohio has the greatest number of farms, 251,430, having 23,352,408 acres; Illinois is second with 240,081 farms and 30,498,277 acres; Missouri being third, with 238,043 farms and 30,780,290 acres.

Simply Follow Custom.

Farmers in Mexico use oxen of one color in the morning and of another color in the afternoon. They have no reason for doing so beyond the fact that their forefathers did it, and they conclude it must be the right thing to do.

The presents a man makes his wife are usually as apologies for something he has done he is ashamed of.

Wealth is the nimbus of the mean and the radiance of the good.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

When Lady Hilda opened her eyes and saw her husband bending over her, a cry of fear and terror escaped her lips. The face that she had never seen stern or angry before, was both now; there was no smile on his lips, such as he was wont to greet her with. Anxiety and sorrow, mingled with impatience, darkened his brow. Her illness alarmed him; he could not understand it.

"Did I frighten you, Hilda?" he whispered, gently. "How your hands tremble! Surely, you are not afraid of me. I have never been angry with you, love; only—I don't understand."

She tried to answer him, but her overwrought nerves gave way, and she wept passionately, bitterly, as one who had no hope. He soothed her with gentle words, such as one uses to a grieved child. Lady Bayneham quitted the room; tears and caresses were not in her line.

"You shall not be teased any more, just now," cried Lord Bayneham. "You have not strength to tell me anything. Lie down again, and try to sleep; it grieves me sorely to see that face."

Her passionate weeping was abated; she lay passive and still, listening to his voice with a sick feeling of despair.

Lord Bayneham gave Pauline strict injunctions that her lady was not to be disturbed; he then left her, hoping she would sleep.

His mother anxiously awaited him, and asked, hastily, "What is it, Claude? Why was Hilda so frightened?"

"She is very ill," he replied, sadly, "and nervous, not frightened, mother. What can she have to fear? I was too abrupt."

"Did she tell you how the bracelet came to be lying in the Lady's Walk?" asked the countess.

"No," replied her son; "she seemed so ill and unlike herself that I did not mention it. I am sure it is all right, mother," he continued, seeing the expression of her face; "we shall find it no mystery after all. My wife can make all clear in a few words."

Despite his assertion, the morning wore on heavily for Lord Bayneham.

He tried to make himself feel sure that Hilda would clear away all the unpleasant mystery by a few simple words. Twice he went to the door of her room, and heard with half impatient satisfaction that she still slept; and it was long after midday when Pauline told him her lady was awake, but seemed very ill. He looked with unutterable astonishment upon the change in the fair young face, wrought in these few hours. Could it be mere illness or fatigue that had blanched even the lips, and darkened the violet eyes with so deep a shadow? Was it illness that caused her to clasp her hands when she saw him, as one does who prays in mortal agony?

"Hilda," he said, "you look as though you suffered terribly. What is it? No trouble can have come to you without my knowing it. What makes you ill? Why do you look so strangely at me? What has come between us?"

He waited, but she spoke not a word.

"You would never keep a secret from me, I know," he continued, "or I should fancy that something terrible weighed upon your mind. Do not look so sad. Raise your eyes to mine, love, and if aught troubles you tell me—let me share it."

He clasped one arm round her and drew her golden head close to him.

"Has any one insulted or annoyed you?" he asked gently.

"No," she replied—"what could make you think of such a thing?"

"Are you sure, Hilda," he asked, "that you have not been subject to annoyance from any of our guests?"

"No," she said again, but he saw her face flush with pain. "Why do you ask me so strange a question, Claude?"

"My mother thought that on two occasions Mr. Fulton had annoyed you by slipping nonsensical little notes into your hand," he repeated. "Is it true, Hilda?"

He saw her pause before replying to his question.

"It is true he gave me two little notes," she said, in a faltering voice, "but they did not cause me any annoyance, Claude."

"May I see them?" he asked.

"They are destroyed," she answered, in the same low, constrained voice.

"Will you tell me their contents?" he asked again.

"I cannot!" she gasped.

He knew not what to say: never once had the eyes wherein truth and love shone so brightly been raised to his. The long dark lashes drooped on the white cheek, and she spoke as one under compulsion.

Lord Bayneham sat for some minutes in silence, gazing wistfully at the beautiful trembling girl by his side. He was sadly grieved. His young wife had ever seemed to him pure, gentle and truthful as a child. Now, with a woman's sorrow on her brow, with her averted eyes and trembling words, she was like a stranger to him; and it was with a deep sigh at the unpleasant task before him that he recommenced his inquiries.

"We will dismiss that subject, then, Hilda—the first secret ever kept between us," said he. "Now explain for me this mystery—how came your bracelet, the one you should have valued for my sake, to be lying in the Lady's Walk?"

Then the calm of that sorrowful young face was broken; a quiver of pain passed over each feature; a look of despair shadowed the violet eyes; but Lady Hilda allowed the anxious, eager man to repeat his question before she seemed to understand it.

"Spare me, Claude," she said, holding out her hands to him.

"Spare you, Hilda!" he cried. "What can you mean?—spare you! What have I ever done that you should speak so to me? Would I not spare you every sorrow if I could? I only ask to shield you from all care, to make you happy, and make you love me as I love you. What am I to spare you?"

"Any questions," she replied, weeping bitterly. "I cannot answer them, and they torture me."

"You cannot think they are pleasant for me," he said. "Hilda, my mother was with me when I found that bracelet. I read a doubt of you in her eyes; it made me indignant. I cannot explain it. Plainly as eyes could speak, hers said to me there was something wrong. I brought her with me to see how mistaken she was, and you fainted with fear at the question which should have cleared away all silly mystery. That was how you cleared her doubt; can you satisfy my love in no better manner? Am I not quite right in saying that you wore that bracelet on your arm when I bade you good night last evening? It was there, was it not?"

"Yes," she replied, despairingly, "it was there."

"And the first thing this morning I found it in the Lady's Walk," he continued; "yet you have never left your room. Can you not explain how it came to be there?"

"I might tell you a falsehood," she cried—"I might invent false stories that would satisfy you—but I will not do so; let Fate do her worst. No untrue words shall stain my lips.. I cannot tell you the truth, and I scorn all evasion."

Lord Bayneham's face grew dark as he listened.

"More mysteries!" he said, bitterly. "You acknowledge, then, you could explain it if you would, but you will not."

Lady Hilda bowed her head, and he turned from the sight of that white, despairing face.

"Are you trying to shield one who has robbed you?" he asked, his eyes growing bright at the thought.

"No," she replied, "no one has tried to rob me."

"Did you drop the bracelet yourself?" he inquired.

"Do not ask me, Claude!" she cried, with clasped hands, her face streaming with tears.

"I will ask," he repeated, angrily—"and I will know. What nonsense!—what folly! One might fancy I was a husband in a French play trying to fathom an intrigue. Did you drop the bracelet yourself, Hilda?—you force me to speak angrily—answer me."

"I have told you I cannot answer you," she replied, with a tone of keen, sharp pain in her voice, that changed its music. "I scorn to speak untruly. I cannot answer you. Fate must do its worst."

There was despair in her face and voice—despair so deep, so hopeless, that Lord Bayneham knew not what to say or think.

"Darling," he said, gently, "be candid with me. Even supposing you have done some little action not quite prudent, I could not be angry. I know how sweet, and gentle, and pure my little wife is. Do not make me so unhappy, love. Tell me what it is."

His gentle tone and kind face touched her more than anger could have done, and she laid her head on his breast, like a wearied child who has cried itself to sleep.

"Claude," she said, gently, "I cannot tell you; I wish I could die here on your arm, while your face looks kind and you smile on me. It would be easier for me to die than answer your questions."

"I say it in sorrow, not in anger, Hilda," he replied, kissing her pale brow, "that the secret you own exists, but which you refuse to tell me, I shall find out for myself."

He unclasped her arms as he spoke, and rising from her side, he slowly quitted the room.

CHAPTER XXIX.

When her husband left her, Lady Hilda sat, incapable of connected thought, conscious only of deep, unutterable anguish, that dulled her brain and seemed to paralyze her mind. She never remembered in after years how the hours passed after her husband left her. It was like a dream of pain, full of sad and miserable pictures. The long night brought her no rest and no calm. She tried to pray, but her restless heart and restless lips could not be controlled. She tried to think, but thought was impossible. All around her, in letters of fire, she read that she was an impostor, a convict's daughter, who had no business there.

No great or grievous sin marred or stained the course of that fair, tranquil life. She had done her duty as far as she knew it, both to God and man. She had never wronged another, and the poor and sorrowing rose up to bless her. Why was she punished so heavily?—all her sorrows came from the sins and follies of others. The weight fell upon her, crushing the brightness from her life, bending the golden head low in humble shame.

"Why was it?" Reason gave no answer. She remembered her mother's words, that all would be clear in another world—she would know and understand why she had suffered in this. Then over the fair, sad face there stole a look of sweet, humble resignation. The wild tempest of sorrow became calm, and the beating, rebellious heart grew still.

"I must bear it," said Lady Hilda to herself; and many others, by the bare utterance of these words, have learned to endure heavy sorrows in silence.

* * * * * * * *

Lord Bayneham was ill at ease. He loved his beautiful young wife with a devotion that knew no limits. He could not, in his wildest dreams, imagine her capable of even an imprudence; and he wondered, until wonder became pain, what she was keeping from him. He did not see how it was possible for Lady Hilda to have any secrets; the simple story of her life was an open book in which he had read every charming, innocent page. As for any love nonsense, he would sooner have suspected a bright-winged angel of mercy than his pure, loving, gentle wife. He would have dismissed the whole affair as nonsense but for her own words—her own admission that she had a secret which she could not share with him.

He stood in the library; a mass of papers lay in a confused heap upon the table, all awaiting his attention, but he had none to spare for them. It was seldom the young Lord of Bayneham bore so disturbed an expression on his comely face. He was at a standstill, and knew not what to do. If for a moment he felt angry with his young wife, the remembrance of her words—her pale, wistful face lying on his breast—came over him, and all anger melted away.

As he was pondering over what to do, and perplexed by many thoughts, Barbara Earle entered the room—Barbara, whose noble, soul-lit face looked serene and calm. For a moment Lord Bayneham's whole heart seemed to go out to meet her. There was no mystery, no concealment here, nothing but clear, glorious truth in the dark eyes raised to his face.

"What is the matter, Claude?" she asked, gayly; "you look as uninteresting as possible—almost cross, in fact. Surely you are not thinking of this nonsense about Hilda's bracelet? Lady Bayneham has just been telling me where you found it."

"And how do you imagine it came there?" asked the earl of his cousin.

"I should never try to discover," replied Barbara. "Perhaps Hilda's maid took it to be cleaned or repaired, or something else, and dropped it; or, perhaps Hilda walked in her sleep. I tell you what, Claude; I should imagine every combination of strange and singular circumstances before I dared to think even the slightest wrong of one so pure and gentle as your wife."

"But it seems strange," said Lord Bayneham. "The thing that puzzles me most is, that she seems so frightened—she trembles at the very mention of the word."

"Is she frightened?" asked Barbara, earnestly. "Then my idea is a correct one. Rely upon it, Claude, there is some little mystery, and Hilda is shielding some one else from blame."

"She ought at least confide in me," said Lord Bayneham.

"Perhaps she fears your anger for the real culprit," said Miss Earle.

"I do not think so," replied her cousin; "she talks so tragically to me, poor child, that I am afraid there is something not quite straightforward. She tells me she cannot explain."

"Then," replied Barbara, with generous spirit, "if she says so, Claude, never seek to know the rest. When a pure, guileless woman, like Hilda, wishes to keep a secret, be noble, and allow her to do so. Rely upon it, her motive justifies her."

"You love my wife, Barbara," said Lord Bayneham.

"That I do," replied Barbara, "truly and warmly. I have implicit faith in her. Why, Claude, remember that sweet face. What could it hide?—no sin, no error, no wrong, I am sure. Depend upon it, this little affair of the bracelet, so perversely magnified, is nothing after all. Most probably Pauline has been careless, and Hilda shields her from blame."

Lord Bayneham kissed his cousin's hand, loving her better in that moment than he had ever done before. She smiled as she quitted the library, leaving the sunshine of her brave, generous words behind her.

No one loved or believed in Lady Hilda more strongly than her husband. He wanted to make his mother share that faith. For himself, Barbara's words almost satisfied him. If he could but convince Lady Bayneham! He resolved to see the maid herself, and question her. He did so, and she looked very pretty and smiling as she stood before him.

"I am thinking of ordering a jewel case for Lady Bayneham," he said. "I wish to surprise her with it. Give me the size of the one she uses."

With smiling, coquettish grace the maid complied; and there was nothing like even a shadow of fear on her face.

"I am afraid the case in use is not a secure one," continued Lord Bayneham; "and I have some reasons for believing her ladyship's jewels are not well kept."

Pauline ventured respectfully to deny the assertion, asking, as was natural, what the reason was.

"I found a bracelet in the park this morning," said Lord Bayneham, "which had evidently been dropped yesterday."

"If a bracelet was dropped there," said Pauline, who did not seem dismayed, "my lady must have dropped it. I believe she walked out for a few minutes last night; she has done so once or twice before."

Lord Bayneham made no comment, and Pauline, proud of the young earl's attention to her words, chatted on gayly.

"I believe my lady walked in the garden a few minutes," she continued; "she sent me away early, and I saw her afterwards going down the north staircase. Perhaps she dropped it there."

"Perhaps so," said Lord Bayneham, with well-acted indifference; "but do not mention it, as I intend the jewel case for a surprise."

Pauline promised obedience and tripped away, thinking what a handsome, devoted husband Lord Bayneham was, and how happy her lady must be.

(To be continued.)

Trying to Bag Wellington.

The story goes that Wellington used to ride over daily, with one or two of his staff, from his headquarters at St. Jean-de-Luz and take his stand on the top of a wooded sand hillock called Blanc Pignon, on the left bank of the Adour, which commands a view of both banks and the town itself two miles up stream. This had been noticed by the French, who had still command of the river and the opposite shore; and the zealous sailor aforesaid, Bourgeois by name, conceived the plan of entrapping the great English captain by lying in ambush for him with a few men, among the undergrowth on the sand dune, which happened to be on neutral ground just outside the line of French pickets.

Gen. Thouvenot very honorably declined to sanction this tricky proceeding, but seeing through his glasses from the clock tower of the cathedral in Bayonne that it was actually being carried out notwithstanding his disapproval, he sent a mounted orderly as fast as he could gallop down the road on the left bank of the river, the present site of Allees Marines, past the French pickets, to warn Wellington of his danger. The messenger was just in time. When within a short distance of the ambush awaiting him on the narrow little track winding up the sand dune, he turned his horse and moved quietly off in another direction.

So says the story, which, entirely believed by the French, is placed on record by Morel, declared in a foot note to be correct, and then (1846) within the memory of living witnesses. We can entirely agree with the author in his succeeding remark: "Thus, by one of those strange chances beyond all human explanation, there fell through a design which might have materially changed the course of events."—Macmillan's Magazine.

A Snake-Haunted Tract—India.

In spots of jeopardy and awkward angles, attack from behind is the main thing to guard against. Walking on thus I communed with myself of snakes and beasts, duly considering what terrible bugbears they are to stay-at-homes. An old poet has told us not to whistle till we are well clear of the wood; "but whistle ye merrily to yourselves" (I soliloquized) "all ye who range the byways of a snake-haunted tract. Sing somewhat loudly, by the way; let there be melody not in your hearts only, but on your lips. Thus shall ye prove yourselves very lords of creation. From the notes of your hymn shall each lewd beast and unclean reptile flee away, affrighted and amazed!"

Would that I had practiced what I mused on in silence; for, even as I mused, the swish of a rattan rang sharp behind, and looking to the earth I saw my boy fell a deadly serpent to the earth. I had stepped clean over him! It was a great escape! My pajamas were tucked up to the knee, and if the brute had had time to coil and strike my bare legs lay at the mercy of his merciless fangs. He had been lying at full length in a rut between some logs transversely placed in a boggy bit of way, and I, walking past noiselessly in rubber-soled shoes, had caught him napping.—Good Words.

Comparative Cost of Wars.

All the wars of Napoleon Bonaparte cost his country $1,275,000,000, while the wars of Louis Napoleon cost France $2,210,000,000. The former made the enemy pay most of the expense; the expense of the wars waged by the latter was borne by France.

HOUND THE TEACHER.

SLEEK AND OILY BOOK AGENTS CONSPICUOUS AT DENVER.

Economy Ignored in the Management of the Public Schools—Colgate's New President—Plea for Teaching the Spanish Language—Boston Cult.

Lavish with Confections and Music.

One of the largest armies of suave camp followers that ever trailed a convention surrounded the annual meeting of the National Educational Association, recently held in Denver. The members of the army were sleek in apparel, well fed and lavish in their attentions to teachers. According to the Denver News they were conspicuous in the hotels and rotundas and in private quarters and by force of smiles and not at all times welcome services sought to place the members of the association under obligations to them and win their influence for their particular wares. Always ready to give information or to give directions and advice about excursions, both in the city and beyond its limits, this body of truckling agents was always on hand. Even when the despairing visitors sought the mountains for relief from a year's work and freedom from even the thought of matters pertaining to the school room, these pursuers followed with untiring energy and made their presence unpleasantly manifest. They engaged the best rooms in the hotels, paying therefor large sums of money and lived upon the best that Denver had to offer. They were not guests of the city, but in proportion to their number they were in far greater evidence, as much through the amount of money spent by them as by their omnipresence. Not only did they engage the best quarters, but money was spent for music and refreshment in a manner quite lavish when the quiet methods of teachers are considered. This body of camp followers was made up for the most part of the agents of publishing houses. For years these publishers have been forcing a market for their wares and no sooner do teachers and pupils become accustomed to one set of books than another set is compiled. This has continued until legions of text books have been printed and parents have become desperate. Some new departure, which presents the same old facts in a different garb, and which frequently employs new terms and increases the detail of study till distraction almost seizes the pupil, is what these people are looking for year after year. According to their ideas there should be fashions in school books just as there are in clothing and the changes should be as frequent and marked. As a result, new books and systems are substituted for the old and the parent pays the cost that the publisher and his agent may prosper.

To push this work; to call attention to new systems, is the work of these agents at N. E. A. conventions. To do effective work they must live well and spend money upon others, and parents and taxpayers generally pay for it all. The publishers pay large salaries, the agents travel expensively and live and entertain in a sumptuous manner, and all to the end that publishers may extort money from the people by foisting unnecessary publications upon them. While in Denver one book company spent from $20 to $40 a day for fruit and confectionery alone, served at their headquarters, and on one evening purchased the services of the Mendelssohn quartet.

Economy and Public Schools.

"There was one important subject that received no attention at the Denven convention," says the Chicago Journal, "though it is one in which taxpayers are deeply interested. This matter about which nothing was said is the economic management of the public schools. The last report of the national commissioner of education shows that the cost per capita of educating pupils in our public schools has almost exactly doubled during the past twenty years. The increase has been the smallest in the Southern States and the largest in those of the Northwest. All these States received large land grants for the support of schools, but it is a curious fact that school taxes are much higher in these States than in those that received no bounty from the general government. The land grants, so far from decreasing the amount to be raised by taxation for the support of schools, have apparently increased it.

"The greatest increase in the cost of schools has been in cities and towns in the Northwest. In them there has been an expenditure of money that shows how little regard has been shown to economy. The little red school house still stands among the hills of New Hampshire, in the forests of Michigan and on the prairies in Indiana, but in all the large towns there are palatial structures of dressed stone and terra cotta. Extravagance in buildings appears to lead to extravagance in all things pertaining to the management of schools. A costly structure calls for expensive apparatus and high salaries.

"Twenty years ago the cost of supporting schools in Chicago was about one-fourth of the entire expenditures of the municipal government. Now the schools cost, within a few thousand dollars, as much as is required to conduct all the other departments. Every pupil in one of the numerous high schools in the city costs the taxpayers $115.71 a year. Still the persons in charge of the school complain that they have been hampered for lack of funds.

"If the cost of public schools shall increase during the next two decades as it has during the two just passed, it is evident that they will become like the grasshopper, a burden, and the result may be an organized opposition to the way they are conducted. In the earlier days of the republic public schools were favored because they were cheaper to support than private schools. But at present they are far more expensive. There are many excellent colleges in the country in which the tuition is only $25 a year, or less than one-fourth what it is in one of our city high schools.

"In no thing do the youth of this country need instruction as much as in forming habits of economy. As an aid to the formation of such habits the school should be an object lesson. In the good old days, which are not so very old after all, children learned economy while attending school, for the boys built and tended the fires and the girls swept the floors and dusted off the benches. If they wanted a higher education than that afforded by the common school, they earned the money to pay their expenses at an academy or college. And the boys and girls who did this rose to be the molders and mothers of the nation. Now, they learn that it is the bounden duty of the State to give them an education, and by this they may imbibe the socialistic idea—that it is the duty of the State to look out for them after it has given them an education."

Plea for the Spanish Language.

A periodical outcry is made against the study of ancient languages in our high schools and universities, says the Philadelphia Record. Strong arguments are vigorously advanced both in favor of and against such study, those who oppose it declaring that a knowledge of French or German is far more advantageous to young men than a smattering of Latin or Greek. This view is probably correct. But while the contention proceeds, those whom it is intended to benefit acquire little Latin and almost less French.

There is one modern language, however, to the study of which too little attention is being given, and its need will be most seriously felt in commercial circles within the next generation. Reference is had to the Spanish language. Our commerce with the Central and South American republics is largely increasing every year. Even slow-going Mexico is becoming alive to this fact, and is accordingly making an effort to capture some of the commerce flitting hitherward and thitherward. She is actually going so far as to listen to the scheme which is being advocated for the formation of a United States of the Latin-American republics of the central portion of the continent—a confederation which, with Mexico as a part, would very largely increase commerce between this country and the new United States to the southward. The commercial possibilities of these Latin republics are exceedingly vast. Our present commerce with these countries is as nothing to what it will be twenty-five years hence, when a knowledge of the Spanish language will be absolutely essential to all young men engaged in the counting houses of the firms engaged in business with that part of the globe.

Let parents and pedagogues, therefore, cease their bickerings as to the respective merits of Greek and French, and put into the boys' heads a practical knowledge of Spanish, which they will find it not difficult to build upon a tolerably fair foundation of Latin. French may be the language of refinement, and as such its acquisition is more or less desirable. But the great languages of commerce not many years hence will be our own language, the German language, and that charming tongue for which this plea is made—the tongue of Cervantes and of Cortez.

Colgate's New President.

Prof. George William Smith, who was recently chosen president of Colgate University at Hamilton, N. Y., is the youngest college president in the country, being but 32 years of age. Prof. Smith is a son of Prof. Smith of Colby University, Maine, who was at one time acting president of Colgate. He was graduated from the Albany Law School in 1887 and was the valedictorian of his class. He practiced law two years in St. Paul, Minn., and then went to Johns Hopkins University, where he took a special course. He was graduated and appointed to an associate professorship there. Three years ago he was called to the chair of history in Colgate, a position he was occupying at the time of his elevation to the presidency of the university. Prof. Smith was tendered the office of president of the University of Kansas this year, but declined it. He is an able educator, and his selection as the head of one of our leading educational institutions is an honor that rarely falls to so young a man.

PROF. GEORGE WILLIAM SMITH.

Vacation.

The long vacation has begun,
The children now can play
For two long months, and every one
Almost, is going away.
"The family" at some resort
Delightful rest will seek,
While pa at home will hold the fort,
And come down once a week.

The eldest daughter wants a chance
To meet some new young men,
And has strong hopes that some romance
Will be resultant then.
Her younger sisters coincide
With her, for well they know
That till the eldest is a bride
They won't have any show.

Their eldest brother would prefer
To go off on a yacht;
But ma says he must come with her
And help work out her plot
To get him settled down for life,
And some sweet maiden woo.
Who, when she shall become his wife,
Shall bring a dowry, too.

The children haven't any schemes,
They only want some fun.
To them vacation endless seems,
And yet 'twill soon be done.
And will their elders gain their ends,
And come back, full of glee,
To tell the news to all their friends?
Well—wait two months and see!
—Somerville Journal.

Dr. D. K. Pearsons, of Chicago, has given or offered conditionally some $500,000 altogether to educational institutions within two or three years. The sum has been the same for each college—$50,000 on condition that $150,000 more will be raised. His most recent gifts are to Whitman College at Walla Walla, Wash., and Berea College in Kentucky.

More than 100 summer schools are in operation in the United States this summer or will be before the vacation season is over.

PLAY NOT WITH FIRE.

SHORT CATECHISM FOR USERS OF GASOLINE STOVES.

In View of the Number of Casualties Caused by This Useful Article a Table of "Don'ts" Has Been Drawn Up for Housewives and Servants.

Stove Not to Blame.

There are some people so constructed that they never would learn to operate a gasoline stove without getting hurt if water were substituted instead of fluid, and if the valve rods were long enough to permit of their standing in the next county while starting the fire. These are the same persons who turn out the gas at the hotel, start the cook-stove with kerosene, go over Niagara in a barrel, or figure in the news columns under the meaning caption, "Didn't know it was loaded."

"It's not the fault of the stoves nor of the fluid that causes these gasoline explosions," said a local stove dealer the other day; "for nine out of ten it's the audacious ignorance and criminal carelessness of the people that use them. The gasoline stove, which is being denounced in so many quarters as a devouring monster, will, if properly approached, develop into one of the best friends the housewife can possess. And the gasoline stove will be a firm and faithful friend just so long as it is treated with a due amount of attention. But just as soon as you begin treating it too familiarly or carelessly, there's liable to be trouble. And, as the small boy says on the Fourth when the rockets whizz up into the air, 'you must look out for the stick.'"

A MODERN INSTRUMENT OF DESTRUCTION

"Don't" is a good word to use in connection with gasoline, and in view of some recent happenings resulting from experiments with the modern engine of destruction—the gasoline stove—a few "don'ts" said to be handy have been compiled. It is suggested these "don'ts" be put in a neat frame and hung where the queens of the kitchen can see them not less than 200 times a day. Here is the list.

Don't get careless.

Don't expose gasoline in a room where there is any kind of open fire.

Don't stand by a lighted lamp when you clean your gloves with gasoline. You may not be able to wear the gloves short of two months.

Don't put the tank on the stove when you fill it. The tank will be found afterwards, but it is doubtful if you will be.

Don't fill the tank when the burners are lit. It has been tried often with indifferent results.

Don't try to operate the stove if you don't thoroughly understand it. They can send a man from the hardware store cheaper than from the undertaker's shop.

Don't be in a hurry with gasoline. It is several hundred times quicker than you are, anyhow.

Don't light the burners after the pipes have leaked over everything. A flame six feet wide is not handy to cook with.

Don't use your gasoline stove after it is old and leaky. New stoves cost money. So do coffins.

Don't think there is any special dispensation of Providence to protect you from the consequences of a careless act. You will be surprised when you find that you are not a salamander, and that a gasoline flame is no respecter of persons.

Hung with Black.

The darky has a sense of humor peculiarly his own, and by no means objects to a joke containing an allusion to the color of his race—provided he makes it himself. In a New York town which has a colony of colored people there is one big darky who has acquired considerable local renown for his taste in landscape gardening.

Some time ago this man was employed in setting out shrubs on the lawn of a handsome estate. The master of the house was nowhere to be seen, and a number of the gardener's friends were leaning comfortably on the fence at the foot of the lawn, watching the operations with absorbed interest.

Another darky, who was driver for a physician living next door to the fine estate, looked curiously at this row of spectators, and then addressed the doctor, who was just getting into his buggy.

"Doctor Wilson," he said, solemnly, "dere's somebody dead at Massa Jones', sartin sure."

"Dead!" echoed the doctor. "No such thing, Caesar. I should have heard of it if there had been any illness in the family."

"Well, sah," said Caesar, pointing to the row of sable individuals who were hanging on the pickets, "if dere ain' nobody dead to Massa Jones', sah, den w'at fer is all dis yer mournin' strung along de fence?"

Observing National Events.

The poetic Japanese signalize every national event by some lyric or ballad, and the recent war has given rise to many popular songs. Every new year the Mikado gives his people the subject for a "leta," or short, sharp poem of thirty-one syllables. These poems are sent to the court poet, who decides upon their merits. This year the subject was the "plum blossom," and, as usual, the Emperor and Empress composed poems on the chosen theme.

It is a pleasure to know that the girls coming home from school haven't learned so much they are less good-looking than when they went away.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood.
Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc.
Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts.
Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses.
Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup and keeps poultry healthy.
Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells' Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epilepsy, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.

1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FEMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.

By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS,

Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 90 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.,
No. 7808 $35. W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions, from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Prominent Traveling Salesman.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN—I began taking LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS some time since for a very bad case of nervous dyspepsia and insomnia, and I am glad to state that it is doing for me what all other remedies tried by me failed to do—cure me. I have about finished my third box and I am more than pleased with its results, and I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering with nervous dyspepsia as a first-class medicine, and one that has merit. You are at liberty to use this letter in any manner you may see fit, as I am anxious indeed to have every one know who suffers with this dreadful disease how to get well.

Very truly yours,

G. R. RHOADES.

885 North Mississippi Street, City.

Found A Cure.

When moving into our present home I found a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm left by a former tenant. On the label I found the statement that it was good for cuts and burns. I can testify to the truth of this. Nothing in all my experience has found its equal for treating blisters or burns. F. E. Barrett, manager Le Sueur Sentinel, Le Sueur, Minn. Pain Balm is also a sure cure for Rheumatism. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Like a Great Railway.

With its branches running in every direction, are the arteries and veins which convey the blood to every part of the system. A cold, sudden changes or exposure, may cause poisonous acids to clog the circulation, and then comes rheumatism. Beware! if you value life, remove obstruction with Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles by express—enoug for a month's treatment,—with full special directions. Agents wanted. 32-34

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For Malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold at Robbins & McCord drug store. 4

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB The World's Largest Clothing Store. CHICAGO, ILL.

The Wallace Tea.

The Wallace Tea, at Mr. McIntosh's last evening brought out a large attendance in spite of the rain that had been coming up in showers during the early evening. The attendance was fully as large as that which gathered there one year ago to celebrate Mrs. Mrs. Wallace's birthday. Mr, and Mrs. McIntosh had made the usual liberal preparations, and their spacious residence is sufficient to to accommodate still greater numbers. These meetings are held by the W. C. T. U. and their friends each year in the interest not only in the temperance cause, but of the advancement of woman. Mrs. Wallace being an active worker in both these lines, her name is used in connection with the meetings. It will be remembered that she has been here and addressed the ladies on these subjects. So the first thing done at this meeting was to read a letter from Mrs. Wallace, in which she gave them encouraging words. The program as prepared and as published in the DAILY of Tuesday was then given. The opening prayer was by Mrs. Weaver, and there was singing by the entire audience. Mrs. J. C. Henry read the letter of Mrs. Wallace. Miss Servoss recited "The Modern Cain," and Mrs. Buckley sang, "The Spinning Wheel," both doing nicely. Mrs. Geo. Schaab spoke of "The New Woman" a thoughtful and carefully given article Mr. Waltz had for his subject "The Nonsense of It," and made many brilliant hits. Mrs. Darling spoke of "The Ballot for the Home" and Mrs. Barns on "The Gain of the Cause in Forty Years." Both were carefully listened to. Mr. Weamer was on for a talk on the "Relation of the Press to Reform," but was not present. Mr. Hastings sang one of his best solos. Then came the 'Flag Drill' by a number of little Misses. It was lovely, but we could not tell all their names. The last was a series of tableaux in which Mrs. O. V. DeLong, Mrs. Silvers and others took part. All very nice.

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg required to settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle. Is of more value than any other kithchen utensil Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satifactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth Kokomo, Ind.

Hamilton Lake.

This beautiful lake is still a popular resort for those who can make only a brief stay away from home or business. Among those of Auburn who are reported to have spent Sunday there are Geo. Clark and wife, and Will Swarts, and Harry Draggoo.

THE MC DOWELL REUNION.

Sunday, also occurred the reunion of the McDowell family and connections at Hamilton. It was a most enjoyable affair. Those who were in this party were Mrs. McDowell, of this place and her son Dee McDowell; Tim McDowell and wife, Gene McDowell and wife, T. A. Carter and wife, A. C. McDowell and wife of Hudson. Rev. O. E. Eagy and wife, of Reading, Mich., F. M. Boyer and wife, of Muncie.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely mailed.

WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Butler Street Fair

The people of Butler are taking more pains than ever before in the preparation for a successful street fair. It will begin Sept. 24th and close the 27th, having a run of four days. They have provided special days for Waterloo and Edgerton. It will be remembered that last year a long procession of people with teams from Waterloo and vicinity went over to Butler in a body. The people over there make success of their free fair and we look to see this at least as good as the one they had last year. Remember the day, Sept. 24.

Crop Opinion.

After all the talk about poor crops in the great northwest, exchanges publishe this as the latest:

H. V. Jones, whose crop opinions are regarded by the northwestern grain trade as the best, and whose reports are carefully watched for there and elsewhere, wires from Fargo that all estimates of the northwest spring wheat yield will have to be the largest on record. He predicts about 170,000,000 or 175,000,000 bushels in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Costly Trial.

An exchange says that some one interested in seeing how two trains come together will put up the money to see it done. It says:

An extraordinary and costly experiment is to be made at Canton, Ohio. In an iron conclosure two miles east of that place, two eighty-ton locomotives are scheduled to come together at a mile a minute speed, after each has had a start of a mile from outside the gates. Several thousand dollars have been subscribed by business men towards paying the cost of this experiment and one man who originated the idea claims to have invested $9,000 in the scheme. If twenty thousand spectators will pay one dollar apiece, the originators may get their money back. There will be much curiosity as to the result.

Indiana's Big Snake

Three Men View a Monster Tearing Down a Rail Fence.

Fort Wayne Sentinel

For many years the annual appearance of a monstrous snake has caused great fear in Jay county, Muncie, and the raids after it by large posses of men with shotguns, pitchforks, clubs and other implements of war have been numerous. This snake was described by those who claim to have seen it as a hugh reptile of the black snake species. The monster was seen Thursday just west of Muncie by three men, who were frightened out of their wits. William James, a Muncie poultry dealer, was near the home of Judge J. Buckles with his wagon where he met two men, got out of the vehicle and went back to talk to them. The men heard fence rails falling and noticed James' horse with pricked ears looking to one side of the road. In a very short time the head of a huge back snake was raised into the air, taking a view of the situation. Presently the snake wended its way out of the grass and attempted to crawl between the wheels, but its size was too great. The men never moved from their tracks, being satisfied to see the monster continue its journey without molestation. The men claim that the snake was anywhere from twenty to forty feet long.

There are some people who never wear dark glasses and yet they never see anything bright; it's the people who are dyspeptic and soured. Everything is out of joint with such people. "I suffered many years with Dyspepsia and liver troubles but have been relieved since taking Simmons Liver Regulator. I know others who have been greatly benefited by its use."—James Nowland, Carrollton. Mo.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y30

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Matheny & Gerke.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, ... p	11 45 am	4 [illegible] pm	6 40
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc....	12 25	5 25	7 38
Auburn.....	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo.....	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit.....	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville.....	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake....	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola.....	1 13	14	10 50
Jackson.....	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 pm
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake....	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville.....	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit.....	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn.....	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc....	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne.....	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Won By Photograyhy

A queer thing happened at the races at Buffalo on Saturday. A hotly contested heat was given by the judges to "Robert J." But others claimed it should have been awarded to "Joe Patchen." It so happened that a photographer had stood under the wire and taken a snap shot at the two horses as they came under it. So it was agreed to wait the decision till the artist could develop the picture. When the picture was brought out, it plainly showed "Joe Patchen" a little a head and he was awarded the heat. It was felt that the instrument was more correct than the judgment of the men. Besides the kodak had no money bet on the horses.

New Canning Process.

To satisfy the curiosity of our readers concerning the A. W. S. C. P. we publish the opinion of Drs. Hines, Swarts, Buchtel and Nusbaum concerning the properties found in this wonderful discovery.

Dr. Buchtel says: I have been informed as to the ingredients (and their proportions) of the "preservative compound known as the American Woman's Standard Canning Process that the ingredients in the proportions used are entirely harmless and often of decided value from the standpoint of the "physician's prescription."

Dr. W. H. Nusbaum says: I am fully and reliaby informed as to the composition of the American Woman's Standard Canning Compound, and know it to be healthful and not at all injurious, in fact I prescribe the same ingredients almost every day to restore my patrons to health.

Drs. D. J. and V. M. Swarts, says: We are fully informed of the composition of the American Woman's Standard Canning Process, and that the ingredients are perfectly harmless as articles of food in the amount used in the process and often of value as thus used hygienically.

Dr. F. M. Hines says: Having been reliably informed of the ingredients contained in the American Woman's Standard Canning Process, I hereby certify that the ingredient used are perfectly harmless when used according to directions. The ingredients are not only harmless but of great medicinal value, aiding in digestion and assimilation when coming in contact with the normal fluids of the stomach.

Testimonial.

Garrett, Ind, May 23, 1895.

To all whom this may be of interest;—

Six weeks ago I commenced taking the Fidelity treatment of Dr. Casebeer, of Indianapolis, for a very severe rupture of fifteen years standing. After the third treatment I found that the intertines would not come down when my truss was removed, and last Saturday, I stood the test and was pronounced cured Before I commenced the treatment it was impossible for me to remove the truss without the rupture showing about three inches in diameter and it would cause very severe pain should I leave the truss off for a few minutes. It was necessary for me to wear an elastic truss just as tight as I could stand it in order to hold the rupture.

I feel safe in saying that the method that Dr. Casebeer uses will cure any rupture that can be held with a truss providing the patient follows the instructions given them. I can see a wonderful change in my health since taking the treatment. The constant distress from the rupture was so disagreeable as to make me feel impatient and sometimes petulant to even my best friends.

I would advise all that are afflicted as I was to give the treatment a trial, as I am sure it will cure you.

Respectfully yours.

M. G. KENYON.

LAKE SHORE EXCURSIONS.

Account of the 26th Triennial Conclave of Knights Templar, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell tickets to Boston and return, August 19 to 26 inclusive, at very low rates.

These tickets admit of visits to Chautauqua Lake, Niagara Falls and Saratoga, and also give passengers choice of many different routes going and returning.

ATLANTIC COAST.

For your vacation can be made on the low rate excursion tickets to Boston over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry., August 19 to 26 inclusive.

BOSTON

Over the Lake Store & Michigan Southern Ry., August 19 to 25 inclusive. A folder of information containing a map of Boston, side trips, itinerary and other matter about rates and routes, sent on receipt of two-cent stamp by A. J. Smith, G. P & T. A, Cleveland, O.

DO YOU WANT SUMMER BOARDERS? The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. has in course of preparation for the season of 1896 a book of information for people desiring to learn of places at which to pass their summer vacation. This information is wanted both for hotels and boarding houses at summer resorts as well for farm houses wishing summer boarders. Send your name and address to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A. Cleveland, O., for a blank to be filled out to cover the matter desired for the book. 33 36

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Runaway Accident.

FLORENCE BUCHANAN SERIOUSLY HURT IN A RUNAWAY.

Mart Marsh came up from St. Joe yesterday afternoon and reported that Florence Buchanan was badly hurt. W. B. Brown and Frank Rush at once drove down there and on their return this morning we got the particulars. It appears that yesterday afternoon Mr. Buchanan hitched up a team of colts one of which had only been harnessed once before, intending if they went all right to drive up to Auburn. After getting ready to get into the wagon he saw the hitching strap had not been tied up, as it should be. He went to the horses heads to pick up the strap when from some cause they jumped and started to run. He was crowded into a fence corner and trampled on and was run over by the wheels or in some way got mixed up with them and in the struggle it is hard to tell what did happen. When he was picked up and taken into the house it was found that his right arm was badly lacerated and the left shoulder injured the collar bone being broken. There were undoubtedly internal injuries, the extent of which are not yet known. The neck seems to have suffered, for all night he complained of pain there, as well as in the chest and suffered a good deal. He could not sleep, even under opiates, till he got a short nap about four in the morning. Our special from St. Joe just received has in substance, the same facts.

Special to the DAILY COURIER.

ST JOE, IND, Aug. 7.—Florence Buchanan who lives 1½ miles northwest of this place met with a serious accident today while endeavoring to break a team of colts. The particulars are as near as we can learn, that after dinner Mr. Buchanan hitched two colts to a wagon for the purpose of driving to Auburn, and while standing in front of them, they from some cause took fright and started to run, knocking Mr. Buchanan down and running over him breaking his collar bone and otherwise bruising and injuring him internally. Dr. Bowman was hurriedly called and made the patient as comfortable as possible under the circumstances. It will be some time even with good care before Mr. Buchanan will be able to be out.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS

On August 19 to 25, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Boston, Mass., going and returning by the same route, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Knights Templar Conclave.

Circuitous route tickets will also be sold at rate of 60 per cent. of the sum of the first class limited fares via the routes selected.

Tickets will be good for return until September 10, but are subject to an extension until September 30, if deposited with Joint Agent at Boston, after September 10. 31-33

The B. & O. will run run lo rate excursions to Atlantic City N. J. on the seashore, August 15. Tickets will be on sale at all stations. Go and try sea bathing and see the famous "Board Walk" along the shore for several miles.

On August 20, 21 and 22 the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will sell excursion tickets to Columbus, Ohio, at rate of one fare for the round trip, account Young People's Christian Union, U. P. church. Tickets will be good for return until August 27, 1895.

The B. & O. will run the following popular excursions:

MOUNTAIN LAKE PARK

On August 1 to 27, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md, at a rate of one fare for the round trip, account of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society and Mountain Chautauqua Meetings. Tickets will be good for return until August 29, 1895. 30 33

For further information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Ill.

The following would make a good advertisement for Joe Pfefferl:

Ice, ice, ice
If you want what is pure and n
At a reasonable pr
Fo low no new dev
But send to me in a tr
For I have the largest and best stock ever brought to the city.
} ICE

10 CENTS

The largest piece of GOOD TOBACCO ever sold for

Battle AX PLUG

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

Caught a Thief.

Waterloo Press.

A man who lives north of town has been practicing petty thieving for some months past, and the articles taken were generally small; such as he seemed to need in his house, but the frequency of his depredations became monotonous. So on Friday evening last Mr. Scott Shoemaker and Mr. W. F. Stitzel, Henry Shoemaker's hired man, concluded to practice a little game, whereby the suspect thought that Scott Shoemaker had gone to town in the evening. As they expected, the supposed thief started out on his mission of pillage, and a little later he climbed through a window into Scott Shoemaker's wood shed, and as he was in the act of stealing some kerosene oil he discovered Mr. S. at the window, with a double barreled shot gun and Mr. Stitzel at the door, with a cocked revolver, and under such circumstances there was nothing left to be done for him, like Davy Crockett's coon, to climb down off his perch, which he reluctantly did. After seeing him home he confessed to numerous thefts, and also that he had with him a sack and some tools, expecting to go through the cellar window and secure such things as met his fancy. It is a bad case, although the amounts taken do not appear to be large in the aggregate.

COSMOPOLITAN.

Not since "The Anglomaniacs" has there been so clever a society satire as Henry Fuller's "Pilgrim Sons," which is published in the August Cosmopolitan. The problems involved in women's use of the bicycles are so startling and so numerous, under the rapid evolution of this art, that one welcomes a careful discussion of the subject by so trained a mind and so clever a writer as Mrs. Reginald de Koven. The Cosmopolitan illustrates Mrs. de Koven's article with a series of poses by professional models. A new sport, more thrilling than any known to Nimrod, more dangerous than was ever experienced by even a Buffalo Bill, is exploited in the same issue in an article on "Photographing Big Game in the Rocky Mountains," before shooting. The idea that ten cents for The Cosmopliton means inferiority from a literary point of views is dispelled by the appearance in this number of such writers as Sir Lewis Morris, Sir Edwin Arnold, Edgar Fawcett, Tabb, W. Clark Russell, Lang, Sarcey, Zangwill, Agnes Repplier, etc. Nor can we entertain the idea of inferiority in illustration with such names as Hamilton Gibson, Denman, Van Schaick Lix, Sandham, etc., figuring as the chief artists of a single month's issue.

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report

Grateful to His Feelings.

After all the expenses of the recent Boston testimonial to the author of "America" were paid surplus funds remained to the amount of $1,600. The committee, after due consideration, determined that the best use that the money could be put to would be to send it to Dr. Smith. So that was done, and the money was acknowledged by the venerable gentleman as a "token of appreciation highly grateful to my feelings."

TOMAS PALMA.

Recently Proclaimed President of the Cuban Republic.

Tomas Estrada Palma, recently proclaimed President of the Cuban Republic by the insurgents, lives in Central Valley, N. Y. There he directs a large seminary for the education of wealthy Cubans. Senor Palma was born in

T. E. PALMA, PRESIDENT OF CUBA.

Bayamo, Cuba, in 1835. During the last revolution he was constantly in the field. His valor and natural ability to handle soldiers attracted the attention of his countrymen, and he was named for one office after another until finally he was proclaimed president of the Republic. In 1877 he was captured and imprisoned. When the war ended he was freed, and came to this country. Senor Palma is married and has five bright children. He is an interesting talker and his manners are those of a courtier.

Du Quesne Lawn.

Chautauqua Lake is to have another summer resort, to be known as Du Quesne Lawn, named after the Du Quesne Lawn Association of Pittsburg. It will be situated near Chautauqua, on what was formerly the Potter farm. The ground has already been laid out into parks and lots for cottages.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

BOY KILLED.

Elmer Pillsburgh, thirteen years old and only son of Daniels Pillsburgh, of Ostego township near Angola, was killed yesterday afternoon by a tree falling on him. He was assisting a neighbor in cutting down a tree and the tree in falling turned on the stump and fell in a different direction from the way they expected it to fall, and Elmer went in the direction and was caught by the tree. He lived but a short time.

Chronic Nervousness

Could Not Sleep, Nervous Headaches.

Gentlemen:—I have been taking your Restorative Nervine for the past three months and I cannot say enough in its praise. It has for I had almost given up hope ever being well again. I was a chronic sufferer from nervousness and could not sleep. I was also troubled with nervous headache, and had tried doctors in vain, until I used your Nervine. MRS. M. WOOD, Ringwood, Ill.

Saved My Life,

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1. 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price, by the Dr. Miles' Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by Fischle & Son, Auburn.

It's Water proof

Interlined "Celluloid" Collars and Cuffs turn water like a duck's back and stay neither spot nor soil. They are not effected by perspiration, and always look as if right out of the box. When they get soiled you can clean them in a minute by simply wiping off with a wet cloth. These are but a few of the advantages of wearing the "Celluloid" Collars and Cuffs. There are many others that you will readily discover the first time you wear one.

They are the only waterproof interlined collars and cuffs made. Be sure to get the genuine with this trade mark stamped inside, if you desire perfect satisfaction. Made in all sizes and styles. If you can't get them at dealers, we will send sample postpaid on receipt of price: Collars, 25 cts each. Cuffs, 50 cents pair. State size and whether you want a stand-up or turned-down collar.

TRADE CELLULOID MARK

THE CELLULOID COMPANY 427-29 Broadway, NEW YORK

Mrs. Anna Gage, wife of Deputy U. S. Marshal, Columbus, Kan., says:

"I was delivered of TWINS less than 20 minutes and were scarcely any pain after using two bottles of "MOTHER FRIEND"

DID NOT SUFFER AFTERWARD

Sent by Express or mail, on receipt of $1.00 per bottle. Book "TO MOTHERS" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

LEWIS' 98 % PURE POWDERED AND PERFUMED (PATENTED)

The strongest and purest made. Unlike other Lye, it is a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, so the contents are always ready for use. It makes the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleaning waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, pails, tubs, etc.

PENNA. SALT MFG. CO. Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY, AUGUST 22, 1895. NUMBER 34

SAY : :

HOW MUCH DO YOU OWE?

Who holds your mortgage? How much interest are you paying? Do you owe a building loan association anything? If you do, how much interest are you paying them? Unless you are better posted than the majority of people who have such loans, you cannot tell. You think you are paying 6 per cent. Do you know (of course not) that you are paying at least 12 per cent. If you think not, just figure it out yourself. Now then, are you not paying 6 per cent interest and 6 per cent premium? Certainly. Well now don't you know that premium and interest are the same thing—its all interest. Can you afford to pay 12 per cent interest to a loan association when even your banks only charge 8 per cent and you think they are charging too much, and when do you expect to have your loan canceled or paid off in full? You have been told 72 or 78 months. Now then, we undertake to say that it will take you 100 months, if you will call on us we will show you so you will be satisfied that we are right. Now then, we are prepared to loan you money on monthly installment plan for 8 per cent, we charge you no membership fee and you do not have to make three or more payments in advance so that if on account of insufficient security or bad title your loan is rejected you will not lose one cent. You pay nothing unless your loan is granted. We are making farm loans at from 3 to 5 per cent with privilege of partial payments.

ANOTHER THING!

There is scarcely a day but what there is some traveling agent for some building loan association in Auburn soliciting business, selling stock upon which they charge you a membership fee of from 50 cents to $1.00 per share, which amount goes to the agent and you never get back this money thrown away. If you will call on us we will take your application for all the stock you want in the BEST (we can prove it) building loan association in the state the INDIANA MUTUAL OF INDIANAPOLIS, and charge you NO MEMBERSHIP FEE AT ALL. This is certainly fair. If you have any investment stock in any association just write them a letter and ask them the withdrawal value of same, their reply will probably open your eyes. What would you say if you would deposit $8.00 per month in your bank for one year and wanted to withdraw the same and they would offer to pay you only about $80? The bank would only have to do this in one case to be compelled to retire from business. Now you pay ten dollars membership fee and 8 dollars for 12 months making 108 dollars, you lose the 10 dollars membership fee and 10 cents per share each month for expenses, making 12 dollars, or a total of 22 dollars loss upon which you would receive 6 per cent interest for average time on 96 dollars, making 2 dollars and 88 cts. from 22 dollars would leave you a loser of 19 dollars and 12 cents. In our association your stock is worth alll you have paid in, with its interest added, so that upon withdrawal you do not get less than you paid. We want the people of Auburn to become familiar with this matter, and would like to have any that are interested to call and talk with us, we can give you some pointers.

We are still in the Real Estate, Insurance and R. R. Ticket business.

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN INDIANA.

Arm Broken.

Scott Showers, the 14-year old son of Wes Showers, broke both bones of the left arm this forenoon. He and three other boys were playing on a trapeze they have put up in the old cemetery south of Evergreen. The Showers lad was swinging on the bar, holding his body up by having his legs hooked over it. Then, as he swung high enough he would free his legs at the same time coming down on his feet. But this time he missed it somehow and instead of striking on his feet he struck on his hands. There was a report like a pistol shot and the thing was done. The bones were broken off square. Dr. F. M. Hines was called and set the fractured bones, and the lad is getting along all right. The old cemetery would seem to be a poor place for fun.

How it Acts.

After using Drummond's Lightning Remedy for rheumatism, according to direction, for ten days, Mr. John W. Boyenton, of Hampton, Va., writes that he can walk and attend to business which he could not do before. This remedy has a remarkable record of cure—not only relieving pain, but restoring all the functions of the crippled limbs. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles of their remedy with full direction for use. Agents Wanted. 32 34

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills. DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation.

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winnesbeik Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

You can have most any article of iron or brass manufactured at th Junction Foundry.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Shull-Kelley.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Adams on North Main street occurred the marriage of their granddaughter, Miss Carrie Kelley, to Frank A. Shull. The ceremony was performed by Rev, J N. Wilson, in the presence of only a few of the immediate relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Shull are both young people and highly respected by all who know them. They will live with Mr. and Mrs. Adams till November 1 when they will move on Mrs. Shull's farm a few miles northwest of Waterloo Among those who witnessed the ceremony were, Free Kelley and wife, Douglas Kelley and wife, M, S. Shull and wife. Thos Shull and wife and the parents of the groom and grandparents of the bride. The COURIER with their many friends wish them a prosperous future.

How She Was Won

Four lovers sought the maiden's hand,
And each one tried his best
In her good graces first to stand,
And distance all the rest.
One wrote her ardent letters which
He hoped would touch her heart;
Another sent her presents rich,
Enough to fill a cart;
A third devotion deep did show
By pleading on his knees;
The fourth one turned the gas down low,
And won—by a tight squeeze.

[Kansas City Journal.]

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her, and she says it saved her life. Mr Thomas Eggers, 139 Florida St., San. Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption. He tried without result, everything else, then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these are samples, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medecine in coughs and colds. Free trial bottles at Robbins & McCord,9 drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1. 5

Superior to Any Other.

In order to introduce Chamberlain's Cough Remedy here we sold several dozen bottles on strict guarantee and have found every bottle did good service. We have used it ourselves and think it superior to any other. W. I. Mowery, Jarvisville, W. Va. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female, It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.
Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Sophia Leas Baird

Sophia Leas was born in Stark county Ohio, November, 4, 1826, and died at her home in Auburn, August 17, 1895, at the age of 68 years, 9 months and 13 days.

She was the fifth child of John and Sophia Leas. When she was twelve years of age her parents removed to Guernsey county, Ohio, where they resided till Mr. Leas moved his family to DeKalb county, which was in 1852, when he settled on a farm near the present town of Ashley. A few years later, Sophia with an older sister, began business in Angola as a milliner, and continued till after the marriage of her sister when she returned to DeKalb county and for a number of years devoted her time to teaching in the schools, first in the country and later in the schools in Waterloo. July 31, 1870 she was married to Frank Baird, and soon after, they moved onto his farm a mile east of Auburn. Here they resided till 1886, when having constructed a comfortable residence in Auburn, they moved to town and made it their home. Mr. Baird died April 24, 1889, since which time she has continued to reside here till her death. For two or three weeks prior to her death, she had been visiting with friends in Ohio, but feeling the oppression of the hot weather had just returned to her home, the evening before her death. In early life she united with the Presbyterian church in Waterloo and on her removal to Auburn she transferred her membership to the same church here. She has always been a prompt attendant on services and faithful in all church duties. A large circle of friends, both in the church and out of it will mourn her, and she will be missed in many places for she was a woman of estimable and loving character.

The funeral services were at the church which had so long been her spiritual home, and she was laid to rest in Evergreen cemetery where her husband reposes. In the absence of the pastor, Mr. Colvin, the services were conducted by Rev. Mr. Shirley of the Presbyterian church at Albion.

Trustees Should Publish

We still feel certain that the trustees of DeKalb county are making a grave error in not publishing their report of the annual settlement as required by the new law. In Steuben county, nearly all the trustees are doing this, and their people can thus see where every order and other item of expense has gone. This is exactly what people wish to know, and just what they are entitled to know. And while it would involve some expense to the township, we are of the opinion the people would be willing to stand it, and the township would in the end save money by it. In DeKalb county only one man, B. A. Woodcox of Concord, has even attempted to make his accounts public. The trouble at first seemed to be that the retiring trustees did not want to contract for the publication which would appear after they were out of office, and the new trustees claimed it should have been done by the outgoing officer. Then there were a number in both the old and the new boards, who with the commissioners, believe no publication is needed unless the township is in debt. But while we are satisfied that this latter view is wrong still even the trustees whose township is in debt are not publishing their reports. The trustee as an officer, takes an oath to obey the law and then the first act he does is to violate it and lay himself liable to a fine of $100. For years the people have asked and asked again, that these statements and reports be published, The COURIER and some other papers have published brief statements without expense. And such has been the public sentiment that the legislature in order to secure the publication made a law to have it done and to make sure it would be done added a heavy penalty. The people have a just right now to complain, Killed At Albion.

With sadness the COURIER publishes the following account of the tragic death of the wife of our old friend, D, H. Reynolds, It is from a dispatch of last evening which says:

A sad accident happened in this city this evening about 8 o'clock. While the family of D. H. Reynolds and several of their friends were on their way to church the neckyoke became unfastened and frightened the horses, causing them to run away. Mrs. Reynolds was thrown out of the buggy and instantly killed, her skull being crushed by striking the stone gutter. Mrs. S. L. Cook sustained severe injuries which may prove fatal Other members of the party received slight injuries.

Old People.

Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant but acts as a tonic and alterative. It acts mild on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old People find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 5

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Sudden Death.

The sudden death of Mrs. Sophia Baird was a shock to the whole community as the news spread over town this forenoon. She had been out in Ohio visiting relatives as noted in the COURIER, and was expected home in a few days. But it would seem that the hot weather affected her, and she felt there would be more comfort at home, and returning she reached here on the 4 p m. B. & O. train. Mrs Barclay and and her granddaughter, Miss Minnie McDowell, across the street saw her come and one of them went over. They found her suffering only from the heat and dust of the 200 mile ride, and other wise apparently as well as usual. At their suggestion, they brought her a supper, but she seemed to have no appetite and she had a headache. Later in the evening they were in again, but she said she thought she would be all right and rested up by morning. It appears that she soon after retired for the night. The next morning Miss McDowell went over to see if she was all right and ask her to come over to breakfast. But seeing no one was up, she thought it would be better to let her lie and rest than to wake her. So they waited till nearly eleven, when Mrs Barclay went over and went into the house. All was still and she thought she would go up to Mrs. Baird's bedroom, which was on the second floor. She found her lying quietly in bed in a natural position and on her left side, to all appearances asleep. She spoke to her but receiving no reply went to her and gently attempted to wake her, but at once saw, she was cold and dead. The shock to a person as old as Mrs. Barclay, was of course very great but she managed to get down stairs and give the alarm. Friends were summoned and the relatives at Waterloo telephoned for. The relatives here, together with W. H. Leas and wife, and Dr. Yeagy and wife, of Waterloo, have been present and are making arrangements for the funeral. It is a great shock to all our people, as she was one of the most widely known of our older citizens.

394 Hr. 6 Min.

THE BIG CANDLE AT HOFF'S STOPS AT 6 MINUTES PAST 10 P. M. OF SATURDAY.

The oddest guessing contest had so far, was in regard to the big candle at Hoff's. There was no means of guessing just how long the big mass of tallow with a wick of about the common size, would burn. So people made wild guesses, all the way from 60 to 2,400 hours. The one who guessed nearest was to have an assortment of goods that were on display in the window with the candle. The candle was lighted at noon August 1, and at noon August 17, just 384 hours, was burning low in the crock in which the candle was placed to prevent the melting tallow from running over the goods. At 10 6 that evening, it went out and the time was noted by the Hoffs who were still in the store and were watching it. A big card was put in the show window marked "394 hours, 6 minutes" and the matter rested till this morning, On looking over the book containing the names and guesses, the following were found to be close,

W. H. Palmer	394	hours
Mrs. F. Gauli	394	"
Mrs. W. Spitler	395	"
Mrs. John Berg	395	"
Miss Etta Showalter	395	"
John Shaw	395	"
Joe Miller	395	"
Wm. Spitler	395	"

And there were many others very close either side of the lucky number, but as before stated the guesses were quite wild. Mr. Palmer and Mrs. Gauli having the number within 6 minutes, are at the head, and their numbers being the same, they will divide the goods, which we believe is of the value of $15. Of the six persons who guessed 395, Wm. Spitler and his wife have the same number, though neither knew what the other had guessed, and they made their purchases at different times. The six persons, may well quote the German lines "Thou art so near and yet so far."

Election Of Trustees

Notice is hereby given that on Monday the 2d day of September, 1895 at 7 o'clock p. m. in the upper rooms of the Chaffee Building now used as a Hall by the Knights of Pythias in Corunna, DeKalb County, Indiana, there will be a meeting of lot owners and all persons interested for the purpose of electing Trustees of the Corunna Cemetery, and transacting such other business as may properly come before such a meeting.

EMANUEL KNAUER,
KEIFER A. JOHNSON.

PEOPLE

ARE BUYING EARLY

The Fall Trade is opening up much earlier than ever before.

WE BUY EARLY

as possible because we feel that we not only get the Closest Prices, but also the "CREAM" of everything in our line. No doubt you feel the same as we do. At any rate we are prepared to show you a very

CHOICE STOCK OF

New Dry Goods,
New Clothing,
New Hats and Caps,
New Gents' Furnishings,
New Carpets

Which we have bought for cash and are offering at the lowest possible living prices. All Summer Goods at Less than Cost.

SCHAAB & BRO.

Don't Forget

That we are HEADQUARTERS FOR

Bryan Plows, Ball Bearing Disc Harrows, Superior and Empire Grain Drills, Turnbull Wagons and Eckhart Buggies.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland

AUBURN, IND.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

Corbett has proved an alibi in the case of "Gentleman Jim."

Champion Corbett is again a "single man;" he has been behaving singularly for quite a while.

A Cleveland paper says that "jurors in Chicago bring only $5 a dozen." Well, that's more than jurors of that kind are worth.

It is claimed that Attorney Capp, of Fort Worth, Tex., can produce a man who will fasten at least four murders on Holmes. This Capp's the climax.

The fact that the woman who claims to be Jay Gould's wife says her name is Mrs. Angell disproves her claim. Jay was not even related to the Angells.

A squash has been grown in Hawaii big enough for 900 pies. As only one nation in the world possesses a pie belt, the Hawaiians can put forward a new claim to annexation.

Director General Davis has condensed the history of the World's Fair into twenty-two volumes; the Board of Lady Managers will be considered later in an appendix called the "Scrap Book."

The Burlington Hawkeye notes that the "bicycle face" is worn mostly by those persons who wish they had a bicycle and can't get it. This form of the malady is alarmingly on the increase.

Weather Prophet E. Stone Wiggins says that "Niagara Falls is drying up and will soon disappear." It can be said for this prediction that it is fully up to the average of those turned out by the imaginative Wiggins. Why not follow Niagara's example, Mr. Wiggins?

A peculiarly sad case is reported from New York. It appears that a society widow of that town paid court to her coachman, won his young affections and then tired of him and heartlessly threw him off. The betrayed young man has sued for damages for breach of promise to marry. We hope the recreant woman will be made to serve as an example to all designing females and a warning that they must not trifle with the affections of the weaker sex.

Mark Twain very wittily and with entire success proves in a magazine article that Fenimore Cooper was destitute of all artistic literary ability, lamentably deficient in imagination, and singularly oblivious to the principles of grammar. As Cooper's romances have been probably more widely read than those of any other American writer, and as, after reckless expenditures, he died in possession of a large competence earned by his pen, Mark Twain's criticisms may afford useful suggestion to the youth ambitious to succeed in authorship.

The Middleburg (N. Y.) News is entitled to the credit of having given to the public the champion story of the season, though modestly crediting it to "an exchange." It says a man in the western part of the State recently undertook to mix up a nice mash for his cow, doing it in the dark. He mistook a lot of sawdust for bran. The cow meekly accepted the substitute, possibly thinking that hard times were the cause of the economy. The next morning the man milked the cow, obtaining from her half a gallon of turpentine, a quart of shoe pegs, and a bundle of lath.

An "eminent Austrian ornithologist" is credited with the statement that certain birds migrate "because they like to travel." He says that fear of cold hardly can be the cause of migrating birds quitting northern climates on the approach of winter and returning in the spring, for "many species quite as delicate as those which migrate southward easily withstand the rigors of the winter." Hence the movement is to be accounted for by the theory that the migrating birds have an irresistible humor for traveling. This is well enough, but there must be some sufficient cause for that "irresistible humor," and it is natural to suppose that cause is a desire for food. The birds migrate because the sad experience of their ancestors developed in the descendants an instinctive appreciation of the fact that the food they wish is not attainable in the northern land during winter. The return in the spring may be explained by reference to a similar instinct recognizing the northern land as the original home for the species as for its individual members, that being the breeding ground.

Battle-ships may yet be racing across the ocean as are the liners of the different steamship companies. At present the new United States steel cruiser, the Columbia, holds the record for speed in a trip from the Needles to Sandy Hook light, making the voyage in eleven minutes less than a week. The element of speed is an important one in modern naval warfare, and not less so than solid sides of steel. Ingenuity in modern naval affairs is directed to the construction of a gun of such enormous power that nothing can stand against it, and then in the designing of a ship that this gun will have no more effect upon than a buckshot. The race between the demolishing gun and the impenetrable ship is so close that to save both gun and ship the vessel must have the necessary speed to run away if required. This has given our navy the Columbia, which is believed to be the fastest naval cruiser afloat. It made an average speed of nearly eighteen and one-half knots an hour at the expense of nearly 2,000 tons of coal in the seven days on her last trip. The Columbia was launched in November, 1893, and on her trial trip averaged twenty-two knots an hour. She is built of steel and carries one eight-inch and two six-inch breech-loading rifles, eight four-inch rapid-fire guns, twelve six-pounders, and eight one-pounder quick-fire guns. The cruiser is one of the best vessels of our navy, and is, from stem to stern, the product of American yards and foundries. Her guns are of American make, as are her engines. If we can turn out such splendid vessels there is no reason why our merchant marine should not be the largest of any nation on the globe.

If Turkey is "the sick man" of Europe Bulgaria is the crying infant. The world is not to be allowed to sleep in peace for any considerable length of time. The recent shaking up of the discontented little community has resulted in a batch of fresh complications, some of them far-reaching and serious. With Russia's refusal to recognize Prince Ferdinand as the ruler of Bulgaria there comes a possibilty that the Prince and his little court will drop from view and the nation put itself in the attitude of submission to Russia. If not the Czar will refuse to recognize the Bulgarian Government at all and will go on slowly complicating the situation until the rest of Europe feels called upon to protest. Meantime, much ado is being made about the report that Lord Salisbury is considering the step of joining with the triple alliance in consenting to give Austria permission to occupy all Macedonia. The report has gained such wide credence in Europe that it is worth considering. But in taking a step of this sort Salisbury would be marking out a remarkably bold foreign policy. He would be antagonizing Russia with but little to gain in return. If the present alleged plan is carried through the line of battle in Europe for several years would be drawn with Russia and France on one side and the triple alliance and England on the other.

In several State—notably in Mississippi, Colorado, Georgia and Maryland—the Seventh-day adventists, who observe Saturday, the seventh day of the week, as a holy day, but do not refrain from their usual labor on Sunday, the first day of the week, are being persecuted for refusing to obey the laws of the States in which they live, requiring an observance of the first day of the week, "commonly called Sunday." Nearly every secular and religious paper in the country has discussed the question, but in all there has been an admission that the Sabbath of the Hebrews and the Sunday of the Christians are entirely different and distinct days—that one is the seventh and the other is the first day of the week. There are, however, people who regard the two days as identical. Biblical research, aided by intricate and close astronomical calculations, are said to furnish a basis for the claim that the Sunday of to-day is the seventh day of the week, or, in fact, the Jewish Sabbath. The basis of this claim is the long day of Joshua, recorded in the tenth chapter of Joshua: "So the sun stood still in the midst of heaven and hasted not to go down about a whole day." Astronomical calculations of Totten and others are to the effect that this "whole day" was forty-seven hours and twenty minutes long, which the Jews counted as two days. If this is true they gained one day, and the first day, called the Sabbath by them after that "long day," fell, in fact, on the sixth instead of the seventh day of the week. The claim is that this error has been perpetuated to this day. If this assertion is true, then the astronomical calculations upon which this explanation is based are verified to 163 trillionths of a second, and those who base their belief upon them hold that "God's timepiece laughs the chronology of man to scorn."

PURSE IN A HORSE'S HOOF.

The Strange Place Where a Woman Found Her Pocketbook.

Mrs. Jacob Darue, living a few miles north of Canandaigua, drove to town to do some trading, accompanied by her children. She tied her horse on Main street, leaving the children in the wagon. She made a number of purchases, but when she sought her pocket-book it could not be found. She hastened to the spot where the horse was hitched and made a thorough investigation of the ground, the carriage, and even the youngsters were given an overhauling, in comparison with which a custom-house inspection bill is a mild affair. Mrs. Darue was positive she had placed the purse in her pocket just before leaving the carriage, and its complete disappearance was ample grounds for her anxious attitude. The search, augmented by clerks and bystanders, was continued with fruitless result and finally abandoned. A village paper that day published a notice offering a reward for the return of a pocket-book containing a considerable sum of money in bills. Mrs. Darue had placed the advertisement before returning. She had proceeded but a short distance when a slight lameness was visible in the horse she was driving. Instead of passing off, it increased, until Mrs. Darue became alarmed. She stopped and alighted from the carriage, and at her command the horse raised the apparently injured member. Mrs. Darue's surprise can better be imagined than described when she found, firmly imbedded in the hollow of the horse's hoof, the missing purse. It was removed without difficulty, and the family horse established a gait from there home which indicated that the discovery was as pleasing to him as to the owner of the purse. Mrs. Darue believes that in alighting from the carriage the purse fell from her dress and under the horse's feet. The purse contained about $50.—Rochester Democrat.

Foreign Residents of New York.

The following incident of New York life shows how badly our population is mixed: "An Italian sent an American lad to a Chinaman for his laundry. The American gave the Chinaman a 50-cent piece. John bit on it and said: 'Counterfeit; you gettee in trouble; me keepe,' and put it in his pocket. The Italian then called and started to give the Chinaman a beating. A Greek left his oyster stand to act as peacemaker. The Italian drew a razor and the Greek shied a bottle of cayenne pepper at him, which struck a Hebrew. A negro who was passing shouted, and an Irishman in the uniform of a policeman arrested the fighting congress of nations, which was presided over by a Dutch police justice."

Better for His Welfare.

It may be all right for Mr. Palma to accept the presidency of Cuba, but just for the present he should do all of his presiding from his residence in the United States.—Washington Post.

THE Cotton States and International Exposition at Atlanta, Ga., opens Sept. 18 and closes Dec. 31 of this year. Southerners aver that the marvelous agricultural, mineral, lumber and manufacturing resources of the South were not fully represented at the World's Columbian Exposition. On the eve of a revival of business and of an industrial expansion and activity such as this country has not before known, there can be no doubt that now is the time to show the world the possibilities of our wonderful Southern land. The South now invites the world to come to Atlanta in order to realize fully the vastness of her territory and to better appreciate its material advancement in recent years, to study its wonderful possibilities and to see and understand what a factor it is in the progress of a nation which now surpasses every other nation in its mechanical triumphs and in its productive industries. A great exposition is a "flash photograph of civilization on the run." It is not a museum and can only be kept open a portion of the year.

The national fair, the precursor of international expositions, is of great antiquity. Long prior to the time of Christ the sovereigns of Egypt, by imperial decrees, set apart times and places for displaying the products of the country. Similar fairs, and largely of a commercial character, continued through the middle ages and, alternately, through the enterprise of the French, English and Americans, the international exposition came into existence, finding its best example in the Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893. And there is promise of a fair equally instructive to be held in Paris at the close of the century. In a smaller way, and most valuable in their lessons, were the fairs of Antwerp, San Francisco, Lyons, Liverpool, Milan and Madrid, and similar fairs are now projected for New Zealand, Tasmania, Constantinople, Mexico and Jerusalem. As the means of transportation and intercommunication have improved, the fair has been found to be the best general school for teaching one-half the world how the other half busies itself, and what one-half can furnish in exchange for the products of the other half to their mutual advantage.

Mechanical Industry.

Our age is one of mechanical industry, and the improvements in mechanical devices during the last half century far exceed in number and value all that have been made during the preceding 2,000 years. In man's struggle to bring the forces of nature under his control, to subject the material world to his uses, he has not only acquired a more skillful hand but a better trained mind, and, instead of remaining a mere machine himself, he has grown to be a handler of machines, thereby multiplying his physical strength many fold. Of the 900,000 patents issued by other nations and the 550,000 issued to inventors in the United States, by far the larger number have been awarded during the past fifty years. These patents, better than anything else, tell of the marvelous industrial activity of our time. Civil society is competitive, and nations of the earth are engaged in an intense but peaceful struggle for industrial supremacy. Paradoxical as it may seem, the products of industry in this struggle have not only increased enormously through the use of machinery, but have become so cheap as to be within reach of the masses of the people, who can now provide themselves with hundreds of home comforts and conveniences of which their grandfathers did not even dream, and, while this cheapening process has been going on, the earnings of operatives and workmen have steadily grown larger. Transportation, by means of steamships and railroads, has steadily grown cheaper, and now the products of other sections of our country and of other countries can be sent across seas and continents and afforded at prices within the reach of all. The strong men to-day are the captains of industry, men who, a century ago, would have been leaders of armies. They have become skilled producers instead of trained destroyers. The phrase "A family of nations" now has the deepest meaning, for nations are rapidly becoming mutually interdependent. Even the former exclusiveness of China and Japan will never again be possible. Those nations cannot longer live by themselves, but must become members of the "family of nations."

MRS. JOSEPH THOMPSON,
President Board of Lady Managers.

How Expositions Pay.

To the man who can see nothing beyond "gate receipts," the Cotton Centennial Exposition held at New Orleans ten years ago was "a failure," but to the enlightened economist it is known to have been the great awakening impulse which carried a thousand dollars into Southern enterprises and into developing the matchless resources of that wonderful land for every dollar "lost" in that exposition. The best agencies of civilization, such as schools, courts of justice, parks, museums, art galleries and architectural monuments pay little if anything at "the gates," but remotely they pay most richly in all that makes civilization of the highest value. Men, too, are beginning to realize that such agencies have a commercial value beyond computation, and that, without them, we would only be a race of propertyless semi-civilized beings. Whether millions are made or lost at the gates of a great exposition, the whole country reaps an incalculable benefit therefrom in new and quickened impulses and in a larger grasp of constructive and peaceful pursuits.

The Great South.

One who has not visited the South can form but the faintest idea of its magnitude and resources. A few illustrative comparisons, therefore, cannot but be helpful in this connection. Inclusive of New Mexico, the Indian Territory and Oklahoma the area of what we term the South is 1,094,750 square miles. This area is twenty-four times that of the State of New York, or is large enough to make twenty-four States the size of New York with more than enough territory remaining to make three States like Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. This great Southern area is also equal to the combined areas of England, Ireland, Scotland, the entire German Empire, Austria-Hungary, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Denmark, Spain, Italy and France, with a surplus sufficient to make two States like Delaware and Rhode Island. These European countries above named have a population to-day of 230,000,000, or more than three times the present population of all the United States and Territories, or nine times the present population of the South. The population of the State of Massachusetts is 300 to the square mile. A population of like density in the South would number 328,000,000. If peopled as densely as England the South would have a population of 602,000,000, a number equal to two-fifths of the human beings now on the globe. Saxony is the most densely peopled country of Europe, having 633 persons to the square mile. An equally dense population in the South would give that section 693 millions or twenty-nine times as many as it now has, a number nearly equaling half the population of the earth.

Resources of the South.

"The South," as we use the term, embraces the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia, and the Territories of New Mexico, Oklahoma and Indian Territory. Space does not permit us to speak of the resources of the South, except in a general way. The fair will adequately set them forth, and the several States will issue descriptive pamphlets and books which can be obtained by visitors. For centuries Egypt was the granary of the world, yet its productive area, the valley of the Lower Nile, has never exceeded one one hundred and fiftieth part of the area of the South. On less than one-tenth of the acreage admirably adapted to the raising of cotton, and with an imperfect cultivation which does not bring from the land one-half of what it can easily yield, the South will produce 9,000,000 bales of cotton this season, or three-fourths of the world's entire cotton crop. The coal, mineral, lumber, agricultural and horticultural resources of the South are simply inexhaustible, and it would require the labor of a population ten times as large as the present one to healthfully develop these resources. The writer recently visited the iron region of Alabama and merely reiterates here what he said and wrote twenty-eight years ago, when this iron was practically untouched. Iron can be made there more cheaply than anywhere else in the world. Limitless quantities of iron ore, coal and lime stone lie together, and while few may be inclined to credit the startling statement, it is nevertheless true that pig iron can be made in Alabama to-day so much under $7 a ton as to astound one capable of estimating the cost of that product. The writer has taken pains to prove beyond a doubt that steel of best qualities can be made of this iron, and, in the near future, steel will be made in large quantities in Birmingham and neighborhood at prices which will astonish this iron age. In 1890 Alabama stood second as an iron-producing State, and Pennsylvania stood third, Michigan, of course, being first. The world is now making and consuming yearly about 30,000,000 tons of iron and Alabama alone could easily furnish that amount every year for the next thousand years, by the end of which time her iron mines might be fairly well opened and in good working condition.

UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDING.

The Site and Buildings.

The site of the Atlanta exposition is Piedmont Park, which is situated only two miles from the center of the city. The park contains 190 acres, is hilly in character, and has been so treated that it forms a circular valley surrounded by a rim of terraced hills. It appears like a vast amphitheater, the arena-like center of which has been made very attractive with park features and lakes. The fair buildings, now entirely completed, are so placed around this plaza, and in many cases on elevations, that they can all be seen from almost any point in the park, giving innumerable impressive views. In addition to the Government Building the following is a list of the larger structures: The Manufactures and Liberal Arts, Fine Arts, Fire, Agricultural, Auditorium, Administration, Machinery, Minerals, Negro, Transportation, Electricity and Woman's. In architecture the Romanesque style seems to be emphasized, yet the traveler will notice some clever adaptations of widely-known architectural designs. Exhibits will be made by several European countries, from Mexico, and from all the Central American States, from Argentina, Chili, Paraguay and Venezuela. The fair will thus present much that is very interesting and instructive from neighboring countries of the western hemisphere, countries with which we have large and increasing business relations. The following States will have special buildings: Georgia, Alabama, Massachusetts, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Illinois and California. The States Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Louisiana, Maryland and Arkansas will have State exhibits. Besides these State exhibits there will be individual exhibits from every State in the Union.

Amusement features will not be wanting at Atlanta. There will be Mexican, Guatemalan, Japanese, Chinese, Esquimo and German villages. Hagenbeck's trained animals will be there and Buffalo Bill with his hardy riders is coming. Incidentally this fair, like others, will, no doubt, have the urbane Arab from New Jersey selling relics from the Holy Land, which may have been manufactured in Connecticut. The petticoated Albanian from Tipperary may also sell pressed flowers gathered at Bethlehem, Penn. But this kind of merchandising serves as a diversion to throngs, helps defray expenses and harms nobody.

The City of Atlanta.

Atlanta is the beautiful capital of Georgia. Its site is the Chattahoochee ridge, over a thousand feet above the sea level, its altitude giving it a cool and equable climate even in summer. Its present population is 110,000. It impresses the visitor as decidedly metropolitan in every way. Its wholesale and retail houses do a business aggregating $175,000,000 a year, and there are now 600 establishments where manufacturing is done. It is a large cotton mart, one firm there handling $20,000,000 worth of cotton a year. It is a great railroad center. Four direct lines of road run north and east, three go west and northwest, and three to the South Atlantic and Gulf ports. The city has an excellent system of public schools and an industrious and enterprising population. Its water supply is one of the best in the world, all the water being perfectly filtered before it is admitted into the water mains. It is everywhere lighted by electricity and has 100 miles of street railroad, the largest mileage in proportion to its population of any city in the country. It has sixty miles of granite block pavement and 180 miles of brick sidewalks. In 1850 the city had but 5,000 people. The visitor rides along miles of streets bordered on either side by costly and beautiful residences. Peach Tree street can hardly be matched for beauty by any street in any city of America. With its beautiful homes, its shade trees, shrubbery and flowers, it seems a veritable paradise as an abode for man. Northern men who visit Atlanta and expect to find it composed of tumble-down shanties for a thriftless population and "fifty years behind the times," will be not a little amazed to find that it is probably a quarter of century in advance of many pretentious Northern towns, and that there is much in Atlanta which most Northern places could profitably imitate, and nothing in which the Gate City is behind them. It is pleasant to speak of the delightful and hospitable manner in which an accredited visitor is received in Atlanta, and of the many ways in which his stay there is made a continuous delight. All who visit the fair will be amply provided for, though all the available room in the city will be required to accommodate the visitors.

The undertone of this fair will be another impressive lesson in human brotherhood, in the mutual helpfulness of industrial effort and in exchange of services. Earth has no equal area comparable with the South in natural resources and in all the elements for diversified industry. Entering as we now are upon another era of business prosperity and confidence, capital will soon be seeking new opportunities for investment, and the Atlanta fair will start inquiries which will present numberless opportunities for good investments. Within the coming ten years a thousand millions of dollars will go into Southern enterprises from the North and from Europe which can be traced to lessons, suggestions and impressions given and taught by the great fair. The resulting material advances and successes will not only unite men in peaceful pursuits, but will tend to do away with the militant and destructive ideas which have dominated the world in the past and substitute for them a combination of men in peaceful industries which will conduce to greater comfort and happiness, and which will hasten the advent of that auspicious day—

"When the war drum throbs no longer
And the battle flags are furled,
In the parliament of man
The federation of the world."

DUANE DOTY.

THE WOMAN'S BUILDING.

SOME BUILDINGS IN ATLANTA.

His Notion of Hospitality.

There is nothing like making people feel at home. There is one man in Washington who prides himself on it. My friend Lucy called at his house not long ago, and, as everybody urged her to stay to dinner, she stayed. They had beefsteak for dinner that night, and it was simply ideal beefsteak.

The host urged Lucy to take a second helping, and after politely demurring, she accepted it. She was eating it when the young son of the family asked for more, too.

"Don't be a pig, Jim," said his father, with the utmost cheerfulness, "there isn't any more for you. You see," turning to Lucy with a smile of keenest hospitality, "we wern't expecting company."

Clocks on the Locomotives.

Clocks have been placed on the outside of the locomotives on the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railway Company. They are fixed on the side of the engine—that is, toward the station platforms—for the benefit of both passengers and station agents who wish to note the instant arrival and departure of the trains.

HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

ITEMS GATHERED FROM OVER THE STATE.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties, and General Indiana News Notes.

Minor State News.

MILO THOMAS' hardware store at Corunna is in ashes. Loss, $15,000.

TYPHOID fever is on the increase at Richmond.

THE remains of a mastodan were unearthed near Vincennes.

MRS. JAMES HARRIS, living near Lagro, was found dead in her bed.

QUINCY SMALEY, a farm hand near Union City, was kicked in the stomach by a mule, dying instantly.

JOHN ISHAM and John Moore were fatally burned by a gas explosion in the coal mines near Chandler.

A WABASH milling firm bought 75,000 feet of first-class growing timber within the city limits of Wabash.

SIDNEY COOK, an employe of the Lebanon furniture factory, was probably fatally injured by being drawn into the machinery.

PATRICK PADGEN, of Orestes, who was crushed almost to death by a sewer caving in on him a year ago, is now violently insane.

CHAS. KISER, a farmer near Lebanon, fatally shot his wife, recently. She had gone into the yard, and he thought she was a dog.

FARMERS of Madison County believe that the corn crop will not be half what was expected a few days ago, owing to the intense heat.

THE recent nest of counterfeiters broken up in Elwood, have recommenced operations again. A dangerous counterfeit half-dollar of 1877 is being put in circulation there.

THERE are thirty-five cases of typhoid fever at Richmond, but no deaths have occurred. The trouble is said to be due to impure water used by the dairymen for their cattle.

THE Wabash County Township Trustees have decided that they will not obey the new law in having reports of their official transactions published. Suit has been instituted against them.

THOMAS NULL, aged 60, an inmate of the Soldiers' Home, at Marion, was struck by an electric car and received fatal injuries; his skull and right leg were crushed. Null was intoxicated and fell under the wheels of a passing car.

THE 3-year-old daughter of Robert Early, three miles south of Wabash, fell from a second story window and received injuries which the doctor fears will prove fatal. The child was restored to consciousness, but her condition is critical.

THE Twenty-fifth Annual Reunion of Old Settlers of Hamilton County met at Eagletown. Twelve or fifteen thousand people were present. Prizes were awarded to the oldest man, ninety years, and the oldest woman, eighty-seven years.

THE Indiana State Board of Charities has announced a program for the Fourth Annual Indiana Conference of Charities, to be held at Fort Wayne, September 15 to 17. Circulars have been sent to all the Township Trustees calling their attention to the meeting, and requesting their attendance.

DAVID HOWARD, an employe in Bertsch's machine works, in Cambridge City, met instant death. He was assisting in loading a heavy machine on a car and was at one end of the wheels endeavoring to back the wagon on which the machine was loaded. The wagon struck an uneven piece of ground and overbalanced the machine which fell over on Howard, killing him instantly.

PATENTS have been granted to Indianians as follows: Jasper L. Ackerman, Monon, measuring device; Stephen G. Baldwin, Marion, ink well; Charles A. Bertsch, Cambridge City, metal-shearing machine; John R. Carfield, assignor of one-half to A. N. Wilson, Indianapolis, shaft support for vehicles; William L. Cassaday, South Bend, Wheeler gang plow; Andrew Krieger, Indianapolis, detachable tooth saw; John Salary, South Bend, axle skein; Joseph S. Urban, assignor of two-thirds to A. P. McKee and W. E. Jones, Anderson, fan attachment for rocking chairs.

A scaffold in the new Strauss Block at Seymour, gave way. Mayor Joseph Balsley, the architect of the building; John Humes, a member of the firm erecting the building; Henry Barkman and Andy Heyob, carpenters, fell to the floor below, a distance of eighteen feet. Mayor Balsley sustained a fracture of the right leg and is suffering with concussion of the spine. He is in a critical condition. John Humes' right ankle was fractured, and he is also suffering with concussion of the spine. In the descent Andy Heyob's head struck the wall and a large part of the hair was torn off, laying the scalp bare. He is suffering pain. Henry Barkman is badly bruised, but the extent of the injuries which he sustained cannot be learned. All are suffering with concussion of the spine.

AT the request of Vicomte R. de Cornely, director of the foreign department of the Mexican International Exposition, which will open in Mexico City, April 2, 1896, and continue for six months, Governor Matthews has made the following appointments of commissioners to represent this State: James Studebaker, George Ford and Benjamin Birdsell, South Bend; John H. Bass, Fort Wayne; Ralph H. Hemengray, Muncie; John J. Cooper and Volney T. Malott, Indianapolis; James H. Willard, Bedford; Francis J. Reitz and Benjamin Vonhehren, Evansville; John F. Beggs and G. W. Bement, Terre Haute; George Pence, Columbus; Walter Evans, Noblesville; Benjamin Starr, Richmond. These men, are, for the most part, manufacturers, who intend to make exhibits at the exposition, and would probably attend anyway. This makes twenty-two States that have appointed commissioners to this exposition.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES HITESMAN, a well-known aged couple of Elkhart, have been singularly unfortunate with their children. Seventeen years ago their son John was burned to death. In 1888, while returning from a dance, Edward jumped from a train at a crossing and was so badly injured that he died in a few hours later. In 1889 William was killed in a runaway, and in 1881 George was blown into the tops of some trees by the explosion of a rotator in the combination board mill there being confined to his bed for a year and rendered a cripple for life. The other day Asa, the remaining son, fell forty feet from a tree and cannot live.

WORK has been resumed at the W. R. McCloy lamp chimney plant, at Elwood, with three hundred men. The McBeth lamp chimney plant will resume with 750 men, Aug. 26. The other glass industries will resume operations in a few days.

A FEW days ago Benjamin Lannick and a boy about fourteen years old living with him by the name of Harris, drove to Richmond in a spring wagon. On their return when near Centerville one side of the shaft dropped down which caused the horse to spring forward, throwing both out. The horse began to kick and broke the boy's leg below the knee. Mr. Lannick was stunned by the fall and was unconscious. In this condition they were found a half hour afterward.

RENEWING THEIR YOUTH.

A Strange Story from a Nebraska Village.

From the World-Herald, Omaha, Neb.

A World-Herald reporter was attracted by the evidence of renewed activity of some of the old inhabitants of Bruce, near Omaha, and inquired the cause. Mr. Andrew Finkenkeler, a member of Co. B of the First Iowa Volunteers during the war, made the following explanation so far as he himself is concerned.

"In July, 1866, while my company was on the march to Austin, Texas, I was attacked with rheumatism of the worst kind in one leg. I was also sunstruck and remained unconscious for several hours. Ever since I have been unable to stand the heat of the sun, and have been compelled to give up work. There was in my head a bearing down feeling which increased until it seemed my head would burst. My ears rang, and palpatation of the heart set in, so that the slightest noise would set my heart thumping. Several times it has rendered me unconscious seven to ten hours at a time. In addition to this the rheumatism extended up my side until it drew my head down on my shoulder. I lost my strength and flesh and was totally unfit for work.

"For twenty-eight years I have consulted physicians and taken their prescriptions without deriving any material benefit. My ailments increased in intensity until I was assured that there was no hope for me. During last year I went into the butcher business, but the dampness from the ice used increased my rheumatic pains so that I was not only compelled to quit the business, but was confined to my bed for nearly six months.

"In November last I read in the World-Herald a case of a man who had been entirely cured from the same ailments by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. On Nov. 28, I purchased a box. In a week I was astonished to know that I felt better than I had for six months past, and before I had used half a box. The ringing in my ears began to lessen, and finally left me. The pain from the rheumatism gradually left me, so that within one week from the time I took my first pill I was able to sit up in bed. On Jan. 1st, I was able to go out and walk a little. The palpitation of my heart entirely ceased. On Feb. 9, I was so thoroughly cured that I accepted a position as night-watchman in the Forest Lawn Cemetery, remaining out of doors from 6 p. m. until 6 a. m. I have gained in weight from 144 lbs. which I weighed in November last, to 172 lbs.

For nerve building and for enriching the blood Pink Pills are unexcelled. They may be had of druggists or direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

The Basis of Good Coffee.

An ideal cup of coffee can, it is said, be made only in one way. The coffee must be of the best quality and must be roasted, ground immediately, and used as quickly as possible. Connoisseurs in coffee assure us that it is out of the question to make this beverage absolutely perfect out of factory roasted coffee that has been allowed to stand in the open air any number of hours; and, in addition, one might say that such a thing as a cup of good coffee from that which is purchased ready ground is quite an impossibility. The fine aroma of the berry evaporates in a very short time. Given the freshly roasted and ground coffee, an earthen coffee pot heated very hot by being filled with boiling water, which must be poured out again, and a coffee bag strainer. Then put in the coffee, ground very fine, almost to a powder; pour upon it boiling water—not merely hot—cover tightly and allow the coffee to filter through. Have ready the cups, heated by pouring boiling water in them, put in the required quantity of cream and sugar, then fill up with the distilled nectar from the coffe pot, and one has a beverage that is a revelation. Never expect good results from poor coffee or lukewarm water and half cold utensils.—New York Ledger.

HER LETTER

TELLS A WOMAN'S STORY.

Written for Eyes of Other Women.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

There is inestimable pleasure in doing good to others, and joy in a grateful recognition of the act.

On the old York Road, Huntington Park, Philadelphia, dwells Miss M. Downs, whose portrait we give. She desires that her case may be stated as a means of benefiting others. She says: "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has cured me of Kidney trouble, painful menstruations, and headaches. It is truly a wonderful medicine. I cannot describe my feelings before I took it. The pain in my back was dreadful, and during menstruations the agony I suffered nearly drove me wild; and then my head would ache for a week, and now this is all over, thanks to your good remedy. I trust my testimonial will lead others to take it and be cured. They can find it at any drug store. Our druggist says the demand for it is very large, it is helping so many sickly women."

FRIENDS' OATS
REMEMBER THE TRADE MARK
THE Little Friends Girl.
NO ROCKING NECESSARY WHEN YOU FEED THEM
BEST CEREAL FOOD
Friends' Oats
FOR OLD AND YOUNG.
ALL GROCERS SELL
FRIENDS'
ROLLED OATS

NOTES ON EDUCATION.

MATTERS OF INTEREST TO PUPIL AND TEACHER.

Another Spelling Reform Wave Gathering Force in the Country—The Summer School Has Come to Stay—Large Increase of College Graduates

Dispensing with Superfluous Letters.

The phonetic system of spelling has received another boost by the publication in New York of a dictionary based upon that system. To stimulate interest in the question, the publishers have sent out circulars inviting suggestions and criticisms. Several prominent newspapers have taken up the subject and discussed it in a friendly spirit, agreeing on the main proposition that the English language is burdened with a mass of useless silent letters.

That the existing English spelling is a philological monstrosity; that it is unsystematic, unphilosophical and illogical; that it is a stumbling block in the way of juvenile education, and a terror and a pain to foreigners, is pretty well agreed upon by all leaders of modern thought. Nevertheless, says the New York Herald, when the first spelling reformers arose they were laughed at as visionaries and Utopians. The actual order, it was said, involved so many vested interests that it would be impossible to change it, just as in mathematics it would be imposible to change the barbarous decimal system to an octomal or other system that would obviate many of the chief difficulties in calculation.

Nevertheless, the small band of reformers persisted in braving ridicule. They gained at last a qualified respect from educators; they attracted converts; they marched on to further victories, and at last they succeeded in marshaling under their banners many of the choicest minds of the day. It is not too much to say that in theory at least most educators of to-day are in sympathy with the movement.

Can the theory be put in practice? The enthusiasts determined to try so early as 1828. They gained over the author of Webster's Dictionary, whose original work was gotten up on a phonetic basis. But though conservatism won the day against most of the reforms advocated by Webster, so that succeeding editions of his book were forced to drop them, something was gained. The unnecessary u in such words as colour, neighbour, etc., was permanently banished from American literature, and innovations like plow and theater gained half-hearted assent.

Since that time the cause has prospered slowly but surely. And now the faithful think the time is ripe for concerted action.

In discussing the proposed reform, the Louisville Courier-Journal says: "In the school of to-day the child is taught to read in the beginning; and while the study of spelling is pursued at the same time the drills in orthography are much shorter and less numerous. Several circumstances, however, have united to make up for these. In the first place, there are the blackboard exercises, which form such an important part of elementary training. Pupils as well as teachers take part in these. The children are also required to submit written compositions even in the primary grades. The eye is thus trained with the memory, and a quick and observant eye is one of the requisites for an accurate speller. It would seem, therefore, that while less importance is attached to this branch of study, children do not suffer even in this respect from the change in methods of training. Also people read so much more now than formerly that this habit has an immense educative influence, which keeps up the average of spelling ability.

It was one of Franklin's sayings that while it was no credit to a man to spell well, it was a disgrace for him to spell badly. That remark showed the acute observation for which Franklin was distinguished, for it has crystallized in a sentence popular feeling upon this subject. Bad spelling provokes not only contempt, but ridicule. There is something as ludicrous to the average mind in defective orthography as in the perplexing hesitations of the stammerer. The success of Artemus Ward, Josh Billings, Sam Slick, and many other humorists was built up largely on the recognition of this propensity to laugh at mental and physical defects. But while the man who deliberately misspells a word may aspire to be considered a wit, the one who does so from inability is sure to be laughed at. A man may be a sholar, and yet, if unable to put the right letters in the right place in any combination of syllables, he must suffer the imputation of ignorance.

No school and no pupil can afford to neglect spelling. The study is difficult, but while its mastery may pass unnoticed, the lack of it never escapes observation. There is really another criticism, though it may not be so generally recognized by those who apply the principle. The ability to spell well indicates careful observation and accurate memory, while the inability to do so implies the reverse.

The adoption of a system of phonetic spelling is a reform that will come slowly, if at all. Many years would be required to teach people that the new method was not simply bad spelling, and until they could be got out of the opinion that it had its inspiration in necessity instead of choice, they would ridicule the writer and the practice.

The Summer School.

The summer school has evidently come to stay. For the last ten years such schools have been springing up in various parts of the country, growing in popularity and importance, until now they have become an established factor in our educational system. More than 100 of these schools have already opened or will open before the vacation season shall have ended. Invariably these schools, says the Chicago Record, are devoted to some particular branch of study, usually dealing with educational or religious subjects, or those that are collateral to such subjects. There is a school devoted to educational matters in Denver, a school of applied ethics at Plymouth, a school of Christian sociology at Oberlin, and a school of Christian philosophy at Chautauqua, which are simply samples of the vast number of summer educational courses.

The summer school is made to fit into the vacation period with a peculiar nicety. Being special schools they appeal to those students to whom such studies are in the nature of recreation, while the methods of instruction by the use of lectures lend an additional charm to the courses pursued.

When Prof. Agassiz opened the first of these schools at Penikese island in 1873 for instruction in natural history, the affair was regarded as of very doubtful utility by the staid college professors. Then the Chautauqua movement began, which did more to popularize the new movement. Now the list of lectures in these summer schools includes the name of nearly every college and university professor who has acquired a recognized position in the science he teaches. It is estimated that 1 per cent. of the people of the whole country attend, for a longer or shorter period, these many schools.

The schools supply some of the demands that the colleges cannot fill. They stimulate and direct thought, but are not disciplinary in their aims. The student can outline a whole year's study from the hints and ideas received during a few weeks at one of these schools. They are inexpensive and have demonstrated their utility. They must now be recognized as one of the most important instrumentalities for popular education.

The College Graduate.

Reports from colleges generally throughout the United States are to the effect that the graduating classes of 1895 have been larger than those in any other previous year. This is, of course, a prominent feature of our national development, and may be strained even so far as to be regarded as another gratifying sign of returning prosperity. At any rate, says the Philadelphia Record, the annually increasing roll of college graduates is the best of evidence that the door of opportunity is being kept wide open for American youth; for, although a liberal education is not absolutely necessary to success in life, it is nevertheless a grand qualification.

What becomes of all our college graduates is a question often asked, and as frequently only partially answered. They do not all shine very brilliantly in the fields of literature, art, science or even of theology. But their influence is none the less felt; they are working wonders for the good of the nation at large. Out of a population of nearly 70,000,000, probably not five in 500 are or ever will be college graduates. A much larger proportion have naturally had the rudiments of a common school education; but a very moderate proportion of these latter, owing to the pressure of daily events, the disabling condition of their surroundings and other similar circumstances, will early have fallen out of the habit of reading any other than ordinary literature, and equally out of the power of thinking into and through the grave social and political questions of the day. But the influence of the college man upon these is destined to become very great. Popular intelligence seeks such enlightening influence in every walk of life, and when found it is both duly recognized and appreciated. As Bishop Potter pointed out to the students of Union College the other day, the well educated man, albeit in an unconscious manner, metaphorically becomes "the master of his less sophisticated brother."

The man of learning may not be as rich, as adroit, as aggressive or as apparently successful as the man of ordinary information. He may be overlooked or forgotten in the mad scramble for place or for power, or in the contentions of political factions. But sooner or later inferior men will be as certainly compelled to listen to him as (to employ a paradoxical instance) the wise and great once esteemed it a favor, in an hour of supreme trial and suspense, to listen to the utterances of an ungraduated Lincoln, but a man who was a student and a seer.

Climbing Up the Hill.

Never look behind, boys,
Up and on the way!
Time enough for that, boys,
On some future day.
Though the way be long, boys,
Fight it with a will;
Never stop to look behind
When climbing up a hill.

First be sure you're right, boys,
Then with courage strong
Strap your pack upon your back,
And tug, tug along;
Better let the lag-lout
Fill the lower bill,
And strike the farther stake-pole
Higher up the hill.

Trudge is a slow horse, boys,
Made to pull a load,
But in the end will give the dust
To the racers on the road.
When you're near the top, boys,
Of the rugged way,
Do not stop to blow your horn,
But climb, climb away.

Shoot above the crowd, boys,
Brace yourself and go!
Let the plodding land-pad
Hoe the easy row.
Success is at the top, boys,
Waiting there until
Brains and pluck and self-respect
Have met you on the hill.

The Girl Graduate.

Sweet Girl Graduate (to the world)—"Well, upon my word, old chap, you must have a swelled head if you think you can teach me anything."—Truth.

Cheerful Information.

"You have an early spring here, do you?" said the gentleman from the North.

"Yes, sir, right airly. You kin always tell when spring's come fer good by the snakes. That one you're a-standin' on now is a ground rattler an' this one where you're a-jumpin to is a spreadin' adder."—Atlanta Constitution.

Dr. Adam Clarke, even when a boy, had a memory so phenomenal that after hearing a sermon lasting an hour he could go home and repeat the whole verbatim, imitating the manner, voice and gestures of the preacher.

PIGEONS CARRY THE MAILS.

The Only Feathered Postal Service Operated in the United States.

The only regular pigeon post service on this side of the continent or the other is that which bears messages every day in the summer season between Los Angeles, Cal., and the little town of Avalon, on Catalina Island, and bears them at a speed which can be beaten only by the telegraph or telephone.

BLUE JIM, A CATALINA SPEEDER.

The steamers run once a day between island and mainland, and once it has cast loose from the wharf the island, with a summer population of perhaps several thousands, is as completely cut off from the world as though it were in midocean, and yet the shore is a scant twenty miles away. The demand for some additional service grew, and last summer the island visitors and residents were relieved from their isolation by the establishment of a carrier pigeon post between Avalon and Los Angeles. The message bearers usually start without delay and arrive at their destination with a certainty and promptness almost incredible.

The air-line distance from Avalon to Los Angeles is about fifty miles. This was accomplished by some of the Catalina flyers in fifty minutes. From three to four hours is required to make the trip by railroad and steamer.

The fact that the birds could fly from Avalon with such rapidity and certainty filled those of the island visitors who were unfamiliar with the habits of the intelligent homer with amazement, and many people were quite unable to grapple with the statement that carrier pigeons have been flown successfully for a distance of 1,000 miles and more. One bird liberated in Spain not long since covered a distance of 615 miles in a single day—that is from daylight till dark.

Races between pigeons and telegrams have not infrequently resulted in the pigeon arriving at his destination in advance of the message by wire. On one occasion a pigeon and a postal card started together on a trip of 540 miles, and the message borne by the bird reached the person to whom it was addressed some hours before the card was delivered. While it is the carrier's intense love of home which renders him available as a bearer of dispatches, neither mate nor young is the attraction which attracts him. It is the perch and nest box. He is as averse to change as a pet cat, and will fight for his own to the bitter end.

RECEIVING A MESSAGE IN THE LOFT.

The employment of pigeons to carry messages from Catalina has its solitary precedent in the temporary establishment a few years since of a pigeon post across the English channel from Boulogne to London, a distance of 133 miles. In summer the messages would arrive in London at midday, whereas the Paris mail could not be expected until nearly 12 o'clock at night.

How to Economize in Living.

One-half the world does not know how the other half lives, nor do the well-fed thousands in this prosperous city, who daily consult their menus of many expensive and rare courses, comprehend that many other thousands of hard-working, active, healthy, energetic, bustling people live for a whole day upon the price of a plate of oysters in a fashionable restaurant. Stand upon Park Row in front of Dolan's or Dennett's and ask some of the habitues of these places what it costs them daily for their food. Let one man—a letter-carrier—speak for himself: "I have three meals a day—coffee, cakes and either ham and beans or corned beef and beans at each meal—at a cost of not more than 20 cents a meal. They give you bread and butter with the meat, and a fellow has plenty to eat in three such meals. If a fellow is hard pushed he can get along on 30 cents a day with two meals, with meat, beans, bread and coffee at each. I have known chaps who have been idle for a long time to live upon 20 cents a day—corned beef, beans, bread and butter, and water for one meal and pie and coffee at the other in the evening. A fellow who could live all winter on those two meals if he didn't have to juggle cases and barrels and bales of cotton or do heavy work." Thus it may be seen that a man needn't starve who has $1.40 a week to spend on food."—New York Recorder.

Pays for Trunks as Well.

Gen. Edward F. Jones, of Binghamton, who is known to fame as the man who pays the freight and as the Democratic lieutenant governor who persisted in being a candidate for Governor when the bosses told him not to be, has another claim to fame. Reading in a paper that a small boy in Binghamton had been arrested for swimming with no trunks on, he went out and bought 500 articles of that description, hunting up 500 boys, and made them a speech and gave each a pair of trunks.—Buffalo Express.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report
Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

AN ANTELOPE HORSE.

Trained for the Sport and Knows All the Fine Points.

"I had a horse," said an old army man, "that had belonged once to the Seventh Cavalry, but he had the 'I. C.' brand under his mane, so he was out of the service. Inspected and condemned. He was a regular old plug, but he was all I could get to go hunting on, so I took him. I rode away out into the plains from the fort and I saw a bunch of antelope finally. I got off the horse and dropped the reins on the ground, expecting the horse to stand there till I came back. I started off toward the antelope, and was sneaking along to get a shot when I looked around and I'll be blamed if that brute of a horse hadn't started off as tight as he could lope.

"'Well,' says I, 'I guess I'm in for a six mile tramp home, and then I went on. Pretty soon I looked up, and I'm blessed if there wasn't that horse over the other side of that bunch of antelope. 'Well, now,' says I, 'I'd like to know what the devil that horse thinks he's up to anyhow.' Pretty soon he began to circle around on the other side, and the antelope saw him and started off toward me. I caught on at once and I lay down and waited. That old horse cut up the most surprising antics out there, and all the while he kept working those antelope toward me. By and by they got in range, and I got two; darned good luck it was, too. You see that horse was an old Indian hunting pony, and he had been trained to do that way. Well, I went back to the post, and everybody wanted to know how it happened I had such good luck. But I didn't tell 'em. Not then.

"A few days after I took that same horse out after prairie chickens. It was the time of the year when the chickens were flying and I was riding along when all of a sudden the critter stopped short, braced himself and waited—for what I didn't know. But in a second a couple of chickens flew up ahead of me and I was so surprised I didn't shoot. 'Well,' says I, 'I'll be switched. Here's a horse that's not only a hunting horse but is a regular pointer dog, too.' And he was. I got my gun ready and the next time he stopped I was right on hand and dropped a bird. Well, now, no sooner did that horse see that bird fall than he galloped off right to where it fell and all I had to do was to reach off and pick it up. He was a great horse, I tell you, and I got lots of good hunting with him."

Pig with a Trunk.

George R. Jones has in his possession, at his farm on Hermit's lane, Roxborough, one of the two young pigs brought from Cuba on the training ship Saratoga during her last cruise. The porker is a real curiosity, being as black as ink, and adorned with a long snout, resembling the trunk of an elephant. He doesn't root up the ground like a common porker, but uses his feet instead of his nose. He is a regular epicure in regard to food, for nothing but fresh, warm milk and bananas appeal to his palate. Midshipman Miltenberger presented Jones with the animal about four weeks ago. It is now about two months old and growing fast.—Philadelphia Record.

The Sworn Tormentors

Of the Spanish Inquisition never inflicted tortures more dreadful than those endured by the victim of inflammatory rheumatism. The chronic form of this obstinate malady is sufficiently painful. Arrest it at the start with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters and avoid becoming a lifelong martyr. The Bitters will remove malaria and kidney complaints, dyspepsia, constipation, nervousness and neuralgia, remedy debility and hasten convalescence.

Disraeli's Mistake.

When Disraeli first set eyes on Mr. Biggar in the House of Commons, he said to his fidus Achates;

"What is that?"

"That, sir, is the honorable member for So-and-So."

"Really!" replied the other; "I thought it was a leprechaun," which is a small but malignant species of Irish fairy.

To Make Black Walnut Stain.

Mix pulverized asphaltum with about twice its bulk of turpentine and set where it is warm, shaking occasionally until dissolved. Strain and apply with a brush.

OLD Bachelor—"Do you expect to marry, or do you prefer to keep your liberty. Miss van Sand?" Miss van Sand—"What a funny question! I intend to do both."

LOW RATES TO LINWOOD PARK,

Vermillion, Ohio,

Are offered during the summer months by the Nickel Plate Road. A delightful summer resort.

GIGANTIC lady (to policeman)—"Sir, can you not see me across the street?" Policeman—"See yez across de street, is it? Sure, mum, I can see yez a mile off."

Weak and Weary

Because of a depleted condition of the blood. The remedy is to be found in purified, enriched and vitalized blood, which will be given by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. It will tone the stomach, create an appetite, and give renewed strength. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye to-day. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills cure habitual constipation. Price 25 cents.

A Horse Detective.

A Jersey story comes from Newark to the effect that Constable Brown, of Union, was brought to Newark the other by a horse. This is thought to fix many thefts of farm produce and poultry in Union township on residents of Newark. The farmers have been patroling the roads for weeks, and recently surprised two men with a horse and wagon. The men fled and were fired upon. That one of them was hit is known, as blood spots were found in the direction in which they fled. The horse was turned over to Brown. He harnessed the horse to a wagon and let him choose his own way. The animal started off at an easy trot, and when he reached Newark, instead of going down principal streets, he went around blocks and appeared to be perfectly familiar with each turn. He finally entered a stable yard. There it was learned that he had been boarding, and the owner of the stable gave a description of the man who owned the animal.

Fastest Vessel in the World.

The fastest vessel in the world is the torpedo boat destroyer, Boxer, recently built for the British government by the Thornycrofts. She has beaten the records of her three famous sister ships, the Daring, Ardent and Decoy, her mean speed developed during six separate runs being, according to reports, 29.17 knots, and a total distance of 100.6 miles was covered in three hours, an average of 32.5 miles per hour thus being attained.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

INQUIRING CHILD—Papa, why do people cry at weddings? Papa (abstractedly)—Most of 'em have been married themselves.

Don't Drag Your Feet.

Many men do because the nerve centers, weakened by the long-continued use of tobacco, become so affected that they are weak, tired, lifeless, listless, etc. All this can be easily overcome if the tobacco user wants to quit and gain manhood, nerve power, and enjoy vigorously the good things of life. Take No-To-Bac. Guaranteed to cure or money refunded by Druggists everywhere. Book free. The Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

Life Briefly Summarized.

If a woman gets what she wants to wear and a man what he wants to eat, there's no reason why they shouldn't live together and be happy.—New York Record.

THE Nickel Plate road has compiled a list of country homes along the south shore of Lake Erie, willing to accommodate summer boarders, and a copy will be mailed to any address by enclosing a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road or to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent.

A MAN never gets through buying ice cream: as soon as he tires of it himself, he begins buying it for his children.

Piso's Cure is the medicine to break up children's Coughs and Colds.—MRS. M. G. BLUNT, Sprague, Wash., March 8, '94.

LIFE is made of compensations. By the time a man is old enough to realize what a lot he does not know he is too old to worry over it.

Linwood Park, Vermillion, Ohio,

A delightful summer resort located on the south shore of Lake Erie. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate road offered during the entire summer.

WE have often wondered how look every inch a soldier, would look carrying a little baby on the streets.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

A WRONG rarely remains single.

ENCLOSE a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road for an elaborately illustrated art souvenir entitled "Summer Outings."

HOT words cool friendships.

DO YOU EXPECT
To Become a Mother?
If so, then permit us to say that Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is indeed a true
"Mother's Friend,"
FOR IT MAKES
Childbirth Easy
by preparing the system for parturition, thus assisting Nature and shortening "Labor." The painful ordeal of childbirth is robbed of its terrors, and the dangers thereof greatly lessened, to both mother and child. The period of confinement is also shortened, the mother strengthened and an abundant secretion of nourishment for the child promoted.

Send twenty-one (21) cents for The People's Medical Adviser, 1000 pages, over 300 illustrations, giving all particulars. Several chapters of this great family doctor book are devoted to the consideration of diseases peculiar to women with suggestions as to successful home treatment of same. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
Powdered and Perfumed.
(PATENTED.)
The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing-bottles, paints, trees, etc.
PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.,
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief. Price 35 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass. ASTHMA.

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att'y fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

Do You Know that There Is Science in Neatness? Be Wise and Use
SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.
RISING SUN STOVE POLISH
For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.
PASTE STOVE POLISH
RUSTLESS LABOR SAVING BEST IN THE WORLD
THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.
THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.
Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U.S.A.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples, loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. T. B. Elker is special agent for the Chicago Herald and his office in New York city is at No. 50 Tribune Building. He is a strong, virile man, not the sort of person to often require medicines; and is specially opposed to pills of any sort, finding them too violent in their action. In case of any irregularity he had always relied upon the use of fruits, until one day on a railway journey a friend directed his attention to Ripans Tabules and gave him some from a box he had in his portmanteau. He made use of them when occasion offered, and the result in his case was all that could be desired. He now depends upon Ripans Tabules entirely in the case of any irregularity of the bowels or derangement of the digestive apparatus. Mr. Elker is a picture of health and manly vigor, is a hearty eater, and he regards a Tabule after a hearty meal as a sort of insurance policy against future ills of any sort.

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 12 cents.

TEXAS
— VIA —
Wabash Line

Do you know that the farmer has more opportunities for making money in TEXAS than almost any State in this great country? Interest yourself in the subject and see how true this is.

REMEMBER, THE WABASH

Is the Great Steel Rail Highway to all points West and Southwest. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address the nearest Agent of the Wabash System, or write to,

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C.
Successfully Prosecutes Claims
Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau
3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

F. W. N. U. - - - No. 34—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

.....THE.....

GRAND WIND-UP

Of this season's business is now to commence. Everything must be turned into cash by September 1. Here is what we propose to do:

COMMENCING AUG. 3,

AND

ENDING SEPTEMBER 1,

We will sell any SUIT in our house, no matter what kind, light or heavy weight, at

ONE-HALF PRICE

This means a saving to you of 50 cents on every $1.00 worth of goods you buy.

Boys' Clothing,
Children's Clothing.
Men's Odd Pants,
Boys' Odd Pants,
Children's Knee Pants.

New suits can be bought from us cheaper than old ones can be mended.

Globe Clothing & Shoe Co.,

Gandy Block, AUBURN, IND.

Closing Out!

TAN SHOES AND SLIPPERS

JUST LOOK AT THE PRICES.

One lot Ladies' and Misses' Oxfords, mostly small sizes, worth $1 to $1.75, for	50c
25 prs. Ladies' & Misses' Tan Oxfords, worth $1.25,	$ .90
Ladies' " " " 2.00,	1.40
" " " " " 2.50,	1.75

MEN'S TAN SHOES:

One lot Men's Tan Shoes worth $2.00 for	$1.50
" " " " " 2.50 for	1.75
" " " " " 4.00 for	2.50
" " " Black Shoes, worth 3.00 to 4.00 for	2.00

These are all desirable goods and worth the marked price, but are broken lots and must go to make room for fall stock that is beginning to arrive.

Shull's Cash Shoe Store. AUBURN.

Smoke

THE

"DINGER!"

E. M. BISHOP,

AUBURN.

CASH

Paid for

Scrap Cast Iron

At

Auburn Foundry AND Machine Works

TRY

GELLER'S

....CELEBRATED.....

Ice Cream

AT THE NEW

ICE CREAM PARLOR

SECOND DOOR NORTH of KRUGER'S GROCERY

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,.....AUGUST 22, 1895.

INJURED BY RATTLESNAKES.

A Terrible Visitation Sent Upon a Little Town in Florida.

For a week a reign of terror has existed here, owing to the invasion of the town by an army of rattlesnakes, says a Tavarez (Fla.) dispatch to the St. Louis Globe Democrat. The reptiles are of all ages and sizes and have practically taken possession of the town. No woman or child dares venture out of doors, and when the men go out their legs are incased in stout leather leggings which reach to the thighs and are armed with clubs with which to dispatch the serpents. The advance guard of this army of rattlers appeared just a week ago, and since then the snakes have come in such numbers that it is estimated that there are now 1,000 within the corporate limits of the town. Last Sunday as Mayor Yorke and his family were going to church they met the advance guard. It consisted of two old rattlers about five feet long, each with twelve rattles and a button, and a dozen smaller reptiles. The mayor and his family beat a retreat, and the city's magistrate called for neighbors to assist him in dispatching the reptiles. This brood was killed, but before it was done shouts from different quarters of the town announced the approach of more snakes. Since then the men have been busy killing the reptiles. It is said that 400 snakes have been killed and still the town is full of them. Their warning rattle is heard at all hours and on all sides. The dogs made a gallant fight against the reptilian army, but nearly all have been bitten and are dead. Several horses have also died of snake bites. So far no person has been bitten, though there have been several narrow escapes. Mrs. Sallie Jacobs had the most remarkable escape. While washing linen in the yard she put her 2-year-old baby in a dry-goods box near by. Soon Mrs Jacobs heard the baby laughing and looking around was horrified to see an immense rattler coiled behind the box. The mother rushed for the baby and the snake struck at her, fastening its fangs in her clothing. Her screams brought her husband, who killed the rattler. The snakes came from a hammock at the foot of St. Clair Abrams avenue. The council has voted an appropriation, and the hammock will be cleared and the home of the snakes destroyed.

CLASSIFICATION OF PLANTS.

Linnæus First Saw the Necessity of Bringing All Descriptions Together.

Linnaeus saw the necessity of bringing together all the descriptions of plants already existing, and of wording them in such a way that, without losing anything essential in the description, they should occupy the smallest possible space. Such a condensed description is now known as a diagnosis. When he had accumulated a considerable number of diagnoses he saw that it was difficult to find one's way through them, and he set about arranging them after some of the most striking characteristics which did not necessarily indicate relationship, but were simply as a means of classification and recognition. He took for this first the number of stamens, bringing all plants with one stamen in the flower together, all with two, three, four, five, ten, etc., into their several classes, in this way creating the groups of the Monandra, Decandra, Polyandra, etc. Having done this, he recognized that a subdivision of these groups was desirable; that many plants with the same number of stamens yet differed considerably among one another; and these smaller groups he called genus, plural genera. Such a genus now, for example, is the buttercup, which he called Ranunculus. He saw that further subdivision could take place, and that there were a great many plants which, though evidently all buttercups, yet differed sufficiently to be distinct. So he resolved to give every plant two names, the first one being the genus name, here Ranunculus, the second one expressing some property of that particular kind of Ranunculus, and thus indicating the species. Thus he found, for example, that one buttercup had an acrid taste, and he called it the acrid buttercup—in Latin, Ranunculus acris; that another one always grew on marshy places; he called it the marsh buttercup—in Latin, Ranunculus palustris, etc.

One Aspect of Jury Service.

The diet of hotels, consisting of rich meats and desserts in great variety, is usually different from the average food of the average jurymen, particularly of the working class. The result is always overeating and under-exercise. This alone would quickly break up or disorder the mental activities. In addition to this, the confinement in the bad air of court rooms brings new sources of poisoning, particularly deficient oxidation, which of itself is sufficient to derange the normal brain functions. The crowded rooms at hotels are either overheated and badly ventilated or cold and noisy. The time for retiring and rising varies, and the usual habits of the juryman are changed in every respect. His accustomed food, sleep, and exercise, and his manner of thinking and the subject of his thoughts, all are broken up. He is asked to follow an intricate chain of reasoning, and discriminate the errors, and told that this is true and that is true, and that the law should lead him to some other point. He is flattered, and his pride is roused to do the best he can. He grows more incapacitated daily as the evidence accumulates and his system becomes deranged. Then, in despair, he will suddenly form some conclusion guided by a fancy for some attorney or some remark by the judge.

Kaiser's Special Train Cost $600,000.

The German Emperor's imperial train consists of twelve saloons, connected by corridors, and cost $600,000. It contains a drawing room, furnished in white satin; a dining room, paneled and furnished in oak; a library, hung with gobelin tapestry; a reception room, ornamented with elaborate pieces of statuary; two nursery carriages and three sleeping saloons, besides ample accommodation for the suite and servants.—Sketch.

Miss X. Scores a Point.

Miss X.—I'm going to send this item about our five o'clock tea to the Weekly Gossiper.

Miss Y.—They won't take it. You've written on both sides of the paper.

Miss X.—Dear me, I don't see why they need be so stiff about it. They print on both sides of their own paper, don't they?—Roxbury Gazette.

The Eckhart Switch

Workmen are busily engaged in laying the steel rails on the new switch which runs from the Wabash railroad to the Eckhart Carriage factory. That part of the work will probably be completed in a day. And then the ballasting will begin. The switch runs to the road, that passes the factory and along the east side of the blacksmith shop. Mr. Ruhl and his men are moving some building to day up near the switch and making room for the new building which will be erected soon. We were informed the new addition to the factory would be 60x80 feet two stories high. This will be built near the switch also. When all this work is completed, the Eckhart Carriage factory will be in shape to turn out work enough to supply their customers. We hope so at least. The enlargement of this factory and building of this switch means a big thing to Auburn. A good many more men will be given employment.

Had To Wait.

There was a serious hitch in the proceedings at the grave of Mrs. Baird yesterday. As noted in the issue yesterday they were to have a stone vault that was coming overland from New Carlisle. But it had not arrived here when the coffin was lowered into the grave and there was no other way, but to wait for it. J. R. Palmer and Mr. Aber were in charge of the grave, and Mr. Aber staid up and watched all night. About 11 p. m. the team having the vault arrived, and early this morning workmen were secured who helped to put in the coffin and have the vault properly placed in the grave. It was then filled and covered over nicely. Not a drop of rain had fallen nor had the dew dampened the coffin, and everything had been carefully protected.

Help Your Town.

An exchange gives the following good suggestions as to how to build up your own town. They are well said and should be remembered by every citizen: "If you want your town to improve, improve it. If you want to make your town lively, make it so. Don't go to sleep, but get up and work for it, talk for it and favorably. If you have property, improve it, paint your house, clean up your alleys and back yards. Make your surroundings pleasant and you will feel better and your property will be worth more in the market. If you are doing reasonably well advise your friends to come and invest near you. Work for your home interests, trade at home, help your dealers, keep your money at home as much as possible, and it is likely to help you in return. The successful towns have been made by property owners working together. Public improvements is an investment that pays. Don't waste your time over quarrels and hold back your aid from good objects through spite, but work for some good and you will find yourself benefited.

Not All Tramps

There is probably no trade that furnishes more tramps than that of the printer. Nearly every day one drops into the office and begs a dime to get a lunch. Others ask to work that they may earn enough to buy a lunch. And there are those who actually want to work. The Goshen Daily Times has this to say of a young man from Alaska who dropped into their office last week.

He goes by the name of George Spencer and is 23 years of age, born in Australia from Mississippi parentage. His father was a confederate soldier and at the close of the Rebellion enlisted and fought in a Mexican war, then emigrated to Australia. The boy was thrown upon his own resources and has wandered around the world. During the past four years he has lived in Alaska, 1,410 miles up the Yukon river at a mining station, and is now going east.

This young, curly haired, southern-appearing man, dropped in on The Times just when needed, and startled the office by his great rapidity as a type-setter. The average compositor sets up from five to six thousand ems of type a day. Spencer broke the record the first day by fifteen thousand, and the next day by twenty thousand. He is probably the most speedy type-setter that ever came to Goshen, and as he neither drinks, smokes, chews nor uses profane language, we consider him quite a prodigy in the line of a journeyman printer. He is intelligent, can operate a type-writer excellently, is a good paragrapher, and a handy all around man. The Times regrets to to part with such a man, and hopes he will find permanent employment somewhere.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,... p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.	12 25	5 25	7 58
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	14	10 50
Jackson	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 pm
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc.	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 54	9 45
Fort Wayne	5 25	5 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

A GRAND SUCCESS

THE CORN BINDER STARTED ON CAL HUSSELMAN'S FINE FARM NORTH OF TOWN.

Farmers From DeKalb, Noble, Steuben and Whitley Counties Present.

Tuesday's Daily.

At 1:30 this afternoon quite a procession started out to the handsome farm of Cal. Husselman, a mile or so north of town to witness the start of a McCormick CornCutter and Binder. Brown Culbertson & Boland were agents for the machine and to introduce it to the farmers they cut about one acre of corn on Mr. Husselman's farm. More than two hundred men from DeKalb, Noble, Steuben and Whitley county were present and followed the machine. It seemed to work to the entire satisfaction of all The corn was, of course green and very tender, which in one way was better for the machine and in another was not. The green corn cut easier, but was so brital that it did not work so well in the grippers. Yet taking everything into consideration it is grand success. The machine is balanced so as to not make it heavy on the horses' neck. It is adjustable and can be set to cut the corn any distance from the ground. Corn that is blown down can be taken up with the machine and bound as well as the corn that stands up straight. Some of the men present tramped the corn to the ground, laying it from the machine. This it did not get as the attachments for down corn were not on and in fact were at the store of Brown Culbertson & Boland. They were sent for, however, but the COURIER representative left before they arrived. We interviewed several farmers as to their opinion of the binder and they pronounced it a success. It is said that ten acres can be cut in a day with the machine. Two men can shock the corn after the binder. One gentlemen held his watch and said it took just 53 seconds to cut an average shock of corn.

Church Bequest

We had not time, owing to the lateness of the hour, to give a very full account of the bequests left by the late Mrs. Sophia Baird. After the funeral was over, and the friends had returned from the cemetery to the home, many of the relatives were there, and quite a number of her intimate friends and neighbors had come in, when some one suggested it would be a pleasure to have the will read. W. H. Leas, who had written the will, said there would be no no objection as far as he knew, and he then went and got G. W. Stahl, one of the witnesses to come over, and hear it read. Then in the presence of all, Mr. Leas read the document. It was rather a dramatic scene for all were interested to hear what it contained, though no one except Mr. Leas and Mr. Stahl knew its contents. When "item 6" was reached, the one giving the $500 to the Presbyterian church, it almost took the breath of some of the members who were present. Some of them shed tears, tears of thankfulness, for the church has need of help. The other items followed as we published them yesterday, except that it was stated that besides these cash bequests, the balance of her property should be divided among her nieces and nephews. Then, the leading articles of her household and personal effects were given to different relatives, chiefly the younger ones. Her gold watch and all her jewelry she gave to her niece, Mrs. Thompson. This was a surprise, but all were glad, for Mrs Thompson has, since the will was made had trouble enough to make this bright spot in her life seem all the brighter.

What Ails You?

If you have sudden darting pains in the joints or muscles, and it recurs every time you get cold, and appears in new places without leaving any of old ones, the best thing to do is to send five dollars to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, for a month's treatment of Dr Drummond's Lightning Remedy for Rheumatism. They will send you two large bottles of their remedy by return express. If you have the above symptoms you have the Rheumatism, and should begin at once with the known cure. Delay with any disease is dangerous—with Rheumatism it is simply suicidal. Agents wanted. 34 35

Auburn Junction

A young boy by the name of Clark, from Garrett was arrested by Mr. Stoner, this morning for stealing a box of tobacco from the B. & O. and Wabash transfer house about a week ago. The Wabash chief detective took out the papers for his arrest yesterday but could not find him. There are five or six boys all from Garrett implicated. Two of the boys mistrusted that the officials were after them and gave the whole secret away to F. H. Boyle.

The Hoop Factory broke one of their main belts in four pieces Saturday and have closed until a new one arrives.

Elmer Wildeson from east of town reports that some one is plugging some of his green watermelons. One was plugged on the bottom side and a stake stuck up by the side of it, Mr. Wildeson was close at hand at the time and probably it will not be good for the same party to try it again.

AUBURN, IND, Aug. 19, 1895.

DEAR WIFE:—

Your letter of the 10th at hand, and will answer immediately.

I must write you a good long letter and tell you what I have been doing. You will hardly know me when you come home. I am fitted out from head to foot in clothing and furnishings. I did not intend to purchase yet, but G. H. Yesbera's new stock of Fall and Winter Clothing, Overcoats, Hats and Caps, are all in and I found just what I wanted, and the prices are way down. I got an all wool clay worsted frock suit for $12.50 that is a beauty, and sets just like a tailor made, and the nicest Pedora hat for for $1.25, and I can get a nice cheviot suit for Jim for six dollars, all wool.

And overcoats—you ought to see them I believe there is enough to supply the whole state, from $2.50 up. Tell your folks that it will pay them big to come here, if it is a hundred miles, to buy their winter clothes. Come home as soon as you can so we can fit the boys out while the stock is new and fresh. You need not make any purchases in the city for you can do just as well and get anything you want at G. H. YESBERA'S Mammoth Clothing and Furnishing House.

Yours Sincerely,

BY CHEAP.

Is Very Popular.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhœa, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord 31-35

Notice of Hearing of Ditch Petition.

In the matter of the petition of Sarah A. Mortoff and others of Smithfield township, notice is hereby given that a petition has been filed with the Auditor of DeKalb county state of Indiana, and viewers have been appointed who have viewed and reported said view which is on file in my office. The hearing of said petition upon its merits will be on Thursday the 5th of September, 1895, the same being the 4th day of their September term, 1895 of Commissioners' Court.

The prayer of said petition is that a ditch be constructed on the following route to-wit:

Beginning thirty (30) rods west and three hundred and twenty (320) feet north of the south east corner of the southwest fourth of the north east quarter of section four (4) of Smithfield Township, DeKalb county, State of Indiana and from thence in a southwesterly and southeasterly course until it enters the M. P. Barker drain of said Smithfield Township and there to end. said ending being two hundred and thirty-two (232) feet north of the southwest corner of the northwest fourth of the northeast quarter of section fifteen (15) of said Smithfield township, DeKalb county, Indiana.

This proposed work will affect the lands of the following persons:

Orlando Elliott, and	Eliza A. Elliott,
John D. Miller,	Michael Zircher,
Jonn Gramling	Peter H. Gramling,
William B. Conrad,	Sarah A. Mortorff,
Ira Jackson'	Sarah Mortorff,
Tracy Conrad;	Marshal H. Dunlap
Zidania Grear,	Jane Gibbs,
Sarah J. Fisher,	John Hammond,
Lewis Chapman,	Charles Parish,
Esther Snowberger,	Thomas Hammond,
Baltzer R. Shoudel,	Nathan Elliot,
Joseph E. Rohm,	Joseph Hohl,
Smithfield Township	Richard Gramling,

Fort Wayne and Jackson Branch of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railroad, Grant L. Dunlap.

F. A. BORST,
Auditor DeKalb Co.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Hulbert L. Sheets impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, on note and in attachment by William Huffman and that the same will be heard and determined on the 14th day of October 1895 being the 7th juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7. 1895.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 21st day of August 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

D. Y. Husselman, Att'y. 34-36

GOOD FARM FOR SALE.

One mile and a half south of Auburn, the old A. D. Goetschius farm of 110 acres, in good condition. Good brick house and other good buildings. For terms inquire at the farm.

A. D. GOETSCHIUS jr.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

On August 28 to September 5, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at a rate of one fare for the round trip, account of the National Local Preachers' Association Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until September 7, 1895.

For further information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Ill.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

First National Bank

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, if left six months. County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph
Calls promptly answered at all times.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Can be found in office both Day and Night.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett,

J. P. Crimmins,
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE.

Notice is hearby given that the undersigned administrator of the estate of Margaret Sheets, deceased, will sell at public sale, at the late residence of said decedent, one mile south of Auburn, in Jackson township, in the county of DeKalb, and state of Indiana, on.

Saturday August 24, 1895,

the personal property of the decedent, consisting of growing crops, household goods and other articles. Sale to commence at 1 o'clock p. m.

TERMS.

All sums of five dollars and under cash; sums of over five dollars a credit of nine months will be given by the purchaser giving his note with approved security, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws.

R. S. S. REED, Administrator
J. E. & J. H. Rose, Att'ys. 31-33

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION.

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the state of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of James A. Hammond deceased late of said County.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JAMES A. S. HAMMOND,
Aug. 6, 1895. Administrator.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit court, of the State of Indiana, Executor of the estate of Sophia L. Baird, deceased, late of said county

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WM. H. LEAS, Executor.
August 19, 1895.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb Circuit court of the state of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Albert Spurgin deceased late of said county

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN L. WILDERSON,
August 19, 1895. Administrator.
HARTMAN, Att'y for Estate.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

INSTITUTE WEEK.

Have you made up your list of articles necessary to make your Winter's Work pleasurable and comfortable.

DO NOT FORGET

that Bishop & Lackey have largely exceeded all previous efforts in merchandising in DeKalb County.

BETTER DRESS GOODS.

Pick up any one of the half hundred styles shown here and you will find a texture, dye and finish that are vastly ahead of the ordinary article. Careful buying does it for you, for us, and the prices are on a low level.

UNDERWEAR.

Low prices because bought cheap. We let the manufacturer overstock—it would be bad merchandising for us to do so. Over 6,000 pieces of knit Underwear in our store now. These are fresh from the manufacturer and ⅓ underpriced.

HOSIERY.

All grades suitable for the fall and winter season in all wool, wool-mixed, fleece-lined and cotton goods for men, women and children. 400 Doz. now under our roof, bought before the advance.

FURS AND CLOAKS.

We are showing a very large line of stylish Fur Garments, prices could not be duplicated if we bought them.

COTTONS ARE UP

everywhere but here. We laid in a stock when they were cheap and now you can buy a fall supply and save something.

BLANKETS

in August seem rather out of season. We have almost Five Hundred that we bought this year, before the advance in prices. As an inducement for you to buy now, we make prices less than later on.

WE HAVE

the finest show rooms in DeKalb County, also some of the most courteous salespeople, and what will interest you more—sharp buyers say our prices are right. You are free to come and look; we won't press you to buy.

Bishop & Lackey,

LEADING MERCHANTS.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood, Excessive Use of Opium and Tobacco all of which leads to Insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

LEAVE YOUR ORDERS

- SEPT 1 -

For the

FINEST ENLARGED PICTURES

——Known to Art.——

J. G. CLAPP

DeKalb County's Renowned Photographer,

Will have the Finest and Best PORTRAIT ARTIST ever come to the County.

COME EARLY, SAVE MONEY

And get the BEST. Any size picture framed from the newest style Mouldings. VIEWS made on short notice, See our

NEW - STYLE - PHOTOS

Annual Century Rnu

For September 2d promises to be largely attended by eight, ten, twelve and sixteen hour men and it is possible there will be a number of ladies in the push.

Century Riding is becoming a very popular sport in many parts of the country and is doing more for good roads than all other organizations combined.

RULES GOVERNING CENTURY RUNS.

Actual period of time allowed 16 hours No century allowed which is ridden upon a course less than twenty miles in length. The entire distance must be covered awheel or afoot and no travel by train Riders should be accompanied by others if possible.

New riders not attempt riding a century in less than twelve to sixteen hours.

Blank forms for membership or bars may be obtained from the secretary or district Centurian.

New members may obtain bars for all Centuries made within the year previous to application provided claim or affidavit is filed with application.

Certificates of Membership are issued two weeks after applicants name is published in "Official Organ" viz Cycling Life, Chicago.

Orders for gold bars may be obtained from the secretary within fifteen days after riding 100 miles within 16 hours, and can be forwarded to the official Jeweler.

The object of roads is for the revolution of wheels. America produces the best wheels in the world and should have the best roads. "Wheel talk."

WORKED ALL RIGHT.

AUBURN IND., Aug. 20, 1895

G. N. Frazier
Gen'l Agt., McCormick Harvester Co.
Kalamazoo Mich.

DEAR SIR: Messrs Brown, Culbertson & Boland, of Auburn Ind., have this day started one of your corn harvesters on my farm in the presence of a great crowd of people and the result was a complete surprise to all. The machine does good work in all kinds of corn and undoubtedly is the greatest labor saving machine since the wheat harvester was made. The machine will cut from 10 to 12 acres per day and put it in good shape for shocking and will be a great boon to dairymen who cut corn for the silo. It puts it in the best shape possible for cutting for ensilage. I feel like endorsing your trade-mark when you say that "What we say we do, we do do."

Yours respectfully,
Cal Husselman.

The above was endorsed by all who were present, as evidenced by the signatures below. No one refused to sign it but the crowd were nearly all gone before a testimonial was thought of.

John Shugers	Harry Reed
Wm. Merica	John Heitz
Allen Lutz	S. J. Tarney.

Allen Lutz the man who ordered the corn binder was present and took it home with him after the exhibition. Geo. Newcomer and sons, from Franklin township, were also present and placed an order for a corn binder.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Geo. Grogg and little daughter Doris wish us to thank on their behalf, the kind friends and neighbors who showed so much kindness and sympathy during their late sad bereavement.

We are pleased to see ex-clerk D. Y. Husselman getting a good share of legal work, as shown by the frequent notices we are now publishing for him.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Wednesday's Daily.

Dr. W. W. Carey was at St. Joe yesterday the guest of his mother.

Miss Ella Bunge and Miss Carrie Pomeroy returned to Butler this morning after spending a day with J. E. Pomeroy.

H. E. Longfellow and Frankie Glazier were married Saturday at Angola. The COURIER extends congratulations.

G. W. Reed came back yesterday from Michigan where his present home is. He says they are all getting along well up there.

Leave orders at the Fair View fruit farm for fine raspberry bushes. Any variety you wish, red or black. A. G. Lodewick, Prop. 31 33

The Degree of Honor ladies have purchased a new organ and put it in the A. O. U. W. lodge room. This was quite a surprise to the A. O. U. W. boys and will be highly appreciated.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

Judge McClelian has put into his residence, office and bank rooms a complete system of electric bells He can "press the button" for any part of the building. We believe this is the first in town.

Read the new ad of Lung's Restaurant and Lunch Room. They are located two doors north of Kruger's grocery on Main street. They take boarders by the day or week, and also carry a fine line of tobacco, cigars, candies and fruits.

J. A. Chapman of Badger township, Vernon county, Mo. had a cow Monday. which committed suicide by drowning The animal stuck her head through the forks of a tree on a creek bank and then jumped off, leaving her body suspended from the tree over the creek. When Chapman found the cow she was dead.

Thursday's Daily:

Chas. Kruse is erecting a new house in the south part of town.

Miss Nellie Franks is visiting friends near Summit this week.

Hugh Culbertson drove to Spencerville, yesterday on a business trip.

Dr. Siver of Ft. Wayne was in town last night. He returned home this morning.

Will Wile returned this morning from Butler where he was the guest of a friend.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

Carl Brown is now riding a new Chainless bicycle, a gift from his father on his 11th birthday which was yesterday.

The Foundry is nearly completed in all departments and it is indeed a model. They are prepared to do any kind of work.

The roof is all on the north side of the opera house. And in a few days it will all be under a fine roof made of steel shingles.

Mrs. R. D. Tefft sent up a fine bunch of plums from her garden. We do not know the name, but if they all bear like this branch, a small tree will do a family.

The bicycle will have its influence in local elections hereafter. The cyclers will vote only for persons for township trustee who are in favor of good roads.

G. A. Bishop's fine yard and residence drew many admiring callers Sunday. It was the lovely display of gold-banded Japan lilies that called for the admiration of all. They are plants of rare beauty.

Two of the biggest logs we have seen for years, came into town yesterday. They were oak and must have been at least four feet in diametor. They were for the band sawmill.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

We were mistaken in the young man's name who drowned at Rome City last Monday. It was William Altimus. His body was found Tuesday morning where the water was about fourteen feet deep. It was near the place where Ben Gerber and wife drowned several years ago.

The men who make the world move think little of the misfortunes of the past. Their faces are always turned to future They are always on the lookout for opportunities to improve their condition and they know that improvement must be the result of labor by them.

There were at least five birthdays in town yesterday: Mrs. Henry Baker, Master Carl Brown, Mrs. G W. Askew, Miss Nellie Boyer and Mrs. J. A. Barns—all of the same age, apparenty. Nellie Boyey celebrated hers by having Mrs. Barns to tea with her. She is a very nice little entertainer.

While at work in the Foundry at the Junction Tuesday afternoon a Mr. Robbins was badly hurt about the head. He was grinding some small pieces of iron on an emery wheel when the wheel burst in many pieces and striking him in the head. The accident was quite a painful one and will lay him up for some time.

Thousands of bushels of peaches and apples will be lost in the vicinity of West Plains, Mo., for the want of means to take care of them. There are 157,000 barrels of good apples in sight there. The government authorities state that the biggest and best apple crop raised in many years west of the Allegbany mountains will be gathered this year.

A Wabash woman has been bothered by a cat which killed her chickens and, not being able to induce any of her male friends to kill it, she caught the feline the other day, and holding it by the neck at arm's length, shot it full of holes with a revolver. The Nineteenth century woman is right at the top of the heap.

Friday's Daily.

Choice Berkshire sow and pigs for sale or will trade for wheat. A. G. Lodewick. 31-33

Mrs. Edward Elson of Conton O, and Miss Laura Shutt os Spencerville were calling on friends this here afternoon.

FOR SALE,—all kinds of small fruit trees and bushes, most popular varieties at much less than agents' prices. Call at Fairview farm north of town.

Miss Millie Kester a former teacher in DeKalb County but now of Chicago, is in the city for a few days' visit with her cousin, Mrs. A. Lewis, and other friends

Luther Hoffman goes in a few days to his new field of labor as a teacher, having recovered his health by the past year's labor on the farm. His new work is in the Woodson Institute at Richmond Mo.

Mrs. Anna Shugers returned to her home at Coldwater, Mich, this morning. She was accompanied by Mrs. Minnie Brandon, who will remain her guest several days.

Wm. Walsworth was overcome with the heat yesterday afternoon, or as they said in early days, was "bushed." He was painting in the hot sun and it proved too much for him. He will be all right in a day or so we hope.

Educators know that it is in the preparatory courses that the pupil needs the best instruction. "Rightly begun is half done." To begin right enter the Fall Term of the F. N. U. Aug. 27th.

Last night some bums broke into a store at the Junction and stole some tobacco and cigars. It is thought to be some fellows who were camping near the Junction. Marshal West went down there this afternoon to investigate the matter

Elizabeth Wentworth is the captain of a canal boat in New Jersey. She is 62 years old and has captained her own boat for 40 years and is worth $50,000. The cabin is luxuriously furnished. She married a man because he could lift more than she.

Mr. Lackey of the firm of Bishop and Lackey has rented Mrs. Gillian's fine brick residence on north Main street and will move into it in a short time. The house has been occupied by two families, Mr York and Will Eckhart. Mr, York has rented rooms in the south end and Mr. Eckhart will store his goods.

G. W. Lackey has sold his stock of goods at Garrett. The clothing and shoes were sold to Rehyers, and the dry goods to Bishop & Lackey of this place. Mr. Lackey's store room at Garrett will be occupied by Mr. Rehyer. Mr. Lackey moves to Auburn, where our people will extend him a hearty welcome.

Miss Mamie Long is finding more of her old-time acquaintances, than she expected, and is about every day asked to tea with some of them. Wednesday she and Nellie Barns were entertained by Mrs. A. C. Robbins at her fine residence at the north end, and Thursday, by Mrs. Geo. Chapman. Both occasions were very enjoyable reunions.

Auditor Borst, wife and two children, Charlie and Ruthie went to Ohio on a visit last night on the evening B. & O. train. They will make a visit with Mr. Borst's father at Aultman in Stark county and we presume with other friends. Mr. Borst has been for many years tied up in the office here, and this will prove a rest long needed. We hope all will enjoy it.

Mrs. Coop Ralston knows the kind of liquor to please the taste of a democratic editor, cider, nothing stronger. Let republicans cling to red liquor if they want to. It is 16 to 1 it will get them down sooner or later. But this cider was the first fruits of the season, being made August 15, and the scriptures say the first should be divided. First or last, t was very nice, anyhow.

Saturday's Daily:

Read about the corn cutting machine of which Brown, Culbertson & Boland have a notice this week.

W. A. Goodrich, of Morenci was here this afternoon and went up into Fairfield with his brother David Goodrich. He came down mainly to pay up some ditch expenses on his farm in Fairfield, and is now talking of putting up a new house on the farm for son Marion.

There is nothing certain about the electric street car line being built between Fort Wayne and Columbia City. It now appears that Mr. Everett only wants the Allen county commissioners to grant a franchise to Lake Everett. If the road was completed from Fort Wayne to the lake there would be a question as to whether it would even be continued to Columbia City.

The entire roof of the new Opera House is now completed, Yesterday, the workmen put on steel shingles in the terrible heat of the sun, and at time it was next to impossible to handle them, they were so hot. And the paint or whatever it is on them, would at times be almost melted, making the shingles sticky to handle. The men, as they came down at six, looked half broiled. This is the hottest job to be done, the rest of the work being mostly under cover.

The president of the Fayette Normal University, Fayette, O. would be glad to have those of our readers who are interested in education to send to him for a catalogue. There are many things to commend this excellent school to parents or to any energetic young man or woman desiring the best advantages. Fall term open Aug. 27.

Rev. W. F. Pierce.

Rev. W. F. Pierce of DeWitt, Iowa is the new pastor at the Baptist church. He will preach his first sermon here next Sunday morning at 10.45 There will be no services in the evening. Every body is cordially invited. The COURIER extends a hearty welcome to the new pastor.

Monday's Daily.

The people of Maysville, Ind. are erecting a fine U. B. church at that place.

Don't forget the County Teachers' Institute the 26th to 30th of this month.

Miss Laura Sawyel returned to her home at Butler to-day.

The Foundry shipped a car load of castings to-day.

L. Spitler and wife and his mother went to Cedarville to-day to attend the funeral of Henry Tonkie.

Lyman Ashelman went up to Coldwater, Mich., to-day to spend a few days with friends.

Will McDowell was in the city over Sunday. He rode over on his wheel but took the train to return.

Squire John Grube came up to our sanctum to day. Time deals gently with him and one sees little change in his appearance or mental vigor from twenty years ago.

Sam Maurer brought the COURIER force a lot of fine pears Saturday. They created a wave of pleasure in the minds of the "force," but it was hard on the pears.

John Bishop and wife and two children of Plainwell, Mich. are in the city the guests of relatives and friends. They have been visiting at Spencerville and St. Joe a few days.

Little Nellie Barnes daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Barnes of Ft. Wayne is visiting the family of her uncle Co. Supt. Merica. She is a bright miss and we think the COURIER office ought to adopt her.

Rev. Shirley, of Albion was in the city to-day having been called there to preach the funeral of Mrs. Baird.

Remember the sale of personal prop- of the late Mrs. Margaret Sheets, is now set for 1 o'clock of Aug. 24. See notice. 31-33

Chas. E. Miller, optician who successfully corrects all classes of errors of refraction, will again be at Yesbera's jewelry store, Saturday, Aug. 24th. Eyes carefully examined for glasses.

F. E Davenport, assignee of the J. L. Davis matter, made his fourth payment on claims to-day. It was 17 cents on the dollar this time, making 65 cents now in all. This is a great deal better showing than the most of the people ever thought possible.

Will Pepple of Concord, was up to see us Saturday. He is still afflicted with the swellings on his neck, the result of the measles. It is a pretty bad case, for though able to be about, he can do no work. But being a young man, we hope he may get right in time.

Mrs. E. O. Boltz of Specerville mother of Dr. Carey arrived in the city this afternoon. She leaves to-morrow morning for Boston and White Mountains.

The late Mrs. Sophie Baird left a will, which was executed December 23, 1891, written by W. H. Leas, and witnessed by R. Sawyel and G. W. Stahl. The bequests are, $500 to the Presbyterian church; $50 to John Cowan Leas; $50 to Fred. A. Leas; $100 to W. H. Leas; $50 to Ruth Leas, a grand niece; besides fifteen other bequests of a miscellaneous character. W. H. Leas is named as executor.

A handcar brought down from Angola Sunday, quite a number of guests for the family of J. R Steves. They were Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Purington and their children, D. B. and Hezel; Mr. Gabbitt and wife, Bert Kra'ze, and the two daughters of W. J. Wallace and wife at Hudson, Effie and Bessie. The two last named had been visiting at Angola, and so all made a party to come together. Nine on one handcar made a pretty good load, but they were as fresh as daisies when they got here. Bessie and Effie called on their young friends here, as well as the COURIER family, and all were surprised to see how they had grown since they had lived here.

Frank Gregg one of the carriers of the DAILY COURIER had the misfortune to put his ankle out of joint last evening. He and another lad named Geo. Kelley were near the M. E. church just before evening. Frank made some joking remark when George ran after him as if to catch him. As Frank turned to run, his foot twisted and he fell flat to the ground where he lay and struggled as if hurt. Several who saw him thought he was in fun, but as he did not rise, they went to him and found he had fainted. George Ralston and Bert Casbeeer picked him up and carried him home, meeting his folks who were just starting out to church for evening service. The lad was taken charge of and means used to keep the injured ankle from swelling till Dr. Nusbaum could come, when he put it in place. He will be laid up a week or so and in the meantime Brad, Ralston take his place.

St. Joe News:—The accident to Florence Buchanan, mention of which was made in last week's News, was bad enough, but not quite as serious as at first supposed. His collar bone was broken and he was terribly wrenched in the neck, so much so that he is barely yet able to move his head. Under the care of Dr. Bowman he is getting along as well as could be expected. Mrs. Buchanan was just completing arrangements to visit her son in Colorado, but of course had to abandon the trip after this accident.

The Lake Shore company has ordered twenty more ten-wheel locomotives built, known as "hogs," which will do service instead of the ordinary locomotives, By the substitution of these locomotives on the divisions from this place, the crews have been reduced to some extent, as one of these engines finds no trouble in traveling along uninterruptedly with seventy cars, when fifty was considered an exceedingly heavy load previous to the change.—Elkhart Review.

Tuesday's Daily.

HAY BAILER.

N. Soule & Son have a steam hay baller and are ready to do custom work. w1t

Monday and Tuesday evenings of the Institute Lecture Course will be free.

Remember the great Institute Lecture Course begining Monday evening, Aug. 26.

Dr. A. J. Fish, of Toledo, Ohio, has been engaged as one of the lectures for the County Institute Lecture course.

Cal VanAuken went up to Lagrange to-day where he is attending to some matters pertaining to a big ditch.

County Institute begins here next Monday, at the M. E. church in Auburn. All remember date and place. tf

J. M. Widney returned yesterday from Lakeside, O., where he has been several months at that popular resort.

James Hoffman and wife returned to their home at Lafayette to-day.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Christian Foster, who lives four miles east of Albion died last night at the ripe old age of ninety-five years.

Miss Abbie Lipsett of Goshen is the guest in the family of D. Z. Hoffman this week.

The nickel social of the Lutheran church will meet Friday afternoon with Mrs. Porter on North Main street. d&w

Ruhl & Baker, who run a cider mill in Stamets Addition have added a steam evaporator and are now prepared to make jelly.

POSITION WANTED: By a young man willing to make himself useful. Is out of work and wants something to do. Call here.

Persons having accounts with Cowan Sisters will please call and settle within the coming ten days. Cowan Sisters. d6tw1t

Ed Luce, son of John Luce, near Maysville, was killed last week while working in a sawmill. He was thrown into a hole in the floor by the rope he was holding to control the running of the log car.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beidler drove up to Waterloo their old home Sunday morning to attend Sabbath School and church services and spent the day there with their old neighbors.

A bicycle was stolen at Hillsdale last night. A reward of $50 dollars is offered for the wheel and the man who stole it. A telegram was sent to Fort Wayne, Auburn and Waterloo to the proper authorities to watch for the wheel.

The Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church will give a supper in the basement from 5 to 7, Friday evening, Aug. 23. An extra good supper will be served and all are cordially invited. Mite 15.

The largest carpet in the world has been sent to the Pope by Belgian women. The carpet, or rug, is round, 16 yards in diameter, and was woven by 22 weavers. It contains 2,800,000 knots tied by hand.

Miss Maude Baker, Minnie Taylor and Frank Arnold came over from Kendallville yesterday on their wheels to call on the families of M. Boland, F. N. Beidler and other friends. They returned this morning, Miss Baker being called home by telephone.

The DAILY COURIER furnishes its readers the news before the so-called City papers do. We gave an account of the fire at Camden, Mich., last night and the Ft. Wayne Journal gave it to its readers this morning. Take the COURIER if you want the latest news.

The South Bend Tribune thinks some enterprising individual might make a good thing by taking a car load of rich earth into northern Michigan and start a healthy angle worm hatchery. Worms have to be imported there. They won't grow in the native sandy soil, and they sell for 10 cents a dozen at the lake resorts around Petoskey—poor little pale, tender skinned wigglers at that.

Among those in attendance at the funeral of Mrs. Baird coming from a distance there were from Waterloo, John Leas sr., W. H. H. K. D. L. and Obe Leas, R. M. Lockhart, Wellington Farrington, John C. Clark all with their wives, and Miss Jennie Patterson and Mrs. H. D. Boozer, From Angola were, Dr. E. R. Leas, and wife and his niece, Nora Leas, Ed Leas and wife and Geo. McConnell and sister Mrs. A S. Leas from Bryan, M. F. Long and wife from Butler, O. H. Taylor and Jeff Waterman from Franklin, Phil Noel and wife from Butler township. From Ashley, Hudson and Smithfield township were Phil Parnell and wife, Will Parnell and wife, Mrs. Isabel Leas and her daughters Mrs. Josie Whysong and Mrs. Alice Dietrick, and her sons John T. and Marvin Leas; M. V. Leas and wife, James Blake and wife, and Mrs. C. F. Thompson. There were no doubt many others not reported as there are many relatives on both sides.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,
DR.
PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER
MOST PERFECT MADE.
A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.
40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

100th Indiana.

The old One Hundredth Indiana will hold its annual reunion at Lagrange, Sept. 12. All the members and their families are cordially invited to attend and may feel assured that ample preparations have been made for them all.

Buler Chapel

The Butler Chapel Sabbath Schoo will give a picnic entertainment on the 24th day of August, 1895. The entertainment will be held in the grove on the land of Mr. Henry Smith, ½ mile north of Butler Chapel, Butler township, DeKalb county, Indiana. A cordial invitation is hereby given to all the surrounding Sabbath Schools and their friends to come and share the festivities of the day. Good music will be in attendance, Come one, come all, and let us make this a joyful day in the Lord.

PHILLIP NOEL,
Supt. Butler Chapel S. S.

Norris Chapel S. S. Picnic

Saturday of this week, Aug. 24, will be the picnic of the Sunday school at Norris Chapel. An excellent program is prepared including an address by Mrs Ehlers, which our people know is always good. Quite a number of other Sunday Schools will be present, and all will assist to make it a grand success. All others are invited. Arrangements have been made so there will be plenty of good water. There will also be ice cream etc. to be procured on the grounds.

CHANGED HANDS.

The Main street bakery conducted by Baker & Bauer has changed hands, Mr. Bauer retiring. Mr. Baker will conduct the business at the same stand and solicits a share of your patronage. Mr. Bauer has bought the Thomas Bros. out and will continue the business at their old stand on South Main street. Mr. Bauer is an experienced baker and solicits your patronage. He also carries a line of candies, cigars, tobacco and canned goods. We hope that these changes may prove beneficial for both Mr. Bauer and Mr. Baker, They are both well known to Auburn people and need no further recommendations.

Trustee's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the public and all interested that I will hold Friday of each week as my office day, and that all township business will be done on that day.

JOSEPH HUET,
3ttf Trustee of Fairfield Township.

BUTTER PACKAGE

A new article for package is now on the market, and will be sold by C. H. Crew of this place, to families both in town and country. It is a strong can of galvanized iron, inside of which is a thick glass can. The article can be used for milk, butter and the like and will prove very convenient, not only for keeping these articles, but for carrying to market. A top is fitted to the glass can in such a way that it is air tight. We think our people welcome Mr. Crew and this new and convenient article.

WHEEL ACCIDENT.

H. A. Lesh, Art Cool, Chas. Spake and Nan Phillips were up to Hamilton on their wheels Sunday. On their return, Mr. Lesh was "coasting" down a hill not far from Hamilton when his bicycle came apart so as to let the front wheel off and the frame fell to the ground. Mr. Lesh was thrown up into the air and when he struck the ground was considerably bruised about the head and face. He was taken to a house near by and a team engaged to bring him home. He is about his work again to-day and only slightly disfigured.

A Mail Agent's Experience.

Louis D. Brenneke, Wallhalla S. C, had Rheumatism for fifteen years, and during that time had never been free from pain. He tried the Hot Springs and physicians without benefit. After taking two bottles of Drummond's Lightning Remedy he wrote that he was free from pain, and able to take several long walks. If you want a cure, send $5 to th Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles—one month's treatment. Agents wanted 34 35

STATE FAIR, SEPT. 16 TO 21

The premium lists of the state fair which begins Sept. 16 are being distributed. Liberal premiums are offered in all classes, making it an object to anyone who may have meritorious articles to exhibit. Write to C. F. Kennedy, Indianapolis Ind., for a copy of the list.

NOTICE.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Notice is hereby given to all persons who have removed sand or gravel from my farm known as the Wesley Work farm in Butler township, DeKalb County, Ind., to desist from taking any more gravel or sand from said farm, and all who have taken sand or gravel in the past are hereby notified to settle for the same with me attorneys Woodhull & Gilbert, of Angola, Ind., if they wish to save costs.

FREDERICK VANDERCOOK
August 10, 1895. 33-34

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE.

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings of an Important Nature.

HOTEL HORROR.

Many Killed by an Explosion at Denver.

The Gumry hotal, Nos. 1725 to 1733 Lawrence street, Denver, Col., was wrecked by an explosion. The rear half of the building, a five-story brick and stone structure, went down with a crash. The hotel was crowded with guests and many of them must have been killed as well as the entire force of hotel employers, who were sleeping in the portion that fell. On both sides of Lawrence, from Seventeenth to Eighteenth streets, and on Larimer, directly back of the Gumry, the plate glass windows of the business houses were blown in and a number of the pedestrians were injured by falling glass. The fronts of many buildings in the vicinity were badly wrecked. The hotel structure for 100 feet along the alley and extending seventy-five toward the front is a mass of debris.

To add to the horror of the scene the ruins took fire and many of the unfortunates who were not killed outright by the crash were slowly burned to death. Their screams and pleadings that they be killed to save them from tortune by fire were piteous in the extreme, but the terror-stricken bystanders were powerless to render them any aid.

Twenty-one persons are known to be killed and a score or more injured.

There is no doubt that the disaster was caused by a boiler explosion. Frank Loescher, the engineer, it is said, was intoxicated, and, after turning a large quantity of cold water into the hot boiler, left the building ten minutes before the explosion occurred. The police are looking for him.

Six are Dead.

Mahaffey (Penn.) special: Six men were overcome and died from the effects of inhaling carbolic acid gas, and ten others were affected by the deadly fumes at the big cut at McGee's, on the new line of the Pittsburg and Eastern Railroad. Close to the scene of the disaster there is an old bituminus coal mine on the country bank, which had been abandoned for the past eight years. It is supposed that the blast made by an opening through the rocks into this old mine allowed the gas and fumes to escape into the cut where the steam shovel was located. The men were so suddenly overcome that they were unable to make their escape and died almost instantly.

Fatal Bicycle Collision.

Miss Gertrude Clinton, aged 16 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clinton, of Loveland, Ohio, who has been visiting relatives at Muncie, Ind., for some time, was fatally injured there while riding on a bicycle. She is but a learner, and was riding rapidly when she collided with a horse and buggy that was being driven very rapidly toward her. The end of the shaft struck Miss Clinton on the sixth rib, breaking three of the ribs and injuring her internally so that recovery is impossible. She was thrown to the ground, and the horse and buggy dashed upon her, mangling her badly. She was unconscious for some time, and her death is momentarily expected.

Pittsburg's Awful Storm.

Pittsburg special: Tuesday night's storm was the most terrific and destructive that has visited this city in many years. It came without warning and at a time when the parks were filled with people, and the rivers with boats crowded with excursionists. As far as is known at this time two lives were lost, a score of persons injured, two it is thought fatally, and property damaged to the extent of $100,000.

Threw the Baby Away.

A special from Greenville, Ohio, says: A woman, supposed to live in this city, got off the south-bound D. and T. train at Jaysville with a young baby. In a few minutes a man drove up in a buggy, into which the woman got, but before doing so, threw the baby over a fence into a barnyard. The act was observed and chase given, but the pair escaped.

To Flood the Mines.

Marquette (Mich.) special: Orders have been given at all large mines involved in the strike for the fires to be drawn out and in some cases for the pumps to be raised from the mines. This means that the companies have decided to let the mines fill with water, and that operations will not be resumed before winter sets in.

Blew Church Walls Down.

The United Presbyterian church, in course of construction at the corner of Grand River and Alexander avenues, Detroit, was struck by a cyclone which accompanied a thunder storm, and practically demolished it. Frank Sernovey, a laborer, was buried under the falling bricks and instantly killed, other workmen were injured.

Wreck in Indiana.

The Lawrenceburg and Aurora Big Four accommodation train was wrecked at East Lawrenceburg, Ind. The train left the track and rolled down a twenty foot embankment. Engineer Harry Becker, aged 36, of Indianapolis, was killed. Several passengers were slightly bruised.

Disaster at Hamburg.

Hamburg special: A boat containing twenty-five passengers was run down and sunk recently, by the steamer Concordia, from Stade. Seventeen persons were drowned.

A Duel with Knives.

At Stinesville, a small town north of Bloomington, Ind., David Culross and Charles Deck fought a duel with knives. Deck had his abdomen cut open and will not recover. Culross received several severe cuts, but they are not fatal, it is thought. Culross is a quarryman, and Dick a railroad carpenter.

Coxey's Unknown Suicides.

Dr. A. P. Bozzarro, who became notorious as the "unknown" in Coxey's army, suicided at Cleveland, Ohio. He has been selling patent medicined there for about a year.

Many Drowned.

Kiel special: A terrible accident occurred at the Desmani ship building yard. A number of workmen were returning across a gangway to the ship after their work had been completed on the new cruiser, when the gangway broke and all the men were thrown into the water. Eight bodies have been recovered.

Pilgrimage Forbidden.

Paris special: It is reported here that Cardinal Krementz, archbishop of Cologne, Germany, has at the instance of the imperial government forbidden the annual pilgrimage from Aachen to Lourdes, owing to the animus engendered by the celebrations now in progress in Germany.

STILL FIGHTING.

Further News of the Situation in Cuba.

Tampa (Fla.) special: Passengers from Cuba report that an insurgent band under Matagas, encountered a band of Spanish guerillas near Colon. Eighty-five of the latter were killed, while the insurgent loss was seven killed and thirty-two wounded. A train bearing a large detachment of Havana volunteers to the Santa Clara district was destroyed by dynamite at Bolondron railway bridge. Very few of the volunteers escaped death. Hospitals are being constructed wherever Spanish troops are stationed, to care for yellow fever and wounded patients.

The trial of Juan Gualberto Gomez occurred Monday. He defended himself and was sentenced to twelve years' imprisonment at Ceuta, a Spanish prison in northern Africa. Lopez Coloma, a Matanzas chief, received the same sentence.

At Monte Gordo, insurgent and Spanish forces, each numbering 200, had an encounter. The Spanish loss was nine dead and about forty wounded; Cuban loss, four dead and thirty wounded.

AN INFURIATED MOB.

Hang a Negro Murderer from a High Bridge.

Fulton (Mo.) special: The negro, Emmett Divers, who murdered Mrs. Cain, was lynched the other morning. Divers was met on the road as he was being taken here to jail, by a mob who dragged him by force from the custody of the Sheriff. A rope was quickly placed around his neck and he was hanged from the middle span of a high bridge nine miles east of here. Three weeks ago, during the absence of her husband, Divers went to the farm, criminally assaulted Mrs. J. W. Cain and then murdered her in a horrible manner because she resisted him. The evidence against Divers was more than circumstantial. When arrested by Sheriff Hierce he was taken to St. Louis, after several thrilling escapes from infuriated citizens. In the jail at St. Louis the negro confessed to killing the woman, but denied that he had criminally assaulted her.

The State of Trade.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their weekly review of trade, says:

It is a belated season; a frozen May set everything back. The heavy business which ought to have been done in May and June was pushed into July so that the midsummer decline due in July comes in August. With this in mind, one is not surprised to find the shrinkage from July to August rather more conspicuous than usual. Financial events are used in speculative markets to create apprehension. Exports of gold have continued this week, and while the syndicate has deposited enough in the treasury to keep the reserve intact, the impression grows that another sale of bonds may be made.

The disappointing crop reports of last Saturday, though evidently distrusted, lessens confidence in regard to future trade even while some speculators gain by them. Back of all doubts is the facts that industries are doing better than anybody could have expected.

Japan Storm Swept.

San Francisco special: Reports have been received that Japan was visited by a terrible storm on the 24th and 29th of July Hurricanes swept across Kishua, along the shores of the island sea, over the central districts of the mainland and emerged into the Pacific Ocean. Its track was marked by great loss of life and destruction of property. The catastrophe was followed by a heavy rainstorm, and inundations added their devastating effects to the havoc wrought by the wind. It is calculated that over 1,000 people were killed or drowned. Ujina, a town that served as a military basis during the recent war, was completely swamped by the sea and over 160 boats smashed. Among these were 120 belonging to the army stores department landen with supplies destined for the use of the troops in the Liao Tung Peninsula.

Poisoned the Pleasure Party.

Sheriff Hays has captured the wholesale poisoner who drugged the pail of water with strychinine at the dance at Horseford Park, near Crown Point, Ind. It is Charles Williams' wife. She says she wanted to get Williams out of the way so she could get the heavy life insurance he carried. She also says she put the poison into the pail because her husband was paying too much attention to several young girls and she wanted to kill them all. The four victims are worse, having had a relapse. Mrs. Williams will be held awaiting the recovery or death of the four people.

Train Wreckers.

A train loaded with excursionists, bound for the summer resorts of St. Joseph and Lake Maxinkuckee, would have been ditched near Marmount, Ind., had it not been for the timely discovery of a tie upon the track. The spot where the tie was spiked was in the shadow of the large ice houses near the lake. It would hardly have been seen there by the engineer, but a party of belated picnickers discovered it and attempted to remove it when set upon by a gang of tramps and driven away. The station agent was then notified and had the obstruction removed.

Building Collapsed.

A two story brick building at Santa Fe and Ninth avenues Denver, Col., known as the O'Donnell block, collapsed without warning. The following persons were injured: Mrs. Miller, hit on the head by bricks; Fred Miller, 6-months-old, severely bruised; Capt. E. V. Williams, manager Rocky Mountain Carriage works, arm cut, severely shocked. Just what caused the accident is not known, but it is supposed that the heavy rains loosened the roof support, drowing the side walls to the center. The damage amounts to about $10,000.

He Pulled Lincoln's Funeral Train.

Edward Wilcox, one of the oldest engineers in the service of the Michigan Central Railroad, died at Michigan City, Ind., recently, from the infirmities of age. Wilcox enjoyed the distinction of being at the throttle of the engine that pulled the funeral train bearing the remains of Abraham Lincoln from the National Capitol to Chicago. He was a warm personal friend of Mr. Lincoln's, whom he had known from boyhood, and for this reason, was assigned the duty of pulling the funeral train on the memorable journey from Washington.

Terrible Accident.

A terrible accident occurred on the farm of Lee Oelweiler, near East Prospect, Pa., resulting in the almost instant death of a farm hand name Wilhelm. He was assisting in feeding the thresher, when he fell feet foremost into the machine, the lower portion of his body being literally ground to pieces.

Railroad Casualty.

A passenger train on the Northwestern road ran through an open switch at Aurora, Ill., and crashed into a car loaded with acid. The powerful fluid was scattered in every direction and added deadly work to that done by the collision. Two men were killed and others injured.

Rain and Hail.

A special from Belle Plain, Minn., says that a tornado, rain and hail storm struck that place recently. Hail of great size fell to the depth of four inches, breaking all the glass fronts in business places, all the windows in dwellings, churches and the city hall. Many small buildings were unroofed and overturned. Horses standing on the streets were knocked senseless. The corn crop is totally destroyed. The loss to property cannot be estimated. Culverts are destroyed and trains cannot pass.

Fireworks Explode.

A panic was started in a crowd of 8,000 people at Toronto, Ind., on account of an explosion of fireworks that were being given in honor of the Tri-county Old Settlers' Reunion. Nearly a score of people were injured by the flying rockets, their clothing set on fire, or badly trampled in the mad rush to escape from the scene of the explosion. Mrs. G. H. Hamilton, wife of the editor of the Thornton Argus, and B. Mullin, of Frankfort, were perhaps fatally hurt. The others were not seriously injured.

A Hoosier Murder.

Great excitement prevails at Chesterton, north of Valparaiso, Ind. Will Tratedas, twenty years old, and Lon Powers, twenty-one, became involved in a dispute and Powers killed Tratedas by shooting him twice with a revolver. Tratedas was a prominent young man. A large crowd has congregated around the building where Powers is confined, and threats of lynching are heard. Officers have gone to the scene.

Wiped Out.

The entire business part of the village of Pickeville, Tenn., was destroyed by fire. Only one store is left standing. The conflagration is supposed to be of incendiary origin. Total losses foot up $33,500, on which but little insurance was carried. The hotel was destroyed and the court house was saved only by hard efforts. One man was overcome fighting the fire but no one else was hurt.

Timber Burned in Ohio.

Delaware (O.) special: Fires started by sparks from locomotives are raging north and south of here. The greatest damage was done in the south, where over 100 acres of valuable timber was destroyed. Many who turned out to fight the fire were prostrated by the intense heat. The whole tract is blackened, and guards are watching the fire. The loss so far is in the neighborhood of $10,000.

Cuban Affairs.

The London Times prints a dispatch dated Havana, August 10, saying that there is a persistent rumor in circles that are unusually well informed regarding government affairs that Captain General Campos has telegraphed the government at Madrid that only two courses are open to Spain: She must either send 100,000 troops to Cuba or must grant the island complete autonomy.

Superseding the Horse.

The Otis Elevator Company, which has been in business in Cleveland, Ohio, for years as a retailer and wholesaler of oats, corn, and other grain, closed its elevator, the reason assigned being the substitution of electricity for horses in street cars and the displacement of horses by bicycles. The changed condition, the manager says, made it impossible to conduct the business at a profit.

Public Hanging.

John Johnson, colored, was hanged at Mt. Sterling, Ky., for killing Policeman Charles Evans, June 15. Johnson's neck was not broken and he did not die for twenty-five minutes after the trap was sprang. Nearly 10,000 people witnessed the hanging. While the negroes did not like to see one of their color hung, they were very quiet and made no threats.

Five Killed

On the Pittsburg and Eastern Railroad, which is being constructed in Clearfield County, Pennsylvania, a fatal accident occurred. Thirteen men were at work in a deep cut, when a blast was prematurely discharged and most of the men were covered by the fall of earth. Five were killed outright and the remaining eight are seriously injured.

Murder and Suicide.

George Browning, a prominent citizen of Evansville, Ind., was shot by his wife and killed instantly. The weapon used was a pistol. Mrs. Browning then seized a rifle and shot herself, and the wound will result in her death. Jealousy was the cause of the tragedy. Browning is very well known and is a nurseryman.

Bad Accident on a Race Track.

Just after the start in the first race at the South Side Park, St. Louis, Grand View, the leader, fell and broke his back. Agnes H and Frebach also fell. The first two had to be shot. Jockey John Davis had his leg broken, and Jockeys John Raymond and Frank Hueston were badly injured internally.

Wreck on the Rail.

Pine Bluff, Ark., special: News has reached here of the wreck of a passenger train on the Cotton Belt Railroad. But meagre details can be obtained. The wreck was caused by an open switch at Stamps, Ark., thirty four miles north of Texarkana. It is feared a number are injured.

Lone Highwayman.

Roseburg (Oregon) special: The Coos Bay-Roseburg stage was held up by a lone highwayman only a short distance from where it was stopped a week ago. The robber only secured $10, although the four passengers on board had over $500 in money which they concealed.

Let Off Easy.

Pierre (S. D.) special: Ex-Treasurer Taylor was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary for embezzlement.

Both Fatally Burned.

John Isham and John Moore were fatally burned in a gas explosion in the coal mines near Chandler, Ind.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 2, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 44c to 45c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 11c to 13c; potatoes, new, per bushel, 35c to 45c; broom corn, Illinois, poor to choice, $55 to $100 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 1 white, 36c to 38c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 35c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 40c to 41c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $5.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 45c to 47c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; rye, 44c to 46c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 71c to 72c; corn, No. 2 white, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 45c to 46c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 43c to 44c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 3, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; barley, No. 2, 42c to 44c; rye, No. 1, 45c to 47c; pork, mess, $9.00 to $9.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2, 46c to 47c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c; butter, creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, Western, 13c to 14c.

FUTURE IS BRIGHT.

THE OUTLOOK FOR CROPS WAS NEVER BETTER.

Most Satisfactory Reports from the Great Grain Producing Tract—Oats, Rye and Fruit Flourishing—Corn Yield the Greatest Ever Known.

Bountiful Harvests.

This is likely to be a phenomenal year for agriculturists as the indications for good crops throughout the farming districts of the whole West have never been surpassed. Grain of every sort and all variety of fruits will be most abundant, and as the farmer looks over his fields of rich crops and his trees laden and weighed down with fruit his heart laughs aloud with joy.

Kansas has this year raised nearly 7,000,000 bushels of Irish potatoes, the largest crop in the history of the State. In many instances 200 bushels have been raised on a single acre, which were sold on board the cars at 50 cents per bushel. Taking the State as a whole, the yields of fruit and garden products were never so bountiful, and the trees and vines were never before so laden. Conditions average 75 per cent. for apples, peaches, grapes and cherries, and in one-half of the State apples and peaches rate at 100 and above.

The stories of drought and distress which went forth from Nebraska last fall and winter will hardly be repeated this year, for, while farmers in many sections are on the anxious seat as to their corn crops, they are just completing what is probably the most satisfactory harvest of small grain in the history of the State. Indeed, the yield of wheat and oats may be said to be a record-breaker. The acreage of both these cereals this year, along with rye and barley, was less than that of last, but the production of all, according to estimates made, will be far above the average. This is all the more gratifying from the fact that the early drought was the cause of gloomy forebodings.

In the Dakotas, the great wheat-growing States, the crop is placed at 2,400,000 acres and the yield at about twelve bushels per acre, or a total of from 28,000,00 to 30,000,000. This estimate was made before thrashers got to work and on a basis of fifteen to eighteen bushels per acre in the southern and eastern counties. But since the actual test is being made, the yield in that section is going beyond the average, some fields thrashing out as high as thirty-five bushels per acre, while from twenty to twenty-five bushels is common. This may bring the total up to 35,000,000 bushels, while there was not over 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bushels raised last year. The yield will be cut in the northeastern part of the State, where the prospects were good, by a heavy hailstorm, which destroyed 20,000 acres. Some smut is reported in the eastern part of the State, but not enough to do any great damage.

The acreage devoted to the oat crop is probably about the same as in former years, or 800,000 acres, and the yield is reported far above the average—twenty-five bushels per acre. Wherever the crop has been thrashed some fields go as high as eighty bushels per acre. In the southeastern part of the State, where all crops are the heaviest, the average this year may be safely put at thirty bushels per acre, or a total yield for the State of 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels.

The Corn Crop.

The crop of corn of the country this year will be the largest that has ever been known. It is estimated at the present time that the yield will exceed by 200,000,000 bushels the record of any previous year. This condition did not exist a month ago. At that time continued drouth in nearly all the corn States made the outlook dubious for an average yield. But the rains came, copious, heavy, continued showers, just at the time most needed, and to-day prosperity hovers closer over millions of homes than for many a year.

How much depends upon the corn crop is realized by few. The corn crop will bring more money, if marketed, than all other grain products combined, and potatoes may be counted with the grain to make good measure. The estimated yield of corn for this year is from 2,250,000,000 to 2,500,000,000 bushels. At the present price, which is 35 cents for December or May delivery, the crop will be worth $800,000,000.

To emphasize the immensity of this product it may be said that the State of Iowa alone will raise enough corn this year to supply more than five bushels to every man, woman and child in the United States. Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas comprise what has been termed the corn belt. This section furnishes nearly, if not quite, two-thirds of the entire corn product.

The greatest yield of any year previous to this was in 1889, when the acreage was 78,319,651 and the yield 2,112,892,000 bushels. The following year brought a practical failure, which was again made up in 1891, when the yield amounted to 2,060,154,000 bushels from an acreage of 76,204,515. For the past three years the yield has been 1,628,464,000 bushels for 1892, 1,619,496,431 bushels for 1893 and 1,212,770,052 bushels for 1894. The indications at present, therefore, are that the 1895 crop will be nearly double that of last year. It will not all be turned into cash, but considered from the standpoint of value it will represent $400,000,000 more than the crop of last year.

John Hartman, Joseph Wilke and Alexander Wilke, members of a New York pleasure party, were drowned.

WILL STUDY AMERICAN CROPS.

Germany Attaches an Agriculturist to Its Embassy.

Several of the European Governments have decided to send to their embassies or legations in this country what they term "agricultural attaches." Such an attache will be expected to keep his home Government informed not only as to crop conditions, prospects and prices in the United States at regular intervals, but also to keep his people posted as to progress in all agricultural methods and improvements from time to time. Germany is the first to send an attache of this sort, who arrived in Washington a few days ago and called upon the Secretary of Agriculture. His name is Beno Reinhardt Freiherr von Herrman. He is a baron, although an agriculturist, so that he will no doubt be welcomed into official society this winter, despite his long name. It is understood that both the English and French Governments will soon follow the example of Germany and send an agricultural attache to their embassies here, and Secretary Morton now thinks that it might be wise on the part of our Government to return the compliment by sending some of our most practical and successful farmers abroad in place of the few military and naval attaches who presumably adorn the diplomatic service of the United States.

FOR THE BENEFIT OF VETERANS.

Accommodations Provided Those Attending Chattanooga Reunion.

The Chattanooga national military park commission has issued the following announcement on behalf of the veteran soldiers who wish to go to the encampment at Chattanooga:

"It appears from numerous letters received by this commission that its previous circular in regard to furnishing quarters in camp barracks has been construed to mean that such barracks will be erected without regard to the orders received, and that those desiring these quarters can obtain them upon their arrival at Chattanooga. This, however, is not the case.

"As Congress made no appropriation for free quarters, a plan was devised by which barracks accommodations could be provided by the citizens' committee of Chattanooga at a very low rate for all who might order such a sufficient time in advance. It is the intention to extend barracks as orders for accommodations are received. Such accommodations cannot be provided under applications received after Aug. 30, 1895.

"Those who send $2 to Capt. Charles F. Muller, Chattanooga, Tenn., will receive in return a ticket which will entitle the holder to a comfortable barrack bunk for the entire time of his stay at Chattanooga, including safe storage for hand baggage and toilet accommodations. It will not be possible to furnish ladies with quarters in these barracks, or to supply meals or lunches in connection with them. It will be necessary for each person to bring his own blanket and towels. The barracks will be constructed upon the plan adopted at the last Grand Army encampment at Washington city, where a very large number of veterans were thus housed. Such structures will be erected in Chattanooga, where, within convenient distances, meals and lunches may be obtained at reasonable prices.

"Communications in regard to barracks addressed to Capt. Muller, who was selected by the citizens' committee to take charge of this work, will receive prompt and reliable attention.

"J. S. FULLERTON,
"Chairman of Commission."

ENTERPRISING FARMER.—I'm glad to see you and hope we shall be better acquainted.

NORTH KNOCKED OUT.

Tried to Buy His Way Into Parliament but Failed.

One of the most picturesque figures in English life is Col. John T. North, known familiarly as the "nitrate king." The son of a mechanic in Leeds, England, he started out in life without any advantages and in the 60's went as an engineer to Chili. Thence he went to the nitrate beds of Peru and partly by good luck and partly by collusion with corrupt Chillian and Peruvian politicians acquired a controlling interest in the rich nitrate beds and incidentally a fortune of many millions. A few years ago he returned to England to buy his way into society and public life. He performed numerous benefactions, endowed hospitals and colleges, gave splendid parties, became one of the Prince of Wales' amusement set and then, satisfied that he stood well in the minds of the people of his native towns of Leeds, he announced his intention of entering Parliament, standing on the Tory platform. He was defeated, however, by Herbert Gladstone, son of the "grand old man," and has now time sufficient on his hands to realize that money does not always accomplish the purpose of its user.

COL. NORTH, "NITRATE KING."

UNDER A NEW TARIFF.

OUR FOREIGN COMMERCE AND BUSINESS REVIVAL.

Late Treasury Returns Serve to Gild the Commercial Horizon—Wool Sales Under Free Wool—Emancipation of Iowa—Republicans Changing Base.

Outlook Is Bright.

The treasury returns of our foreign trade for the fiscal year ending with June 30 last gild the commercial horizon with welcome light and will help to silence the few "calamity howlers" that are left. In the last twelve months the exports of domestic merchandise from the United States amounted in value to $793,553,018, and with our exports of foreign merchandise to a total of $807,693,000. For the same period the value of the imports was $731,960,319. From these figures it will be seen our exports of domestic merchandise in the last twelve months exceeded our imports by $61,592,699.

Republican journals and politicians have been recently raising a great outcry about the multitudinous imports. We were told that the country was being flooded with foreign goods, and this was attributed to the wicked Wilson tariff, which, it was alleged, had given the foreigner control of our home markets. The official returns prove conclusively that the Wilson tariff has not unduly flooded the country with foreign-made goods. Had our imports exceeded the exports (as those of England and other prosperous trading countries have uniformly done for a long series of years) it would be easy to show that this excess does not by any means necessarily indicate a loss to the nation. Few popular delusions have been more absurd than that of the so-called "balance of trade," which no reputable economist now adheres to as a criterion of commercial prosperity. But even if this old and exploded Bourbon fallacy is to be retained, it is much too early for its advocates to seek to turn it against the Wilson tariff. For so far the treasury returns show that after nearly one year of the operation of the lower tariff, with its free wool and other raw materials, the United States still has a "balance of trade" of $75,732,000 in merchandise in its favor.

These statistics are also highly encouraging in other points of view. They show that the lowering of the tariff in August last, while it relieved the country of a large burden of "protectionist" taxation (for the benefit of trusts and monopolies), has not injured American manufacturing industries, but, on the contrary, it has stimulated them by inducing a healthy competition and giving our manufacturers free raw materials.—New York Herald.

Helping Its Owners.

"This is not a time for strikes for higher wages," whines the pretended friend of the workingmen, the Philadelphia Manufacturer. Of course not. The time for strikes was when McKinleyism was closing factories, throwing thousands of men out of work and making strikes, such as the great Carnegie strike of 1892, useless as a protest against reduced wages. This is the state of affairs which the Philadelphia high tariff organ wishes to see restored, and in the meantime it tries to prevent the American workingmen reaping the full benefit of Democratic good times, by pretending that conditions do not warrant wage advances.

But the workers themselves know better. They know that over a million men and women have had their wages increased from 10 to 15 and 20 per cent since the Wilson tariff was adopted. They know that the period of trade depression which under a high tariff filled the country with idle men, ready to take the places of striking workmen, has gone with the tariff policy which caused it. They know that it is the wonderful business revival caused by the Wilson tariff which has started up factories and mills, thus relieving the labor market of the hosts of unemployed. They know that the only time when strikes have any chance of success is when men are in demand, and that if employers are now readily yielding to the requests of their hands for more wages, it is because they know that in case of a strike they could not fill the places of the strikers. These are some of the things which the workers have learned by long experience. And they are not likely to cease striving for the highest possible wages which trade conditions will allow, merely because the avowed organ of the manufacturers warns them against believing that prosperity has returned to the country. Thanks to a Democratic Congress, we are no longer living under McKinleyism, and workingmen now have a chance of getting their share of the results of a liberal trade policy.

Unsatisfied Protectionists.

When the Democratic Congress put burlaps, a kind of bagging largely used by American farmers and exporters, on the free list, the monopoly organs howled about the flood of cheap foreign burlaps which would pour into this country. A year's experience under the new tariff shows that the increased demand for burlaps, owing to the general revival of business, has advanced prices. Now the protection organs are complaining because, as they allege, the foreigner is putting up the price of burlaps, and the New York Press claims that "This is exactly the result which protectionists predicted."

Some people never can be satisfied, and the high tariffites are of that kind. Had the price of burlaps gone down the Press would have abused the Wilson tariff, and wailed over the ruin of our infant burlap industry by foreign pauper labor products. Now that prices have gone up, that paper blames the placing of burlaps on the free list. No matter what the result may be, the partisan Republican organs' policy is: "Abuse the Wilson tariff."

Wants All Tariffs Abolished.

"If," asks the Commercial, "foreigners do not pay any part of tariff duties, why does every nation try to get the lowest possible duties on its products from all other nations?" For the same reason these same foreigners build canals, railroads and steamships. These foreigners know that all obstructions to commerce are injurious to all commercial nations, whether these obstructions are natural or artificial. Natural obstructions are removed by railways, canals and steamships; artificial obstructions should be removed by the repeal of the tariff laws.—Louisville (Ky.) Post.

Emancipation for Iowa.

The Democratic nominations and platform are received by the Democrats throughout Iowa not only with satisfaction, but also with a degree of enthusiasm which gives something like an assurance of victory. Iowa is not altogether lost to the cause of good government and honest politics. The Republican ring that has ruled Iowa for thirty years has combined more elements for misleading, abusing and terrorizing the people than any similar combination that ever held sway in a Western State. It has mingled fanaticism with corruption—has joined hypocrisy in its platforms with profligacy in the administration to an extent that has not appeared in any other State under the rule of either party since the Union existed.

Iowa has been governed for three or four decades not by civilized law, by the courts and by the officers of the State and the municipalities. It has been ruled by fanatical public opinion in the various communities of the State. A small majority—perhaps not a majority, but a vigorous and malignant minority—has upheld a reign of proscription, of social and political ostracism, of oppression and tyranny, that has formed a cruel travesty on free government. A reign of terror, enforced by false moral reformers, by systems of espionage and social outlawry, has prevailed in the Iowa communities until it has become intolerable.

The Democratic platform and candidates promise emancipation to the people of Iowa. The election of the Democratic candidates will abolish the rule of proscription and terrorism. It will clothe the people in liberty. It will give back to every citizen his constitutional rights. It will reinstate in their manhood the voters who have been robbed of their rights and immunities through two generations of fanaticism and of social and political despotism. The Democrats promise to Iowa a deliverance. Their victory, or even a great reduction of the Republican majority, would be the dawn of a humane and general jubilee.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Imitation Might Not Imitate.

Republican prophets, who a little while ago predicted a "walkover" in the next presidential election with a McKinley, a Reed, a Harrison or some other high tariff champion, have begun to assume a more cautious tone. Misgivings are expressed at the same time by shrewd Republican politicians in regard to the expediency of nominating as a candidate for the presidency any of the men who have been closely identified with the McKinley act and of thus destroying the industrial peace by reviving the tariff agitation. In this situation it would not be surprising if the Republicans should imitate the example of their whig predecessors, who discarded their high tariff champion, Henry Clay, in 1848, and nominated a fortunate soldier in Gen. Zachary Taylor.—Philadelphia Record.

Wool Sales Under Free Wool.

The tariff reformers argued that free wool would increase the demand for the home-grown article and advance the price. Wool has recently gone up 2 cents a pound. When the sales of the foreign wool in the Boston market were 440,000 pounds, as under McKinley's tariff, the sales of American wool were 1,840,000 pounds, but when the foreign sales advanced to 3,884,400 pounds, the sale of our own product reached the great total of 7,477,000 pounds.—Rome (N. Y.) Sentinel.

Good Prospect of Victory.

The enthusiasm and harmony that prevailed in the Iowa Democratic convention augur well for the success of the admirable ticket put in nomination. The Republicans have atoned in a measure, it is true, for the blunder they made in monkeying with prohibition, but they are still so tainted with the popular distrust that in spite of their numerical strength Iowa is good fighting ground for the Democracy.—Detroit Free Press.

Peace in Sight at Last.

The Republicans up in Pennsylvania have become so mad that when an attempt was made to make capital for Mr. Quay by springing his military record several party newspapers declared that a man's military record cut no figure in politics. When Republican newspapers begin to talk in this fashion it is safe to infer that we have about reached the close of the war.—Washington Post.

They Should Specify.

The calamity howlers must specify. A general wail will not convince anybody when there are on all sides so many evidences of business improvement. The country is getting into better condition every day and the prospect is brighter than it has been for several years.—Atlanta Journal.

"Reduction" the Word in 1894.

How different the news this year from last! Now the dispatches tell day by day of notices of increase of wages at manufacturing centers. In 1894 the word was "reduction." The Wilson tariff bill seems to be receiving magnificent vindication.—Greenville (S. C.) News.

Another Insult to Gov. McKinley.

The notice of an increase of wages posted in all the cotton mills of Lowell yesterday was not intended as a free trade document, but Ohio Napoleons of Calamity will feel just as much insulted by it as if it were.—New York World.

Changing Their Base.

Attacks on the Wilson tariff are becoming less frequent in Republican newspapers, and the proposition to make the tariff the main issue next year has not been heard recently, even from Mr. McKinley.

Indicates a Successful Campaign.

If there is any one thing that indicates a successful Democratic campaign next year it is the constantly increasing good times, brought about by Democratic tariff legislation.—Ottumwa, Ia., Democrat.

Not the Right Species.

In view of Republican disinclination to grant the negroes any privileges other than that of voting, we infer that the g. o. p. elephant is not of the African species.—Salt Lake Herald.

CHAPTER XXX.

Lord Bayneham was bewildered. If his wife chose to walk out at any hour or in any place she was perfectly free to do so; but he could imagine no reason why she should endeavor to keep so trivial a circumstance secret from him.

Think as he would, Lord Bayneham was no nearer solving the mystery; so he went out into the park, wondering if the fresh air would give him any inspiration. As he strolled listlessly along, Simpson, the head gamekeeper, saw him, and drew near, as though desirous of speaking to him.

"What is it, Simpson?" asked Lord Bayneham, listlessly, annoyed at the interruption.

"I am afraid we shall have some trouble, my lord," replied the man; "I have seen one or two notorious poachers about lately, and I feel sure they have been at their old tricks. I was in the park all last night, and I wanted to tell your lordship, but I saw you here walking with my lady, and I would not interrupt you."

"Saw me here?" said the young earl; "where, and at what time?"

"It would be after ten," replied the man. "You were in the Lady's Walk with my lady. I saw her face, but not yours, my lord; I did not like to intrude."

Not by one word or look did Lord Bayneham betray his wife.

"Quite right," he said, hastily; "but what about those poachers? I do not believe in the game laws, as some of my neighbors do, but I will have no poaching."

Simpson then entered into details, of which Lord Bayneham never heard one word.

"I will attend to it, Simpson; we will have no poaching," said Lord Bayneham, suddenly interrupting the astonished gamekeeper in the midst of a brilliant description of the poaching affray at Hulsmeer. But not one word he had uttered was heard by his young master, who was all impatience to find himself once more with his young wife.

All the way home Lord Bayneham was pondering on the one question—who was walking with his wife after ten at night, when she was supposed to be in her own room? Could it have been Mr. Fulton?—no, the idea was simply ridiculous. Mr. Fulton might have admired her, might perhaps have addressed some complimentary verses to her; but, under the Earl of Bayneham's own roof he would not dare to solicit an interview with his wife. Even had he the audacity to propose such a thing, it was not likely that the fair, innocent lady of Bayneham would consent to such a proceeding. Whoever was with his wife must have been a stranger, not one of those within his own gates.

The mystery must be solved; she had refused to tell him the contents of the notes; but let that pass—most likely they contained little but nonsense. She would not explain the finding of the bracelet; that, too, might pass, but she must tell him with whom she walked and talked at night and alone.

When Lord Bayneham entered his wife's rooms she was sitting just as he had left her, still and calm as a statue.

"I must learn to bear it," she had said to herself, when his voice at the door startled her.

When he entered the room Lady Hilda's heart sunk at the expression of his face.

"Hilda," he said, hoarsely, "I know all. You have no more to conceal."

Ah, never again did he see on mortal face such a look of agony as hers wore then; never did human voice sound so despairingly.

"You know all?" she said, rising and standing with clasped hands before him.

Now came the error which for years wrecked those two lives.

"I know all," said Lord Bayneham.

He meant to say that he knew she had been in the Lady's Walk, and not alone; but she thought by those few words he meant to say that he knew all her secrets, and that she had nothing more to conceal from him. Often and often have the events of a lifetime hinged upon a mistake less grave than this.

His words, spoken jestingly so long ago, flashed across her, when she had asked him if he were deceived in his wife what would he do, and his answer had been "Such a one must return to her friends. I should know how to find a remedy for the mistake."

"Claude, you know all," she said, looking at him steadily; "did you mean what you said?—must I go?"

He did not understand to what she alluded. He had completely forgotten the conversation that was ever in her mind.

"Did you mean it?" she repeated, in a low voice.

"I always mean every word I say," replied Lord Bayneham; "and, Hilda, it has come to this——"

His sentence was never completed, for just at that moment Pauline knocked at the door.

"The Duke of Laleham is waiting to see you, my lord," said the maid.

His Grace was far too important a personage to be kept waiting, and Lord Bayneham went into the library, wishing his visitor in any other place. For one hour and a half he patiently endured the martyrdom. His Grace was vitally interested in some county business, and wanted his young neighbor's support.

Lord Bayneham tried honestly to give his attention to every word, but he failed in the attempt.

"Landed interest," "county votes," "personal influence," occasionally sounded familiarly in his ear. But it was Hilda's voice he heard, not his Grace of Laleham's—Hilda's voice, asking if she must go? What did the child mean? Go where?—and for what? There must be some stupid misunderstanding. It would have been cleared up if that good man had but deferred his visit.

The poor duke tried hard to make his young neighbor understand all he meant. He thought Lord Bayneham singularly absent, and wondered that he did not show more interest in what seemed to him a momentous question. At length his Grace rose.

"I wish," he said to Lord Bayneham, "that, if you are not engaged, you would ride over with me to Oulston. I think the matter in question should be attended to without delay."

Lord Bayneham consented, simply because he could invent no excuse. In after years he railed bitterly at his folly; for if, instead of going with the Duke of Laleham to Oulston, he had sought his wife and the unhappy mistake had been explained, years of sorrow and unavailing misery would have been spared to them. From the window of her own room the unhappy young wife watched her husband ride away—watched him with a heart that yearned for one more look at his face, one more word from his lips—watched him with a passion of grief so wild and bitter, that she would gladly have died; she did not think in this world ever to see him again.

During that one hour and a half, which had seemed years to Lady Hilda, she resolved upon a step which she afterward bitterly repented. Believing her husband meant that he knew all her secrets, and that he meant those words, so carelessly uttered, she resolved not to wait until he should send her from him, but go at once.

She was half mad, and that was the only excuse that could be made for her rash act. From the chaos of thought one idea stood out boldly—she would go at once, before they had time to reproach her with her father's fault and send her away. No passionate weeping, no wild burst of sorrow came to the relief of that burning brain. She moved about the sumptuous room like one in a dream, just conscious of what she was going to do, but nothing more.

Like an electric shock came the sound of Lady Bayneham's voice, asking for admittance. She supposed that by this time the whole matter was made clear, and she came in to see how Hilda was.

"Can I come in?" she said. "I wish to speak to you, Hilda."

"She has come to taunt me," thought the poor child; "come to exult over my fall; and tell me she always thought me proud, or something of the kind."

"No, not now," answered a strange, broken voice, "I am engaged; you cannot come in."

Deeply offended, the countess walked haughtily away, and so Lady Hilda destroyed her last chance.

If Lady Bayneham had seen the changed young face for only one minute she would have known that the brain was overtasked. But it was not so, and the young Lady of Bayneham went on to her fate. She wrote a few lines to her husband, and covered them with passionate kisses; she took from her writing desk all the money it contained, never stopping to count it, but filling her pocket book with notes and gold. Then she rang the bell.

"Will you say I want the carriage, Pauline?" she said to the maid, who gazed in surprise at her mistress.

"Are you going out, my lady?" asked the girl; "you look cold."

"I am going," said Lady Hilda, with a strange smile, "for a very long drive."

She dressed herself in silence, placing the letter she had written on her desk. She never once looked round the room where so many happy hours had been spent. Long afterward her maid spoke of the strange, fixed, unearthly look on her lady's face as she quitted the house.

"Where shall I drive, my lady?" asked the coachman.

"To Oulston," she replied; "go as usual to the Bayneham Arms, and wait."

And wait he did, until the long day ended, but no Lady Bayneham came again. Night came on, still and dark, but there was no sign of her. The man was uncertain how to act. She was punctuality itself, and the dinner hour at the Castle was past. He did not like to return without her, but the hours sped on, and she did not appear. The landlord suggested that perhaps her ladyship had returned in a friend's carriage, but all conjectures were cut short by the appearance of Lord Bayneham, riding as one riding for his life.

CHAPTER XXXI.

The Duke of Laleham found his young neighbor a very dull and wearisome companion. He could neither excite his interest nor elicit his attention. Every now and then he seemed to awake from a reverie and utter a few irrelevant words. The ride to Oulston, the interview with the persons concerned—the whole business, in fact, was a complete failure.

"I fear," said Lord Bayneham to his elderly friend, "that I have been a poor companion; and the fact is, I should have explained it to your grace before. I am not myself to-day, I have some little unpleasant affair on hand, and it has teased and troubled me."

"I began to think so," said the duke, warmly. "Why did you not tell me? This business can easily be deferred. I wish you had not stood upon ceremony with me."

He would take no further excuse, but insisted upon Lord Bayneham's returning home at once. He was impatient to be there. During all that long, dreary ride, his wife's sweet pale face had been before him—the sad eyes filled with tears.

When Lord Bayneham reached the Castle gates his horse was covered with foam, and the groom who came to attend him wondered why his master, usually so careful, had ridden so madly. But Lord Bayneham calmed himself before seeing any member of his family, almost smiling at the excitement which had urged him on. He went direct to his wife's room and knocked at the door. No one replied; there was no sound within—a profound, unbroken silence reigned over the sumptuous suite of rooms. He opened the door gently, thinking it probable that his wife slept, and went in; but the fair young face that ever greeted him with a smile was absent.

"Ah!" he said to himself, "she is better then, and has gone down to the drawing room. I am glad."

Yet as he stood looking upon the elegant disarray of the room, a cold, strange fear crept into his heart, and numbed it; he could not explain why or what—a presentiment of coming evil. A little watch, richly jeweled, lay ticking upon the table; in the vases fragrant heliotropes—his wife's favorite flower—gave out a rich perfume; a volume she had been reading lay with the leaves still open, and everything bore the trace of her presence. But where was she?

Lord Bayneham hastily descended to the drawing room, where the ladies of the family generally sat. Barbara was there reading, but no golden head was raised at his entrance.

"Where is Hilda?" he asked abruptly.

"I do not know," replied Miss Earle, looking at him in some surprise. "I have not seen her since morning."

Just then Lady Bayneham entered, with a cold, proud expression on her face, that her son knew well.

"Where is Hilda, mother?" he asked, impatiently. "I thought she was with you."

"Your wife does not honor me with her society," was the reply, most haughtily given. "I went this morning to her room, but was decidedly refused admission. I certainly shall not trouble her again."

"But where is she?" again demanded the earl, secretly admiring his wife's spirit.

"You had better summon her maid and inquire," replied the countess indifferently; "I know nothing of her."

Lord Bayneham quitted the room, equally angry at Barbara Earle's easy nonchalance and his mother's pride.

"Where is your lady?" he inquired of Pauline, who began to flatter herself that the young earl liked talking to her.

"My lady is out," she replied. "The carriage was ordered some hours since, and has not yet returned."

Lord Bayneham gave a sigh of mingled relief and impatience.

"Did she—did your lady say where she was going?" he inquired.

"No," was the reply; "my lady only said she was going for a long drive. She looked very ill, my lord, and quite unfit to be out long."

Lord Bayneham stamped his foot impatiently. Why had he gone to Oulston? Why had he allowed anything or any one to come between him and his fair, gentle wife? He was ashamed to ask any more questions, or people would surely think him childish. But he could not remain in the house; he went out and walked again where he could see the high road and catch the first glimpse of the carriage. One hour passed, and there was no sign of the carriage. The evening began to set in, the sun sank in the golden west, the dew fell upon the flowers, and the birds "called all wanderers home to their nests;" but still Lord Bayneham paced the walk alone, until he heard the dressing bell ring.

"She must be here soon," said the young husband to himself.

Amongst his wife's qualities he had always admired the one of punctuality. He never remembered to have been kept waiting or to have seen her late. This comforted him. She knew the dinner hour, and would not remain beyond it.

Lord Bayneham never dressed so quickly, but when he descended the carriage had not arrived. The first and second bell rang and dinner was announced, but the young mistress of Bayneham was not in her accustomed place.

"What can have delayed Hilda?" inquired Miss Earle anxiously. "She went out early this afternoon, intending to take a long drive. Surely no accident can have happened?"

Lord Bayneham's face blanched at the thought.

"Accidents are not so common, Barbara," said Lady Bayneham; "if anything of that kind had occurred we should have heard of it before this. Lady Hilda has been absent many hours; I presume she has met with some of our friends and neighbors, who have persuaded her to return with them."

"She is too thoughtful and considerate to have done such a thing," said Barbara warmly, "knowing we should be anxious."

The countess saw that her son sent plate after plate away untouched, and drank wine eagerly, as though wishing either to drown thought or acquire strength. The dinner passed in a most uncomfortable state of silence, but no Lady Hilda returned.

"I cannot bear this," said Lord Bayneham, rising hastily from his chair.

"Mother—Barbara, I am seriously alarmed. Pauline says my poor wife looked very ill when she left the house. Mother, be pitiful; she is young and has no mother. Barbara, what can we do?"

Both ladies rose and tried to calm him, for his wild words startled them.

"You had better inquire if any one overheard what orders were given about the carriage," said the countess to her son. "Do not be alarmed, Claude. Hilda is safe, I am sure. Barbara, go to her room. She may have left a note there for us." (To be continued.)

CURED HIS DESIRE FOR DEATH

Lord Southey's Guillotine Wouldn't Work, So He Lived.

Lord Southey once, in a fit of disgust with life, had a magnificent guillotine erected in the drawing-room of his magnificently-appointed house in the Rue de Luxembourg, at Paris. The machine was an elaborate affair, with ebony uprights inlaid with gold and silver. The framework was carved with great artistic skill, and the knife of immense weight, and falling at the touch of a spring, was of ornamental steel, polished and as sharp as a razor.

The spring which liberated the knife was placed within easy reach of anyone kneeling upon the scaffold; in fact, every detail was arranged with a view to the convenience to the would-be suicide. The day that the engine of death was entirely finished, Lord Southey completed his testamentary dispositions, shaved, had his hair cut, and, clothed in a robe of white silk, knelt upon the platform under the knife.

The guillotine was placed before a large mirror, wherein the person committing suicide could see his own image until the last. Murmuring a short prayer, Lord Southey placed his head in the semi-circle and pressed the spring.

The next morning he was found calmly sleeping in his bed. The spring had failed to work, and, after several fruitless efforts, Lord Southey was compelled to relinquish his attempt upon his life. Thoroughly cured of his spleen he presented the guillotine to the Glasgow Museum, whence he made an annual pilgrimage to see it until the end of his life.

What a Man Can Do.

Men regard with admiring wonder the career of a Napoleon, a Bismarck, a Gladstone, an Agassiz or an Edison, but they do not seem to realize what can be done by concentrated and persistent human will power and energy.

A recently published biography of Daniel Defoe is the story of the life of a man who made his mark as a merchant, manufacturer, traveler, politician, polemic, journalist, poet, satirist and novelist. This restlessly active and energetic mortal left more than two hundred and fifty printed works, and two of them, by common consent, are masterpieces of literature that will last as long as the English language is spoken.

His was a checkered career—now, the favorite of one ministry; disgraced and punished by another like a common criminal; the master one day of a princely mansion, and hiding from his creditors the next According to his own statement, Defoe was in his lifetime "thirteen times rich and poor," a record not approached by any great speculator of our day. Sometimes we hear of a man who has gone beyond that limit, and certainly no man of this generation has been thirteen times rich and poor, fortunate and unfortunate in politics, and the author of two hundred and fifty books, beside showing ability as a manufacturer, merchant, traveler, polemic, journalist, poet, satirist and novelist.

Talk about versatility—Defoe beats them all! The mere outline of such a career should encourage and stimulate those who complain that they are hampered by circumstances. If Defoe could do what he did, cannot the average man of pluck, energy and determination accomplish at least one-fourth as much?

EDWARD ALBERT, DUKE OF YORK.

Great-grandson of Victoria, grandson of Wales, son of Prince George and probable ruler of Great Britain.

WELDING BY ELECTRICITY.

Process by Which the Famous Liberty Bell May Be Mended.

The old cracked bell hanging idle and useless in Independence Hall may some day soon be made to lift up its long stilled voice and ring out in all its useful vigor. Early in the present century the efforts of inventors, bell moulders and metal workers were directed to the accomplishment of this end, but without avail. Latterly the same efforts were made to mend other bells that had become dumb, but all without any fruitful results, and it was generally agreed that a cracked bell was worth only so much a pound as old metal.

A BROKEN BELL.

A system of electric welding has been devised by a Russian, Slavianoff, by which old bells cracked to the very crown may be made as new. The new process is known as the "hydro-electro-thermic" and it appears to offer interesting possibilities, though not yet fully developed. Its principle depends on the ployment of a bath and in the development of hydrogen gas at the negative pole. The gas surrounds the part of the object to be treated, forming a high resistance to the current, which is transformed at this point into calorific energy and communicated to the metal or other object forming the negative pole. This method is said to be an improvement on the methods of both Thomson and Benardos, which are well known to metal workers, and it has been in successful operation for some time at the Perm gun works in Russia.

RESTORED TO USEFULNESS.

Niagara by Electric Light.

The Michigan Central Railway has placed an order with the General Electric Company of Schenectady, N. Y., for two powerful search-lights with which to illuminate Niagara Falls. The order calls for two forty-eight-inch lamps of 100,000 candle power each. These will be operated from the Falls View Station terrace, and with different colored lenses or slides a brilliant effect will be produced upon the raging waters of the rapids and the falls. The power to generate the current will be taken from the river itself. The only similar attempt of illuminating waterfalls is that of the famous Rhine at Schloss Lanfen, Germany. This, it is promised, will sink into insignificance beside illuminated Niagara.

IMPROVED BICYCLE.

An Inventor Perfects a Wheel Which Dispenses with the Chain.

An inventor in New York, who has recently perfected a device for mending punctures in bicycle tires, is also confident that the day is not far distant when the chainless bicycle will take the place of the present bicycle. He has been experimenting in this direction for several years, and has perfected a bicycle which dispenses with the sprocket wheels, chain, 40 per cent. of the frame and the ordinary pedals and pedal cranks.

By its peculiar construction, say it

A NEW CHAINLESS WHEEL.

100 pounds is placed upon the saddle, it will take 40 pounds to raise the front wheel; hence it is perfectly safe. The driving levers have a rise and fall of 14 inches; hence the rider's foot travels 28 inches, while by the present chain bicycle the rider's foot travel's about 42 inches. The driving levers being nearly double the length of the present pedal cranks now used on the chain bicycle, it is claimed an increase of power is obtained—hence an increase of speed.

The inventor will construct the frame of his chainless bicycle of bamboo, as he has recently discovered a process to prevent bamboo from splitting, which has been a great drawback in the use of the material for bicycle frames.

Inspecting Dried Apples.

Consul Robertson, at Hamburg, acting on instructions from the State Department at Washington, has obtained permission from the chief of the Hamburg Foreign Office to procure samples and an analysis of any American dried apples which may in the future be confiscated on the ground that they are alleged to contain zinc. This action is taken with a view of stopping the confiscation of American apples by German authorities. He should do his duty fearlessly and remove the slander that Americans are willing to lose money putting expensive poisons in their food goods. Dried apples affect society. There is nothing like dried apples for a swell party.

WHAT IT MAY COME TO.

The possible Presidential candidate in his summer outing will have to adopt the New Guinea style of architecture and keep the ladder up.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Let Us All Laugh.

Little fishes in the brook—
That's no cause to flout 'em;
They'll be whales as like as not
When he tells about 'em.
—Washington Star.

"Cannot we become one?" he pleaded earnestly. "That depends," replied the new girl. "Which one?"—Life.

"I can forgive but never forget this whipping," said Tommy. "That is just what I want you to do," said his mother.—Boston Courier.

"Jones is always growlin' at the world." "Yes; made before he was born; an' he didn't have a chance at it."—Atlanta Constitution.

"The coming woman doesn't seem to arrive," said Binks. "No," said Tubley. "She's probably putting on her hat."—Harper's Bazar.

Hotelkeeper—What's the matter here? You're just raising the deuce! Waiter—No, sir; I just dropped the tray.—National Hotel Reporter.

"No, Maude, dear, we do not think the cat's voice is musical even if the animal is full of violin and banjo strings."—Philadelphia Record.

"I see that John's speakin' on the financial question." "Oh, yes." "What's the old man doin'?" "Furnishin' the finances."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Tramp—Say, boss, could yer give a feller a dime fer a square meal? Kind Gentleman—Certainly, if the meal is a good one. Where is it?—The State.

"What in the world shall I do with baby, John? She's crying for the moon." "That's nothing. Wait till she's 18, and then she'll want the earth."—Truth.

"If within the business world
You make yourself a berth,
Let printers' ink the fact unfurl
That you are on the earth."
—Dalton Argus.

Carleton—Did you dally with the breakers at Asbury Park? Montauk—Yes; I met three charming girls, and they broke me in a week.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Mother—How do you know that he has ceased to love you? Marriageable Daughter—He buttons my gloves twice as quick as he used to.—Syracuse Post.

Dorcas—My dear, you remind me of the new patent folding bed you bought. Mrs. Dorcas—How so, love? Dorcas—Because you are so hard to shut up.—Judge.

In a New England restaurant. The Guest—What can I get here? The Matron—We have coffee as mother used to make it. The Guest—Well, gimme tea.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

'Tis the same old picnic sorrow
That comes as the seasons fly;
The man with the whitest pantaloons
Sits down in the pinkest pie.
—Washington Star.

"Some people," remarked the cannibal chief, as he passed his plate for a second supply, "have a mission in life, while others only have a missionary."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Peddler—That little book on "How to Preserve the Hair" is the key to the entire situation. Baldy—I am very sorry; but I haven't a single lock that it would fit.—Household Words.

He—Do you think blondes have more admirers than brunettes? She—I don't know. Why not ask some of the girls who have had experience in both capacities?—New Haven Union.

She—Surely, my dear, you will consider the matter carefully before consenting to Clara's marriage to old Mr. Cashman. He—Certainly. I shall have his books examined by an expert.—Life.

"You seem excited, dear, what has happened?" "Poor Jack Murray, I have just rejected him." "Oh, don't mind a little thing like that. Why, I reject him every six months!"—Louisville Journal.

There was a man in our town,
And he was wondrous wise,
He never bragged to his dear wife
About his mother's pies.
—Indianapolis Journal.

First Tramp—What would you do if you had a hundred thousand dollars? Second Tramp—In that case I think I'd feel it absolutely necessary to go to work to make it a million.—Roxbury Gazette.

"A mortal can never tell where he's going to be next in this life," said the moralist. "No," replied the man, with a bandage over his eye, "especially if he's learning to ride a bicycle."—Washington Star.

"What is the greatest difficulty you encounter in a journey to the arctic regions?" asked the inquisitive man. "Getting back home," was the prompt reply of the professional explorer.—Washington Star.

Little Elsie (looking at the giraffe at the Zoo)—"Oh, mamma! They have made that poor thing stand in the sun, haven't they?" Mamma—"Why do you say that, my dear?" Little Elsie—"Look at all its freckles."—Philadelphia Record.

Landowner (to party bobbing in the stream)—"Hello, there! don't you see that sign, 'No Fishing Here'?" Angler—"Yes; ain't it ridiculous? Fine fishing here; just look at that for a string (holding up a dozen or twenty big fellows); beauties, ain't they? The chap who stuck up that sign evidently didn't know what he was talking about."—Boston Transcript.

The World's Reading.

It is estimated that in England on an average each person spends $2.25 a year on books, periodicals, newspapers and so on, which would give a total of about $85,000,000. Some statistician has gone so far as to calculate that the aggregate annual circulation of the world is about 12,000,000,000 copies of printed matter of every kind, for which 781,250 tons of paper is used.

The height of tyranny—To arrest a brook because it murmurs.

A mutton-headed doctor always has his sheepskin with him.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood.
Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc.
Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts.
Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses.
Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy.
Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
79 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 90 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
No. 118½ $35. HEMINY CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO., W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sexine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address REAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Prominent Traveling Salesman.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN—I began taking LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS some time since for a very bad case of nervous dyspepsia and insomnia, and I am glad to state that it is doing for me what all other remedies tried by me failed to do—cure me. I have about finished my third box and I am more than pleased with its results, and I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering with nervous dyspepsia as a first-class medicine, and one that has merit. You are at liberty to use this letter in any manner you may see fit, as I am anxious indeed to have every one know who suffers with this dreadful disease how to get well.

Very truly yours,

G. R. RHOADES.

885 North Mississippi Street, City.

Found A Cure.

When moving into our present home I found a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm left by a former tenant. On the label I found the statement that it was good for cuts and burns. I can testify to the truth of this. Nothing in all my experience has found its equal for treating blisters or burns. F. E. Barrett, manager Le Sueur Sentinel, Le Sueur, Minn Pain Balm is also a sure cure for Rheumatism. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50tf

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

The World's Fair Tests

showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Like a Great Railway.

With its branches running in every direction, are the arteries and veins which convey the blood to every part of the system. A cold, sudden changes or exposure, may cause poisonous acids to clog the circulation, and then comes rheumatism. Beware! if you value life, remove obstruction with Dr. Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send you two large bottles by express—enough for a month's trertment,—with full special directions. Agents wanted. 32-34

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB, The World's Clothing Store, CHICAGO, ILL.

AGENTS WANTED!

To Take Orders.

Trade established, position permanent, weekly pay. WE PAY LIBERAL SALARY AND EXPENSES TO SUCCESSFUL AGENTS. Now is the best time to start. For terms write quickly. ELLWANGER & BARRY, Rochester, N.Y. Mount Hope Nurseries. Established 1840.

Restore a Lake.

The Milford, Kosciosko county, Mail says: A few years ago Dewart lake, that fine body of water lying six miles southeast of Milford, was drained and its water-level lowered several feet. This step was taken by the neighboring land owners in the hope of reclaiming a portion of the then submerged lands. The lands drained, however, have proved to be practically worthless for agricultural purposes, being nothing but marl beds, unfit for crop growing, or even pasturage, Seeing that in draining these they but damaged their beautiful lake, the farmers of the vicinity are now considering plans for damming the lake and thus restoring its former water level. The people hereabouts will be glad to see this result accomplished.

Ancient History.

St. Joe News.

Fifty-one years ago Henry Fales sold a lot of logs to John Dawson. In that early day, logs were transported mostly by pinning them together in rafts and floating them down the river to a sawmill. When Mr. Dawson got ready to raft his logs he found fourteen of them missing. Mr. Fales was positive he had the number, but as they were never found, there was always a feeling between the two men that a wrong had been committed. Mr. Dawson died many years ago, but Mr. Fales has lived to see the mystery cleared up. The water in the river has been very low this season and a lot of logs were discovered down over the bank near the residence of P. Bishop. Jimmie Driscoll succeeded in getting them out onto the bank and there are fourteen of them, sound as the day they were cut. Mr. Fales told Driscoll that he could have the logs if he got them out, and Jimmie may net quite a little profit from the sale of them. It hardly seems possible that the logs can be sound, yet they were when taken from the water. They being sunk under water while green, and this kept them from the air is what is said to have preserved them.

FREE STREET FAIR

AND STOCK MARKET

ALSO SIXTY-NINTH ANNIVERSARY OF

Peru, Ind., Aug. 26-31

Gov. Matthews and staff will be present on Aug. 27 to celebrate Peru Day. Miami tribe of Indians will parade. Balloon ascensions and races daily. High dive from 80-foot tower into a net. Niagara Falls painting, largest in the world, value $15,000, exhibited free. Midway Plaisance—World's fair production, cost of $10,000—by Chicago Columbian Amusement Co., A. Jahn, Mgr. Will give also Streets of Cairo, in which will be given Sword Combats, the Marriage Ceremony, Dancing Natives in the costumes of their native country. Turkish Theater, Persian Theater, Palace of Illusions, containing the Magician's masterpiece, Galatea, The Century Group and Niobe, World's Fair Search Light that was placed on Manufacturers' Building at the World's Fair, will positively be lighted every night. Fine Art display. Bicycle Races, and Parade with Lanterns on Wednesday, Aug 28 Military Competitive Drills. Fancy drills by Volpert Zouaves. Daily parade of Fancy Stock. No Entry Fee charged. Ten Bands of Music. Pure Food Exposition.

One Fare for Round Trip on Wabash R. R.

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg required to settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle Is of more value than any other kitchen utensil Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth Kokomo, Ind.

ROYAL Baking Powder.

Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder

World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

Butler Street Fair

The people of Butler are taking more pains than ever before in the preparation for a successful street fair. It will begin Sept. 24th and close the 27th, having a run of four days. They have provided special days for Waterloo and Edgerton. It will be remembered that last year a long procession of people with teams from Waterloo and vicinity went over to Butler in a body. The people over there make success of their free fair and we look to see this at least as good as the one they had last year. Remember the day, Sept. 24.

$1 AND COSTS.

Mr. Somerlott of Topeka Kansas and Eli Weaver of Auburn, Ind., were found by the Marshal clinging to the hitching rails near the public square late last night and he took them into the friendly embrace of the town calaboose. To day, he introduced them to 'Squire Walborn and they were each fined $1 and costs. Weaver paid, but the gentleman from Kansas went to board it out at the hotel de Stroh. It was a simple case of drunk and we hope may prove a warning to Weaver. The man from Kansas may be excused, perhaps on the ground that he had been starved on Kansas drug store drinks so long, that when he got into a real-for-surely saloon, he did not know when to stop. We hope he'll get used to our plain Indiana ways soon and do better. Now that the work of keeping drunken men off the streets has begun again, may we not reasonably hope that the recent three weeks' drunk of the editor of the Garrett Clipper may receive some notice. He made ten times the public display these men did, and has done so a hundred times.

SAW SPOOKS.

Indianapolis Sun.

Wm. Johnson, of this place, has been wearing weights on the ends of his hair for the past few days. Those of his friends who enjoy his confidence know the reason. He saw a sight down on the border of Ashland county which brought his hair up on end, and it refused to lie down without assistance.

According to William's story he was driving through a dense wood at midnight, when his attention was attracted to weird sounds of music and mourning. Johnson does not believe in spooks or anything of that kind. Hitching his horse at the side of the road, he started in the direction from which the sounds came.

The full moon was shining and its light penetrated the wood faintly. He ascended an elevation and found himself at the edge of a little valley that seemed to be partly cleared.

Down the center of the valley moved a strange procession. A long line of young women marched, two abreast, dressed in black, and each carrying a tiny torch in one hand and a phosphorescent cane in the other. They marched slowly, chanting weirdly and moving their arms in peculiar and rythmic gesticulations. Near the head of the procession four women robed in white carried a little coffin.

Johnson stepped forward unconsciously, and fell over a dead branch that lay in his path.

Instantly the procession stopped. It did not vanish in the regular order of spooks. Every woman raised her cane and pointed it at the intruder. Two of the marchers started towards him, and he ran for the road for dear life.

Johnson jumped into the buggy and drove rapidly away just as one of the figures reached the road. She waved her cane angrily at him, For an instant the wood was lit as if by lightning. Intense darkness followed, and when he turned his head to look for her, the woman was gone.

Johnson cannot explain the affair, and he has revised his opinion of spooks.

Heartily Recommends It.

My boy was taken with a desease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts newlife to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed onreceipt of price, $1 00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. old by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y36

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice, gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else, Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathony & Gerke.

From California.

ALHAMBRA, CAL., Aug. 9th, 1895.

EDITOR COURIER:—

After a brief rest at Los Angeles over Sunday, July 14th we took leave of Mr. S. C. Urey who on that day had delivered two sermons to his people at that place and after a few minues ride arrived at Alhambra. This place is seven miles from Los Angeles, three miles from Pasadena with Mount Low close beyond at an altitude of 4000 feet and Wilson's Peak above it at 8,000 feet. We can view these places from our home and the distance does not appear one fourth of what it is. The country here is one vast fruit garden with variations. I do know of a fruit but what seems to be indigenous to these parts and grow abundant as also does grain. Barley, wheat, corn and alfalfa, the latter is used mostly for cattle and hogs and is the best fattener next to corn, it is mowed from seven to eight times in a year, one-fourth of an acre nearly keeps a cow an entire year, The country is one grand scenery. Every home appears a miniature paradise. Song birds, flowers and fruits in profusion, of course man's art and the ever ready response of the soil made the scenery what it is. This is a fruit and grain country with gold mines in the mountains close by. Some valuable mining property has lately been discovered in the San Bernardino Mountains and coal oil in Los Angeles. A very rich vein was struck only last week at that place at a depth of only 900 feet. These industries are as yet in their infancy and no doubt in the near future, thousands will flock to this country in search for investments that will yield good returns. We were told in the east about the great heat prevalent here during the summer, but find ourselves mistaken. I append Prof. Franklin's report for July, '95 as follows. Los Angeles temperature during July '95, Mean temperature 68 degrees, Maximum temperature 85 degrees, Minimum 54 degrees, and the average for the past seventeen years during the month of July was 71 degrees. I am told that temperature of 90 or 95 are very exceptional in this valley and when it does get this warm the absence of humidity makes it less depressing than a temperature of that degree in the east. We greatly miss old associates and friends but our beautiful surroundings make up in part for this loss. Mrs. Rudolph's health has been very much benefited and her throat affection is diminishing and I think a cure is assured. Jessie also enjoys the climate and is well pleased. I think that for chest troubles of all kinds there is no country or climate superior to this. The COURIER comes regular now though of course a week later than printed but always welcome and pleased to hear from friends in Indiana. By the way, what has become of the Corunna correspondent? I hope he is not affected with writers cramp. More anon.

Yours Truly,

O. F. RUDOLPH.

A Growing Success.

C. E. DeVos, editor of the Cooperville (Mich.) Observer, is a worthy example of what push and energy, with keen business propensities, will accomplish. In a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. DeVos said: "I was born in Keene, Canada, in 1855. In 1857, I migrated with my parents to Pella, Iowa, received a common school education, drifted into the printing business, and removed to Battle Creek, Mich., where I became foreman in the large printing house of Gage & Son. I recently purchased the paper of which I am now editor. My life work has been very confining and exacting and, as a result, my health gave out and I broke down with nervous exhaustion and sleeplessness. I was in such a condition that I could not sleep until completely worn out, my appetite failed me and I had to choke down what little I did eat. About two months ago my attention was directed to Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep needed, my appetite returned and became as ravenous as a wolf's my weigh increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear and active, in fact, I was restored to health and I look and feel an entirely different man." Inquiry and observation has proved Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be a truly wonderful cure for all nerve troubles, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency and sexual general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport 31 35

BATTLE AX PLUG

The largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for 10 cents

Bar Association.

THE 35TH JUDICIAL CIRCUIT ATTORNEYS MEET AT LAKE JAMES.

We take from the Fort Wayne Journal, in part, the following minutes of the meeting of the Bar Association of the two counties of DeKalb and Steuben, composing the 35th circuit. The meeting was on Wednesday, August 14, at Lake James. They had decided to unite some time ago in one organization, the two old societies, as each county had up to this date, its separate society Temporary president was Joseph A. Woodhull secretary, D. A. Garwood, with a reception committee of S. A. Powers, E. A. Bratton, N. W. Gilbert. The committee on permanent organization was John W. Baxter, Frank Raby and Newton W. Gilbert. Aug. 14 was set for the first meeting and the following program was prepared for that day:

Paper—"The Universality of Law".....Cyrus Cline

Paper—"Private Corporations".....C. M. Brown

Paper—"Respect for the Law".....F. L. Welsheimer

Paper—"The Nicholson Bill".....F. M. Powers

Permanent organization.

Report of committee on permanent organization.

Election of officers.

Adjournment.

There were present at the beautiful summer resort about thirty members of the DeKalb county bar and about twenty five of the Steuben county bar, nearly all of whom were accompanied by their wives. The program was followed to the letter until the address of Mr. F. M. Powers, of Angola, on the Nicholson bill, was called. Mr. Powers in a few extemporaneous, remarks explained that he had prepared an elaborate digest of the Nicholson bill which he imagined would startle the state, but in view of the lateness of the hour and the hungry looks of his colleagues, he deemed it advisable not to shoot it off at that moment He further explained that he had arranged with a publisher (at legal rates) to print the address which he was expected to deliver, and so the audience would be enabled to take it in homeopathic doses, and everybody would be better pleased Therefore in lieu of his address, he moved that the assemblage would devote its attentions to the good things prepared by the caterer, instead of listening to what he had to say for or against the constitutionality of the Nicholson bill. His motion was heartily seconded by Mrs. Best, who occupied a foremost position from which she could not escape. Mr. Powers' address was accordingly dispensed with and a permanent organization was effected. The articles of incorporation were read and adopted. They provided for two meetings a year, the first to be held on the first Monday in January of each year at Auburn and the second to be held on the second Wednesday of August each year at Lake James.

All members of the DeKalb and Steuben county bar who were present and subscribed to the articles, were entitled to charter membership on the payment of fifty cents, and the wives and daughters of all such members were made honorary members. The election of officers was then proceeded with and such election in every case was unanimous. It resulted as follows:

President—Captain Hartman, of DeKalb.

Vice President—Wm. Brown, of Steuben.

Secretary Treasurer—Chas. M. Brown, of DeKalb.

Executive committee—N. W. Gilbert, with the elective officers added.

Historian—Judge J. I. Best

The business of the association was concluded with the election of the officers above named, and the eminent legal lights then devoted their attention exclusively to the satisfaction of the inner man in a bountiful repast which was served by the members of the Steuben county bar. After supper, boating parties were the order and it was long after dark before the last of the guests repaired to their quarters in the city.

REUNION

Mr. Dan Warner of Ohio brother of Mrs. Park took the latter by surprise last Thursday evening by walking in unexpectedly. Grandma Park is 83 years old, and her brother is 85. They had not met for thirty years, and it was then arranged to have "Aunties and Uncles and children" meet at the home of C. C. Buss Sunday for a reunion. There were forty present some of whom met for the first time. Those from Auburn were G. A. Porter and wife, J. R. Thomas and wife, Henry Lookwood and wife and Mrs. Anna Silvers, and a number from Ashley and different parts of Ohio. All enjoyed a splendid dinner. The hours were also spent in a social way, both indoors and out. Indoors there was music and singing and outdoors there was bicycle riding and other pastimes for the young, and as the sun was bending low in the west they were reminded that the hour for separation had come. But they went to their homes feeling that a most pleasant day had been theirs to enjoy.

DO YOU WANT SUMMER BOARDERS?

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. has in course of preparation for the season of 1896 a book of information for people desiring to learn of places at which to pass their summer vacation. This information is wanted both for hotels and boarding houses at summer resorts as well for farm houses wishing summer boarders. Send your name and address to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A. Cleveland, O., for a blank to be filled out to cover the matter desired for the book. 33 36

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Lake Everett.

Speaking of the proposed electric line from Ft. Wayne to their new summer resort, the Sentinel says: This week the surveying corps, under the superintendency of Henry Fisher, will finish the survey of the route for the new electric line to Lake Everett. The profile will then be submitted to the construction company at Toledo and if they are favorable and the Allen county Commissioners give the road a franchise, work will begin on the new line at once. Mr. C. E. Everett stated recently to a Sentinel representative that the construction company guaranteed to build and complete the line, fully equipping it with the necessary rolling stock, in twenty days. The fare for the round trip to the lake will likely be about twenty-five cents from any part of the city, as the road will connect with the city lines at West Main street. The management of the new resort have made one infallible rule and that is that no liquor is to be sold on their property about the lake.

Money Canned Up.

Goshen Daily Times.

Mrs. W. B. Garman, whose death was recorded in yesterday's Times, was a very peculiar character. It will be remembered that she was the widow of the late County Commissioner Garman, and had control of the earnings of the estate. She was a very frugal woman and saved every dollar possible during her life time. When she found death was near, she called her children around her and told them where she had certain money secreted of which they knew nothing. They already knew of $2,000 she had in one of the Elkhart banks, but were astounded to learn that she had hidden gold and silver coin in fruit jars and in different portions of the house, After her death search was made in the cellar, and $400 in gold and silver was found canned up in fruit. The cans were sealed and the coin lay imbedded in the fruit out of sight. The deceased was a relative of Deputy Clerk Kinney.

NAPOLEON AND THE BARBER.

From Harper's Round Table.

Napoleon's smooth face was a sure evidence of his dislike for a beard. In some anecdotes of the Russian campaign there is a story told of the great Emperor and a poor but witty barber, who had occasion to shave him.

Napoleon had made a rather lengthy detour from the line of march with a detour from the line of march with a detachment of officers. Arriving at a small village they refreshed themselves with a good meal and baths. Napoleon, wishing to be shaved, the village barber was called in. While the poor fellow strapped his razor and passed it industriously over the great Emperor's chin, he remained silent and seemingly melancholy, although performing his work with amazing rapidity and smoothness. When he had finished, Napoleon complimented him, remarking. "But, man why do you wear such a melancholy face? You should be happy to have the privilege of shaving an Emperor."

"I am doubly happy, your Majesty."

"Then what is it that troubles you?"

"Alas, your Majesty, when I think of the Kings upon Kings and Emperors that have died without knowing what it was to be shaved by me, I am sad and melancholy."

As It Was.

The 1776 story about the old grandfather ringing the bell of independence so vigorously when the fact had been proclaimed that the immortal declaration had been signed, and the colonies were free from the British yoke, is dispelled by a matter of fact statement from the Boston Globe that no such thing occurred. The sessions of congress were secret and there were no expectant throngs outside. No undue excitement over the matter. The resolution of independence was passed on the 2nd of July; the declaration accepted and passed on the 4th. It was printed on a large sheet of paper, presumably during the evening of the 4th and the morning of the 5th, and on that day was given to the world, bearing as attestation the names of John Hancock the president and Charles Thomson, the secretary of the continental congress. It was "officially" read to the public, not on the 4th, but probably on the 8th of July. The engrossed parchment, as we now see it, signed by the immortal 56, was not ready for signature until Aug. 2, when it was generally signed As absent members returned they affixed their signatures, Thomas McKean, for example, signing as late as the winter of '77, the precise date not being known. The proceeding as to the signing were kept secret by congress and entered only on the "Secret Journal.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no Worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed. WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 228 South Eighth Street, Philad., Pa.

Thomas Hovenden

Hovenden the most famous painter in the United States was killed at Norristown Pa., yesterday by a railway trains He saw a little girl step in front of a train and jumped to save her and both he and the child were caught and killed. It was a most heroic act, but seems all the more dreadful from the fact that the sacrifice of his life did not save the child. All who attended the world's fair and saw the noted pictures in the art gallery will remember the throngs that gathered each day to look at "Breaking Home Ties." Then there was "Bringing Home the Bride" and some other pictures of home life, all so natural and life like that people looked at them for hours, and then came back to look again. His tragic death is a sad blow to American art.

Palpitation of the Heart

Shortness of Breath, Swelling of Legs and Feet.

"For about four years I was troubled with palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and swelling of the legs and feet. At times I would faint. I was treated by the best physicians in Savannah, Ga., with no relief. I then tried various Springs without benefit. Finally, I tried also his Nerve and Liver Pills. After beginning to take them I felt better! I continued taking them and I am now in better health than for many years. Since my recovery I have gained fifty pounds in weight. I hope this statement may be of value to some poor sufferer."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

E. E. SUTTON, Ways Station, Ga.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1. 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle&Son., Auburn.

Waterproof collars and cuffs that you can clean yourself by simply wiping off with a wet sponge. The genuine look exactly like linen and every piece is marked this way:

TRADE CELLULOID MARK.

They are made by covering a linen collar or cuff with "celluloid," and are the only waterproof goods made with an interlining, and the only goods that can stand the wear and give perfect satisfaction. Never wilt and not effected by moisture. Try them and you will never regret it. Ask for those with above trade mark and refuse any imitations. If your dealer does not have them we will mail you a sample direct on receipt of price. Collars 25c. each. Cuffs 50c. pair. State whether stand-up or turned-down collar is wanted.

The Celluloid Company,

427-429 Broadway, New York.

DELICATE WOMEN Should Use BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR.

IT IS A SUPERB TONIC and exerts a wonderful influence in strengthening her system by driving through the proper channel all impurities. Health and strength are guaranteed to result from its use.

My wife was bedridden for eighteen months, after using BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR for two months, is getting well.—J. M. JOHNSON, Malvern, Ark.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Sold by all Druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. AUGUST 29. 1895. NUMBER 35

Recorder's Office

SAY : :

HOW MUCH DO YOU OWE?

Who holds your mortgage? How much int rest are you paying? Do you owe a building loan association anything? If you do, how much interest are you paying them? Unless you are better posted than the majority of people who have such loans, you cannot tell. You think you are paying 6 per cent. Do you know (of course not) that you are paying at least 12 per cent. If you think not, just figure it out yourself. Now then, are you not paying 6 per cent interest and 6 per cent premium? Certainly. Well now don't you know that premium and interest are the same thing—its all interest. Can you afford to pay 12 per cent interest to a loan association when even your banks only charge 8 per cent and you think they are charging too much, and when do you expect to have your loan canceled or paid off in full? You have been told 72 or 78 months. Now then, we undertake to say that it will take you 100 months, if you will call on us we will show you so you will be satisfied that we are right. Now then, we are prepared to loan you money on monthly installment plan for 8 per cent, we charge you no membership fee and you do not have to make three or more payments in advance so that if on account of insufficient security or bad title your loan is rejected you will not lose one cent. You pay nothing unless your loan is granted. We are making farm loans at from 3 to 5 per cent with privilege of partial payments.

ANOTHER THING!

There is scarcely a day but what there is some traveling agent for some building loan association in Auburn soliciting business, selling stock upon which they charge you a membership fee of from 50 cents to $1.00 per share, which amount goes to the agent and you never get back this money thrown away. If you will call on us we will take your application for all the stock you want in the BEST (we can prove it) building loan association in the state the INDIANA MUTUAL OF INDIANAPOLIS, and charge you No MEMBERSHIP FEE AT ALL. This is certainly fair. If you have any investment stock in any association just write them a letter and ask them the withdrawal value of same, their reply will probably open your eyes. What would you say if you would deposit $8.00 per month in your bank for one year and wanted to withdraw the same and they would offer to pay you only about $80? The bank would only have to do this in one case to be compelled to retire from business. Now you pay ten dollars membership fee and 8 dollars for 12 months making 108 dollars, you lose the 10 dollars membership fee and 10 cents per share each month for expenses, making 12 dollars, or a total of 22 dollars loss upon which you would receive 6 per cent interest for average time on 96 dollars, making 2 dollars and 88 cts. from 22 dollars would leave you a loser of 19 dollars and 12 cents. In our association your stock is worth all you have paid in, with its interest added, so that upon withdrawal you do not get less than you paid. We want the people of Auburn to become familiar with this matter, and would like to have any that are interested to call and talk with us, we can give you some pointers.

We are still in the Real Estate, Insurance and R. R. Ticket business.

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN INDIANA.

32nd Anniversary

The Presbyterian church at Waterloo gives an anniversary social to-morrow evening, to celebrate the 32nd year of the church's organization. The invitations sent out contain a small satin bag in which the 32 pennies hoped for may be placed, and the follywing poetry is enclosed:

This Anniversary is given to you,
'Tis something novel, 'tis something new.
We send to each this little sack,
Please either send or bring it back
With as many cents as the Church is old;
(The number of years has already been told.)
Kind friends will give you something to eat,
And others will furnish a literary treat.
The "Nickel Social," with greetings most hearty,
Feel sure you will come to this Anniversary Party.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill, writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back, and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began the use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once Electric Bitters is especially adapted to the cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 50 cents for large bottles at Robbins & McCord's drug store. 6

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winnesheik Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

You can have most any article of iron or brass manufactured at the Junction Foundry.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Ex-Governor Campbell.

The Ohio democrats yesterday, again nominated Ex Gov. Campbell to be their standard bearer in the coming campaign. Though much against his will, he has consented to run. The fight between the free silver men, and those against their extreme views, resulted against the free silver by about two to one. The free silver men, by their undue haste and lack of judgment are proving to be the worst enemy that silver has. Extreme views will not succeed in this great country.

A Success.

Special to the COURIER.

St. Joe, Ind. Aug. 23, 1865:—The annual reunion picnic of the old Spencerville charge of the Lutheran church which was held at this place yesterday proved to be one of the most successful ever attempted. The crowd began to arrive early in the morning and continued to come until late in the afternoon when the woods were pretty well filled. The exercises were of a high order and reflected much credit on those who participated in them. The music by the famous Botterton family band was one of the most enjoyable features of the occasion and their stirring music kept the large crowd in an excellent good humor during the entire day.

The Lutheran church people here served dinner to all those who desired and the young people supplied the wants of those who cared for ice cream lemon ade, etc. The verdict of everyone was that the picnic was a great success.

Among Auburn people present were noticed G. A. Bishop and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. B, Olds, Mr. and Mrs. J. K Stafford and daughter Ida, Mr. and Mrs. E. Zimmerman and daughter Bessie, Mrs. Laura Draggoo and son Fred, Rev. Trover and others whose names we did not get.

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of De Witt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

Superior to Any Other.

In order to introduce Chamberlain's Cough Remedy here we sold several dozen bottles on strict guarantee and have found every bottle did good service. We have used it ourselves and think it superior to any other. W. I. Mowery, Jarvisville, W. Va. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31-35

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Relief In Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

IMPROVEMENTS.

AT THE ECKHART CARRIAGE FACTORY EAST OF TOWN.

Big Additions and Improvements to be Made to that already Large Plant.

Between Sept. 1 and Oct. 1 there will be a great change at the Eckhart Carriage Company's big works in the east part of the city. We had already spoken of the new side track and a little as to the proposed additions to the buildings, but we soon found we had only a limited knowledge of the great changes that were to be made. So we planned another, and more leisurely visit. The first point of interest is the new railroad, or side track, 1840 feet long, that leaves the Wabash main line at the whistle post a half mile east of the city station, and comes out and touches east Seventh street just on the east side of the factory building. This, of course brings the new track exactly in line with the center of the road to the fair ground which is 80 rods north. Going southwest on the new track we pass over the part of the premises recently bought of Cook Ford. This land gave a suitable line for a track with little work and an easy grade. The Eckhart Company did the grading and furnished the ties, while the railroad company furnished the iron and put it on. They also ballast up the road bed, having a full force of section men at work at this to-day. The construction is good, the ties are good, and the iron is first class, such as would do on a main track. We might add that the first train will run to-day, at least, an engine will haul up a car load of lumber for the new buildings. The car was waiting at the station side track when we were out there This will be a new experience for east Seventh street. A 100 foot spur track will also be put in, in a short time. Coming back to the factory, we find a number of men and teams grading ground for the new buildings. These new buildings will be put up at the south of the present ones, and will add at least 60 per cent. to the factory accommodations. The additions and new buildings are:

An addition to the main building, extending south, 50 by 40 feet and two stories high.

An addition to the trim shop part, 60 by 32 feet, two stories high.

An addition to the blacksmithing building 3 x50, and one story high.

All these additions extend to the south and connect with the new, large building that runs east and west 200 feet by 136 feet north and south. It reaches east to within a few feet of the new track. These buildings and additions are so arranged as to form or sort of square, or at least enclose the grounds between them. Some changes will be made in the kind of work in the different rooms, after all are completed, so as to accommodate things to the proposed increase of the output of the factory.

An elevator will be put into the main building near the Seventh street end, and this will greatly facilitate the movement of material and work between the first and second stories. We might add that there will be a regular system of continuous movement of work and material from the time it enters the factory until it has passed from room to room and department to department, till the finished job reaches a part of the factory where it can be conveniently put into cars or otherwise taken off for shipping. Everthing will be reduced to simple yet regular plans of work. They expect to have electric lights shortly, and a telephone to give communication down town and to railway stations.

They will also have a fire alarm and fire cistern for use in case of fire.

The lumber for the new buildings will be there in a few days and will be in all, about twelve car loads, or 115 thousand feet.

The additions to the buil lings, will increase the floor space from 22,000 feet to 37,000, and will cost with the amount put into the side track over $4,000. But they will be enabled next year to increase their output to over 4000 finished carriages as compared with 3,000 this car

Next year they will also extend their trade into states not heretofore touched, and among others expect to take a prominent place in the carriage trade of New York State.

All of which goes to show, that the Eckhart Carriage Company is in a highly prosperous condition and is going to push its business with a vim characteristic of all their ways.

The little building Mr. Eckhart began in twenty years ago, and now used as part of the blacksmith shop, gives one an idea of the way their business has grown since then, for they will next year employ a hundred men.

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind 50t

Bad Little Sister.

Washington Post.

A South Washington girl named Mamie had a most embarrassing experience last evening. Dressed in her best white gown, she slipped out from her home to take a street car ride with her young man, whom she met on the corner. Her parents did not know that she was out, and she did not intend that her little sister, seven years old, and her little brother of six, should know it. But they saw her meet the young man, and then the two little people followed the couple to the street cars.

As the young man was finding a seat for the girl—the car was crowded—the little sister called out:

"Oh, Mamie, I'm going to tell mama!" The girl blushed, and the young man laughed.

"Mamie, ith that your bes' feller?"

This time the young man blushed. Mamie, however did not laugh.

"Mamie, you didn't wash up the dishes, an' I'm goin' to tell!"

The poor girl blushed fiery red, and the street car passengers were brutal enough to titter audibly.

The car, it should be explained, had stopped to let a long freight train cross the street ahead of it, and there seemed to be no chance for the young lovers to escape from their tormentors. The young man threw a nickel to the children and told them to run on. The little sister picked up the coin.

"I want a nickel, too!" yelled the boy. "Mister, I want a nickel."

The young man ran his hand into his pocket, and drew it out empty.

"Oh, he hain't got no more money," cried the little sister "Mamie you won't have no fun at all. Better——"

Just then the street car started, and the last taunting words of the sharp little sister were drowned by the rumble of the wheels.

Thistle Coming.

Indianapolis Sentinel.

Indiana is threatened with a new disaster which may prove a very serious thing. It is reported that the Russian thistle is now found growing in Lake, Porter and Laporte counties. It is supposed to be the product of seeds dropped from grain cars passing through those counties, as eight of the east and west trunk lines to Chicago pass through all of them. It is hardly possible to overestimate the danger to agriculture in the east.—The amazing rapidity of its spread in the northwest, and the genuine alarm that exists there in regard to it, ought to be sufficient warning to our people. The Sentinel would suggest that the state board of agriculture ought to investigate this matter at once and impress on the people of the counties where it has appeared the importance of exterminating it at once. The only sure way of getting rid of it is to burn the plant, roots and all. A great deal of trouble may be saved in this case by prompt action.

More About It.

THE ECKHART IMPROVEMENTS MEAN MORE NEW FACTORIES.

In writing up the Eckhart Co., improvements yesterday, we omitted one very interesting part as we did not fully understand it. It relates to securing the right of way for the new side track. Of course, Cook Ford who owned the land through which it must go, could see that a diagonal track through a small piece of land would ruin it, and so refused to sell merely a right of way but was willing to sell the whole seven acres. At this point the matter stopped for a time, and it looked as if the new track would not be secured. Finally some one started to circulate a paper, but had not gone far when several men stepped in and gave, each, a part of the money needed to make the $700. The parties are: Judge McClellan, $100; Charles Eckhart $100; J. W. Baxter, $100; Bishop & Lackey, $100; Albert Robbins, $100; G. H. Yeahera, $50; A. Lewis, $50; Schaab Bros $25; Hebel Bros., $25; and the general subscription paper first started had $50 more, making the needed amount. We suppose this land will become the property of a company composed of the men named, though we are not sure such is the case. But no matter who is owner it gives ample room for more factories. It is not impossible that the east part of town may in time become the seat of extensive manufacturing interests, for in addition to the good sites already mentioned the new side track, as noted, is headed directly north in line with the road to the fair ground. And along that road is an extra strip of twenty feet in width which belongs to the fair ground property. On the fair ground are many good buildings, some very large, that could be easily utilized for factory purposes. It has even been talked up that a company might be induced to locate there. Hon. R. M. Lockhart, of Waterloo, has had in view a firm in the east, who make furniture, etc., who could use the buildings to advantage. At all events these pointers are worth considering. A few acres of factories added to our already large interests of that kind would be acceptable.

PEOPLE

ARE BUYING EARLY

The Fall Trade is opening up much earlier than ever before.

WE BUY EARLY

as possible because we feel that we not only get the Closest Prices, but also the "CREAM" of everything in our line. No doubt you feel the same as we do. At any rate we are prepared to show you a very

CHOICE STOCK OF

New Dry Goods,
New Clothing,
New Hats and Caps,
New Gents' Furnishings,
New Carpets

Which we have bought for cash and are offering at the lowest possible living prices. All Summer Goods at Less than Cost.

SCHAAB & BRO.

Don't Forget

That we are HEADQUARTERS FOR

Bryan Plows, Ball Bearing Disc Harrows, Superior and Empire Grain Drills, Turnbull Wagons and Eckhart Buggies.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland

AUBURN, IND.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

THE NEWS RECORD.

SUMMARY OF A WEEK'S HAPPENINGS.

The Latest News as Flashed Over the Wires from All Parts of the World—Regarding Politics, Religion, Casualties, Commerce, and Industry.

SAILED FOR CUBA.

With Men and Arms for the Insurgents.

Carrabelle (Fla.) special: A steamer sailed from Ocklocknee Bay, a point near here, on the Gulf, carrying arms and men to Cuban insurgents. The steamer had been off the coast for a week. At night she would anchor in Ocklocknee Bay, and boats would come alongside, bringing the arms and men. Arms were shipped here from New Orleans. They were consigned to unknown parties, but were always promptly removed. They were taken to Ocklocknee River and transported to the steamer by boat. Men who went on the expedition have been arriving for some time. They rendezvoused on the river, and at night put off to the vessel. Washington authorities learned of the expedition, but too late for Marshal Puleston, of the Northern District of Florida, to detain the vessel, and, when he arrived here, was greatly disappointed to find here gone. It is said revenue cutters at Key West and Tampa have been ordered to intercept her.

A Train Robber Killed.

John Smalley, supposed to be one of the Chicago & West Michigan train robbers, and the man who killed Detective Powers, in Grand Rapids, Mich., was shot and instantly killed by Officers Spafford and McBain, who attemped to arrest Smalley at the home of his brother-in-law, Charles Brown. Smalley, who tallied closely with the description of Powers' murderer, returned to Grand Rapids, after an absence of several days. He acted in a suspicious manner and the officers decided to place him under arrest. They called upon him to throw up his hands, but instead of complying, Smalley reached for his revolver, whereupon both officers fired, killing him instantly.

Help Needed to Protect Defenseless People in China.

London special: A dispatch received here from Shanghai, says that many Chinese converts were butchered when the American mission outside of Foo Chow was attacked, and the chapel and school were wrecked by an infuriated mob.

Commander Newell, of the United States cruiser, Detroit, has gone to Cheng Tu to consult with J. C. Hixson, United States consul at Foo Chow, about landing marines for the protection of the people, and for the protection of the members of the commission investigating the massacres, as the latter are paretically prisoners.

She Did Well.

Ed King, an ex-convict and notorious character, was shot by Miss Armstead at Gallipolis, Ohio. King was boisterous and threatened to kill the girl, when she drew a revolver and fired, the bullet taking effect in the right thigh. Miss Armstead gave herself up, but was discharged on her plea of self-defense. King was arrested and jailed by Marshal Kuhn and Officer Martin for stealing a watch last October from J. B. Lyon, of Logan, Ohio. The watch was recovered.

Dropped a Match Into an Empty Whisky Barrel.

At East Liverpool, Ohio, a young man named Debbs dropped a lighted match into the bunghole of an empty wiskey barrel. The barrel exploded like a ton of dynamite, flying into a thousand pieces. Parts of Debbs' head was blown off and he was hurled across the street. He is still unconscious and so mangled that he cannot live.

Steamboats Collide.

Six persons were injured, two probably fatally, in a collision in Maumee Bay, six miles from Toledo, Ohio, between the schooner Madeline T. Downing and the steel passenger steamer City of Toledo. The vessels are both badly wrecked, and the City of Toledo may be laid up for the balance of the season. The injured are principally excursionists from Ada, Ohio.

Shook the Bottle.

At Francisville, Ind., a man named Hooker was killed by the explosion of what was supposed to be a bottle of liniment, which he had been taken lame, and stand, I [illegible] His horse had been seized [illegible] cident happened while he was shaking [illegible] snuff preparatory to bathing the [illegible] insanity. [illegible] affected parts. The bottle burst [illegible] fragment of the glass severed one of the carotid arteries, and he bled to death.

Oil Drops Again.

Lima (O.) special: The price of Lima oil was reduced 2 cents again by the Standard Company, making North Lima 68 cents, South Lima 66 cents, Indiana 59 cents, Eastern $1.25. This makes a drop of 5 cents within three days. The oil men say this will tend to discourage much prospective drilling.

Fell Into a Pot of Lye.

The little 18-months-old daughter of Rudolph Schneider, living a mile north of Wapakoneta, Ohio, climbed over and fell headlong into a kettle of lye. If she survives she will be totally blind.

Mother's Awful Mistake.

Hattie Outlaw, colored, of Newbern, N. C., killed her two little children, aged 3 and 8 years, girl and boy respectively, by administering a dose of strychnine by mistake for quinine.

Marion's Big Fire.

Fire completely destroyed the plant of the Marion Horseshoe Company at Marion, Ind., throwing out of employment 1,000 men and entailing a loss of $25,000, without any insurance.

Out on a Strike.

Dundee, special: It is now estimated that 25,000 mill workers are out on strike. The manufacturers met the other day, and signed an agreement not to advance wages under the penalty of £500 for a violation of this agreement. This is the place where the men struck without waiting to see whether their demand for increase of wages would be granted.

Fire at Shelbyville, Ind.

Fire destroyed Comry, Bierly & Co.'s table factory at Shelbyville, Ind. Loss, $55,000; two-thirds insured.

ANOTHER HOLD-UP.

Bold Train Robbery Not Far From Grand Rapids, Mich.

Grand Rapids special: The fast express on the Chicago & West Michigan road, was held up by five men in a piece of woods, just before crossing the Kalamazoo River, Wednesday night. The train was flagged, and when it stopped, Conductor E. H. Rice stepped out on the platform of the baggage car, and, seeing two of the robbers, asked, "What's the matter?" The reply was two shots from their revolvers. At the same time other shots were fired into the engineer's cab and a moment later two men climbed on the engine and ordered the engineer and fireman to set the brakes and keep quiet. A fusillade of firing was keep up, and Brakeman Timothy Murphy received a severe flesh wound, a bullet striking him on a rib. The robbers blew open the safe in the express car but got nothing as it was empty. They then robbed the conductor securing $7.00, and departed.

SHOT BY ROBBERS.

Detective Powers Attacked on a G. R. & I. Train.

Grand Rapids (Mich.) special: Detective Powers was shot in the head and killed while arresting two of the train robbers who held up the Chicago and West Michigan passenger train Tuesday night near New Richmond, in a smoker of the north-bound Grand Rapids and Indiana train at this place.

Word was sent to the police headquarters that two men got aboard a Lake Shore train at Dorr station and came to this city. The two strangers were spotted on the outgoing train, for all the trains had been under surveillance for the two suspects. As the detective was going through the train, and as he entered the smoker he saw two men who tallied with the description given.

He grabbed one, and at the same time blew his whistle for aid, as other officers were aboard going through other cars. The moment he blew his whistle, one of the men drew a revolver and shot him through the head, and he fell to the car floor. As the other officers rushed in, in response to his whistle, the two men fled and jumped from the train, escaping in the darkness.

The whole detective force was at once called out and every available police was detailed and the county is being scoured for the two desperadoes.

SHRINKING.

Volume of Business for the Past Week Does Not Show What It Should.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their Weekly Review of Trade says:

The volume of business shrinks, as is natural in August, and the shrinkage seems rather larger than usual because transactions in July were somewhat inflated for that month. The settlement of the wage question in the window-glass works foreshadows higher prices, and the carpet workers about Philadelphia, by proposing to accept higher wages after September 16, broke the ranks of employers, so that nearly all consented to an advance of 7½ per cent. The strikes of clothing workers progress every day toward better wages for the employed.

The price of wheat has fallen 3¾ cents during the week, recovering a fraction on Thursday, in spite of all effort to hold back supplies from farms and to encourage buying. Wheat ought to go abroad freely at present prices, but Atlantic exports, flour included, have only been 1,352,602 for the week, against 2,964,674 last year. Impressive stories of short crops abroad have little weight in the presence of such a record.

Corn has declined 4¼ cents while pork and lard, with accustomed inconsistency, rise a shade as corn declines.

The Roof Falls.

Chicago special: The Coliseum building, a great open structure which was being erected by the Chicago Exhibition company, on the block bound by Hope and Stoney Island avenues and Sixty-third and Sixty-second streets, was wrecked by the collapse of the iron roof. If the disaster to the building had occurred a little earlier there would have been great loss of life, as over half a hundred men had just quit work for the night. When the massive arches of iron began to break loose from their fastenings on the four sides of the structure, the strain was too much for the thin, low walls of pressed brick. With a deafening sound the mass of iron carried with it the four walls in a chaotic heap towards the center and the work of destruction was complete.

The Attack on the American Mission.

London special: A dispatch to the Times from Hong Kong confirms the attack upon the American mission near Foo Chow and a dangerous state of the populace of that city. According to the Times dispatch, the American school was situated just outside of the west gate of Foo Chow. The dispatch adds: "The situation at Ku Cheng is unchanged. Capt. John S. Newell of the United States cruiser Detroit, and Dr. Hart have gone from Foo Chow. More anti-foreign placards and pamphlets are being distributed at Canton."

Desperate Fight with Murderers.

Ardmore (I. T.) special: The noted Christian gang of murderers and outlaws have been surrounded by a cordon of deputy United States marshals six miles west of Purcell. In an encounter between the outlaws and marshals, Bob Christian and Deputy Marshal Hocker of Purcell, were both shot and badly wounded. Officers were finally forced to make a retreat and telegraphed to the Sheriff for reinforcements. A special train bearing a strong posse of deputies left here and a desperate battle seems inevitable before long.

He Struck the Blow.

Frank A. Fassnacht has announced to the police that he was the person who struck the blow which resulted in John Stafferson's death at Detroit. Fassnacht says Stafferson persisted in following himself and the lady whom he was escorting until his conduct became unbearable.

Ex-Governor Morris Dead.

Ex-Governor Luzon B. Morris was found unconscious in his office at New Haven, Conn. Doctors pronounced it a case of vertigo. He died soon after he was discovered.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 2, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 44c to 45c; butter, choice creamery, 18c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 11c to 13c; potatoes, new, per bushel, 35c to 45c; broom corn, Illinois, poor to choice, $55 to $100 per ton.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 1 white, 36c to 38c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 35c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 40c to 41c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $5.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 45c to 47c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 39c to 40c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; rye, 44c to 46c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 71c to 72c; corn, No. 2 white, 40c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, No. 2, 45c to 46c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, $3.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 72c to 73c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 43c to 44c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 3, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; barley, No. 2, 42c to 44c; rye, No. 1, 45c to 47c; pork, mess, $9.00 to $9.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2, 46c to 47c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c; butter, creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, Western, 13c to 14c.

DIGGING FOR DEAD.

BODIES RECOVERED FROM THE DENVER HOTEL RUINS.

Engineer Pierce, Whose Negligence Caused the Horror, Himself a Victim of His Own Carelessness—Fire in Milwaukee—Outrages by the Chinese.

Twenty-five the Death Roll.

A portion of the Gumry Hotel, Denver, the scene of the frightful disaster, is still standing, gaunt and sinister, constantly threatening to crash down at any moment upon those delving in the ruins. The search for victims has been carried on with the utmost energy constantly, with the aid of twenty arc lights. The list of dead and missing now numbers twenty-five, making the disaster the worst that ever occurred in the city. It is clearly proved that the tragedy was due to the carelessness of the engineer, who turned water into the boilers which had become overheated. Pierce, the engineer, it is said, was intoxicated.

Some of the victims were instantly killed; others were buried in the ruins where they slowly burned to death, the building having taken fire after the explosion; others were rescued after suffering horrible tortures only to die in hospital or on the way to it, while others still suffered injuries that will seriously affect them during life.

For several hours after the disaster the scenes amid the ruins of the hotel were such that men turned pale and stood helpless with sorrow and horror. Several persons were seen slowly burning to death, but they were so weighted down with debris and encompassed by flame that no aid could be given them. Some of them begged piteously to be killed that they might not be forced to endure the torture of fire, while others, needing only the chopping off of a limb to be free, implored the firemen to cut off a leg or an arm. Most of the victims were persons prominent in the affairs of the State.

The total loss caused by the explosion and fire is $75,000. The Gumry Hotel was worth about $25,000 and had $8,000 worth of furniture. It is a total wreck, but was insured for $25,000. The McMann Block, which stands next to the Gumry, was also heavily damaged. It is owned by Colonel E. A. Bishop and was built in 1890. It is a four-story pressed brick and is occupied throughout by the A. Lilliblade Furniture Company. The whole rear end of this block was ruined. The loss on the building is about $25,000, as the building will have to be torn down. This block is insured for $15,000. The stock of A. Lilliblade, valued at $30,000, is only partly lost.

HOTEL THAT PROVED A DEATH-TRAP.

swath from one to three blocks wide to Sixth street. A stiff breeze served to fan the flames and sent them traveling west over the yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad Company with startling rapidity, destroying in their path the freight warehouses of railroad and steamship companies, valuable freight in storage and railway cars.

For four hours all the fire apparatus, firemen and employes of the railroad company in the city fought the progress of the flames before they were under control. When the fighters finished work two companies of firemen were left to guard half a square mile of glowing embers. During the exciting scenes incident to fire-fighting a boy was run over by a fire engine and killed. The losses are divided as follows:

Buildings in the freight yard, all owned by the C., M. & St. P. R. R. Co.	$100,000
Union Steamboat Company	40,000
Anchor line (Pennsylvania Co.)	40,000
Sixty freight cars (C., M. & St. P. Co.)	50,000
Wisconsin Central, freight	30,000
C., M. & St. P. Co. freight	70,000
Franklin refiners of Philadelphia	37,000
Delaney warehouse, damaged	5,000
Pritzlaff warehouse, damaged	2,000
P. F. Doyne's factory	2,000
Twelve frame houses, damaged	6,000
Total	$382,000

Insurance companies, however, will stand the greater portion of the loss. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Company, by far the heaviest loser, is fully protected by insurance, as are the steamship and manufacturing concerns. The dozen frame cottages that stand on the north edge of the burned district, and were all more or less damaged by the blaze, are owned by workingmen, who must stand their own losses. They suffered not only by damage done to their homes by the fire, but in the excitement the house furnishings were thrown into the street and nearly destroyed.

Ashes from the pipe of a careless longshoreman at work on the docks of the Union Steamboat Company are believed to have caused the expensive blaze. No one knows just how it started. When first seen it was burning on the planking of the dock close to the south end of the building at a point where there is a bend in the river, several hundred feet west of the West Water street bridge. A southwest gale blowing over the city at a thirty-mile-an-hour gait fanned it, and in less time than it takes to tell the story the flames were licking up 1,500 feet of valuable river front property.

THE RUSSIAN THISTLE FOUND IN INDIANA.

LIST OF THE MISSIONARIES.

Names of the Men and Women Who Are in Danger at Foo Chow.

The riots at Foo Chow, reported in the latest dispatches, are much more serious than those in the interior and give the friends of the missionaries and missionary work more concern. Foo Chow is near the coast, and is a city of importance. A dispatch to the London Times from Hong Kong confirms the dispatch announcing the attack upon the American mission near Foo Chow and a dangerous state of the populace of that city. Foo Chow is an important station of the Methodist Episcopal church's missionary work. The mission was begun in 1847, and is now under the general supervision of Bishop Goodsell, assisted by the following missionaries and their wives: N. J. Plumb, G. B. Smyth, M. C. Wilcox, W. H. Lacy, J. J. Gregory, M. D.; J. H. Worley, W. N. Brewster, G. S. Miner, and Miss Sarah M. Bosworth. There are also a number of women missionaries sent out by the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, who work in conjunction with the bishop and his aids. These missionaries are located in various towns and villages near Foo Chow, and of course, in case of such an uprising as reported, might be murdered before assistance could be sent to them or they could assemble at the American school, near the gates of Foo Chow.

JOE PATCHEN KING.

Defeats John R. Gentry for the World's Pacing Championship.

Joe Patchen is the champion stallion pacer of the world. Fourteen thousand persons saw him wrest the championship from John R. Gentry, winning three straight heats and the race, at Washington Park, Chicago, Thursday afternoon. No records were broken owing to the strong southwest wind, the mile heats being paced in 2:05¼, 2:07¼, and 2:07¼ respectively. But loud and lusty cheers rang out when the big black horse came in easily in the third heat, for his smaller cousin, Gentry, had been picked as the victor before the race began.

It was the fifth and biggest day of the meeting of the Northwestern Breeders' Association. To promote true sport the association offered $11,000 in prizes to trotters and pacers. And for love of the sport 14,000 persons went to Washington Park to see the two stallion pacers fight for victory. Betting there was none except perhaps a few private wagers between friends. The crowd was there, not for betting, but to see Patchen and Gentry strive for the championship. Gentry made a gallant struggle, but his big black cousin was too much for him.

FIRE IN MILWAUKEE.

Valuable Railroad and Steamboat Property Swept Away.

Fire burned over a dozen blocks in Milwaukee Thursday and destroyed property worth $382,000. It started on the river front at the Water street bridge and before it was stopped it had burned a

INSANE ASYLUM HORRORS.

Patients Permitted to Mangle and Maim Each Other.

The investigation of the Cook County (Ill.) Commissioners into the management of the Dunning Insane Asylum began Tuesday. Thirty thousand words of testimony were taken at the first sitting.

HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE AT DUNNING.

Toward the end of the day's sitting came a horrible story, that in detail was more barbarous than the story of the Pucik murder. It was told by Dr. McGrew, resident physician of Dunning Asylum. It concerned a battle between two mad men, who had fought in the corridor of ward 2 while Anderson, accessory to the murder of Pucik, was on watch. These two patients quarreled over some silly, childish difference. They came to blows. They tore at each other's faces and rolled about the floor. One of them, in the frenzy of a raving maniac, set his teeth into the face of the other. He bit off his nose and spat it out on the stone floor of the corridor. The maniac with whom this patient was battling sprang away from the death grip, fell bleeding and screaming to the floor, saw the flesh torn from his own face, stuffed it into his mouth and chewed his own nose to a pulp and swallowed it. He said that would make it grow again, and Anderson, the attendant, looked on. This was the sworn testimony of Dr. McGrew, resident physician at Dunning Asylum. While it was being given one of the commissioners turned sick and pale. Julia Addams, one of the committee, covered her face with her hands and clutched at the arm of her chair. Although the inquiry was only begun, enough was drawn out to show that great abuses have been practiced in the asylum.

THE CROOK OF THE CENTURY.

An Unsurpassed Counterfeiter Captured at Last.

It was very efficient work on the part of the New York secret service men which succeeded in breaking up a gang of counterfeiters, seizing their plant at Hoboken, N. J., and capturing their head, William E. Brockway. It was long known that counterfeit gold certificates for $500 and $100 were being issued, but it was hard to track up the criminals. Valuable plates were taken and Canadian notes, half printed, for $200,000, together with fibre paper and many United States notes. No plant of such magnitude and so complete in every feature has been secured by secret service men for years.

Besides Brockway, who is regarded as the most expert counterfeiter in the country, and who is 73 years old, O. E. Bradford, Libbie and Sidney Smith and William E. Wagner were also taken. These others are comparatively little known, but Brockway has lived a life filled with deeds of crime and adventure. In many respects he is one of the most notorious criminals of this class this country has produced. Only one crook overshadowed him in point of skillful work as a counterfeiter, and he was Tom Ballard, who, it was said, possessed a better formula for making paper for greenbacks than the Government. Only one man may be said to have been his peer as a forger, and he also bore the name of Brockway.

Brockway started on his career in New Haven about 1845. He was a Connecticut boy, and found employment as a printer. Later he learned engraving and, becoming an expert, he made good wages and saved sufficient money to pay for a special course in electro-chemistry in Yale. This technical knowledge he applied to the production of electrotypes. From almost the day he left Yale his career as a counterfeiter and forger dates. His first trick, so far as any record goes, was to take an impression in soft metal of a plate which two directors of a bank had brought into the shop in which he worked to have certificates struck from.

Really his first important crime was committed soon after the war broke out. When the Government began to issue bonds Brockway thought he saw his opportunity. On the 7-30 bond his work was of such exceptional cleverness that $90,000 of the issue got into the Government vaults before any suspicion was aroused. Brockway was arrested, but was permitted to go on surrendering the plates. Brockway was arrested in 1880 for counterfeiting and forging $1,000 6 per cent. United States coupon bonds. Two crooks, Smith and Doyle, were also arrested at the same time for complicity. The finished bonds and plates were all seized. Brockway was sentenced for thirty years and Doyle for twelve.

WILLIAM E. BROCKWAY.

Brockway did not serve a day of this sentence. He managed to arrange a compromise with the Government. By consent of Judge Benedict the sentence was suspended on condition that other plates be surrendered. It was said at the time that, if he were again caught tampering with the United States securities, the sentence would stand. He was caught again, but for some reason best known to the authorities the sentence of thirty years was not enforced. Brockway was arrested this time in New York, in November, 1883, for forging Morris & Essex Railroad bonds. Two others were taken into custody at the same time. He pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to Sing Sing for five years by Recorder Smyth. He was discharged on Aug. 4, 1887. Since then he has gone free until just now.

Action in Waller's Case.

In Paris a semi-official notice was issued saying it is inexact that the United States Government has demanded the release of Mr. John L. Waller and the payment of an indemnity on account of his sentence to twenty years' imprisonment by a court-martial on the island of Madagascar, where Mr. Waller was formerly United States Consul.

Corn Crop Estimate.

The New York Produce Exchange expects the biggest corn crop in the history of the country. According to the statistics of the Produce Exchange the corn acreage is 82,000,000 and the indicated crop is not less than 2,425,000,000 bushels. The increase over the great crop of 1889 will be 312,108,000 bushels if the exchange figures prove correct when the crop is gathered.

It is probable that Parliament will abolish the office of lord lieutenant of Ireland and substitute a chief under secretary instead.

VICTIMS OF THE OUTRAGE ON MISSIONARIES IN CHINA.

MISS GORDON, Speared and killed. — MRS. STEWART, Burned in the Mission House at Whasang. — REV. R. W. STEWART, Burned in the Mission House at Whasang. — MISS CODRINGTON, Seriously wounded. — MISS HESSIE NEWCOMBE, Speared and thrown down a precipice.

CAMPBELL IS NAMED.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR OF OHIO.

All the Nominations Are Made by Acclamation—Free Silver Is Beaten—Cleveland's Administration Enthusiastically Indorsed—Brice on Top.

Buckeye Democratic Ticket.

Governor	James E. Campbell
Lieutenant Governor	John B. Peaslee
State Auditor	James W. Knott
State Treasurer	William B. Sholer
Supreme Judge	William T. Mooney
Attorney General	George A. Fairbanks
Member Board Public Works	H. B. Keefer
Clerk of Supreme Court	J. W. Cruikshank

The Ohio Democratic State convention nominated James E. Campbell for Governor by acclamation. It was done with a whoop and a yell and while Mr. Campbell was on his feet trying to persuade the body to select Judge Peck, of Cincinnati. The convention also, by a vote of 525 to 270, reaffirmed the financial plank of the Democratic national convention of 1892 and indorsed the administration of President Cleveland and the course in the Senate of Calvin S. Brice.

C. S. BRICE.

The nomination of Campbell was made in spite of his most earnest protests. He had the floor when he was interrupted by Dr. James A. Norton, who presented a motion to suspend the rules and nominate James E. Campbell by acclamation. Mr. Campbell protested and raised points of order amid the wildest scenes of cheering and yelling for Campbell. Campbell said he had run for Congress three times in a Republican district and twice for Governor in a Republican State, till he was depleted financially and otherwise unable to make the race. He insisted on the nomination of Judge Peck or some other good Democrat who could make a good race and afford to make it.

Seconds of the nomination of Campbell rolled in. Chairman Brice ruled that the motion of Dr. Norton to suspend the rules and nominate Mr. Campbell was in order. M. E. Ingalls, who had previously opposed Campbell, made a strong plea for him as the winner. The motion of Dr. Norton was put and carried with a great whirl of enthusiasm and Chairman Brice declared Mr. Campbell the nominee for Governor. The ticket was completed as above by acclamation.

JAME E. CAMPBELL.

Platform Adopted.

The Democratic party of Ohio, in convention assembled, points with satisfaction and pride to the wisdom of the action of that party in the last two years and the results accomplished according to its promises, to-wit:

The repeal of the Republican legislation known as the Sherman law, the an-American Federal election law, and the McKinley law, from which repeals has resulted returning prosperity to the country to such an extent that even the Republicans are obliged to recognize the same.

We congratulate President Cleveland that his efforts in favor of the repeal of these vicious laws and the upholding of the credit of the country have been successful.

We congratulate our Senator, the Hon. Calvin S. Brice, for the earnest and effective support he has given to the President in these matters.

When we consider the fact that the Democratic party received from the Republicans in 1892 a bankrupt treasury, that it inherited from them the vicious currency and tariff laws which had prepared and finally produced the panic of 1893, we insist that it is entitled to the thanks of the people for the courage with which it has attacked and repealed these laws.

We reaffirm the following portion of the seventh plank of the platform of the last National Democratic Convention.

"We hold to the use of both gold and silver as the standard money of the country, and to the coinage of both gold and silver without discrimination against either metal or charge for mintage; but the dollar unit of coinage of both metals must be of equal intrinsic and exchangeable value, or be adjusted by international agreement, or by such safeguards of legislation as shall insure the maintenance of the parity of the two metals and the equal power of every dollar at all times in the payment of debts; and we demand that the paper currency shall be kept at par with and redeemable in such coin. We insist upon this policy as especially necessary for the protection of farmers and the laboring classes, the first and most defenseless victims of unstable money and fluctuating currency."

We call the attention of the people to the methods and practices of bossism by which the Republican party in this State has been managed in the last few years, and for examples point to its history in Hamilton county and to the final culmination of the same in the Zanesville convention, and we ask the people by their votes this fall to put their condemnation on such practices.

We denounce the last Legislature as corrupt and unworthy of the confidence of the people, and we submit to the voters whether they wish to perpetuate this condition of affairs by placing the Republicans again in power.

We view with alarm the large increase of indebtedness throughout the State by counties and municipalities, as authorized by the last Legislature, and the increase in the last few years in the tax rate, and we demand economy in expenditure and conservatism in the increase of debt.

REGAIN THEIR LIBERTY.

All the A. R. U. Directors Except President Debs Released from Jail.

All the directors of the American Railway Union except President Debs left the Woodstock (Ill.) jail Thursday, after having served a three months' sentence for contempt of court. All of them resume their duties in the field, obligating and instructing members and organizing local unions. They have demands now which will require them fully three months to fill. Kelliher goes direct to Minneapolis and Goodwin to St. Paul. Rogers, Burns, Elliott and Hogan go together to Chicago, where they will separate. Rogers goes to Pueblo, Colo.; Hogan to Ogden, Utah; Elliott to Philadelphia, stopping at Cleveland, Ohio, until after Labor Day, while Burns will remain in Chicago and establish district headquarters there. Their release marks a new departure in the work of organizing railway employes. District headquarters will be established in all the large railway centers throughout the country. In each of these districts solicitors will be employed to obligate members, keeping their names absolutely secret. Since their imprisonment 156 local unions that were shattered by the strike of last summer have been reorganized and twenty-seven new ones instituted.

Tom Wilbur, aged 91, committed suicide at Norwich, Conn., by severing his jugular vein with a razor. He was a well known quarryman.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes of the State.

Hoosier Happenings

MUNCIE is to have a new people's bank.

ROYAL CENTER will spend $4,000 in water-works.

FOREST fires are doing great damage in the vicinity of Rigdon.

MILO THOMAS' hardware store at Corunna is in ashes. Loss, $15,000.

MRS. WILLIAM PERRY of Jeffersonville, was dangerously injured in a runaway accident.

AN unknown man was literally ground to pieces by a Vandalia train, at Terre Haute.

THE Commissioners of Jay County have contracted for a new infirmary building, to cost $17,000.

WHITE RIVER in Madison County is little better than a stagnant pool, so intense is the drouth.

JAMES BURRIS, an old farmer living near Lebanon, was fatally stabbed by Burt Neese, aged 14.

JAMES KESSLER of Shelby County, is insane over the delusion that some one wants to kill him.

AN unknown tramp was caught by a Vandalia train at Terre Haute and literally torn to pieces.

JOHN JACK of Elwood, was probably fatally kicked in the throat by a horse which he was hitching.

A BOY at Crawfordsville bought a horse for 5 cents at a sale and sold the animal to the rendering factory for 85 cents.

JAMES LEER of Elwood, while shooting at pigeons, fired toward August Munchenberger's house, seriously injuring him and his daughter.

NEAR Parker, on the Big Four railroad, the body of an unknown man was found. He is believed to have been killed and placed on the track.

IT was reported that an eighteen-foot boa carried by a circus had escaped in Logansport, and that a reward was offered for its capture.

A BICYCLER was run down by a passenger train on the Lake Shore, near Swanton, and his body was torn to pieces. A fragment of an envelope in his possession bore the address of Charles Ware of Toledo, Ohio.

A HORSE-THIEF, who secured a fine animal belonging to Joseph McDowell, living near Logansport, and a buggy owned by George Bingaman in the same neighborhood, was traced to Montticello, where a detective was placed on the trail.

IN North and South Dakota, whither hundreds of farm laborers from Indiana flocked in the hope of securing employment in the harvest fields at $2 per day and board, the supply of hands far exceeds the demand, and around Fargo alone a thousand or more men are homeless.

JAMES DELANEY of Converse, filed suit for $10,000 damages against the Peerless Glass Works and William Feighner. In 1894 Delaney was arrested on charge of setting fire to the glass works at Converse, but after being held ten days was discharged, and now charges false imprisonment.

LEMUEL WARNER of Burlington, found his daughter at Peru in company with Charles Adams, a street faker, whom she claims to have married. The couple failed to show the marriage license, and the father is convinced his daughter has been deceived. She softened when told that her mother was dying, and returned home.

THE sixth annual reunion of the Bell family was held at the Morris Springs, one mile southeast of Dublin. A large number of descendants of the family were present. A bountiful dinner was spread and the program included reading of papers, recitations, singing, letters from absent ones, speeches, exhibition of relics, etc.

WATER is being hauled from the water works in Terre Haute to Paris, Charleston, and Mattoon, Ill., and to the mining town of Fontanet, Ind., on account of the scarcity of the supply in those places. The Big Four shops at Mattoon were stopped until water was received from here. About thirty tanks of water are sent from here to the several places every day.

MANY building associations have failed to make their reports to the State Auditor, as required by law, and this official is now sending out copies of the law bearing on the question, with the information that longer delay will subject the delinquent associations to a fine of $100. A failure to file a report of the condition of the association also calls for an enforced examination under the direction of the Auditor.

FARMERS in Northern Indiana are trying to solve the disease which causes their cattle to go stone blind in both eyes in 8 seconds time. The disease was first discovered among David Stewart's herd of cattle, consisting of ninety head of fine-blooded short-horns. Veterinary surgeons believe it is caused by some new insect. It is estimated that $10,000 worth of cattle have been ruined in the past ten days.

JOEL KESSLING, an insane prisoner at the county jail at Logansport, was found suspended in his cell, having hung himself with a rope formed of the sheet from his bed. He was found in a short time after he swung off and, with some trouble, was revived. He at once attempted to repeat the painful experiment, saying "Christ calls me, and I must go to Him." He has been placed in the Northern Insane Hospital.

SOME workmen in a gravel bank, near the Elkhorn mills, Richmond, found a huge skeleton of a man. A half of one of the jaws was found, with the teeth preserved. The jaw was sufficiently large to fit over the outside of the jaw, flesh and all, of a man of ordinary size, indicating that the original possessor of the skeleton was a man of great physical mold. It is expected that all the parts will be found upon further search.

THE mangled body of Robert Leonard, of White Pigeon, Mich., was found by the side of the railroad track near Richmond, where he had been struck by a train. He was in charge of a carload of horses enroute from New Castle to the Kendallville races. How the accident occurred is not known.

A DOG fire three miles south of Anderson that has been burning for three months past has now assumed alarming proportions. The ground for two feet is red hot and the fire is slowly spreading in all directions. It has already reached high land in several places and is firing the withered grass, fences, and all else in its track.

AT Mt. Jackson, across the river from Indianapolis some boys shot and killed a carrier pigeon which was resting in a tree. On one leg of the bird was found an aluminum tag bearing the characters "12 C. H. W. 95." It is thought that the bird is possibly one that was released at Calais, France.

W. L. TEISHER committed suicide at Demott by climbing into an apple tree and swinging himself into space. Teisher executed a will by the provisions of which his wife, with whom he had lived for upward of a quarter of a century, is placed under the protection of John L. Perry, a bachelor farmer and life-long friend of Teisher, the latter expressing the hope that their marriage will prove the sequel.

HILDA

By Charlotte M. Braeme

CHAPTER XXXI.—(Continued.)

Lord Bayneham went out and found the groom who usually helped the coachman, and he had heard all that passed. The coachman asked where he should drive, and her ladyship replied to Oulston, and he was to wait for as usual at the Bayneham Arms.

Again Lord Bayneham felt relieved. Perhaps, after all, she was only gone shopping, and had been detained; there might be no accident, nothing but forgetfulness of time. He resolved, however, to ride over to Oulston at once. He returned to tell the countess of his intention. She stood in the dining room holding a folded paper in her hand; and Barbara Earle, with a white, wondering face, stood near her. Lady Bayneham went up to her son; he saw that her face was full of strange emotion, and that she spoke in a low, pained voice.

"Claude," she said, "come with me to my dressing room. Hush! not a word—the servants will hear you."

In silent wonder, Lord Bayneham followed the stately lady, and Barbara Earle went with them. His mother closed the door, and locked it; she then held out to him the folded paper.

"Barbara found this on the floor of your wife's room," she said, gently; "it had slipped from her desk, and it is addressed to you."

He took the letter from her in silence, and read it. They who watched him saw his face grow deadly white as he did so, and he staggered like a man who had received a sudden mortal wound. Through a red, blinding mist, he read words that burned themselves upon his heart, yet were all a mystery to him.

"Claude," the letter began, "I shall not wait for you to send me from you. I go now. You know all—you say you know all. Ah, then, you must despise me. You must look upon me with loathing and contempt; but it was not my fault. My husband, it was not my fault. I suffer for the sins of others.

"You meant what you said, Claude, and I must go. I cannot write my farewell—there are no tears in my eyes, yet they have gazed upon you for the last time. In my heart there is a deep burning sorrow, like a sharp piercing pain; there is despair and death. You were my life, my love, my all; you made the sunshine of my life. I go out from you into utter cold and darkness, where I shall never see you more, never more! I may call you darling for this last time, and I lay a hundred kisses on the word as I write it. My darling, forgive me. Good-by."

Lord Bayneham read the letter again, and again, never understanding one of the sad, pitiful words in it. He realized but one thing—she was gone from him, and he should see her "never more."

A cry that Lady Bayneham never forgot came from his white lips. Strong man though he was, the earl trembled like a child.

"Read that, mother," he said, "and tell me what it means."

Word by word the countess read that sad letter, her face growing white, as her son's had done. "What can it mean?" she said; "what can be done?"

"I must find her!" cried Lord Bayneham. "Call all the servants, mother—rouse the whole place—we must go and find her."

Then his mother, going up to him, placed one arm lovingly around him.

"Hush, Claude," she said. "Your wife has left you; let us, however, save the honor of our house; cost what it may, this secret must be kept. The Baynehams have never known disgrace; let us keep their name untainted. What say you, Barbara?"

"You are right, aunt," she replied; "for Hilda's own sake we must keep all knowledge of this from the world. Do not be angry with me, Claude; but from this letter, which you do not evidently understand, I should imagine poor Hilda to have been seized with something like sudden insanity. No sane person ever wrote this. Have you any idea to what she alludes?"

"No more than yourself," said Lord Bayneham. "I had better tell you all, and perhaps you can help me. Hilda would not tell me how her bracelet came to be in the Lady's Walk, and I discovered quite accidentally that she had been walking there with some one. I went to her and told her I knew all——"

"Well," said Barbara, for he stopped abruptly, "what then?"

"She cried out, passionately, 'Do you mean what you said? Must I go?' Not understanding in the least what she meant, I replied that I always said exactly what I meant. She cried out again, 'Must I go?' Just then I was fetched away for the duke, and have not seen her since."

"It is the strangest thing I ever heard," said the countess. "I can only imagine the poor child to be insane."

"Who was with her in the Lady's Walk?" asked Miss Earle. "You do not know?" she continued; "then believe me, Claude, she is neither insane nor anything else, but the victim of some mystery. I am certain of it. If all the world blame her, I keep my faith. But something must be done."

"I will go to Oulston," said Lord Bayneham; and in less than ten minutes he was once more galloping along the high road.

CHAPTER XXXII.

"What has detained you so long?" said Lord Bayneham to the coachman, as he dismounted at the Bayneham Arms.

"I am waiting for my lady," replied the man; "she desired me to do so."

Barbara Earle had said, "At any cost, we must keep the secret;" and Lord Bayneham remembered the words.

"It is all right," he replied, hastily; "you can go home. I am sorry you have been kept waiting so long. Lady Bayneham will not return with you this evening."

The landlord, who had shared the coachman's wonder, re-entered the house, perfectly satisfied, and Lord Bayneham followed the man, who had been for more than thirty years a valued servant to his family.

"Dickson," he said, laying one hand upon the coachman's shoulder, "tell me all that has passed since Lady Bayneham left the house."

"Nothing, my lord," replied the man; "her ladyship told me on starting to drive to Oulston, and wait for her at the Bayneham Arms, and I have done so."

"Where did you set her down?" asked Lord Bayneham.

"My lady stopped at the corner of Hill street," replied Dickson; "she went down toward Old Cross, and I drove on to the hotel."

"Did Lady Bayneham say anything about returning?" asked the earl.

"No," said Dickson. "Her ladyship never spoke to me after she entered the carriage. She looked very ill, my lord."

"And you have no idea where she went?" interrupted Lord Bayneham.

"None," said the man. "I have been waiting in much surprise, for her ladyship has always been so punctual."

"Dickson," said Lord Bayneham, "I shall want one man to help me in what I have to do. We have some reason to fear that Lady Bayneham is ill—is not quite herself. She has left her home and gone, no one knows where. Can you keep this secret and help me to trace her?"

"I can, my lord," said Dickson, quietly. He made no protestations, but the young earl understood the good faith and strong reliance of those words.

"She went down toward the Old Cross, you say," continued Lord Bayneham; "that is the road to the station, can she have gone there?"

He went into the hotel to look at the "Railway Guide" which lay upon the table. His wife left her home some few minutes past two o'clock; at twenty minutes past three there was a train for London; at four, the express for Scotland; later on, the train for New Town, the largest junction on the line. His only resource was to go to the station and make all the inquiries possible.

"How was Lady Bayneham dressed?" he asked Dickson.

"I did not notice, my lord," he replied. "I remember nothing that her ladyship wore, except a thick waterproof cloak."

"Take the carriage home," said Lord Bayneham, "and mind, Dickson, I have trusted you. You will be the only servant in the house who knows the secret of your lady's flight; guard it as you would your life. Say what you like to the rest to allay their suspicions, if they have any; and stay!—take this note to Lady Bayneham."

He wrote a few lines just to say what he had done—that he was now going to the station, and if he found any trace of his wife he should follow it up, therefore they need not feel any uneasiness at his absence. Dickson—he told Lady Bayneham—knew the truth, and in any emergency they must trust to him. In the meantime they must shield Hilda as best they could, for he hoped to bring her back with him.

Lord Bayneham was not long in reaching the little station, where he was well known, but he found it difficult to ask many questions without exciting curiosity and wonder. Fortunately there was a new porter who did not know his lordship, and to this man the young earl addressed himself.

The porter had been on the platform all the afternoon and remembered the London train, and that four passengers left Oulston by it, but that only two went by the Scotch express. There were perhaps twenty for the New Town train, but amongst them he did not remember to have seen a lady in a waterproof cloak.

"A dark waterproof cloak, did you say, sir?" continued the porter. "Ah, now I remember something. Just before the London train started, a lady in a long dark cloak sent me to get her ticket. She sat there at the lower end of the platform, and spoke in a low voice as though she were ill. I did not see her face clearly, because she wore a veil, but I thought I saw that she was very pale and had golden hair. I bought her ticket and saw her get into a first-class carriage for London."

The porter looked astonished when Lord Bayneham slipped a sovereign into his hand; and like a wise man he saw that there was something in it, and resolved to keep his thoughts to himself.

"I am sorry, too, if he is in trouble," thought the man, "for a nicer or more liberal gentleman I never did see."

The London express started in half an hour, and the earl resolved to go by it. That one half hour, spent in pacing impatiently to and fro on the little platform, seemed like an age to him. There were times when he felt that he must be dreaming. It could not be possible that Hilda, whom he had loved so well, should have flown from him—that his sweet fair wife had left him. Why, only last week they had been at the station together. Now she was a fugitive—flying, he knew not what from—and he, trying his best to shield her and keep her name from the idle comments of busy men, was seeking her.

The journey to London seemed never-ending, but Euston Square was reached at last, and then his task seemed hopeless.

The train from Oulston had reached there about six o'clock; two other trains came in at the same time, and the station for some minutes was one grand scene of confusion; no one remembered a lady in a waterproof cloak—there were several ladies, first-class passengers, but no porter remembered to have procured either cab or carriage for any tall lady in a waterproof cloak.

The ticket collector was found and closely examined by Lord Bayneham. He had taken a ticket from a lady in a first-class carriage, a ticket marked from Oulston to London; he had not noticed her dress; he remembered that her hand was very white and she wore several costly rings.

Lord Bayneham's heart beat quickly; without doubt that was Hilda, but where had she gone? No one had seen her leave the carriage or quit the station. In spite of the collector's testimony he was as much lost as before.

He spent some long hours at Euston Square, but discovered no more. He had traced his wife to London, but there she vanished completely, and he knew not what to do.

Then he went to Scotland Yard, for he had heard wonders of the sagacity of an officer who was said to be the cleverest private detective in England, and he told him the whole facts of the case, and offered him a large reward for any information he could procure. There was no more to be done. The detective told him to leave the matter in his hands, and promised to do his best.

Tired and depressed, Lord Bayneham went to his house in Grosvenor Square. Although taken by surprise at his sudden appearance, the housekeeper soon sent up a recherche little supper, which she was much disappointed at finding the next morning untouched upon the table.

During the day following he had one long interview with the detective, and the rest of his time was spent in writing. On the Thursday morning the chief papers contained an advertisement wherein "Bluebell"— the pet name he had given her in Brynmar Woods—was entreated to send her address, as there had been some terrible mistake; but no reply came to them—no news came to Lord Bayneham of the fair young wife.

All at once an idea struck him. Of course she was gone to Brynmar, where else should she seek refuge? It was past ten o'clock on Thursday night when the thought came to him, and he never rested again until he saw once more the bonny woods of Brynmar. He had hoped strongly, he had believed his search ended, but the Hall looked lonely and deserted; he knew by old Elpsie's face when she admitted him that his lost wife was not there. No, nothing had been seen or heard of the young lady of Bayneham. She had not been there.

The earl did not wait either for sleep or refreshment, but hurried back again, sick at heart, and more disappointed than he cared to own.

At London he found strange letters awaiting him from Dr. Greyson, the trustee and guardian of his wife. He had received a letter from Lady Hilda, saying that she renounced all further claim upon the Brynmar estates, or any of the money bequeathed her by Lady Hutton, and should never receive more, nor apply to him again. Lord Bayneham, she said, would understand why, and he was to decide what should be done with the fortune she thus renounced.

More bewildered than ever, Lord Bayneham could only agree with his mother that Hilda must be insane. He understood nothing of the motives which actuated her. He telegraphed for Dr. Greyson to join him, but when they took counsel together neither one nor the other could suggest any solution of the mystery.

He then took Bertie Carlyon into his confidence. The young member had found himself famous, and his speeches were eagerly listened to, and eagerly read. He was considered, and justly, too, as one of the most gifted and eloquent speakers of the day, and his career was now one of great and incessant labor rewarded by well-earned success. But Bertie, his old friend and confidant, could render him no assistance. He could throw no light upon the subject.

The post-mark upon Lady Hilda's letter was London; but, from that, all agreed it was foolish to believe that she was in the great city.

The constant anxiety of such a search began to tell heavily upon Lord Bayneham. He had been for several nights without sleep, and for several days with but little food. One morning as, with Bertie Carlyon, he was coming from Scotland Yard, the two friends met Mr. Fulton. At the first glimpse of him Lord Bayneham clinched his hands tightly. After all, what he had heard of those nonsensical notes had been the first cause of his present sorrow. But Mr. Fulton hurried up to him with a smile of welcome playing over his face, holding out his hand with a few words of cordial greeting. There was something so genial and kindly in his manners that Lord Bayneham's half-formed suspicions died away at once.

"How are all at Bayneham?" said Mr. Fulton. "How is Lady Hilda? Is she here with you?"

He evidently knew nothing of what had happened at Bayneham.

"You look extremely ill," he continued. "I hardly knew you at first. When are you returning?"

Lord Bayneham replied briefly, and then hurried on. Only ten days since, and this man was an honored guest under his roof. What had happened since then?

That morning he met several of his friends, who were all pleased and surprised at seeing him, but grieved at his changed appearance. There seemed to be only one topic of conversation, the engagement of the fair and fashionable Lady Grahame to Mr. Fulton.

(To be continued.)

With All His Worldly Goods.

I shall never forget, said an old clergyman, recently, the first marriage ceremony I ever performed. I was newly ordained and newly married, and was on my own wedding journey in the Southern States. We had stopped to visit some relatives of my wife, when one of the servants, learning that I was a clergyman, thought it a good opportunity for wedding the man of her choice.

The service was to be performed at the residence of the groom, a tiny cabin not far away from the house, and my young wife, with a bevy of her girl friends, went along ostensibly to act as witnesses, but really to see the fun. Matters went on smoothly enough until the bridegroom struck the sentence, "and with all my worldly goods I thee endow," when it occurred to him that it would probably be more business like to enumerate the items.

Starting in with 'Dis yer cabin en de ba'an," he went through with a list of all his possessions, refreshing his memory from time to time with rapid glances around the room to make sure that nothing had been omitted. He finally wound up breathless on the "three pieces er hawg meat and de mewl," leaving me with my place in the prayer book lost and my mental faculties in a state of chaos.

The girls had long before fled from the cabin, prudently distrusting their powers of self-control, so I finished up as best I could and followed them. I have never married a couple since without a slight nervousness as the man neared that place in the service. Suppose some millionaire should take it into his head to emulate my colored friend and enumerate his worldly goods in the middle of the ceremony!

Indian's Scorn for the Bible.

Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, says that the Dakota Indians once held a war dance near a mission house. He went to Wabasha, the chief, and said: "Wabasha, you asked me for a missionary and teacher. I gave them to you. I visit you, and the first sight is this brutal scalp dance. I knew the Chippeway whom your young men have murdered. His wife is crying for her husband; his children are asking for their father. Wabasha, the Great Spirit hears his children cry. He is angry. Some day he will ask Wabasha, 'Where is your red brother?' " The old chief smiled, drew his pipe from his mouth and said: "White man go to war with his own brother in the same country; kill more men than Wabasha can count in all his life. Great Spirit smiles, says 'good white man! He has my book. I love him very much. I have a good place for him by-and-by.' The Indian is a wild man. He has no Great Spirit book. He kills one man, has a scalp dance. Great Spirit is mad and says: 'Bad Indian! I put him in a bad place by-and-by.' Wabasha don't believe it!"

Explosion of a Big Gun.

During target practice at Shanghai recently a forty-ton Armstrong gun in one of the Woosung forts exploded, setting fire to a neighboring magazine and several houses. Forty men were either killed or injured. It is supposed that the breech of the gun, which was loaded with slow-burning prismatic powder, was prematurely opened by the artilleryman.

The harder a woman's heart works, the less liable it is to go on strike.

FROWNING JUNGFRAU NO LONGER A TERROR TO TOURISTS.

A RAILROAD to the summit of the Jungfrau! A fond farewell to hazardous Alpine climbing. A long good-by to alpenstocks, guides, and all other necessities for scaling the dizzy heights. After a long and heated debate the Swiss Government has given a syndicate permission to construct a railway over the Wengeralps. The object of the railroad company is to make the highest point, the Jungfrau, its terminal station. When completed it will be one of the most daring feats of engineering of this country. Seemingly insurmountable obstacles will have to be conquered, stretches of glaciers traversed, fathomless chasms have to be bridged, and the rock tunneled in all directions. This new road will be of a different pattern from the many varieties of climbing railways now used in Switzerland. The probability is that it will be modeled on the same lines as the electrical mountain railway on Mount Saleve in Geneva. There will, however, be a distinct difference, insomuch as the new road will be operated both by electricity and by steam, should occasion so require. The electricity will be developed by hydraulic power and conveyed to whatever distance necessary. It will also preserve the feature of cogwheels gripping a center rail now used in ascending very steep heights. The name of the new road will be the Lauterbrunnen-Wengeralp-Grindelwald Railway. The powerhouses will be located at the Lauterbrunnen, where also will be an up-to-date passenger station. There will be five other stations on the line: Scheidegg, Ribibach, Grindelwald, Mench, and the terminal one, the Jungfrau. All these stations will be unlike anything heretofore used for the accommodation of passengers. They will be all blasted out of the solid rock and form a part of the tunnel system used on this road. Each station will be fitted up in accordance to the demand of the times, and, though of course on a miniature scale, be provided with every convenience. There will be a well supplied restaurant, the little bedrooms will be like the cabins on the American lines, and a profusion of electric lights will make things cheerful. A number of good-sized port-holes, through which the passengers may have a fine view of the mountain peaks and the glaciers, will also be cut through the rock. Carefully constructed paths for pedestrians wanting to climb the peaks are found around all the stations. The road is nearly nine miles long and rises to a height of about 7,000 feet above the level of the sea. The cave of the Jungfrau Mountain will be pierced by a shaft communicating with the station immediately below. This shaft will be provided with a passenger elevator worked by a dynamo, which in its turn derives its power from a hydraulic motor utilizing the waters of Lake Luchinen. Within the tube or shaft is a winding staircase for the use of those not caring to patronize the elevator. The shaft terminates in a tower, from which the visitors can gaze on the world which lies 13,736 feet below where they stand. The railway coaches will be heated by electricity and all stations are connected by telegraph and telephone with the world below.

THE GYPSY MOTH.

An Insect Which Has Cost the Country Thousands of Dollars.

The rogue's gallery of the agricultural department has, during the past season, been enriched by the addition of several pictures of offenders that are new to the entomological division. At the same time a good many old and notorious criminals of the insect world, those that are most audacious and destructive in their methods, are at large in various parts of the country. They have all been black-listed, and their descriptions and pictures have been scattered broadcast by the government.

THE GYPSY MOTH.

The gypsy moth has perhaps caused the most destruction and waste of money thus far, and it is estimated that close upon a half million dollars has been spent in the effort to stamp him out.

What Is a Croft?

The origin of "croft" itself is "wrop in mystery." It is a very old English term, appearing in the charters of title deeds of estates as long ago as the reign of Edgar, where the phrase "at the croft's head" is quoted by Dr. Murray, but it remained long unrecognized in the literary language. The old English form, like the modern one, is croft, meaning an inclosed field. In lowland Scotch it appears generally in the form of craft, which is still employed in many derivatives, but the only other Teutonic equivalent in the sister language is the Dutch word "kroft," which means "a piece of high and dry land," "a field on the downs," "a rock headland."

In the North of England, according to Ray, the word croft implies neighborhood to a house, but in the South it is applied to any small inclosure, near a building or otherwise. Early in the sixteenth century, Fitzherbert defines a curtylage—whatever that might be—as "a lytell croft or court to put in catell for a tyme." In the seventeenth century the phrase occurs, "All ould tenants shall have a croft and a medow," which sounds as if it came out of a crofter commission report.

First Steamboat Before Fulton's Day

The records of Jefferson County, W. Va., prove what is known to but few people in the country—that Robert Fulton, with his steamboat Clermont, had been anticipated over twenty-two years as the builder of the first steamboat in the United States. The first steamboat, it is claimed, was really built by James Rumsey at Shepherdstown, Va. (now West Virginia). The boat was partially constructed in Frederick County, Md., in 1785. It was fitted up with machinery partly manufactured at a furnace called "the Catoctin," owned by Johnson Bros., near Frederick, and the two cylinders, boilers, pumps, pipes, etc., were built in Baltimore. Part of the work was done at the old Antietam iron works. The boat was eighty feet in length, and was propelled by an engine which worked a vertical pump placed in the center of the boat. The water was drawn in at the bow of the boat and discharged at the stern through a horizontal pipe. The weight of the machinery was 665 pounds, and the boat's tonnage or carrying capacity was three tons. All of the machinery, including the boilers, took up a space of only a little over four feet square. The first public experiment took place on the Potomac river on March 14, 1786, at which Rumsey's boat showed a speed of four miles an hour upstream. The records show that George Washington and Gov. Tom Johnson of Maryland were among the patrons of Rumsey, and that the experiment was really made in the interest of the then proposed Chesapeake and Ohio canal.—Exchange.

(But Robert Fulton was the man who first built a steamboat that would go and pay.)

THE BICYCLE OF THE PAST.

A Wheel That Was Built in the Winter of 1868-'69.

The bicycle represented here was built in the winter of 1868-'69 by T. N. Phillips, of Farmington, Ill. Mr. Phillips, in speaking of his youthful experience in building and riding this machine, says: "People said that such a thing could not be ridden. Men told father that if they had a boy that would try to ride a thing like that they would put him in the insane asylum."

THE WHEEL OF '69.

Husband—"We must be more economical in the use of coal." Wife (a Vassar graduate)—"There are untold billions of tons of coal just beneath the earth's surface, and——" Husband—"And one or two big corporations just above."—New York Weekly.

GRAVE OF LINCOLN'S MOTHER.

The Simple Stone Which Marks Her Last Resting Place.

In traveling from St. Louis to Louisville, on the Louisville, Evansville and St. Louis Railroad, a traveler passes almost unnoticed the small town of Lincoln, in Spencer County, in Southern Indiana. The place derives its name from the old homestead of Abraham Lincoln's father, the farm lying half a mile or so from the railroad depot.

THE GRAVE OF LINCOLN'S MOTHER.

The mother of the martyr President is buried here in a thickly wooded spot, within a stone's throw of where once stood Lincoln's father's log cabin. A plain white tombstone, surrounded by a neat iron fence, marks the place where her ashes lie. The tombstone has the following plain inscription:

NANCY HANKS LINCOLN,

Mother of President Lincoln.

Oct. 5, A. D. 1818.

Age 35 years.

A part of the old homestead and outbuildings still remain, with a few fence rails scattered here and there in the fields. The main building has been torn down for some time, and it has been a great many years since the cabin was occupied. Relic seekers would scarcely think of stopping off at Lincoln to find anything of interest. Very few persons, outside of the few hundred inhabitants of Lincoln, know where the grave is located, and the place has very few visitors. Attention has been called to the place lately by a movement which is on foot to have a fine monument erected on the site, but as yet nothing definite has been done.

Best Tea.

The best tea in Japan is raised in districts where snow often falls to the eaves of the houses. Many plants will survive under such snow that are not hardy even in the Southern States. By the same rule some varieties of Japanese lilies will survive Vermont winters that are not hardy in Missouri.

Customer—Bring me some lobster salad and some cucumbers. Waiter (bringing pen, ink and paper)—Please write your name and address before you tackle that order.—National Hotel Reporter.

NEW IDEAS IN BATHING DRESSES.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.

1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.

By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS.

Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS,

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages, 60 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.,
No. 7165 $35. W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, Involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

NEW GOODS
ARE ARRIVING

OUR STOCK IS NOW

-Complete-

CLOTHING,
SHOES,
HATS and
FURNISHING GOODS

PRICES
LOWER THAN EVER AT THE

GLOBE
CLOTHING & SHOE CO.,

Gandy Block, North of Square, AUBURN, IND

Closing Out!
TAN SHOES AND SLIPPERS

JUST LOOK AT THE PRICES.

One lot Ladies' and Misses' Oxfords, mostly small worth $1 to $1.75, for	50c
25 prs. Ladies' & Misses' Tan Oxfords, worth $1.25,	$ .90
Ladies' " " " 2.00,	1.40
" " " " 2.50,	1.75

MEN' TAN SHOES:

One lot Men's Tan Shoes worth $2.00 for	$1.50
" " " " " 2.50 for	1.75
" " " " " 4.00 for	2.50
" " " Black Shoes, worth 3.00 to 4.00 for	2.00

These are all desirable goods and worth the marked price, but are broken lots and must go to make room for fall stock that is beginning to arrive.

Shull's Cash Shoe Store. AUBURN.

WARM AIR GENERATOR.

HOT WATER ATTACHMENT FOR BATH ROOMS.

POSITIVE CIRCULATION OF HOT AIR TO DISTANT ROOMS.

Construction, Operation and Results essentially different from the Solid Fire Pot Furnace.

Write for Catalogue.

J. BEURET,
AUBURN, IND.

Given Away

OUR PROFITS.

AUG. 30 & 31 We will sell 100 pieces.

DECORATED DINNER SETS,

ENGLISH WARE. for $6.00

OLDS BROS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,.....AUGUST 29, 1895.

The Institute

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS SO FAR. AND WILL BE TO THE CLOSE.

Tuesday's Daily.

We left off yesterday with the work of the forenoon, for as the sessions close at 4 p. m. we could not get all the afternoon work, but continue it now.

ALEY—METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

In order to have a rational method it must rest on the two foundations; nature of the subject, and nature of the mind.

The teachers must know psychology. He can know this in three ways; from books, from the study of his own mind and from the great open book,—his school. The first is necessary but not sufficient. He needs to turn his mind in on itself and see how it acts in thinking a subject. He also needs to study the action of the pupils' minds in order to discover where the error in thinking is. Then by his knowledge of the activity of his own mind, he is able properly to correct the error in the thought process of the pupil. This thought at once emphasizes the nature and the necessity of individual instruction.

PROF. MOORE.

Continuing his remarks on the Basis of Professional Inspiration, Mr. Moore said: Having seen that the basis of inspiration in any work consists, first, in the presence of a definite, worthy ideal, and second, in a clear perception of the bearing of each hour's work on the realization of that ideal, let us apply this to our work as teachers. First, Our ultimate aim we often state is "to prepare the boys and girls for life." The best definition Science has given of life is,—"It is an organization's correspondence with, or respondence to, the Universe about it." The essential difference between the different orders of life from the blade of grass up to a Shakespeare or Emerson can be stated as a difference in capacity for correspondence. The more correspondence the more life. Hence every public school teacher has come, like the great Teacher of teachers, that the boys and girls may have life and have it more abundantly. In such an aim surely a basis for Inspiration can be found. Second, but to complete the basis we must see that here and now in this History, Arithmetic, or Reading lesson we are actually bringing the pupil into more life.

TUESDAY MORNING.

The institute opened this morning promptly at 9 o'clock. Mr. C. A. Woodcox of St. Joe Station had charge of the music and Rev. J. D. Brosy of the Lutheran church conducted the devotional exercises.

ALEY—METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

No one can break into the secret chambers of mind. Its doors are opened to him alone who has the keys of sympathy and love. The real nature of any subject of thought is understood by him who seeks it as an ardent wooer. When analyzed carefully the greatness of such teachers as Agassiz, Arnold, or Mark Hopkins is found to consist in their great human sympathy and their intense love for the word.

PROF. MOORE.

The life activity to which we are to assist the pupil stated objectively, has three phases: correspondence with truth, with beauty, with goodness; stated subjectively, they are: KNOWING, FEELING and WILLING. Analysis shows that the first two find their interpretation and value in terms of the third, i. e., the organizing center of life activity is found in the DOING. Life that falls short of the goal of action is idle abstraction and vain sentimentalism. Hence, the Herbartians are right in conceiving the whole educational process as an ETHICAL process. While right doing is the ultimate goal of education. Further inspection shows that immediate work of the school is concerned with the other end of the line, namely, the KNOWING phase. This supplies the CONDITIONS of right action. Then followed an analysis of the knowing process, an account of which our space will not allow

At the close of Prof. Moore's first talk, Morris Widney sang one of his soul-stirring bass solos, and was compelled to respond to a call by the teachers with another selection.

NOTES.

John H. W. Krontz is stopping at the Swineford House.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Willis are entertaining the following ladies: Susie Jennings, Ora Eviston, Hortense Abrams and Myrtle Ball.

Executor's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, executor of the will of Sophia L. Baird, deceased, will sell at public auction at the late residence of said decedent, corner of 12th and Jackson Sts., near the Presbyterian church, in Auburn, in DeKalb County and State of Indiana, on

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1895,

The personal property of the decedent consisting of household goods and other articles, Sale to Commence at 10 o'clock a. m.

TERMS:—All sums of less than $5.00 cash. On sums of $5.00 and over a credit of three months will be given, purchaser giving note with security to approval executor.

WM. H. LEAS, Executor,

Ghost Plants,

These large flowers are now to be seen in full bloom at the Fleming greenhouse near the school grounds. They are a wonderful plant but the proper name is "Brugmansia," which we think we ought to learn as "ghost plant" does not describe either their beauty or their fragrance. Fleming has them to sell.

New Grocery store in town at the Princess. Fourth door north of Farmers Bank.

The Princess store has a full line of school supplies. 4 doors north of Farmers Bank.

Mrs. Gust Helmuth and daughter, Nora and Mrs. Lehman of Chicago and another lady whose name we did not learn, were guests of George Grund and wife. The ladies are relatives.

Visit The Princess store and see their nice goods in all the departments.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

DO YOU WANT SUMMER BOARDERS?

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. has in course of preparation for the season of 1896 a book of information for people desiring to learn of places at which to pass their summer vacation. This information is wanted both for hotels and boarding houses at summer resorts as well for farm houses wishing summer boarders. Send your name and address to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A. Cleveland, O., for a blank to be filled out book. 33-36

Memory is a little treacherous now and then, and causes one to forget some things worth remembering, unless one has an experience like that which came to Mr. D. E. East, Moffatt's Creek, Va., who says "I had been suffering for years with a torpid liver and found no relief until I took Simmons Liver Regulator when I was entirely relieved of my troubles. I never intend being without Simmons Liver Regulator." 29

STATE FAIR, SEPT. 16 TO 21

The premium lists of the state fair which begins Sept. 16 are being distributed. Liberal premiums are offered in all classes, making it an object to anyone who may have meritorious articles to exhibit. Write to C. F. Kennedy, Indianapolis Ind., for a copy of the list.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

HARVEST EXCURSIONS.

Will be run from all stations on the Wabash R. R. Aug. 29th, Sept. 10th and Sept. 24th, to West, North-west, South, and Southwest.

For full particulars, apply to nearest ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines.

A Mail Agent's Experience.

Louis D. Brenneke, Wallhalla S. C, had Rheumatism for fifteen years, and during that time had never been free from pain. He tried the Hot Springs and physicians without benefit. After taking two bottles of Drummond's Lightning Remedy he wrote that he was free from pain, and able to take several long walks. If you want a cure, send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles—one month's treatment. Agents wanted 34 35

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

What Ails You?

If you have sudden darting pains in the joints or muscles, and it recurs every time you get cold, and appears in new places without leaving any of old ones, the best thing to do is to send five dollars to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, for a month's treatment of Dr Drummond's Lightning Remedy for Rheumatism. They will send you two large bottles of their remedy by return express. If you have the above symptoms you have the Rheumatism, and should begin at once with the known cure. Delay with any disease is dangerous—with Rheumatism it is simply suicidal. Agents wanted. 34 35

CASH PAID FOR
SCRAP ✦ CAST ✦ IRON
AT THE
AUBURN FOUNDRY.

Concord.

Wm. Carr of Auburn, visited his cousin, J. B. Draggoo, Sunday.

F. Buchanan is slowly recovering from his serious runaway.

Mr and Mrs. Ward will soon move to Butler.

Miss Emma Curie is slowly regaining her health.

Tell Elson, wife and son were at St. Joe, Sunday.

Wayne Scott and family visited at Doc Stafford's, Sunday.

G. W. and F. B. Draggoo drove to Spencerville, Sunday.

J. B. Gibford has the cellar for his new residence completed.

The members of the M. P. church will give a social on the church grounds, Saturday evening, Aug. 31st. All are cordially invited.

Will Smurr and wife visited the latter's brother, Dr. Joseph Morr, of Orland, over Sunday.

ASSESSMENTS.

THE STATE BOARD OF REVIEW OVERHAULS A FEW COUNTIES.

The Ft. Wayne Journal has a list of the changes in assessment, which the State Board of Canvassers has made in the northern counties. It will be seen that our own county is all right.

The state board of tax commissioners has completed the work of revising the valuations placed on Indiana real estate by the county board of review. In many counties the state board increased valuation from 5 to 25 per cent. In no case was a reduction made. About the time the local boards convened Captain Allen, of the state commission, forwarded circulars to the county auditors instructing them in the work of fixing valuations. The circular announced the policy of the state board to be against a lowering of values and advised the local boards to carefully revise the appraisements made in each township. As fast as the local boards completed their work they forwarded statements to the state board. Of the ninety-two counties gone over by the state commission changes were made in fifty-two. The state commissioners say that had the local boards of review followed the instructions set out in the circulars few changes would have been necessary, In many counties the board found ridiculously low valuations and members of the board intimate that in many instances valuations were reached without regard to equity. The work of the state board was largely based on the land appraisements of 1891. Following were the values returned per acre from the counties of northern Indiana and the changes ordered by the state board:

Lake County—Returned $23.71; advance 5 per cent. on land.

Porter County—Returned $14 63; advanced 10 per cent. on land.

LaPorte County—Returned $17.07; advanced 20 per cent. on land and 10 per cent. on lots and improvements in the city of LaPorte.

St. Joseph County—$20.82; no change.

Elkhart County—$23.36; advanced 5 per cent. on land and 5 per cent. on improvements in the city of Elkhart.

Lagrange County—Returned $17.43; advanced 15 per cent. on lands, lots and improvements in the entire county.

Steuben County—Returned $18 02; advanced 10 per cent. on land.

DeKalb County—Returned $23.98; no change.

Noble County—Returned $18.13; advanced 20 per cent. on land and 20 per cent. on lots and improvements in Kendallville, Albion and Ligonier.

Kosciusko County—Returned $22.76; advanced 5 per cent. on land.

Marshall County—Returned $17 83; advanced 20 per cent. on land, 10 per cent. on lots and improvements in the town of Plymouth and 20 per cent. on improvements in Union township.

Whitley County—Returned $18 98; advanced 20 per cent. on land.

Allen County—Returned $23.32; no change.

Adams County—Returned $16.91; advanced 20 per cent. on land and 30 per cent. on lots and improvements in the city of Decatur.

Wells County—Returned $20.09; advanced 10 per cent. on lands and 10 per cent. on lots in Bluffton.

Huntington County—Returned $23.75; no change.

Wabash County—Returned $23.77; advanced 20 per cent. on lands and 20 per cent. on land and improvements in the town of Wabash.

Miami County—Returned $21.48; advanced 20 per cent. on land and improvements.

Randolph County—Returned $21.91; advanced 25 per cent. on lands.

Grant County—Returned $27.12; advanced 10 cent. on land, 20 per cent. on lots and improvements in the city of Marion and 10 per cent. on improvments in the town of Fairmount.

Blackford County—Returned $19.94; no change.

Jay County—Returned $17.63; advanced 10 per cent. on land and 10 per cent on improvements in the town of Portland.

THE CHICAGO
DISPENSARY
Medical & Surgical Association, of 189 W. Madison street, Chicago, Ills.

Associated for the treatment of every form of Chronic and Surgical Diseases, organized with a staff of Professors, Physicians, Surgeons, Consultants, including the most Eminent Specialists in the world, in treating diseases of the Eye. Ear. Nose. Throat. Lungs. Heart. Stomach. Liver Bowels. Kidneys. Bladder, Sexual Organs, Nervous System. Skin and Blood. Expert Specialist in each class of diseases.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The consulting and examining Physicians and Surgeons will visit

Auburn, Monday Sept. 2,
(and every 4th Monday thereafter.)
Office at Swineford House.

At Dr. Ramaley's office, Pixley & Long Block, Ft. Wayne, Ind, Saturday and Sunday of each week.

$100 forfeit in case where they fail to locate the cause of disease without questioning. A legal guarantee in all curable cases. Consultation Free.

ROYAL Baking Powder.
Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

J. G. CLADD'S
J. G. CLAD'S
PHOTOS
AND FRAMES
ARE THE BEST ON EARTH.

WE HAVE A . . . .

NOOSE FOR YOUR NECK,

That you can Consider a . . . . . Privilege to wear

Our show window gives you a few samples of them

Neckwear

That cannot be discounted.

Four-in-Hands, Teck, Strings & Bows

At prices that make them within your reach

Patterns that are Up to Date.

Come and look at our fall line of ties

Fall Hats!

We have a

Harvest of Bargains

For You this Fall

G. H. Yesbera,

The Up-to-Date Neckwear Outfitter.

Smoke
THE "DINGER!"
E. M. BISHOP,
AUBURN.

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895, Charles A. Sherlock, Lizzie J. Sherlock, Henry Sherlock, Mary A. Sherlock, Arilla Buss and Samuel Buss, non-residents of the state of Indiana, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court to foreclose mortgage by Lafayette J. Miller, Administrator of the estate of Hannah Sherlock, deceased, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 21st day of October, 1895, being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7th, 1895.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 28th day of August, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

BAXTER & BROWN, Attorneys.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Mary E. Eastman is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court by Robert D. Hibbard, to enforce a lien upon lot numbered eighteen in Block seventeen in the Original plat of the town (now city) of Garrett, in DeKalb Co., state of Indiana, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 1st day of October 1895 being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said Court.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 27th day of August 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

Hartman & Hartman, Attorneys.

Is Very Popular.

Kenneth Bazemore had the good fortune to receive a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy when three members of his family were sick with dysentery. This one small bottle cured them all and he had some left which he gave to Geo. W. Baker, a prominent merchant of the place, Lewiston, N. C., and it cured him of the same complaint. When troubled with dysentery, diarrhœa, colic or cholera morbus, give this remedy a trial and you will be more than pleased with the result. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use has made it very popular. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord 31 35

GOOD FARM FOR SALE.

One mile and a half south of Auburn, the old A. D. Goetschius farm of 110 acres, in good condition. Good brick house and other good buildings. For terms inquire at the farm.

A. D. GOETSCHIUS jr.

B. & O. EXCURSIONS.

On August 28 to September 5, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell Excursion Tickets to Mountain Lake Park, Md., at a rate of one fare for the round trip, account of the National Local Preachers' Association Meeting. Tickets will be good for return until September 7, 1895.

For further information call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Agent, Ill.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P.

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic
Physician and Surgeon.

--Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

First National Bank
AUBURN, INDIANA
Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, on time deposits County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph
Calls promptly answered at all times.

ALBERT ROBBINS, Pres. J. C. HENRY, V. P.

FARMERS BANK
Of Auburn. (Under State Supervision.)
.....CAPITAL STOCK, $45,000.00.....
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.

A. C. ROBBINS, CASHIER.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit court, of the State of Indiana, Executor of the estate of Sophia L. Baird, deceased, late of said county

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WM. H. LEAS, Executor.

August 19, 1895.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb Circuit court of the state of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Albert Spurgin deceased late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN L. WILDERSON, Administrator.

August 19, 1895.

HARTMAN, Att'y for Estate.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Hulbert L. Sheets impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, on note and in attachment by William Huffman and that the same will be heard and determined on the 5th day of October 1895 being the 7th juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7, 1895.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 21st day of August 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

D. T. Husselman, Att'y. 34-35

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
POWDERED AND PERFUMED
(PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleaning water pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

INSTITUTE WEEK.

Have you made up your list of articles necessary to make your Winter's Work pleasurable and comfortable.

DO NOT FORGET

that Bishop & Lackey have largely exceeded all previous efforts in merchandising in DeKalb County.

BETTER DRESS GOODS.

Pick up any one of the half hundred styles shown here and you will find a texture, dye and finish that are vastly ahead of the ordinary article. Careful buying does it for you, for us, and the prices are on a low level.

UNDERWEAR.

Low prices because bought cheap. We let the manufacturer overstock—it would be bad merchandising for us to do so. Over 6,000 pieces of knit Underwear in our store now. These are fresh from the manufacturer and ⅓ underpriced.

HOSIERY.

All grades suitable for the fall and winter season in all wool wool-mixed, fleece-lined and cotton goods for men, women and children. 400 Doz. now under our roof, bought before the advance.

FURS AND CLOAKS.

We are showing a very large line of stylish Fur Garments, prices could not be duplicated if we bought them.

COTTONS ARE UP

everywhere but here. We laid in a stock when they were cheap and now you can buy a fall supply and save something.

BLANKETS

in August seem rather out of season. We have almost Five Hundred that we bought this year, before the advance in prices. As an inducement for you to buy now, we make prices less than later on.

WE HAVE

the finest show rooms in DeKalb County, also some of the most courteous salespeople, and what will interest you more—sharp buyers say our prices are right. You are free to come and look; we won't press you to buy.

Bishop & Lackey,

LEADING MERCHANTS.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood. Excessive Use of Opium and Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $6.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indians, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

TEACHERS.

There are a few more copies of

"A BIT OF FINESSE"

By MRS. HARRIET NEWELL LODGE.

left that can be had at $1.00 Per Copy. This is a fine bound book and ought to be in possion by every teacher in the county as it is highly spoken of by all that have read it. Call and examine the book.

There is nothing nicer than a first-class

FOUNTAIN PEN

One that can always be relied upon for use when needed "A cheap fountain pen is dear at any price." If you are in need of one, it will pay you to purchase while in the city. THE RAPID WRITER Fountain Pen is sold with a 5 year guarantee, unconditionally. Pens can be tried before accepted.

Scholars of the High room can get the books needed for the different grades, and anyone wanting the will find them also, and a large line of TABLETS, PENS, PENCILS, ETC., at the City News Stand.

INDIANA SERIES SCHOOL BOOKS,

Terms Cash M. B. WILLIS, PROPRIETOR OF City News Stand.

Wednesday's Daily.

Mrs. Martha Britton returned yesterday from a few weeks' visit with friends in Ohio.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

Leave orders at the Fair View fruit farm for fine raspberry bushes. Any variety you wish, red or black. A. G Lodewick, Prop. 31 33

Mrs. Chas. Henky, of south Milford, returned to her home this morning after visiting Mrs. Fred. Funk a few days, she was accompanied home by Mrs Funk.

A letter from James Griswold and wife at Lansing, says they are having a nice visit, They go this week to Eaton Rapids, and after a few days with the friends there, will return home.

Mrs. Geo. Grogg and little daughter Doris wish us to thank on their behalf, the kind friends and neighbors who showed so much kindness and sympathy during their late sad bereavement.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

Miss Rose Calkins and mother are visiting in the family of her brother, Milo. She is home for a few weeks' vacation from Findlay, Ohio, where for the past two years she has been receiving instructions in vocal music and also teaching on the guitar.

Ft. Wayne is getting ready to celebrate its centennial. As the old fort was built in 1794 they should have celebrated last year. But they failed to agree on the matter. The fact, however still remains, that there were various trading establishments among the Indians at that point for about a hundred years before.

Three young ladies of Kendallville were riding down Main street this afternoon on their wheels, when one of them, Miss Agnes Geyer, came in contact with a man who was crossing Main street at Hebel Bros. store. The young lady spoke to the gentleman before she was near the crossing but he seemed to be slow to move and as a result the young lady fell from her wheel. She was, however, not much hurt, and after tightening up the handle bars on her wheel she again mounted and went on her journey.

Thursday's Daily:

Mae Rose returned this morning from Butler where she was the guest of friends a few days.

St. Joe. News—The AUBURN DAILY COURIER improves with age, and is now a permanent fixture at the county seat.

"Gen." Frye, another of Coxey's "generals" is no more. He was on a tramp and a train ran over him this week in Kansas. The populists should keep their leaders nearer home.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic. DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

The first election of any sort so far as state or nation politics is concerned, is that South Carolina, this week, Aug. 20, when they elected members of the coming constitutional convention. In every county but three or four, so far heard from, the democratic candidate were elected.

Dr. Carey has a fine new office chair, the gift of his friend, Dr, Showalter. It is a beauty and comfortable enough to grace an editor's sanctum. We talk of moving it one room west some day when a patient calls the doctor to another part of town.

Mrs. Chas. Pommert and children left at noon to-day for Hillsdale Mich., where they will visit Mrs. Pommert's brother a few days. Later. Mrs. Pommert expected to meet her brother at Angola and drive to Hillsdale but he was not there so she returned home on the 3:10 train this afternoon.

Mrs. C. Ashelman of Toledo has been up in Fairfield with her people for a time, as her sister, Mrs. Wayne Zonker has been quite sick. Yesterday she came to Auburn to see about some matters on the farm, Little Pearl is with her, and they will remain in the county till some business matters are attended to.

The German veterans of the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 are organizing all over the country. Many are now paying a visit to the Fatherland, in order to help celebrate the 25th anniversary of the battle of Sedan, which is Sept. 2. Fred Funk, of Auburn, is one who was present at that historical battle, but he is too busy at work to go.

Do you wish the very best advantages in music? The Fayette Normal University offers you instruction equal to that of the best conservatories at one-half the expense. Our Musical Director has a national reputation as a composer and has no superior as a teacher. You can pursue any line of musical work that you desire. Send for catalogue, J. E. Dodds, Fayette, Ohio.

The editor of a Georgia paper speaks as if he had had experience. He says: Editing a newspaper is funny business. For instance, if you give a fellow a "nice notice" he never sees it, and so far as showing his appreciation he probauly "never hears tell of it." But just say something "agin 'im" and he will pursue you worse than the sheriff. A fellow who don't care much about eating can have a picnic running a newspaper.

The military workshops at Puteaux, in France are said to be hard at work turning out leather tires for the army bicycles, to replace those of rubber. which when they break down or are punctured are very difficult to repair. Leather tires on the contrary, can be sewn without much trouble by the cyclist or by the nearest shoemaker. Moreover they are lighter than the rubber ones and are much less likely to slip on wet pavement or asphalt.—Ligonier Banner.

Friday's Daily.

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

Western wool growers, it is said, will get six millions more for their wool this year than last year. It appears that free wool is not such a killing thing after all.

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills. DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation

Harry Smith, a relative to F. E. Davenport's family, came in from Mansfield, Ohio, yesterday on his wheel, having made the 170 miles in 15 hours, only 11 of which was taken up in actual riding. Can anyone beat this?

Mrs. Ed Ettinger of Waterloo was here yesterday with her little niece Harriet Dickinson. Mrs. Ettinger takes baths at Dr. Swarts' Sanitarium. These baths are proving very beneficial, many diseases yielding to the treatment that would not yield to any other.

Saturday's Daily:

Fremont Smith, J. S. Weaver Geo. Apple and Wm. Seeley remembered the WEEKLY during the past few days.

The fine rain last night was a good thing for the roads and will increase entries for the coming Century Run Sept. 2nd.

A. Lewis has a letter from his wife, who, with Harry, is at Petoskey. Both are getting along well and enjoying their stay there.

Dr. Sebring was up to Angola yesterday and this morning came home a very sick man. He was not able to sit in the hack.

Robert Latta, son of Prof. Latta, of La-Fayette, returned to his home this morning after spending a couple of weeks with Cal. Husselman's little boy.

Dr. Carey went up to Waterloo this afternoon, and assisted Dr. Showalter of that place in an important surgical operation. They were quite successful and believe their patient will now recover.

The Kiblinger Company have rented the big hub factory at the south end of town and will use it to store shafts. They will also arrange to iron their own shafts, as quite a saving can be made.

J. S. Weaver's little boy John has a serious case of blood poisoning. He cut his hand slightly about a week ago and Sunday it began to inflame and blood poisoning resulted. It is being treated now by Dr. Nusbaum.

Ernest Sheets has returned from Cleveland where he has been learning cutting and fitting and will now have a tailoring establishment of his own. He will be located some time next week in the west room, 2nd, floor of the Farmers Bank building. He will do merchant tailoring by sample and have a fine line of goods shown from which to select.

Monday's Daily.

John Treesh and wife and daughter Sadie were the guests Sunday in the family of Mr. Treesh's brother at Syracuse.

on Saturday at Cleveland, where she had gone for goods. Her remains were brought to Butler yesterday and the funeral will occur to-day.

Dr. Johnston the dentist has added a new safe to his office. This is quite an essential article in a dental office as Mr. Johnston carries a large stock of teeth.

A number of Chinese were arrested at Buffalo, N. Y., last week for trying to come into the country contrary to law. They prove to be men who had deserted from the Chinese army.

The City Council of Hicksville, Ohio have passed an ordinance prohibiting the sale of any refreshments whatever on Sunday. A man is subject to a fine if he sells a glass of lemonade or a dish of ice cream.

The DAILY COURIER is not only becoming popular in Auburn but in other towns as well. Will Olds is the latest subscriber. He and his wife resides on a beautiful farm near Hicksville, O.

About fifty people from Auburn attended the annual meeting of the Disciple church, held in the grove half way between Ashley and Hudson, yesterday. A good meeting is reported with a large attendance.

Mrs. A. G. Jones of Butler, fell from a carriage Friday while out riding and died from the effects Sunday morning. The funeral will occur at that place to-morrow. She was one of the prominent ladies of Butler. She was a well known teacher, Miss Marilla Platter, and later, Mrs. Snively. Mr. Jones her husband, was for some years postmaster at Butler.

Miss Potter, a milliner of Butler, died

Mrs. Minnie Loomis and son of Fort Wayne came to Auburn last Tuesday to visit friends and her parents who live east of town. Friday she was a guest of Mrs. Snell on South Main street and the boy was apparently as well as usual. Saturday the lad took quite sick with membraneous croup, and died Sunday morning. Mr. Loomis was telegraphed for and came here Saturday night. The remains were taken to Ft. Wayne on the 9:34 train this morning for burial.

"Hippophagy" is one of our new words It means, freely translated "Eating horse flesh." It comes before the public in Chicago where they have several establishments for the slaughter of old horses. The proprietors claim the meat is all sent abroad in the form of "bologna" sausages and probably a great deal of it is. But there is a lingering suspicion all over the country that a great deal is quietly consumed in the cheaper houses in Chicago. The strange word may in time, "to our like mouths grow sleek," but the meat will never "go down" with Americans.

Tuesday's Daily.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Butter and eggs wanted at the Princess Store.

Dr. Thomson and wife were over from Garrett this afternoon.

Geo. Swander was able to come up to town, Saturday, but is still far from well.

The Maccabee ladies will give a tea party at John Picker's, Saturday evening. All are invited.

Mrs. D. T Smith, Mrs. Ashleman, and Mrs. Sam Brandon went to Hudson, Mich., to-day.

Frank Dills and Lyman Ashelman left this morning for St. Joe, Mich., and other towns in that state, on their wheels.

Milo Calkins went up to Ashley last night where he is teaching a band. A new band has been organized in that place.

R. Sawyel went down to Fort Wayne this morning. He has a prospective buyer for a big lot of the roasting pans that were manufactured here.

Miss Bird Roberts of Wilmington township went up to Battle Creek, Mich. last Thursday, to join her friend Ella Masters, who has been there for some time.

DeKalb county against the world! Jacob Link at the Junction reports the biggest crabapple so far. He picked one that measured 10 inches around one way and 9½ the other. It was the "Excelsior."

Rev. Charles B. Darling delivered a very able discourse to a large audience Sunday evening at the M. E. church. He is in charge of a Presbyterian church at St. Paul, and is evidently a minister of great promise.

Col. Geo. W. Bain will give his lecture, "Boys and Girls, Nice and Naughty, or the Pendulum of Life," before the Institute at Anderson, Sept. 4th. Mrs. Sarah Tarney Campbell will also give two lectures on the "Principles of Method."

H. W. Mounts of Garrett, one of their young attorneys, was here, this morning, and left an order for the DAILY this week. He was too busy in law matters to attend the institute, and so took this way to get sight of the leading work.

The two-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Williamson, of west of town, died yesterday. It had been sick for some weeks. The funeral will be from the residence at 10 o'clock a. m., tomorrow, conducted by Rev. J. D. Brosy. Interment in Woodlawn.

Mrs. G. A. Porter showed us a letter, yesterday, from a friend near Rome City, stating that the captain of the boat from which Mr. Artimus was drowned, Aug. 12th, had been prosecuted. A petition signed by two hundred people was presented for his prosecution.

MARRIED:—At the Lutheran parsonage on Sunday, Aug. 25, at 6 p. m., by J. D. Brosy, William E. Strauss and Lilly C. Snyder. Both are worthy young people and we wish them a happy future. The bride was formerly an Auburn girl, being the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Snyder of Butler township.

The Junior Endeavorers of the Lutheran church will give an ice cream and floral social, Friday evening, Aug. 30, from 5 to 8, on Lutheran parsonage lawn. Ice cream, cake and coffee for 10 cents. Everybody come and help these little folks in their mission work.

Riders are entered for the Century Run, Sept. 2nd, from Ft. Wayne, Huntington, New Haven, Paulding, Antwerp, Hicksville, Butler, Waterloo, Angola, Pleasant Lake, Kendallville, Albion, Ligonier, South Bend and several other points, including about a dozen entries from Auburn.

The lecture by Chaplain Lozier last evening was very witty and contained much that was good. He gave his lecture in verse and a part of it was sung, for he is a good singer. He is also a good actor and can make all he says or does count well. In many ways he reminds one of Mrs. Roby. After the lecture was over all were invited to go to the residence of J. G. Clapp and see the blooming of a night-blooming Cereus, that was taking place there. Many went over to enjoy the sight and all were greatly pleased.

Frank and J. H. Rose are in Virginia on a trip for rest and sight seeing They go up the Shenandoah Valley and stops at the historic old town of Lexington, the seat of the old Virginia Military Institute, where 'Stonewall' Jackson was president before he entered the confederate service. It was from that institution that the entire class of boys including the well known John S. Wise, had to come out and march to join the confederate forces and take part in the battles in the Valley, losing many of their young lives. The whole country through which he passes is rich in historic associations and abounds in grand scenery, including the famous Luray caverns.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

A. P. Foltz, one of our old teachers, called up while at the institute. His second son, Charles, is now in the regular army, being a member of the famous old Seventh Cavalry, Custer's old regiment, the one that was so nearly destroyed in the massacre in 1876.

The annual settlement statement o Union Township appears in to-days paper. It was the opinion of both Mr Reed the retiring trustee and of Mr. Madden the new one that the statement should be given to the people whether required by the law or not.

Supt. Harrison has been up to Windsor Park, in the south part of Chicago, where he and his brother own houses. He says everything has greatly changed and improved since he was there last, nearly two years ago. It has become a popular bathing resort, and people come there each Sunday in great numbers.

The populist who was so suddenly squelched at a picnic near Corunna the other day is no doubt studying to see whether a so-called political matter should be called up at every time and in every place. A man may be forgiven for entertaining such wild ideas but he should not, remember the time and place do not always suit.

A stranger went into a bicycle store at Ft. Wayne last week and said he wanted to rent a wheel for a short time. In order to see which one he wanted, he took one out on the street, mounted it and rode away. He has not returned unless the officers who went after him got him.

Painters have been engaged for several days upon the Lake Shore passenger station and it is greatly improved in its appearance. The color is the one adopted for the whole line and it is said that all of the buildings will be painted alike. Let the good work go on:—Ligonier Banner.

George W. Reed was in, Tuesday, to see us and talk over old times. He says peaches are very plenty up about South Haven. The wheat, he thinks will go twenty bushels to the acre; corn nearly as good as here. His son George planted 600 peach trees last spring.

Militia Paid Off.

Capt A. L. Kuhlman received the pay for the militia boys who were in the State Encampment at Indianapolis this summer. Each man received $7.25, unless he had any fines against him, for failure to appear on regular drill nights. The entire amount received was $365.25.

Good News

Ever since the Lutheran church has been built the congregation has had a great financial burden resting upon its shoulders. At the congregational meeting last Saturday afternoon the last burden was lifted, and the church and parsonage was declared out of debt. We have at present 162 communicant members and all feel much encouraged over the success they have had.

J. D. BROSY, Pastor.

Lœwenstein & Co.

Waterloo gets back one of her old business men, for on Sept. 7, Jacob Loewenstein will open up at his old stand on the corner where Jake Kahn, and afterwards himself had a store so long. They will have a new and full stock of dry goods, clothing and boots and shoes. They will also buy and sell all kinds of grain and produce. Cut this out and keep it.

SCHOOL BEGINS.

The public schools of Auburn will begin next Monday, Sept. 2. Teachers' meeting will be held Friday afternoon, of this week, at 4 o'clock p. m., at the new school building. I will be at the High School room, Saturday, from 1 to 3 o'clock p. m., to meet such pupils as desire to see me with reference to their grades. School prospects are excellent and expect a liberal attendance of foreign pupils. We are always glad to welcome pupils from out of town.

B. B. HARRISON, Supt.

ROBY BURNED.

Two years ago our soldiers went up to help Gov. Mathews stop prize fighting at Roby. Saturday night the big building burned. Those who go to Chicago over the B. & O. will remember a big octagonal frame building on the left as we approach South Chicago. This is the one in which were the prize fights. Lately a small two-story hotel has been put up close by it. In this the fire started and then the big building caught. It went in a hurry. The "Columbian Athletic Club" is no more.

OLD 30TH.

The reunion of the 30th Indiana at Ft. Wayne August 29, bids fair to be one of the best they have held. Among those who are to be present and assist, we notice, Capt. J. E. Braden of Ligonier; Hon. J. B. White, W. A. Ogden and H. M. Stoner. J. A. Provines, and Miss Olive Elson are spoken of from DeKalb county but we presume that many who are not on the program will attend.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE KING SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Reader, did you ever take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is BETTER THAN PILLS. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

Trustee's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the public and all interested that I will hold Friday of each week as my office day, and that all township business will be done on that day.

JOSEPH HUET,
34tf Trustee of Fairfield Township.

BUTTER PACKAGE

A new article for package is now on the market, and will be sold by C. H. Crew of this place, to families both in town and country. It is a strong can of galvanized iron, inside of which is a thick glass can. The article can be used for milk, butter and the like and will prove very convenient, not only for keeping these articles, but for carrying to market. A top is fitted to the glass can in such a way that it is air tight. We think our people welcome Mr. Grew and this new and convenient article.

The Ideal Panacea.

James L. Francis, Alderman, Chicago says: "I regard Dr. King's New Discovery as an Ideal Panacea for Coughs Colds and Lung complaints, having used it in my family for the last five years to the exclusion of physicians prescriptions or other preparations."

Rev. John Burgus, Keokuk, Iowa, writes: "I have been a minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 50 years ormore, and have never found anything so beneficial, or that gave me such speedy relief as Dr. King's New Discovery." Try this Ideal Cough Remedy now. Trial Bottles free at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 6

Church Dedication.

The Catholic church in Smithfield township, DeKalb Co., Ind. has been renovated and also enlarged, and beautifully decorated by Mr. Kova from Fort Wayne. The original building was erected in 1881 by the few Catholic families residing in this township. It is 40 feet long and 30 feet wide. To this 40 feet is added 14 feet of the same width, a sanctuary 16x22 feet and a vestry 18x12, so that the entire length of the building is 82 feet.

On Wednesday, Sept. 4, 1895 the church will be dedicated by Right Rev. Bishop Rademacher of Ft. Wayne. Services will begin at 10 a. m.

M. BENZINGER.

TRUSTEE'S REPORT.

Financial statement of receipts, and expenditures and balances on hand of the several funds of Union township, as shown by settlement with the commissioners by ex-trustee, R. S. S. Reed, Aug. 5 1895.

TOWNSHIP FUND.
On hand Aug. 1 1894	$668 78
Received during year	58 89
Expended	495 42
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	232 25
SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.
On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$ 396 59
Received during year	46 99
Expended	314 74
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1865	128 84
TUITION.
On hand Aug. 1, 1894	239 70
Received during year	817 48
Expended	735 00
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	322 18
ROAD FUND.
On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$ 56 48
Received during year	265 31
Expended	194 70
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	127 09
DOG FUND.
On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$200 36
Received during year	109 50
Expended	259 86
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	50 00
BRIDGE FUND.
On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$1020 55
Received during year	17 02
Expended	409 96
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	627 61

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

Strange to say, Mr. Holmes has not yet taken advantage of the hypnotic theory.

Siberia's new railway has one great advantage over railways in this country. It will be much easier to freeze the small stockholders out.

In Lawrence, Kan., the other day, the life of a man who had hiccoughed steadily for six days was saved by spraying him with musk. Most men, we think, would have been unwilling to make such a sacrifice.

It seems a pity that a man of Holmes' splendid talents should have directed his energies toward vulgar homicide. What might he not have accomplished if he had tried to exterminate the chinch bug or the Russian thistle!

A young lady jumped into the Schuylkill River the other day and saved a young man from drowning. As soon as the young man was pumped out he proposed marriage to his fair savior. Now watch the scramble among the girls to see which can get in the swim first.

In Buffalo, the other day, a Pole named Szraukeweyziwicz was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. At police headquarters the prisoner was asked his name, and while trying to answer fell in a fit and choked to death. The coroner decided that no inquest was necessary.

Tenpenny wire nails are now selling at about $57 for a gross ton—an advance of over $26 a ton since the beginning of the year. A reaction from the abnormally low prices of a panic year gives general satisfaction, but this is not merely a reaction. It can mean nothing but combination close enough to corner the market and check trade by checking supply in face of an increasing demand. This is always bad business for all concerned.

A curious use for a husband is reported from Clerkenwell, near London, where a Mr. Lamb and his wife keep a small general store. For fourteen years the firm has avoided paying taxes by the wife's sending the husband to jail to serve out the legal time for unpaid taxes, while she remains at the store attending to business. It is beyond question that the new woman, who supports a dead-beat husband, will find some use for the partner of her sorrows. When he wooed her he said he would die for her. When in trouble she asks him to please go to jail for her; and he goes.

There is this much to be said about the proposed balloon expedition to the north pole: It is quite as likely to arrive at its destination as the expeditions which preceded it. In this age of scientific enterprise it is unbecoming to disparage any honest effort. The expeditions on land having failed, King Oscar of Sweden deserves the credit for furnishing funds for an expedition through the air. The world at large will stand respectfully aside and hope that the bold explorer will have better luck than the other talented scientist who planned some years ago to get to the pole by means of a kite tied to a sledge. No, it will not do to disparage the balloon expedition of polar exploration. Earnest efforts deserve praise. Moreover, there is positively no knowing but that some vagrant breeze may come along and blow the aeronaut to the pole before he even gets his steering apparatus ready.

There is an inspiring suggestion of pluck and spirit and "the faith that moves mountains" in the church-building operations of the Central Park Congregational Church, Chicago. The congregation desires a new house of worship. It is without the money to build one. In these circumstances ordinary souls would have simply put the subject aside as a matter not to be considered. They would have folded their hands and sat down to cherish regrets about it. Instead of tamely submitting to this fate, however, the Central Park congregation, led by its pastor, the Rev. Spencer C. Haskin, has gone to work to build its church with its own hands. The members, after leaving their regular daily work, gather at the church site in the evening and labor in erecting the house of worship. Money or no money, that church will be built, and when it is built it will represent not the fruits of the easy giving of the rich, but the toil of willing hands and the faith that is superior to outward conditions. The Rev. Mr. Haskin and his congregation at work on their new church make a thoroughly wholesome, inspiring and invigorating example.

In August, last year, thirty young men, picked from among the thousand students of one of our great universities, were taken to a sea island, difficult of access. They were accompanied by their captain, their business manager, their cooks, their surgeon and their physician. There were also men who were paid high salaries to direct them every hour of the day so as to keep their physical condition in perfect order, to look after their baths, knead their muscles, and control their exercise. For nine weeks these young men remained isolated, hidden from the spies of other colleges, striving to bring their bodies into the highest condition. Stimulants and tobacco were forbidden. They ran, studied, read, slept by rule. Every morsel of food was prescribed by the physician and trainers. This was done at an enormous pecuniary cost. All of this discipline and self-sacrifice were spent to fit them to win a game at football some weeks later. A very natural question may be asked as to what discipline and sacrifice these same men are willing to accept to fit their souls and minds for the lifelong game in which they must take their part when the college doors close behind them?

It is never safe to make an unguarded prediction on so mysterious a subject, but one is justified in taking issue with the woman writer in a contemporary journal who insists that the garment known as the bloomer is destined to invade every walk of life and become the regular out-of-door, shopping and walking dress of the sex. Observers will have noticed that many women riders of the wheel, who have no prejudice on the subject, still cling to skirts, wearing them by preference. Since they ride with a skirt, it must be that skirts are neither so unsafe nor so inconvenient as has been claimed. The riders are much too sensible to imperil their necks or suffer discomfort from any simple prejudice in favor of an ill-chosen costume. It does not seem that the bloomer is a necessity. The garment which bears Mrs. Bloomer's honored name seems to depend for its immortality solely on its claims to beauty.

Colonel Joseph Mulhatton seems to be spending his vacation in New York. The Chicago Tribune the other day contained one of the colonel's gems which deserves to be embalmed in journalistic history. His "special dispatch" gives an account of the wonderful work done by a pet lion which recently chewed up a burglar, and concludes by saying that the "noble beast" saved the life of an old egg peddler who had been attacked by a savage mastiff. Here is the picture: "Suddenly the sympathy of the gallant lion was aroused. It had seen the one-sided battle. It sprang over the gate and made a bold attack on the mastiff until the dog ran down the street yelping with pain. The small boys climbed up trees and crept into drain pipes in their terror. When the dog was gone the lion stood up on its hind legs, lashed its tail, and roared with elation. The old egg man held out his hand and the wild beast licked it. It turned out that the peddler once gave the lion an egg, and the creature out of gratitude saved his life to-day. The old man said he was sure if the lion had not interfered he would have been a dead peddler." This certainly is lyin' extraordinary.

It would have been a serious infraction of justice had the authorities in the case declined to take further action concerning Miss Flagler, the Washington young woman who shot and killed a small colored boy who was stealing fruit on her father's property. It will be readily understood that if this young woman, who mingles with the best elements of society and has every advantage of position and education, is possessed of even the dullest sensibility she must already suffer a shamed remorse quite as terrible as any public punishment could be. Doubtless, however, there are many other people guilty of similar acts who suffer deeply in their own consciences, and for whom prison punishment could do nothing whatever in the way of a reformatory influence. There is no way of recognizing these subtle distinctions without endangering the efficacy of the law. In Miss Flagler's case the provocation was trivial—the theft by a boy of a little fruit. The retaliation was horrible—careless and wanton vengeance in taking human life. The case is not one to be prosecuted with any gusto, and the spectacle of a young, refined and accomplished woman in a prisoner's box on a charge of manslaughter is not elevating. Still, in the alternative between forcing this spectacle upon the public or failing to take cognizance of the criminal deed, the law could take but one course. Justice cannot compound with crime, even though it be perfectly proper afterward to pardon the criminal.

It would be interesting to know how many other small towns are as badly off in the matter of fire protection as Lockport, Ill., was. The fire which brought destruction to that town is said to have burned up about $250,000 worth of property, when, if it had been attacked with proper fire-fighting apparatus early in the day, the loss might have been limited to a few hundreds. But there were no fire engines on hand and no firemen to man them if there had been any. The fire, which started with a trifling blaze, swept on unchecked until it had destroyed some of the most valuable property in the town, and then it was only subdued by fire engines sent from Chicago. A town of a few thousand people, small though it be, is yet large enough to possess a considerable area of combustible buildings. It would be well for the authorities in the various towns of the State which have no fire protection to consider whether the property in their charge is worth preserving, and, if so, whether the moderate expense of supporting a fire company or two is not more easily borne than the great cost of an extensive conflagration, with the vexation and distress and the fatalities which such a disaster generally involves. The chief reason for the immunity apparently enjoyed by small towns is that visitations of fire are rare. When they do come, with favoring wind and weather the result is almost sure to be heavily disastrous.

A Good Dog Story.

I knew a dog in Ireland, a large retriever, which had been taught always to bring his own tin dish in his mouth to be filled at the late dinner. For some reason his master wished to make a change, and to feed him twice a day instead of once, to which he had always been accustomed. The dog resented this, and when told to bring his dish, refused, and it could nowhere be found, so his master spoke angrily to him, and ordered him to bring the dish at once. With drooping tail and sheepish expression he went down the length of the garden and began scratching up the soil where he had buried the bowl deep down, to avoid having to bring it at an hour of which he did not approve.

Lieutenant (in Miss Emily's private sitting-room)—"Emily, I cannot find expression for the feelings which agitate my breast—I love you! (dropping on his knees). Behold me lying here in the dust before you!" Emily—"I beg your pardon, lieutenant; that is an insult. I dusted everything myself only a minute ago."—Geillustreerd Zondagsblad.

Miss Mildmay—"I am sure that there is good in Mr. Spooner. He certainly is very tender-hearted." Miss Frost—"Yes, he has a heart that has been tendered to about every unmarried woman in town, if that is what you mean."—Boston Transcript.

Working Bee—"A fellow came around here hunting for our nest to-day." Queen Bee—"What did you do?" Working Bee—"Those of us who happened to be around at the time gave him a few points."—Truth.

NEW TARIFF AT WORK

SPLENDID RESULTS FROM THE WILSON MEASURE.

Is a Better Revenue-Raiser than Any Tariff with High "Protective Rates—Short Campaign Not Wanted—About Free Binding Twine.

Revenue Increasing.

The recent increase of the government's revenues from customs duties is a gratifying sign of returning prosperity and affords a vivid demonstration of the superiority of the new tariff over its predecessor.

"A grain of fact is worth more than a bushel of argument," as saith an old proverb. And the public, long wearied by the puerile predictions of calamity howlers, will read in the solid facts now published by the Treasury Department overwhelming proof that the Wilson "free trade" tariff (as Republican partisans so fondly call it) is, after all, doing its work admirably well, and will, in all probability, ere long yield ample returns.

During the whole month of July, if we exclude Sundays and the national holiday, the national revenue from all sources averaged the handsome sum of $1,127,180 a day, of which amount the customs duties furnished nearly one-half. Yesterday (August 1) the receipts were $1,220,984, of which the customs were $747,262—considerably more than one-half. And all present indications favor the conclusion that these fine receipts are not exceptional or temporary, but are due to normal and continuing causes, which must effect still further improvements in the autumn and winter revenues and probably carry the aggregate income of the government for the new fiscal year above $360,000,000.

The customs duties collected in the eleven months from September 1, 1894, to July 31, 1895 (inclusive), by the Wilson rates of duty on imports amount to $145,752,320.66. But in the eleven months from September 1, 1893, to July 31, 1894 (inclusive), in which the McKinley rates were in force, the customs revenue collected was only $113,406,745.51. That is, in the eleven months available for comparison the Wilson tariff produced for the Treasury $32,365,555.15 more revenue on imports than the McKinley tariff produced.

At its very emergence from its birththroes the new tariff gave evidence of its superiority to the old. In September, 1894—the first whole month of its existence, when all industries were in disorder—it returned to the Treasury in customs $15,564,990.56, against $12,144,626.28 returned by the McKinley tariff in September, 1893. In the spring of 1893—even before the panic arose or hard times were felt—the McKinley tariff yielded in no month after March more than $15,418,637.53 (the customs receipts for April, 1893), which was a less sum than the new-born Wilson bill yielded in September last, when it had not gone fully into effect and trade and business were paralyzed. But the superiority of the new tariff over the old, in the point of producing customs revenue, is most signally shown by comparing the customs collected in the first eleven months of its life with those collected in the last eleven months of the McKinley regime.

Customs duties collected in eleven months:

	McKinley tariff.
October, 1893	$10,999,776 15
November, 1893	10,218,688 64
December, 1893	9,153,215 99
January, 1894	11,454,803 14
February, 1894	10,390,528 13
March, 1894	11,358,984 67
April, 1894	10,176,691 36
May, 1894	9,798,067 25
June, 1894	8,858,875 63
July, 1894	8,427,338 40
August, 1894	11,804,914 21
Total	$112,641,883 57
	Wilson tariff.
September, 1894	$15,564,990 56
October, 1894	11,962,118 17
November, 1894	10,260,692 56
December, 1894	11,203,049 40
January, 1895	17,361,916 25
February, 1895	13,334,691 99
March, 1895	14,929,789 22
April, 1895	12,453,086 42
May, 1895	12,474,558 43
June, 1895	12,130,443 27
July, 1895	14,076,984 39
Total	$145,752,320 66

The following are the averages per month:

Under McKinley law.	Under Wilson law.
$10,240,171 24	$13,250,210 96

It is now as clear as a sunbeam that the Wilson tariff bill is a better revenue-raiser than McKinley's or any tariff with high "protective" rates. If more revenue is to be raised by customs duties the Wilson rates must be rather lowered than raised. Every economist and every merchant knows that high tariff rates act in a prohibitory way on importations, and hence kill the revenue from customs. Had the original Wilson bill, prescribing lower duties than those fixed in the bill by Senator Gorman and his clique, become a law, it would have brought in to the Government much larger revenues, and the present deficit in the treasury would have been much less than it is.

What, then, shall be said of the Republican "protectionist" scheme to reopen the tariff question and increase the present duties on the pretense of increasing the Government revenue from customs? No scheme could be devised that would more surely cut down the treasury receipts and swell its deficit.

Under the Wilson tariff (which affords labor and manufacturers the inestimable boon of free wool and other free raw materials) the wages of probably 1,000,000 workmen in our mills and factories have been increased, new mills are going up, and idle plants resuming work. For the first time in thirty-five years our decadent export trade in American manufactured goods shows signs of returning vitality. And American merchants are beginning to look wistfully for a revival of their once famous and lucrative ocean commerce. Any return to "protectionism" would dash their hopes and bring back the labor troubles which were so memorable and multitudinous in the era of the McKinley tariff. The people are beginning to see that every "protective" tariff on imports is destructive of their foreign commerce, and is, besides, the least economical and most mischievous method of raising revenue. It is time, therefore, for all "protectionists" to cease their vain advocacy of a return to high tariff.—New York Herald.

A Short Presidential Campaign.

Some sensational newspapers are advocating late national conventions by both parties next year for the nomination of presidential candidates and for the adoption of platforms. They claim that the campaigns should not extend beyond ninety or 100 days, which is all the time required for the discussion and settlement of the issues between parties.

There is some plausibility in the assertion that less time is required now for election campaigns than in the period before the daily press went everywhere and before the telegraph carried to the remotest points intelligence of every public movement as it progressed and ended. Sixty years ago, when the first political national conventions were held, it required a fortnight or more for news of nominations to reach all parts of the country. Intelligence of each hour's proceedings is now flashed along the telegraph lines to the neighborhoods of the voters, and all that a convention accomplishes is known to the great body of the population as soon as the adjournment is announced.

But it is doubtful whether the fact that news circulates more rapidly now than it did two generations ago is a reason for shortening the period of national deliberation which precedes a great election. Vital interests are at stake. The questions which most nearly affect the people in all their business and political relations are to be decided. The entire policy of the Government under our institutions is subject to change. When a change is made it should be with sufficient forethought after a careful study of all the elements in the problem before the public and in cool blood.

The plea for a short campaign on the ground that it takes less time to find out the names of the candidates and the nature of the platforms is only partially sound. It is an argument in favor of holding the national conventions two or three weeks later, not in favor of holding them two or three months later. It is a good reason for delaying the commencement of the campaign until about the average time of year when the people fifty or sixty years ago were notified of the nominations. It is not a good reason for shortening the campaign to such an extent that all its events will be huddled into a few weeks' time.

There is not much truth in the allegation that business is obstructed and embarrassed in presidential years. The volume of trade and the exchanges in the years when presidents are elected does not vary much from the average of other years. Business men know that, whichever party may succeed, Congress will not meet until more than a year after the election, and that no legislation affecting commercial interests can be perfected in a year and a half. That will give them plenty of time to close out all their open transactions and to prepare for a change if one shall occur. The tendency is rather to stimulate business in completing partial transactions than otherwise.

Upon no ground is the sensational demand for a short campaign sustained in reason. It can be advocated only by the organs of a party fearing exposure and seeking to cover the misdeeds of its administration under the hurry, turbulence and confusion of a short and red-hot campaign. A party of principle and with a clean record will ask the slow, deliberate, cautious judgment of the people when political enthusiasm is tempered by prudence and when the sober second thought inspires voters with wisdom.—Chicago Chronicle.

What Free Binder Twine Has Done.

Under the McKinley tariff several million wheatgrowers were compelled to pay high prices for their binder twine, owing to the protection given the cordage trust by heavy duties. When the Democrats put binding twine on the free list the Republican agents in Congress protested that without a tariff against foreign twine the American manufacturer would be driven out of business. Elijah Adams Morse, the stove-polish statesman from Massachusetts, was especially indignant against the free-twine ruin which he alleged was threatening his constituents in Plymouth, and implored Congress not to close up the cordage factories and throw out of work their employes. But in spite of the Rising Sun's tearful and ungrammatical eloquence, the Democrats gave the farmers free twine.

A year's experience under the Wilson tariff shows how unfounded were the Republican assertions. Instead of a ruined cordage industry, the demand for binder twine has been so great that the factories have in many cases been unable to fill orders. The Cordage Trade Journal states in its issue of August 1st that not for many months has the situation in the binder-twine market been so gratifying to manufacturers, jobbers and dealers as it is now. Most manufacturers have sold out their entire stocks, factories have been running on full time, and the various kinds of manila, sisal and hemp twines are yielding their manufacturers good profits.

This condition of affairs in an important industry is exactly what was predicted by the Democrats, and clearly justifies their free-twine policy. The farmers are getting their twine cheaper than under McKinleyism, and can therefore afford to buy more. The cordage factories find that their business is improving, and the demand for their goods increasing. The only parties injured by free twine are the professional mourners over the corpse of McKinleyism, who find that their prophecies of ruin were false.

Signs of Good Times.

The railroads are already providing new equipment with which to handle the corn and wheat and the meat and provisions of all sorts into which the farmers will convert part of their cereals. Larger exports are in prospect, with the probable result of checking the efflux of gold and even reversing the yellow current. Better times already having returned for manufacturing and mining interests, wages are being advanced. Workingmen have more to spend, and are spending it. Merchants feel the effects in better sales. On every hand the prospect brightens. Even the silver cloud that prevents the return of foreign capital to enliven our industries seems to be fading away. When that goes a scarecrow of the investment and speculative market will have been got rid of, and securities, now low, will regain their former level.—Baltimore Sun.

The Ruined Woolen Industry.

The protectionists who declared that the new tariff would ruin the woolen industry have nothing to say of the reported construction of over a hundred new mills in the last six months, except to deny the truth of the report and to demand the proof of it. As the statement was made on the authority of the American Wool and Cotton Reporter the desired proof is likely to be forthcoming.—Providence Journal.

Are Increasing Wages.

The fact that coal operators in the Pittsburg region are voluntarily increasing the wages of operatives is explained on the ground that the demand for labor in the iron mills has reduced the available supply and forced up the price. Perhaps when Mr. McKinley gets to be President it will be possible to stop such ruinous interference with home market laws of trade.

THE DOG STILL HOWLS AND THE MOON STILL SHINES.

Business continues unusually active. The settlement of the mining troubles will bring an increase of wages to 100,000 men.—Extracts from Dun's Report. —Chicago Chronicle.

BOLD TRAIN ROBBERS.

HOLD-UP ON THE CHICAGO AND WEST MICHIGAN.

Train Was Running Light and the Villains Were Badly Fooled—Got $7.50 and Two Watches—Passengers Badly Scared but Not Molested.

Bandits Near New Richmond.

Five desperate bandits dynamited the express car on the Chicago and West Michigan passenger train, due at Grand Rapids from Chicago at 10:30 p. m., near New Richmond, Tuesday night. The robbers secured only two watches and $7.50 in money, but their intentions were good.

The Allegan County officers were notified, and with daybreak the woods in the vicinity of the hold-up were thoroughly scoured, and liberal rewards offered for the apprehension of the robbers. Not only the Allegan County, but also the sheriffs of Ottawa, Van Buren, Kent, and Kalamazoo Counties have been notified, and the officers say that, unless the robbers have a boat and escaped across Lake Michigan, they will be caught. The train was bowling along at a rapid rate. When rounding a curve at a place in the road that is lined with forest growth Engineer Debble caught the gleam of a white light waved across the track. He saw by the reflection that the track was obstructed and brought the train to a stop.

As the train was stopped a volley was fired into the cab, one shot narrowly missing the fireman, and the two men were ordered to come down. They refused to comply with the demand, and the robbers, only two of them in sight, did not insist upon it. The rear brakeman, Timothy Murphy, jumped off the train and ran back to flag any train that might be following. The robbers saw him jump and fired at him, inflicting a flesh wound in the thigh. Conductor E. E. Rice stepped out upon the platform to inquire what was the matter and was fired upon, but not touched. The passengers were not molested, but were dreadfully afraid they would be. Women were in hysterics. The men looked for places to hide their valuables. Even if the robbers had decided to work the train they would not have found much without a careful search. The passengers were mostly tourists bound for the northern resorts. James Cannon, of Rock Island, and Herman Pew, of Chicago, were on board, and they gave vivid descriptions of the wild scramble for places to hide valuables.

Conductor Rice thinks the robbers were amateurs, as they were not disguised nor masked and made no effort at concealment. The leader was a middle-aged man about five feet six inches, with a full beard. The other three were younger, and all were roughly dressed.

Brakeman Murphy was taken to Grand Rapids and had his wounds dressed. He is not seriously hurt. The passengers were in a desperate panic. The women crawled in behind seat backs and the men got in as inaccessible places as they could. The brakeman hastily returned to the coaches and locked the door after him. With the decks clear for action, the robbers turned their attention to the baggage and express car.

Dynamite Is Used.

The firing had alarmed Baggageman V. N. Vannetta and he had locked his door against the intruders. The robbers ordered him to open up. He refused. Then they applied a stick of dynamite to the side door and blew the bottom of the car open. Mr. Vannetta concluded that he had done all that valor demanded and opened the door. The robbers immediately demanded the key to the strong box, and when Mr. Vannetta declared he did not have it they used up another dynamite cartridge and burst it open. The strong box was empty and did not even contain a cent. The train did not carry any express.

The robbers left the car in disgust and held a heated argument whether or not to go through the passengers. They finally concluded not to do so, Conductor Rice representing that the passengers were mostly poor people who could not afford to lose what little money they had. The robbers relieved Mr. Rice of what small change he had, about $7.50, missing the well-lined pocket-book which Rice had thrown into the wood box. They also relieved the fireman and engineer of their watches and then with a pleasant farewell to the conductor they gave him permission to move on and disappeared in the woods.

This train is patronized every day by wealthy citizens of Grand Rapids and Northern and Western Michigan, whose business calls them frequently to Chicago.

The express messenger went out with a "feint" car in the afternoon and was returning on a "dead" trip. There were forty-two passengers. To make sure of a halt ties had been piled on the track half a length ahead of where the engine stopped. The baggage car was not disabled and the train proceeded, arriving at Grand Rapids half an hour late.

Albert Antisdell, of Chicago, superintendent of the American Express Company, said his company had lost nothing by the hold-up. "We had no messenger on the train," said he. "Our night messenger went out on the train that leaves at 11:45."

"Will you send any detectives to the scene of the robbery?"

"Yes, we'll send some men over to help the officers in pursuit of the robbers."

The train was composed of an engine, baggage car, two passenger coaches, and a parlor car.

RAVAGES OF THE CHOLERA.

Europe and Asia Have Suffered—America Has Been Free.

Through the energetic efforts of the health authorities in New York the cholera has not entered this country this summer and, as the season is so far advanced, it probably will not do so. Though we have been free from it in Europe Russia, Arabia, India, China, and Japan the disease raged. It is unfortunate that trustworthy statistics concerning it cannot be obtained from Russia, or from any of the other countries in which it exists, with the exception of Japan. It ravaged several of the western Russian provinces last summer; it did not entirely disappear last winter, and it has been epidemic since the early spring season.

The cholera appeared in Arabia, on the border of the Red Sea, early in the spring, brought there, as in other years, by the Mohammedan pilgrims from India to Mecca. Alarming accounts of its fatality were sent out in the spring months and up to June, but nothing has been heard of it for some weeks, and its ravages have doubtless been allayed.

In China the extent to which the cholera has prevailed can only be guessed at, but it is believed that the disease has been widespread. From the trustworthy statistics kept by the Japanese authorities it is learned that up to the close of July there had been 9,500 cases of the disease in Japan, more than one-half of which had proved fatal. This fatality may be regarded as part of the price paid by Japan for her victory over the Chinese, but that price was greater yet, for many of the Japanese soldiers who are yet in China have fallen under the disease. It has recently been epidemic over a large part of the Japanese empire.

In some other countries besides those here mentioned, including Mexico and Cuba, there have been cases of cholera during the year, but it has not been epidemic in any of them.

It has been estimated by good authorities that the average yearly number of deaths from cholera the world over is close upon a quarter of a million. It is not known that in Russia alone last year there were nearly 100,000 cases of the disease, about 45 per cent. of which proved fatal; but the ravages of the disease among the Russians are light as compared with that among Asiatics. Very likely it has been as widely prevalent in Western Russia, Eastern Austria and Turkey this year as it was last year.

CONDITIONS IN NEBRASKA.

Corn Promises a Large Yield, Except in the State's Garden Spot.

A McCook, Neb., correspondent says: On crossing the Missouri River running to Lincoln, the Burlington land agents' party found a prospect which, from an agricultural standpoint, could not be excelled. Corn is luxuriant and sturdy and every stalk shows large-sized ears sticking out from it. It is so far advanced that the uninitiated could be made to believe very readily that it is past all harm from any source. Notwithstanding its fine appearance, however, it is not yet out of danger of frost, and will not be for at least two weeks.

A fine crop of oats has been reaped in this section. Much of it is still in the shock and a good deal of it has been stacked. It is thrashing out from thirty to fifty bushels to the acre and will average about forty. The wheat crop has all been harvested, and farmers are now busy plowing their land preparatory to putting in another crop of winter wheat.

Leaving Lincoln the outlook is much less promising. Between Waverly and Fairmont, a distance of sixty miles, is a stretch of country which has usually been described as the garden spot of Nebraska. Crops have always been abundant here, however poorly they may have been in other parts of the State. Last year and this year have been the only known exceptions to this rule. Somehow this belt has suffered severely this year. It has rained copiously on all sides of it and all around it, but the clouds refused to give it a drop of moisture until too late to save the corn crop. For a stretch of country sixty miles long and sixty miles wide the corn crop is a comparative failure. It will only run from a quarter to half a crop, averaging as a whole about one-third an ordinary crop.

Oats have not fared so badly. They are thrashing out from thirty-five to forty bushels an acre. Heavy rains fell over this section at the end of last week. They came too late, however, to save the bulk of the corn. Very much of it is wilted beyond redemption and a good deal of it has already been cut for fodder. Wheat in this section is thrashing out fifteen bushels to the acre.

West of Fairmont the scene again changes and an ocean of waving corn, strong and luxuriant, is to be seen as far as the eye can reach in every direction. The crop from Hastings to the western boundary of the State is practically made, and nothing but a killing frost can now blight it. It will average not less than sixty bushels to the acre, and very many large fields will yield fifty bushels.

Around McCook is where the disasters of last year were most severely felt. The gains of this year have more than made up for the losses then sustained. The whole section of country looks like a veritable garden, and the people feel buoyant beyond expression. Winter wheat is thrashing out about twenty bushels to the acre and the best fields are yielding thirty bushels. Spring wheat is running from twelve to eighteen bushels to the acre. Oats average from fifty to sixty bushels, the best fields thrashing out 100 bushels.

Alfalfa is a new crop here with which the people are delighted. All kinds of live stock eat it with relish, and it is proving to be fattening fodder. The first year it yields one ton to the acre, but after the third year it yields three crops a year, which foot up seven and one-half tons to the acre. It is worth in the market $5 per ton, but to feed cattle the results have shown it to be worth $70 per acre. It is the coming crop all along the flats of the Republican valley.

THE CUBAN WAR.

The Insurgents Making Headway in the Struggle for Freedom.

Recent reports from Cuba indicate that the insurgent army is gradually encroaching on Havana. It is now on the outskirts of the great sugar district and is increasing its ranks daily. According to a letter from the Marquis de Santa Lucia, who some time ago joined the insurgents, the two divisions of the army number 25,000 men and 10,000 of these are well armed and splendidly equipped. One division is under Gen. Antonio Maceo in GENERAL ANTONIO MACEO.

Santiago, while Gen. Gomez commands another in Camaguey.

Meantime the Spanish army is becoming daily more disheartened and there are numerous desertions to the ranks of the insurgents. Gen. Campos who, when he reached Cuba, announced that he would have the rebellion crushed in a couple of months has utterly failed to make any impression on the insurgents, although nearly 20,000 troops more than he asked for have been sent him. The cry is still for more troops—a proof in itself that the rebellion is serious and that the Spanish forces to-day on the island are unable to cope with the plucky insurgents.

The dining-room of the Howell House at Quogue, L. I., was the scene of a lively time. Hamilton Fish Jr., son of Senator Fish, who is stopping at the Howell House, with his uncle, Rev. Mr. Fish, appeared at dinner intoxicated and had a fight with a waiter.

George A. Martin, of Sioux City, Iowa, has sued the Southern Pacific Company for $40,000. He was on his way home from San Francisco on a round-trip ticket which the conductor charged him with having purchased from a scalper and Martin was put off.

Dr. Erasmus D. Jones died at Albany, N. Y., in his 77th year. He was one of the founders of the New York State Homeopathic Medical Society. He was a thirty-second degree Mason.

In Our Great Grandfather's Time,

big bulky pills were in general use. Like the "blunderbuss" of that decade they were big and clumsy, but ineffective. In this century of enlightenment, we have Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, which cure all liver, stomach and bowel derangements in the most effective way.

If people would pay more attention to properly regulating the action of their bowels, by the use of these little "Pellets" they would have less frequent occasion to call for their doctor's services to subdue attacks of dangerous diseases. The "Pellets" cure sick and bilious headache, constipation, indigestion, bilious attacks and kindred derangements of liver, stomach and bowels.

Fair Snake Story from Utah.

A Salt Lake City man is responsible for this snake story: A nest of rattle snakes was discovered by an Indian in the mountains eleven miles west of the city recently. He was out hunting, and in ascending a rocky point was warned of the presence of a serpent by an ominous rattle. He discharged his rifle at the rattler and immediately thereafter vast numbers emerged from a rock pile. The Indian retreated, and, securing a branch of a pine tree, invaded the nest and gave battle. He continued the slaughter until exhausted, but, seeing the impossibility of exterminating the reptiles, left the place after having killed forty-one snakes.

The Lookout Press.

The Lookout Press, of Chattanooga, Tenn., has just issued a special edition of 50,000 copies that is of special interest. Cuts of Lookout Mountain, Chattanooga, National Cemetery and a Chickamauga Park monument and observation tower, also a good map of all the battlefields about Chattanooga appear. Short articles on Lookout Mountain, the Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Military Park and other interesting subjects are printed. Our readers can get a copy of this special edition free by addressing the publishers and mentioning this paper. Address (enclosing stamp for postage.) The Lookout Press, Chattanooga, Tenn.

Why We Are Right-Handed.

A professor who has made a study of children says he has discovered why the majority of people are right-handed. Indians use both hands until they begin to speak. The motor speech function controls the right side of the body, and the first right-handed motions are expressive motions, tending to help out speech. As speech grows so does right-handedness.

WHAT at the beginning may have been regarded merely as a side issue frequently turns out to be the most important subject. It was so in the case of Eve.

CLERGYMAN—Do you think you will win heaven by your conduct? Sporting Man—Oh, I will content myself with playing for a place.

THERE are a great many bad men in the world, but every man is better than he wants to be.

MY SISTERS,

I Send You Comforting Words.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

"For years I had suffered from falling of the womb, inflammation of the stomach, and weakness of the female organs.

"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found a perfect cure in it for these troubles.

"I am now going through the change of life, and taking the Compound. I find it strengthens me, and does much good. If Every woman at this stage of life would take it, they would find much relief."—MRS. LIZZIE DECLINE, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, N. J.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.,

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

COPYRIGHTS.

Anybody Can Get One, but It May Be Worthless.

On the morning of July 4th, newspapers in various sections of the country published a fac-simile of the Declaration of Independence, some of the newspapers going to the trouble of copyrighting the venerable document. That the Declaration should be copyrighted one hundred and nineteen years after its promulgation, and in the face of the fact that it has been frequently reproduced in all its original accuracy, excited a great deal of surprise, and Librarian Spofford was called upon for an explanation. He is quoted in the New York Tribune as saying:

"It is one thing to copyright something and another thing entirely to have that copyright sustained. Under the law, I am compelled to record a copyright for anything that is brought to me. I can not act in a judicial capacity and determine whether a person who seeks a copyright is the author or is entitled by priority to secure the privilege he asks. I remember once that Mark Twain came to me and complained that a number of his early contributions to Western papers had not only been published without his knowledge or consent, but had actually been copyrighted by the literary pirates. 'Sam' Jones' sermons used to be taken in shorthand by unprincipled people, and then copyrighted and published, the real author, of course, not receiving a cent in the way of profits. The same scheme was tried successfully with Ingersoll, but now he copyrights his lectures before he delivers them. So you see an amendment to the copyright law is sadly needed. In this case of the Declaration of Independence, it is absurd to think that the copyright would hold a minute if a test case were made in the courts. The document is everybody's property. Still, if you brought me the Constitution of the United States, I would have to record its copyright if you paid me the legal fee. The Bible has been brought here for copyright any number of times, and every time the request is granted. As for the protection which such a copyright would grant—well, that is a question which some court would have to settle."

A CLEVER PARROT.

Polly Mimics a Colored Clergyman in Giving Out a Text.

One of the brightest and most mischievous of parrots lives in the Hotel Normandie, at Washington, D. C. This bird can instantly repeat every sound he hears, and he imitates so perfectly that his listeners wonder. Upon a certain Sunday morning his cage was for some reason removed from where it had usually hung and placed in the open window of the linen room of the hotel. Opposite this window are those of an African Methodist church. The church windows were also open, and when the colored minister had given out a text he was astonished to hear his words repeated, in tones even louder than his own. The people in church were amazed; but judge their surprise when, as the minister spoke his text for the second time, again it was screamed back at him, with an exact imitation of his voice. A hymn was begun, and the parrot at once joined in, mimicking the singers perfectly. The service was then stopped until a message could be sent to the hotel and the parrot's cage removed.

THE CULPRIT.

"Praying for Papa."

"Did you see that, mister?" said an elevated railroad guard to a New York newspaper man, who stood with him on the rear platform of the first car the other night.

"Yes."

"Well, then," added the guard, "you saw my three little children. They were kneeling at a trunk in front of the window of that house we passed. Over them stood their mother. She was about sending them to bed, but before they go she teaches 'em to pray for me. Yes, and she brings 'em there so as I can see 'em.

"And," he added, with a manly attempt to stifle a sob that welled up in his throat, "she has told me what she tells 'em to say."

"What is it?" inquired the auditor.

"I do hope you won't think me foolish, sir, but, as I guess you are a married man and a father, you may care to hear it. You see, it is this way. The kids—they go to bed at 9. That's about the time my train goes by the house. It's right on the line. So, just about that moment she brings the little 'uns up to the trunk in their nightgowns and makes 'em kneel down with their hands clasped on their faces. And then they pray and pray——"

"For you?" was the interruption.

"Yes, you're right. They pray that papa will be good and kind, and keep sober, and bring home all his money, and——," the big guard's voice trembled. But he continued after an effort:

"I'm rough, tough and all that, but I 'ove my wife and I love my children. They are the only ones on earth that keep me straight."

More About the Shameless Crow.

The crows that live near the soldiers' barracks in India are all sly thieves, but the men like the rogues too well to kill them, and so they decorate them instead. The birds, despite their skill, are caught by being invited into a room. A piece of wire is next passed between the two holes in the upper beak, and a little bell, button, or round bit of metal is fastened—each batch of soldiers having its own badge—to it, the crow is then set free unharmed. Very soon nearly every crow wears its distinctive mark, from which it is easy to tell to what troop or company it belongs. Unhappily, instead of feeling their ornaments are symbols of shame, they are all proud of them, of the bells especially; and one can easily believe that it is funny to see a row of these black rogues perched on a roof, shaking their heads and tinkling their bells.

MIKE CALLAGHAN.

The Oldest Man in Ireland at the Present Time.

We here present the picture of Mike Callaghan, the oldest man in Ireland. He was born in 1797 and has served in many companies, in Irish and English forces. He does not speak English, but the original Irish tongue.

MIKE CALLAGHAN.

GOLD BY THE HANDFUL.

But Clouds of Giant Mosquitoes Keep Treasure Seekers at Bay.

Gold in plenty may be found in the sands of the Volador River, a stream of moderate volume that comes tumbling from the snow line of the Sierra de St. Martha, in South America, but, though the lowland region and the river bed where the precious metal abounds in fabulous quantities are easily accessible, the mosquitoes are so thick and terrible there that all attempts to rifle the sands of the gold have so far failed.

Elisee Reclus, the celebrated French geographer, was the discoverer of this wonderful stream, whose waters sweep over sands that are literally golden. He told the news to the French Vice Consul at Rio Hacha, and this official obtained the concession of this Eldorado.

He took with him when he set out an ingeniously constructed gauze tent of large dimensions. For two days he tried to live under its shelter and watch the operations of his workmen, who toiled in the stifling heat, clothed in thick garments and protected by heavy boots, gloves and veils. At the end of the second day, however, both employer and employe with one accord gave up the struggle and retreated.

The next to try to wring fortune from these auriferous sands was an Italian who obtained permission from the Vice Consul referred to above. The Italian started out with a party of six, who shared with him his belief, and so they took along no special protection against the insects. They endured for less than half an hour the awful torture and then fled.

Yet there are human beings who can venture with impunity into this hell whose guardian demons are mosquitoes, and these are some of the savage natives of the mountains from whose rocky steeps the river comes tumbling down. These savages, who are mosquito-proof, are rendered so by their bodies being covered with the scales of that awful disease, leprosy. The mosquitoes will not touch them.

But neither gold nor the gauds of civilization will tempt them to labor, and there is no human power, apparently, which will drag them out from their rude caves on the mountain side and make them labor for the white man.—New York World.

Undesirable Horse.

"Patrick, why didn't you tell me Farmer Laurie had a pony to sell, when you knew I wished to buy one for Ethel?" asked Mrs. James, with considerable severity.

"Och, mum," replied her man-of-all-work, with a beaming smile, "Oi'll not be sayin' that the craychure didn't schlip me moind, jist fer the toime bein', mum; but anyway, he was no baste fer Miss Ethel, mum."

"And why not?" demanded Mrs. James.

"Why, mum, said Patrick, shifting his weight carelessly from one foot to the other, "Farmer Laurie made a great p'int of the craychure's bein' 'well broke'—it was mesilf heard him shpaken' av it. An' as fer you, mum, yez towld me more than wanst that nothin' but a sound animile would yez take, mum, an' that's the livin' thruth!"

He Knew His Mother.

Mrs. Williams is a widow with three boys, whom she has brought up with great firmness. It is one of her rules that obedience to her commands must come immediately, and explanation, if at all, at her leisure.

"Freddy," she said, a short time ago, to her youngest boy, aged 7, "I am going to do something in a few days about which I want to talk to you a little."

"Yes'm," responded Freddy, meekly.

"I am intending to marry Doctor Morse next week on Monday," said his mother, and then she paused for a moment.

"Yes'm," said Freddy again, and then he added, with a look of awe on his small face: "I s'pose Doctor Morse won't know anything about it till the time comes, will he, mother?"

The Soul.

The Siamese believe that the human soul requires seven days to journey from earth to heaven; hence the prayers of the friends of the deceased person are continued for seven days after the individual dies.

Throw a rock these days and you will hit a woman wearing a shirt waist.

PROPER WAY TO COOK STEAK.

It Must Be Broiled, the Frying Pan Being a Culinary Infamy.

Somebody says, and very truly, that the frying pan has ruined more American digestions than any other agency of the many hurtful ones employed in the kitchen. There is a good deal of truth in this statement, but after all for one thing at least we should be thankful, and that is, that the beefsteak has been rescued from the frying pan. Jenness Miller's Monthly says only benighted souls still cling to this mode of punishment. Broiled meats are more elegant, more wholesome and more palatable, but how few really good cooks now understand the art? "Goodness, what an idea! Anybody can manage this part of the menu," says someone who thinks she has gotten the subject of broiling down fine. Ask her to give you her method and you will find that madam commits all the old-time mistakes without so much as a qualm of conscience.

Never wash a steak if it can be avoided. This advice does not meet with the approbation of some cooks, but these neat bodies are very careful if the meat is given a drenching to wipe it perfectly dry before cooking. Before you place your steak on the broiler, see that your fire is a glowing bed of coals, and have close at hand butter, salt, pepper and a hot platter. Now place the cut on the broiler and drop it upon the coals for two minutes, when it must be turned. In this way you secure the juices and it is then ready to receive a more moderate treatment. Watch it constantly and turn it so dexterously that it will not smoke or scorch. Ten minutes is all that is needed for a rare broil. Take a keen blade and cut into the thickest part. If the heart has lost its purple tinge transfer at once to the dish. Sprinkle liberally with bits of butter, salt and pepper. Unless you have a hot water dish do not send the steak in to the table until the family are seated. Tough steak may be made eatable by laying it on a board and making slight incisions in the meat, when, if it is rubbed with the strained juice of a lemon and placed on ice over night, it will be ready for breakfast.

Her Kind Act.

My friend Mrs. B—— is one of those good-natured women who are always wanting to make other people comfortable. She happened to be in the railway station the other day when a man she knew came in. He said he was going to Pittsburgh. Now, it happened that Mrs. B——, whose husband is a director, knew the conductor of the Pittsburgh train. He passed through the waiting room just then, and Mrs. B—— called to him. "Conductor," she said, "this is my especial friend, Mr. Smith. He is going on your train and I want you to show him every attention possible." The conductor of course said he would, but when he went away Mr. Smith turned to Mrs. B—— with a sickly smile. "I did intend to go to Pittsburgh to-day, and I was in an awful hurry, but, on the whole, I think I'll wait for the next train." And he handed the kind-hearted woman a slip of paper. It was a pass, but it was made out to one Jones.—Washington Post.

To Utilize the Earth's Heat.

Current Literature thinks that one of the triumphs of the future engineers will be the sinking of a shaft 12,000 to 15,000 feet into the earth in order to utilize the central heat of the globe. So great a depth, it is believed, may not be impossible for the improved machinery of the coming scientist. Water at a temperature of 200 centigrade, which will be obtained by these deep borings, will heat houses and public buildings, to say nothing of the power it would furnish. The plant once paid for, the only expense would be the keeping of the pipes in good condition. Nature would do the rest.

What Women Should Know.

Every woman ought to know that there is an institution in this country where diseases peculiar to their sex have, for nearly thirty years, been made a specialty by several of the physicians connected therewith. This institution is the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. In treating thousands of cases at that famous sanitarium there have been perfected medicines which form a regular scientific course of treatment for these prevalent and most distressing ailments.

Dr. Pierce and his staff of skilled specialists, forming the faculty of the above institution, are at all times ready to reply to letters from women suffering from obstinate, complicated, or long neglected diseases and "weaknesses," and can be addressed, or consulted at the institution, free of charge.

When Dr. Pierce published the first edition of his work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now distributing, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, or the World's Dispensary Medical Association, of Buffalo, N. Y., of which he is President, this little Coupon Number with twenty-one (21) one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post-paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains over 1,000 pages and more than 300 illustrations, some of them in colors. Several finely illustrated chapters are devoted to the careful consideration in plain language, of diseases peculiar to women and their successful home treatment without the aid of a physician and without having to submit to dreaded "examinations" and the stereotyped "local applications," so repulsive to the modest and justly sensitive woman. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away. They are going off rapidly, therefore, do not delay sending immediately if in want of one.

COUPON No. 112.

IF you elect to serve a tyrant it will pay you to be a toady.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Seek the Beech.

No tree is entirely protected against being struck by lightning. When the atmosphere is overcharged with electricity all of them are liable to become the aim of some bolt, but the beech is the one in the whole category of trees that is more rarely struck than any other.

Prof. Hellman, in his statistics on this subject, says that lightning strikes pine wood trees fifteen times oftener and oak trees fifty-four times oftener than the beech. This fact is very well known to frequenters of timbered regions. Traces of lightning bolts are most frequently found on oak trees, while only rarely are they observed in the beech. It was throught at first that the condition of the ground had much to do with this unequal distribution of lightning strokes of trees, but that is not the case. It is the characteristic condition of the tree itself that accounts for it. Trees which contain oily substances to a high degree, even in the summer, may be regarded as comparatively lightning-proof, while those containing glucose matter attract the lightning more frequently. Dead branches are very apt to increase this danger. It need only be cited that acorns are valuable because they contain 55 per cent. of glucose matter and only 4 per cent. of fat, while from the nut of the beech, pig-nut oil is made.—St. Louis Pos Dispatch.

Fathers Must Be Careful There.

Among the Indians of British Guiana usuage bids the father to go to bed when a child is born, and allows a mother to return at once to her household duties. James Rodway's recently published book on that country explains the custom by a superstition which attaches the spirit of the child to the body of the father. The author says:

"The father must not hunt, shoot, or fell trees for some time, because there is an invisible connection between himself and the babe, whose spirit accompanies him in all his wanderings, and might be shot, chopped, or otherwise injured unwittingly. He therefore retires to his hammock, sometimes holding the little one, and receives the congratulations of his friends, as well as the advice of the elder members of the community. If he has occasion to travel he must not go very far, as the child and spirit might get tired, and in passing a creek, must first lay across it a little bridge or bend a leaf into the shape of a canoe for his companion."—New York Times.

The Most Sensitive Thing on Earth

Is a human nerve. This in a state of health. Let it become overstrained or weakened, and the sensitiveness is increased tenfold. For weak or overwrought nerves, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best tonic in existence, since it invigorates and quiets them at the same time. It also possesses superlative efficacy in dyspepsia, constipation, malarial and kidney complaints, rheumatism and neuralgia.

Minute Directions.

Stranger—Would you kindly show me the way to the cathedral?

Intelligent Native—That is not difficult to find. You just walk down that street yonder and at the farther end you will see a small provision shop on your left. The cathedral is exactly opposite.—Fliegende Blaetter

THE Nickel Plate road has compiled a list of country homes along the south shore of Lake Erie, willing to accommodate summer boarders, and a copy will be mailed to any address by enclosing a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road or to B. F. Horner, General Passenger Agent.

THEY talk of blushing brides; their faces are red not from blushing, but from wiping on new towels.

KITTENISH ways won't catch old rats.

Paid for Neglecting a Warning.

On a cage containing a handsome pair of golden eagles, which a storekeeper in Brooklyn has put outside his store to attract attention to his business, is a big sign bearing this inscription: "Hands off! Beware! You remember England's fate; then take warning and don't monkey with the bird of freedom." The sign is principally intended to persuade inquisitive people not to stir up the birds with lead pencils and umbrella sticks, but not a few have refused to heed the warning and are now nursing lacerated fingers which they got in connection with an object lesson on the events of '76. The birds were caught in Tennessee.

TO CLEANSE THE SYSTEM

Effectually yet gently, when costive or bilious, or when the blood is impure or sluggish, to permanently cure habitual constipation, to awaken the kidneys and liver to a healthy activity, without irritating or weakening them, to dispel headaches, colds or fevers use Syrup of Figs.

"Too Thin" Is Shakspearean.

Alexander H. Stephens may have used the phrase "too thin," but he was not the author of it, as has been asserted. In Shakespeare's "King Henry VIII," it occurs as follows: "I come not to hear such flattery now, and in my presence; they are too thin and bare to hide offenses."

Tobacco's Triumph.

Every day we meet men who have apparently lost all interest in life, but they chew and smoke all the time and wonder why the sunshine is not bright, and the sweet birds' song sound discordant. Tobacco takes away the pleasures of life and leaves irritated nerve centers in return. No-To-Bac is the easy way out. Guaranteed to cure and make you well and strong, by Druggists everywhere.

NO YOUNG man who shows dimples when he laughs, should adopt as his occupation that of an undertaker.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

DON'T polish your sentences until they are too slippery to hold.

ENCLOSE a stamp to any agent of the Nickel Plate road for an elaborately illustrated art souvenir entitled "Summer Outings."

SOME people talk of managing a husband or wife as they talk of managing a refractory cow or a stubborn horse.

AFTER six years' suffering I was cured by Piso's Cure.—MARY THOMSON, 29½ Ohio Ave., Allegheny, Pa., March 19, '94.

HOBBY-HORSE riders win few races.

LOW RATES TO LINWOOD PARK.

Vermillion, Ohio,

Are offered during the summer months by the Nickel Plate Road. A delightful summer resort.

The advantages of sulphur as a purifier Glenn's Sulphur Soap places within reach of all.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

Linwood Park, Vermillion, Ohio,

A delightful summer resort located on the south shore of Lake Erie. Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate road offered during the entire summer.

I Can't Sleep

Is the complaint of many at this season. The reason is found in the fact that the nerves are weak and the body in a feverish and unhealthy condition. The nerves may be restored by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which feeds them upon pure blood, and this medicine will also create an appetite and tone up the system, and thus give sweet, refreshing sleep and vigorous health.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye to-day. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla. 25c.

Give Ear

To the plain facts about Pearline, and then give Pearline a chance to prove them, by giving it a fair trial. Nothing else will give the same result. It washes safely, as well as surely; it cleans carefully, as well as easily. It is as cheap as soap and better. Anything that can be washed, can be washed best with Pearline. It lightens labor and does lightning work. As nearly as we can figure, about eight millions of women use it. Do you? You will sooner or later.

Don't Listen

To peddlers or unscrupulous grocers who offer imitations of Pearline, and say, "it is just as good as," or "the same as" Pearline. IT'S FALSE.—Pearline has no equal and is never peddled.

377 JAMES PYLE, New York.

WINE OF CARDUI TREATMENT OF FEMALE DISEASES

Any afflicted woman can adopt this simple "Home Treatment" without submitting to an humiliating examination or consulting a doctor.

COST OF TREATMENT.

Bottle McElree's Wine of Cardui, $1.00
Pkg. Thedford's Black Draught, .25
Total Cost, - $1.25

A 128 page book, bound in cloth, giving complete instructions for successful home treatment of female diseases will be mailed to any lady on receipt of 25 cents. Address Rev. R. L. McELREE, St. Elmo, Tenn.

"He that Works Easily Works Successfully." 'Tis Very Easy to Clean House With

SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

PASTE STOVE POLISH. RUSTLESS LABOR SAVING BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH is cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

Friends' Oats

(Kiln Dried)

Superior to any . . Rolled Oats... Sold only in 2-pound Packages

At All Grocers

MUSCATINE OAT MEAL CO. MUSCATINE, IOWA

★ HIGHEST AWARD ★ WORLD'S FAIR.

IMPERIAL GRANUM

IS ★ THE BEST ★ PREPARED

FOOD

SOLD EVERYWHERE.

★ JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York. ★

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Wolstan Dixey, for several years Literary Editor of the New York School Journal, and now an advertisement writer at 80 World Building, New York, speaking of Ripans Tabules, says: "I couldn't recommend this remedy as heartily as I do if I didn't believe in it. I am not much of a medicine taker. I am opposed to medicine, on principle. There ought to be no need of medicine—just as there ought to be no poverty—but there is. If people lived right they would be well. Sunshine, air, exercise, fun, good food—plenty and not too much—are the best medicines, the natural ones; but men are tied to their desks, and women to their home cares, and both are tied to fashion. Civilized existence is artificial and needs artificial regulators. I recommend Ripans Tabules—and take them myself. I know they are both harmless and effective. (I know what they are made of.) They are the best remedy I know anything about for headaches, or indigestion, or biliousness, or any sort of sluggishness in the system. And they are in the handiest possible shape to carry in the pocket."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

TEXAS — VIA — Wabash Line

Do you know that the farmer has more opportunities for making money in TEXAS than almost any State in this great country? Interest yourself in the subject and see how true this is.

REMEMBER, THE WABASH

Is the Great Steel Rail Highway to all points West and Southwest. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address the nearest Agent of the Wabash System, or write to

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

RIDGE'S FOOD

THE BABY'S LIFE depends on the food it gets. Insufficient nourishment is the cause of much of the fatality among infants. Improper food brings on indigestion. If the food is right the digestion will be good, and "Ridge's Food" is the best. There is nothing "just as good" or "nearly as good." It is the best in the whole world. Have you a baby? Its life depends upon how it is fed.

Sold by Druggists. 35c up to $1.75.
WOOLRICH & CO., PALMER, MASS.

WE SELL PRINTING OFFICE OUTFITS

at reasonable rates and upon liberal terms. WRITE FOR PARTICULARS. FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att's fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

F. W. N. U. - - - No. 35—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CONSUMPTION. CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.

LYON'S WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf'd by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Prominent Traveling Salesman.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN—I began taking LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS some time since for a very bad case of nervous dyspepsia and insomnia, and I am glad to state that it is doing for me what all other remedies tried by me failed to do—cure me. I have about finished my third box and I am more than pleased with its results, and I can cheerfully recommend it to all suffering with nervous dyspepsia as a first-class medicine, and one that has merit. You are at liberty to use this letter in any manner you may see fit, as I am anxious indeed to have every one know who suffers with this dreadful disease how to get well.

Very truly yours,

G. R. RHOADES.

885 North Mississippi Street, City.

Cheap Excursions to the west.

Bountiful harvests are reported from all sections of the west and northwest, and an exceptionally favorable opportunity for home-seekers and those desiring a change of location is offered by the series of low rate excursions which have been arranged by the North-Western Line. Tickets for these excursions, with favorable time limits, will be sold on August 20, September 10 and 24 to points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and a large number of other points. For full informatin apply to agents of connecting lines, or address A. H. Waggener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place, Indianapolis, Ind. 34-35 37

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,... p	11 45 am	4 45* pm	6 40
New Era.....	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.....	12 25	5 25	7 55
Auburn.....	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo.....	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit.....	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville.....	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake...	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola.....	1 13	14	10 50
Jackson.....	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola.....	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake....	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville.....	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit.....	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo.....	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn.....	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc...	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era.....	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne.....	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address K. T. DELAPP, Agent at Auburn

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	p m	a m	a m	p m
Bellaire.....lv	7.15	*11.13	9.45	* 4.15	.....
Newark.....ar	10.22	2.40	1 12	7.20	7.12
	a m
Columbus.....ar	11 35	3 40	2.15	8.35	8.25
	p m		a m
Mansfield.....lv	12.12	.....	.....	.....	10.24
Deshler.....	2.35	4.39	6.50	a m 12.20	9 50
Defiance.....	3 15	5.16	7 40	1.20	11 00
Hicksville.....	.....	.....	8.22	.....	11.45
St Joe.....	.....	.....	8 34	.....	12.01
Auburn Jc.....	4 15	6.17	8 53	a m 2 26	12.25
Garrett.....	4.28	6.30	9.00	2.40	12 50
Avilla.....	.....	6.40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion.....	‡4.50	‡ 6.55	.....	.....	1.20
Syracuse.....	.....	.....	.....	3.33	2.00
Milford Jct.....	.....	‡7.35	.....	.....	2.11
Wellsboro.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	3 40
Chicago.....ar	9.00	11.00	.....	7.25	6 40

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	p m	p m	a m	p m	a m
Chicago.....lv	* 4.25	* 7.20	† 6.05	3 00	10.15
Wellsboro.....	7.08	.....	8.45
Milford Jct.....	.....	.....	10.32	6.20	‡ 1.3
Syracuse.....	.....	10.50	10.45		.....
Albion.....	.....	.....	11.25	6.57	.....
Avilla.....		.....	11.45	7.15	.....
Garrett.....	A M † 4.45	13.04	12.15	7 30	2.35
			p m
Auburn Jc.....	4.52	13.09	12.25	7 35	2.40
St Joe.....	5 00	.....	12.43	7 50	.....
Hicksville.....	5.21	.....	1.00	8.00	.....
Defiance.....	6.03	1.10	1.40	8 35	3.36
Deshler.....	6.54	1.57	2.35	9 15	4.12
Mansfield.....	10.05	.....	.....		6.50
Newark.....ar	12.10	.....	.....		8.22
Columbus.....	2 15	.....	.....		.....
Bellaire.....ar	3.55	.....	3.55	.....	11 30
(EASTERN TIME).
Wheeling.....ar	5.30	.....	4.50	.....	1.1
		p m
Pittsburg.....	8 25	.....	7.25	7.15
	a m	a m		a m
Washington D.C	6.38	.....	.....	.....
Baltimore.....	7.50	.....	.....	.....	a m
Philadelphia...	10.15	.....	.....	.....
				p m
New York.....	12.35	.....	.....	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't, Chicago. City Office Auburn, Ind.

Wabash line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express.....5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n.....2:04 p m—ex Su
New York Limited.....7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation.....7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express.....12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53).....7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely mailed.

WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Cheerful View Of Life

Happiness in this life depends, in a very large degree at least, upon ourselves. It is a very easy matter to complain of "the way in which the world treats us" when, in fact, much of this unhappiness comes from our way of looking at things, and our failure to make the best of our opportunities and to take a cheerful view of life.

There are those who would still be wretched if they had all they could desire, and others who can extract happiness from almost any kind of experience. Some make themselves miserable by simply brooding over their ills and misfortunes while others lighten these burdens by looking upon events with a good natured faith, first, in God, and second in themselves. It is possible to be wretched anywhere and possible to be contented anywhere. Our mental attitude is desire of happiness or misery. If our temperament helps us to be happy it is all the better, but if it is an additional obstacle it only makes the task a little harder, nothing more.

It is not right to take a gloomy view of life when a bright and cheery view is within arm's length if we would only adapt ourselves to our situations and make the best of everything. One may think that fortune frowns on him but if his heart is in the right place he can still discover many things for which he has good reasons to rejoice. The poor man may be sorry that he is not rich, but if he could see as God sees he would know that it might be better for many a rich man if he were poor.

He who depends on his surroundings for happiness surely finds that wealth cannot produce what he wants most, but he who depends on what he has in his heart and mind is surprised to learn how little of this world's goods are required to make him contented. In other words the Creator has so arranged affairs that in the long run a pure heart and an honest mind can do more for a man than a pocketbook, however well it may be filled.

A palatial residence is not a home simply because a man and a woman and their children live in it. Half a dozen rooms on a side street brings more real happiness to their occupants if the husband and wife are still in love with each other with the romatic love of years ago and have learned to look upon the bright side of life and do their duty to God and others as each day comes and goes. The secret of happiness is not solved by a bank account, but by an honest purpose to do what is right. If you would be happy look at the bright side of life, do your work with a good-natured willingness, bear your burdens not sullenly but cheerfully, rejoice with those who have more of this world's goods than yourself, help those who have less and are needy, and remember that when death comes you can take nothing with you into the life beyond but your character.

DIED

At his residence in Butler, Ind., Aug. 24, 1895, after a brief illness in the seventy-fifth year of his age—John Gaff.

The deceased was born near Massillon, Ohio, Oct. 11, 1820, where he lived until about the age of fifteen, when he removed to Mt. Vernon, Wayne county, with his parents. On the 6th of May, 1847, in Tuscarawas county, he was united in marriage to Susan Brown by Rev. John McGaw. To this union was born a single son, Alorzo, now a minister in the Lutheran church. He removed with his family to Williams county, 1852, and in 1854, purchased forty acres of land in Stafford township, this county, where he lived until 1881, when he purchased a small piece of land one and one-half miles east of Butler; this he sold last spring and moved to Butler. He leaves his aged wife, the one son, one brother and four sisters, all aged people, to mourn his departure. Mr. Gaff became a member of the Big Run class of the U. B. church in 1839, and remained a faithful member till death. The funeral took place from Big Run chapel, Aug. 26, Rev. W. O. Butler, of Waterloo, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Messrs. Cummings and Dustman of the Lutheran church.

Heartily Recommends It.

My boy was taken with a desease resembling bloody flux. The first thing I thought of was Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. Two doses of it settled the matter and cured him sound and well. I heartily recommend this remedy to all persons suffering from a like complaint. I will answer any inquiries regarding it when stamp is enclosed. I refer to any county official as to my reliability. Wm. Roach, J. P., Primroy, Campbell Co., Tenn. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1 00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHER & SON Auburn. 1y30

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles in six to all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Chewed and Chewed

Geo. Porter is looking for something that will take the taste of smut out of his mouth. He was on one of his rounds paying calls in a friendly way as usual this morning, when he dropped into the Lake Shore freight elevator, where he often goes to chat with friends like Lafe Miller, Tom Hallam "et al." as the lawyers would say. This time it was nearly a case of "et all" in the yankee way of spelling it. He is very fond of chewing wheat into gum, and whether he has lost his sense of smell by which one should detect the presence of smut, or whether he thought he had got hold of a new kind of wheat, we don't know. But he went up to a hopper that happened to be filled with a quantity of the vile stuff, and without more ado caught up a handful or so, filled his pockets and began to chew his gum. "By Gum!" he yelled, a minute later. Then he began to "gag" and spit, and paw around like a bucking bronco. But the more he "gagged" the more he wanted to, and the more he spit, the more he had to. He declared that wheat had "ipecac" in it, or else was raised on someone's skunk farm. Then he tearfully asked if there was any remedy for such a dose. He was told that the delicate black mass he was trying to get out of his mouth was smut in the wheat, and there was no known remedy.

After washing his mouth with "nine waters" there was no relief. He then took in several chews of tobacco, and even that vile stuff was lost in the scuffle with genuine wheat smut. Then he concluded life was too dear to give up without a trial, and started out for a doctor. "And further, deponent saith not."

Found A Cure.

When moving into our present home I found a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm left by a former tenant. On the label I found the statement that it was good for cuts and burns. I can testify to the truth of this. Nothing in all my experience has found its equal for treating blisters or burns. F. E. Barrett, manager Le Sueur Sentinel, Le Sueur, Minn. Pain Balm is also a sure cure for Rheumatism. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 31 35

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg requirto settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle. Is of more value than any other kitchen utensil. Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth, Kokomo, Ind.

$5.00

—EXCURSION—

TO

NORTHERN MICHIGAN

VIA

G. R. & I.

On Wednesday, Sept. 4,

the Grand Rapids & Indiana Railroad will run their Annual excursion to Northern Michigan. Tickets will be sold from all Stations on Southern division to

Mackinac Island,
Petoskey and
Traverse City

Good returning until September 14th. Excursion rate to Mackinac Island will be $6.00. Passengers purchasing tickets to Mackinac Island will be allowed to stop off at Petoskey either going or returning. Avail yourself of this opportunity to visit Northern Michigan with slight expense at this delightful season of the year.

For further information address G. R. & I. Ticket Agents or,

C. L. LOCKWOOD, G. P. & T. A.
Grand Rapids, Mich

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

The 31st Institute

THE MEETING OF DEKALB'S TEACHERS BEGINS WELL, ATTENDANCE GOOD AND WORK EXCELLENT.

The Institute opened this morning with a song by the audience led by Marshall Hadsell. Rev. J. K. Wintz conducted the devotional exercises, and after another song, Supt. Merica introduced Prof. Rob. J. Aley of the chair of Mathematics of the state University who gave the introductory talk of a series he will give during the week on "Methods in Arithmetic." Prof. Aley made a splendid impression, and the teachers were all convinced that they had a practical and able instructor.

ALEY-METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

Method in any subject is the way the mind thinks the subject. It must therefore rest upon two things: The nature of the subject and the nature of mind. This thought of Method makes it internal and at once places device upon its proper basis. No device is to be used except as a means to an end. The device needs to be studied so that its relation to the end desired is clearly run.

The teacher's knowledge of a subject is different from the student's and from that of the practical business man. The teacher must know the subject, and he must also know it as a thought movement in the mind. He must know it as the mountain guide knows the mountain. When he knows it in this way he can be a leader and an inspiration to his pupils

After an intermission the Superintendent introduced Prof. A. W. Moore of the Chair of Philosophy, Chicago University Like Prof. Aley, Prof. Moore also made a very favorable impression with the teachers and the success of the institute was assured.

PROF. MOORE'S FIRST TALK.

In response to the statement made by Supt. Merica that one great outcome of the institute should be a stirring up of professional enthusiasm, Mr. Moore spoke on "The Basis of true professional Enthusiasm." By professional enthusiasm is not meant that which vents itself in noisy demonstration nor sentimental gushings. Neither is it the temporary elations felt in moments of prosperity when "everything is going our way." But it is that abiding attitude of mind that results from (1) the presence of a clearly defined and worthy ideal, (2) the clear perception of how each moment's work is contributing to the realization of this ideal, i. e, the ideal must be a WORKING one. It must not be left hanging abstractly in the air but must be put to work if it is to be a daily, hourly source of enthusiasm.

Chaplain Lozier, who has been here during the day, lectures this evening, his subject being "Mother's Apron Strings." This lecture and the one on Tuesday evening will be free.

At the afternoon session, Miss Calkin sang a selection and was enthusiastically applauded, and called back, when she sang another. The lectures were good, and a synopsis will be given to-morrow.

ENROLLMENT.

Wm. E. Aldrich, Butler
S. C. Anstaet, Hudson.
Oliver B. Arthur, Waterloo.
Isaac Barker, Summit.
Edwin E. Berry, St. Joe Station.
Francis E. Bair, Fairfield Center.
James C. Blaker, Butler.
Nellie Buckley, Auburn.
Maggie Buckley, Auburn.
Eugene H. Betz, Ashley.
Edson Beard, Waterloo.
Sadie Bryant, Artic.
O. S. Benjamin, Ashley.
Milton Barnes, Ashley.
H. L. Brown, Auburn.
Ebben Carnahan, Auburn.
Mary Comeskey, Auburn.
Belle Cooper, Summit.
Ella Cooper, Summit.
Anna Deventer, Waterloo.
W. J. Eberly, Waterloo.
Elsworth Eakright, Moores.
Mary Eberly, Waterloo.
Austin Eicholtz, Spencerville.
Audrey Eicholtz, Spencerville.
Ora Eviston, Butler.
Seymour Fish, Waterloo.
Perry A. Foote, Corunna.
E. H. Fisher, Newville.
Will Franks, Garrett.
Azam P. Foltz, Garrett.
James H. Farver, Auburn.
Mildred Fee, Hamilton.
Morton Foote, Corunna.
Hattie Firestone, Butler.
Mattie Franks, Corunna.
Ida Husselman, Fairfield Center.
Estella Hague, Auburn.
M. J. Hadsell, St. Joe Station.
I. S. Hadsell, St. Joe Station.
W. C. Henderson, Spencerville.
Mary Hilkey, Auburn.
Susie Jennings, Butler.
Rosa Hook, Butler.
A. C. Koeppe, Newville.
Charles Kettering, Ashley.
H. H. Keep, Waterloo.
J. H. W. Krontz, Butler.
Fred Knott, Cedar Creek.
J. A. Lautzenheiser, Hamilton.
Wm. O. Lake, Spencerville.
Merilla Newcomer, Waterloo.
John H. Oster, Garrett.
H. G. Provines, Auburn.
Willis B. Preston, Auburn.
Estella Parker, Butler.
I. O. Reinoehl, Fairfield Center.
John H. Urey, Fairfield Center.
Georgia Van Fleet, Garrett.
Maggie Woods, Butler.
Eli C. Walker, Sedan.
Otto L. Widney, St. Joe Station.
Frank Walter, " "
Isaiah Wert, Fairfield Center.
C. C. Woodcox, St. Joe Station.
C. A. Woodcox, " "
W. H. Zigler, Auburn.
Frank Dawson, Corunna.
Hattie Best, Butler.
Frances Brown, Butler.
Lottie Tompkins, Corunna.
Bertha Yates, Auburn.
Almeda Aster, Hamilton.
Lola Provines, Auburn.
Clyde Maurer, Spencerville.
Norman W. Jones, Garrett.
Jennie B. Clifton, St. Joe Station.
Charles Chapman, Scio.
O. K. Shull, St. Joe Station.
Elsie McCurdy, Butler.
J. P. Bonnell, St. Joe Station.
Wm. W. Fischer, Spencerville.
Mae Davis, Scio.
Irma J. Foote, Corunna.
Blanche Goodrich, Sedan.
Ida Gratz, Butler.
Carmie Gibford, Concord.
S. M. High, Spencerville.
Charles Gibford, Concord.
Alma Husselman, Fairfield Center
Bertha Hollabough, St. Joe Station
John H. Lake, Spencerville.
Minnie Loutzenheiser, Hamilton.
Della Megginis, Auburn.
Wm. H. May, Ashley.
F. M. Merica, Garrett City,
Homer Martin, Helmer.
J. Claude Meyer, Waterloo.
Maggie Morgan, Artic.
Bertha Sattison, Butler.
Hattie Smith, Waterloo.
Lydia Teeters, Auburn.
Mary Teeters, Auburn.
Josiah Teeters, "
Estella Tarney, "
Joseph Tarney, "
Mae Urey, Fairfield.
W. E. Reinoehl, Fairfield Center.
Job Reinoehl, Fairfield Center.
John H. Reinoehl, Fairfield Center.
David Reinoehl, Fairfield Center.
Harriet Simon, LaOtto.
Winnie Swaysgood, Butler.
Wm. Rummel, Spencerville.
Albert Shultz, Waterloo.
Laura Sawvel, Butler.
Emery Shook, Corunna.
Geo. Smith, Spencerville.
Lynde Murphy, Scio.
Ada F. Chew, Garrett.
F. M. Kimes, Spencerville.
Addie Widney, St. Joe.
Ester Eberly, Waterloo.
C. P. Hamman, Waterloo.
James H. Husselman, Waterloo.
Lulu Rempis, Waterloo.
Pearl Huyck, Butler.
Ann Akins, Scio.
Howard Mountz, Garrett.
H. D. Dick, Altona.
Mary Essig, Auburn.
Frank Maggart, Altona.
Hortense Abrams, Butler.
William Krehl, Helmer.
Albert Kiplinger, Summit.

Fire At Garrett

Seven barns and several smaller buildings were destroyed by fire Sunday. About 11 o'clock in the forenoon an alarm of fire was given which soon called out a crowd and emptied the churches in a hurry. It was found that a barn in the west part of town was on fire. Efforts were at once made to stop it, but they had to wait to get up steam at the water works before a stream could be thrown. It seems that on the evening before, the boiler had been cleaned, then filled with water and no fire built. So they had to start up with a boiler full of cold water. It took nearly half an hour to get up steam enough to throw a stream and in the meantime the flames were rapidly spreading. The building that caught first was cleaned out and several others burning, but when the stream did come, the fight became more hopeful and finally stopped. But it was found on counting up that seven barns, some coal houses and other small buildings were destroyed, many dwellings badly scorched and several small buildings had been torn down. One cause of the great loss was the fact the barns and other buildings were all close to the alley, standing on each side of it, and but a few feet apart. We did not learn the names of the losers, but remember that Mr. Lackey lost his coal house and one end of his barn was burned. We believe no horses were destroyed. The fire is said to have been caused by some small boys smoking cigarettes in the building that first caught.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Local Press.

The New Era says that a man residing in one of the townships in the eastern tier of Noble county, recently brought his old mother to the county infirmary where she was left as a county charge and he then filed his bill and was paid $2 50 for taking her to that institution.

Winona Park is destined to become one of the most beautiful resorts in the west. The improvements in the grounds during the present season have been extensive. The park has been enlarged and platted and now covers an immense tract of land. Strangers who visit the grounds are at once captivated by its beautiful scenery and inviting surroundings. These with the intellectual attractions and amusements will soon win for its great popularity, Winona Park is bound to become famous:—Columbia City Post.

Logansport has a lime stone quarry which ships 15,000 car loads of crushed lime stone each year to the different steel mills and glass factories of this country. The pay roll aggregates a quarter of a million dollars per annum and the employes number about 400. Not a small business by any means.

The ammonia gun is a new invention to protect the bicycle rider from the dogs running under the wheels and otherwise getting in the way, etc. The gun is simply an egg-shapped rubber bulb like the bulb of an atomizer, with a one-sixteenth inch nozzle, and one direct shot is calculated to make any dog sneeze and sniff away all futher ambition to investigate the pace of the rider. It is said to be a perfect instrument in every way.

40 Big Chews Battle Ax Plug for 10 cents

The Largest piece of Good tobacco ever sold for the money

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder ABSOLUTELY PURE

Mrs. Wm. Buss

Mrs. Wm. Buss died at her home in Fairfield township yesterday afternoon after a long and severe illness. It had been seen for a long time, that the end was approaching. Last night about ten o'clock they came down here for the two sisters who reside here, Mrs. A. B. Richards and Mrs. H. E. Trout. They started up to the old home about 11 o'clock. The funeral will be at the home at 1 p. m. to-morrow and the interment will be in the cemetery at Waterloo. Mr. Richards went up there to-day to make the necessary arrangements.

Sold The Bonds.

The bonds for the Garrett water works were all sold in a lump Thursday, to Farson, Leach & Co., of Chicago. They took the $19,500 and paid a premium on the lot amounting to $395 and besides pay the interest on the bonds from the date of issue up to to date of delivery under the contract with the the company that puts in the plant. Of these bonds, The first lot, amounting to $2,000, comes due July 1, 1901. The rest will come due $500 at a time every six months till the last one is paid, except that $4,000 of of the last is to be paid in one payment, July 1, 1915. They bear interest at 5 per cent payable simi annually. We got this information from attorney J. L. Gengler and Mr S. L. Fryer, a member of the Garrett council. They feel quite jubilant over the prospect.

A Small Blaze.

About four a. m. Saturday, a small fire was discovered in the ware room at the Trentman Hub Factory south of the Wabash Depot.

We were not able to learn who the gentleman was that discovered the blaze He did heroic work in extinguishing the flames while some of the neighbors went up to Mr. Trentman's residence and notified them. Mr. Trentman being away from home, Harry at once left for the factory and watched the fire and by 5 o'clock he had it all out.

The fire originated in the part of the building where the hubs and handles were stored. Tramps set it on fire as they said there during the night, there was paper packed down between the hubs. Had it not been for the timely discovery it would have probably made quite a fire. The damage however, is small, only a few hubs and handles, being burned.

Depauw Glass Works

WILL START UP UNDER THE EFFECTS, OF THE REVIVAL OF BUSINESS.

Indianapolis Sun.

The plate glass works which brought fame and fortune to the DePauws in Indiana, and which finally became entangled with other affairs of the DePauw estate, are on their feet again.

The plant was originally located at New Albany, where Indiana was first heard of as a plate glass producer. After the natural gas belt developed the DePauws took most of their business to Alexandra. Then the difficulties of the estate began and some of the heirs became embarrassed. The organization of the North American plate glass company is for the purpose of rebuilding the monument or the DePauw family. The company organized under the laws of the state, Wednesday, when the secretary of state incorporated it. The reorganized concern has $1,000,000 capital. The plants will be continued at New Albany and Alexandria, where they have not been in operation all the time. The main officers will be located in Indianapolis.

The directory is composed of Newland T. DePauw, New Albany; O. T. Doxey, Anderson; A. L. Pogue, Richmond; John H. Holiday, Indianapolis, and John Stites, of Los Angeles, Cal. There is a large number of stockholders, some of them being members of the DePauw family.

A Crowning Success.

C E DeVos, editor of the Cooperville (Mich.) Observer, is a worthy example of what push and energy, with keen business propensities, will accomplish. In a conversation with your correspondent, Mr. DeVos said: "I was born in Keene, Canada, in 1855. In 1857, I migrated with my parents to Pella, Iowa, received a common school education, drifted into the printing business, and removed to Battle Creek, Mich., where I became foreman in the large printing house of Gage & Son. I recently purchased the paper of which I am now editor. My life work has been very confining and exacting and, as a result, my health gave out and I broke down with nervous exhaustion and sleeplessness. I was in such a condition that I could not sleep until completely worn out, my appetite failed me and I had to choke down what little I did eat. About two months ago my attention was directed to Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer and I concluded to try it. It had a wonderful effect on me; in a few nights I was able to get all the sleep needed, my appetite returned and became as ravenous as a wolf's my weigh increased twelve pounds, my mind became clear and active, in fact, I was restored to health and I look and feel an entirely different man." Inquiry and observation has proved Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer to be a truly wonderful cure for all nerve troubles, such as nervous prostration, spasms, fits, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency and sexual general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport 31 35

Around The World

Owney, the Postal Clerk's dog will take a trip around the world. He sailed yesterday from Tacoma. Early in July Owney made a trip to Alaska. Returning, he inspected a China steamer lying at the dock. Assistant Postmaster Stockings made arrangements for him to go to Hong Kong, the guest of Captain John Panton. The Captain will put him aboard an English mail steamer bound for London. He will thence be sent to New York. Owney is now fifteen years old. He started traveling at Albany, N. Y., many years ago, and has been in every section of the United States. A postal clerk took a fancy to him and put about his neck a tag bearing the inscription: "Be kind to Owney." Ever since he has traveled with the postal clerks.

Tired, Weak, Nervous Could Not Sleep.

Prof. L. D. Edwards, of Preston, Idaho, says: "I was all run down, weak, nervous and irritable through overwork. I suffered from brain fatigue, mental depression, etc. I became so weak and nervous that I could not sleep, I would arise tired, discouraged and blue. I began taking and now everything is changed I sleep soundly, I feel bright, active and ambitious. I can do more in one day now than I used to do in a week. For this great good I give Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine the sole credit.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

It Cures."

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

TO YOUNG WIVES

WE OFFER A REMEDY WHICH INSURES SAFETY TO LIFE OF MOTHER AND CHILD.

"Mothers' Friend"

ROBS CONFINEMENT OF ITS PAIN, HORROR AND RISK.

"My wife used only two bottles. She was easily and quickly relieved; is now doing splendidly.—
J. S. MORTON, Harlow, N. C.

Sent by express or mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "TO MOTHERS" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE HUB'S BOYS HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB The World's Largest Clothing Store, CHICAGO, ILL.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. SEPTEMBER 5. 1895. NUMBER 36

SAY : :

HOW MUCH DO YOU OWE?

Who holds your mortgage? How much interest are you paying? Do you owe a building loan association anything? If you do, how much interest are you paying them? Unless you are better posted than the majority of people who have such loans, you cannot tell. You think you are paying 6 per cent. Do you know (of course not) that you are paying at least 12 per cent. If you think not, just figure it out yourself. Now then, are you not paying 6 per cent interest and 6 per cent premium? Certainly. Well now don't you know that premium and interest are the same thing—its all interest. Can you afford to pay 12 per cent interest to a loan association when even your banks only charge 8 per cent and you think they are charging too much, and when do you expect to have your loan canceled or paid off in full? You have been told 72 or 78 months. Now then, we undertake to say that it will take you 100 months, if you will call on us we will show you so you will be satisfied that we are right. Now then, we are prepared to loan you money on monthly installment plan for 8 per cent, we charge you no membership fee and you do not have to make three or more payments in advance so that if on account of insufficient security or bad title your loan is rejected you will not lose one cent. You pay nothing unless your loan is granted. We are making farm loans at from 3 to 5 per cent with privilege of partial payments.

ANOTHER THING!

There is scarcely a day but what there is some traveling agent for some building loan association in Auburn soliciting business, selling stock upon which they charge you a membership fee of from 50 cents to $1.00 per share, which amount goes to the agent and you never get back this money thrown away. If you will call on us we will take your application for all the stock you want in the BEST (we can prove it) building loan association in the state the INDIANA MUTUAL OF INDIANAPOLIS, and charge you NO MEMBERSHIP FEE AT ALL. This is certainly fair. If you have any investment stock in any association just write them a letter and ask them the withdrawal value of same, their reply will probably open your eyes. What would you say if you would deposit $8.00 per month in your bank for one year and wanted to withdraw the same and they would offer to pay you only about $80? The bank would only have to do this in one case to be compelled to retire from business. Now you pay ten dollars membership fee and 8 dollars for 12 months making 108 dollars, you lose the 10 dollars membership fee and 10 cents per share each month for expenses, making 12 dollars, or a total of 22 dollars loss upon which you would receive 6 per cent interest for average time on 96 dollars, making 2 dollars and 88 cts. from 22 dollars would leave you a loser of 19 dollars and 12 cents. In our association your stock is worth all you have paid in, with its interest added, so that upon withdrawal you do not get less than you paid. We want the people of Auburn to become familiar with this matter, and would like to have any that are interested to call and talk with us, we can give you some pointers.

We are still in the Real Estate, Insurance and R. R. Ticket business.

RICKEL & SPROTT

AUBURN, INDIANA.

CRUSHED.

IN A GRAVEL PIT A FEW MILES EAST OF AUBURN.

A few days ago Silas Fales with a company of other men were working in a gravel pit near the state line somewhere between Newville and Hicksville when the embankment caved in and crushed him beneath the gravel. Both legs were broken in different places and horribly mangled. It appears that a railroad switch ran close up to the banks and the gravel had been dug out from under the sod which projected out over the top. Mr. Fales was walking along between the track and gravel bank when the whole thing slid in. There is but little hopes of the man ever getting well as his injuries are worse than has been reported.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Ryes Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding lagrippe Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interuption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Robbins and McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1 00. 1

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winneshiek Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

You can have most any article of iron or brass manufactured at the Junction Foundry.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34ft

The DeKalb Boy

From a long and extensive acquaintance with the DeKalb young man, we have an abiding faith in him. We have learned that he generally holds his own, and frequently forges to the front. Last evening the institute sermon was delivered by "Charlie Merica", a DeKalb boy, who in his youth was known by no other name. Now it is "Prof. C. O. Merica" and he occupies a chair as professor in a college. Besides he is a "Rev." and evidently a pretty good one, too, for he has developed great strength and powers of oratory. A man who lectures before the DeKalb county teachers institute knows he has an intelligent and critical audience, but Mr. Merica was equal to the occasion and from the moment he began to speak, till the eloquent ending, there was no break in the excellent attention given. It must have been flattering to him looking into so many familiar faces faces he had known when a boy, and feel that he was winning, through even a surprise. Mr. Merica is still a young man, and we feel that there are great possibilities in store for him. We cannot of course give even a synopsis of his lecture. But it was able and eloquent, full of deep thought, good thoughts, and was delivered with a grace and a power that surprised while it captivated us. The DeKalb young man or young woman who heard it should be encouraged. There are great possibilities for all. And yet we see every day some splendid young men throwing these possibilities away for the most frivolous and unworthy things.

A Reward of $500

Will be given for any case of rheumatism which cannot be cured with Dr. Drummonds Lightning Remedy. The proprietors do not hide this offer, but print it in bold type on all their circulars, wrappers, printed matter, and through the columns of newspapers everywhere. It will work wonders, one treatment curing any ordinary case. The two bottles will be sent to any address by express on receipt of $5. Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. Agents wanted.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

THE LAW IS VOID!

JUDGE McCLELLAN WAS CORRECT IN HIS OPINION OF THE NEW LAW.

C. M. Merica Will Hold the Office of County Superintendent.

This morning Sup'. Merica received the following dispatch for State Superintendent Geeting:

TERRE HAUTE, Aug. 31, '95, 7:35 a. m.
Law unconstitutional

D. M. Geeting,
State Superintendent

This means that the supreme court now in session at Indianapolis has decided unconstitutional, the new law providing for the election of county superintendent on the first Monday in September instead of the first Monday in June as under the old law.

JUDGE C. A. O. MC CLELLAN.

In May just past, we asked Judge McClellan for an opinion on the constitutionality of the new law. In response to this he furnished an opinion which we published May 23. This article our readers will remember contained extracts from opinions and decisions of the supreme court of the state in similar cases that had come before them, all going to show that a law worded like the one under consideration could not stand. Among other points the Judge made, we quote this in substance,

"The legislature of last winter attempted to amend sec. 33 of the law of 1865 in reference to common schools. But said sec. 33 had been amended by the act passed in 1873, and this section, so amended, became section 4424 of the Revised Statutes of 1881. By that amendment, section 33 of the statute of 1865 ceased to exist as completely as if it had never been passed."

And then comes a case still more conclusive:

"In 1875 the legislature undertook to amend said section 33 of the acts of 1865', after it had been amended in 1873 and was not, therefore in force. Judge Biddle then decided that this attempt to amend a law already dead by amendment was void. And yet this very thing so pronounced unconstitutional by the supreme court is what the legislature of last winter has attempted to do"

This decision of Judge Biddle was in the case of State vs Harrison, 67th Ind., page 71.

The Judge then refers by volume and page to half a dozen decisions based on the same grounds, and then adds:

"These decisions with many others undoubtedly settle the law upon that question."

And then he goes on to give other reasons why this particular law is invalid naming among other defects, the failure to give the correct title of the article amended, or sought to be amended. While this omission to specify distinctly the section of law aimed at, would no doubt prove fatal in view of section 21, article 4 of the state constitution which the judge quotes here. Yet we think the insurmountable difficulty is the first named—the attempted amendment of a law already amended, and so placed outside of the statutes of the state.

The opinion then given, has proved to be the correct one, as we have all along believed it would be.

The decision of the supreme court will surprise no one who has a knowledge of the law. But it may surprise such legal lights as the Garrett Clipper which some time before the supreme court got a chance at it, had decided the new law to be sound. Singularly enough the supreme court does not seem to have heard of the Clipper's view of it. It is, however, possible that the Clipper's legal opinions are warped by its dislike to the present superintendent.

The COURIER has no feeling against any of the proposed candidates, our relations being friendly with all of them. We have no doubt, should some of them some day occupy the position, they would be acceptable and capable officers. But feeling as we did, that the law was invalid, we urged the election of a superintendent at the regular time, the first Monday in June and we are more than glad it was done. Now the matter is settled and an officer regularly elected, is serving. Had there been no election the first Monday in June, he would now be serving without an election "till his successor is elected" two years later. Now, also, the new board of trustees will have two years to learn the business, and can then elect a man under more advantageous conditions. Even republican will be better suited, when they come to study the matter in all its bearings. The change in the law was not made for the benefit of the schools; it was a political move and nothing more. And so far, it was unwise. Politics should be kept out of the school work.

Got Her Money.

GARRETT, IND.

DR. J. D. BAER, Gen. Agent, Union Central Life Ins. Co., of Cincinnati, O.

DEAR SIR:

It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the payment of two thousand ($2,000) dollars at the hands of your local agent, E. L. Casebeer, of Auburn, Indiana, and your Assistant General Agent, Homer Kessler, of Logansport, Ind., which is in full of my husband, Albert Spurgeon's, policy, No. 51,949, for two thousand dollors, the check being dated July 31, '95. This policy of $2,000 enables me to pay a mortgage of $1,550 and leaves our home free from debt, and is more of a boon to me and the children than words can express. believe every husband and father should have his life insured for what he owes at least. If he is not in debt he could carry more insurance and thereby make certain to his estate what otherwise would depend on the most uncertain of all things, his living to accomplish. Every wife and mother should urge her husband to insure, and from my experience with the Union Central Life Insurance company, I unhesitatingly recommend it and their agent E. L. Casebeer, who has always treated us with the most uniform kindness and courtesy, making up proofs of death without any expense to me. IRENE A. SPURGEON.

ELECTRIC BITTERS.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 1

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia, in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50t

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.
Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

OUR Buyer

IS NOW IN THE

CITY

SELECTING NEW GOODS

To add to our already Extensive Stock.

He will give particular attention to
DRESS GOODS
AND DRY GOODS
....IN GENERAL....
But will also pick up the very
LATEST IDEAS IN
CLOTHING and LADIES' WRAPS.

These goods will be in by Tuesday of next week, and we cordially invite one and all to call, whether you wish to purchase or not. While the Buyer is busy in the City we shall be busy here giving you Special Bargains in order to Make Room for the Goods to Come.

Remember OUR STORE!

Is filled with Bran New

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING, LADIES' WRAPS, CARPETS,

And we are saving you money on every purchase you make from us.

Schaab & Bro.

Don't Forget

That we are
HEADQUARTERS
FOR

Bryan Plows, Ball Bearing Disc Harrows, Superior and Empire Grain Drills, Turnbull Wagons and Eckhart Buggies.

Brown, Culbertson & Bolanp

AUBURN, IND.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE.

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings of an Important Nature.

A WILD ENGINE

Smashes Into a Crowded Excursion Train.

A special from Brooklyn, N. Y., says: An appalling railroad accident occurred near the Woodlawn station of the Sea Beach railroad. While an excursion train, composed of seventeen cars, which were crowded almost to suffocation, was standing at the Woodlawn station, a "wildcat" engine came thundering along the tracks in its wake and crashed into the rear car, telescoping it. The car was filled with passengers, most of who came from New York City. Many of the people saw the engine come tearing along, and jumped, thus saving their lives.

Engine No. 19, the "wildcat," smashed into the rear car, smashing it into kindling wood, and burying men, women, and children beneath it. There was a mad rush of surging humanity from the doomed train. The groans of the injured filled the air and the snorting and puffing of the imprisoned engine made a deafening noise. For some time the scene was a regular pandemonium. Scarcely half a dozen people kept their heads or were able to render assistance to the injured. Patrolman Kelly, who was on duty at the station, turned in several ambulance calls, and five ambulances from the surrounding hospitals responded. In the meantime the woodwork of the wrecked car caught fire and was quickly in a blaze. Four cars were completely destroyed before the train hands were able to uncouple the cars. As soon as it was detached the engine drew the other cars out of danger. By this time all the passengers had disembarked and there was the wildest kind of excitement. It is thought that at least ten persons were killed outright. The groans of the injured filled the air and could be heard almost a mile.

Work of Train Wreckers.

A south-bound freight train, composed of an engine and eleven cars, and maned by Engineer Scroggins and Fireman Oney Barrett, was wrecked at Portland Station, W. Va. The station had been set fire and burned before the arrival of the train, and the switch had been turned and locked. The train shot down a 100-foot bank into the river, piling up cars and the engine, causing a total wreck, Fireman Barrett had his leg broken, and the engineer was badly hurt. The authorities have clews and have issued warrants for the wreckers. The loss will be heavy.

The Massacre of Missionaries.

Chester Holcomb, who has been connected with the United States legation at Peking for twenty-one years, has just returned home. He attributes the massacre of missionaries to bands of soldiers, who, as the custom is in China, are dismissed from service as soon as the war is over and allowed to find their way back to their homes as they may, robbing and beating their way as they like. Holcomb thinks it certain that war is pending between Russia and Japan. He thinks the Bear is trying to tease Japan into the commencement of hostilities.

Little Colored Boy a Hero.

While blasting in a well at Frazeysburg, Ohio, John Whyde was overcome by bad air. He called for help, and Eugene Patterson, a little colored boy, slipped down the rope to assist him into the bucket. He was insensible, however, by the time the boy reached him. The little fellow direction that the bucket be hauled up and that the rope be let down. He cooley remained in the well while this was done and tied the rope around Whyde's body. Whyde was hoisted to the top, and later the boy followed.

Grasshoppers Fed to Hogs.

In Barton, Rice, Stafford, and Ellsworth Counties, Central Kansas, millions of grasshoppers swarm in the fields where wheat has been harvested. Farmers are gathering the insects and feeding them to their hogs. The farmers make a frame of an old header rigged up with canvas screen running over two rollers. The machine is driven over the field, and the hoppers fly against the canvas and rollers and are killed. Then they are shoveled into a wagon and fed to the hogs.

Old Man Shoots a Tramp.

An unknown tramp, about 19 years old, was shot and killed by Jack Carr, an old man who lives near the Baltimore and Ohio shopes, at Washington, Ind. Carr is now in jail, having given himself up immediately after the shooting, claiming the act was in self-defense. Carr shot a boy for stealing melons about two weeks ago, but as the wound was not serious nothing was done.

Taylor Out On Bail.

A special from Pierre, S. D., says: Application has been made to Judge Fuller for a writ of error in the Taylor case. The application was made to Judge Fuller because the case comes from his district. The writ is made returnable Sept. 10, and the hearing is set for Sept. 12. Taylor has been released on bail until that time.

Russian Crops Reported Poor.

An official report states that spring sown crops in Russia have suffered from the prolonged drought, only 72 per cent. of the whole area sown giving a yield above the average. Of the total area of winter sown crops only 61 per cent. gives a fair yield.

Home Rule.

Andrew Carnegie is out in a letter in the London Times urging that paper to advocate a peaceful solution of the home rule question. Carnegie says that it is not merely a British question, but, unfortunately, one that exerts an important influence in American politics.

A Bold Thief.

A thief robbed the till of the Masonic Temple, in Chicago, in the day time and undertook to escape through the crowd on State street. Five hundred people joined in the pursuit and he was arrested.

Senator Quay Wins.

The Pennsylvania Republican State Convention met at Harrisburg and agreed upon the following ticket:

State Chairman, M. S. Quay.

State Treasurer, Benjamin J. Haywood, of Meyer.

For Superior Court Judges, six to be chosen, James A. Beaver of Centre county, E. N. Willard of Lackawanna, Charles E. Rice of Luzerne, George B. Orlady of Huntingdon, John K. Wickham of Beaver, Howard Reeder of Northampton.

Both Fatally Hurt.

S. L. Miller and wife were injured in a runaway accident near Attica, Ohio, and both will die.

A FIERCE STORM.

New York Swept By a Wind and Rain Storm and Much Damage Done.

A special from New York City says: A terrible wind storm, accompanied by a heavy down pour of rain, swept over the city Sunday evening.

The storm lasted fully thirty-five minutes, and extended throughout Jersey City, Brooklyn, Long Island and neighboring towns, causing many thousands of dollars loss to property. The roof of a three-story box factory on West Sixty-fourth street, was blown into a vacant lot and fell with a terrific crash. Several passersby narrowly escaped serious injury.

The police reported that the north and south walls of the top floor of a six-story building in course of construction, at the corner of Third avenue and Fifty-ninth street, fell, crashing through the roof of an adjoining building, but fortunately no one was injured.

The storm caused considerable damage in Harlem. At One Hundred and Eighth street and Manhattan avenue a large board fence 200 feet long was blown down and two children were seriously injured.

THE KNIGHTS TEMPLAR.

The Grand Encampment Elects Officers—Pittsburgh the Next Place of Meeting.

Boston special: The grand encampment of Knights Templar elected Right Eminent Sir Warren La Rue Thomas of Kentucky, Grand Master, to succeed Most Eminent Sir Hugh McCurdy. There hundred and one votes were cast, of which the successful candidate received 295.

Very Eminent Sir Reuben H. Lloyd of San Francisco, was elected Deputy Grand Master.

Other officers elected were:

Grand Generalissimo—Very Eminent Sir Henry D. Stoddard of Texas.

Grand Captain General—Very Eminent Sir George M. Moulton of Illinois.

Grand Senior Warden—Very Eminent Sir Henry W. Rugg of Rhode Island.

Grand Junior Warden—Very Eminent Sir W. B. Melish of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Grand Treasurer—Very Eminent Sir H. Wales Lines of Meriden, Conn.

Grand Recorder—W. H. Mayo, St. Louis.

Pittsburgh was selected as the next conclave city.

THE SHERIFF CAN SHOOT

If It Is Necessary to Prevent the Big Fight at Dallas.

Austin (Tex.) special: Attorney General Crane has handed down his opinion in the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize fight case in reply to an interrogatory of Sheriff Cabe of Dallas County, as to whether he had any legal right to shoot down people while attempting to suppress the fight. The Attorney General's reply is to the effect that prize fighters, referees, etc., constitute an unlawful assemblage and the statutes of the State make special provisions for the abatement of such unlawful assemblages; that the Sheriff is empowered to summon a posse or even the militia to his aid in case the fighters will not cease their unlawful conduct, then that the statutes special provides that homicide is justifiable when absolutely necessary to suppress riot or unlawful gatherings. The Attorney General concludes his opinion by saying that while he does not believe it necessary, still if it is necessary the statutes provides that the Sheriff can use fire arms in disbanding any unlawful assemblage.

Double Fatality.

A double fatality occurred at the World building, Cleveland, Ohio. Three men were on a ladder placing a sign at the top of the fifth story. The rope slipped and the ladder turned over. Alois Zechmeister was thrown to the pavement below, a distance of 100 feet. He struck on his head, which was crushed, and he was instantly killed. In his descent Zechmeister struck John Wickson, a pedestrian who was passing, breaking Wickson's back and both legs. Wickson was removed to the hospital. He is a laborer, with a wife and one child. He cannot live. The other two men on the ladder escaped Zechmeister's fate by a miracle. Larence Cronenberg's feet caught in the rope and he hung suspended over the pavement, head downward, for five minutes before he could be rescued. The other man grabbed the cornice at the top of the building and worked his way to the fire escape.

The Business World.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their Weekly Review of Trade, says:

"Improvement in markets and prices continues, and whereas a few months ago everybody was nursing the faintest hopes of recovery, it has now come to be the only question in what branches, if any, the rise in prices and in the increase of business may go to far. A strong conservative feeling is finding expression, not as yet controlling the markets or industries, but warning against too rapid expansion and rise.

"In some directions the advance in prices clearly checks future business. The industries are not only doing better than anybody had expected, but are counting upon a great business for the balance of the year."

Fire at Buffalo.

One of the most serious fires that has visited Buffalo, N. Y., for several years started in the basement of the Academy of Music, and it burned to the ground. The flames rapidly spread to the adjourning fur and hat store of George W. Chase, and it was soon totally destroyed. The flames then spread to Glennyson's store, the largest importers of China in the United States, and burned through two stories before the firemen were able to drive the flames in the opposite direction, where they found material to feed on in the drug store of Lyman & Sloan, the American Express Company's building, and Western Union Telegraph Company, these latter places suffering slight damage. The loss is estimated at $750,000.

A Cruel Murder.

A freight crew on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway on arrival at Mansfield, Ohio, discovered the body of an unknown man lying in a box car, his throat cut from ear to ear, but still alive. He died two hours later without regaining consciousness. A bloody dirk knife lay beside him and the indications are that he had been the victim of an assault. On his right arm were tattooed letters "E. Mc." He was moderately well dressed and about thirty-five years old. Before the train arrived at Mansfield the train men saw three men in a box car. Shortly after they saw one of them jump from the car. What became of the third is not known. The Coroner took charge of the body.

Lives Lost.

Halifax special: A dispatch from Charlottetown reports the probable loss of seven lives. Five men and two women sailed from Campe Balud in a sail boat to Fifteen Points a week ago. They remained there with friends over night and left next day to return, and nothing has since been heard of them. Their relatives did not miss them for several days, supposing that the party had prolonged their visit, and when they made inquiries, learned that the party was missing. The supposition is that the boat foundered and that all on board were lost.

A Ton of Dynamite Explodes.

Havana special: There is a rumor that the Spanish steamer Villavorde, chartered by Gen. Campos as his private yacht, had been blown up at sea. She went from here to New York, ostensibly to go into a dry dock to be cleaned and painted. She left New York on the 21st inst., to return to Havana. It is said that she had on board a ton of dynamite, being brought by Gen. Campos to be used in the campaign against the insurgents. This dynamite exploded with terrific force, the story goes, tearing the ship into fragments.

A Cyclone in New York.

A cyclone of hail, wind, and rain struck Syracuse, N. Y., recently. It lasted not more than a half hour, but in that time hundreds of dollars' worth of property was destroyed and a few people injured. The storm caused the greatest damage in the center of the city. Trolley cars were blockaded and telephone, telegraph, police and fire alarms were blown down. Among the injured were John O'Hara, an engineer for the Consolidated Street Railway Company, who was caught beneath a falling chimney. He may die.

Burst the Walls.

A special from Central City, Colo., says: Water broke the walls separating the abandoned workings of the Bobtail tunnel property and the Sleepy Hollow and Americus mines and caught thirteen miners before they could be warned of their danger. News was brought here by courier late in the day, and men have gone down to assist in recovering the bodies as it is not believed that any of the workmen escaped. How extensive this disaster is cannot be determined at this time.

Four are Dead.

Once more war has broken out in the Cumberland Mountains, at a point about 75 miles north of Bristol, Tenn., on the Virginia and Kentucky line. It is the result of a long-standing feud between two factions. A large number of Boyd relatives and Thomas relatives, with Winchesters, met at an illicit distillery, where the battle begun. Four men, John Boyd, Will Cox, Jacob Thomas, and Floyd Thomas are dead, and several are wounded.

Ex-Councilman Shot and Killed.

James Getty, an ex-councilman and a wealthy wholesale liquor dealer, was shot and killed at Harrisburg, Pa., by Alexander Hutchison, formerly proprietor of the Merchants' hotel in that city. Getty was the owner of the Hotel Wiley, and the murder was the result of a dispute over the leasing of the hotel to his step-son. The shooting occurred in Getty's office on First avenue. Hutchinson gave himself up and is now in jail.

An Excursion Train Wrecked.

Two passenger coaches and a combination baggage and smoking car of an excursion train left the track on the Southern railway, between Holton and Pope, Ga., and fifty people were hurt and two killed. The injured were not very seriously hurt, the injuries being confined to cuts, bruises, and broken limbs. It is impossible to explain the cause of the wreck. There were over 400 people on board the train.

Red Flag Barred.

The red flag which was to grace the procession to be made Labor Day at Chicago in honor of Keir Hardie, the English Socialist, did not appear, as Mayor Swift issued positive orders against it being carried through the streets. The Mayor ordered Oscar Neebe, Michael Schwab and other Socialist leaders brought to the City Hall, and warned them against any attempt at display of the socialistic emblem.

Great Loss of Life and Property in Mexico.

A special from Zacatecas, Mexico, says that the village of Huatingo was visited by a water spout, causing great loss of life and property. Many of the houses were washed away and eighty persons met death by drowning. The flood also destroyed all the crops in the little valley. The storm came up very suddenly and the water spout burst directly over the town.

A Water Spout Near Muncie, Ind.

A water spout passed just north of Muncie, Ind., the other night. At Wysor heights, where a boulevard is being built on the high bank of the river, a thousand wagon loads of dirt were washed into the river. Near Royerton great damage was done, and the people were badly frightened.

Boiler Explosion.

By the explosion of a boiler in the sawmill owned by John Flaugh, Allen County, Indiana, two men were instantly killed and two others had almost miraculous escapes from death. The dead are; Jacob Flaugh, aged 31, son of the proprietor of the mill, and Frank Fahl, aged 25, the sawyer.

Four Were Drowned.

At Marysville, Mich., on the St. Clair River, a squall struck a small rowboat containing six persons, capsizing it. Four were drowned. The dead are Frank DeRufg, Mrs. Michael DeRufg, Miss Celia Croniski and Miss Edith Conners.

Bissel for the United States Bench.

Buffalo special: It is learned on authority which is considered absolutely reliable that ex-Postmaster General Wilson S. Bissel has been offered the place on the United States Supreme Court Bench made vacant by the death of Justice Jackson.

Drank Cider and Died.

Albert Baker, an 18-year-old boy living ten miles east of Huntington, W. Va., drank a quantity of sweet cider and died a few hours later in horrible agony. It is thought the beverage was poisoned, caused by standing in a brass vessel.

Fire at Elkhart.

Buesher's novelty works at Elkhart, Ind., was visited with a destructive fire, being completely destroyed. Loss, $5,000.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 62c to 63c; corn, No. 2, 36c to 38c; oats, No. 2, 20c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 42c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 11c to 13c; potatoes, new, per bushel, 35c to 45c; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 3c to 5½c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $5.00; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 61c to 63c; corn, No. 1 white, 36c to 38c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 61c to 62c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 39c to 41c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $5.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 64c to 65c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 44c to 46c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 64c; corn, No. 2, yellow, 39c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; rye, 43c to 44c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 64c to 65c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 44c to 46c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.25; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 44c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 60c to 62c; corn, No. 3, 36c to 38c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 43c to 45c; rye, No. 1, 44c to 45c; pork, mess, $9.00 to $9.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, $4.00 to $6.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2, 43c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 28c; butter, creamery, 15c to 21c; eggs, Western, 14c to 16c.

KNIGHTS IN BOSTON.

TWENTY-SIXTH GREAT TRIENNIAL CONCLAVE.

Thirty-Thousand Templars and Their Friends from All Parts of the Country—The Great Parade—A Week of Much Gayety.

Owned the Town.

Boston has had rather more than its share of great gatherings this summer. Scarcely had the Christian Endeavor cohorts departed with their banners than the Knights Templar veterans were seen rallying to the city of brains and beans to the number of 30,000, with half as many more ladies in their illustrious train.

This twenty-sixth triennial conclave of the Knights of the Temple was remarkable in more ways than one. It was the largest gathering of the kind in the history of the order. This not only means that there is financial hopefulness and prosperity in the circles to which the Sir Knights belong, but it calls attention to the fact that the great and beneficent Masonic brotherhood which has been inwoven with the most important features of our national history is experiencing a healthy and continuous growth. The fact that there are now in this country upward of 100,000 members of the order of Knights Templar alone is full of encouraging significance.

MOST EMINENT SIR HUGH M'CURDY.

It is maintained that the Masonic fraternity, not to speak of others scarcely less influential, has done an incalculable amount of good in conserving respect for the basic principles of true religion among a class of men most likely to be prolific in Scoffers. And not less important is the part played by this order in the perpetuation of patriotic sentiment throughout the Union. From the laying of the corner-stone of the national capital at Washington, a century ago, to the laying of the corner-stone of the Masonic Temple in Chicago, this society has played an important part in the public and semi-public events that have made up our history as a nation.

It is forty-five years since Boston has been the scene of Knights Templar grand conclave, and the members of the order in the city exerted themselves to the utmost to outdo all that have taken place since. Boston boasts of the largest commandery in the United States, and this one body appropriated $35,000 to be spent in making the guests appreciate their welcome. Even with such an example the visiting commanderies were determined not to be excelled, and though none of them expended any such sum of money, all planned to more than do their part in the festivities. Special trains were chartered from all parts of the country to carry the members of the visiting commanderies to the East, and in many instances the trips were arranged and added to so that the route included not only Boston but many other Eastern cities and points of national interest.

The representation from States as recorded at the triennial headquarters at the opening of the festivities was as follows:

Alabama	80	Missouri	1,003
Arkansas ...	58	Nebraska	130
California ...	370	Montana	40
Colorado	134	New Ha'ps're.	1,117
Connecticut ..	864	New Jersey..	618
Delaware ...	200	New York...	1,680
Dis. Col'bia..	560	N. Carolina..	18
Florida	30	N. Dakota...	60
Georgia	76	Ohio	1,515
Illinois	1,605	Pennsyl'via .	2,084
Indiana	685	S. Carolina...	25
Iowa	343	Tennessee ...	125
Kansas	363	Texas	1
Kentucky ...	280	Vermont	670
Maine	1,085	Virgina	441
Maryland ...	527	Wisconsin ...	500
Massac'setts		Wyoming ...	20
and R'de I'd.	6,218	Indian Ter...	45
Michigan ...	1,545
Minnesota ..	223	Total.....	25,721

The Grand Parade.

The conclave was opened with a parade, which was the greatest of its kind ever held. More than 40,000 Knights Templar were in line, and fully 1,000 of these were mounted. In addition to these was the members of the Grand Encampment of the United States, as well as other high officials of the order, in carriages. The parade was commanded by Grand Master McCurdy, of the Grand Encampment, who is the head of the order.

The decorations of the city were superb, and all along the route of the parade mammoth grand stands had been erected, each artistically decorated, and it is estimated that the seating accommodations for the reviewing of the parade exceeded 150,000. The stands seated anywhere from twenty-five to 5,000 persons and were erected by the different comanderies of the city and also by private individuals for speculation. In addition to these every available window in every house along the line of march was bought up by speculators, and even the front doors were utilized for seats and sold to the highest bidder. Every available window on Dartmouth street was sold for prices varying from $15 to $30 for every front room above the first floor. Columbus avenue for its whole length was one reviewing stand, and the seats were disposed of at an average price of $3, while window space was taken by visiting knights for their friends at prices ranging from $25 to $50 for front rooms above the first floor.

FLORAL CROSS AND SHIELD ON BOSTON PUBLIC GARDEN.

So great was the demand for window space and points of vantage for seeing the parade that enormously high prices have been been paid. A barber in Washington street offered his window space for $25 for the day and a shrewd customer in one of his chairs took it up and later sold the privilege for $75. Not less than $1,000,000 changed hands for the pleasure of witnessing the greatest parade in point of splendor ever held in this country.

Expense of the Conclave.

The estimate of the expense of the grand conclave to the members of Massachusetts and Rhode Island commanderies, who are the hosts, was $350,000. In addition to this each member procured special regalia, and several thousand dollars represent the expense of badges for exchange. Every frater was supposed to carry an exchange badge; in fact, a pocket full of them, and when another frater met him on the street without the ceremony of an introduction badges were to be exchanged. In this way vast collections of badges were procured as souvenirs of the triennial meeting, and a complete collection of those worn during the week will be worth fully $1,000.

A series of receptions and social festivities were held during the convention and visiting knights were taken to view all interesting points about Boston. Many public, as well as private, buildings were elaborately decorated during the convention, and old Boston assumed an air of brightness and gayety such as she has rarely known before.

MASONIC TEMPLE, WHERE THE CONCLAVE WAS HELD.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR CAPTURE BOSTON.

WHEAT CROPS OF THE WORLD.

Russia and the United States Have Nearly a Billion Bushels.

Details of the Government estimate of the wheat crops of the various countries, the total for which was stated in a recent dispatch, shows the following in bushels: Great Britain, 46,811,000; France, 301,573,000; Germany, 103,550,000; Austria, 45,392,000; Italy, 114,808,000; Belgium, 21,277,000; Spain, 86,528,000; Russia, 415,053,000; Hungary, 150,361,000; India, 237,456,000; United States, 400,017,000; Canada, 51,066,000; Roumania, 62,414,000; Bulgaria, 52,482,000; Turkey, 42,555,000; Argentine, 60,995,000; Australia, 35,746,000. The Netherlands, Switzerland, Denmark, Scandinavia, Portugal and Greece, together, 29,502,000; Servia, 8,511,000; Chili, 18,440,000; Africa, 47,094,000; all Asia except India, 70,950,000; total, 2,402,671,000.

J. R. Brandon and his son Alonzo are in jail at St. Louis charged with counterfeiting. They were arrested in Duncan County, and in a corn crib near their house was found a complete outfit for making money, together with $175 in spurious dollars of 1891.

"Gen." Coxey is touring Nebraska in the interest of free silver.

POTATO NOW IS KING.

Farmers Beginning to Realize that There Is Money in Tubers.

The potato has at last taken rank as king among the tillers of the soil. For years Secretary of Agriculture Morton has been appealing to the farmers of the United States to grow potatoes, as he believed that they would be their salvation. They have finally taken his advice, and now they are beginning to realize that they will profit by planting more ground to the tubers instead of wheat and corn. There is at all times a steady demand for them, and they are quite as staple as wheat and not subject to the fluctuations of the latter. With the low price of wheat and corn the farmers have looked about for some more profitable crop and investigation shows that the United States has never produced enough potatoes for home consumption. Thousands of bushels are bought in foreign markets every year and if there is a profit for powers abroad, with small areas to devote to the crop and the additional expense of ocean freight rates, there ought to be money in the business for the farmers in this country, who have larger tracts of land and cheaper freight rates. The imports for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1894, were 3,022,578 bushels, of the value of nearly $1,250,000.

Last year 2,737,973 acres were devoted to this crop, and that was an increase over the year before of 83,000 acres. The product of 1894, on account of an unfavorable season, was 2,246,000 bushels short of the year before, notwithstanding the increased acreage. But in measuring the popularity of the potato as an article of farm product, the product is scarcely worthy of consideration, for the increase in the area of land devoted to the crop is plainly the index of its popularity. All the evidence available indicates that there are now 3,000,000 acres of potatoes growing in the United States. The fact that there has been a steadily decreasing acreage of wheat, rye, barley, oats and corn, which continues this year, is considered by the Secretary of Agriculture to indicate an increased acreage of potatoes and other substantial small products.

New York has steadily led all the other States as a potato producer. Last year 378,728 acres of land were devoted to the crop in New York, and the product, aggregating over 3,000,000 bushels, was sold for half as many million dollars. Michigan was second, with 215,270 acres and a product of over 13,000,000 bushels, which brought the growers nearly $6,000,000. Pennsylvania was third, with 206,879 acres, which produced almost the exact number of bushels produced by Michigan, though the acreage was vastly less than Michigan's. The acreage in Ohio was in round numbers the same as that in Pennsylvania, and the aggregate of the crop was the same within a few thousand bushels, showing that both Pennsylvania and Ohio raised a larger crop than Michigan with less acreage. The other big potato-growing States are Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Nebraska and Kansas, in the order named. Iowa had 176,605 acres last year; Kansas, 108,213. The aggregate of acreage gradually decreases from Iowa to Kansas, excepting that Illinois and Wisconsin had almost the same acreage—that is, about 166,500. While Missouri, Maine, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Virginia, Kentucky, South Dakota, Colorado, and a half-dozen other States are good potato growers and have a large acreage, none of them approached 100,000 acres last year, and in nearly all of them less than 50,000 acres of land was devoted to potatoes.

Notes of Current Events.

S. A. Abbey, supposed to be a victim of the Denver hotel disaster, is alive at Pueblo, Col.

Alfred Paxton has been appointed receiver for the Davis Carriage Company at Cincinnati.

Postmaster Harmston at Vernal, Utah, has been arrested, his accounts showing a shortage of $2,800.

Ilderim, Cornelius Vanderbilt's yacht, defeated the Mineola, owned by August Belmont, in a race at Newport

Ralph Coe, son of George Coe, was drowned in a clay pit at South Bend, Ind., while throwing sticks at a dog.

Miss Mrytle Bartimus, aged 20, living near Milan, Mo, was injured by a threshing machine so that she cannot recover.

The ingrain carpet weavers' strike at Philadelphia has been broken, most of the companies granting the increase asked for.

Chief Webster and three firemen were caught under a blazing roof which fell at an Indianapolis fire and were seriously injured.

C. L. Wright, of Honolulu, says the government is about to start an information bureau to supply the outside public with data concerning the islands.

Vice Chancellor Emery, at Newark, N. J., granted the Edison Phonograph Company an injunction restraining Thomas A. Edison from selling kinetiphones in Europe.

A wonderfully rich placer find is reported on Gold Creek on the continental divide at the south end of the Wind River range, Wyo. The dirt runs $50 to the yard.

Newton B. Eustis, second secretary and Mr. Alexander, counsel of the American embassy at Paris, have returned from Clairvaux, where they took down a full statement from ex-Consul Waller of his trial and conviction by the French military court at Tamatave.

The Prince of Wales' cutter Britannia has finished her racing season and has gone to Cowes to dismantle, previous to lying up for the winter. She is flying forty winning flags.

Lizzie Sherley, a lunatic, was killed by the attendants at the Long View asylum at Cincinnati. She imagined that she would die if she partook of any food and since her advent the attendants have had to force her food down her throat, finally choking her.

The schedules in the assignment of Jesse G. Jones, the veteran lumberman, of Indianapolis, show assets of $150,323.37; liabilities, $187,021.87. The heaviest creditors are the Security Bank of Boston, $61,500; Quincy A. Shaw, of Boston, $50,000; and Eliza A. Tolman, of Minneapolis.

NEWS OF OUR STATE.

A WEEK AMONG THE HUSTLING HOOSIERS.

What Our Neighbors Are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Pointers About Our Own People.

Minor State News.

ANDERSON milk men have formed a combine and advanced prices.

MILO THOMAS' hardware store at Corunna is in ashes. Loss, $15,000.

ED WYMAN'S little son was badly hurt in a runaway accident at Franklin.

Vincennes band has changed its name to the "Electric Street Railway Band."

NICKEL-PLATE passenger trains are frequently stoned in the vicinity of Edgerton.

QUINCY NEBRUNER and James Hoffman were killed by a boiler explosion at Warsaw.

AN unknown tramp was caught by a Vandalia train at Terre Haute and literally torn to pieces.

MRS. JOHANNA BUHGERT of Terre Haute, was fatally injured by stepping off an electric car while it was still in motion.

TEMPERANCE people of Elwood wish to prevent the saloon men from securing a renewal of license when their present license expire.

EVA BYERS walked from a Monon train in her sleep near Lowell. She fell under the wheels and her left leg was cut off. She will recover.

THERE will be two murder trials, one of which is the famous Dollie Belknap case, and also a county seat war at Seymour, the coming term of court.

JOHN B. SACRE, of Fayette county, is lying at the point of death from injuries sustained on a barbed wire fence while trying to check a runaway team.

THE Columbus Stove and Range Company has decided to locate at Cicero. The capital stock of the company is $25,000, and the plant will give employment to 150 men.

THE thirteenth annual reunion of the Seventy-fifth and One Hundred and First Indiana Regiments and the Nineteenth Indiana Battery occurs at Warren Oct. 2 and 4.

JAMES DEVAN, an old farmer of Montgomery County, who does not believe in banks, was knocked down and robbed of $129. Several months ago he was assaulted and robbed of $100.

A PARTY of six young men of Elwood, headed by Robert Frost, John Minor, and his brother Charles, are preparing to leave for South America to take charge of a mining and exploring party.

CHARLES ROACH, 22 years old, employed by his father, William Roach, near Huntingburg, while feeding stock, fell through a hole in the mow, striking on his head and dying of his injuries.

CHARLES MORRIS, aged 23, a member of a party of hunters from Wilkesville, Ohio, died at Crawfordsville from the effects of a gunshot which he received while engaged in a scuffle over a gun with a companion.

THE window-glass factories of Elwood, Orestes and Frankton, five in number, not included in the window-glass combine, are making arrangements to start up at full capacity. They will employ about 1,500 men.

AT Elwood Miss Lillie Douglass, frightened during a storm, attempted to shut a glass door. She ran her arm through the glass, severing the radial artery, two tendons and a nerve cord, and came near bleeding to death.

JOHN WRENICK of Morristown, while examining a shotgun, accidentally discharged the weapon, the load taking effect in his mother's heart, she standing quite close. Mrs. Wrenick was instantly killed. Her son has gone crazy.

THE Postal Telegraph Company has begun building its lines south from Terre Haute to Evansville and expects to be in operation by the middle of next month. The Long Distance Telephone Company has recently completed its line to the same city.

JACOB REICH and his two sons were gored to death by a vicious bull near Wilvale. Mr. Reich was first attacked and trampled to death. His sons went to his rescue and were also mangled. The younger son was impaled on the bull's horns.

THIEVES entered the room of Harry Mason, ticket agent of the Big Four railroad at Greensburg, secured a gold watch, $7 in money from his pockets, and the key to the safe in the railroad office, and then went to the depot, half a block away, entered the office through the ladies' reception-room, unlocked the safe and stole $87.

THE supreme court has declared the law passed by the last legislature changing the time of electing County Superintendents to be unconstitutional. Had the law not been knocked out, seventy-six Republican superintendents would have been elected Sept. 1, instead of Democrats, who now hold the offices for two years longer.

THE Chase memorial fund, of which Capt. A. M. Atkinson of Wabash, is trustee, has reached the two-thousand-dollar mark, and subscriptions are coming in. Capt. Atkinson states that Mrs. Chase has decided to remove from Irvington to Wabash to reside permanently, and a suitable dwelling will be erected or purchased this fall for her.

THE creeks of the northwestern part of Grant County are very generally said to have dried up, and parties from that locality state that much of the waste oil from the numerous wells in that part of the field has found its way to the creek beds and is flowing through them. Fears are felt by farmers along the creeks that the oil will ignite and do serious damage to property.

ENGINEER PATRICK SHEA and Fireman Charles Larimore, while their engine was pulling a heavy freight train near Monroeville, suddenly saw a red light loom up ahead. There was a fog, which prevented clear vision, and Shea shut off, and he and his fireman jumped. Both men were severely injured. The red light proved to belong to a train which they were slowly following.

THE anti-saloon element has been successful in remonstrating against the saloons in Bloomfield. A majority of petitioners have been secured and the saloons will have to go. The movement has also been successful in Jefferson, Grant, and Jackson Townships.

MRS. MARY RICHEY'S son and daughter, aged 2½ years, were drowned in a small stream three miles southwest of Scotsburg. The heavy rain caused the stream in that neighborhood to become swollen and the children wandered to the stream and are supposed to have been playing in the water and fallen in. Their bodies were recovered.

A LARGE barn, the properly of ex-Senator William Kennedy, who resides in Daviess County, some two miles west of Loogootee, was burned. Four valuable horses were burned. The barn was one of the finest in the county. It was filled with grain, hay, farming implements and Machinery. Loss, $3,500; insurance, $700. Origin of fire unknown, but supposed to have caught by spontaneous combustion from decomposing clover hay imperfectly cured.

E. M. SHORT, a prominent Grand Army man, met with a serious accident at the car works at Jeffersonville. A boring pin flew from a machine which he was running, striking him on the right arm, almost tearing the member from the body.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Lady Grahame had grown tired of coquetry, and every interview that she had with Mr. Fulton increased her liking and admiration for him. He had given a ball at his house under the management of Mrs. Henderson. It had been a complete success. The sumptuous rooms were all thrown open, gold and silver plate blazed upon the table, and on every side there were profuse indications of wealth. Lady Grahame noted with a keen eye the display of magnificence. Her house was furnished with taste and elegance, but such splendor as she saw here was not within her means. It would be very pleasant to preside as mistress in such an establishment.

The next time Paul Fulton called on the fair widow he was more warmly welcomed than usual; nor was he slow to understand the reason why, and he continued that morning, despite his bland, smiling face, to assume a most miserable expression.

"Do you not think, Lady Grahame," he said, "that you have tortured me quite long enough? You smile on every one. When will you smile upon me?"

"I am smiling now, Mr. Fulton," replied the widow, coquettishly; "ask Miss Lowe if I am ever seen without smiles."

"You know what I mean, Lady Grahame," he continued. "When will you say to me that my devotion and sincere love have touched you, and the prize I have hoped for so long is mine at last?"

Lady Grahame did not turn away this time; she had made up her mind to hear all her lover had to say.

"I will do my best to make you happy," continued Mr. Fulton, reading correctly the coy expression of the comely face. "I am wealthy, and able to gratify all your wishes. Tell me, Lady Grahame, are you willing to be my wife?"

The fair widow managed a most becoming blush as she implied, rather than said, she had no reason for deferring her consent. Mr. Fulton expressed a due amount of rapture and delight, and then began to plead for a speedy marriage.

"That does not quite rest with me," said Lady Grahame. "My late husband, Sir Wilton, foresaw that I should probably remarry, and expressed no wish to the contrary. But by his will, I must inform you, that I (as well as the money left me) remain under the care of two trustees. One is my uncle, Lord Hereby; the other a distant cousin, Mr. Beauchamp. All arrangements as to settlements must be made with them, and it is in their power to refuse consent. I am quite in their hands."

"There is no reason to fear any refusal or unpleasantness from them, I presume," said Mr. Fulton proudly. "I will make them offers of settlements that will meet with their approbation."

"Their consent or refusal is not really a matter of great moment," said Lady Grahame. "If for any reason they refuse, the worst they can do is to limit my income, and control, in some degree, my money; but I do not anticipate anything of the kind. My uncle, Lord Hereby, is very proud. He would, I think, be pleased at my marriage—provided the pedigree, and fortune of my husband met with his approval, as they would do in this case," she added, with a smile.

At the word "pedigree," a sudden fear chilled the bright hopes and fancies of Mr. Fulton. What if these tiresome old guardians or trustees should ask unpleasant questions about his family?—what was he to say? It would be easy to invent, but these inventions were never sure; at any time they might fail, and the lies they concealed stand out in all bare deceit. He could only hope and trust that, satisfied with his vast wealth and liberal offers, the fair widow's guardians would ask no tiresome questions.

So one morning he started for a private interview with the formidable trustees. Mr. Beauchamp, a nervous man, afraid of everything and everybody, said but little. He asked Mr. Fulton if he liked shooting, and if he had known Sir Wilton Grahame, two rather singular questions, considering the errand upon which he had come.

Lord Hereby was altogether of another cast. He was, perhaps, one of the proudest and haughtiest men living. Loving and admiring his own order, disliking and despising all those who did not belong to it, in his eyes nothing was worthy of honor or esteem save high birth and noble blood. Genius, talents, bravery were all nothing when compared to the glory of a long pedigree; wealth, money had little attraction for him. He was anxious to see his niece, Lady Grahame, married, provided she espoused a man of good birth and ample fortune.

When Mr. Fulton stood before the two guardians of his promised bride, he dismissed one from his mind, and gathered all his resources for a combat with the other. He approached Lord Hereby with that mixture of deference and admiration that he knew so well how to assume. Again he almost cursed the "accidents" of his life. If he could have appeared before Lord Hereby as the father of one of the most beautiful and noble women in England, the young Countess of Bayneham, all would have been clear sailing; as it was, the anxious lover fired his heaviest guns first. He declared the object of his visit, the deep admiration he felt for Lady Grahame, and the munificent settlements he offered her, and Lord Hereby listened to him with well-bred indifference.

"Lady Grahame is of an age to judge for herself what promises best for her own happiness," he said. "She was young when Sir Wilton died; that is why he left us as her guardians, charging us, in the event of her second marriage, to act for her and attend to her interest. Your offer of settlement is, I feel bound to say, a munificent one, and so far everything seems satisfactory, but my niece belongs, as perhaps you know, Mr. Fulton, to a very aristocratic family, and we should like, before making any final arrangements, a few particulars of your own."

Then Paul Fulton stood at last before the barrier of his own erection and knew not what to say.

"You do not doubt my claim to the title of gentleman, I presume?" he said, hastily.

"I neither doubt nor believe," replied Lord Hereby, with haughty indifference. "In the interest of my niece I merely ask for some particulars of your family."

Again Paul Fulton stopped, hesitating what to say.

"I know of no particulars, my lord, that could possibly interest you," he said; "my father was simply a quiet country gentleman, of no great fortune or standing. I was his only child, and went abroad in early youth to seek my fortune; I made it, and there my story ends."

"You have never been married before?" said Lord Hereby; "at least, I presume so?"

"No, never," was the quick, false reply.

"Have you no relations living?" continued Lord Hereby, his quick eye reading the confusion visible on the handsome, bland face before him.

"None," said Paul Fulton. "I am quite alone in the world."

"We need not prolong this interview," said Lord Hereby. "Mr. Beauchamp seldom expresses any opinion—I give you mine in a few words. I shall make no opposition to my niece's marriage with you; she can please herself; but I shall advise her against it. Pardon my plain speaking, but I do not consider the son of a simple country gentleman, of no great fortune or standing, by any means a desirable match for my niece; still, if she persists in wishing it, I shall make no opposition—she must not, in that case, look for my countenance. I shall decline any further interest in her affairs."

Paul Fulton trembled with indignation. He had to remember that the nobleman before him was old and feeble, so great was his impulse to strike him. He had expected a very different reception, armed with those magical settlements. This cool, aristocratic hauteur dismayed him. What was his money worth, after all? He dared not trust himself to speak; he left Lord Hereby's presence, chafing and foaming with rage.

As he mounted his horse there came to him the memory of a sweet young face, with trusting eyes—the memory of one who had loved him and believed him a king amongst men. He had not been scoffed and sneered at when he went wooing in Brynmar woods.

These thoughts did not calm him; he urged his horse on at full speed, using spur and whip. The mettlesome steed did not approve of such harsh measures. Many people turned to see who it was that rode so wildly with an angry face. One or two policemen began to be quite active; there was glory to be won, and cheaply, too. The rider, whoever he was, must be stopped and punished for endangering the safety of the public.

No one ever knew how it happened, but while the policemen consulted, and angry foot passengers turned to look after the foaming steed and its rider, in one moment the horse shied, then reared, and Paul Fulton was dashed to the ground. For several yards he was dragged along by the frightened, half-maddened animal; then arose from all lookers-on a terrible cry, and one or two brave men started off, and after some dangerous efforts succeeded in stopping the horse and rescuing his hapless rider. They thought he was dead when he was raised from the ground, for on the white face there was a deep, crimson stain, and a wide, gaping wound on the head—he had fallen on the curbstone.

In less than three minutes a large crowd had assembled. "A man killed!" "Fallen from his horse!" were the passwords. A doctor came up, and a policeman searched the unconscious man to discover who he was and where he lived. He found a card case, and gave it to the doctor.

"He had better be taken to his own house," said the latter, when he saw it. "I have heard of him, and know where he lives."

They carried him back to the house he had left that morning so full of life and hope; so full of ambitious designs and plans for his future life; strange hands carried him up the broad staircase, and laid him upon his bed; strange hands cut the thick, black hair where Magdalen's fingers had once lingered so lovingly; strange eyes dwelt upon his face, noting its changes. There was no one near who loved him; he was in the world alone.

The hopes, the sins, the schemes of that wasted life were all ended; the grand fiat had gone forth. He had won money, he was rich and popular; but the end was come, and he must die; a strange doctor, bending over him, saw there was no hope. He touched him gently, and asked him if he had any worldly affairs to settle.

The haggard eyes opened and glared wildly—so wildly that the doctor started, shocked and half frightened.

"Do you mean," said Paul Fulton, in a low, hoarse voice, "that I am to die?"

"Yes," said the doctor, gently; "it is better that you should know the truth. You will not see this sun set. Make your peace with God and man."

A moan of unutterable agony came from the white lips. What should he do?

He remembered his child. Poor Magdalen was dead; he had seen the green grave and the simple stone that bore no name. But his child lived, the child with her mother's face, and her mother's voice. Perhaps she knew the same gentle lessons that his wife had taught—would she come to him? It mattered little about keeping the secret now.

It flashed across him that he had seen Lord Bayneham in town—how long since?—only yesterday. He would send for him and ask if it were possible that he could see his wife. Science did wonderful things—surely it could give him a few hours.

"I want to see Lord Bayneham," he said, touching Dr. Arne's hand; "let him be sent for at once."

It was fortunate that the messenger found Lord Bayneham at home. He received the summons with wonder and surprise. Mr. Fulton dying—and sending for him! Like an electric shock the thought struck him it must be something about his lost wife.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Fast as it was possible to go, Lord Bayneham hastened to the dying man. He heard from the butler, when he stood in the hall, every particular of the accident—he saw real, unfeigned tears shining in the man's eyes.

Mr. Fulton was loved by his inferiors for his invariable kindness and good humor. Then he entered the luxurious chamber, where the master of the house lay, doomed and dying.

"Let him come near me," said Paul Fulton to Dr. Arne. "I have much to say to him."

The doctor rose from his seat, and made way for Lord Bayneham.

Claude was inexpressibly shocked. So lately he had seen Paul Fulton in the flush and pride of his manhood, his handsome face smiling and careless—could that pale, haggard man, with crimson-stained bandages upon his head, be the same who had saluted him so gayly a few hours ago? The wild eyes, full of terror, glared up at him.

"I am dying, they say," gasped the hoarse, low voice. "I never feared man, but I am afraid to die."

Lord Bayneham did not know what to say—a woman in his place would have uttered the exact words the dying man wanted to hear—something of mercy and pardon and hope. Lord Bayneham looked awkwardly around the room, and then murmured something about recovery.

"No," said Paul Fulton, sorrowfully. "Doctor Arne tells me I shall not see this sun set. Lord Bayneham, I want to speak to you about your wife."

The young earl started. In the shock of seeing that ghastly figure, he had forgotten for a moment that he expected to hear of his lost love.

"What of my wife?" he said, gently; for, even supposing that Paul Fulton had caused all the sorrow and suspense, it was not possible to maintain the faintest gleam of anger against the shattered, dying wreck before him. "What of my wife?" he asked again.

"I should like to see her," whispered Paul Fulton. "I am dying, they say, and this is my last prayer. Let me see your wife once; let my last look be upon her face."

"Do you know where she is?" asked Lord Bayneham.

"No," was the calm reply; "at Bayneham, I suppose. It is not too far, my lord. There will be time if you send at once."

Ah, then he knew nothing of her flight—their half suspicions had been wrong.

"Why do you wish to see my wife?" he asked; "trust me—tell me."

"I will," said Paul Fulton. "I do not know whether you have been told anything of your wife's history. I want to see her—oh, Lord Bayneham, I want to see her, because she is my only child."

"Your child!" cried Lord Bayneham, in unutterable wonder.

"Yes," said Paul, "my child. Her mother was the fairest and sweetest girl in all Scotland, and she was my wife. When I saw your wife, Lord Bayneham, I thought my own had returned to me again, young and lovely as I first knew her. She is my daughter. I was Lord Hutton's dearest friend; her mother was Lady Hutton's foster-sister; Lady Hutton adopted her when my wife joined me over the seas."

There was silence for some few moments, and a thousand thoughts flashed through Lord Bayneham's mind. This explained all that seemed so mysterious—the notes—ah, and perhaps the interview.

"Why was this kept a secret from me?" he said, sadly. "It has caused bitter sorrow."

Then the dying man told the whole story as he knew it.

"I cannot understand," said Lord Bayneham, gently, when the other had finished, "why you wished this to be kept a secret from me."

"I dreaded it being known," he replied. "As Stephen Hurst, I should have been despised and outlawed; as Paul Fulton, men have esteemed me. If I had claimed my child, I must have told who I was. She begged of me to tell you, but I would not."

"She is sacrificed to your pride," said Lord Bayneham. "Tell me, on the evening you were at Bayneham did you meet my wife and your daughter in the Lady's Walk? Did you talk to her there?"

"Yes," said Stephen Hurst, "I did so. I asked her to meet me there, and most unwillingly she complied."

"You gave two notes into her hand," continued Lord Bayneham, sadly.

"Yes," replied Stephen; "but how do you know, and why do you mention these things?"

"Because they have helped to destroy my wife," cried the young earl; "she has been sacrificed to your sins and your pride. She was asked to explain those notes and refused; she was asked why she was in the Lady's Walk—her bracelet was found there—she would not tell; there was some terrible mistake, and your daughter has left her home. I know not where she has gone; I cannot find her, and begin to despair of ever seeing her again. Oh, if you had but told me the truth!"

"Do not reproach me," said the dying man; "has not my sin found me out? I could have died more easily with my child's face near me. Through my own fault this one hope is lost to me—I shall never see her again."

He lay there murmuring to himself that his sin had found him out. From that moment, when he heard that his sin and pride had destroyed his child, he seemed to have no more hope. A blank, awful despair seized him; the expression of his face alarmed Lord Bayneham.

"Can nothing more be done?" he asked of Dr. Arne; "has he seen any one? Could not some one pray with him?"

"If he wishes it," said the doctor. "Lord Bayneham," he added, "I see many deathbeds, and the most wretched and dreary death is always that of the worldling, who has never thought of the time when he must die. Candidly speaking, my lord, nothing can be done for his body, and I fear but little for his mind."

* * * * * * *

We will draw a curtain over that deathbed; they who were present never forgot it. The awful scene ended at last, and the man who reaped as he had sown went to his judgment.

(To be continued.)

Don't Shorten Your Name.

There is a place in the scheme of creation for diminutives in names. That place is in the bosom of the family and among those who are almost as intimate with one as one's family. But it is not proper to take the public into one's confidence in regard to one's pet name, and until women realize this fact they will not have made that advance they are continually claiming.

"Ellen Brown" is a much more dignified person than "Nellie Brown." Those who know her well, of course, know that she is a dignified young woman, even when she signs her communications, "Your loving Nellie." But the cold, unfeeling world will not realize it. Could Mrs. Lease have become great if her name had been Mamie instead of Mary? Would Frances Willard have been at the head of the W. C. T. U. had she been known as Fannie? Fancy J. Ellen Foster posing as Nellie Foster, or Elizabeth Grannis wielding a wide influence as Lizzie Grannis.

But not only in the public world do diminutives unfit a woman for her work, but also in the semi-public life of private individuals. A private woman writing to a dressmaker or butcher should not call herself "Sallie" or "Carrie," but Sarah or Caroline. When a woman in private life writes for publication or acts as secretary for a club she should exercise the same reserve.

It is seldom that "lies" find fame and are long remembered. Helen of Troy was never Nellie to the public. Penelope never allowed anyone but Ulysses to call her Pen. Annie Hathaway was "Nan" to few people besides Master William Shakspeare. Queen Elizabeth could never have reigned successfully as Queen Lizzie, and Joan of Arc would never have been a great name in history had she allowed herself to be generally known as Jeannie.

The chief charm of Mary, Queen of Scots, was her voice. It was wonderfully sweet and attractive, and when she used it in her peculiar cooing, purring way, it was impossible for the ordinary man to resist its charm. She was an excellent musician, and her rendition of English and French ballads was said to be with remarkable grace of expression.

THE BANNOCK INDIANS

CHARACTER OF A FIERCE TRIBE OF RED MEN.

Not Numerous, but Cruel Fighters—Expert Horsemen—Are Given to Gambling—Wyoming's Game Laws Conflict with United States Treaty.

Bad Young Bucks.

The Indian disturbances now taking place in the West were stirred up by the Bannocks, a tribe living with the Shoshones on the Fort Hall reservation. There are about 500 of them and the tribe is decreasing every year. The Bannocks are finer people, physically, than the Shoshones. They are bigger, more lusty, and their veins run the blood of the hunter and the warrior. The Bannocks are wiry and muscular, tall and straight, warlike and untamed. The braves disdain manual labor of any kind. They look upon it as disgraceful, and carry their antipathy to toil further than the warriors of any other tribe except the Standing Rock Sioux. Schools and civilized pursuits are alike scorned by them. They consider themselves superior in every way to all other tribes and to white men.

BANNOCK BRAVE.

In warfare they are keen. Heartlessness and cruelty are their prime characteristics. To kill all aged persons who have become burdensome is a custom with these Indians. As hunters of big game the fame of the Bannocks is great; but even in their hunting the innate cruelty of the braves is shown. Instead of shooting their prey through the heart—taking the risk of missing their aim—the Bannock sends his bullet into the entrails of his quarry, and then lies in wait for another victim. The first is easily tracked by the trail it leaves, as staggering and suffering from its wound the animal blindly tries to escape.

The Bannocks are expert horsemen. They are allied by numerous intermarriages with the Shoshone Indians, and the braves are generally distinguished in this way: If the Indian is gaudily dressed, a hater of work and ready for trouble or to make trouble at any time, then he is a Bannock. If he is quiet, takes kindly to labor, and tries to dress and live like the whites, then he is a Shoshone. There is not much love lost between the two tribes. The Bannocks are ruled to a great extent by their "medicine men," whose words are law.

JIM BALLARD,
Chief of the Bannocks.

bands in treaty lay between the homes of the Wihinasht Shoshoni of Western Idaho and the Washaki Shoshoni of Western Wyoming. They were found in this region in 1859, and then claimed to have always lived there. These are the only Bannocks now known. The second band found in 1853 lived somewhat further north. They have either perished or become incorporated with the remnant of the first tribe.

The recent trouble, concerning which highly sensational and positively untrue reports were sent broadcast throughout the country, was because of the recently enacted game laws of Wyoming. In 1868 the United States entered into a treaty with the Bannock Indians, according the latter the privilege of hunting anywhere on unsettled lands. Recently, however, Wyoming enacted restrictive game laws that conflicted with the Bannock treaty, and the reds considered their rights usurped. They declared that the treaty with the United States was superior to the laws of the State of Wyoming, and they kept on hunting and slaughtering game as had been the custom from time immemorial. The authorities of Wyoming caused the arrest of a number of the redskins, but these escaped. More arrests followed, and when these prisoners attempted to escape, they were shot. This incensed the Bannocks, and the imaginative correspondents had it that they arose in open rebellion, which culminated in their taking to the mountains where they could better defend themselves against the attacks of the whites. Conservative men declare that the Bannocks have just cause for provocation because of the enforcement of the Wyoming law that takes from them the rights granted by the treaty of 1868.

A BANNOCK BAND ON THE WARPATH. (New York World.)

About two years ago the government gave the Bannocks and Shoshones 200 cattle. The Bannocks promptly killed and ate their share in the first winter. The Shoshones kept the greater part of their gift and they now have some 400 head.

The young Bannock "bloods" are born gamblers and thieves. They are ever ready to kill any white man who opposes them in their predatory habits, and when intoxicated, which is often, make great threats of going on the warpath.

In short, it can be said that the Bannocks are bad Indians, and even their physical bravery cannot redeem their faults. They are loose in morals and unscrupulous. Efforts have been made to get them to attend the schools at the different stations, and while they did, all that they learned was soon forgotten, and the Bannocks, braves and squaws, soon relapsed into their born state of savagery, with thoughts of nothing but the gratification of their appetites.

There appear to have been originally two geographically distinct bands or divisions of the Bannocks, and to this fact, which has not been understood generally, is due much of the confusion that has existed regarding them. The main home of the Bannocks appears to have been in Southeastern Idaho, whence they ranged into Western Wyoming. The country actually claimed by the chief of the Southern of upland and seven acres of oyster creeks. The property is situated about a mile and a half from Point Lookout, and has a frontage of about three and a half miles on the Potomac River. In one of the creeks, especially, known as Potter's creek, it is said, as fine oysters as any in the world can be grown. Mr. Ackerly has taken a great interest in the artificial cultivation of oysters. He has been quietly experimenting with a view to determining the value of these oyster lands, if properly cultivated.

On the property is a large fresh-water pond, which has been connected with the creek by a canal, so that the pond may be made salt, for the cultivation of diamond-back terrapin, which, when complete, good judges think will be about the best and largest of its kind in the country.—Baltimore American.

Big Fruit Farm in Georgia.

On the Rumph orchards, between Marshallville and Fort Valley are 1,000,000 peach trees and 20,000 pear trees. These orchards, during the good fruit seasons, have been marvelously profitable. One peach crop sold for $52,000 and another for $64,000. Mr. Rumph has also the largest plum orchard in the world. There are 15,000 Japanese plum trees on the place, and in the nursery near by 200,000 seedlings, worth $15,000. There are also 30,000 raspberry bushes in cultivation.

Unbridled passion sometimes leads to the halter.

Terrapin Farming.

A deed of Cornfield Harbor, one of the best known estates of Southern Maryland, owned by Col. S. I. Wailes, from Mrs. M. E. Davison to N. S. Ackerly, of Long Island, has been filed for record in the office of the Clerk of Land Records of St. Mary's County. This property consists of about forty acres

A BANNOCK FAMILY GROUP.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

A DEPARTMENT FOR LITTLE BOYS AND GIRLS.

Something that Will Interest the Juvenile Members of Every Household—Quaint Actions and Bright Sayings of Many Cute and Cunning Children.

The Lost Voice.

"Oh, my!" exclaimed the Ricadoo, a-sitting by the shore,
"Oh, woe is me, I ne'er can be, a singer any more
For lately in a solo I tried a note so high
My voice it got away from me and flew up in the sky.

If I just had that voice again how happy I would be,
But now I ne'er can sing again, Oh, deary, deary, me!"

He Knew Why.

"Our first impressions most readily slip our memories," said the teacher.

"Oh, I know why!" shouted Johnny.

"Well, why?"

"Our first impressions are slippers."

Her Encore.

A little girl we know does not understand encores, and so found fault with the audience at a recent children's concert, in which she helped to sing a chorus. "I know we didn't make one mistake," she exclaimed, on her way home, "and yet they made us come out and sing it over again!"—London Tit-Bits.

Wouldn't Use False Keys.

The notion that alcohol may do good because, for a moment, it seems to do good, was well answered by a physician's response to a man who was somewhat too much given to the pleasures of the table. This man had said to the doctor:

"What do you think of the influence of alcohol on the digestion, doctor?"

"I think that its influence is bad," said the physician.

"But a little whisky taken just before a meal is the only key that will open my apetite, doctor."

"I don't believe in opening things with false keys, sir!" answered the other.

This response was particularly applicable, for a falsely stimulated appetite is a sure prelude to indigestion.

Treasure Is a Wonder.

There is a little girl living with her parents in Newport, Ky., who is a musical prodigy.

She is but five years old, and can play in good time and with technical accuracy several compositions more than ordinarily difficult

She has not only developed this aptitude for the piano, but has a wondrously accurate ear. She can tell the key at once in which she hears some one else play, and already transposes from one key to another with the familiarity of a professional.

The name of this girl is "Treasure" Ballentyne, and she is not only precocious in music, but very bright in other respects.

"Treasure" is like a little doll, she is so much petted, and often she is the central figure of attraction in drawing-room parties.

She takes all the attentions given her with becoming modesty and never refuses to play unless asked by big, naughty boys' who, she thinks, want to tease her, says the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Her parents are going to do all they can to place in the hands of their "treasure" the best opportunity and means of a thorough musical education.

Wanted Him to Jump.

"The West Philadelphia Philanthropist" is the name given a courtly and dignified gentleman whose benevolent air, high silk hat and leisurely gait would indicate, what is indeed the fact, that he has retired from active life and spends most of his time in helping the poor.

He was proceeding up a narrow alley not long since and stopped to observe with his beneficent smile the friskings of a crowd of little girls who were jumping the rope while two of them "turned." After they had gone through all the varieties of "pepper and salt," "back door and front door," "guinea pigeon" and the rest, the philanthropist, dropping in a "well done" now and then, became anxious to go on and requested the children in rotund tones to allow him to pass. His fact was a study when the young ones turned all the faster, and one called out: "Jump, mister, jump! It'll do you good!"—Philadelphia Press.

ASKED HIM TO JUMP.

The Laziest.

A most curious and sluggish creature is the tauawa, a nine-inch lizard, whose home is in New Zealand. This little imitation saurian has the reputation of being the laziest creature ever created. He is usually found clinging to rocks or logs along the shores of rivers and lakes, and has been known to remain in one position, perfectly motionless, for many months.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN
Ajax Tablets
have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 80 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
No. 710½ $35.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO., W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US
FOR JOB PRINTING!

NEW GOODS
RE ARRIVING

OUR STOCK IS NOW

-Complete-

CLOTHING, SHOES,
HATS and
FURNISHING GOODS

PRICES
LOWER THAN EVER AT THE

GLOBE

CLOTHING & SHOE CO.,

Gandy Block, North of Square,
AUBURN, IND.

C!osing Out!

TAN SHOES AND SLIPPERS

JUST LOOK AT THE PRICES.

One lot Ladies' and Misses' Oxfords, mostly small worth $1 to $1 75, for	50c
25 prs. Ladies' & Misses' Tan Oxfords, worth $1.25,	$ .90
Ladies' " " " 2.00,	1.40
" " " " 2.50,	1.75

MEN' TAN SHOES:

One lot Men's Tan Shoes worth $2.00 for	$1.50
" " " " " 2.50 for	1.75
" " " " " 4.00 fo	2.50
" " " Black Shoes, worth 3.00 to 4.00 for	2.00

These are all desirable goods and worth the marked price, but are broken lots and must go to make room for fall stock that is beginning to arrive.

Shull's Cash Shoe Store. AUBURN.

WARM AIR GENERATOR.

HOT WATER ATTACHMENT FOR BATH ROOMS.

POSITIVE CIRCULATION OF HOT AIR TO DISTANT ROOMS.

Construction, Operation and Results essentially different from the Solid Fire Pot Furnace.

Write for Catalogue.

J. BEURET,
AUBURN, IND.

Buy Your.....
TABLETS, SLATE PENCILS.
.....And all.....
School Suppiies
.....at.....
OLDS BROS.

The Hicksville Fair will be held next week, Sept. 10, 11, 12, 13. The Fair Society are offering greater inducements than ever before and promise the finest exhibit on record.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,....SEPTEMBER 5, 1895.

FOOLISHNESS.

We speak of the action of the new board of trustees yesterday in going through the farce of electing a county superintendent. It was foolish, to call it by no harsher term. There was not a man but knew that only last Friday the supreme court of the state decided that there was no law for the election of county superintendent on the first Monday in September, but that the only time to elect that officer was the first Monday in June. Yet in the face of all this knowledge, they deliberately got together last evening as darkness settled over Auburn and DeKalb county, and solemnly went through the farce of electing a county superintendent. They chose Mr. Coe, formerly of the school here, but now of Butler. We are surprised that he would lend himself to such a scheme. We are surprised that a body of men sufficiently prominent to be elected trustees, should be led into so foolish a performance. Yet it was done. The trustees and Mr. Coe came here yesterday and remained all day without action. They learned that the decision was against them. Yet after waiting through the day, they got together about six o'clock, called in Deputy Auditor Dills, and went through the form of electing a man to an office already filled. It is but justice to say that only eight of the fourteen indulged in this harmless but foolish pastime.

A Tip Over.

James Dancer in Jackson indulged in a runaway or rather a tip over, on Sunday. Himself and two others were driving a little faster than schedule time—to get around somebody, we suppose, when the vehicle ran into a ditch at the wayside. The occupants were thrown out and perhaps would not have been hurt but the horse in some way in the mix up, it is supposed stepped onto Dancer's head. It was hard to tell just how it did happen but Dr. Hines had to weld it up with about seven stitches. He carries a badly bruised head, but is otherwise all right.

VISITED THE OLD HOME.

Mr. E. E Ensley wife and four children have been spending a week with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ensley in the country, also with a sister at Garrett and relatives here. Sunday there gathered at the farm home, Morris Dirrim and wife and Arthur, Mr. Cliff Walter, wife and daughter: Emment Ensley, wife and son, of Pleasant Lake, being absent. Dinner was served as in "ye olden times," chicken, pumpkin pie and many other dainties. They left Wednesday morning for Leipsic, Ohio, where they will visit Mrs. E's. parents and see the street fair at that place. They then return to their home at Broughton, Ohio.

ASHLEY.

School will begin Monday, September 7th.

Rev. Charles Scoville is holding a series of meetings for the Disciple people here. The meeting promises to be one of great success. Several additions have already been made to the church.

The Tri-State pants factory of this place is doing a rushing business. W. W. Wyrick is owner and proprietor.

Rev. Cole, of the Disciple church, at Angola, filled the Disciple pulpit in this place last Sunday, owing to an accident which happened to Prof. Fairfield, who is the regular minister for that church here.

Owing to the death of a friend, Miss Fay, teacher of one of the departments in our schools has resigned. Her place has been filled by Miss Pearl Huyck, who comes well recommended. The board chose wisely in selecting Miss Huyck.

ADDITIONAL NAMES.

The following are names of teachers in attendance at the institute, that were not published with the original list.

Frankie Allen, Auburn.
G. P. Thielen, Garrett.
T. J. Baxter, Summit.
Alda Bemenderfer, Waterloo.
Bertha Beard, Waterloo.
H. E. Coe, Butler.
Ada Chew, Garrett.
J. D. Craun, Butler.
Mattie Dick, Altona.
Lida Ettinger, Waterloo.
B. B. Harrison, Auburn.
Bertha Knott, Waterloo.
Clara Kinney, Butler.
John F. Moudy. Moore.
Mary Murray, Spencerville.
Eva Nicholls, Newville.
L. E. VanDoren, Auburn.
Letitia Potter, Butler.
Clara Snyder, Waterloo,
A. E. Shilling, Concord.
Polly Sebert, Sedan,
M. Belle Till, Waterloo,
Harrie Franks, Corunna.
Lucy Hatch, Butler.
Zella Cox, Ashley.
Mary Pepple, New Era.
Lottie Brundage, Butler.

G. A. R. Encampment at Louisville, September 8th to 11th inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell low rate Excursion tickets to Louisville, Ky., on account of the G. A. R. encampment, Tickets will be good for return until October 5th, 1895.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL.

There will be a sale of the personal property of the late Albert Spurgeon at the residence in Butler township on mile south of Garrett Sept. 19. There is a large amount to be sold, including horses, hay, agricultural machinery, etc. Remember the date. 36 37

The one price system means "fair dealing." The store that has but one price never swindles you. The store that has two or three prices for the same article is always trying to swindle you. The system itself is a swindle, and the customer that encourages it, has no reason to complain if she gets swindled. The Foster furniture & Carpet Co., at Ft Wayne, has but one price, but that price is always below its competitors. You may not know exactly what an article is worth, but you are sure not to pay too much for it, when bought of that well known house.

TO CHATTANOOGA

Over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Rail way September 16th to 19th. Very low rates. For desired information write A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O., or apply to agents.

DO YOU WANT SUMMER BOARDERS?

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. has in course of preparation for the season of 1896 a book of information for people desiring to learn of places at which to pass their summer vacation. This information is wanted both for hotels and boarding houses at summer resorts as well for farm houses wishing summer boarders. Send your name and address to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A. Cleveland, O., for a blank to be filled out oook. 33 36

SOUTHERN EXCURSIONS

over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway September 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19. Extremely low rates. Excursions include Louisville, Knoxville, and Chattanooga. Apply to ticket agents for particulars.

HICKSVILLE FAIR.

One of the drawing cards at the Hicksville Fair next week, will be base ball on Thursday and Friday, between the negro base ball club of Adrian, Mich., known as the Page Fence Giants, and the Lima's of Ohio. These will be the only two league games ever played in this part of the country. No base ballist can afford to miss seeing these games. Game called at 10 a. m.

LOW RATES TO KNOXVILLE, TENN.

September 13th to 16th, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets to Knoxville and return, account Battlefield Encampment Sons of Veterans, at one cent per mile each way for the round trip, good to return until October 5, 1895.

G. A. R. National Encampment.

For this occasion the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets to Louisville and return at one cent per mile each way for the round trip, September 8th to 11th inclusive, good to return until October 5.

CHICKAMAUGA MILITARY PARK.

For the dedication of this park tickets to Chattanooga and return will be sold by agents of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway September 16th to 19th, at one cent per mile each way for the round trip, good to return until October 5, 1895.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

What Ails You?

If you have sudden darting pains in the joints or muscles, and it recurs every time you get cold, and appears in new places without leaving any of old ones, the best thing to do is to send five dollars to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, for a month's treatment of Dr Drummond's Lightning Remedy for Rheumatism. They will send you two large bottles of their remedy by return express. If you have the above symptoms you have the Rheumatism, and should begin at once with the known cure. Delay with any disease is dangerous—with Rheumatism it is simply suicidal. Agents wanted. 34 35

ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS,

Are positively cured by

TRADE BOOTH'S HYOMEI MARK
"DRI-AYR"

326 West 33rd St. New York, July 22, 1895.

Dear Mr. Booth:

Mrs Stryker and I use the little Pocket Inhaler daily, and we regard it as a splendid companion. One of us has suffered many years with asthma, and the other from difficulty in breathing. After using Hyomei for nearly a month, we both find ourselves greatly relieved, and we are recommending the remedy to our friends.

REV. DR. PETER STRYKER
Pastor 34thSt. Reformed Church

THE AUSTRALIAN DRY-AIR CURE FOR HAY FEVER, BRONCHITIS, DIPTHERIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA. ETC.

The air, thoroughly charged with Hyomei is inhaled through the Pocket Inhaler at the mouth, and, after permeating the minutest air cells, is slowly exhaled through the nose. It is aromatic, delightful to inhale, inexpensive, and gives immediate relief. It stops all spasmodic coughing instantly, clears the voice, expands the lungs and increases the breathing capacity.

For sale by all first-class druggists, or POCKET INHALER OUTFIT COMPLETE, BY MAIL, $1 00,

With full directions for use. If you are still skeptical, send me your address, and my pamphlet shall prove that HYOMEI does cure Are you open to conviction?

B. D. ANGELL, No. 11 Arcade,
Ft, Wayne, Ind.
Gen. Agent for Northern Indiana.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

Pop! Bang!

THE PISTOL CRACKS FOR THE SECOND CENTURY RUN.

TWENTY-TWO "rough riders' of the modern cavalry at 5 41 a. m. started west from the COURIER corner like winged carrier pigeons, and were soon "out of sight" in the level lands of Keyser township. At four o'clock they and many interested spectators had been at the Hollister House headquarters getting ready and talking over the event. A little after five they came trooping into the COURIER office and registered, the member's names and address being as follows:

32. Ray Woodhull, Angola, Ind.
44. W. S. McCombs, Auburn, Ind.
97. Chas F. Kinney, Angola, Ind.
54. Bert W. Beidler, Auburn, Ind.
90. Edward Banta, Kendallville, Ind.
94. W. L. Stover, South Bend, Ind.
71. Edd A. Baker, Auburn, Ind.
28. Alvin Goodwin, Pleasant Lake.
33. Chas Spake, Auburn, Ind.
55. R. W. Cobb, " "
88, Howard Long, Angola, Ind.
84. J. C. Robinson, " "
23. Lin Thomas, Auburn, Ind.
83. A. B. Steele, " "
56. W. Champion " "
77. Arthur Kimmel, Hudson, Ind.
82. E. P. Reffner, Auburn, Ind.
87. N. E. Kimmel, Kendallville, Ind.
41. Harry C. Trentman, Auburn, Ind.
21. Walla Tatham, Waterloo, Ind.
43. O. C. Wiant, Avilla, Ind.
75. C. W. Heitz, Cedar Creek, Ind.

They lined up for the start, the first line extending from the COURIER corner to the Farmers Bank with the second line about twenty feet in the rear. J. C. Lochner and Will Franks, were timers. When everything seemed ready, Franks called three times, "Are all ready," and then as he fired a pistol both lines started. It seemed but a few minuts, when the first riders were seen coming back on West Seventh street. Howard Long, of Angola, and Alvin Goodwin of Pleasant Lake were the first ones back, having made the 9 miles out and 9 back in 1 hour and 13 minutes. The rest kept dropping in at intervals of a few minutes and after a rest of 10 minutes they would start south, each one going when his ten minutes had expired.

THINGS like this are liable to happen on a rapid run like this. Phil Gibson varied it a little by colliding with a cow out west of town. He was not regularly in the century run but went to Avilla and back just for fun. He came in all right, but we have not heard from the cow.

Clapp, the photographer took an excellent picture of the riders as they started. It will be an interesting sonvenir of the meet.

RETURNING.

The returns were Made as follows:

W. L. Stover. Alvin Goodwin and Howard Long came in together with but a few inches difference, at 1:37 p. m., making the 100-mile run in 7 hours and 46 minutes, beating Cohagen's time of last year, by half a minute.

Linn Thomas came next at 1:49, time 8 08, though as we go to press it is being said that he came direct home from Maysville.

E. P. Reffner came at 1:58, time 8 17.

Ray Woodhull, 2:05, time 8 24.

Evererard Banta, 2:38, time 8-57.

E. A. Warner, of Swan, came next, but had to go to Avilla to complete the century.

Then came Chas, F. Kinney, at 3:09 time 9 28.

Walla Tatham, 4:23, time, 10:42.

Bert Beidler, 4:31, time, 10:50

Art Steele, 4:31, time 10:50.

Distance 103 miles.

TUESDAY.

We closed yesterday with the arrival of Art Steel. The three who started from Avilla reached that place. Warner at 3:30, Heitz and Wiant at 5:50, but our correspondent there, S. K. Randall failed to state their starting time. Spake, Trentman, Champion, Arthur Kimmell and Edda Baker reached here at 5:27. Baker was taken sick at Ft. Wayne and did not go to Maysville, but wheeled home. The time of the others was 11-46. N. E. Kimmell reached here at 6:10, time 12 29. R. W. Cobb came in at 6:40, time 12 59. McComb got in at 7:55, time 14 14. All except Thomas and Baker made the 100 miles in less than the 16 hours required. McComb was late, as he had an attack of heart disease at Ft. Wayne, but against the advice of a physican, came home alone, and most of the way in darkness. Goodwin punctured a tire here and lost 20 minutes and at Ft. Wayne had another puncture. Thomas had several accidents also.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

WE HAVE A....

NOOSE FOR YOUR NECK,

That you can Consider a ..... Privilege to wear

Our show window gives you a few samples of them

Neckwear

That cannot be discounted.

Four-in-Hands, Teck, Strings & Bows

At prices that make them within your reach

Patterns that are Up to Date.

Come and look at our fall line of ties

Fall Hats!

We have a

Harvest of Bargains

For You this Fall

G. H. Yesbera,

The Up-to-Date Neckwear Outfitter.

Smoke THE

"DINGER!"

E. M. BISHOP,
AUBURN.

Notice to Non Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895. Charles A. Sherlock, Lizzie J. Sherlock, Henry Sherlock Mary A Sherlock, Arilla Buss and Samuel Buss, non-residents of the state of Indiana, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court to foreclose mortgage by Lafayette J. Miller, Administrator of the estate of Hannah Sherlock, deceased, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 21st day of October, 1895, being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7th, 1895.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 28th day of August, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

BAXTER & Brown, Attorneys.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In DeKalb Circuit Court, October term. 1895 Mary E. Eastman is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court by Robert D. Hibbard, to enforce a lien upon lot numbered eighteen in Block seventeen in the Original plat of the town (now city) of Garrett. in DeKalb Co., state of Indiana, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 21st day of October 1895 being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said Court.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 27th day of August 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

Hartman & Hartman, Attorneys.

DR. W. W. CAREY,
AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Can be found in office both Day and Night.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,
PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON
CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph
Calls promptly answered at all times.

First National Bank
AUBURN, INDIANA
Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, on time deposits County and town orders bought. Money to loan.

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

Executor's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, executor of the will of Sophia L. Baird, deceased, will sell at public auction at the late residence of said decedent, corner of 12th and Jackson Sts., near the Presbyterian church, in Auburn, in DeKalb County and State of Indiana, on

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1895,

The personal property of the decedent consisting of household goods and other articles, Sale to Commence at 10 o'clock a. m.

TERMS:—All sums of less than $5.00 cash. On sums of $5.00 and over a credit of three months will be given, purchaser giving note with security to approval executor.

WM. H. LEAS, Executor,

CASH PAID FOR
SCRAP CAST IRON
AT THE
AUBURN FOUNDRY.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana, at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock,--
--$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit court, of the State of Indiana, Executor of the estate of Sophia L. Baird, deceased, late of said county

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

WM. H. LEAS, Executor.

August 19, 1895.

Notice of Administration.

NOTICE is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the clerk of the DeKalb Circuit court of the state of Indiana, Administrator of the estate of Albert Spurgin deceased late of faid county

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JOHN L. WILDERSON,
August 19, 1895. Administrator.
HARTMAN, Att'y for Estate.

Notice to Non-Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb county, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Hulbert L. Sheets impleaded with another is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, on note and in attachment by William Huffman and that the same will be heard and determined on the 14th day of October 1895 being the 7th juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7, 1895.

Witness, the clerk of said court this 21st day of August 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

D. Y. Husselman, Att'y. 34 36

TRUSTEE'S REPORT.

Financial statement of receipts, and expenditures and balances on hand of the several funds of Fairfield township, as shown by settlement with the commissioners by ex-trustee, R. H. Sherlock, Aug. 5, 1895.

TOWNSHIP FUND.

On hand Aug. 1 1894	$ 790 21
Received during year	620 61
Expended	759 45
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	651 37

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.

On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$ 726 99
Received during year	344 23
Expended	579 06
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1865	492 16

TUITION.

On hand Aug 1, 1894	$1715 67
Received during year	2585 08
Expended	3027 10
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	1273 65

ROAD FUND.

On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$ 25 94
Received during year	37 37
Expended	41 78
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	21 53

DOG FUND.

On hand Aug. 6, 1894	$244 37
Received during year	119 00
Expended	322 37
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895	41 00

BRIDGE FUND.

On hand Aug. 1, 1894	$ 573 88
Received during year	397 28
Expended	664 62
Balance on hand Aug 5, 1895	306 54

Be an Early Bird!

Have you made up your list of articles necessary to make your Winter's Work pleasurable and comfortable.

DO NOT FORGET

that Bishop & Lackey have largely exceeded all previous efforts in merchandising in DeKalb County.

BETTER DRESS GOODS.

Pick up any one of the half hundred styles shown here and you will find a texture, dye and finish that are vastly ahead of the ordinary article. Careful buying does it for you, for us, and the prices are on a low level.

UNDERWEAR.

Low prices because bought cheap. We let the manufacturer overstock—it would be bad merchandising for us to do so. Over 6,000 pieces of knit Underwear in our store now. These are fresh from the manufacturer and ⅓ underpriced.

HOSIERY.

All grades suitable for the fall and winter season in all wool wool-mixed, fleece-lined and cotton goods for men, women and children. 400 Doz. now under our roof, bought before the advance.

FURS AND CLOAKS.

We are showing a very large line of stylish Fur Garments, prices could not be duplicated if we bought them.

COTTONS ARE UP

everywhere but here. We laid in a stock when they were cheap and now you can buy a fall supply and save something.

BLANKETS

in August seem rather out of season. We have almost Five Hundred that we bought this year, before the advance in prices. As an inducement for you to buy now, we make prices less than later on.

WE HAVE

the finest show rooms in DeKalb County, also some of the most courteous salespeople, and what will interest you more—sharp buyers say our prices are right. You are free to come and look; we won't press you to buy.

Bishop & Lackey,

LEADING MERCHANTS.

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sextual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood, Excessive Use of Opium and Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $6.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

Have you seen

THE - LATTEST

Thing in

Photos

and

Frames

J. G. CLAPP

WIDE AWAKE

PHOTOGRAPH'R

Has the lattest styles out.

Stop and see them. Auburn.

WALTER C. HARTMAN.

REAL ESTATE.
FIRE INSURANCE AND LOANS.

Notes, Judgments and Liens

Bought and Sold.

Mortgaged Property Bought and Indebtedness Assumed.

Agency for Nine Old Line Fire Insurance Companies.

For Sale and Rent:

Dwelling Property and Town Lots for Sale. $75 to $2,500.

ONE GOOD HOUSE TO RENT.

GOOD FARM FOR SALE.

One mile and a half south of Auburn, the old A. D. Goetschius farm of 110 acres, in good condition. Good brick house and other good buildings. For terms inquire at the farm.

A. D. GOETSCHIUS jr.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

POWDERED AND PERFUMED

(PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleaning waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.

PENNA. SALT MF'G CO.

Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

Used for Years.

John G. Mauger, editor of the Sunbeam, Seligman, Mo., who named Grover Cleveland for the Presidency in Nov. 1882, while he was mayor of Buffalo, N. Y, is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says; "I have used it for the past five years and consider it the best preparation of the kind in the market. It is as staple as sugar and coffee in this section. It is an article of merit and should be used in every household For sale by Robbins and McCord, druggists. 36-9

For Sprains and Bruises.

Irvin W. Larimore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 36 39

Sleepless Nights.

Who, but those who have had the unhappy experience, can tell the horrors or appreciate the unhappy exprience of persons troubled with sleeplessness? The damnable hatred of all the demons in hell for mankind must surely be appeased by the consciousness of such human suffering. The long, dreary, unhappy hours, who can describe them and why is it necessary? If you have ever been troubled you know what they are, and if you have been spared you have no interest in the knowledge of such suffering.

Mrs. A. Bateham, Romulus, Mich., after describing her suffering from sleeplessness extending over a period of eight years, reciving at times only about twelve hours' sleep in a week, writes of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer as follows: "I began taking it in common doses and the first night I slept eight hours and had a nap the next day. Every night since I have slept eight or ten hours. Oh, how thankful I am for having had Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer brought to my notice and for the benefit received from it. Stop and think eight years of sleeplessness, and cured in a day, does it not seem like a miracle?" This medicine is equally as effective in curing nervous prostration, spasms, fits, sleeplessness, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency, sexual and general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport, druggist. 36 39.

Wednesday's Daily.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

The Rose family reunion was held at Vermillion, Ohio, to-day. James E. Rose of this place was not able to attend but his two daughters Mae and Inez were present.

It is W. H. Palmer who has charge of Evergreen cemetery and not J. R Palmer as we had it in a recent article. We know both boys well, but then everybody is liable to get rattled now and then.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

Henry Cobler was up before his honor, Squire Walter yesterday on charge of wife desertion. The penalty for this is a fine of $10 to $100. It will be remembered that Cobler was sued by a Miss Steffin last winter for bastardy, but he married her to escape trouble. They have not lived happily and he recently abandoned her without means. Hence this case brought by the wife. In default of bail he goes to board with Sheriff Stroh for —— we do not know how long.

Word reached here last night that a boy had been run over by a water-wagon at Garrett at about 4 p. m. yesterday. Frank Stoops who was threshing at the Sheets farm between Auburn and Garrett was in the latter town after a tank of water for the engine. Several small boys jumped on the wagon to ride and in some manner one of them fell, both wheels running over him. Some parties who saw the accident say the boy cannot live. But Mr. Stoops thinks he is seriously hurt but does not believe he will die. It was however, a very painful accident. We were unable to learn the boy's name, as Mr. Stoops did not know him.

Thursday's Daily:

Miss Frances Bair of Fairfield Center is the guest of Miss Maud Trover.

Misses Alma and Ida Husselman are stopping at Geo. Husselman's at the north end.

Mrs. M. E. Olds came up to-day and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. Zimmerman She will also attend the Nourse lecture to night.

Judge McClellan heard Kossuth speak at one of the great meetings that greeted the eminent foreigner when he was in the United States.

Mrs J. N. Boyle and daughter and Mrs. Mell Wilkinson and children of Butler, drove over yesterday and were the guests of Mrs. Silver.

Mrs. John Harkey, of Hicksville, O., arrived to day, and was the guest a few hours of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bartels. Mrs. Harkey will visit her parents in Jackson township several weeks.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic. DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

Some of the older teachers will remember the "Institute Daily" of several years ago. C. P. Houser and the editor of this paper undertook to run a daily "for that week only." We were ably assisted by O. Z. Hubbell then of Butler. We worked each night till midnight, and on Saturday footed up the loss, a little over $9 each. This year we have a daily already running which helps greatly to lessen the chance of loss.

Frank Stamets of Stamets Addition of the town of Auburn, and Miss Georgia DeMaranville of near St. Joe are to be married at the home of the bride's parents to-night. Cards have been out announcing the wedding for several days. The COURIER joins with their many friends in congratulations.

Miss Maud Culbertson of St. Joe was in town a few hours this morning. She was on her way to Argos, Ind. where she will enter the W. C. T. U. Demoreat contest for the great gold medal. She has already worn the silver and gold medals and now will try for the great gold medal.

DOUBLE QUARTETTE AT THE PORTER RESIDENCE.

This double quartette is a jovial set.
When meal time comes they never fret.
One is a Bryant a poet of fame;
Another is Smith, not an uncommon name.
While Barnes, a historical name appeared,
We have another by the name of Beard.
And then there's McCurdy, a Troy teacher,
And also Hamman, the Franklin preacher.
And Arthur, who once this nation did rule,
And Firestone a graduate of the T. N. S school
When the singing was nice as nice can be,
The dear little dickie birds carolled with glee.
But when the heavier music rolled out from thence.
The tree toads blushed and got off the fence.

We ask the attention of thoughtful parents to the catalogue of the Fayette Normal University' Fayette, O. If you have boys or girls interested in any one of its twelve different departments, we feel sure of our ability to aid them in planning and starting a noble useful life.

When people are obliged to take medicine they want that it shall give quick relief and not add discomfort to their sufferings. Three reasons why people who suffer with Constipation and Biliousness should take Simmons Liver Regulator; 'It is Better than Pills, it does not grige; it gives quick relief, and does not weaken but strengthens and refreshes the whole system."—J. R. Hiland, Monroe, Ia.

Boss Quay is boss in Pennsylvania again having been made chairman of the republican state central committee. As he is an enemy to Harrison, many politicians believe his success means the retirement of the ex-president from politics.

Low Rates to Louisville and Return over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railway September 8th to 11th, tickets good returning until October 5th,

Friday's Daily.

This week the Hicksville News entered upon its 22nd year.

Mrs. Marion Franks came down today from Corunna and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Olds.

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

Wash Askew is talking of putting electric lights in his bus. It is said he has gone so far as to have a man figure on the cost of the new lighting process. Good for Wash.

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills. DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation

J. G. Clapp, the photographer, arranged to take a picture of the teachers in a group in front of the church yesterday afternoon, The negative was taken, but proved a failure, as the day was very dark.

St. Joe News:—The Dispatch has just found out that there is a new postoffice in the eastern part of the county named Scio, notwithstanding the fact that people have been getting their mail there for nearly two years.

Dr. Eli Sturgeon and wife, of Salem Ohio, are visiting the family of Judge McClellan. He is a retired physician, who having accumulated a satisfactory amount of this world's goods, is enjoying a well earned rest. They are relatives of the Judge.

Picker & Bumpus, the old reliable brick mason contractors, left this morning for Corunna. They have the contract to build Milo Thomas's new store room. The building is 97 feet long, 28 feet wide, and 34 feet high. Picker & Bumpus have worked together at this business for 26 years. They need no recommends.

J. W. McKay was in Fort Wayne yesterday where he atted the reunion of his regiment, the 30th Indiana. The officers elected were, President, Philip Noel; Vice-President, William Elson; and Secretary, J. N. Ohlwine. A grand good time was had by all the old veterans who were in attendance. The next reunion will be held at Auburn on the second Wednesday in October, 1896.

Maggie Ford had a surprise yesterday. It was a fine gold watch given her by her grandfather, Dr. Ford. It is a lovely piece of workmanship and on the inside are the names of both, beautifully engraved. Maggie was delighted and we half believe the venerable Doctor was not a bit unhappy himself. Maggie enters the Westminster Seminary at Fort Wayne in a short time and it was with this in view that the gift was made.

Saturday's Daily:

Miss Maud Culbertson of St. Joe, who was at Argos, Ind. contesting for a Demorest grand gold medal, returned to Auburn last evening. She did not receive the medal.

S. Z Dickinson and wife of Waterloo are up in Mecosta county, Michigan, eating "newly laid" peaches and of course enjoying that luxury just as we all did when lads. They will be away two or three weeks as they have relatives there they wish to see.

Dr. Nuebaum, like all other bicyclists takes a tumble occasionally. He was riding on the sidewalk and went to turn the corner at the crossing on Main and Fifth streets this morning when the sidewalk was too narrow. His wheel stopped but the doctor went a few feet farther and his medicine case still farther yet.

At Peru yesterday while "Prof." Foster was performing with some monster snakes the platform gave way on which the performance was being carried on, several snakes made their escape. A number of people were injured and a much larger number frightened at the thought of those large snakes being in their midst. One man used a piece of scantling on a boa, and this ended his career. But it is said other smaller snakes escaped.

It can not fail to be a spiritual inspiration to the teachers when they know that the ablest educators of the state and nation, are professed christians. Each of the evening lectures were ministers of the Gospel while the two daily instructors are christians and members of church. Prof. Moore conducted the devotional exercise Thursday morning and Prof. Aley Friday morning. Both were very impressive.

Last Sunday, Wm. McIntyre went out to the barn and suddenly his eyes lighted on a shining new phaeton that "someone" had run in there since he was in the barn last. It turned out that it was a present from the Kiblinger factory of which his son, W. H. and Mr. S. C. Snyder are owners, and would have reached him on his birthday but was not done in time. But he was just as well pleased as if it had happened on two birthdays.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhœa and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

A Mail Agent's Experience.

Louis D. Brenneke, Wallhalla S. C. had Rheumatism for fifteen years, and during that time had never been free from pain. He tried the Hot Springs and physicians without benefit. After taking two bottles of Drummond's Lightning Remedy he wrote that he was free from pain, and able to take several long walks. If you want a cure, send $5 to th Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles—one month's treatment. Agents wanted 34 35

Monday's Daily.

Butter and eggs wanted at the Princess Store.

Two bright little colored girls are among the new pupils in the public schools.

FOR SALE, cheap, a cooking range, good as new. Burns hard or soft coal. Will exchange for wood burner. W. H. Zeigler. d3w1

Curly Birch and Bird's Eye Maple bedroom suits are the latest fad. You will find an elegant assortment at Foster's, at Ft. Wayne.

Mrs. J. M Kimsey was in town to-day in company with her daughter, Mrs. Dr. Broughton of Waterloo. Mr. and Mrs. Kimsey are now residents of Toledo. He was for several years postmaster at Waterloo.

One of the German societies of Jackson, Mich., ran an excursion to Ft. Wayne yesterday over the Lake Shore. It is something unusual to see a passenger train run on this road on Sunday.

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of De Witt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

New survey is being made of the boundary line between California and Nevada south of lake Tahoe. The result changes the line to the east giving California a large strip more of territory.

Mr. Bowers has a letter from Kansas that they have the biggest crop of corn ever known, even in that great corn country. They have had more than we had here.

You will be better pleased in selecting an article of furniture if you can pick it out from a large assortment of different styles. At Foster's at Ft. Wayne, you get an assortment as large as that carried by any house in the state.

It was a funny sight to see Frank Dills run a passenger train Sunday He hitched his little boy's wagon, by a string to his bicycle and he and Johnny went over our streets like the wind, both enjoying the fun.

G. S. McCord had three bodies to take care of yesterday, and to-day, he had two funerals at the same hour. Mr. McCord attended the funeral of Mr. Dawson at Corunna and the undertaker from Garrett attended the Grogg funeral for him.

George Hensinger showed the reporter an apple limb Saturday night which contained thirty-eight apples. The limb was not over two feet in length. The apples had grown around the body of the limb just as close as a bunch of grapes does. Not one of the apples was small as a hen's egg. The limb was cut from a tree on Owen Hensinger's farm south of town.

Rev. J. K. Walts delivered a very able discourse at the M. E. church, Sunday morning. His thoughts touched upon some of the evils which overcome the young people, such as card playing and dancing. His remarks were sharper than a two edged sword. Undoubtedly several guilty parties were present and listened to the discourse. Too many members of all churches are disloyal to their professions. People who have a desire to participate in all worldly amusements should not have their names on the church records,

Tuesday's Daily.

Orva Weeks was here over Sunday, but has gone east again.

Get a box at Bishop & Lackey's. All kinds of store boxes at all prices. Must have room.

Auditor Borst went to Ohio Saturday night, having been called there by a telegram that his father was critically ill.

A card from Dr. Casebeer at Indianapolis, states that he will be at Auburn Friday to meet his patients.

Geo. Weeks' new paper, the Edon Independent has reached us. It is a bright able paper just what we would expect. Here's success to you Bro. Weeks.

Fine, medium, and low priced carpets were never so cheap as now. Foster's at Ft. Wayne, have the newest styles, the largest assortment, and at the lowest prices.

Kendallville fair is Sept 30 to Oct 4. They always have a good fair. For information address J. S. Conlogue, Secretaro.

The races at the Hicksville fair next week will be the hottest ever witnessed on their grounds,

Mrs. L. Spitler and son Bird are making a two weeks' visit with relatives at Cedarville and Maysville.

Cyrus Brandaberry and little daughter Pearl called in to see their old friend of the COURIER to-day.

Boxes! Boxes! A big supply of store boxes. All sizes, kinds and prices, at Bishop & Lackey's. They are in our way, come and get them.

Supt. Harrison reports a large number of foreign students now enrolling in our high school. We assure these young people that the Auburn High School does good work.

B. G. Funk, a skillful artist has arrived to assist Clapp, the photograper in his work. Clapp already has a reputation for fine work, and he proposes that though he has more than he can do alone, it must all be done well.

The Hicksville Fair is the only one in this part of the country that pays premiums in full, and then makes money besides. Their show next week will be worth seeing.

A post mortem was held on the body of George Conrad, south west of the Auburn Junction Monday forenoon. It was learned that his death was caused by Inflamation of the bowels. The work was done by Dr. W. W. Carey, and Dr. Willard Swarts. There were also present Drs. Sebring, D. J. and Vesta M. W. Swarts, W. L. and F. M. Hines, of Auburn, and Dr. Chas. Stewart of Garrett.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

EVERGREEN CEMETERY.—Assessment No 4 is now due. Lot owners are earnestly requested to call on F. E. Davenport, secretary, and pay at once, thereby saving penalties and expense of making further notice.

Found.

By K. A. Johnson, of Corunna, One stray mare on the night of Aug. 20th. Any party proving property and paying expenses, may have the same.

K. A. JOHNSON, Corunna, Ind.

Deaths.

Wm. Dawson, son of John Dawson of Corunna was kicked by a horse last Wednesday and died from the effects Saturday evening. The funeral was held at the residence this forenoon at 10 o'clock.

The eight months old child of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Grogg who live west of town was buried this forenoon. The funeral was held at Union church at 10 o'clock.

A son of Mrs. Conrad, who lives at the Junction died Sunday night. The funeral was held to-day.

Obituary.

Virgil Myers, son of Elmer and Emma Myers was born April 2, 1895 died August 23, 1895 age 4 months. 21 days, The funeral services and interment were held at Cedar Chapel Sunday August 25 and were conducted by Rev. I. M. Thomas.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs Elmer Myers desire to return many thanks to their kind friends and neighbors who did so much to lessen the heavy burden of their recent breavement, their kindness will not be forgotten.

ROYAL Baking Powder.
Highest of all in leavening strength. —U. S. Government Report.

Married.

J. E. POMEROY, OF AUBURN, AND MISS ELLA BUNGE, OF BUTLER.

Sunday at 2 p. m. the home of Mr. and Mrs Frederick Bunge, of Butler, possessed an interest that will not fade from memory. It was the giving in marriage of their daughter, Miss Ella, to James E. Pomeroy, of Auburn. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. C. Sheldon, of the U. B. church at Newville, in the presence of only the members of the families of the bride and groom. An elaborate dinner was served. Many beautiful presents were received and many good wishes expressed for the happiness of these estimable young people. They are both well known in society at Butler and are excellent people. Mr. Pomeroy is also well known in Auburn, He has been in the practice of law here during the past year and has met with marked success.

Mr and Mrs. Pomeroy left this morning for a two weeks sojourn in Ohio. They will visit Canal Fulton, Akron and other principal cities before they return to Auburn. Upon their return to this city they will at once take up their residence here. The COURIER is pleased to welcome Mrs. Pomeroy to Auburn and joins with their many friends in best wishes.

Poor Indiana.

Capt. A. L. Kuhlman has received word from Adjutant General Robbins that no allowance would be sent him to pay for the rent of the Armory until next January. The state is already indebted to the militia as the last allowance was not paid in full. The boys will there fore have to arrange for the rent of their armory.

Lœwenstein & Co.

Waterloo gets back one of her old business men, for on Sept. 7, Jacob Lœwenstein will open up at his old stand on the corner where Jake Kahn, and afterwards himself had a store so long. They will have a new and full stock of dry goods, clothing and boots and shoes. They will also buy and sell all kinds of grain and produce. Cut this out and keep it.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR.

PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Reader, did you ever take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is BETTER THAN PILLS. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

MONEY TO LOAN

In large or small amounts at a low rate of interest, long or short time. No commission required at Farmers Bank.

4w A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Trustee's Notice.

Notice is hereby given to the public and all interested that I will hold Friday of each week as my office day, and that all township business will be done on that day.

JOSEPH HUET,
34tf Trustee of Fairfield Township.

BUTTER PACKAGE

A new article for package is now on the market, and will be sold by C. H. Crew of this place, to families both in town and country. It is a strong can of galvanized iron, inside of which is a thick glass can. The article can be used for milk, butter and the like and will prove very convenient, not only for keeping these articles, but for carrying to market. A top is fitted to the glass can in such a way that it is air tight. We think our people welcome Mr. Crew and this new and convenient article.

Adjutant General Robbins is still investigating the theft of the silverware at Peru by members of the companies in the Third regiment. Seventeen dollars' worth of silverware was taken. The adjutant has received two pieces valued at $10. They were returned by the captain of the South Bend company, who found them in possession of members of his company. Mr. Robbins believes he will be able to get possession of the other stolen pieces in a few days. He declines to say what he will toward punishing the guilty soldiers. "When I get through with this case there will be no more stealing by members of the Indiana National guard," said he.

Hamilton Advocate:—C. M. Brown of Auburn, an old Hamilton lad, had the honor of reading a paper on "Private Corporations" before the 35th Judicial Circuit Bar association meeting at Lake James Aug. 14th. He was also elected Secretary-Treasurer of the society, Verily Charlie is coming to the front.

Remember a full line of school Books Indiana Series at Fischler's Pharmacy opposite Swineford House. d6w3

A good story is told on one of the young lady school teachers who was in attendance at the county institute last week. It is said that she was utterly surprised when Miss Flora Hoffman stepped up to the pipe organ and rendered that sweet pipe organ solo. She thought that the pipes, above the key board were books and that the whole concern constituted the library.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

OBITUARY.

George Dickie, son of Joseph D. and Jemima Williamson, was born Dec. 23, 1892, and died Monday evening Aug. 26, 1895, aged 2 years, 8 months and 3 days Georgie leaves a father, mother, five sisters and six brothers to mourn his early death. Georgie was the pet of the household; all loved him; he was always full of life and ambition; but his short career has made its impression that will follow you to your grave. His little form will be laid in the grave; but his memory will ever abide with us.

Funeral services were conducted from the house this forenoon at 10 o'clock. Interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery, J. D. Brosy officiating.

To Cure a Cold.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

An Atlanta paper remarks coyly that "it never is necessary to steal a kiss in Georgia." This looks like a regular give-away.

The price of coal, we believe, is about the only thing in the whole range of nature which contracts with heat and expands with cold.

"Is the new woman kissable at all?" asks the Syracuse Post. And yet, Syracuse claims to be an up-to-date, modern, civilized, progressive town.

According to Bishop McKim the Japanese have 8,000,000 gods. This great number is due, no doubt, to the fact that they have no "Bob" Ingersoll.

A man in Philadelphia is said to have actually kicked himself to death the other day. Probably he was a stranger who hadn't enough money to pay for a railway ticket.

Of course Frances E. Willard is not going to get married. Imagine her sitting up waiting for her husband to come home from "the lodge." Also imagine her husband coming home.

Nine young women in London advertise for "elegant apartments, with convenient rooms for bicycles, and neither cats nor men in the neighborhood." Under the new regime are cats and men to become extinct?

The State veterinarian surgeon of Iowa finds by chemical analysis that a good deal of the milk furnished in that State contains tuberculosis. Increasing the proportion of chalk appears to have no effect on the tubercles. They seem to thrive on it.

Mark Twain has been offered $10,000 for twenty lectures. This is pretty high, but it will be remembered that "Baby Bunting" Arbuckle paid $50,000 for a few old letters a while ago, and he wasn't particularly desirous of having them printed, either.

Taylor, the Dakota defaulter, has received a sentence of five years. He confessed to having stolen $300,000 from the taxpayers. He gets one year for each $60,000 of his thefts, and that will be reduced by "good conduct." This is a miniature judgment for a colossal crime.

The Colorado millionaire who has discovered a vein of sylvanite "running $140,000 to the ton" is indeed to be congratulated. Sylvanite of highest grade is 85 per cent. silver, with a possibility of carrying some gold. A ton of pure silver at present market quotations is worth a little less than $20,000. It is this fact that makes the discovery of a vein chock full of $140,000 tons a remarkable circumstance in the world of science as well as of mining, contributing also, it may be, to the world of fiction.

Tesla is reported to be laboring on the idea that it is possible to produce in our atmosphere vibrations similar to those which cause the sunlight, and thus obtain an artificial light as intense as that which comes from the sun, but with no danger of obstruction from the clouds. He says that sunlight is produced by 500 millions of millions of vibrations per second in our atmosphere, and in order to produce the same kind of light it will be necessary to induce by machinery an equal number of vibrations. He does not give an intimation of the way in which this is to be done, and probably does not know it himself yet. But he says he has succeeded up to a certain point, and is still at work on the task.

The Japanese laborer is moving rapidly eastward and is competing with the Chinese laborer in work that requires merely strength and endurance. Some time ago Japanese were substituted for Chinese as section hands on the Oregon Short Line. Now the Japanese are bidding for work on the roadbed of the Rio Grande Western. The bid, which is made through a corporation known as the Oriental Protective Company, offers to maintain the roadway in condition for less money than is now paid to the Chinese for the same work. The system of contracts of servitude for both Chinese and Japanese is undoubtedly similar, but the Japanese will work for a lesser wage than his defeated foe of the mainland. An unskilled and uneducated laborer has been represented as a force equal to one bucket of water and one bucket of coal. The Japanese buckets seem to hold a little more water and a little more coal than the Chinese.

The hot-headed, impulsive people of France never will cease to bear malice toward Germany for the trouncing they got in 1870. Paris is full of somber reminders of this affair so disastrous to France, but somehow these peculiar people enjoy the idea of having their animosities continually stirred up, though there is not much hope that they can ever retaliate. The draped statue of Strasbourg in the Place de la Concorde and the fence around the Arc de Triomphe (polluted since the Prussian army marched through it) are prominent reminders to all visitors of the weakness of France. A few weeks ago a writer in an agricultural paper in Paris said: "More sheep are coming from Africa than ever before, and it is gratifying to notice that the quality is getting better year by year. It is sincerely hoped that the day will soon come when the consumption of mutton in Paris will no longer be dependent on supplies coming from Prussia."

It has been a notorious and shameful commentary upon English journalism that the British papers have never given American current history and American current opinion the dignity and attention that they deserve, even from a newspaper point of view. Whether it is insular prejudice, provincial lack of comprehension or want of enterprise, the most ridiculous mistakes regarding us and our happenings are to be seen in the British papers. Not so with the journals of the United States. Their foreign news is so accurate and extensive that it arouses the admiration and wonder of our contemporaries across the sea. Think of the New York World publishing a detailed account of the loss of the Victoria before the London papers knew anything of it. Think of London's being compelled to come to the same newspaper for definite information regarding the Chinese massacres. Yet such was the fact in each case.

That the threatened uprising of the Indians at Jackson's Hole did not develop into a massacre is not due to the consideration of the white men. Reports which seem to be authentic relate that the Indians, absent from their reservation on passes granted by the government agent, were hunting elk on public land, in accordance with rights granted them by treaty. In the early morning, while in camp, they were surrounded by a band of white men, a constable and his posse, disarmed and marched off as prisoners. Fearing injury or death, they made a dash for liberty and one Indian was killed while a white man held his horse by the bridle, and another was wounded. Those who escaped went as fast as they could to the reservation. This is the whole story. The only other point is that the State law of Wyoming prohibits the shooting of elk at this time of the year, while the treaty with the Bannocks grants them the privilege of shooting over government land, no mention being made of local legislation, Statehood having been far in the future of Wyoming when the convention was made with the Indians. General John M. Schofield, the commanding general of the army of the United States, says frankly: "There is no doubt the frontier whites were the cause of the whole thing. The whites wanted the whole game country themselves, and when they found those Bannocks there they arrested them. The Indians tried to escape and were killed. I am convinced that the Indians never intended retaliation." In truth, the Indians wanted merely protection. If the State law should supersede the treaty the Indians should have been informed by the government agent. In any aspect the shooting of the Indians, seeking only to get back to their reservation, was totally unjustified.

The boiler explosion and fire in the Gumry Hotel, at Denver, was one of the most fatal accidents that have occurred on land in several years past. The building collapsed as the result of an explosion, and many persons were buried in the ruins. By far the greater number of these were killed instantly, and, with the exception of a few who were rescued, the rest were slowly burned to death. About twenty persons lost their lives. The loss of life and property was increased by the interference of electric wires. They obstructed the firemen. This is only one of many instances of inconvenience arising from electric wires strung above ground in the cities, and it ought to furnish another argument for placing all such wires underground. There has been no lack of arguments thus far, but they have not been effectual to put the wires where they belong. To the more simple telegraph and telephone wires of a few years ago we now have added the cables which carry far more powerful currents for electric lighting and trolley wires for the transmission of motor force to street railway systems, and all are very much in the way when a big fire is to be dealt with. As usual, the cause of the explosion must be set down to carelessness, which in this instance appears to have been criminal. The engineer, who is only 17 years old, and therefore too young to warrant him with having so grave a responsibility, is stated to have been drunk when he went on "duty," and to have been in the habit of neglecting his work. It is said he turned a large quantity of cold water into the boilers and then left the building before the explosion occurred. The truth or falsehood of these statements must be made the subject of a searching investigation, and if criminal carelessness be proven it must be punished. The explosion also emphasizes the danger of putting steam boilers in the basements of large buildings, where an explosion necessarily will sacrifice many lives. It is a risk that ought not to be assumed, and probably one that will be avoided in well-constructed buildings in the future.

First Bloomers in Houston.

Lightly she tripped down stairs, almost as noiselessly as if unshod, and stood upon the last step watching a man move a bicycle from the entrance of a staircase and place another within her reach. She glided to the edge of the sidewalk, mounted the wheel, and he followed. Just then a voice from a group of men said: "Look at that!" All turned their eyes in the direction indicated and beheld a young woman wearing bloomers, a cap, blouse waist closely fitting, black stockings and a pair of wheeling slippers. It was the first of her sex seen on the streets of Houston in bloomers riding a bicycle, and to say it created a sensation is drawing it mildly. From both sides of the street men stopped and looked and exclaimed, "Well!" But nobody had a chance to tell of it as news on the street afterward, because everybody seemed to have seen it. No sooner would one start out by saying, "I saw something just now that——" when the other fellow would break in, "Yes, I saw it, too." It created a genuine sensation along the street and was the talk of gossips most of the evening, and many watched for the lady's return, but some had to give it up, as they hadn't the time.—Galveston News.

Storage Battery Cars Successful.

Not much has been heard lately of the storage battery car, but it has not been abandoned by any means. The Madison avenue line, in New York, is about to use it in an improved form. In their new cars the battery will not be carried in the cars but on a detachable truck underneath. Three storage battery lines are running in Paris and one in Birmingham, and the system has been found entirely satisfactory in power and economy. One of the European cars runs seventy miles on one charge of battery and tows an ordinary car, giving in all seats for 100 passengers.

A barbecue is the same thing as a picnic, except that people eat half-roasted beef instead of fried chicken.

It is the dentist who can do tooth things at once.

MALIETOA, KING OF SAMOA.

AN INTERESTING TOY.

The Artificial Spectrum Top Perplexes Scientists.

Scientists of England have been giving a great deal of serious consideration lately to the study of a mere toy which they are still unable to explain satisfactorily. It is a top called the "artificial spectrum top," in which mere tracings of black and white are made to assume colors when in motion.

The top as now constructed consists of a revolving disc, half black and half white. On the white half are short, concentric arcs of black. When the top revolves close under a bright lamp these arcs appear, not as gray lines, as might be expected, but as lines of color. To most eyes the effect is as follows:

THE MYSTERIOUS TOP.

(1) When the revolution is such that the black line is preceded by the black half of the disc and followed by the remainder of the white, it appears red; (2) when the direction of rotation is reversed it appears blue; (3) when the lines are on the central portion of the white (so as to have equal white immediately on each side) the color is green; (4) intermediate positions give approximately the intermediate colors of the spectrum. A few people see the colors differently, and one or two people, by no means color blind, can see no color at all. Curiously enough, a few people who are somewhat color blind can see the colors on the top very well.

Injuries to the Head.

Injuries to the head may be divided into three classes: those which affect the scalp alone, those by which the skull is fractured, and those by which the brain itself is damaged to a greater or less degree.

Inasmuch as the records of the civil war, in which are accounts of thousands of cases, are in favor of stitching all scalp wounds, they should receive a doctor's care as soon as possible.

As a rule, injuries to the scalp, if carefully looked after, will repair at once, but if neglected they are exceedingly difficult of management. If the injury is extensive, the hair should be removed for a short distance around, and a clean cloth soaked in ice water should be placed over the part while waiting for the physician.

Since shock may accompany the slightest injury to any part of the body, it is difficult to say at once whether a patient, in a condition of collapse from a head wound, is suffering from a fracture of the skull, with pressure of the fragments upon the brain, or has sustained simply a concussion.

As a rule, however, cases of extensive fracture are attended by a more profound degree of collapse than those of simple concussion. The patient is totally insensible to everything, even to the utmost efforts made to arouse him.

Fractures of the base of the skull, which are almost invariably fatal, may be attended with bleeding from the ears and nose or mouth.

In all injuries to the head, the patient should be kept in a state of complete quiet. Iced water should be kept constantly about the head, and the room should be somewhat darkened. The diet should be low in proportion to the severity of the case, but always nourishing. The head should be elevated, placed upon the rather firm pillows instead of soft ones. The dressing about the head should be just enough to support and protect the wound from draughts of cold, without being heating.

No injury to the head, however slight, should be regarded as unimportant, since almost any such injury is liable to be complicated with mischief to the brain. For this reason every wound of the head should receive careful attention at the hands of a competent physician.—Youth's Companion.

CAPTAIN RICE'S WHISKERS.

Some Say He Was Ruled Off the Turf for Pulling Them.

Habitues of all Western tracks from St. Paul to New Orleans are familiar with the "gag" that Captain Rice, the Arkansas horseman, has been ruled off the turf "for pulling his whiskers." Few sportsmen are better known than Captain E. R. Rice, one of whose most valued possessions is his tremendous crop of whiskers. They reach below his knees and their extremities not infrequently are seen waving through between his legs when the captain stands facing a smart breeze. Captain Rice, besides his string of race horses, owns an immense cotton plantation near Little Rock, and is one of the most popular men in his vast circle of acquaintances.

CAPTAIN E. R. RICE.

THE ELOPEMENT OF THE FUTURE.

AID TO THE FARMER.

THE WILSON TARIFF LAW PROMOTES HIS WELFARE.

Tends to Increase the Demand for American Produce—The Ohio Campaign to Be a National Spectacle of High Interest.

Agriculturists Benefited.

A Washington correspondent recently stated that 75 per cent. of the country's exports consisted of farm products. The percentage has kept up remarkably well, considering the increase in exports of manufactures. Some of the latter are probably included as farm products. The line is one not easy to draw in all cases. Cheese and butter should certainly be classed with cattle, under the head of farm products. Lard, too, and lard oil, and oleomargarine with hogs. Then, why not canned beef with cattle, canned corn and cornmeal with corn, flour with wheat, and oatmeal with oats. Flour mills and canning factories are generally classed as manufacturing establishments.

Canned fruit and vegetables would have to be included and farm products of all kinds, no matter how treated. A step further and we find that woolen and cotton goods are as much the products of the American farm as the raw wool and cotton were, or the sheep and cotton plants that produced them. Cotton seed oil, olive oil, peanut oil and other vegetable oils would come under the same general head.

Including all goods manufactured from articles and animals raised by farmers, considerably more than 75 per cent. of our exports consist of farm products. The farmer is more interested than any other person in promoting our foreign trade. It is particularly to his interest that our tariff laws favor this trade.

We sell every year about $800,000,000 worth of goods to foreign countries. If but 75 per cent. of the whole represents farm products, the farmer's share is $600,000,000. Reduce this still further one-third for cost of transportation, commissions and other expenses outside of the farm, and he has $400,000,000 for his family, his farm hands and the neighbors he deals with.

The farmer's surplus product must be disposed of. The best and only way yet discovered to dispose of it is the one advocated by the friends of foreign trade. Laws that tend to increase the demand for American produce and goods manufactured from that produce benefit the manufacturer and producer as well as the consumer, and, most of all, the American farmer. The Wilson tariff bill is law of this kind. The McKinley bill was not. The one is promoting while the other injured our foreign trade.—St. Louis Republic.

The Democrats of Ohio.

Governor James E. Campbell is one of the ablest and brightest public men in the United States. His administration as Governor of Ohio was honest, clean and efficient. It was a contrast in everything of moment to the present administration of McKinley.

Governor Campbell has accepted the nomination for election to his former office, which the Democratic State convention at Springfield made unanimously and by acclamation with uncommon enthusiasm. He did not want to be a candidate. He refused repeatedly to be considered in connection with the nomination. But at last he acceded to the demands of the convention and accepted the order of which he was conscripted to be the campaign leader.

This nomination for Governor rounds out and places fairly before the people of Ohio the issues that are to be met at the election. On one hand is the McKinley-Foraker-Bushnell combination—a compact of factions—a medley of fire-alarm and tariff politics—each party to the agreement trying to cheat and defeat the plans of his party associates and rivals. It is a scandalous and indecent display before the people.

On the other hand, the Ohio Democrats are united. They have presented a candidate of the highest and purest personal character to lead in the contest for supremacy. The campaign will be a national spectacle of the highest interest, and the result will have a great influence on the nominations and the result at the polls in 1896.—Chicago Chronicle.

A Doctrine for Devils.

Col. Alexander Gordon, of Gov. McKinley's staff, is probably in private life an honorable Christian gentleman. But as a Republican politician he finds it necessary to avow sentiments of which a Hottentot should be ashamed, and which are a disgrace to enlightened America. In an interviewed on the political situation in Ohio, Col. Gordon expressed himself in favor of Gov. McKinley as the next Republican Presidential candidate. Proceeding to give his views on the tariff, he said: "American industries should be patronized by Americans. If Americans were to deal with Americans all Europe would stagnate."

Leaving out of consideration the fact that Europe is our best customer, that we sell her about $700,000,000 worth of our surplus products each year, the wish to see that country stagnate is evidence of the heartless selfishness of protectionists in general. What is it that Col. Gordon, himself an Englishman, wants? He wishes to see European factories closed and the men and women who now get a living by making things to exchange for our wheat, corn, meat and cotton turned out to starve. That is what industrial stagnation means, and it is the logical end of all high-tariff schemes. Could there be a more inhuman doctrine as a substitute for the Christian gospel of "Peace on earth, good will toward men?"

Wool Growers Happily Disappointed.

Mr. L. M. Whildin, who has been for many years identified with the wool trade of Philadelphia, has just returned from a business trip to Montana, and is enthusiastic in his expressions of hopefulness concerning the business outlook in the West. In most sections he found good crops and good crop prospects, excellent pasturage, and farmers and business men generally in high spirits. "Wool-growers alone," said Mr. Whildin, "have received $6,000,000 more for their wool than they expected to get, and will have just that much more to spend to the advantage of other industries." Wool trade testimony in proof of business revival is getting to be almost as common as were wool trade predictions of universal disaster a year ago.—Philadelphia Record.

Wrong All the Time.

State Senator Clarence Lexow, New York, whose name is well known through his connection with the Lexow investigating committee, was recently interviewed by a reporter for the New York Tribune. Speaking on the numerous wage advances of the past year, Mr. Lexow said: "This matter of reported increases in wages is a temporary thing. If it is otherwise, then we are all wrong, and have been wrong all the time."

As every intelligent citizen knows, the movement for higher wages is not merely a temporary thing, but has been gradually growing ever since the Wilson tariff went into operation. From a few isolated cases it has spread all over the country, until even the New York Tribune was forced to confess two months ago that the number of workers who had their wages raised was really over a million. Since that time at least 400,000 more have secured increased pay, and there is no indication of a reaction.

Truly, as Senator Lexow says, the Republicans have been wrong all the time on this question. They pretended that protection raised wages, and that if the high tariff were reduced factories would be closed and wages cut down. But when put to the test of experience the protection theory failed on every point. The mills which were idle have all started up. New factories are being built all over the country, and wages have been increased. Thus have the facts confounded the silly theory that shutting out trade and imposing high taxes add to the prosperity of our people.

Revenue and the Tariff.

The Republicans of Maryland come very near to placing themselves on the Democratic platform of revenue reform, declaring:

"They favor such a system of imposts duties as shall protect American industries and provide sufficient revenue for the expenses of government economically administered, so that in time of peace the national debt shall not be increased."

This is the very phraseology of the Democratic platform: "provide sufficient revenue for a government economically administered." The surplus revenue was so great that the Reed Congress ventured into all kinds of extravagances in order to dissipate it, and prevent a reduction of the tariff to a revenue basis. The fact is all men of all parties are getting tired of commercial restrictions and obstructions, and it is not probable that we will ever again have a war tariff; that is, a tariff warring on our industries and destroying our commerce. Free trade will open to America an era of unexampled prosperity.—Louisville Post.

Prosperous Tin Plate Industry.

Talk about a higher duty on tin plate is rather tardy now, when the present rate of 1.2 cents per pound has been in force for a year with no injurious effect upon the industry in this country. Moreover, in spite of the dismal predictions of those who opposed the reduction of the duty from 2.2 cents to 1.2 cents per pound, the tin plate industry in the United States has grown under the new tariff as never before. Tin and Terne, a Pittsburg publication, expresses the hope that the rate of duty will be increased to 1.75 cents "as soon as the party favoring protective duties again comes into full power." The eagerness of manufacturers to engage in the manufacture of tin plate under the present rate of duty shows how extortionate and how excessive, even from the protectionist standpoint, was the duty of 2.2 cents per pound imposed by the tariff act of 1890. Those who are counting upon an increase in the duty on tin plate are deluding themselves with false hopes.—Philadelphia Record.

Homestead Then and Now.

Things were different three years ago this summer season in Allegheny County. Homestead was quite a center of disturbance, the McKinley style of protection was in full force and reduced wages were the rule. In the same section to-day the greatest advance in wages ever known was made just a week ago, when 3,000 puddlers in the first district of Pittsburg were given a voluntary advance and 10,000 puddlers in all shared in the increase. Later on the same benefit will accrue to 30,000 finishers. This is by no means an isolated case. The industries under the new tariff law have taken on a life and vigor perfectly amazing to the calamity howlers and instances of wages advancing from 10 to 25 per cent are common news stories every day.—Philadelphia Times.

Ammunition for Future Use.

Every Democratic newspaper should preserve files of the later issues of its Republican contemporaries. More wholesome political truth has been told by the Republican organs in Pennsylvania during the factional warfare now going on than in years before. They are mines of valuable information. When Job prayed that his enemy might write a book he showed an abounding wisdom. The enemies of the Democratic party in Pennsylvania are writing two books; and a double measure of confusion to themselves and of profit to the people should be the natural result.—Philadelphia Record.

Good Advice from a Republican Paper

If there ever was a time when it seemed wise to let well enough alone with regard to the tariff and to avoid agitation when agitation could by no possibility have desirable results, that time is now, when the chief need of business is to be let alone and to be undisturbed by legislative contention certain to lead to nothing advantageous.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Tired of Tariff Taxation.

Victoria, that most inveterately protectionist of all English colonies, is taking the back track and reducing her tariffs. Stiff as they were, they are modest by the side of McKinleyism, and even the rates of the German act tower above them.—St. Paul Globe.

Wool Growers Will Please Note.

Wool never was so low as it was under the McKinley tariff law. The Democrats made wool free, and it has regained its normal price with sales unprecedented in the history of the United States.—Springfield Register.

OUR BUDGET OF FUN.

HUMOROUS SAYINGS AND DOINGS HERE AND THERE.

Jokes and Jokelets that Are Supposed to Have Been Recently Born—Sayings and Doings that Are Odd, Curious and Laughable—The Week's Humor.

Let Us All Laugh.

He walked the stream the livelong day,
With rod and reel and fly,
And then went home and reveled in
One long, luxuriant lie.
—Philadelphia Record.

"This reminds me of my school days," remarked Fogg, as he dropped into his new easy chair. "Caned seat, you know."—Boston Transcript.

He—I love the country, where everything so smacks of freshness. She—That may be, but freshness can gain no smacks here.—Adams Freeman.

The Younger One—I wonder if I will lose my looks, too, when I get to your age? The Elder One—You would be lucky if you did.—Washington Star.

Thomas—Have they named the twins over at your house yet? John—Yep; pa called them Thunder and Lightning as soon as he heard about them.—Truth.

Van Twerp—I hear your daughter has reached a high place in the theatrical profession. Von Swipe—Yes; she's singing on a roof garden.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"How do you stand on this here money question, Major?" "I don't stand at all, sir! Money's so scarce that when I strike a dollar it jest keels me over!"—Life.

Weston—Do you think a young man can safely marry on $10 a week? Easton—Well, that depends on how much the girl's father is worth.—Somerville Journal.

"Say, guide, what does that memorial stone commemorate?" "I put it there. It it upon that spot where a tourist once gave five marks."—Fliegende Blatter.

Carry—Why was it, I wonder, my poor husband never said anything to me about remarrying? Anna—Probably you were not the person he wanted to warn.—Life.

Justice—What is the charge against this prisoner? Officer—Having an infernal machine in his possession, yer honor. Justice—Anarchist or bicyclist?—Brooklyn Life.

In popping the question he did prefer
To do it in a manner firm and steady;
He did not go on his knees to her—
For she was on his knees already.
—Life.

Teacher—If your father was to hear of your conduct it would make his hair turn gray. Bobby—I beg your pardon, sir, my father hasn't any hair left.—The State.

Harry—Come, Johnny, let's play horse. Johnny—Oh, you're behind the times; we don't play hoss any more. If you want to play bicycle, I'm with yer—Boston Transcript.

Summer Resorter—And is everything on your farm nice and fresh? Farmer—Nice and fresh? I guess you'd think so if you'd see some of our city boarders.—Boston Traveler.

"Did you receive an affectionate letter from Bar Harbor from your wife?" "Yes, but she didn't waste any words. She merely wrote, 'Love! Send me $100!'"—Boston Gazette.

Hobson—I hear Cholly Sappy is out of his mind, poor fellow. Costique—I think he is rather to be congratulated. He must have been frightfully cramped in it.—Philadelphia Record.

Young Lady (on the grand stand)—The umpire calls a foul, but I don't even see a feather. Her Escort—But you must remember that this is a picked nine.—Sacred Heart Review.

"I don't know how it is," said Adolphus; "but there is always something or other running through my mind." "How fortunate," replied Kate, "that it isn't a train of thought."—Boston Transcript.

"I see they've nominated Goxey for Governor of Ohio," said one ex-Commonwealer. "Yes," replied another. "But we won't have no such walkover ez we had last summer."—Washington Star.

Cholly Chumpey—I see that earrings are coming into fashion again. Have your ears ever been bored? Miss Caustic—What a question! Haven't I often listened to your twaddle?—Syracuse Post.

Yabsley—Did you carry out your threat of telling Samuelson what you thought of him? Mudge—No. The telephone girl said she positively could not stand such language.—Indianapolis Journal.

Princely—Did you see Jaberson last night, spending money like a prince? "Like a prince? He blew in about $4. Do you call that like a prince?" "Sure. The money was his wife's."—Indianapolis Tribune.

"Ah," said the jovial friend of the man with the valise, "going for a little rest, are you?" "No," was the reply, with a hurried glance at the time table, "I'm going away on my vacation."—Washington Star.

"We must fly," said Murat to Napoleon on one occasion when the battle had gone sorely against them. "It is impossible," replied the latter. "The enemy has destroyed both wings of the army."—Harper's Bazar.

Cleff—They tell me your daughter Julia is quite a singer. Has she a good voice? Is her method—— Staff—Can't say so much about her voice, but her method is superb. She never sings when I am at home.—Boston Transcript.

Advertising.

Advertising is not an outcome of modern necessity, but is a very ancient practice. The British Museum possesses a collection of old Greek advertisements printed on leaden plates. The Egyptians were great advertisers. Papyrus leaves over three thousand years old have been found at Thebes describing slaves and criminals who had run away, and offering a reward for their capture; and at Pompeii ancient advertisements have been deciphered on the walls.

CAN CURE ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER.

A Leading Physician at Last Discovers the Remedy.

The majority of sufferers from asthma and kindred complaints, after trying many doctors and numberless advertised remedies without avail, have come to the conclusion that there is no cure for these most distressing diseases, and no doubt these same persons will be the more in doubt and skeptical when they learn through the columns of the press that Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann, the recognized authority, who has treated more cases of these diseases than any living doctor, has achieved success by perfecting a remedy which not only gives immediate relief in the worst cases, but has positively cured thousands of sufferers, who were considered incurable. These were just as skeptical as some of our readers, who are thus afflicted, now are. His remedy no doubt possesses the merit claimed by the doctor or he would not be willing to authorize this paper to announce that he is not only willing to give free to each person in this city suffering from asthma, hay fever, phthisic or bronchitis, one free liberal trial package of his cure, but urgently requests all sufferers to send him their name and address and receive a package, absolutely free of charge, knowing that in making the claim he does for his cure, a strong doubt will arise in the minds of many, and that a personal test, as he offers to all, will be more convincing and prove its merits than the publishing of thousands of testimonials from others who have been permanently cured by the use of his asthma cure. "Dr. Schiffmann's Asthma Cure," as it is called, has been sold by all druggists ever since it was first introduced, although many persons have never heard of it. The doctor has certainly made a most generous and fair offer, and all who are suffering from any of the above complaints should write to him at once, and avail themselves of his offer. Address Dr. R. Schiffmann, 314 Rosabel St., St. Paul, Minn. Write at once, as no free samples can be obtained after Sept. 15.

Influence of Imagination.

A Milwaukee merchant, in company with a friend, stopped at a country inn one hot summer evening. Being fatigued from the day's journey, they at once retired. But they could not sleep, and finally the friend of the merchant suggested that the window be opened, as he could not sleep unless there was better ventilation. The merchant groped around in the dark, and at last found a window, which seemed riveted to the frame. His friend told him to smash it, as he would pay the damages. Having done so they at once passed off into dreamland and slept finely in the breeze which appeared to be wafted through the opening. When they woke up in the morning they found that they had smashed the door of a bookcase instead of the window.

THE earth was cursed by the blood of Abel, but it was blessed by the blood of Christ.

YOUNG LADIES' TROUBLE.

FACTS MADE KNOWN TO FRIENDS

Lady Stenographers, Typewriters, and all Working Girls Interested.

(SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.)

This class of women are more or less afflicted with illness brought on by constant application in one position. Therefore all will be interested in the candid expression of this bright young lady of Denver, Col., who writes Mrs. Pinkham as follows:—

"This is the first opportunity I have found to write and thank you for the good your Compound has done me. I feel better than I have for years. It seems a seven days' wonder to my friends. Where I used to be pitied, everything is the opposite, and there is not a day but what some one wants to know what I have done to work such a wonder.

"Before taking the Compound I had constant headaches; was constipated; bloated; eyes weak, with watery whites; bearing down pains; pains in the small of my back and right side; took cold very easily, which always caused intense pain in ovaries. I did not want to go anywhere or see any one.

"I was called cross, but I could not help it, feeling as I did. I could not lift anything or do any hard work without suffering for days afterward. Menstruation lasted from eight to ten days, the first two or three days being in almost constant pain, day and night.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made a new girl of me; am now well, happy, and strong." Yours truly, A STENOGRAPHER, Denver, Col.

A BULLDOG in an express wagon, clinging with a death grip to the arm of a ragged man who stands close to the vehicle, the thief too scared to cry out and in too much pain to attempt to escape; a fast gathering crowd, which looks on with excited interest, one of the spectators crying, "Hold him, Tobe"; the return of the express driver, the summoning of a policeman, the noisy clatter of a patrol wagon, the release of the ragged man from the painful custody of his canine captor, a hurried explanation between the express driver and the officers, the departure of the police wagon, the murmurs of approval by the now enormous crowd—these were spirited little incidents in Chicago the other day, says the Tribune.

"What's the matter?" asked a breathless young man who had arrived too late to see the performance.

"Fellow tried to steal a package out of the express wagon and the bulldog nailed him and held him till the police came," he was told.

Incidents such as the above are rare, but dogs in wagons are not a novelty, even in the heart of the city. People see them and often hear them bark, but few persons pause to think why they are in the wagons. These wagon dogs are pets and companions of the drivers and are treated with respect, for most of them are worth their weight in gold to the owners. Take, for instance, the bulldog that captured the thief. His support costs only what he eats and that is inexpensive. He is fidelity itself absolutely trustworthy.

As a general thing small dumb companions are the choice of wagon drivers. Coal haulers and freighters of heavy materials affect large dogs, chiefly Newfoundlands, but the terriers and even the pugs are chosen by the drivers of delivery wagons. A grocery man whose store is pretty well south on Wabash avenue has a pug to accompany the driver, and a good selection it is. The black snouted, pig tailed little fellow is as proud as a peacock and delights to attract attention to himself and the gaudy wagon by barking almost continuously while he is in sole charge of the rig. Furthermore, the pug is on terms of most intimate friendship with the horse, and while the driver is away amuses himself on the animal's back, running from his big friend's mane to tail and dancing all over him. The horse seems to be proud of his little chum, but when the pug's feet tickle his back he turns his head and shows his teeth in a display of mock anger. The boy who drives that particular wagon was asked what service the pug could perform.

"None that I know of," he said, "'cept to make a noise and keep de kids away from de wagon when I goes inside. He's company fur de horse, dough, and I ain't never scared of a runaway so long's de dog stays wid 'em."

There are dogs, however, that do aid in the delivery of goods, and many a weary step they save their masters. A certain North Side milkman has such an assistant, a big red Irish setter that is at once a beauty, an aristocrat in pedigree and a treasure in service. A valuable part of this milkman's trade is the supplying of pure Jersey milk from his own cows to families in which there are babes and small children. This

THE GROCERY MAN'S DOG.

"baby milk" is put up in quart jars, with screw tops and wire bales or handles. The dog can easily carry one of these jars and really seems to take pleasure in doing his part of the work. No apartment building stairs are too high, steep or slippery to baffle him, and, having been taken twice over the baby route, he is perfection itself in the delivery of the packages.

What can scarcely be called a wagon dog and yet cannot be otherwise classified is a coach dog owned by a North Side furniture mover. The animal is extremely ordinary in appearance, but "pays for himself" many times over in habits. Spot actually smokes and drinks. He will hold a pipe in his mouth and let the smoke curl into his throat and nostrils and seemingly find pleasure in the habit. He carries a surprising variety of household articles without injuring them—bundles of bedding, small rolls of carpet, light chairs and knick-knacks of various kinds—and in this way does much to help his boss and the other workers in denuding a flat house.

"That dog," said Mr. Ritchie, "will take an ordinary light chair down three pairs of stairs without bumping anything or anybody, hurting himself or scratching the varnish. A peculiar feature of his work is that he almost always selects for himself the articles he is to carry. Another oddity is that with bulky but light articles he goes down stairs head first, but with compact, heavy packages he goes tail first—backs down with them. He seems to feel that if he drops a heavy package it were best to drop it as short a distance as possible. He's worth about half a man in this business. Here, Spot! Go and get me the whisk broom!" And the dog trotted into the office of the establishment and returned with the whisk broom in his mouth.

Fox terriers are favorites as wagon dogs. They are easily trained, cute, companionable, affectionate and willing. Many butchers, bakers, grocers and laundrymen have them and find them useful, especially in guarding the wagons while drivers are delivering parcels. They are of service, too, as watchdogs, for their ears are keen and their tongues sharp when strangers approach at night. Frequently they are made to work when they think they are playing, and not infrequently they prove of real value in preventing mischief.

A laundryman on Wrightwood avenue has a pair of the brightest of fox terriers and has taught them to haul small baskets of bundled clothing from the wrapping room into the office, where the packages are arranged alphabetically on the shelves for the convenience of the delivery clerk. The same dogs "run wid de machine," accompany the wagon, and once when a sneak thief snatched a big bundle of linen from the open rear of the wagon they left their posts, overtook the culprit and so impeded his progress that he was still in sight when the driver returned. The linen was recovered and the thief let off with a beating for which he will long remember that driver.

Not less valuable as wagon dogs are bull terriers, Skye terriers and what are generally known as Scotch terriers. The latter is a variety that seems to include all dogs that are small, shaggy and yellow. Sometimes they prove possessed of really wonderful intelligence, as was the case of the "wagon boss," owned by a butcher whose place of business is on West Madison street.

THE SMOKING COACH DOG.

The dog had ridden so long beside the driver of the two-wheeled cart that he knew where every customer lived and would show impatience of the liveliest kind if the driver, for reasons he could not impart to his brute comrade, did not stop at each familiar gate. Finally the driver, an observant sort of genius, adopted the plan of making explanations. For instance, if Mrs. Smith had said yesterday that she would not be at home to-day and that the butcher need not call, the driver, reaching Mrs. Smith's gate, would turn to the dog and say aloud, "She's not at home today." The dog got in the habit of looking for explanations and when they were forthcoming would accept them as due and satisfactory.

WITH A RESERVATION.

Perplexity in a Colored Congregation Over an Unexpected Donation.

Recently a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church returned from a tour of the South and made his headquarters at one of the big hotels up town. To those who called upon him at the hotel he told a funny story about his experience among the negroes of the South. He went down with a party to one of the fashionable winter resorts along the coast. One Sunday he was told of a service that was to be held at a colored Methodist Church several miles inland. It was suggested that the party attend these services, and accordingly carriages were ordered and the drive was made. The rest of the story is best told in his own language. He said:

"When we arrived at the church we found that it was to be a sort of special service to raise money to pay off a church debt. They had recently erected a new church, and it was only partly paid for. The local bishop had been summoned and a great effort was being made to get the money. When we had taken our seats a colored brother came around and asked us if we would not go to the front, but we declined.

"In the course of his remarks the bishop dwelt upon the good work that had been done in the name of the Redeemer, and called upon everyone present to contribute something toward paying off the great debt that the church had assumed in building a new house of worship. He said that the debt was $142.35, and that it must be met. His eloquent plea reached our hearts, and we made up a little purse among ourselves and raised $100. The money was handed to me, and I, when the plate was passed around, laid a crisp $100 bill on the plate. While the money was being counted a song service was held. It was plainly evident to us that something unusual was going on, and there was a subdued air of excitement among those counting the money. Finally the bishop stepped to the front and raised his hand. The music ceased at once. He began to speak very gravely, and imagine our astonishment when he said:

"'Brethren, we have met with remarkable success in our efforts to-day. We have received enough money to pay off the debt and a surplus of $14.12—that is, providin' th' bill which the gentleman from the North gave us is genuine.'"—New York Tribune.

Making a Stir.

People who are continually sighing over wrongs never mend them. But those who actively resent injustice of any kind, and exert themselves to do away with it, will often force other people into activity in sheer self-defense. The other people would like to sit quiet and take it out in sighing, but these energetic fussers will not let them. At last, to get rid of the agitators, they rouse up, go to work with a will, and accomplish what is asked of them for the sake of the peace they obtain thereby. But whatever their motive, all mankind has the benefit. It is not only well to get wrongs righted, it is also well to get sluggish people stirred up occasionally.

When a woman is in a hurry, she ties a ribbon around the center of her night gown and wears it down town. People think it is a white dress.

BOARDING-HOUSES FOR PLANTS.

Flowers Cared for While Owners Are Out of Town.

Boarding-houses for plants are a novel institution, designed for the housing of plants for families who close up their city houses for several months during the summer. Every woman who loves flowers is at her wits' end to devise a means of having her plants cared for when she goes away. In the case of a large and valuable collection this becomes a serious matter.

It is up on Columbus avenue that the plant boarding-houses abound. Often in the spring and summer any one passing a florist's may see in his window a strip of painted glass, or some other sign bearing the words: "Boarding House for Plants, 50 cents apiece." A few of the establishments offer accommodations for 25 cents. This price covers a month's board and lodging for a single potted plant.

None of these boarding houses seek winter patronage, as the florist would hardly be paid for his trouble in caring for other people's plants, since at that time they would occupy hot house space which could be turned by the proprietor to greater advantage in raising flowers of his own. Then, too, in winter it is the custom of the florist to put in a stock of hot house plants for sale, that being the time when most flower fanciers think of increasing their collections, and naturally the profits on sales is larger than could be expected from these frail boarders that require unusual watchfulness on chilly days. In summer, however, the rate of board is an ample return for the small outlay of time and attention, when plants need only such trifling attention as being supplied with water.

Sometimes it happens, the men in the business say, that the caretaker finds that the soil in which one of his boarders stands rooted has become impoverished. In such a case he immediately sets to work to repot the plant. All such bits of necessary care are undertaken without extra charge, being covered by the regular board bill. There is also a boy, whose duties consist in walking up and down among the boaders and seeing that they are not molested by bugs.

"I'd much prefer to keep a flower sanitarium," says a caretaker, "than to perpetually have to follow up that boy and see that he isn't napping. It would'nt be half the trouble. And those boys are all alike. But it's a class of work that only a boy would consent to do. However, on the whole, I must confess that the plant boarding house business is rather too good to give up on account of so insignificant a drawback as a lazy boy, especially when it furnishes occupation and income in what would otherwise be a dull season for the florist.'

CAUSED BY VACCINATION.

The Awful Sufferings of a Schoolgirl.

From the Journal, Detroit, Mich.

Every one in the vicinity of Meldrum avenue and Champlain street, Detroit, knows Mrs. McDonald, and many a neighbor has reason to feel grateful to her for the kind and friendly interest she has manifested in cases of illness.

She is a kind-hearted friend, a natural nurse, and an intelligent and refined lady.

To a reporter she recently talked at some length about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, giving some very interesting instances in her own immediate knowledge of marvelous cures, and the universal beneficence of the remedy to those who had used it.

"I have reason to know," said Mrs. McDonald, "something of the worth of this medicine, for it has been demonstrated in my own immediate family. My daughter Kittie is attending high school, and has never been very strong since she began. I suppose she studies hard, and she has quite a distance to go every day. When the smallpox broke out all of the school children had to be vaccinated. I took her over to Dr. Jameson and he vaccinated her. I never saw such an arm in my life, and the doctor said he never did. She was broken out on her shoulders and back and was just as sick as she could be. To add to it all, neuralgia set in, and the poor child was in misery. She is naturally of a nervous temperament and she suffered most awfully. Even after she recovered the neuralgia did not leave her. Stormy days or days that were damp or preceded a storm, she could not go out at all. She was pale and thin, and had no appetite.

"I have forgotten just who told me about the Pink Pills, but I got some for her and they cured her right up. She has a nice color in her face, eats and sleeps well, goes to school every day, and is well and strong in every particular. I have never heard of anything to build up the blood to compare with Pink Pills. I shall always keep them in the house and recommend them to my neighbors."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are considered an unfailing specific in such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after-effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, that tired feeling resulting from nervous prostration; all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities, and all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price (50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50—they are never sold in bulk or by the 100), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

The Scrap Heap Proved Valuable.

Cycling has proved of an unexpected benefit to more than one manufacturer of a line of goods entirely distinct from those usually connected with bicyling. A large watch concern found themselves burdened with a lot of wheels and interior works of a line watches which, for some reason or another, had not proved satisfactory. The mass of material was virtually worthless, and to get rid of it, it was offered for sale at a price, but no one wanted it. An ingenious workman, wanting a cyclometer for his wheel, went to this scrap heap, selected seven parts from it, added two of his own making, and the result was an accurate, durable and economical cyclometer. Other workmen who were cyclers did the same thing until the value of the scrap heap became known to the heads of the company, with the result that from what was at one time deemed a worthless scrap heap over 1,000 cyclometers a day are now being turned out and retail at $2 each. Reads like a fairy story this, but it is the truth, just the same.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Bee Industry is a Myth.

Bees, said Farmer William Russell to a reporter for the Minneapolis Tribune, are just like human beings When they are busy they are virtuous and peaceable; but when in idleness they become vicious, given to foolish actions that dissipate the strength of the colonies and make the work of the beekeeper twice as arduous. Last year the season ran so that the bees were busy all the time. The blossoms came in rotation and the bees always had something to do. They made honey very fast and the business was prosperous.

This season there has been less honey to gather and the bees, with nothing to busy themselves upon, have devoted their time to frolic and idleness. The old rhyme,

"How doth the busy bee Improve each shining hour—"

is all nonsense. The bees are marvels of thrift and industry when they have work to do, but they can be quite as foolish as men.

The talk of the "idle drone" is another foolishness that has crept into the language through ignorance. The drone is the male bee. He has no business to gather honey; his function is altogether different and quite as important as that of the worker. He is the father of the hive, and when his work has been performed he is killed off as useless.

The Prize Pig Freak.

D. K. Persons, a farmer of Red Mills, Ark., is the owner of a pig that completely lays all other freak porkers in the shade. It is perfectly devoid of hair, and has a double set of eyes, feet like human hands (even to the nails), one very large ear and a face which looks more like that of a young baby than it does like that of a regulation pig. From between the upper set of eyes projects a proboscis like that of a young elephant. This proboscis has two holes through its entire length, and it is through them that piggy gets his supply of air. Mr. Persons values the freak at $1,000 and his neighbors say that he takes greater care of it than all of the rest of the stock on the place.

Duke of Argyll's Plaid Trousers.

The Duke of Argyll has the reputation of being the worst dressed man in Great Britain. He once saw some shepherd plaid cloth in a shop window, took a fancy to it and went into the place and ordered a pair of trousers from it. He then absently said: "You can send the rest of the piece, as I might want another pair or two some day."

The piece was ninety-six and one-half yards long, and, as a pair of trousers only requires two and one-half yards, the Duke of Argyll, who is typically Scotch and careful, has worn nothing but shepherd's check trousers since 1877, the year of the unfortunate and heedless purchase.

A Bootblacks' Union.

Bootblacks in Seattle, Wash., formed a union a week ago, its main purpose being to maintain prices and to shut out imported cheap labor. The price of a shine in Seattle has stood at 10 cents as long as the average bootblack's memory reaches back until recently a number of Italians drifted in from the East and began cutting prices. The union will endeavor to maintain the price at 10 cents. Any member cutting below this will be fined 50 cents for the first offence, $1 for the second, and will be expelled from the union for the third. The union was organized with the help of the Newsboys' Union formed in Seattle some months ago.

Barber's Doom Is Sealed.

Shaving by machinery has been rendered easy by the construction of a machine reported to have been made by one Melchoir Farkas, a convict in the penitentiary of the city of Szegedin, in Hungary. Farkas was put to labor in the cabinet making shop of the prison, and, taking to his work with a will, he soon displayed great inventive ingenuity. With his shaving machine he is said to have shaved all the inmates of the prison, nearly 150 in number, within less than an hour's time.

Splitting Shackles Asunder

By merely flexing the muscles of his arms is an easy task for Sandow, that superlatively strong man. You will never be able to do this, but you may acquire that degree of vigor, which proceeds from complete digestion and sound repose, if you will enter on a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and persist in it. The Bitters will invariably afford relief to the malarious, rheumatic and neuralgic, and avert serious kidney trouble.

A Unique Gang of Cattle Thieves.

A most unique band of horse and cattle thieves has just been broken up in Mexico. The gang had its headquarters in an abandoned mine in a wild and little frequented part of the mountains. Here was found a large underground chamber with all the appliances of a slaughter house, where the stolen cattle were converted into hides and dressed beef. As soon as a herd of cattle were stolen they were driven into this place and slaughtered. The beef and hides were then shipped away. The gang were doing a lucrative business when detected.

Tired Women

Nervous, weak and all worn out—will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. Get Hood's because

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the Only
True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye to-day. It is sold by all druggists. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

Old Folks and Young Folks.

Southwest City, Mo., claims the champion fat baby of the country—eight months, 66 pounds.

There is in Wauchula, Fla., a family of ten children, all born to one mother within forty-two months. There were twins, triplets and quintuplets. A local newspaper tells this story.

Scarcely less remarkable is the case of the 77-year-old citizen of Neat Falls, Wash., who is growing young again. His hair is changing from white to black, his eye brightens and his muscles are as limber as an angleworm's.

Isaac and Moses Martz of Arcadia, Ind., are twin brothers. Their wives are twin sisters. Each household has twelve children—seven boys and five girls. In each family was a pair of twins. The Messrs. Martz are 82 years old.

Alderman John Sheehan of Buffalo saved a Polack's life. The Pole, to prove his gratitude, offered Sheehan his baby boy as a gift, explaining that he was poor and had nothing else. Sheehan declined with thanks.

Spreading Plant Diseases.

It is remarked in the Kew Bulletin that the dispersion of plant diseases through the interchange of plants is a peril requiring careful precautions. The phylloxera was introduced from England into Switzerland. The coffee-leaf disease has been conveyed from Ceylon on the one hand to Fiji (with tea seeds) where it practically extinguished the promising coffee industry, and to German East Africa on the other. It has always been a matter of the deepest anxiety lest by any accident it should be introduced through Kew [the famous botanical garden] to the New World, where it does not at present exist. It has been no less a matter of anxiety lest the coffee-leaf miner should be introduced into the Old World. Kew extends, undoubtedly, an involuntary hospitality to many strange guests, which come unbidden from one knows whence.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

A Great Industry.

The electrical industry is about seventeen years old, and employs over $1,000,000,000 of invested capital. The greater part of this immense investment has been made since 1888, when the electric motor was proved to be a success.

Tobacco-Twisted Nerves.

Millions of men keep asking for stimulants because the nervous system is constantly irritated by nicotine poison. Chewing or smoking destroys manhood and nerve power. It's not a habit, but a disease, and you will find a guaranteed cure in No-To-Bac, sold by Druggists everywhere. Book free. The Sterling Remedy Co., New York City or Chicago.

Mending Cleopatra's Needle.

Cleopatra's Needle, on the Place de la Concord, Paris, is being mended, lest another severe winter like the last should endanger the obelisk. A crack has existed in the pyramid ever since it was first erected in Paris, and as the filling up of the fissure has perished through time, it is being replaced by new material.

Wabash Low Rate Harvest Excursions for 1895

Will be run from all stations on the Wabash Railroad on Sept. 10th and Sept. 24th, to the West, Northwest, South and Southwest.

For full particulars, apply to nearest ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines.

SHE (sternly)—What was that noise I heard early in the hall this morning when you came in? He (hastily)—It must have been the day breaking, darling.

WE have not been without Piso's Cure for Consumption for 20 years.—LAZZIE FERREL, Camp St., Harrisburg, Pa., May 4, 1894.

JIMMY—What did yer get on your birthday? Jakey—Nothin'! Never got anything since the first one, an' then I only got born.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

ACHE corns do not grow on boot trees.

The Onward March

of Consumption is stopped short by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. If you haven't waited beyond reason, there's complete recovery and cure.

Although by many believed to be incurable, there is the evidence of hundreds of living witnesses to the fact that, in all its earlier stages, consumption is a curable disease. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent. are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,

The Largest Manufacturers of PURE, HIGH GRADE COCOAS and CHOCOLATES On this Continent, have received HIGHEST AWARDS from the great Industrial and Food EXPOSITIONS IN EUROPE AND AMERICA.

Caution: In view of the many imitations of the labels and wrappers on our goods, consumers should make sure that our place of manufacture, namely, Dorchester, Mass., is printed on each package.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. LTD. DORCHESTER, MASS.

RIPANS TABULES

The Home Bureau for Delicacies for the Sick, and Nurses' Registry, at 15 West Forty-second st., N. Y., under date of Oct. 20, 1894, writes: "Please send one dozen boxes Ripans Tabules to the Nurses' Club, 104 West Forty-first street. Reports of the Tabules for troubles resulting from disordered digestion come very frequently to our attention here. This Bureau does not dispense medicines, but has opportunity to hear frequent discussions concerning the merits of remedies. It seems to be conceded that the Tabules are a reliable auxiliary to the physician. Some of our patrons use them to a considerable extent, and physicians assure us that the formula is excellent."

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

Powdered and Perfumed. (PATENTED.)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc. PENNA. SALT MF'G CO. Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief. Price 25 cts. by mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass. ASTHMA.

"Cleanliness Is Nae Pride, Dirt's Nae Honesty." Common Sense Dictates the Use of

SAPOLIO

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att'y fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

Have you tried it yet?

What?

one of those great big pieces of

Battle Ax Plug Tobacco

For 10 cents.

LYON'S 7 WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Wonderful Story of an Old Lady.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., May 9, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

I wish to congratulate you in being in possession of such a grand medicine as LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I was in very poor health for a long time, could eat no solid food, and scarcely anything else; had no appetite, but a continued distress in my stomach, and was very poor in flesh. Your remedy being recommended by one who had tried them, I got a box of same, and can cheerfully and gladly say, after using them, the distress in my stomach entirely ceased, my appetite increased wonderfully, and I gained in flesh very perceptibly. I am a lady seventy-four years of age, and can say that LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS have given me a new lease on life. I feel grateful toward you and your remedy. It does more than you claim for it, and no words of praise can do it justice.

Gratefully yours,

MRS. CYNTHIA RANSOM.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment will cure Blind, Bleeding and Itching Piles when all other Ointments have failed. It absorbs the tumors allays the itching at once, acts as a poultice gives instant relief. Dr. Williams' Indian Pile Ointment is prepared only for Piles and itching of the private parts, and nothing else. Every box is warranted. Sold by druggists, or sent by mail on receipt of price, 50c. and $1.00 per box. WILLIAMS MFG. CO., Prop's, Cleveland, O. Sold on a guarantee by Mathews & Gerke.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	p m	a m	a m	p m	a m
Bellaire.....lv	7.15	*11.13	9.42	*4.13	.....
Newark.....ar	10.22	2.40	1 12	7.20	7.12
Columbus.....ar	a m 11 35	3 40	2.15	8.35	8.22
Mansfield.....lv	p m 12.12	.....	a m	.....	10.24
Deshler.....	2.35	4.39	6.50	12.26	a m 9 50
Defiance.....	3 15	5.16	7 40	1.20	11 00
Hicksville.....	.....	.....	8.22	.....	11.45
St Joe.....	.....	.....	8 34	.....	12.01
Auburn Jc.....	4 15	6.17	8 53	a m 2 26	12.25
Garrett.....	4.28	6.30	9.00	2.40	12 50
Avilla.....	.....	6.40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion.....	‡4.50	‡ 6.55	.....	.....	1.20
Syracuse.....	.....	.....	.....	3.33	2.00
Milford Jct.....	.....	‡7.35	.....	.....	2,11
Wellsboro.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	3 40
Chicago.....ar	9.00	11.00	.....	7.25	6 40

Stations—	EAST-BOUND.
	p m	p m	a m	p m	a m
Chicago.....lv	*4.25	*7.20	†6.05	3 00	10.15
Wellsboro.....	7.08	.....	8.45
Milford Jct.....	.....	.....	10.32	6.29	‡ 1.3
Syracuse.....	.....	10.50	10.45		.....
Albion.....	.....	.....	11.25	6.57	.....
Avilla.....	.....	.....	11.45	7.15	.....
Garrett.....	A M †4.45	13.04	12.15	7 30	2.35
Auburn Jc.....	4.52	12.09	p m 12.28	7 35	2.40
St Joe.....	5 09	.....	12.43	7 50	.....
Hicksville.....	5.24	.....	1.00	8.00	.....
Defiance.....	6.03	1.10	1.40	8 35	3.36
Deshler.....	6.54	1.57	2.35	9 15	4.12
Mansfield.....	10.05	.....	.....		6.50
Newark.....ar	12.10	.....	.....		8.22
Columbus.....	2 15	.....	.....		.....
Bellaire.....ar (EASTERN TIME)	3.55	.....	3.55	.....	11 36
Wheeling.....ar	5.50	.....	4.50	.....	1.1
Pittsburg.....	8 25	p m	7.25	7.15
Washington D.C	a m 6.38	a m		a m
Baltimore.....	7.50	.....	.....	.....	a m
Philadelphia.....	10.15	.....	.....	p m
New York.....	12.35	.....	.....	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily except Sunday. ‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't, Chicago. City Office Auburn, Ind.

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg required to settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle. Is of more value than any other kithchen utensil. Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth Kokomo, Ind.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts newlife to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed onreceipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON. Auburn. 1y30

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express.....5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n.....2:04 p m—ex Su
New York Limited.....7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation.....7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express.....12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St, Louis Lim(53).....7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS. V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne,.... p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era.....	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc.....	12 25	5 25	7 48
Auburn.....	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo.....	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit.....	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville.....	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake.....	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola.....	1 13	14	10 50
Jackson.....	3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson.....dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola.....	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake.....	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville.....	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit.....	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo.....	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn.....	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc.....	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era.....	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne.....	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address R. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

The Institute

A BRILLIANT SUCCESS SO FAR. AND WILL BE TO THE CLOSE.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

The first work of the afternoon session was by Prof. Aley, and we give a synopsis.

ALEY——METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

The nature of a subject can only be understood by getting an inside view. This inside view discovers the great unitying and organizing principle of the subject. This reveals the subject in its relations. It reveals the subject as it is and removes all mere dogmatic assertions.

The conditions necessary for the existence of a subject may throw much light on the subject. These conditions for arithmetic are Numeration and Notation. The Greeks and Romans failed to give us arithmetic because they did not have both these conditions. They lacked a suitable Notation.

This was followed by a violin solo by Dr. Buchtel accompanied by Mrs. Garwood on the piano. This was rapturously cheered. It was evident that teachers have an appreciation of fine music.

Prof. Moore continued his work as follows:

Right Doing is conditioned by clear, accurate knowing. The knowing process may be analyzed into two phases, Selection and Assimilation. Selection depends upon Interest. The feeling of interest is the estimation made by the self of the relation of the new material to it. The teacher's appeal is to be made constantly to the pupil's scientific interest, i. e, the inherent satisfaction mind takes in selecting and assimilating material vitally related to its previous activity. It is lack of faith in this natural stimulus that leads us to substitute for it the pernicious, artificial system of prizes and penalties.

Following his talk was the vocal solo by Miss Sattersfield of Garrett. This lady is a cultured and talented singer, and was received with abundant applause.

ALEY'S SECOND TALK

He said, among other things: Our understanding of Notation and Numeration gives us the interpreting element in Compound Numbers and Fractions. Our Notation fits the Numeration and gives us perfect conditions for the development of Arithmetic.

WEDNESDAY MORNING.

The attendance keeps up well and the interest never lags. The superintendant should, and no doubt does, feel proud of the success so far. The regular work went on all right. The piano music by little Miss Thompson of Garrett was very fine and the little lady was no doubt gratified by the applause she received. After Prof. Aley's talk, Aileen and Helen Garwood sang a sweet song accompanied on the piano by their mother. They were applauded so long and vociferously that they came back and sang another, that was equally well received. They are not only sweet singers, but very graceful in their acting. After recess Supt. Merica introduced State Superintendent D. M. Geeting, who addressed the teachers. He is evidently an able man, and made a good impression. He spoke again in the afternoon. Much of his talks were in the line of instruction and information of a general nature,

ALEY——IN ARITHMETIC.

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." The above is one of the pedagogical truths. When we know the truth of a subject we become free in it. A knowledge of the truth in arithmetic frees one from the bondage of rule, formula and formalism. The truth in numeration and notation gives the real nature of simple number, compound number, annd fraction. This view rests reduction in these subjects upon their real nature and upon rule or authority. The student who has this view becomes free and can make his reductions however far he may be from his text book or note book.

Among noteworthy things this afternoon was a violin solo by Estella Merica. We were not fortunate enough to hear it, but it goes without saying that it was excellent as all her playing is. Miss Libbie Waltz played a fine piano solo which was well received as she is an accomplished musician.

NOTES

Several teachers came in on bicycles. Things have changed.

John H. W. Krontz is stopping at the Swineford House.

Every seat in the auditorium for the Nourse lecture is sold and but few remain unsold for the lecture this evening.

The postoffice is a popular place for teachers. It is important that they hear from home when they are absent a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Willis are entertaining the following ladies: Susie Jennings, Ora Eviston, Hortense Abrams and Myrtle Ball.

Prof. Coe rode over from Butler on his wheel last evening to attend the lecture by Prof. Charles O. Merica. The Professor. is very popular with the Butler people.

At one time this forenoon all three of the living county superintendents were in the room—McIntosh, Barns and Merica. These three have filled this position since 1868.

Rev. Fish, who lectures to night, arrived on the 3:10 Lake Shore this afternoon. His lecture promises to be a literary treat. Those who have heard him speak highly of him.

Supt. Coe of the Butler schools, F. M. Merica of the Garrett schools and H. H. Keep of the Waterloo schools are all here. Trustees Dancer, Brown, Eckright, Kelham and others of the new officers are present and take great interest in the work.

WEDNESDAY CONTINUED.

Some copy was not furnished for both forenoon and afternoon and we give it now in brief. Prof. Moore's second lecture was as follows:

The process of selection may be stated under two laws. First, The Law of Method, which finds that under the impulse of its own inherent scientific interest mind selects and assimilates that material which is most vitally related to its previous activity. Second, The Law of Limits, which finds, (a) that thought can only move in one direction at a time and (b,) that it can only move up to the limit of its assimilative capital.

It is in response to the demands of these two laws that the school is called into existence and hence every detail of school work is determined by them. The Law of Limits dictates every step in school organization and management and the Law of Method every step in the positive work of instruction.

AFTERNOON.

As noted yesterday, Supt. Geeting spoke first and in addition to the musical exercises given by Estella Merica and Miss Waltz, there was a piano solo by Mrs. Garwood. Mrs. Garwood is unquestionably the most acomplished pianist we have and we say this with the most friendly feeling toward the other musicians of this vicinity. It is always a treat to hear her. And right here the Daily desires to say a word as to its own convictions. Some have asked what these musical and similar things have to do with the schools and the training of our teachers. They have everything to do with it. Or rather we should say, every iota of the material, if we may use such a term, in these exercises, goes to the upbuilding of our school fabric. It goes to perfect the evolution from the old log school house with its slab benches, to the perfect establishment that we hope and believe we are building. It all goes to perfect the teacher, the one who must do so much to perfect the pupils and the schools. Space and time prevent saying more. But we desire to go on record in a matter so important.

ALEY—METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

The organization of Arithmetic is to found in the two notions of Synthisis and Analysis. Synthesis is the bringing of numbers together—Addition, Multiplication, &c. Analysis is the separation of numbers into parts—subtraction, division, &c. If these two notions are fundamental then at once the importance of the fundamental operations is forced upon us. The relations of these processes and the principles growing out of them must be fully worked out. Many concrete examples both simple and complex, are needed to thoroughly fix these in the pupil's mind. When the fundamental operations are fully worked out, they furnish the basis for all the applications in Arithmetic.

PROF. MOORE.

The law of limits dictates every step in school organization and management. This law is given not by the teacher or the school board, but by the pupil. The pupil is to be made to feel that in meeting the demands for promptness, quietness, etc., he is obeying not the law of the teacher but his own law. The teacher's function is simply to call the pupil's attention to the requirements of his own law. In this way the burden of responsibility is thrown upon the shoulders of the pupil's where it belongs. If after these requirements have been pointed out, the pupil breaks over, he is still to feel that it is his problem to get back. This policy faithfully pursued will gradually put the governing machinery inside the pupil, and it will then govern him, not in the school room only, but whereever he goes.

FISH'S LECTURE.

Like the other institute work it was excellent, and the subject, Louis Kossuth intensely interesting. Mr. Fish is a good speaker, and has an impressive way, and these qualities added to the earnestness of his friendship and admiration for the great Hungarian made his descriptions more vivid and life-like. As we said, the subject is one of almost unexcelled possibilities for a lecture. It is new to most of our younger people. It is an admirable and lofty character to present to all. So with all the praise we feel is justly due to the speaker's powers and enthusiasm, still a small amount of criticism may not be amiss. The speaker should eliminate some of the digressions that have little to do with his subject. There is enough in the subject to make a lecture "two hours" long. If devoted only to Kossuth its value to hearers would be doubled, and the "effect" could all be retained. Then, some obscure history should be made plainer. To the younger teachers, it is no doubt still a matter of uncertainty as to how Kossuth and Hungary were conquered after having successfully resisted the Austrian power. The Austrian King, by intrique, induced the people of Croatia and several other provinces of Hungary to revolt and invade Hungary. The Austrian parliament at the instigation of Kossuth voted to raise 200,000 men to stop the invasion. But the king refused his sanction. War followed and Austria was soon brought into it. The Hungarians won many terrible battles and lost few, though armies of 100,000 on a side often met. It was one of the greatest wars of modern times. Finally, the Austrians made a new constitution for Hungary, which was very distateful to the latter. To offset this, Kossuth induced the Hungarians to declare independence. This proved unwise for some of his leading people and leading generals were not willing to go that far. If the Hungarians had followed up their victories by marching on Vienna, they might have won. But they did not do this. Austria then asked Russia to help her to defend a principle dear to both—the "divine right of kings," and a large army of Russians was soon assisting to crush Hungary. Gœrgei, Kossuth's leading general and who had opposed independence, gradually weakened and finally forced Kossuth to give up the dictatorship to him and leave the country. As soon as Kossuth was gone Gœrgei, on August 13, 1849, surrendered everything, even at a time when victories were being reported from other points. His conduct has never been explained. Later on, a sort of double government was organized for Austria and Hungary, and this continues till the present.

[To day,s work in type but crowed out. Will appear to-morrow.]

THURSDAY MORNING.

At the opening hour, the institute was led in prayer by Mrs Ehlers and the singing was conducted by Irvin Hadsel. The regular lessons followed, a brief outline of which we give.

PROF. MOORE'S TALKS.

The law of method in the pupil's process of knowing, demands of the teacher (1) Knowledge of the pupil's assimilative capital; (2) An organic knowledge of the subject matter from beginning to end; (3) Knowledge of the steps involved in adjusting the subject matter to the pupil; (4) Freedom of the pupil to establish his own "correspondence." This last point is one that needs careful guarding. The sole function of the teacher is to create the opportunity and necessity for the pupil's self activity.

READING.

The importance of Reading as a factor in education is apparent at once in the fact that through it the sphere from which one draws material for his ideas is widened from that of his own community to that part of the world. Through it he becomes "a denizen of the universe." Yet that which constitutes the essential nature of the reading lesson is perhaps less understood than that of any other subject. Efforts to make the study of reading definite and tangible have run off into biography, geography, history, botany, zoology, etc., and missed the essential thing. All these factors have a place, as will be pointed out—but they are not the "be all and end all" of literature.

ALEY—METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

In the applications of arithmetic a clear understanding of business customs is necessary. Much difficulty may be avoided by proper attention to this fact. The new terms must then be seen in relation to the facts already in the minds. The highest kind of analysis is thought analysis; that in which from an understanding of the problem, the mind determines the fundamental process necessary for the solution. External forms of analysis may have a place, but the essential thing is the thought back of the form.

AFTERNOON.

The first exercise Thursday afternoon was:

ALEY——METHOD IN ARITHMETIC.

The number work of the Primary Grades is determined by the nature of Arithmetic. The primary teacher needs to have the same comprehensive view of the subject that the advanced teacher has. The purpose in primary work is to become thoroughly acquainted with elementary numbers and their relations. This end may be reached by the study of numbers as an attribute of objects by counting and by the use of symbols. As soon as the mind is able it must make the transition from concrete number to number in the abstract. Too much object work will hinder this transition; Counting may help it.

After Prof. Aley's lecture, Miss Flora Hoffman gave a selection on the great pipe organ—an example of the skill and taste necessary to manipulate this complicated machine. It is wonderful to one who sees for the first time a player use both hands and both feet, while at the same time the eyes are on the music and the mind governing all. The organ is the finest in the country and Miss Hoffman is the most accomplished player on this instrument that we know of.

At the close of this, Clapp, the photographer was in readiness, and took a picture of the teachers as they were grouped in front of the church. This can be had by any who wish as soon as finished.

Miss Maud Sembower of Garrett played a solo on the piano of which all speak in the highest terms. The young lady is a graduate of the Chicago School of music.

After Prof. Moore had concluded, there was a vocal solo by Mrs. Aurilla Merica, one of the sweet singers of Garrett. It was worthy of the applause that was generously given.

NOURSE'S LECTURE.

Dr. Nourse, of Washington, D. C. gave the lecture Thursday evening, the last of the course, and in our own judgment the best. All were excellent, and we again have proof that our town, and the teachers of DeKalb county, will support a lecture course of the best talent. His subject, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," were introduced by a rapid and brief outline of this famous story by Robert Louis Stevenson. The introduction showed vividly the two diverse characters which the novelist had so naturally attributed to the same man. Dr. Jekyll, the scholarly gentleman, the philanthropist, the respected citizen, suddenly changed by a mysterious potion into a terrible character, a fiend, a criminal of the most heartless kind, and a murderer. The story is not a pleasant one, but is fascinating in its appearance of dreadful reality. The speaker is an actor of power and versatility, and the effect of the story was in no wise lessened by his impersonation. Sandwiched among it all, he offered his audience, specimens of the keenest wit and satire, and the highest lessons of morality. His audience was the largest of any evening of the week, over 400 reserve seats having been sold, besides the usual common ticket is no to be wondered at, as Dr. Nourse has been here before. He lectured in Auburn about four years ago, at the county institute, his subject then being "John and Jonathan."

PROF. MOORE——READING.

Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, Prof Moore's work on the subject of reading was continued. He said:

The difference between reading as it appears in History, Geography, etc. and reading as literature is that in the former the images aroused by the words are linked up with other images of the same class into a chain of cause and effect, while in the latter the images aroused are interpreted directly from the inner emotional and ethical life of the pupil. For example in the story of the Battle of Balakavla as it appears in the history lesson, the emphasis is placed upon its causes and effects as found in other events in history, but when the pupil reads "The Charge of the Light Brigade" he is not thinking of the effect on European history but of loyalty to duty in the face of death itself.

ALEY——HISTORY.

Method in history rests on the same basis as method in any other subject. What we understand history to be influences our teaching. If we believe it to be chronology, then that receives emphasis. If we believe it to be war and bloodshed, then that is made emphatic. On the other hand if we believe it to be the ideas, thoughts, feelings, the life of the people, then this receives emphasis. This latter view gives the best exercise ground. It places the emphasis on the real thing. It gives the key to interpret events, and the ability to properly select events for study. True historical study must touch all sides of the life of a people.

Dr. Nourse was in the institute a short time in the morning and gave a brief talk in his inimitable way. It was gems all through.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

There was but one exercise and this was Prof. Moore's reading of Shakspeare. It was from the "Merchant of Venice", with the view of representing Shylock. It was excellently done. With a few encourging words from Supt. Merica the teachers separated to their homes, feeling they had been well paid for attending.

TRUSTEE'S RPEORT.

Financial statement of receipts, and expenditures and balances on hand of the several funds of Butler township, as shown by settlement with the commissioners by ex-trustee, W. H. Fair, Aug. 5, 1895.

TOWNSHIP FUND.

On hand Aug. 6 1894.....	$ 324 75
Received during year.....	667 10
Expended.....	702 66
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895...	289 19

SPECIAL SCHOOL FUND.

On hand Aug. 6, 1894.....	$ 517 15
Received during year.....	325 71
Expended.....	565 78
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1865...	277 08

TUITION.

On hand Aug 6, 1894.....	$1243 08
Received during year.....	1702 47
Expended.....	1547 54
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895...	1398 01

ROAD FUND.

On hand Aug. 6, 1894.....	$ 83 60
Received during year.....	215 94
Expended.....	200 42
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895....	99 12

DOG FUND.

On hand Aug. 6, 1894.....	$ 68 82
Received during year.....	72 00
Expended.....	54 00
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895....	86 82

BRIDGE FUND.

On hand Aug. 6, 1894.....	$ 456 76
Received during year.....	309 92
Expended.....	418 62
Balance on hand Aug. 5, 1895...	348 06

ORDERS OUTSTANDING.

Two orders against the road fund are outstanding, viz:

One order due June 20, 1896....	$ 81 25
One order due June 20, 1897....	81 25
Total.....	162 50

$1,000 for Nothing.

Curtis Buntin, President St. Brooklyn, N. Y., spent $1,000 with doctors and at famous Springs, in the effort to cure a bad case of rheumatism; but to no avail. Drummond's Lightning Remedy helped him from the start and by its use he was fully restored. It will do the same for you it you give it a trial. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send to your express address a month's treatment—two large bottles of their remedy. Agents wanted. 36 37

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed. WILCOX SPECIFIC CO., 228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Cheap Excursions to the west.

Bountiful harvests are reported from all sections of the west and northwest, and an exceptionally favorable opportunity for home-seekers and those desiring a change of location is offered by the series of low rate excursions which have been arranged by the North-Western Line. Tickets for these excursions, with favorable time limits, will be sold on August 23, September 10 and 24 to points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and a large number of other points. For full informatin apply to agents of connecting lines, or address A. H. Waggener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place, Indianapolis, Ind. 34 35 37

HEART DISEASE!

Fluttering, No Appetite, Could Not Sleep, Wind on Stomach.

"For a long time I had a terrible pain at my heart, which fluttered almost incessantly. I had no appetite and could not sleep. I would be compelled to sit up in bed and belch gas from my stomach until I thought that every minute would be my last. There was a feelling of oppression about my heart and I was afraid to draw a full breath. I could not sweep a room without resting. My husband induced me to try and am happy to say it has cured me. I now have a splendid appetite and sleep well. Its effect was truly marvelous."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

MRS. HARRY E. STARR, Pottsville, Pa.

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

Thousands of Women

SUFFER UNTOLD MISERIES.

BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR,

ACTS AS A SPECIFIC

By Arousing to Healthy Action all her Organs.

It causes health to bloom, and joy to reign throughout the frame.

... It Never Fails to Regulate ...

"My wife has been under treatment of leading physicians three years, without benefit. After using three bottles of BRADFIELD'S FEMALE REGULATOR she can do her own cooking, milking and washing." N. S. BRYAN, Henderson, Ala.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.

Sold by druggists at $1.00 per bottle.

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB, The World's Largest Clothing Store, CHICAGO, ILL.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. SEPTEMBER 12. 1895. NUMBER 37.

OUR MOTTO

IS, "WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD."

OUR GOODS

ARE WARRANTED TO BE FIRST CLASS.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE:...

FINEST LINE OF

SYOYES

IN THE COUNTY.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

REMEMBER

THAT MONEY SAVED

IS MONEY MADE.

Diamonds Found.

HOW A LAWSUIT WAS RUINED DOWN IN HUNTINGTON.

Huntington Democrat.

"Well, I'll be darned, if there ain't those diamonds," was the remark made by Martin Schaefer, Friday evening, at about 7:30 o'clock, as he was procuring some pulverized chalk for a customer.

The readers of The Democrat will remember, several months since, of how Mrs. Dora Nelson left a package, alleged to contain a set of diamond earrings, at the drug store of Schaefer & Schaefer for safe keeping, it being show day and the lady not wishing to carry them on her person or leave them at her residence for fear of their being stolen, and how mysteriously the package disappeared after the same had been placed in the money drawer by R. O. Schaefer. When the lady called for the package, it was gone and after a thorough investigation of the matter, no one seemed to know anything about the package or what had become of it. Everp nook and corner in the drug store was examined, but nothing was found, and upon failing to produce the package, suit was instituted by Mrs. Nelson in the circuit court for the value of the diamond earrings, she alleging they were worth $500.

When the case was called in court, the plaintiff, by her attorneys, moved and was granted a change of venue from this county to that of Wabash. The case came up for trial in the Wabash circuit court about three months ago, and after hearing the evidence of both sides of the case, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, giving her judgment in the sum of $100 besides the costs, as the value of her less. The case, as it now stands, is pending a hearing of a motion for a new trial and what bearing the finding of the package will have on the future trial of the case, cannot be ascertained at present.

The glass stock bottle, containing the package, stood on the shelf in plain view of all customers entering the store, and no doubt the package has been seen a thousand times by the proprietors and clerks in the drug store. The discovery of the package happened in this way: A customer wanted pulverized chalk, and as the stock bottle contained only about one-half the quantity wanted, Martin proceeded to open the package to fill out the required amount, when the small plush covered box came to light, which caused Martin to make the remark given at the opening of this article.

It still remains a mystery however, as to who placed the package in the stock bottle, Rudy being doubly positive that he placed it in the money drawer.

The diamonds are found, the lady, no doubt, will feel happy.

Obituary.

George Burton, son of Allison and Drusilla Conrad, was born Nov. 29, 1886, and died Sept. 1, 1895, aged 8 years, 9 months and 2 days. On the 19th of August he and a little playmate were drawing a little wagon, and on going through a low place came to a sudden halt, striking the child in the right side of the bowels. He complained some during the night. The next day he seemed better and continued so until Thursday, when he began to feel much worse. A doctor was called at once and everything was done that kind and loving hands could do to alleviate his sufferings and save his life. A few days before he died he asked if he would see Jesus and the angels. Rev. J. D. Brosy was called and the rites of baptism administered to the little one, which pleased him greatly and seemed to satisfy and comfort him. All who saw him remarked on the patience and fortitude he showed. He was passionately fond of flowers, and knowing this, the floral tributes at the last rites were numerous and lovely. Services were held by Rev. J. D. Brosy, at the Lutheran church, and the interment was in Woodlawn.

CARD OF THANKS.

Words are insufficient to tell the kindness of the neighbors. Such tireless devotion is seldom met with. Day and night they watched at the bedside of the little sufferer, doing all in their power to help him through, but of no avail. And the lovely floral tributes they brought for the casket and the grave were touching tributes of their loving hearts. No words can thank them enough.

MRS. DRUSILLA CONRAD,
MRS. SHULL,
MR. AND MRS. FREMONT SMITH.

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. 1f

Thursday's Daily:

Gone With The Hired Man

HER HUSBAND AND ELEVEN CHILDREN GLAD OF IT.

A Letter Left Behind.

DEAR GEORGE:—I leave you for our mutual benefit. I have taken our pocket book. I could not wait longer. I must take advantage of the tempting offers made by the big bargain house. I go to Bishop & Lackey's for our winter dry goods. Pete and I will be home early.

MRS. BLANK.

(Later.—She left Bishop & Lackey's with seven large bundles of dry goods, well pleased with her purchases.)

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist church at Ryes Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding lagrippe Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interuption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at Robbins and McCord's drugstore. Regular size 50c. and $1 00. 1

Commissioners Court

The county commissioners were in session yesterday and granted the following liquor licenses:

Bob McClellan,	Auburn
J. N. Ritter,	Garrett
Henry Mossy,	Auburn Junction
Sherman Knisely,	Ashley
Oliver Oberlin,	Butler
Chas. McMartin,	Butler
Phillip Watters,	Waterloo

To-day they were working on ditches.

A Problem

Rev. Geo. Lambert, who has been traveling in the Holy Land, lately lectured at Mentone, and we clip from the Gazette, the following problem in the use of money. He gave a season ticket to his lectures for the correct answer showing the itemized and the total value in U. S. Money. The bills he paid in each country he passed through were:

In India, 117 Rupees, 6 annas; in Egypt 5 egyptian pounds; in Turkey, 20 medjidie; in Japan, 46 yen, 15 cen; in India, 62 rupees, 8 annas; in India 105 rupees, 10 annas; in Egypt, 5 pounds, egyptian; in England, 10 pounds, sterling; in Japan, 62 yen, 3 cen; in Italy 325 lira; in Switzerland, 142 francs; in France, 350 francs; in Turkey, 80 medjidie; in Egypt 25 pounds; in Turkey, 75 pounds, Turkish; in England, 20 pounds. What was the sum worth in our money.

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winnesheik Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34tf

Changed Hands.

Another business change. To-day Sam Campbell, bought John Knoder's blacksmith shop and will have an establishment of his own. Mr. Knoder has been located there for many years and the location is good. Mr. Campbell is also an excellent workman and will no doubt extend the business greatly, and include other lines, as we believe he is a skillful wool worker. The COURIER wishes the new firm success and good business.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Indians Strike

That Indians are fast learning white men's ways is shown by this dispatch of Sept. 4, from Deer River, Minnesota:

One hundred and fifty Indians, who have been working for Frank Vance, gathering his hay crop, went on a strike this afternoon and capturing Mr. Vance, threatened to burn him at the stake unless he acceded to their demands. More than this the Indians declared they would scalp him before the torture was begun. Mr. Vance, who was badly frightened, got away from the Indians and remained in hiding until the red men had gone back to their reservation. The Indians were hired by Mr. Vance to cut hay at a rate of $2 50 a ton. This price was satisfactory to them till this morning when they learned the price of hay had advanced quite materially, and that Mr. Vance would make a good thing out of his crop. The Indians were of the opinion that they should have $4 a ton for cutting and putting it up. Now they claim they were only in fun

Fort Wayne Races.

Mr. Ed Kline, representing the Fort Wayne Driving Club, was in town Saturday putting up bills for the Ft. Wayne races which occur September 23-28th. Mr. Kline informs us that the races at Fort Wayne will this year eclipse any which have ever been held over their justly celebrated track, on which the world's record was beaten last year. The much talked of race between John R. Gentry and Joe Patchen will not take place, but in its place will be a free for all pace, in which Robert J., 2:01½, Fidol, 2.04¼, Rubenstein, 2:06, and others are expected to start, and it is believed that such a race will prove vastly more interesting than any special match race.

Arrangements have been made for a one fare rate on Thursday and Friday, and for a one and one-third rate on all other days of the meeting.

Auburn's Teachers

The following is the list of teachers engaged in the Auburn schools for the coming year, as reported by Supt. B. B. Harrison who is in charge of all.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING.

High School,	J. C. Teeters
Eighth year,	Stella Hague
Seventh "	Effay VanDoren

MAIN BUILDING.

Sixth year,	Lydia Teeters
Fifth " South Section,	Nellie Buckley
Fifth " North "	Mary Teeters
Fourth "	Bertha Yates
Third "	Laura Sawvel
Second "	Stella Tarney
First "	Jennie B. Clifton

WARD BUILDING.

Third and Fourth years,	Lida Ettinger.
First and Second "	Maggie Buckley

INSURANCE AGENCY:—People desiring good insurance should remember that Geo. Lanning has an office at the Davis Harware store, and works some of the very best companies in the country. Good farm risks taken. Call on him. 32tf

Last Was First

There was an exciting race on the Avenue Saturday afternoon. In the forenoon three teams, from Angola as is supposed, had gone toward the Junction loaded with household goods. In the afternoon they returned empty, that is, the three lumber wagons were empty. Just as they approached the Matt Case bridge the second team whipped up to run around the first. Then the third team "got the gad" to run around both the others. He overtook the head team right on the bridge which is hardly wide enough for comfort. His wagon struck in such a way that the box flew up, till a big space of air could be seen under it but the driver managed to stay in and in some way he got by, winning the race. But as they all went careering up the Avenue, he did not look back to see what became of his whip and sack, that had taken wings when the box flew up. J. R. Steves has the whip and Curt Case, the sack. The owners can have them by paying 5 cents a line for this notice, proving property and asking no questions. By the way, if we were not in danger of having the Dispatch think we were making political capital, we would suggest to the town authorities that the Matt Case bridge ought to be widened, or else it will be impossible to race on the Avenue any more.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

An Electric Railway.

The COURIER, two or three years ago, had a series of articles about a line of electric railway to run through DeKalb county. At that time there were parties who stood ready to build the line and equip it, and we presume the same parties would undertake it now. The plan, as then drawn up, had the line begin at Garrett and run to Auburn Junction; from the Junction it came on up to Auburn, thence up to Waterloo, then up to Steubenville, and from there to Ashley and Hudson. This line, if successful, could later be extended to Hamilton or Angola. But the two places last named would probably not pay at present. But we believe the main line, as shown above, would pay well. The portion between the Junction and Auburn would no doubt pay the best for its length. That between Auburn and Waterloo, and between Auburn and Garrett, would come next. But there would grow up a big amount of travel between this place and Ashley and Hudson. There is a great deal of travel between these towns now, but there would be a great increase when a pleasant trip could be made at a small cost. We believe these electric roads are going to come into pretty general use. The B. & O. is arranging a short line to run over their tracks from Baltimore to Washington. This makes the start of the new kind of railroad at the same town where the first regular railroad of the United States started in 1832.

Institute Lectures

We have often spoken of the excellent patronage given to high class lectures of DeKalb county teachers' institutes, and complimented our people and our county superintendent, for it needs the combined energy of both to make a such a series of lectures a success in a community so small as ours. It takes a good degree of business tact. on the part of the superintendent. Now, by way of contrast, we quote what W. B. Campbell says of the aitendance at these lectures at the institute in Anderson, a city of over 20,000.

The attendance at the evening lectures of Dr. White and Hon. George W. Bain are a reflection on the culture and intelligence of Anderson. The lecture of Dr. White on "The Duty of the Hour" was pronounced by Superintendent Carr and Attorney Keltner the best they ever heard in Anderson. Yet, less than half the seats in the Church of God were taken. Mr. Bain, Kentucky's silver tongued orator, matchless in his wit and the great truths he pressed into an hour's talk, was heard by only about 300 people. A game of base ball on a Sunday afternoon would have drawn nearer a thousand people at the same price. Base ball has its place in the economy of things, but we plead for a larger place for such lectures as those of Dr. White and Mr. Bain. They make for good citizenship, for better women, for nobler manhood, for truer womanhood.

To Louisville.

Monday's Daily.

A number of G. A. R. men, with their wives, left this morning for Louisville, Ky., where they will attend the G. A. R. National Encampment. The Wabash seemed to be the popular route, as the 7:15 train this morning was crowded when it reached here. Among those whom we noticed that took the train here were: Geo. W. Gordon and wife, Capt. Otto, J. R. Nichols, J. W. Bates, Isaac Dilmar, James W. May and Thos. Crise.

A Reward of $500

Will be given for any case of rheumatism which cannot be cured with Dr. Drummonds Lightning Remedy. The proprietors do not hide this offer, but print it in bold type on all their circulars, wrappers, printed matter, and through the columns of newspapers everywhere. It will work wonders, one treatment curing any ordinary case. The two bottles will be sent to any address by express on receipt of $5. Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. Agents wanted.

ELECTRIC BITTERS.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed in the Spring, when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. Only fifty cents per bottle at Robbins & McCord's Drug Store. 1

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia, in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50t

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

OUR Buyer

IS NOW IN THE CITY

SELECTING NEW GOODS

To add to our already Extensive Stock.

He will give particular attention to
DRESS GOODS
AND DRY GOODS
....IN GENERAL....
But will also pick up the very
LATEST IDEAS IN CLOTHING and
LADIES' WRAPS.

These goods will be in by Tuesday of next week, and we cordially invite one and all to call, whether you wish to purchase or not. While the Buyer is busy in the City we shall be busy here giving you Special Bargains in order to

Make Room for the Goods to Come.

Remember OUR STORE!

Is filled with Bran New

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,
LADIES' WRAPS, CARPETS,

And we are saving you money on every purchase you make from us.

Schaab & Bro.

Smoke
THE "DINGER!"
E. M. BISHOP,
AUBURN.

What is
CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."
DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
DR. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."
H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass.
ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres.,

The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. RAMEY . . PUBLISHER.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE.

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings of an Important Nature.

THE VALLEY ROAD

Will Be Put Upon the Auction Block and Sold.

Cleveland (Ohio) special: The Valley railroad will be sold here at public auction under an order issued by United States Judge Ricks. It is generally understood among the officials of the United States Court and railroad men that there will be but one bidder—the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. The addition of the Valley property to its lines will give the Baltimore and Ohio what it has desired for years—a through line to Cleveland. It is almost certain that the Baltimore and Ohio will absorb the property without contest, for the minimum price fixed by the court. The Wheeling and Lake Erie Company, which made a strong fight to gain possession of the road some time ago, will enter the city over the Valley and be given terminal facilities here under an agreement with the Baltimore and Ohio.

Attempts to Hold Up a Bank While Delirious.

At noon the other day a man walked into the First National Bank, at the corner of Main and Seventh street, Richmond, Ind., and demanded that the cashier hand him over $2,000. The manner of the man indicated that he was insane and a police officer was summoned. When arrested he gave his name as John Gerdes, and developments show that he is a brick mason of Fort Wayne. He has been sick at a boarding house, suffering with typhoid fever, and while in a delirious condition he arose from his bed, dressed himself and went out into the street. His condition at present is such that he requires the closest attention to keep him from doing some person bodily injury.

A Fortune Found in an Old Boot.

Richmond (Ky.) special: In tearing down an old log house near the southern part of this county, Henry Burton found an old boot in which was carefully hid away $600 in old State bank notes and $900 in gold. Several of the gold coins were dated 1810, and the notes were issued by banks that quit business about the beginning of the war. Burton paid $50 for the lumber in the house, and when he saw the gold he discharged the men helping him and completed the job alone. It is supposed that the money was hidden during the war when Morgan and his men were raiding through this section.

Cut Her Throat.

Lon Rooker, a moulder employed at the Indianapolis car works, murdered his wife by cutting her throat. He also attempted to kill Mrs. Emma Pees, of 79 Rhode Island street, slashing her about the head and face with a razor, making wounds from which it is believed she will not recover. He then cut his own throat. Jealousy was the cause of the crime. Rooker believed his wife, from whom he separated, was not living as she should and he resolved to kill her. The crime was premeditated.

Furious Flames.

The Folkerts & McPhee saw-mill, in the center of Alpena, Mich., was discovered to be on fire, and as a gale was blowing from the south it looked as if the northwestern part of the city was doomed. Over 100 small fires were started on the roofs of dwellings. The mill, a portion of the docks and fire engine house No. 2 were destroyed, also 9,000,000 shingles and 100,000 posts on the docks. The losses amount to $44,000, with less than $4,000 insurance.

Shot a Ghost.

For some time past the residents of Prospect street, Massillon, Ohio, have been annoyed by what superstitious people called a ghost. Frank Webb and William Conrad, wishing to have sport, dressed themselves to represent the ghost. Henry Ryder, on his way home, saw the pair and thinking it was the much-talked-of ghost, fired at them. Webb received a flesh wound in the arm and Conrad got a ball in his heel. Neither are seriously, though painfully injured.

Crippled Peddler Killed.

Joseph Bennett fell from a third-story window at the Lake Erie House, Lafayette, Ind., and his skull was crushed by contact with the brickpaved court below. He had been drinking the night before. He was a one-armed peddler and a stranger here.

Boy Drowned.

Harvey Gates, an 8-year-old boy, was swinging on a rope hanging from a limb of a tree that extended over Pigeon Creek, at Evansville, Ind., and fell into a deep hole. He was drowned before help could reach him. The body was recovered.

Killed His Father.

At Galveston, Ind., Frank Kemp shot his aged father, Daniel Kemp, through the loins, inflicting a wound from which he will die. The shooting grew out of a quarrel. Young Kemp is 27 years old and a leader in a Sunday-school.

A Wreck Near Lebanon.

Train No. 8 of the Chicago and Southeastern Railroad, was partly derailed eight miles east of Lebanon, Ind. Reuben Byroads was fatally injured. Several passengers escaped with slight injuries.

Mrs. Langtry's Divorce Suit.

New York special: Mrs. Langtry has at last begun suit for divorce from her husband, Edward Langtry. The grounds for the suit are desertion and neglect.

Killed by a Car.

Herbert Rhonneau, 4 years old, was run down by an electric car at Dayton, Ohio, and instantly killed. The lad fell with his head against the bumpers of the wheels and was mashed as flat as a plate. His clothing was literally drenched with blood and brain matter.

Killed by a Wagon.

The 8-year-old son of Dr. V. S. Koontz of Roanoke, Ind., was run over by a wagon, one of the wheels passing over his head. He died a few hours afterward.

ENTOMBED.

At Least Forty Men Doomed to a Horrible Death in a Burning Mine.

Calumet (Mich.) special: At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, fire broke out in a shaft of the Osceola mine, and at this time it is more than probable that forty men and boys have been burned to death or suffocated. The fire started in shaft No. 3, which is used to carry miners to the surface from the mine, and when the fire broke out all the men and boys employed in the mine, about 200 in number, made a rush for the shaft in the hope of being taken to the surface. The fire was too rapid for them, however, and the chance of escaping by the shaft was entirely cut off by flames and smoke. A majority of the imprisoned miners made a break for a cross-cut and in this way managed to reach another shaft from which they were taken to the top. Forty were missing when the roll was called. When a short time after they reached the surface, smoke began pouring from all the shafts and the escape of the men below was entirely cut off. The men in charge say now that there is not the slightest chance for any of the men now in the mine to escape with their lives. If they were not burned they must have been choked by the dense smoke within a short time after the fire started.

STORM'S FURY.

Details of the Destruction Wrought in Portions of Japan.

A special from Victoria, B. C., says: A destructive typhoon of unusal fury spent its strength at Kuobinotsu, Japan, shortly before the last steamer sailed. All foreign ships in the harbor were blown on shore. With a few exceptions the houses in the town were entirely destroyed or partly wrecked. Thirty-six vessels became total wrecks and the crews were all drowned. The wreckage, lashed by the awful fury of the gale, pounded to death hundreds of men, women, and children clinging to the floating parts of vessels littered over the sea. The loss of life was enormous. The crew of an American steamer spent the day in rescuing the drowning.

An Irishman named McGuin, rescued a large number with a lasso from the life boat.

The damage done by floods in Gifu Prefecture, Japan, is very alarming. Six hundred and eighteen villages suffered, 1,399 bridges were washed away, twenty people drowned and 22,326 persons received relief.

WILL SHUT DOWN.

Tin Plate Mills will All Close, Throwing 30,000 Men Out of Work.

A special from Cleveland, Ohio, says: The tin plate manufacturers in this city say that the big advance in the price of steel killed the tin plate industry so that in a few months every mill in the country turning out that product will be closed. J. W. Britton, president of the Britton tin plate mill, says: "There is in the neighborhood of $10,000,000 invested in 137 mills at present operating in this country, and from 27,000 to 30,000 men employed. In four months from now not one of these mills will be running. Last spring tin plate bar was selling at $18.50 per ton, and at that price we were able to make a little money. To-day tin plate bar cannot be bought for less than $28 per ton; none being for sale, however, as there is no market for it." H. P. McIntosh, president of the Crescent tin plate mills, spoke in a similar strain. He said the price of plate would have to be raised in order to make any profit, but the great trouble was that this would let in foreign manufacturers.

Natural Gas Scare.

The regulator house at one of the natural gas wells in Selma, Ind., caught fire and for nearly six hours the entire town was in danger of destruction. The main pipe exploded, tearing the regulator to pieces and the gas from a number of other pipes caught fire. Chams were attached to the stand pipes and with the aid of horses they were torn down. One immense stand pipe remains, and will be blown up by dynamite. It was feared that the blaze would run down the pipes into the large cave filled with gas, that is supposed to underlie the town and an explosion would follow. So great was the anxiety that hundreds of persons remained up all night.

Negro Fiend Lynched.

While Mr. Charles Jones, a highly respected citizen of Lincoln County, Tennessee, was in Fayetteville the other night attending lodge, a negro broke into his residence in the country, where his wife and her sister were staying, and committed a criminal assault on the wife. Both women recognized the negro as Dick King, a farm hand. King's arrest followed next day and he was found to have marks on his arm that was injured while he was forcing his way into the house. Both women visited King in jail and further identified him as their assailant. Saturday morning at an early hour a mob of 200 men took King from the jail and hanged him to a tree.

Nihilist at Work.

The Rothschilds' banking house in Paris was the scene of another nihilistic attempt. A man entered the bank from the Rue Lafitte. In the vestibule a detective, who was on guard there, saw the stranger trying to light the fuse to a bomb which he carried, with a cigarette. The ashes on the cigarette prevented the ready ignition of the fuse, and the man, seeing that he was observed, threw the bomb upon the carpeted floor. The weapon did not explode and the man was arrested. When he was taken to the police office he boldly avowed himself an anarchist.

The Yankee Boat a Winner.

New York special: All hail Defender. The aluminum and bronze boat Defender, defeated Valkyrie III. eight minutes, forty-nine seconds in the first of the races for the America's cup, Saturday. Twenty thousand people on the greatest flotilla that ever assembled off Sandy Hook, witnessed the race, and there was a scene of hilarious joy when Defender crossed the line fully two miles ahead of Lord Dunraven's boat. The joy of the multitude was undoubtedly increased by the fact that Valkyrie led the Yankee boat for the first hour.

Over The Falls to Death.

Albert Goss and John Armor of Atlanta, Ga., started to a mill with a load of corn. When they reached the ferry above Park's Mill they found the Oconee River so high that the regular ferryman, Caldwell, declined to risk an attempt to cross. Caldwell's son, Ira, said he would take them across. The three men got on a flatboat and pushed off. When they reached the middle of the river they were caught in the current, swept down stream half a mile and carried over the falls. All three were drowned.

Train Robbers Foiled.

A bold attempt was made to hold up the Vandalia passenger train between Plymouth and Marmont, Ind. Two men, heavily armed with knives and revolvers, boarded the train at Plymouth, and when a few miles out drew guns and knives and started to carry out their plans. The conductor, brakeman and others, drew their guns. The opposition was so strong that the bandits jumped from the train near Marmont and escaped.

Cubans Walloped the Spaniards.

Key West (Fla.) special: Private letters to this city bring the news of a big battle fought on August 31, near Santiago De Cuba, between the insurgents under Antonio Maceo and Spanish troops commanded by Canellas, in which the insurgents completely routed the troops, killing 600 soldiers and eighty officers and wounding Canellas. The Spanish papers report that the battle was fought, but did not give the details.

The Second Victim.

The 8-year-old daughter of Archibald Stowe, living three miles east of Peebles, Ohio, fell from an apple tree, breaking her right arm in two places, besides sustaining what is now supposed to be fatal injuries, caused by striking her head on a piece of a stump. Nearly four years ago a brother of the girl fell from a tree close by, and sustained injuries which caused his death.

Eight Tramps Burned.

Norristown (Pa.) special: It is believed that at least eight tramps met their death by the burning of a large barn belonging to the Pennsylvania Railroad company near Earnest station. Six bodies have already been recovered and the debris has not all been cleared away. The barn had been a rendezvous for tramps for years.

Business Houses in Ashes.

Fire broke out in Carrollton, Ky., and as a result the following buildings, with their contents, are in ashes: Mrs. Gertrude Smith, three business houses, occupied by M. & M. Denkelspiel, general merchants; Browinski & Son, druggists, and H. J. Ruhlman, shoe merchant; C. D. Salyers, stovestore and stock. The loss on this property is fully $65,000. All of the parties have reasonable insurance except Mr. Ruhlman, who has none. Fifteen other persons and firms were damaged more or less by the fire or intense heat, bringing the total loss to nearly $75,000. The postoffice and Jett's large whisky house were saved only by a most heroic fight, but the postoffice was greatly damaged.

Opened His Safe.

Two residences were badly wrecked and two people injured in a peculiar manner at Sharon, Penn. The combination of William Goldberg's safe failed to work, and he placed a large quantity of dynamite in an aperture made in the safe and set it off. The safe was scattered to fragments, and $5,000 of notes and securities, together with $500 in cash, were totally destroyed. The safe door, in descending, crushed through Joseph Hookey's house from roof to cellar, over a quater of a mile distant. Goldberg and a workman were plainfully injured, but will recover.

Collapse of a Building.

A horrible accident occurred at the State fair grounds, Springfield, Ill. The great machinery hall which is now being roofed collapsed and fell in, burying several men beneath its ruins. Two men were killed outright, and many were injured, some of whom will die. It is the general opinion that the late hard rain loosened the mortar which had not time to dry, work having been rushed on the building in order to have it completed in time for the fair. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars. All of the imprisoned men were gotten out and several were uninjured.

Crippled Convict Flees.

George Blackburn escaped from the Ohio State Penitentiary recently. George has served five terms in the Ohio Penitentiary and seen the inside of other State prisons. He has about a year to serve on his last sentence from Hocking County of ten years for burglary. He is 73 years old and crippled. One arm is entirely useless. He was missed at locking up time, and his prison clothes found down by the river. Blackburn had worked on the construction of every building inside the prison walls.

They Stole $16,000.

Much excitement was caused at Terre Haute, Ind., by the discovery that the Adams Express office had been robbed of a large sum of money. J. D. Fardén, cashier of the Adams express office, and J. R. Barnett, city ticket agent of the Vandalia, who has his office in the same room, are missing. A package containing $16,000, deposited by Internal Revenue Collector Jump, to be shipped to the Cincinnati sub-treasury, is also missing. The theft may be much larger.

Murder and Suicide.

A double tragedy was enacted at Pleasureville, Penn., recently. William Beaverson, who deserted his wife six months ago and served time in the county jail, was released the other day. He went to the place where his wife was stopping and put a bullet through her, resulting in her instant death. He then placed the revolver to his head and killed himself by putting a bullet in his brain. The deed is attributed to jealousy.

Show Train Jostled.

Pine Bluff (Ark.) special: While the cars of Pawnee Bill's Wild West show were being coupled in the Iron Mountain yard for a trip to Little Rock, they received a tremendous jostle, which smashed almost all the glass in the train, and six attaches of the show were more or less seriously injured.

The New York Way.

A number of milk dealers of New York were in the court of general sessions fined from $25 to $75 each, with an alternative of from ten to thirty days imprisonment for selling impure milk. Nearly all placed the responsibility on the milk shippers and paid their fines.

A State Rights Row.

A sensation has been produced in court circles at Chattanooga, Tenn., by a Circuit Judge forcing the County Register to produce books in court, which is a violation of the Tennessee statute. The officer did not obey until he was arrested for contempt.

Prize Fighters Bound Over.

The old Bay State is feminst prize fighting. Judge Ely, at Boston, held the principals in the O'Brien-Walcott case in $1,000 bonds each to appear in the superior court to answer to the charge of prize fighting.

Fell On His Brother.

At Columbus, Ohio, George Ripple, aged 10 years, had his skull fractured and his collar bone broken by his brother falling out of a tree upon him. The other boy was unhurt. George will probably die.

Gone with the Cash.

Secretary Van Cuepan, of the National Cigarmaker's union, has disappeared and so has $900 of the union's money.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 62c to 63c; corn, No. 2, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 40c to 42c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 12c to 14c; potatoes, per bushel, 30c to 35c; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 3c to 5½c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2, 61c to 62c; corn, No. 1 white, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 27c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 64c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 38c to 40c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 63c to 65c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 21c to 22c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 43c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $4.00 to $5.00; sheep, $2.00 to $3.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 64c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 39c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; rye, 41c to 43c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 64c to 66c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 38c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 21c; rye, No. 2, 43c to 44c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.25; hogs, $3.00 to $5.50; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 68c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 61c to 62c; corn, No. 3, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 41c to 42c; rye, No. 1, 42c to 43c; pork, mess, $8.75 to $9.25.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, $4.00 to $5.75; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2, 42c to 43c; oats, No. 2 white, 24c to 25c; butter creamery, 15c to 21c; eggs, Western, 14c to 16c.

OUR CATTLE THE BEST

MARKET FOR UNITED STATES PRODUCTS IN ENGLAND.

Reviewed in Detail in Recent Reports—Imports of Apples from Europe Regulated by the Size of the Crop in This Country.

American Consular Reports.

The markets for United States products in Great Britain are reviewed in detail in recent consular reports. Cattle from this country are reported from Liverpool as superior to the native cattle, the latter including many immature and young animals slaughtered for food and also a greater proportion of old animals. Consul Neal at Liverpool reports, however, that sheep from the United States and other countries do not compare favorably with the British, lacking taste and tenderness, and it is suggested by experienced men that this might be greatly improved by shipping the sheep younger, say one to two years old. It is suggested by the trade in the Liverpool district that American tobacco be packed thoroughly dry when intended for consumption there and altogether free from either heated or bulk-heated leaves.

Large quantities of apples are received from various countries on the continent of Europe, but the importations appear to be regulated by the size of the apple crop in the United States. American apples command the highest prices. Forty-five per cent. of the wheat and 90 per cent. of the flour in the Liverpool consular district come from the United States. American glucose and starch are not as valuable in the Liverpool district as the product from Germany and Holland, though in good demand through low prices, and in some portions of the district the glucose importation is exclusively from the United States.

Consumers depend to a large extent on the importations of bacons and hams principally from the United States and Canada. The strongest objection made by the Liverpool trade to hog meats packed in the United States is that of insufficient curing.

The Provision Trade Association suggests absolute prohibition of export of filled cheese from the United States and greater care in the manufacture of the best, so as to equal the Canadian product.

The consumption of American canned meats is falling off and that of Australia increasing, due largely to relatively high prices of American goods. Consul Neal recommends that the United States make more of the finest grades for export to compete with other supply sources.

In the Hull district the American cigarettes are regarded as the best in the market.

America furnishes the entire foreign cattle supply for the Glasgow district, and the condition in which the animals land is regarded as highly satisfactory, the only complaint being that they are "unduly fat," necessitating waste in the shops. American horses are accused of being more liable to catch fatal colds soon after landing, on account of the damp climate, and with being unable to stand the wear and tear sustained by Welsh or Irish horses. Consul Morse at Glasgow reports that over 83 per cent. of the whole wheat supply there is imported from this country. The United States also leads in the importation of Indian corn, flour, starch and hams. Glasgow tobacco dealers charge deterioration of the American product on account of the producers aiming more at quantity than quality, and not giving as careful attention as formerly to picking and assorting.

The demand for American corn is very light at Belfast, the Black Sea product being preferred. In canned meats for that consular district the United States has no competitor. The charge is made that American ham is too heavy and the meat too rich. The reputation of American lard is also at a discount, it being asserted that it is tampered with on both sides of the Atlantic. Merchants at Belfast bitterly complain of the alleged deception of American shippers of apples, and the Canadian apples are accordingly growing in popularity.

LABOR'S BIG JUBILEE.

Great Demonstrations in Various Cities of the United States.

Organized labor throughout the United States observed its holiday with usual festivous demonstration. In Chicago the toilers took a day off and had a good time. Although there was a split in the ranks of organized labor and two rival parades were formed, there was no hint of trouble and everybody was good-natured. Each body turned out about 15,000 men, the marchers were splendidly arrayed, and both parades were memorable sights. When the parade passed the reviewing stand they were much as they have always been. The same horseshoers made the same horseshoes, the painters with the white caps and the bakers with the tools of their trade. They marched as well and as steadily as ever and exchanged greetings with friends on the curbstones as they always do. The rival parades were of about equal length and much similar in appearance. Congressman McGann, Mayor Pingree of Detroit, and others were at Ogden's Grove to address the Building Trades' Council, and they remained in the grove until long after the electric lights were turned on. The Labor Congress did not have a picnic, but instead a grand demonstration was given at the Auditorium in the evening. Keir Hardie and John Swinton were the speakers of the occasion, and an immense crowd was in the big theater to hear the famous socialist and author.

There was no general parade in New York City. The fact is considered significant of the general condition this year of New York working people; with but a few exceptions there are no questions to be agitated and no victories to be celebrated. The various labor organizations decided some time ago that a parade was not necessary and that the various unions should spend the day as the individual members saw fit. As a result there was a sudden exodus from the city in every direction. Picnic parties great and small took advantage of the various pleasure grounds and parks about the city. An unusual number of ball games, races, tournaments, and other forms of sports were arranged for the day. The holiday was generally observed throughout the city.

Labor day was celebrated at Terre Haute with a parade in the morning and exercises and amusements at the fair ground in the afternoon. There were 10,000 at the grounds, many of whom listened to the speeches of Senator Voorhees and Colonel McLean, ex-deputy commissioner of pensions. Senator Voorhees said: "I consulted with Debs' counsel when the case was before the Supreme Court and I know that Debs is suffering a penalty that the Constitution does not warrant. A lawful conviction must be preceded by an indictment and trial by a jury. A ranker, grosser and bitterer piece of injustice never blotted the page of our Federal judiciary." The Senator advised his hearers that they must not violate the laws, but should elect men to make laws that would be acceptable to them.

Beautiful weather contributed to the success of the Labor day celebration in St. Louis. All the banks, exchanges, courts, and city offices were closed and many retail stores gave their clerks a holiday. The labor organizations united in a parade of the principal streets at noon and afterward assembled at Concordia Park, where the remainder of the day was spent in amusements of various descriptions. Cleveland, Ohio, saw the biggest Labor day demonstration that the city has ever known. Business houses were generally closed and the city was in holiday dress. A parade in which every labor union in the city took part marched through the principal streets. In Buffalo, N. Y., Labor day was celebrated by a parade of the trades unions, followed by a picnic at Germania Park. Two thousand union men paraded in Indianapolis and in the afternoon several thousand people gathered at the State fair grounds and were addressed by President John McBride of the American Federation of Labor.

HELPS THE SEABOARD.

Decision by the Supreme Court of Georgia Favors This Famous Line.

In the suit of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad against the Western and Atlantic and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroads, a decision was handed down in the Supreme Court of Georgia at Atlanta which is decidedly in favor of the Seaboard Air Line, and gives this noted litigation a new turn. This litigation was caused by the boycott which the Southern Railway and Steamship Association declared against the Seaboard Air Line, causing all the associated roads to refuse to allow the Seaboard prorating privileges on through shipments. There had been a contract made between the Seaboard and the Western and Atlantic and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis railroads which guaranteed the Seaboard as advantageous rates as they should give to other connecting lines. The Seaboard therefore brought suit against those roads to enjoin them from entering the boycott ordered by the Southern Railway and Steamship Association.

The injunction was temporarily granted, but subsequently Judge Lumpkin ruled that the Western and Atlantic and the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis had a perfect right to enter the boycott in so far as through business was concerned, but on local business originating on the Western and Atlantic or destined to points on the road the defendants could not refuse to grant all concessions to the Seaboard allowed the other connecting lines. The case was appealed by the Seaboard Air Line to the Supreme Court, and the latter filed its opinion last Saturday. The decision in brief is as follows:

"Where, upon a valuable consideration, a railway company contracted with a railroad company to 'interchange business, both through and local,' with the latter and its connecting lines for a specified term of years 'upon terms as favorable and advantageous to said road and its connecting lines as those given to any other railroad entering' a designated city, the railway company was bound by the terms of this contract, not only as to freight shipped from or to points upon its own line, but also as to freights destined to or coming from points beyond the same; and, therefore, could not, so long as it pursued a different and more favorable course as to other railroads entering the city in question, lawfully do anything to deprive the railroad company with which it had contracted, and its connections, of the benefits of 'through rates and through proportions of rates and bills of lading founded thereupon' as to freights of the latter class.

"Under this contract, therefore, it was not, in view of the facts as found by the trial judge, lawful for the railway company, during the period therein stipulated, to voluntarily enter into contracts or maintain business relations with transportation companies beyond its own line, with the intention or purpose of depriving the other party to the contract (the railroad company) of the benefits above indicated; nor, with such intention or purpose, to refuse to receive from such transportation companies shipments of freight routed over the railroad company's line upon bills of lading giving to it the benefit of 'through rates and through proportion of rates' upon such shipments."

MANY INJURED IN A WRECK.

Engine Dashes Into a Crowded Train on the Seabeach Road.

An appalling railroad accident occurred near Woodlawn station, New York, on the Seabeach Railroad, in which fifty people were injured. While train No. 3, drawing seventeen cars, which were crowded almost to suffocation with excursionists, was standing at the Woodlawn station a wildcat engine came thundering along the tracks, telescoping it. The car was full of passengers, most of whom came from New York. Many people saw the engine tearing along and jumped from the train and thus saved their lives. Most of the injured were taken to the hospitals and several will die.

A colored porter yelled to the passengers to jump. The runaway engine dashed into the rear car, smashing it into kindling wood and burying men, women and children beneath it. There was a mad rush of humanity from the train. Scarcely half a dozen people kept their heads or were able to render assistance to the injured. Patrolman Kelly, who was on duty at the station, turned in several ambulance calls and five ambulances from the surrounding hospitals promptly responded. In the meantime the woodwork of the wrecked carriage caught fire and was soon in a blaze. Four cars were destroyed before the train hands were able to uncouple them and four cars were telescoped by the collision.

The police, who have Engineer Frank Jason and Fireman Arthur Ross of the runaway engine under arrest, say that engine No. 6, the wildcat, while shunting on the track, was in danger, while going backwards, of colliding with another engine. The engineer, thinking it impossible to avoid this collision, reversed the lever and jumped from the engine, followed by his fireman. The engine, however, jumped forward almost immediately and started down the tracks at a terrific rate of speed, resulting in the disaster.

News of Minor Note.

Asiatic cholera exists at Tarnepol, Galicia.

The bull fights at Gillette, Col., were a failure financially.

Sir W. Cleaver Robinson, Governor of Western Australia, has resigned.

George Tileson, president of a milling company at St. Cloud, Minn., was drowned in his millpond.

The Rev. C. F. Gates, of Chicago, has been elected president of Euphrates College at Harpool in Turkey.

Later reports show that there was no loss of life attending the wreck of the brig W. H. Meyer in Alaskan waters.

Experts have reported that the accounts of ex-County Treasurer M. W. Stewart of Wyandotte County, Kan., are short $33,885.

The New York State law closing barber shops is being generally enforced. Ningara is the only place where the law is a dead letter.

The Ohio Mining Company of Duluth has given George Green, of New York, one of its largest stockholders, a mortgage for $100,000.

Hereafter the government will recognize acts on the high seas on behalf of citizens of the United States by the award of handsome silver vases instead of gold watches, compasses, etc., as has been the custom in the past.

HOOSIER HAPPENINGS

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

What Our Neighbors are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

Minor State News.

FRANK MYERS, an Anderson fireman, fell from a ladder and was seriously injured.

A FARMER near Goshen sold ninety fine watermelons for $2. Melons are cheap as dirt in Indiana.

THE Thirty-sixth Indiana Regiment will hold its annual reunion at Cambridge City on Sept. 25 and 26.

LAPEL citizens are forming a stock company to own a bank and are erecting a fine building for that purpose.

WILLIAM TOOLEY was perhaps fatally hurt at Columbus, being buried in a cave while working in a city ditch.

SAMUEL NORMAN, aged 25 years, was drowned near Morgantown while crossing a swollen stream to care for some stock.

JOHN GRAHAM has filed suit against 30 prominent Burlington citizens, asking $1,000 from each for destroying his saloon with dynamite.

JOHN and Richard McGriff, two of the oldest twins in the United States, celebrated their 91st birthday, at Geneva, recently.

A PLANT for the manufacture of ice-making machinery is to be located at Elwood, and will employ 150 hands, all skilled machinists.

AT Anderson, while practicing ladder movements, Nozzleman Frank Myers fell from the first extension to the ground, twenty feet below. There is no hope of his recovery.

J. C. BEATTY of Logansport, fell from a residence on which he was working and was badly hurt. Shortly after his removal home Mrs. Beatty fell down a stairway, breaking her thigh.

ARTHUR SAPP, an employe of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass works at Elwood, got his right arm caught in the polishing benches and it was crushed to a pulp necessitating amputation.

JOHN DAVIS, aged 17, went down a well on A. W. Huron's farm, near Plainsfield to rescue Lon Crone, who had been overcome by firedamp. Crone was gotton out but his rescuer lost his life.

WILLIAM WORLEY, one of a party of hunters from Logansport, shot himself while making his way along the bank of the Wabash River. Death resulted instantly. Worley was 23 years old, and single.

NEAL SLOAN, fireman on the Monon, was killed in the roundhouse, at New Albany. He was coupling two tenders and was caught across the abdomen and crushed. Sloan's parents reside in the town of Marengo.

AT Union City, the 2-year-old child of Mrs. Stella Guard met with a serious accident. In some manner the baby secured a box of matches, and while playing with them they ignited, burning nearly all its clothing off, and the front part of its body into a crisp. It is thought that death will result.

THE American Tin-plate Company, which is operating the largest tin-plate plant in the world at Elwood, is arranging to add a big steel mill to its plant, which will manufacture all kinds of steel supplies and employ about 800 hands. When the twenty-one mills of the tin-plate plant all are completed and in operation that will require 2,000 men, making 2,800 in all which this immense industry will employ in a few more months.

THOMAS COOK, aged 74, who was sent to prison for one year from Greene County, has been pardoned by Governor Matthews. Cook was convicted last February on the charge of embezzlement. He was guardian for several heirs, and when he made his settlement he was $1,000 short. He disappeared for two months and his friends contended that his mind was unbalanced. The Judge and jury that tried him exerted an influence in behalf of the pardon.

AN accident occurred at the Hodson gravel pit, near Russiaville, resulting in the death of Alexander James, who was working in the pit shoveling sand. He was getting his sand from under a high bank, which caved in and buried him alive. His son-in-law, who was with him, worked almost an hour in removing the earth and sand, and found the old gentleman still conscious. He was taken to town, but died in the wagon. He was 75 years old.

OPPONENTS to the saloon in Franklin are rejoicing over their first victory under the Nicholson law. Two saloon keepers had given notice that they would apply for license, for the ensuing year, at the meeting of the County Commissioners. These saloons were both located in the First ward of the city. Remonstrances were circulated and 230 out of of 280 voters in that ward signed the papers. The overwhelming majority caused the Saloon keepers to make no application, and they will quite the business. One of them will open a grocery store and the other will continue in the ice and restaurant business. Of the seven saloons in the city, six, are located in the First ward, so it will be but a short time until the saloon will not be known in that place.

PATENTS have been granted to the following Indiana inventors: John R. Alexander, New Albany, electrical burglar alarm; Cyrus N. Baker, Crawfordsville, planter; George M. Barney, assignor of one-half to J. L. Clough, Indianapolis, for four patents on door-knob lock; Joseph A. Brunner, Fort Wayne, actuating mechanism; James W. Fishback, Goldsmith, well or post auger; Charles W. Gresham, Fredericksburg, wheel-handling device; Frances M. Hoover, Brookville, assigned to L. Kinsey and L. E. Ward, Milton, saw guard; Thomas P. Kenney, Hartford City, glass melting tank; David Shulters, Greenwood, device for lifting invalids; George Hymans, Sheridan, device for separating liquid from gas; Lewis P. Van Breggle, Groomsville, anchor for fence posts.

DURING the reunion of the Thirtieth Indiana Regimental Association at Fort Wayne, a costly drum was presented to Prof. W. H. Mershon of North Manchester, known as the "Drummer Boy of Shiloh," and who is now said to be the acknowledged champion drummer of Indiana.

BY the bursting of a cylinder of a hydraulic cider mill, William Wagler, of the firm of Wagler & Turnpaugh, at Logansport, was perhaps fatally injured. Too much pressure was applied and the cylinder flew to pieces. Heavy fragments struck Mr. Wragler in the chest and head, and his life is despaired of.

WILLIAM KNELL, aged 21, paying teller at the German Bank, Evansville, while attempting to step on an excursion boat with a young woman, fell between the wharf and the boat and plunged into the river. It is thought he struck his head on the guard rail as he fell and became unconscious. He made no effort to save himself after reaching the water, and was drowned in the presence of a large number of people.

GEORGE SELL, SR., of Union City, and Mrs. Sallie Gray of Bethel, Wayne County, were united in marriage the other day by the Rev. Martin J. Magor, in Richmond. Mr. Sell is 71 years old, and Mrs. Gray is past sixty. They were lovers fifty years ago, but became separated.

EXCELLENT WEEK FOR CROPS.

Conditions All Favorable for Their Securing, Maturing, and Starting.

Reports on the condition of the crops through the United States for the week show that it has been generally favorable for securing and maturing crops, and for plowing and seeding. Late corn has experienced a general improvement in the principal corn States and is maturing rapidly. In portions of South Dakota and Wisconsin, however, the frost Saturday caused some injury. In Minnesota the crop is reported to have escaped injury from frost. In Iowa the greater part of the crop is ready for cutting. Cotton picking is now quite general over the southern portion of the cotton region and will commence in the northern portion next week. Frosts were general Saturday and Sunday from Montana eastward to Michigan. The report for individual States is as follows:

Illinois—The last week has been a favorable one for crops; plenty of warmth followed by a short period of cool weather and frequent showers have caused vegetation to advance rapidly. The rainfall average for the State has been somewhat above the normal, also the average temperature for the week. Late corn is filling and maturing rapidly, and with three weeks immunity from frost all will be ready to cut. Early corn is being cut quite generally. Wheat land is generally prepared and sowing will soon begin.

Wisconsin—Fine weather for maturing corn, potatoes, buckwheat, tobacco, millet, and cranberries. Early corn being cut, potatoes and buckwheat nearly matured.

Minnesota—Frost injured garden truck considerably, but corn and potatoes generally escaped unharmed. Small grain except flax all cut, and stacking and thrashing well advanced.

South Dakota—Frost Saturday morning injured vines and late corn in northeastern localities. Much early corn matured, some harvested. Potatoes maturing rapidly.

Nebraska—Favorable week, with about normal temperature, and more than normal rainfall over a large portion of the State. Fall plowing and seeding general and ground in unusually good condition.

Kansas—Very warm, with light showers in the west third and abundant rains over the rest of the State. Much hay spoiled by rain in central and eastern counties.

Missouri—Drought in central and southern counties relieved by good rains and late corn has now sufficient moisture to mature. Cutting will soon be general. Cotton and tobacco doing well.

Iowa—A favorable week for ripening corn and potatoes and growth of pastures. Corn harvesting is in progress and a large portion of the crop is ready to cut.

Ohio—Drought effectually broken and all vegetation shows improvement.

Indiana—Corn still promises a large yield, much tobacco housed, and that in the field in good condition.

Michigan—Weather has been favorable to all growing crops. Corn and potatoes have made progress. Pastures are greatly improved.

PROOF AGAINST BIG GUNS.

Plate from the Battle Ship Iowa Subjected to a Test.

The new battle ship Iowa will withstand the projectiles of the best 12-inch gun afloat. That was the conclusion drawn from one of the most important tests ever made at the government proving ground at Indian Head. Since the equipment of modern battle ships with heavy armor there has been in naval quarters a question as to whether the framework of ships so armored could resist the crushing force of a blow from one of the big guns, even though the armor itself was capable of keeping the projectile out. Hitherto all tests of armor have been made against an unyielding wooden butt. Wednesday the United States, for the first time since the use of modern guns and modern armor, began experiments to determine the actual strain and injury to which the battle ship would be subjected if struck by a projectile. For that purpose a side armor plate of the battle ship Iowa, now being built at the Cramps' yards in Philadelphia, was fitted up on an actual reproduction of a section of the ship. The plate itself was 16 feet by 7½, 14 inches thick at the top and sloping toward the bottom to a thickness of seven inches. The shots were fired at 250 yards at right angles to the plate to secure the normal impact. The first was a 500-

HILDA

By Charlotte M. Braeme

CHAPTER XXXV.

It was not until Stephen Hurst had been dead for some hours that the mystery of that fatal mistake flashed across Lord Bayneham's mind. He remembered how he had gone into his wife's room and told her he knew all, meaning that he knew she had been in the Lady's Walk. She doubtless thought by that expression he knew all the secret of her parentage and her father's sin.

If he had but remained with her ten minutes longer all would have been explained, now he began to fear he should never see her again.

Lord Bayneham behaved nobly to his wife's father. He kept his secret. No will was found, and he made no claim upon that large fortune. For the sake of money he would not betray in death a secret the unhappy man had sacrificed so much to keep. As a friend he attended to his funeral and went as chief mourner; but never, by one word, did he hint that Paul Fulton was other than he had appeared.

For two days the papers made the most of that fatal accident, and all fashionable London was concerned for one day, and forgot it the next. Lady Grahame was very sorry and much distressed. "It seemed such a sad thing," she said to everybody; "he was a handsome man, and so very agreeable."

In a few days Lady Grahame recovered from the effects of the shock, and, strange to say, that very year she met the Duke of Laleham, who was charmed by her manners and love of comfort, in which he rivaled her. She is now Duchess of Laleham, and once, in a confidential mood, was heard to say to Miss Lowe that, "after all, she believed there was a special providence in poor Mr. Fulton's death."

Lord Bayneham redoubled his efforts to discover his wife, but they were all in vain; he could find no trace of her; it seemed as though she had disappeared from the face of the earth.

Lord Bayneham returned home—he was anxious to clear the memory of his beloved wife from even the least cloud of suspicion. Barbara Earle shed warm tears of love and pity when she heard the story. The countess was more touched than she cared to own; both saw clearly how the mistake had arisen. Believing that her husband "knew all" her secret, and could not pardon her, Lady Hilda had left the home where she thought herself no longer loved or esteemed.

From Bayneham, as from London, every effort was made to discover Lady Hilda's place of refuge, but all in vain. Weeks became months, but no trace—not even the slightest—was found. She never claimed one farthing of the large sum daily accumulating for her. Lord Bayneham had directed that no notice should be taken of her letters—that Brynmar should be kept in readiness for her, and the money carefully saved; but she never wrote for any, and that added more than anything to his troubles. If living, what was her fate, without money or friends? Lord Bayneham tried to bear up bravely, but he soon became exceedingly ill, and in less than six months after his wife's flight the young earl lay between life and death, fighting a hard battle with the grim king, and his mother kept watch by him, in sorrow too deep for words. The detective had promised that he would not give the case up, but it was evident from his want of zeal that he had no longer any hope.

The doctors, summoned by the unhappy countess to her son's bedside, said there was one chance for him, and only one; he must have entire change of scene and change of air, and they recommended a stay of some length on the Continent.

He was most unwilling to go. To leave England seemed like abandoning his wife; yet to remain was, if wise men spoke truly, certain death. The last time he left home, a beautiful young face, glowing with happiness and love, smiled by his side; now he must go on his journey alone, his heart cold and dead to hope, love and happiness.

* * * * * * *

One fine morning there stood on the pier at Dover a group that attracted some attention—a tall, stately lady, with the look of one who had once been beautiful, and by her side a noble girl, whose face made one better for seeing it; both were devoted to what seemed at first sight the wreck of a young and handsome man. Passers-by stopped to gaze again at that white, worn face, with its sad, despairing eyes. Lady Bayneham and Barbara would fain have gone with Claude, but he would not hear of it.

"Stay behind, mother," he said, with trembling lips, "and do what you can. My lost darling may come home; do not let her find it desolate."

They went with him to Dover and watched the boat disappear with eyes that were wet with tears. In the mother's heart there was but little hope of ever seeing her son again.

"Ah, Barbara," said Lady Bayneham, as in the far distance the steamer sailed out of sight, "I wish my son had married you. This trouble will kill him. Brynmar woods have been very fatal to us."

But Barbara would not agree with her ladyship; she saw much to admire and pity in Lady Hilda; and she would hear no word that was not uttered either in love or praise.

Bertie Carlyon had been unremitting in his endeavors to assist Lord Bayneham. He had been with him up to the eve of his departure, when a telegram from London obliged him to return there. Lady Bayneham asked him to visit her at Bayneham when his business was ended, and he did so, longing to be once more with Barbara and to know if he had any more reason to hope. He was warmly welcomed by the two desolate, sorrowing ladies. It seemed difficult to believe that this silent house, over which care and trouble hung in such dark clouds, was the brilliant castle of Bayneham, where lately gayety and beauty had reigned supreme.

* * * * * * *

Bertie Carlyon and Barbara Earle were standing at the same window from which they had once watched Lord Bayneham and his fair young wife set forth on their bridal tour, when Barbara said musingly, "Who could have foreseen this ending to so fair a love story?"

"Does it frighten you?" asked Bertie. "Ah, Barbara, if you could only try to love me—no such fate would ever overtake us."

"Why?" asked Barbara.

"Because I should have all faith in you," replied Bertie. "Mind, I am not blaming Claude—the circumstances were strange ones. If—but, ah! Barbara, the words are presumptuous—if you were my wife, and I saw that you were keeping any secret from me, I should respect your silence, because I believe in you."

"It seems easy for you to say so now," replied Barbara, with a smile; "it is impossible to tell what course one would take under similar circumstances."

"Barbara," said Bertie Carlyon, his handsome face all eagerness and love, "it is long since I first dared to whisper to you of my love. You did not reject me; you said brave and noble words to me that have incited me to take a true man's part in the world. Under your banner, Barbara, I have fought well; dare I ask for my reward?"

There was no affectation of coquetry in the expression of Barbara Earle's beautiful, soul-lit face.

"I am not given to flattery," she said, quietly; "but you I must praise, Bertie; you have done well, and I am proud of you. Ask what reward you will, and if it is in my power to grant it, it shall soon be yours."

Bertie Carlyon's face paled as he listened to these words, so full of hope and promise. Something like a mist of tears swam before his eyes, and his voice trembled as he spoke. Laying one hand on the white jeweled fingers of Barbara Earle, he said:

"Be my wife, Barbara. Earth holds no higher reward than your love." He read her consent in the drooping, blushing face and the eloquent eyes. "I'm not worthy of such happiness," he said, quietly. "You are the noblest woman in the world, Barbara; teach me to be worthy of you."

"Do not set me on so high a pedestal, Bertie," said Barbara, "or I may fall from it. I have something more to say; you know I speak plainly. I do love you; but I could not bear to think much of our happiness while so dark a cloud hangs over Bayneham. Help us to drive that away, and then we will speak of this again."

"It shall be as you will, Barbara," he whispered, kissing the white, firm hand that rested so lovingly in his own. "I know no will save yours."

So they agreed that the love which was to last through life should not be mentioned while care and sorrow lay heavily upon their dearest friends. How could they speak of love and marriage when both had ended so fatally at Bayneham?

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Three years passed away, and brought but little change to Bayneham. The countess watched and waited in silence; she had renounced all active efforts for the discovery of her son's wife. At stated intervals advertisements were inserted in the papers, but Lady Bayneham had ceased to hope. She never breathed her suspicions even to Barbara Earle; but in her own mind she believed that Hilda was dead; no other fact could account for her long-continued silence. Her son said nothing of returning to England. He seemed to have forgotten the claims upon him at home. She spent long hours in pacing up and down the picture gallery at Bayneham Castle. Her son, the brave, handsome boy, whose future she had mapped out with such pride and hope, was the last earl; his portrait hung there. Whose would take the vacant place next to his? There was no one to inherit the title—it would die out—the grand old race must come to an end. Claude would never remarry while there was the least doubt as to his wife's fate. Even if intelligence came of her death Lady Bayneham did not believe he would ever care for another woman, he had loved his lost wife so well.

The grand old race must end, and that conviction brought deep and lasting sorrow to the proud lady; she had hoped before she died to clasp the young heir of Bayneham in her arms, to see, and love, and bless the young boy who was to succeed her son.

Her pride was sorely humbled. Her son was an unhappy exile, wandering in foreign lands, childless and solitary. She wished—and wished in vain—that she had been kinder to her son's wife; that she had taught the poor motherless child to love and trust her. How different everything would then have been! Hilda would have flown to her in her trouble; it was too late! Her cool, haughty pride, her unkindness, had done its work. When sorrow came to the fair young child whom her son had wedded, the last person she would have appealed to was her husband's mother, who ought to have been a mother to her.

The dark hair, of which the countess had been so proud, grew white with sorrow, not age; the fair, proud face had deep lines, each telling of grief and long night watches; and Lady Bayneham saw no help. She had written several times, imploring her son to return; but he replied that the very sight of Bayneham would kill him, that he would never return there until something was known of his wife's fate. Her entreaties were all in vain; and the countess said to herself that the grand old race was doomed.

It preyed deeply upon her; No rest came to her. Her days and nights were one long dream of anxiety. Sorrow and suspense aged her. One evening, Barbara Earle, going suddenly into her aunt's room, found her weeping bitterly.

Barbara started at the sight; she never remembered to have seen tears in those proud eyes before.

"Barbara," said Lady Bayneham, in a low voice, "my heart is breaking; what shall we do to persuade Claude to return?"

"I see no way," replied Miss Earle; "but the last thing, the trouble I can bear least, is to see you give way, aunt; that must not be."

"I cannot help it," said Lady Bayneham, despairingly; "it will kill me, Barbara. I have fought against sorrow, but it has mastered me at last. Unless my son returns soon he will not see me again."

"Let me write and tell him so, aunt," urged Miss Earle.

"No," said the countess; "he cannot endure the name or the thought of home. If he returned for my sake, and evil came of it, I could never forgive myself. There is nothing for it but patience, and patience comes but slowly to one like me."

Barbara Earle had many anxieties; it was three years since her cousin left his home, and Bertie had asked her to be his wife—three years; and then she told her lover she was willing to be his wife, but they must wait until the cloud passed from Bayneham. But it deepened instead of passing; still Bertie never complained. He respected her wish, and never urged his own; and Barbara knew, by instinct, all that he felt. The last time he came to Bayneham he looked tired and worn. His labors accumulated, and there was no one to cheer or sympathize with him. He longed for the time when that noble, soul-lit face should shine in his own home; and Barbara read the longing in his eyes. She had learned to love him dearly and well, though not, as in early youth, she had loved her cousin, for she was a woman now; and it was a woman's love she gave to Bertie Carlyon. He was nearer to her than her cousin had ever been. She did not like that resigned, sorrowful expression on his face. Her first duty, she felt, was to him, yet it was utterly impossible that she should leave her aunt. Barbara Earle sat in her room, thinking deeply. Thought became action; she went to her writing table and wrote a letter to Lord Bayneham. It was a sweet, womanly letter; and in it she told him of Bertie Carlyon's love—of her engagement to him and of her inability to fulfill it until he returned home and once more took his place in the world.

"There was a time," wrote Barbara—"I pray you to pardon me if I remind you of it—when, for your happiness, I sacrificed all the hope of happiness I had in life; I ask but little in return, and that little is the sacrifice of some morbid feeling. I ask you to return home; your mother wants her son, your tenants and servants want their master, your country wants one of her ablest and truest sons; and, Claude, Bertie wants me."

"That will be irresistible," said Barbara Earle to herself, with a smile. "He will never tolerate the thought that he is keeping us apart, and my aunt will have her son."

Barbara judged rightly—Lord Bayneham could not withstand that appeal. He remembered the time when Barbara had generously given him his freedom, trampling under foot her own love and regret. Now one who loved her, and was worthy of her, had won her, and he, in his turn, must sacrifice himself as she had done. The appeal was successful—Lady Bayneham was beside herself with delight when she received a letter from her son, saying that he intended soon to return, and resume the duties he had so long neglected. Barbara said nothing of her letter and the countess congratulated herself that her wishes had guided her son.

There was but little said when he arrived, for both mother and cousin were startled by his appearance. He no longer looked ill, but there was an air of settled melancholy on his face that told of his sorrow more expressively than any words could have done. He wore deep mourning—a fact which startled Lady Bayneham. Before separating on the evening of his arrival, she went up to him, and, laying her hand gently upon him, asked him why it was.

"Hush, mother," he replied, in a broken voice—"do not talk about it. I wear black for my wife; if she had been living, I should have found her ere this. I believe her to be dead; but do not speak of her—I cannot bear it yet."

Lady Bayneham quitted the room, leaving her son alone with his cousin.

"Barbara," said Lord Bayneham, "why did you not tell me this before? I have returned in obedience to your wish. Why have you kept this secret from me?"

"We could not think of love or happiness while you were in sorrow," she replied. "I saw my aunt wasting away. Bertie said nothing, but his look touched my heart. Everything was going wrong—so I wrote for you."

"I am glad of it," replied her cousin; "and now that the first shock of seeing the old place is over, I am glad to be at home."

"As we are alone," said Barbara, "I have something that I wish to say to you. Claude, you must rouse yourself—you have sunk in a sea of sorrow; this must not be. Trouble makes heroes of some men, and cowards of others. You know best where a Bayneham should stand. Remember, even should Hilda be dead, your life does not end in her grave."

"My happiness and love lie there," said Lord Bayneham.

"That may be," continued Miss Earle, "but we must not live for ourselves. There are many men who have never known happiness at all. Your fate is hard enough, but it is not the hardest in the world. Learn to bear it and you will learn to live."

"I will try," said Lord Bayneham, and he kept his word.

They saw plainly enough how great the effort was. He gave himself up to the strict performance of his duty—he omitted nothing. His mother sighed, when, on passing the room door, she saw the lamp burning long after midnight; she sighed again, when, in the early hours of the morning, she heard him pacing wearily up and down his chamber.

Before he had been at Bayneham long the countess, believing the effort too great for him, proposed that they should leave home for a time and go to London. He consented, for all places were alike to the unhappy young husband, whose love and thoughts were with his lost wife.

In London he once more redoubled his efforts, but all were in vain; he went to Brynmar, but nothing had been seen or heard there of Lady Hilda. He had also several interviews with the detective and with Dr. Greyson, but it was all in vain. His wife seemed to have vanished from the face of the earth.

(To be continued.)

All Doubt Dispelled.

"There is every reason to believe that she is a woman masquerading in male attire," said the detective in making his report, "but we have no proof of it and dare not make the arrest without it."

"She looks like a woman, does she?" asked the captain.

"Yes; and she walks much like one. Her feet are small, her hands are small and her voice and her features are womanly. In figure she resembles a woman, too, and I think she is the swindler we have been after for a month."

"Well, it ought to be easy to make her betray herself," said the captain. "Did you ever see her near a bargain counter?"

"Twice, and she walked right past it in both cases."

"That's not encouraging. Still, she may have been trying to avoid suspicion. Does she criticise the gowns of pretty women she sees on the street?"

"Not that we have been able to discover."

"She must be a woman of great self-control. If there is a penny coming in change from a purchase does she wait for it?"

"No; I heard her say she didn't like to be bothered with pennies."

"That's bad. That doesn't sound like a woman. Still, of course, she might do it for effect. Did you try her with a mouse?"

"We released one suddenly right in front of her."

"What did she do?"

"Kicked at it."

"Nothing else?"

"Nothing else."

"Don't waste any more time on him," said the captain shortly. "The poor fellow has been shadowed long enough."

Josephine's greatest attraction was her voice. Napoleon fell in love with it even before he really knew her. She could not sing, but her conversational tones were exceedingly well modulated and pleasing. She spoke with a strong provincial accent, and it was once said that the Emperor spoke an Italian-French patois, and the Empress a negro-French.

Confucius, it is said, was passionately fond of watermelon seeds.

JOHN R. GENTRY, STILL KING OF PACERS BY THE RECORDS.

Time—2:08 3-4.

A PLEASING EXPERIMENT.

Try It and You May Get Much Amusement from It.

Get a wide-mouthed bottle, closed by a hollow cork, in which is inserted the pipe of a small glass funnel. By means of sealing-wax make airtight and watertight all the crevices that might leak, both between funnel and cork and between cork and bottle.

A PLEASING EXPERIMENT.

Half fill the bottle with water and throw in two powders that are used to make seltzer water, tartaric acid and bicarbonate of soda, which may be bought at a drug store ready for use. Effervescence will at once take place, throwing off carbonic acid gas, and this will escape through the funnel.

But if you have placed within the funnel two or three little balls of elder pith, or even of cork, the gas cannot escape except at intervals, for as one ball is lifted from the orifice another will drop down to close it. By painting these balls in different colors you may produce a pretty effect.

The effect may be made more beautiful by cutting tissue paper in the form of a butterfly's wings and gluing them to one of the balls. The balls will dance up and down in the funnel and the imitation butterfly will flutter as if over a flower.

FOX TERRIERS.

One of the Most Aristocratic Breeds of the Canine To-Day.

The origin of the fox terrier is not certainly known, but they have been bred pure in royal kennels of England for over 100 years, and in America today the breed is fast usurping the place of the pug and the Yorkshire terrier. Fox terriers are very intelligent, have an untiring energy and a great desire to be busy. As guard dogs they have no superiors, and are not generally vicious to people, but it is safest for any stranger to first get permission before he bothers either the person or property of the master. Although not very quarrelsome, yet when once aroused, they display the greatest amount of pluck and endurance, and will fight to death anything they consider prey, seldom ever showing signs of being tired. As a killer of vermin they have no equal, and they naturally take to all animals that burrow in the ground. They are typical companions for children, as they will watch over them and inspire the child with their own determination, obedience, humbleness and affection. Their color is pure white, with black, tan or other markings, and their tail, which is always docked, is coarse and straight. They weigh from fifteen to twenty pounds.

SMOOTH-COATED FOX TERRIER.

POLE-VAULTING CONTEST.

Both Vaulters Cleared Eleven Feet and Two Inches.

At the recent meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Association, one of the most stubbornly contested events of the day was the pole vault between Buchholz, of Pennsylvania, and Hoyt, of Harvard. They both cleared 11 feet 2¾ inches, but failed at 11 feet 6¾ inches. This event lasted all through the meeting, Buchholz finally landing himself a winner in the jump-off at 10 feet 9¼ inches—his winning jump, the last performance of the program.

VAULTING 11 FEET 2¾ INCHES.

An Airship.

A. J. Cooley, an inventor, of Hornellsville, N. Y., says he has successfully completed an air ship which will carry one person. It is about ten feet in length, with two pairs of wings, each pair having a spread of twelve feet. Placed between the two pairs of wings is a large hollow box, on one end of which the pilot-house for the occupant will be built. The front pair of wings is stationary. Mr. Cooley's idea is that his machine will sail like a hawk or an albatross that has been thrown on the air. Having been once stretched, it will skim along on a certain plane, and may be either raised, lowered or turned entirely around by the movement of the rear pair of wind beaters. A public demonstration of the invention will soon be given, after which it will be placed on exhibition to raise money enough to build a larger machine.

A Common Error.

Soon after Lord Sydney's elevation to the peerage, he happened to observe in company that authors were often very ridiculous in the titles they gave.

"That," said a gentleman present, "is an error from which even kings appear not to be exempt."

GOT EGGS FOR BALLOTS.

Rider Haggard Roughly Treated During His Parliamentary Canvass.

Among those who have suffered the misfortune of being on the unpopular side in the recent parliamentary elections in England is the author of those once popular romances, "King Solomon's Mines" and the wonderful "She." Mr. Haggard stood for election in East Norfolk and his canvass was attended with various lively and exciting incidents which perhaps may serve him as the warp if not the woof for some future romance of real life, since they failed to serve his political purposes. He saved his head from being broken by some of his belligerent opponents in the canvass only to have it badly fractured in a political sense when they got at him at the polls.

H. RIDER HAGGARD.

If this sudden and calamitous ending to his political aspirations has the result of turning Mr. Haggard's energies into literary channels again the reading public may gain more by his defeat than the House of Commons lost. Mr. Haggard has not been much in evidence lately in a literary sense, but the qualities manifested in the production of such remarkable stories as "King Solomon's Mines" and "Jess" surely justify the belief that we have not heard the last of this versatile and powerful writer. Mr. Haggard is still a young man, only 39 last March, and is therefore good for many more years of work, as life usually goes. It is worth noting in this connection that Mr. Haggard's first book was of a political character. It related to events in South Africa and appeared in 1882. It had no better success than the writer himself has had in politics recently.

Neat Retort.

Poole, the tailor, was a most accommodating gentleman, and was often invited to the houses of "the great." When staying with a certain nobleman, he was asked one morning by his host what he thought of the party who had assembled at table the night before.

"Why, very pleasant indeed, your grace; but perhaps a little mixed."

"Hang it, Poole!" responded the jovial peer, "I couldn't have all tailors."

Walnut Trees.

Each black walnut tree planted upon rough, untillable ground will soon be worth more than the whole acre upon which it is planted. A small area of trees will begin to add at once to the value of the farm, and the value will increase with each year's growth.

It's the man without much mind who always "has a mind to do" something and never does it.

THE IMPRISONED LABOR LEADERS.

[From a Photograph of Debs and His Associates Taken Just Before the Release of the Latter.]

L. M. ROGERS. M. J. ELLIOTT. S. KELIHER.
JAMES HOGAN. W. E. BURNS. R. M. GODWIN. E. V. DEBS.

·HORSEMEN·

SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED

Morris' English Stable Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound, and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.

Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.

Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.

Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.

Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.

Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN

Ajax Tablets

have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS

The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for Dr. Mott's PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!

Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!

Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epileptic, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES

Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of like nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman

Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.

Dr. PEAL'S PENNYROYAL PILLS.
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son., Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS

but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages. 80 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
No. 7159 $35. ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO., W. E. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills

RESTORE LOST VIGOR

Before and After Using.

New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.

DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS

BEFORE AND AFTER TAKING.

The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the reproductive organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing of Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US FOR JOB PRINTING!

NEW GOODS ARRIVING

OUR STOCK IS NOW

-Complete-

CLOTHING,
SHOES,
HATS and
FURNISHING GOODS

PRICES

LOWER THAN EVER AT THE

GLOBE

CLOTHING & SHOE CO.,

Gandy Block, North of Square, AUBURN, IND

C!osing Out!

TAN SHOES AND SLIPPERS

JUST LOOK AT THE PRICES.

One lot Ladies' and Misses' Oxfords, mostly small worth $1 to $1 75, for		50c
25 prs. Ladies' & Misses' Tan Oxfords, worth	$1.25,	$ .90
Ladies' " " "	2.00,	1.40
" " " "	2.50,	1.75

MEN'S TAN SHOES:

One lot Men's Tan Shoes worth	$2.00 for	$1.50
" " " " "	2.50 for	1.75
" " " " "	4.00 fo	2.50
" " " Black Shoes, worth	3.00 to 4.00 for	2.00

These are all desirable goods and worth the marked price, but are broken lots and must go to make room for fall stock that is beginning to arrive.

Shull's Cash Shoe Store. AUBURN.

WARM AIR GENERATOR.

Construction, Operation and Results essentially different from the Solid Fire Pot Furnace.

Write for Catalogue.

J. BEURET,

AUBURN, IND.

Have you seen
THE - LATEST
Thing in Photos
and Frames
J. G. CLAPP
WIDE AWAKE
PHOTOGRAPHER
Has the latest styles out.
Stop and see them. Auburn.

Non-Partisan and Interdenominational

Gospel Temperance Meeting

—IN—

GOOD CITIZENSHIP TENT

At Southeast Corner of Public Square, AUBURN, IND.

Commencing——

SATURDAY EVE, SEPT 21,

and continuing ONE WEEK

Hon. M. J. Fanning.....Speaker
Prof. W. M. Skinner.....Song Leader

Good Singing at All Meetings

Consisting of Solos, Duets, Trios. Quartets, etc.

Magnificent Art Illustrations

With Lime-Light Effects, produced by the Celebrated McIntosh-Binnacle Stereopticon at each night's meeting.

Everybody Invited.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, post-office as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,...SEPTEMBER 12, 1895.

The Yacht Race.

The great international yacht race now going on, calls attentions to this famous contest that began in 1851. In that year, the "America," the crack sailing yacht of this country went over to England to make part of the attractions at the first world's fair. The race was made by sailing around the Isle of Wight for a valuable gold cup, called "The Queen's Cup." The America won it and on her return brought it home with her, and here it has remained ever since, though English vessels have been often brought over here to compete for it and get it back home. The Cambria came over in 1870 and the Livonia in 1871, but both failed. In 1885 the Genesta was beaten by our ship Puritan; in 1886 the Galatea was beaten by the American yacht Mayflower; in 1887, the Thistle was beaten by the Volunteer. And so on up to the present time. The race now on, may, or may not take the cup from us, for the vessels are more nearly matched, apparently, than usual. Last Saturday the American vessel beat by only 8 minutes and 49 seconds. They sailed out against the wind, and after turning around came right home. Yesterday the usual three sided figure was sailed. The usual way is to follow this triangle. They go out ten miles against the wind, then turn to the right making an angle of 60 degrees for ten miles, then to the right again ten miles to the starting place. The direction of the wind at starting may compel them to form the triangle by turning to the left. This shaped track gives the boats a chance to show their ability to "beat" against a head wind; then to go with the wind "free," and lastly, to go with the wind on the "quarter." These three things show a sailing vessel's good or bad qualities. In the race of Saturday, it was shown that the English vessel, Valkyrie III, was the better vessel in a light wind, while the American, Defender, was better in a stronger wind. And as the wind blew stronger when the race was about a quarter run, the Defender overtook the Valkyrie which was so far taking the lead, and went by her, winning the race. Yesterday, the Defender would have beaten again, had not the Valkyrie ran too close to her as they started out over the "line." The rigging of the two ships became entangled and the Defender lost a topmast and several sails. She stopped a few minutes to clear the wreckage, and then started out again. Crippled as she was, she gained back a few of the minutes the English vessel had got ahead, but was beaten in the race, by only 2 minutes and 18 seconds. The Defender has protested against the "foul" made by the Valkyrie, but it is not known how the judges will decide. If they decide that the race was a fair one, there will still be three more races to run, unless one of the boats should win the two next runs.

The nickel social of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. Barclay on Friday afternoon.

Mrs. W. E. Ryan is visiting the family of Mr. Ryan's father, ex treasurer, Frank Ryan, at Attica, Ind., and will be there about a month. Like all Auburn folks, she gets the DAILY while she is gone.

Dr. Chas. E. Miller specialist in lenses for the eye, will again be at Yesbera's jewelry store Saturday, 21st, those who have had difficulty to get glasses adjusted are specially invited to call.

A meeting of Ministers and leading temperance workers was held Tuesday morning in the office of Baxter & Brown, at which it was determined to accept the proposition of Hon. M. J. Fanning, of Jackson, Mich., to hold a series of meetings here with his Gospel Temperance Tent, commencing Saturday, Sept. 21, and lasting one week. A fine quartet accompanies Mr. Fanning, who also uses a fine stereopticon to illustrate some of his lectures. The meetings will be held nightly with two meetings on Sunday, Sept. 22, afternoon and evening. It is said that these meetings are of such a character that all persons can enjoy them.

ROYAL Baking Powder.
Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

LOW RATES TO KNOXVILLE, TENN.

September 13th to 16th, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell excursion tickets to Knoxville and return, account Battlefield Encampment Sons of Veterans, at one cent per mile each way for the round trip, good to return until October 5, 1895.

Perry's Victory.

Sept. 10, 1813, just 82 years ago to-day, was the brilliant victory on Lake Erie. Oliver H. Perry, a naval officer on the seacoast failing to get anything to do, asked to have a chance to go to the lakes and get up a fleet to fight the British who were already fitting out a squadron. Consent was given and he made his ships mainly from growing timber. When ready to launch, it was found they would not float out of the harbor, over the bar. So the guns were taken out heavy poles run through the vessels so as to protrude from each port hole, and the ends of these poles lifted by smaller vessels and soon we till the ships would float over the bar. Then the guns were put in, just in time to meet the English fleet coming over. Perry had nine vessels of different sizes and fifty-four guns. The British had 6 ships and 63 guns. They fought three hours, and Perry had all the enemy's ships and the control of the lake. Gen. Harrison was enabled to send an army across the lake into Canada that whipped the Indians under Tecumseh, with their British allies, at the battle of the Thames.

The Xylophone

George Chapman played a piece on the Xylophone at the Musical last evening, accompanied on the piano by Jim Eldridge. Mr. Chapman is the first person in Auburn to attempt to play this queer instrument, which by the way, we believe is also very difficult to master. But Mr. Chapman has developed such a rare talent for playing the snare drum, is just the man to master a Xylophone for both require the rapid and skillful use of the hands and the arm muscles. It took many members of the Musical Club by surprise, for many were not aware there was such an instrument in town, much less that there was a skilled player.

New Bottling Works.

Auburn gets another bottling works. Messrs. Van Dolah and Sells have purchased of J. N. Zoni and the Farmers' Bank, two acres of land located just south of the Wabash depot, between the Auburn foundry and Band Saw mill. Work will commence at once on the erection of suitable buildings for bottling works. They will handle the Detroit Brewing Co's. beer. We have not been informed if they will have soft drinks or not. The location is a good one, as it is on a direct line to Detroit, and but a few feet from the railroad tracks. Frank Reesh, who has had considerable experience, will have entire charge of the works.

POSTAGE RATES A CENTURY AGO.

Our forefathers of a hundred years ago were subjected to very heavy letter postage. In 1800 the rates of postage were as follows: Every letter composed of a single sheet of paper conveyed not over forty miles 8 cents; over forty miles and not exceeding 120 miles, 12½ cents; over 150 and not exceeding 300 miles, 17 cents; over 300 and not exceeding 500 miles, 20 cents; over 500 miles 25 cents. Every letter composed of two sheets of paper, double those rates; every letter composed of three pieces of paper, triple those rates; every letter composed of four pieces of paper weighing one ounce quadruple those rates, and at the rate of four single letters for each ounce any letter or package may weigh; every ship letter originally received at an office for delivery with 6 cents.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BUTLER.

Preparations go forward rapidly for the coming free street fair.

William Moore has moved into his own home near the U. B. church and John Kenestrick has moved into Mr. Bundage's house on East street.

A number of small children have died recently from cholera infantum.

Michael Snyder, an old and well known citizen of Stafford township died at his home in Butler last Saturday evening. He leaves an aged wife and one son. His funeral took place from his late residence last Monday.

A large number of the veterans of the late war from Butler and vicinity went to Louisville the first of the week.

J. A. Campbell visited relatives near Lansing, Mich., a week ago.

School opened in Butler last Monday under very favorable conditions.

CONCORD.

Mrs. Jennie Baker and son Clifton who have been spending the past four months with relatives and friends, returned to their home in Mitchell South Dakota, Sunday evening.

Mr. James of Ft. Wayne purchased the M M. Darling farm, Tuesday last, consideration $3,000 spot cash.

Mrs. F. Buchanan and daughter Mattie drove over to Auburn Saturday.

M. M Darling of Ashland, O was the guest of J. B. Gibford and Henry Baker while here.

Ruth and Lloyd Draggoo have fully recovered from their sickness, cholera infantum.

Alice Draggoo and Gladys Howey were quite sick Saturday and Sunday.

Mr and Mrs. John Updegraff of West Wood, Mich., Anna Baker of this place and Mrs. Charlie Koch were the guests of Mrs. Will Curie of St. Joe last Thursday.

MY MICHIGAN OUTING.

I left Butler on the morning of the 31st of August for a short vacation in the land of beans and peaches, taking the Lake Shore road from Pleasant Lake, and reached Michigan's beautiful capital at 5:12 p. m. I would reach my destination after dark if I took a train and it being too late to go on a wheel over a strange road, I concluded to stop over until morning. I soon found comfortable quarters and then spent an hour riding about the city. Many of the streets afford fine riding, others paved with blocks or cobble stone were anything but nice. The city stretches up and down both sides of Grand river for fully five miles. The main business part being on the west side of the river as is also the state capitol. On Sunday morning just as the sun was peeping over the eastern hills, I wheeled out of the city. My course lay over fair road, with an occasional hill or stretch of sand. I reach the little village of Bath, ten miles distant in about one hour, without having seen scarcely a single person, all being wrapped in their Sunday morning sleep. Two other wheelmen caught up with me here, but our paths divided here, so I failed to get company. By good intent or otherwise I was directed on the wrong road and had nine miles of very tough road made up of hills that I could neither ride up nor down and stretches of sand that could only be passed over on foot, but with all I reached my destination near Lansing, Shiawassee Co., a few minutes after eight o'clock to find a greeting worth miles of sand and hills to receive. A part of the family were still asleep and a bountifully spread breakfast table was a very inviting object after eighteen miles of hard riding with an empty stomach. After a day of unalloyed enjoyment with my friends and noting the changes of a year, good byes were said and I was again on my way over a different and better road to the capital, which I reached at 1 p. m. A fine view of the city is had about three miles out where the highway crosses the railroad. I looked down on the city spread out before me like a map, with the capitol building forming the center piece, and the river winding its way among the buildings like a broad, bright ribbon. I left the capital for Charlotte, capital of Clinton county, at 2 p. m. and after nearly two hours ride against a high wind and over hill after hill, I reached this very pretty little county seat.

Charlotte is one of the prettiest little cities in the state. I passed over its principal streets, then sought my friends who were comfortably situated two miles out on a beautiful farm. After a very pleasant visit and a much needed rest, I was again enroute for Eaton Rapids. My way lay over a very fine stretch of country, and through an immense swamp that had been recently reclaimed but a small part of which had been brought under cultivation. The road was much better, but a steady, hard head wind seemed to constantly face me, go which way I might. I reached Eaton Rapids about 8 a. m., and having nearly three hours to spare before train time I concluded to ride to Springport, distant by rail nine miles. Obtained what I though reliable information as to the route, I pushed along from here as best I could with odds against me, only to find that I was drifting out of my course. A straight south road seemed to lead to my destination and it being smooth and level, I made good time for half an hour, only to find myself at a standstill in a very nice farm yard. A friendly gate stood invitingly open and a long indistinct trail led across a low piece of land for a mile or so to where I was informed I could again get another road to Springport, distant yet, six miles, and getting alarmingly near train time, I dashed into the trail and after opening gates and carrying my wheel over bad places, I reached a fairly good road, upon which, with hard pushing, I reached the station fifteen minutes before the train was due. A comfortable seat in a coach was not at all unwelcome. Without further incident I reached Angola, and home at 6 p. m., a little tired over 166 miles on the rail road and 120 miles on a wheel in three and one half days and a grand view of Michigan and a splendid visit among dearly loved friends. J. A. C.

September 9. 1895.

A LARGE APPLE TREE.

Kendallville News.

MR EDITOR—In the recent storms an apple tree was blown down on my farm and because of its size, I thought a description of it would be of interest to your readers. It was planted by my father William Mawhorter, in the latter part of the "thirties" and was therefore nearly sixty years old, and before age began to dismember it, it had a beautiful, round symetrical top. The body was seven feet, nine inches in circumference one foot above the ground, below the limbs one foot it was six feet and seven inches in circumference. It was six feet from the ground to the first limb and was forty feet high and the top was forty feet in diameter covering a circular space of one hundred and thirty feet in circumference. The tree was a natural one and bore a sweet apple of excellent flavor. It never failed to bear fruit annually, though in varying quantities, since it commenced, and the crop this year materially hastened its downfall. Is there any other tree in Indiana that will size up with this one?

T. J. MAWHORTER,
Wawaka, Ind.

Trustee's Notice

Notice is hereby given to the public and all interested that I will hold Friday of each week as my office day, and that all township business will be done on that day.

JOSEPH HUFF,
34tf Trustee of Fairfield Township.

PUSH AND PERSEVERENCE,

Has made us conceited enough to imagine that we are going to

DOUBLE our BUSINESS

This Year. Large assortment of Everything in CLOTHING and FURFISHINGS.

Late Styles & Living Prices

Bring the customers to us. Our Fall stock of Clothing, and Over coats and Ulsters CANNOT be discounted by any firm in northern Indiana.

We want you to come and see us and look over our

Immense Line

and be convinced that our Statements are not unduly represented.

Watch our Change of Ad.

for it will be to your interest.

G. H. YESBERA,

Auburn's Leading

CLOTHIER AND FURNISHER.

ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS,

Are positively cured by

BOOTH'S HYOMEI "DRI-AYR"

326 West 33rd St. New York, July 22, 1895.

Dear Mr. Booth:

Mrs Stryker and I use the little Pocket Inhaler daily, and we regard it as a splendid companion. One of us has suffered many years with asthma, and the other from difficulty in breathing. After using Hyomei for nearly a month, we both find ourselves greatly relieved, and we are recommending the remedy to our friends.

REV. DR. PETER STRYKER
Pastor 34th St. Reformed Church

THE AUSTRALIAN DRY-AIR CURE FOR HAY FEVER, BRONCHITIS, DIPTHERIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA. ETC.

The air, thoroughly charged with Hyomei is inhaled through the Pocket Inhaler at the mouth, and, after permeating the minutest air cells, is slowly exhaled through the nose. It is aromatic, delightful to inhale, inexpensive, and gives immediate relief. It stops all spasmodic coughing instantly, clears the voice, expands the lungs and increases the breathing capacity.

For sale by all first-class druggists, or POCKET INHALER OUTFIT COMPLETE, BY MAIL, $1 00,

With full directions for use. If you are still skeptical, send me your address, and my pamphlet shall prove that HYOMEI does cure Are you open to conviction?

B. D. ANGELL, No. 11 Arcade, Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Gen. Agent for Northern Indiana.

WALTER C. HARTMAN,

REAL ESTATE.
FIRE INSURANCE AND LOANS.

Notes, Judgments and Liens

Bought and Sold.

Mortgaged Property Bought and Indebtedness Assumed.

Agency for Nine Old Line Fire Insurance Companies.

Dwelling Property and Town Lots for Sale. $75 to $2,500.

B. & O. Excursions.

September 8th to 11th, inclusive, and September 15th to 19th, inclusive, the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will sell low rate excursion tickets to Chattanooga, Tenn., on account of the Dedication of Chickamauga and Chattanooga National Parks.

Tickets will be good for return until October 5th, 1895.

For full information in regard to rates, stop over privileges and time of trains, call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't. Gen. Pass't. Agent, Chicago, Ill.

Trustee's Notice.

I will be in my office for the transaction of township business on Saturday of each week. All who have business with me should bear in mind and call on that day.

W. S. DANCER,
Trustee of Jackson township.

SOUTHERN EXCURSIONS

over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway September 8, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19. Extremely low rates. Excursions include Louisville, Knoxville, and Chattanooga. Apply to ticket agents for particulars.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

Mary E. Eastman is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against her in said court by Robert D. Hibbard, to enforce a lien upon lot numbered eighteen in Block seventeen in the Original plat of the town (now city) of Garrett, in DeKalb Co., state of Indiana, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 21st day of October 1895 being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said Court.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 27th day of August 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

Hartman & Hartman, Attorneys.

Notice to Non Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895, Charles A. Sherlock, Lizzie J. Sherlock, Henry Sherlock Mary A Sherlock, Arilla Buss and Samuel Buss, non-residents of the state of Indiana, impleaded with others, are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said court to foreclose mortgage by Lafayette J. Miller, Administrator of the estate of Hannah Sherlock, deceased, and that the same will be heard and determined on the 21st day of October, 1895, being the 13th juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences October 7th, 1895.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 28th day of August, 1895.

DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

BAXTER & BROWN, Attorneys.

Notice of Attachement.

STATE OF INDIANA } ss:
DeKalb County.

Hubert S. Belden, William A. Keener, vs. The Burwell Shoe Co. } Before Jacob Walborn, Justice of the Peace of Union twp. in said county.

THE Burwell Shoe company is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them before said Justice of the Peace by Hubert S. Belden and William A. Keener on account wherein they claim the sum of $125 21 and that attachment has been issued and a summons in garnishee proceeding had and answer filed by garnishee with assets in their hands. That said cause will be determined on the 3d day of October, 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Witness my hand and official seal this 12th day of September, 1895.

JACOB WALBORN,
Justice of the Peace.

McClellan Garwood & McClellan (SEAL)
Attorneys for Plaintiffs.
37-39

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County, ss:

IN the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

James Stuart, impleaded with others is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on suit on assignment of claim by Frank Smith and that the same will be heard and determined on the 11th day of November, 1895, being the 31st juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences October 7th, 1895.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 5th day of September, 1895.

37-39 DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.

Baxter, Brown & Mountz, Attorneys.

Administrator's Sale of Real Estate.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I, Samuel A. Squires, as administrator of the estate of Nathan Squires, deceased, will on

Saturday, the 12th Day of October, 1895

on the real estate to be sold, pursuant to the orders of the DeKalb Circuit Court, state of Indiana, offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, the following described real estate, to-wit: The southeast quarter (¼) of the northeast quarter (¼) of section twenty-two (22) in township thirty-three (33) north, range thirteen (13) east, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana, and also the southwest fourth (¼) of the northeast quarter (¼) of said section twenty-two (22) excepting eight acres of land off the west end of said last above described tract.

Said real estate will be sold in parcels as above described at not less than two-thirds (⅔) of its appraised value, on the following terms, to-wit, one-third, cash in hand on the day of sale; one-third in twelve months, and one-third in eighteen month from the day of sale, the deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date of sale until paid and secured by a mortgage on the premises sold.

Said sale will begin at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day and continue until said real estate is sold.

Dated this 7th day of September, 1895.

SAMUEL A. SQUIRES, Administrator of the estate of Nathan Squires, deceased.

J. E. & J. H. ROSE, Att'ys for Estate.

CASH PAID FOR
SCRAP CAST IRON
AT THE
AUBURN FOUNDRY.

GOOD FARM FOR SALE

One mile and a half south of Auburn, the old A. D. Goetschius farm of 110 acres, in good condition. Good brick house and other good buildings. For terms inquire at the farm.

A. D. GOETSCHIUS jr.

When people are obliged to take medicine they want that it shall give quick relief and not add discomfort to their sufferings. Three reasons why people who suffer with Constipation and Biliousness should take Simmons Liver Regulator: "It is Better than Pills, it does not gripe; it gives quick relief, and does not weaken but strengthens and refreshes the whole system."—J. R. Hiland, Monroe, Ia.

This Week the Fall Season gets its Beginning

BISHOP & LACKEY

were never before so thoroughly prepared to meet the season. Everything new, everything secured under the most favorable conditions. It's a September opening, calling out all our enthusiasm and finding us ready to awaken yours.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Cotton and fleeced, natural and white wool, in plain and Jersey ribbed. Noted for their purity, elasticity and durability.

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR.

A choice collection of fleeced cotton, patent merino, merino wool, all wool, in plain and ribbed fabrics.

CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR.

in attractive variety at a popular range of prices, in camel's hair, natural wool and bleached XX Australian wool.

INFANTS' UNDERWEAR.

Jersey ribbed wrappers in white merino and all wool of every desirable quality.

HOSIERY

An extensive line in domestic and foreign cotton, merino and cashmere, to which we invite your special attention.

BLANKETS.

Enough pairs to supply all the housewives of DeKalb county. Good, substantial blankets, with pretty borders, and the weight, widths and lengths are just as the ticket says. If you buy now there's considerable saving. In many instances more than you will expect.

EVERYTHING AS REPRESENTED.

Bishop & Lackey,

LEADING MERCHANTS

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sexual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood. Excessive Use of Opium and Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $5.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunde

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission.

Inquire at Farmers Bank.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstractor and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P

FARMERS BANK,

Capital Stock.—
—$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph. Calls promptly answered at all times

First National Bank

AUBURN, INDIANA

Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.

Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, on time deposits County and town orders bought. Money to loan

C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Can be found in office both Day and Night.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homœopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

Used for Years.

John G. Mauger, editor of the Sunbeam, Seligman, Mo., who named Grover Cleveland for the Presidency in Nov. 1882, while he was mayor of Buffalo, N. Y., is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy. He says; "I have used it for the past five years and consider it the best preparation of the kind in the market. It is as staple as sugar and coffee in this section. It is an article of merit and should be used in every household. For sale by Robbins and McCord, druggists. 36-9

For Sprains and Bruises.

Irvin W. Larimore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 36 39

Sleepless Nights.

Who, but those who have had the unhappy experience, can tell the horrors or appreciate the unhappy exprience of persons troubled with sleeplessness? The damnable hatred of all the demons in hell for mankind must surely be appeased by the consciousness of such human suffering. The long, dreary, unhappy hours, who can describe them and why is it necessary? If you have ever been troubled you know what they are, and if you have been spared you have no interest in the knowledge of such suffering.

Mrs. A. Bateham, Romulus, Mich., after describing her suffering from sleeplessness extending over a period of eight years, reciving at times only about twelv hours' sleep in a week, writes of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer as follows: "I began taking it in common doses and the first night I slept eight hours and had a nap the next day. Every night since I have slept eight or ten hours. Oh, how thankful I am for having had Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer brought to my notice and for the benefit received from it. Stop and think, eight years of sleeplessness, and cured in a day, does it not seem like a miracle?" This medicine is equally as effective in curing nervous prostration, spasms, fits, sleeplessness, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency, sexual and general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport, druggist. 36-39.

Wednesday's Daily.

Remember a full line of school Books Indiana Series at Fiechler's Pharmacy opposite Swineford House. d6w3

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

John C. St. Clair, who is staying with his daughter, Mrs. H. P. Stroh, has been quite low for some time. He is reported much better to day.

Michael Finan, the out-going treasurer of Paulding county, O., is in a bad condition financially. It seems that he is about $32,222 short, and it has made his bondsmen feel somewhat uneasy.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

Thursday's Daily.

Brown, Culbertson & Boland are first to advertise a big line of stoves. Don't fail to read it.

T. S. Murray, of Spencerville was a caller to-day. He reports all quiet on the St. Joe.

Married, at the Lutheran parsonage, this forenoon at 11:30 o'clock, by J. D. Brosy, Ira Mortoff, of Summit, and Cora Doty, of Ashley, Ind.

J. G. Clapp took a family group of the Greggs at the home of Mrs. Sallie Scott this forenoon. It is an excellent picture and the negative may now be seen at the gallery.

Mrs. Emma Overholtzer, of West Manchester, O., formerly Emma Bodine, of this place, died yesterday morning and will be buried at Indianapolis Friday afternoon.

The excursion run to Northern Michigan yesterday was a grand success. It was run in two sections, in order to accommodate all the people. The Daily Sun, of Kendallville, says fifty tickets were sold at that place.

J. D. Myers went down to Potter's this morning on a business trip. He was up around Hudson yesterday and says peaches are plentiful. They sell at $1 per bushel.

Good citizenship demands three things: Obedience, reverence, generosity. Without obedience, law is powerless; without reverence, the people become a mob, and without generosity, selfishness displaces every noble sentiment.—[Clipping.

There will be a sale of the personal property of the late Albert Spurgeon at the residence in Butler township on mile south of Garrett Sept. 19. There is a large amount to be sold, including horses, hay, agricultural machinery, etc. Remember the date. 36 37

Don't Steal! At Columbia City yesterday, Henry Graver, had Timothy Kinney arrested for stealing 10 cents worth of roasting ears. The matter was brought up before a justice of the Peace and Mr. Kinney was fined 50 cents and costs amounting in all to $11 60.

Don't be handicapped in your race of life by the lack of an education. Make up your mind to be a man among men or a woman capable of taking her proper place in the world's work. The Fayette Normal University, of Fayette, O, is practical, thorough and economical. You can enter at any time.

John Kruger, Sr., and wife left to-day for Toledo, O., where they will visit a few weeks with friends. Mr. Kruger has been quite successful as a business man, and now having retired from business, is taking the world easy. It is right that he should. The DAILY COURIER will visit him during his stay in Toledo.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhœa and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

There was a pretty little free-for-all race getting to the 2:04 Wabash train this afternoon. Ed. Bishop, Simp Johnson and Frank Lahnum were about half way down Main street when they heard the whistle. The COURIER reporter passed them on his bicycle, (the Daily passes everything) and they asked him to get the conductor to wait a jiffy. The conductor saw several Auburn citizens sprinting down street, and though he was in no hurry he frantically signaled for them to "get a move on you." And they did. Such time has not been made about here lately. Their second wind had utterly deserted them, as they fell limp and exhausted into the cushioned seats. The conductor had his laugh and we think he got a sample of the popular "Dingers" also. And the boys saw the game.

The Tobacco War.

The present war existing between the big plug tobacco manufacturers is proving very interesting for the consumers, they being the only ones who are profiting by this war. The manufacturers are unquestionably losing a great deal of money, and as far as we can see, the whole cause of the war is on account of a brand of plug tobacco called "Battle Ax," which appears to be as powerful a weapon as its name implies. The manufacturers of "Battle Ax" claim it to be the largest piece of high grade goods ever sold for the money. And the success of the brand, the enormous quantity which is being sold, clearly demonstrates that the consumers have not been slow in detecting the fact that they have a bargain. This has caused the demand for other heretofore popular brands to be greatly diminished. Hence the present great tobacco war.

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Friday's Daily.

W. F. Krahn is the new postmaster at Fairfield Center.

H. G. Provines went down to Fort Wayne this morning.

Last public debt statement gives the total debt at 1126 millions of which 377 millions bear no interest.

J. D. Leighty and wife returned to-day from Fort Wayne. Mrs. Leighty went on to St. Joe, and J. D. stopped off in this city.

John Baxter went up to Angola last evening where he attended to some matters in court. He returned this morning.

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

W. M. McIntyre dug out several of the trees in his yard to-day, and is having dirt hauled in. This will make a much nicer lawn. The trees were too thick.

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills. DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation

G. I. Patterson and wife start next Monday for a visit in the north part of Wisconsin. Mr. Patterson once lived there, having entered a tract of land in 1856. They will be absent about three weeks, and may extend their visit to call on friends in Missouri.

Mrs. W. L. Penfield came home day before yesterday from Bucyrus. Her brother is still critically ill. Her sister, Mrs. J. R. Lamson, is still at Bucyrus. She and her husband talk of making a visit here, and with relatives in Nebraska when he gets his vacation, in October.

Dr Carey was at Spencerville this morning on professional business. He brings word that Mrs. Carnes an old resident of that place died last evening and will be buried to-morrow. Her husband, Capt. John C. Carnes, was killed in battle and the G. A. R. post at Spencerville has his name.

D. Y. Husselman was at Waterloo Wednesday afternoon, and witnessed something not often seen. It was a father and five sons, all sitting as members of the masonic lodge then in session. They were John Less and five sons, Martin, W. H., H. K., Obe and D. Less. There could have been two more, but they were not present. What mason can beat Uncle John?

St. Joe News: Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Merica and daughter Stella, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Garwood, of Auburn, drove over to St. Joe Sunday and took dinner at the Leighty hotel. Miss Merica brought a violin with her and played several selections for Mr. Bodey. The company were invited to the home of W C. Patterson in the afternoon, where Mrs. Garwood and Miss Merica, both accomplished musicians, rendered several fine selections. Miss Fales, who is visiting here from Missouri, and Miss Bessie Patterson also gave pleasing selections on the piano. A number of friends had been invited in and were thus permitted to enjoy a rare musical treat.

Saturday's Daily.

Butter and eggs wanted at the PRINCESS store, four doors north of Farmers Bank. 37 39

Kendallville fair is Sept 30 to Oct 4. They always have a good fair. For information address J. S. Conlogue, Secretaro.

The Wabash railroad will sell tickets to the Butler Free Street Fair at a rate of one fare for the round trip. That's cheap enough! We'll all go.

A letter came to-day to Abright & Co, jewelers and silversmiths, Auburn, Ind. As Mr. Abright has been dead since 1886, it looks as if the letter came rather late, D. A. Hodge received it.

Dr. Adams has been utilizing these pleasant evenings with his riding class. It looks very nice to see a troop of young ladies and gentlemen galloping along our pleasant streets.

Sherm Hollister has put up a new and attractive sign. The work was done by Steele & Son, and is one of their best. The traveling public cannot help but find the Hollister House now.

County Treasurer David Fair took a hack load of people down to New Era, to the picnic to-day. They were: Mrs. D. W. Fair, Mrs. P. H. Fair, Misses Minnie and Faye Fair, Miss Laura Keeran, Miss Van Doren, Mrs. Raut and daughter, Mrs. Winnie Brandon.

Dr. D. N. Fitch and family left to-day for a few day's visit with friends near Huntertown. Mr. Fitch hasn't been taking many vacations this summer, on account of him erecting his new barn.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

The commissioners have nearly completed their work for this session, for though there was a great deal to do, it was worked off more rapidly than usual. One thing that used to take a good deal of time was the great amount of discussion over roads and ditches. This term there was not as much of this as usual.

The DeKalb County Medical Society met with Drs. Matheny and Hines Thursday afternoon. Considerable important business was transacted. The meeting was very interesting throughout. Among the doctors present were: Shoemaker, of Butler; Showalter and Darby, of Waterloo; Bowman and Phillips, of Corunna; Clevenger and Stewart, of Garrett; Hines of St. Joe; Matheny, Hines, D. J. and Vesta M. W. Swarts, Hines, Sebring and Swarts, of Auburn.

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

Monday's Daily.

The Lenawee County Fair at Adrian begins Sept. 23 and ends Sept. 27.

Miss Maud Trover sang in the Presbyterian choir Sunday. She is a fine alto singer.

Frank Lindoerfer, of Chicago, is visiting relatives and friends in Jackson township.

Mrs. W. B. Campbell has been elected president of the Teachers' Association at Anderson.

James Griswold was taken quite ill yesterday, and while he is some better to day, he is still very weak.

Miss Mary Snell is now boxing "Dingers" for E. M. Bishop. The Dinger cannot be surpassed by any other brand of cigars on the market.

Mrs. John McIntyre of Memphis, Tenn., is here visiting the families of Wm. McIntyre and Henry McIntyre, as well as the other friends.

John W. Baxter went up into Franklin township, Saturday to remain over Sunday at the old home. Monday, he has to try a case before justice Musser.

Mr. C. M. Converse, of Chicago, was in town over Sunday, a guest in the family of Supt. Merica. He returned to the city this morning, in company with Miss Merica.

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of De Witt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

Charlie Kelley of Waterloo was here last week. He is getting ready to go on the big excursion to Atlanta. From that point he will take in various portions of southern states including Florida.

Estella Merica returned to Chicago this morning to continue her work at the Conservatory of Music. Miss Merica is making a specialty of the violin, but is also pursuing a thorough course in the science and history of music.

Mrs. David Dilgard has been visiting friends in this county for a short time and expects to remain about a month. Mr. D. is a railway employe and they reside at San Antonio, Texas, where they have a nice home.

Many farmers, and even people in town find themselves just now owners of a few loaded peach trees, the fruit being generally of good size and quality. Who knows but we are getting into the "fruit belt" again?

The state fair next week—September 16 to 21—ought to attract thousands of people. The low railroad rates and the many interesting entertainments on the programme will make it a most excellent time to visit the capital city.

We doubt if any of our readers ever saw a white sparrow. Elmer Baker showed us one on Saturday that he shot that morning in Stamets' Addition. It is a lovely white color, with not a speck on it, but is a genuine sparrow.

Mrs. Penfield received word Saturday, that her brother at Bucyrus, Ohio was dead. They had had but little hope for his recovery for some time. Those who knew him, speak of him as a most worthy young man, whose early death is to be deplored.

Sheriff Stroh went up to Michigan City yesterday and to-day returned with Frank Cook, a young fellow who was sent there a year ago for petit larceny. Under the new law, when a prisoner serves his time, he must be brought back to where he was sent from.

The Columbia City Mail went into the hands of a receiver Saturday, this course being necessary to protect creditors. We are sorry to see the owners get into difficulty, for they are good fellows. But there never was much need of a third paper in that town We have not learned whether it will be continued or not.

Rev. J. K. Waits married Charles T. Rogers and Miss Sarah Van Zile at the residence of Jos. Prosser Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, They are both from Garrett and are very excellent people. They will reside on a farm near that place. The COURIER wishes them many years of happiness.

There was a law case of more than ordinary importance in 'Squire Walborn's court to-day. Engelbert and Joseph Ashley are trying to have H. J. Mossey vacate their building at the Junction, where he has his saloon. Mossey wants to hold it, but the Ashleys have given a lease to Samuel McAnally which begins to-morrow, September 10. The case may develop into a pretty big one and get into the circuit court.

Tuesday's Daily.

The chronic grumbler still lives, but there are less cases of chronic Indigestion and Dyspepsia than formerly. The fact is so many people in the past have taken Simmons Liver Regulator that they are now cured of those ills. And a great multitude are now taking Simmons Liver Regulator for the same troubles and they'll soon be cured. "It is the best medicine."—Mrs. E. Raine, Baltimore, Maryland.

Corn is now nearly out of danger from frost. Only that on the lowest lands could be hurt. Of course the fodderf could be spoiled as it is still green, And this is of a good deal of value this year on account of the poor crop of hay. Farmers are cutting an unusual amount of corn fodder this year. Many fields are already in the shock.

Adjutant General Robbins has applications on file from a number of newly organized military companies over the state who desire to become identified with the National Guard. On account of the heavy expenses incurred at the last encampment the state does not deem it advisable to muster in new companies at this time. It costs the state from $1,000 to $1,500 to uniform and equip a new company.

Tuesday's Daily.

John Kruger begins a great slaughter sale this morning and will continue ten days. Read his advertisement.

Premium lists for the Butler Free Street Fair can be had at Brown, Culbertson and Boland's.

A gentleman from Hillsdale was in town to-day advertising their fair, which is held Sept. 30th to Oct. 4th.

A hundred dollar bicycle, made to order, is one of the premiums for the Butler Free Street Fair meet.

Saxby McIntosh was home over Sunday. He works on the Edon Independent, which he says is flourishing.

THE PRINCESS have added a full grocery stock to their department store. Don't fail to visit them. 37-39

Dr. Z. H. Stamets spent Sunday with the family of his father, Jacob Stamets. He returned this morning to Ft. Wayne.

The Butler Record says "the COURIER is the very one that introduced this matter, (the county superintendency) into county politics. It is now in order for the Record to show some little proof of this.

City Clerk W. J. Martin, of Garrett, was in the city yesterday and through courtesy of John Crimmins was shown through the new opera house. Mr. Martin thinks the building would be a credit to a much larger town.

October 15, 16, 17 and 18, are the dates for the Centennial Celebration at Fort Wayne. It will be 101 years from the time Gen. Wayne built the old fort near meeting of the two rivers. They expect to have the grandest blowout in the history of the city.

J. P. Crimmins and Miss Nettie Ernest drove down to the "River" Sunday and spent the day with Charlie Jenkins and family, Everyone who has enjoyed the hospitaltiy of Mr. Jenkins knows they were well entertained.

Charlie Hoff has some fine potatoes raised from the ones he brought back from Germany on the occasion of his recent visit. He gave them to a farmer and they produced a big crop. The quality is said to be of the best. They can be seen at Hoff's store.

Rev. W. L. Meese after a stay of eight weeks at Paw Paw Lake, Berrien County Mich., with his daughter, Mrs. Ira Eaton went this week to Cassopolis, where he will remain for a time with his eldest daughter, Mrs. Hopkins. He has had better health this summer than usual.

Mr. Bartles, superintendent of the County Home brought in a basket full of choice apples from the farm on Monday as a present to the board. The commissioners were in the country and two "jays," J. P. Crimmens and J. A. Barns, acted as board and received the fruit. We hereby attest that it is good.

F. E. Stoops was in town Saturday, and on inquiring of him we learned that the lad that was hurt by jumping on his wagon and falling under the wheels is getting along all right, though at first it was feared he was badly hurt. It was all caused by the boy's recklessness in climbing onto the wagon.

Ralph Moody played at Columbia City yesterday with the local company against the Page Fence Giants and they got a score of 6 against 9 for the Giants. it is a good showing under the circumstances. Ralph got high praises from the Columbia City people and the managers of the club there engaged him to play with them at North Manchester tomorrow and again at Columbia City on Fridy. So he has remained with them.

Charles H. Campbell and wife, of Fort Wayne, were here to-day. He is traveling for a jewelry house, and carries a full line of watches, diamonds, jewelry, and everything in that line. He expects to make regular visits to the dealers here. He is with the wholesale dealer, of Fort Wayne, C. J. Welker. Mr. Campbell will be remembered by our young people as a son of G. W. Campbell, now a resident of Wabash.

Wm. Daily and wife of Auburn and Mrs. Mary McDonald of Corunna and Jacob Brechbill and family of near Garrett left this morning for Kansas over the popular route, the Wabash. Mr. Daily and wife and Mrs. McDonald will go to Bellplain, and the latter family to Sedgwick. The DAILY COURIER will keep Mr. Daily posted on what is going on at home. But few people leave Auburn who do not receive the COURIER.

South Bend Times: The discovery of wood pulp as a substitute for rags in the manufacture of print paper will, it would seem, soon have to be followed up by the discovery of a substitute for wood pulp. It is estimated that 800,000,000 feet of spruce logs will be needed to fill the requirements of the mills for this year. The paper industry has assumed immense proportions in this country and is steadily increasing. A paper trust is in contemplation, to put up prices. The Wisconsin mills have been at a decided disadvantage on account of scarcity of water, and eastern mills have therefore been able to undersell western manufacturers. It is for this reason that western paper makers have been trying to form a trust. Their efforts, so far, have not been successful.

Butler Free Street Fair Sept. 24, 25, 26, and 27. Half rates on the Wabash Railroad from all points. The fare from Auburn is 32 cents for the round trip.

Do you wonder that the editor overlooks some of the local happenings? The local column is always of most interest to the general reader. The ladies are particularly fond of the going and coming of our citizens. Because your name is not in the paper is not due to any personal feeling that the editor may have against you. It is your fault. Don't feel that you are doing anything wrong to give the reporter an item. He will always be grateful for your kindness and reciprocate the favor when he can. Ex.

THE KING SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Reader, did you ever take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is BETTER THAN PILLS. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

CARRIAGE REPAIRING.

Campbell & Sons still on top. Best class of work promptly done. All kinds of carriage repairing, painting, trimming and blacksmithing of all kinds. Call on

CAMPBELL & SONS,

at Knoder's old stand, Auburn.

Apples Wanted.

To buy apples in any quantity, cider apples and good picked winter apples of all kinds. Delivered at south end of VanBuren street, first door west of Trentman factory. The highest market price will be paid in cash.

Wm. H. Derthick & Co. 37-38

Italian Bees.

I have a few swarms of Italian bees for sale, in good condition with plenty of honey, combs all straight and removable. drone comb removed. Queens bred from most industrious stock. Sold cheap if taken soon. Call on me in McIntyre Addition, Auburn, 37-38

JACOB WAGNER.

To Cure a Cold.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

Found.

By K. A. Johnson, of Corunna, One stray mare on the night of Aug. 20th. Any party proving property and paying expenses, may have the same.

K. A. JOHNSON, Corunna, Ind.

Lœwenstein & Co.

Waterloo gets back one of her old business men, for on Sept. 7, Jacob Lœwenstein will open up at his old stand on the corner where Jake Kahn, and afterwards himself had a store so long. They will have a new and full stock of dry goods, clothing and boots and shoes. They will also buy and sell all kinds of grain and produce. Cut this out and keep it.

Hicksville Old Settlers.

The annual meeting of the old settlers will be held at that place, Thursday, September 19. A good program of speeches and excercises will be given and they expect to have a pleasant gathering. Remember the date.

Card Of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Pipher wish to return many thanks to their kind friends of Auburn Junction who did so much to lessen the burden of their recent bereavement. Their kindness will never be forgotten.

Awarded
Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNES, Publisher.

The horse-meat scare is merely a nightmare.

No wonder the Vanderbilts' cottage at Newport is called "The Breakers." It cost $2,000,000.

The big tobacco companies have declared war upon each other, but the whole matter probably will end in smoke.

What will the lady in bloomers pick up when she passes over a muddy street crossing?—Minneapolis Journal. A few remarks dropped by bystanders.

Buffalo wants the next national conventions. She hasn't a hall which can seat more than 2,100 persons, but that makes no difference for advertising purposes.

Henry Irving on his forthcoming tour to this country will play a great many one-night stands. Henry himself, it is needless to add, will assume the role of the one knight.

The San Francisco Call says: "The California girl is the double-distilled extract of gold, sunshine, roses and balloons." She must be a very unsubstantial young woman.

The New York correspondent who telegraphs that potato bugs are holding up express trains down east must think the readers out here are green—very, very Paris green.

Frederick Seitel, of New York, has sued Alberta Mooney for $25,000 damages for breach of promise to marry. The new woman is rapidly securing equal rights for the old man.

New York announces the failure of a house that dealt exclusively by wholesale in "gent's pants." It probably could easily recoup its fortunes by manufacturing "lade's blooms."

A Wisconsin paper speaks enthusiastically of "blueberries picked by Indians with the dew of morning on them." Personally, we would prefer berries picked by Indians who haven't dew on them.

Dr. Reilly says bicycle riding shatters the nervous system. Henry George says bicycle riding cured him of nervous prostration. When doctors disagree we can't blame the bloomer girl for deciding for herself.

When the assessors call upon the Astors and Vanderbilts next time we advise them to take along copies of the New York papers containing descriptions of the Vanderbilt ball at Newport, with the estimates of jewels displayed.

Another young woman has been admitted to the Chicago bar, and threatens further to take active part in Republican politics. Judging from her picture, however, she isn't quite a "new woman," for the only visible bifurcated garment apparent is a pair of eyeglasses.

Dumb Animals: The offering of prizes at agricultural fairs for the yokes of oxen drawing the heaviest loads, with the accompanying whipping, yelling and strain on the unfortunate animals, is almost as barbarous as the Spanish and Mexican bull-fights and ought to be denounced by every humane man, whether he claims to be a Christian or not.

Just imagine what kind of a government Cuba would have if the mountain brigands, profesional greasers, half-breed tramps and military adventurers who constitute the forces in insurrection should be successful. Not enough sugar ever was raised in Cuba to sweeten such a government as they would impose on the island. Spanish rule, no doubt, is oppressive and a burden of the greatest kind. But brigand rule would be worse.

According to a Troy fisherman the latest triumph of Yankee inventive genius is an india rubber fishworm. It is said to be a remarkably good imitation of the common earthworm, is indestructible and in actual use proves as alluring to the fishes as the genuine article. The old fishermen will be quick to see its advantages. One can equip himself for a day's sport without digging over a whole garden in a search for bait. A handful of india rubber worms will last him through the season, and there will be no necessity for pulling up the line every few minutes to see if the small-fry nibblers have left the hook bare. It is possibly hardly necessary to add here that the fisherman who tells of this invention may be like some other fishermen, in which case the reader need not believe the story unless he wants to.

The Chicago Chronicle has a fearful picture, showing the dreams that may come to the child employer. The employer lies asleep under the shadow of "Cripple & Killem's factory," and the pale figures of the ghost children hover around him. Dreams of torment are his as he lies in half sleep. The graves that have been dug under his system are open before him, and the wealth that he has gathered by the sacrifice of little children is a millstone around his neck to drag him down. It is continually said that there is no sentiment in business, but there should be enough decency and right thinking among those who labor to see to it that the children get the right kind of opportunities. The slavish labor put upon young shoulders should be abandoned and abolished, and the youngsters should have a chance to grow up right.

Chicago introduces to a dizzy world the bloomer marriage. Eva Mae Christen and George W. Clarke were united in matrimony—and two minutes—by Justice Murphy at the city building. At the conclusion of the ceremony the justice remarked with a sigh: "You are now one—but I'll be blessed if I know which one you are." The bride wore bloomers and a confident air. She had faced matrimony before, having eloped with a saloonkeeper and left him after a year of tempestuous married life. The groom wore knickerbockers. He is a high diver at Windsor Park beach and has a record for plunging headlong into everything he undertakes. George had known Eva three afternoons. Chicago, first in everything, of course, was destined to be first in the bloomer business. But the whole thing is startling, nevertheless; who ever would have suspected that the "new woman" with the bicycle face and the baggy bloomers could be coaxed, cajoled or driven into matrimony under any circumstances? It is passing strange.

Perhaps there is a certain lack of courtesy, of delicate regard for the feelings of the aggrieved contractors in the inquiry, Would the Chicago Coliseum have been as likely to tumble down after it was finished? Still, the inquiry is one that will probably come into the minds of nine persons out of ten who read of the remarkable accident. Here was a structure designed to hold 40 000 persons. It was to have been opened soon, and as near 40,000 as could be induced to come would then have been inside it. Without any warning or especial reason a vast arch of the roof lurches, falls, and the rest of the gigantic building goes tumbling after like a house of cards. Perhaps the completed building would have been so braced and interdependent that such an accident could not possibly have befallen. The builders may be able to furnish satisfactory assurances that their plans are sound and their methods safe. But the fact remains that the building did fall down, and it is not reasonable to assume that their plans contemplated that it should fall. What might have been the result if 40,000 people had been sitting under those vast arches when they came crashing down is not a pleasant thing to think about.

It is a wonder that the advocates, exploiters and investigators of the new science, hypnotism, do not apply its wonderful powers to hydrophobia, that professedly hysterical disease, which is so nervous and so telepathic in its nature as to have raised a twin in symptoms—a disease of pure imagination, causing death, so fatal are its terrors, whose signs, although not exactly corresponding to those of the real hydrophobia, yet tally with those existing in the patient's mind as pertaining to that dreaded disease. For example, the lyssophobic patient barks like a dog, that being the supposititious accompaniment of human rabies, and not one of the true symptoms at all. If hypnotic suggestion is so potent as to induce calmness in raving maniacs, and sleep in raging insomniacs, if it can arrest the whole nervous system and turn the imagination, mind and physical movement into new channels, it seems reasonable to suppose that the same force can be used with merciful effect upon those unhappy beings who are going through acute torture of mind in anticipation of worse torture of the body. Instead of making men eat aloes with relish, by inducing them to believe them to be sugar; telling them they are hippopotami and encouraging them to behave "as such," why not devote dilettante energies to a really humane branch of necessity? If hypnotism is efficacious in curing the sick the best use to which it can be put is curing those sick whom medicine has not been able to reach. Inoculation is coming into disfavor now; there will be no prevention of hydrophobia soon. People cannot be made to take care of their dogs, and neglect and abuse of them, with fear, ignorance and hysterics supplementing the damage, are developing more cases every day.

Monkeys Steal a Drum.

Captain T. C. Carew, an ex-officer of the British army, who, during his military career, spent a good deal of time in Africa, tells the following amusing incident, which the New York Morning Journal records:

"A short distance from the little village in which our troops were stationed was a large forest which was infested by chimpanzees of great stature, who made almost nightly raids an the town and barracks, carrying away anything they took a fancy to.

"On one occasion a member of this intelligent tribe stole a drum from one of our tents and made off with it to the forest, beating it as he ran.

"The monkey took the drum to the headquarters of his own 'people,' who were evidently much charmed with it, as we often afterward heard the monkeys beating it vigorously.

"Sometimes in the middle of the night we would be awakened by some sleepless chimpanzee beating the drum with might and main.

"Just what the other chimpanzees thought of this midnight musical performance was never known, but from the fact that it created no war among them we were forced to conclude that they liked it."

Impact of the Wheel.

The ability of a bicycle rider in rapid motion to do serious damage in a collision with another machine or with a pedestrian is fully appreciated by few wheelmen. A man weighing 150 pounds and moving at the rate of ten feet a second (which is only about seven miles an hour) has a momentum of 1,500 pounds, leaving out of the account the weight of the wheel. This is sufficient to upset any pedestrian with terrific force. It has been suggested that the pneumatic tire forms a sort of fender which would prevent serious concussion in case of a collision. It would undoubtedly have a slight modifying effect, but it would be of light account. A collision between two wheels, each with a 150-pound rider, spinning at the moderate speed of seven miles an hour, would result in a smash-up with a force of 3,000 pounds. In view of these facts, it is no wonder that bicycle accidents are often very serious.

Novel Proposition from a Prisoner.

Detective Woodworthy, of Amsterdam, N. Y., left Pittsburg for home the other day with Anthony Soblosky, an alleged burglar, who was caught in the Mercy Hospital, where he was employed as nurse. Rather than go back he proposed that the officer give him ten feet of a start and then try to prevent his escape by shooting or otherwise. The officer declined to take chances.

Jones—This chicken is fourteen years old. Smith—How can you tell the age of a chicken? Jones—By the teeth! Smith—By the teeth! Chickens don't have any teeth. Jones—But I have.

ONE YEAR IN FORCE.

TRIUMPH OF THE WILSON TARIFF MEASURE.

All the People Have Profited by Democratic Tariff Legislation—What the Next Congress Cannot Do—Protectionists Like Barnum's Monkeys.

A Year of the Wilson Law.

The Wilson tariff law has been in force one year. When it took effect commercial conditions in the United States were more distressing, more disastrous than they had ever been since the time of Black Friday. After one year's operation of Democratic legislation there appear striking revival in business, marked increase in wages, a healthier tone in every market. The triumph of the measure, to which the Democracy in Congress lent its most intelligent energies, has been complete.

A New York paper signalized the anniversary of the Wilson law by the publication of an itemized statement, showing the experience of one year under the McKinley law and one year under the Wilson law. The statement, which was gathered from the most trustworthy sources of information, demonstrates that within a year after the enactment of the McKinley law wages had been reduced in an immense number of establishments; factories and mills were closed down, and the whole tendency of the manufacturing interests in the United States was toward disaster. On the other hand, the year which has passed under the Wilson law has seen mills reopening, running at double time and a voluntary increase of wages by a host of manufacturing corporations. It is further demonstrated by these statistics that while wages have risen prices have decreased. It is shown that not only has the wage worker profited by Democratic legislation, but the consumer as well. More is put into the pockets of the people. Less is taken out.

Postmaster General Wilson himself, author of the law, writing to the World in comment upon its statistics, reduces the whole theory and practice of tariff legislation to an axiom when he says "There is no way to protect American industry except by relieving it from burdens upon the materials with which it works; no way to insure good wages and steady employment to home labor except by freeing it from the shackles which have confined it to a glutted home market and prevented it from seekings its customers all over the world."

Freedom after all is the only stimulant for the industrial world as for the individual. Take off the shackles in each case. Let every man be as free as every other man to do what he will. Let him enjoy with every other man access to all natural opportunities. Let the nation, like the individual, be free—free from limitations imposed under the guise of protection. This done, justice will be secured in the case of individual and of nation, and he is but a poor American who does not believe that with absolute justice, with equality of opportunity, the American as an individual or the American as a race can hold its own against any people of the earth.

The Next Congress.

In the Fifty-fourth Congress, which will assemble in December, no party will have a majority of both houses. In the Senate there will be forty-three Republicans, thirty-nine Democrats and six Populists. If two Senators shall be admitted from Utah the entire body will consist of ninety members.

There will be in the House 244 Republicans, 104 Democrats and eight independents or Populists. The Republicans will have one of the most numerous majorities that ever controlled that body. It is more than two-thirds. They could pass a McKinley tariff bill over President Cleveland's veto. They could pass any bill of their own, which might show what they would do if they had the power to absolutely control legislation. They could menace the country with revolutionary bills which might render unsafe all business interests.

What course the Republicans will pursue it is difficult to predict. They cannot revive the McKinley tariff. Probably no Republican tariff bill that would pass the House would pass the Senate. These facts constitute the security of the country against any disastrous legislation for at least two years to come. The business revival, therefore, probably will continue. For this security to trade and commerce the country is indebted to wise Democratic legislation and to the fact that existing legislation cannot be repealed by the new Congress. The prospect also improves for the election of a Democratic President and Congress in 1896. Such a result would secure the domination of Democratic policy in the affairs of the Government at least till the end of this century. With this prospect in view there could be no reaction from the present growing prosperity of the country.—Chicago Chronicle.

Thread Industry Not Dead.

Day by day evidence is being furnished by various industries which disproves the protectionist claim that a high tariff is necessary in order that factories may run. One of the latest examples to be added to a long list is the spool cotton thread industry, which, under the McKinley tariff, was protected by a 56 per cent. duty. When the Wilson tariff proposed to reduce the duty to 40 per cent., the largest thread manufacturers issued a statement that the effect would be most injurious to their business, and that they would probably have to close their factories if the Wilson bill became a law. Well, the duty on thread was reduced, but instead of closing down, the mills have been running this year to their full capacity, with a larger number of men employed. The manufacturers found that people still wanted thread, and they continued to make it. So fades another high tariff illusion.

Result of Freer Trade Conditions.

The increase of iron and steel prices reported by cable from Birmingham is a direct result of the flush times in American iron production. For some time past American orders have been going to England because of the inability of our mills to keep up with the rush of business. The increased demand in England shows how fully English trade is coming to be controlled by American conditions.—New York World

Posers for McKinleyites.

While the Republicans are blustering about the certainty of their restoration to power next year, the Democrats prefer to let the great facts of the industrial revival and business prosperity speak for the wisdom of the tariff policy under which the change from hard times has come about. There is no necessity for Democrats to act on the defensive when their party is charged by the McKinleyites with being responsible for the trade depression of 1893-94. On the contrary they should ask the believers in protection some of these questions:

1. Is it not a fact that during the first two years that the McKinley tariff was in operation there were over a thousand instances, involving hundreds of thousands of workingmen, of wage reductions and closed factories?

2. Was not the high protective tariff of 1890 in force and the Republican party in power, during the period of reduced wages and closing factories previous to Nov. 1, 1892?

3. Are the benefits of protection due to the exclusion of trade, or to the political party which administers the tariff law? If the former, as all protectionists contend, was not the McKinley tariff in force during all the two years of panic which ended in August, 1894?

4. If two years of bankruptcy and poverty existed under high protection, does that not at least prove that if it does not cause panics, a high tariff cannot prevent them?

5. Is it not a fact that immediately after the adoption of the Wilson tariff, which greatly reduced duties, trade and industry began to revive?

6. Has not the past year witnessed more wage advances, affecting a larger number of working men and women, than in the whole period of the McKinley tariff?

7. Have not hundreds of new factories been built and hundreds of idle ones started up since the adoption of the Wilson tariff?

8. Has not the New York Tribune, the leading Republican organ, admitted that over a million workers have had their wages increased since the Wilson tariff took effect?

9. If the country experienced the worst panic in its history under high protection and is advancing in prosperity by "leaps and bounds" under a revenue tariff, what reason is there for the restoration of the McKinley tariff?

10. If Republicans were honest would they not admit that their claim of prosperity under protection was false, and that the events of the past year have proved untrue their predictions of disaster to follow the new tariff?

Robbing One Another.

When Barnum's show was in winter headquarters in Bridgeport, Conn., a few years ago, a number of monkeys were kept in a large circular cage, divided into compartments by wire partitions. Each day when the animals were fed, instead of eating his own portion, a monkey would thrust his head through the wires and steal from his neighbor's dish. While he was thus engaged the next monkey was stealing from him, and so on all around the cage. The result was that in the scramble and quarreling a good deal of the food was spilled and wasted, and while a few stronger and cunning monkeys got more than their share, the others were poorer than if each had eaten his own portion.

These monkeys, without knowing it, were true protectionists, and illustrated perfectly the ideal state of society from a high tariff point of view. The McKinleyites would have us all engaged in trying to take by taxation from each other's wealth, for the purpose of making everybody rich through stealing from everybody. The farmer would be robbed for the alleged benefit of the workingman, the latter for the benefit of the manufacturer, who himself would be robbed by duties on raw material for the benefit of the landowner, the landowner would have to pay higher prices to benefit the merchant, and so on around the circle. Instead of this complicated system of tolls and taxes the ideal Democratic society is one in which each man enjoys the full reward of his own labor, and neither steals nor is stolen from. The Republican system means a scramble for favors, like a lot of hogs around a trough. The Democratic policy means an orderly company of gentlemen seated around a table. Which is the better system?

One-Man Rule in Pennsylvania.

The events of the present week have proved that this autocracy is still undisturbed in Pennsylvania. It has been an autocracy established by the Republican party, and there is no proof that that party has any desire to interfere with it. The Republicans of that State this year have objected to the autocrat, not to the supreme jurisdiction which is implied in the form of government for which he stands. We say the Republicans, because there is no State in the Union where the Republicans have a clearer control than in the State of Pennsylvania.—Boston Herald.

Iowa's Democracy United.

The Democratic party in Iowa is united, thoroughly so, and it will make a stubborn fight for victory. Nor is there anything the outlook that is necessarily discouraging. But the Republican party is anything but united. Some of its hitherto strongest supporters are business men who are out of sorts with the plan of General Drake to ignore issues that are vital to the commerce of Iowa and make his canvass on sentiment.—Sioux City Tribune.

Mendacity and Lack of Patriotism.

Just as the Republican papers had determined to their own satisfaction that our pusillanimous Government had allowed itself to be crowded out of the Chinese investigation the news comes that the Chinese Government has appointed a commission to escort Consul Hixson to the place where the investigation is going on. The want of patriotism displayed by these papers is only equaled by their mendacity.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Ammunition for Democracy.

Every advance in wages is ammunition for the Democracy, and there have been many of them since the tariff question was settled by the passage of the Wilson bill.—Dayton Times.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

Sprinkles of Spice.

Neber min' de comin' fros',
Honey, don't you fear;
When de watahmillion's gone,
De 'simmon will be here.
—Washington Star.

Magistrate—Now tell me why you stole that watch? Prisoner—Oh, just to while away the time.—Philadelphia Record.

Adolphus—Why, Ethel, are you looking at me so intently? Ethel (dreamily)—I was gazing at vacancy, Dolly.—Boston Transcript.

Britisher—Are your humorists here in America generally read? "Well, no; those I have met have been most infernally blue."—Toledo Blade.

"Don't you find it rather lonely here?" asked Cholly, "with nobody to talk to?" "Yes," she replied, "and it's getting worse every minute."—Washington Star.

"Jones seemed to be awfully mad when I overtook him this morning." "What's the matter, I wonder?" "Why, you see, I had the faster horse."—Chicago Tribune.

Old Girl—You say that you would hustle after a man? New Girl—Yes, certainly. "Why do such an unseeming thing?" "To reduce my weight."—Adams Freeman.

"I am very sorry, Karl, you didn't admire my new frock. Everybody says it's charming." "Your friends, my dear, pay you compliments; I pay your bills."—Lustige Blaetter.

"Nature," said Uncle Eben, "doan' nebber bestow all her gifs on one individjile. De lightnin' bug ain' got no stinger, an' de skeeter ain' got no lamp."—Washington Star.

"Green tea or black tea, Miss?" inquired the shopman in a sort of medico bedside manner. "I don't think it matters," said the girl; "missus is color blind."—Fort Worth Gazette.

Blobbs—Your ocean voyage seems to have improved you. You look stouter. Slobbs—I lost five pounds, just the same. Blobbs—Seasick? Slobbs—No; poker.—Philadelphia Record.

Bingo—I want to change the combination of that house safe of mine. Safe Man—What's the matter? Servants found out the old number? Bingo—No. My wife has.—Brooklyn Life.

"When I first took hold of this place," said the new proprietor of the grocery store on the corner, "it was doing absolutely nothing, and now the business has doubled."—Chicago Tribune.

Incredulous Friend—You'll never accomplish anything by trying to reach the pole——" Arctic Explorer—Just wait till you see me coming down the homestretch.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

"It was by bein' too tender-hearted that I got here," explained the gentleman behind the bars. "Stid of takin' all the feller had I left him enough to hire a lawyer and a jury on."—Indianapolis Journal.

Blabzer—Out in the country where you live, don't you find it aggravating having to hurry to catch trains? Mazner—Oh, no! It's hurrying to miss them that we find agravating.—Roxbury Gazette.

Tramp (interviewing Herr Butherz at the front door)—Excuse me—yesterday you gave me this hat and the light top coat I am now wearing; couldn't you let me have a walking stick to match?—Fremdenblatt.

"Do you think," said Chappie, "that a gentleman ought to speak to his barber when he meets him on the street?" "Certainly," said Briggs. "It is about the only chance he has to get a word in."—Indianapolis Journal.

Cumso—George Washington is responsible for the damage to the wheat crop. Cawker—I thought it was the Hessian fly which was doing the damage. Cumso—It is; but Washington made the Hessian fly.—Judge.

"Have your baggage checked?" said the man with a handful of brass disks. "If it's all the same to you," replied Familiman, "I'd prefer to have you put a check on the man who handles the baggage."—Boston Transcript.

"You are working too hard," said a policeman to a man who was drilling a hole in a safe at 2 o'clock in the morning. "What's that?" asked the burglar, in a discontented tone. "I say you need arrest."—Boston Globe.

"How did you feel on your fiftieth birthday?" asked one of Boston's bachelors of another who is beginning to grow old. "Never happier or friskier in my life," said he, "but I had a bad headache next morning."—Boston Herald.

Miss De Fashion—Mother, what shall we send to Miss De Style for her wedding present? Mrs. De Fashion—Will the list be published in the paper? "No; she says that's vulgar." "Send her a plated saltspoon."—New York Weekly.

"Our side is going to spring some unlooked-for disclosures on you," said a lawyer to one of the opposing attorneys. "We've been expecting some unlooked-for disclosures," was the reply, "so you'll not take us unawares."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"Jeremiah," said Mr. Jingle's wife, as that gentleman came home somewhat late, you don't write me touching apostrophes as you used to do." "No," replied Mr. Jingle, "and you didn't use to talk question marks and exclamation points as you do now."—Washington Star.

Both in Luck.

When Gen. Lafayette was on his last visit to this country, two young men were introduced. He said to one:

"Are you married?"

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"Happy man!" remarked the General. He then put the same question to the other, who replied:

"I am a bachelor."

"Lucky dog!" remarked the General.

There have been no entirely successful machines invented yet for setting type or setting hens.

HOW TO BECOME GREAT.

SOME VARIED OPINIONS UPON A SUBJECT OF REAL INTEREST.

Why Social, Political, Literary and Business Ambitions Enchain Men's Attention—Diligence, Perseverance, and Genius May Be of Some Help, but It Is Ingenious Advertising that Tells in the Long Run—Many Instances that Prove This True.

Every man who is worthy of that title desires public recognition. Socially he would be better known and respected. If he assumes to ignore what is generally known as "society," he surely turns to some other kindred ambition. Politics may engross his attention, and, if he would rise in that line he must, by personal address, by party services, or by public speaking, win the confidence and good will not only of his own party, but of the wider public. If as a student he buries himself in a library, and works through lonely days and nights, still, it is only in the hope of leaving some work "so writ, as future ages shall not willingly let die." Socially, politically, in art or literature, yes, even in commerce, the desire for a wider publicity is inspiring and ennobling.

Ambition is a strong virtue until it steps beyond prudence or proper modesty. "By that sin fell the angels," and thousands of thoughtless mortals who try to rush in where the better angels fear to tread, destroy all hopes of public approval. Their rudeness ruins them socially. Their eagerness for office defeats their political aspirations. Their ambition for rapid recognition clouds their literary efforts. Their "penny dips" are blown out before they have set the river afire. In business little fools ape the actions of successful men until whole hordes are following Wanamaker's advertising or imitating the Rising Sun stove polish, or copying the plans of really successful houses. The public measures them quickly—they are asses clothed in lions' skins.

The first rule of real success is to be original. Not strangely, queerly original—but that every act and utterance shall spring from an honest interior. It is not possible to achieve greatness by imitation. Real greatness often comes to men of humble birth and surroundings, whose hearts are true and firm, while in times which try the souls of men the feeble and vacillating ones are swept aside as by a plague. Arnold of Winkelried was a private soldier, but his brave act in burying a dozen spears in his own breast to make way for his fellow soldiers won him a deserved immortality. Bunyan's simple but heart-told story surpasses in wide publicity any literary effort of the greatest of scholars. The simplest articles have built up the greatest trade successes. It was a farmer who was kindly trying to amuse his little children who invented the now famous "Pigs in Clover," and it paid him better than a gold mine. But as an instance of solid success, built up by honest means, used to popularize a simple but original article, Sapolio gives us a capital illustration. It is a solid cake of scouring soap, but it is the best of its kind—its manufacturers have never altered or neglected its quality. It is an article naturally of moderate consumption, but it is used everywhere. Not in the United States only, where, from California to Maine, it is a household word, but in India, China, and Japan, in Australia and all the countries of South America, it marks the progress of civilization by its mere presence. Its traveling salesmen can claim in common with itself that they scour the world! The methods used in conducting its vast business rival in careful consideration the conduct of enterprises apparently more important, but the secret of its success is that no honest method of obtaining and of retaining public attention is neglected. Look at the simple little cake of Sapolio, lying half used, perhaps, on the kitchen sink, and try to realize that the sun never sets on its sales. Consider that it cost you but a few cents, although its manufacturers spend hundreds of thousands in advertising it to the millions whom they wish to remind. It is like a fairy tale. Aladdin rubbed his lamp to no better purpose than the public does Sapolio, for, as a universal servant, its services are without measure, and its worth brings back golden returns to its owners.

How has such wide popularity been obtained? By original merit and patient perseverance. Probably the most interesting side of the story lies in the well-known advertising which has been used. We can reveal some of its methods. Its advertising department is presided over by a man who talks proverbs at breakfast, dinner and supper, and twists them to fit Sapolio while the rest of the world sleeps. An artist is employed by the year, although countless sketches and ideas are contributed by outsiders. Poets—not mere rhymesters—are paid to tell its merits in original verses, and the most novel schemes are made use of to attract attention. Two hundred and fifty thousand boxes of dominoes were sent out last year. Japan furnished twenty thousand feathered owls and fifty thousand puzzles, besides thousands of hand-painted panels.

Domestic puzzles passed away long ago, but not until millions of them had been used. Pamphlets are printed in vast numbers, and the famous Sapolio alphabet has nearly reached its tenth million. Five hundred dollars will rent a large farm, but it goes to pay for one half-page insertion in a daily paper. Yes, one thousand dollars has been paid for a single column in a weekly paper, but of course the circulation, like the consumption of Sapolio, was enormous. Bold methods they may well be called when over two thousand dollars is paid for the rental of one sign on the most prominent building in America. As odd methods we may mention the employment of an "advertising orator" who made stump speeches in all the principal cities, and the posting of signs reading "Keep off the Grass" on all the snow banks in New York after its great blizzard. But our readers know only too well how thoroughly it is advertised. Every city, town and railroad is decorated with its signs; the magazines publish its pictures; the street cars are enlivened by its proverbs; the newspapers continually remind the public of its merits. But even if it was not so prominent in its own behalf, the dozens of imitators who try to impose their wares on the public, as "just as good as Sapolio," would prove to the world that it was the standard.

Who can read the bright verses which tell us how to make this world brighter without the tribute of a smile? Who can glance at their pictures without admitting that advertising is an art itself? We have not room for many, but feel that this article would be incomplete without some specimens of them.

Abou Ben Kelly.

Abou Ben Kelly (may her tribe increase)
Was much disturbed one night and had no peace;
For there upon the wall within her room,
Bright with the moonlight that dispelled the gloom,

A man was scribbling with a wand of gold.
Now, Mrs. Kelly was a warrior bold,
And to the presence in the room she said,
"What writest thou?" The scribbler raised his head,
And with a look that made Ben Kelly hot,
Answered: "The name of that which leaves no spot."

"And what is that?" said Abou. "Not so fast,"
Replied the scribbler. Kelly opened vast
Her mouth angelic; then in whisper said,
"What is this marvel, quick? I must to bed."

The scribbler wrote and vanished. The next night
He came again with much awakening light,
And showed the names that nations long have blessed.
And lo! Sapolio's name led all the rest.

The Monogram U. S.

There is a little monogram
We see where'er we go;
It offers us protection
Against a foreign foe.
It stands for light and progress
In every foreign clime,
And its glory and its greatness
Are the themes of many a rhyme.

But few have ever really known,
And few would ever guess
What our country means by marking
All her chattels with U. S.:
It may stand for United States,
Or yet for Uncle Sam;
But there's still another meaning
To this simple monogram.

We see it on our bonds and bills,
And on our postal cards;
It decorates our Capitol,
Shadowed by Stripes and Stars.
In all our barracks, posts and forts
It plays a leading part,
And the jolly sailor loves it
And enshrines it in his heart.

Now, have you guessed the message
Which these mystic letters bear?
Or recognized the untold good
They're spreading everywhere?
Echo the joyful tidings,
And let the people know
That the U. S. of our nation means
We—Use Sapolio.

A Ballad of May.

You must wake and call me early;
Call me early, Bridget, do,
For to-morrow's such a busy day
I fear we'll ne'er get through
With the scrubbing and the cleaning,
And the scouring up, you know,
If it wasn't for our tried old friend,
Morgan's SAPOLIO.

"Needles and pins, needles and pins,
When a man marries his trouble begins."
But all of us know that it would not be so
If he would provide her with S-A-P-O
L-I-O.

Lament of the Emigrant.

I'm sitting on the stile, Mary,
Where we sat long ago,
I've walked a many a mile, Mary,
To find Sapolio.
I mind me how you told, Mary,
When we were side by side,
Its match could not be bought for gold
In all the world so wide.

Our home was bright and fair, Mary,
You kept it so for aye,
And yet had time to spare, Mary;
Would you were there to-day.
You made the work but play, Mary;
All women might do so,
And all should know the charm you say
Lies in Sapolio.

But now I sit and weep, Mary,
Nor fear to break your rest,
For I laid you, darling, down to sleep,
With your baby on your breast.
The graves are not a few, Mary,
Hard work brings many low;
It was not so with you, Mary,
You used Sapolio.

Rebus.

When lingers spring in winter's lap,
And thoughts of love are rife,
To get my first, the trees they tap;
"The sweetest thing in life."

When winter evening firesides cheer
And music fills the soul, heigho;
When mixed selections charm the ear,
My second is in the folio.

Like "sunshine in a shady place,"
My whole each object heightening,
Makes labor light, and work delight;
It cleans "as quick as lightning."

High Rates of Interest.

Many governments in good credit can borrow money at 3 per cent., or even less. When security cannot be given, or when credit is not good, the rate exacted of private borrowers is much higher. A case has been found in London where interest was paid on short loans at a rate which would amount to five thousand two hundred per cent. a year.

A Mr. Moon, who has contributed an article on the subject to an English review, has made a personal investigation of the matter among the pawnbrokers of Whitechapel, London. These men and women are regarded by the wretchedly poor people about them as philanthropists rather than usurers.

An act of Parliament permits these pawnbrokers to collect on all loans of two shillings or less an interest of at least half-penny a month. This appears very reasonable to the poor people of Whitechapel; but many loans of sixpence are made, and as in the case of sixpence loans no time longer than a week is ever given for payment, and as the half-penny is always collected the same as for a month, the rate on these little loans amounts to what would be equal to four hundred per cent. a year.

But the way in which this sort of usury may be carried very much further is described in Mr. Moon's narration. A pawnbroker said to him:

"There's things here, sir, that don't stay here not a day. Last winter a woman brought me in one evening a child's pair of shoes, and I lent her a sixpence on them.

"Next morning very early in she comes, sir, with a bed coverlet. It must have just come off the bed, for it was as warm as could be to the hands. I lent her sixpence on it, and with that sixpence and a half-penny that she brought with her, she took the child's shoes out of pawn and went away with them.

"'Now then,' says she, 'the little 'un can go to school.'

"And in the evening back she comes again with the child's shoes once more, and puts 'em up for sixpence, and gets the coverlet and pays her half-penny on that, and goes away with that to sleep under for the night.

"And that she kept up, sir, day after day and night after night, until the mild weather came again, and a coverlet on a bed wasn't no longer necessary."

This woman was really paying interest, therefore, at the rate of a hundred per cent. a week, or fifty-two hundred per cent. a year.

A Galloway Flail.

The Gallovidians of old had a remarkable war weapon known as the Galloway flail. It seems to have been indigenous to this corner of Scotland, and in the traditions of the province it occupies a prominent place. The tide of battle has been turned on more than one occasion by the skillful manipulation of the Galloway flail. The handstaff was a tough ash sapling about five feet in length, and the scoople, the part for striking the barn floor when threshing, was made of iron, about four feet long, with three joints, equidistant from each other. No swordsmen could withstand an attack with the flail. One stroke would shiver the sword to pieces and leave the unfortunate individual at the mercy of his opponent. Then the scoople with its iron joints would encircle its victim and crush him just as a boa constrictor would.

SHERIFF WILKINS FREED.

Years of Slavery and How He Escaped—Health Is Improving—Had Gained Fifteen Pounds in Weight—Talks About His Deliverer Daily.

Urbana, Ohio, Sept. 9, 1895.—(Special.)—This town is in quite a boil of excitement since the facts about the improved physical condition of many of our leading citizens became known. Anderson & Cramer, the big wholesale and retail druggists, were called on and frankly admitted that they were the first to start the good work, as Mr. Anderson termed it. "Yes, we introduced No-To-Bac into this town about three years ago. The demand at the start was very light, the folks had no faith in it, but we sold to a few people, and to our great astonishment every one reported a cure. Since that time we have sold hundreds of boxes, and every one under a guarantee to cure or refund the money, and strange as it may seem, we have never had a call to refund money. This is indeed a great record of merit, and it is because of this merit that the big sale has resulted. As every cure brings in at least twenty-five customers, we know that No-To-Bac can be relied upon in every respect, and No-To-Bac not only relieves the nervous irritation and makes the use of tobacco entirely unnecessary, but at the same time builds up and fortifies the general physical condition. I just saw two of our prominent merchants pass down the opposite side of the street; they were cured by No-To-Bac a year ago, and they have not used tobacco since and have been greatly improved in health. We have a great many customers, men who are well advanced in years, who have been cured of the tobacco habit by the use of No-To-Bac, and who continue taking it right along for its tonic effects. As a natural invigorator and stimulant we believe there is no preparation in America to equal it."

"You know R. P. Wilkins, our sheriff, don't you?"

"Yes, of course, I do."

"Well, you want to interview him."

Mr. Wilkins was called upon, and said: "Yes, November 4th, last, I bought my first box of No-To-Bac from Anderson & Cramer. I had little faith, and to my great surprise, after using part of the third box, I was completely cured and did not have the least desire for tobacco. I had been a perfect slave to tobacco for over twenty-five years; I smoked from twelve to fifteen cigars a day; to-day I feel better, I sleep better, think better, and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight, and there is not a day passes that I do not recommend No-To-Bac to many of the tobacco users who I know are destroying their lives and vitality by the use of the weed."

Further investigation revealed the fact that there are 500 people living in this town and the surrounding country who have been cured by No-To-Bac. If the cures go on at this rate it will not be very long before the tobacco industry is going to be seriously affected. The sale of No-To-Bac has been phenomenal.

The public should be warned, however, against the purchase of any of the many imitations on the market, as the success of No-To-Bac has brought forth a host of counterfeiters and imitators. The genuine No-To-Bac is sold under a guarantee to cure by all druggists, and every tablet has the word No-To-Bac plainly stamped thereon, and in the purchase of the genuine article you run no physical or financial risk.

Bone Food.

One of the New York food reformers who would improve the diet of mankind has put out a proposition for the eating of bones, after they are ground fine. He holds that under the existing regimen, the bones of the human frame are not properly supplied with the chemical elements needed to keep them in sound and vigorous condition, and that these elements can be most easily obtained by consuming the powdered bones of the animals ordinarily used for food. He would sprinkle a steak or chop, for example, with bone dust, after the manner in which it is sprinkled with salt and pepper, and he maintains that thus the taste of the meat may be greatly improved.—New York Sun.

Peculiar Appreciation.

"I don't understand how you can be away from home so much. You are off traveling two-thirds of the year," said a homely mother, who stays at home, to her married daughter.

"My dear mother, I know why I am away so much. My husband never appreciates me except when I am away from him, and I want him to appreciate me as much as possible."—Texas Siftings.

"For years I had suffered from falling of the womb, inflammation of the stomach, and weakness of the female organs. "I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and found a perfect cure in it for these troubles." MRS. LIZZIE DECLINE, 224 Grand Street, Jersey City, New Jersey.

The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS., Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple.

He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both thunder humor). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. Send postal card for book.

A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken.

When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. Read the label.

If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause squeamish feelings at first.

No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablespoonful in water at bedtime. Sold by all Druggists.

★ ASK YOUR DRUGGIST FOR ★

IMPERIAL GRANUM

IT IS ★ THE BEST ★ FOOD FOR INVALIDS

★ JOHN CARLE & SONS, New York. ★

MOONSHINE STILLS.

HOW THEY ARE RAIDED BY REVENUE OFFICERS.

Whisky Quietly Made Within Thirty Feet of the Traveled Public Highway—Mr. Hall Found Preaching Didn't Pay, So He Took to the Jug.

Drove Him Out by Strategy.

When a "moonshine" raid is made there are always two departments of the government represented—the internal revenue and the department of justice. The revenue officers locate the illicit distilleries and destroy them,

IN THE 'SHINER COUNTRY.

while the department of justice is represented by the United States deputy marshal and occasionally a United States commissioner. The latter corresponds with the office of magistrate in the State and accompanies the raid for the purpose of issuing warrants when an arrest is to be made; the deputy marshal's office corresponds with that of the sheriff, and his duty is to make the arrest.

A raid was being made by a large party of revenue officers and deputy marshals in the Pea Ridge country, on the Tennessee and Kentucky line. We came into a neighborhood where were three houses, about one-half mile apart, and forming almost a triangle. The marshal had caplases for the three men who occupied them. I belonged to the revenue department, and had no authority to arrest. There was but one officer present who had the caplases, but upon an occasion of this kind men do not stand much on the strict letter of the law. Our force was divided into three parties, and each one repaired to a house for the purpose of making an arrest. It fell to my party's lot to arrest Bob Shaw, who was charged with being an accessory before the fact to the killing of a revenue officer, had been arrested, indicted and had given bond for his appearance and forfeited it. Now Bob was a character in that section of the country. He weighed about 200 pounds, was a perfect specimen of physical manhood, and had the reputation of being recklessly brave and scrupulously honorable. He lived in the center of the enemy's country, and in order to make an arrest it was necessary to have a good force. Just before court a raid was organized and all the caplases were placed in the hands of a marshal, who accompanied the party, the revenue department assisting the judiciary and vice versa.

A MISSISSIPPI COFFEE POT STILL.

[A—The boiler in which the mash is stewed. B—The pipe and worm passing through cold water cylinder C. Water is introduced at E and and drawn off at F. The steam condenses and escapes as whisky at H. J is the cover which swings open.]

Apprised of the dangerous character of my man our party carefully surrounded the house, a story-and-a-half log affair, with a log kitchen at one angle and a rough porch in front of the door of the dwelling extending around in front of the kitchen door. There was but one window below and two small windows above in the dwelling. Between the eaves and the walls of the house was an open space all around of about four inches. A person upstairs could pass around the wall and cover any object with a gun or pistol for a distance of ten or twenty feet from the house. Beyond that distance one could not be seen except from the two end windows.

It was known all over the country that we were somewhere on the ridge and everybody was on the lookout for us. As luck would have it, Mr. Spurrier charged one of the other houses with his squad of men before I could get my crowd in position, but was discovered in time for the moonshiner to run out of the house. He was fired upon by three or four of Spurrier's men, but got away. This directed the attention of the man that I was going to surround, and I was able to place my men in a safe position before they were discovered. As I walked to the front gate apparently unarmed, Shaw's wife, a beautiful little woman, with a baby in her arms and a little girl by her side, came out of the building. She went to the kitchen door and fastened it just as I stepped up on the porch. I asked her if her husband was in. She said to me in a low tone: "For God's sake do not attempt to go into that house." I asked her to go in herself and tell her husband to come out. She said she could not do it, neither was it necessary, for he intended to die before he would be taken, and I noticed the tears running down her cheeks. Thereupon she left with the children.

I went to the door and found it fastened on the inside. I heard a voice upstairs asking who I was and what I wanted. I looked up over my head and I could see a man's hand and the barrel of a pistol on the top sill, but I was so close to the house; in fact, inside of the door facing, he could not shoot with any degree of accuracy. I told him who I was and that we had a caplas for him, intended to take him and that he would do well to come down and surrender and not force us to resort to desperate means. He told me that he did not intend to surrender, and that if I forced the door and entered the house he would kill me. He said that he had been forced to kill one revenue officer, and had had a difficulty with two or three others, and didn't want any more trouble on his hands. I told him that I had the house surrounded and that the firing of one shot by him would be the signal of his death. He replied that he could whip a whole regiment where he was. I finally told him that if he did not come down I would burn the house. He told me to burn and be d—d.

I went into the kitchen—it was just after dinner—and, getting a frying pan full hot coals and a few green chips, I went back to the door. I set the frying pan upon the door sill, and, lying down close to the wall, where Shaw could not shoot me, I commenced blowing the smoke under the door, occasionally telling that I hated to burn the house on account of his wife and children. The stairs were just to the right of the door, and, the smoke ascending, soon filled the upper part of the house. Shaw concluded that I was burning him out, and finally said that if I would extinguish the fire he would come down and surrender. I answered "All right," and then went to the kitchen, apparently to get a bucket of water. When I returned I removed the fire, told him to leave his weapons upstairs, and come ahead.

When he stepped down he asked me where my authority was for arresting him. The truth was, I had none, the marshal being probably a half mile from his house. I laid my left hand on my revolver that I held in my right, and told him that he would have to be satisfied with that until Mr. Brown, the marshal, came up. He then asked me where my men were. I blew my whistle and they left their places of concealment and surrounded him.

Clergymen and Moonshiner.

"I have had my share of moonshining," said Captain Cromwell, of Cincinnati, Ohio, as he paused in his labor of packing up a raft of traps and papers in preparation for his immediate departure for his new post on the Pacific slope. "I have tackled some pretty nasty customers and been in some pretty rough parts of the country, and yet I have a friendly feeling for these people, who are honest in all other things, and who really believe that a tyrannous government is trying to deprive them of an inalienable right.

"PUT THAT GUN DOWN!"

"About the last still that I seized was well nigh undiscoverable, and had I not had positive information that the still was there, I would have passed it by. It was this way. Last year I was notified that a certain Tom Hall was operating a still somewhere in Northern Mississippi. He was even then out on bail, two good lawyers being on his bond for $500. These lawyers did not believe that Hall was a moonshiner for he was a plausible sort of a fellow and had put up a good story. I knew that he would not be hard to locate, so I got a man who was familiar with the ground to do some detective work for me. This man went out into the country and in the course of a short time wormed himself into the confidence of the moonshiner.

A MOONSHINE DISTILLERY.

"Hall had a house on the side of a mountain, alongside the road, and entertained neighbors somewhat in the manner of an innkeeper. My man went to Hall's place and bought whisky, and drank and played cards until 4 o'clock in the morning. After he had gone to bed he got up and prowled around and after a long search found where the still was hidden. He even went so far as to take a diagram of the place. He came into town, where I was waiting for him, and gave me the intelligence that I wanted.

"I got the posse together and set out at once, arriving at the spot in the early morning. My information was so positive that I arrested Hall at once. As we entered the house he edged around behind his wife, who grabbed her husband's pistol from his pocket and faced us. I saw that I had a determined woman to deal with, and knew I would have to treat her like I would a man.

"'Put that pistol down,' I commanded.

"'I won't do it,' she said, looking at me in a dogged fashion.

"She stood her ground for a full minute, but saw that we could not be trified with, and did not dare raise the gun.

"'Put that pistol down!' I again ordered. 'Put it on the table!'

"She laid the weapon down, but stood close to it.

"'Now go over to the other side of the room,' I ordered. She moved away slowly, and one of my men grabbed the revolver. Then I breathed easier, for while I was fully determined not to be bluffed by a woman, there is small satisfaction in fighting one, and there is no knowing what one will do once she is roused to desperation.

"I searched the house, but could not locate anything suspicious, and went over to the smokehouse. Mrs. Hall headed me off, and said that I should not go in there.

MOUNTAIN BUSINESS HOUSE.

"'If you don't open that door I will beat it in with an ax,' I said. When she saw that I was determined she got the key and unlocked the door. The place was filled with boxes and barrels, and nothing was in sight that would indicate a distillery. We moved the boxes about, and presently found a trap door in the floor, but so small that I could not get through. So I sent one of my men, who was a thin fellow, down.

"In a few minutes he called up that there was nothing that he could find, and that it was so dark that he could not see. So I passed him down some matches and directed him to make a thorough search. He was about to give up the search when I noticed that the earth floor in one spot was softer than in other places. He set to scraping the dirt away, and came upon another trap door that opened into a subcellar. He crawled down, and called to me that he had found the still, and that it was in full operation, fire going and spirits condensing.

"He found another hidden door in the side of the cellar, out over the ravine, and kicked it open. Through this I was able to climb. It was the most perfect moonshine still that I ever saw, about a hundred-gallon capacity, and worth over $7,500. The smokehouse was located over the ravine, at the bottom of which a stream flowed. The refuse was run into this and carried off. The smoke from the furnace was carried under ground and up into the kitchen chimney. When the still was going the wife was apparently doing the household cooking. There, within thirty feet of the road, Hall had been carrying on his illicit distillery.

"While I was taking Hall into town I questioned him, for he seemed to be a decent sort of fellow. He told me, and I later found out that he told the truth, that he started in life as a Baptist minister, but that he could not make a living at preaching, and had been drawn into moonshining. The court sent him to prison for two years."

The public spirit of the citizen is the motive power of the community.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

THE State censuses of 1895 nearly all indicate a movement from the cities back to the farms.

THE new woman is booming in Oklahoma. More than twenty are in the jails there charged with being bandits.

PERMISSION to establish a steamboat service on the Dead sea has been asked of the Sultan of Turkey by the provincial authorities of Syria.

ANDREW CARNEGIE has aroused British wrath by saying that it would pay England to burn up her railroad equipment and replace it with American models.

IT is said that if England were to become a republic to-morrow, and there were a popular election for President, the Prince of Wales would be sure to receive a majority of all the votes in the United Kingdom.

ANOTHER learned man has been studying the "language" of insects. He says he has discovered satisfactory evidence of telepathy among them. Telepathy is described as a sixth sense, by which the insects are able to communicate ideas to one another at a great distance.

THE aggregate number of employes of all the roads in the United States is as large as the standing army in Germany. The 1,890 railroads in this country employ 900,000 persons; that makes one person in every ninety in our population depend for his living on a railroad.

CORN is not the only product which is breaking all records. The iron output these days is the largest which the country has ever had at this time of the year. Moreover, it is steadily growing. This is one of the most striking evidences which could be found that a period of business activity exceeding any which the country has yet known is close at hand.

THE latest census of Berlin shows that the population is nearly stationary. It appears to be hopeless for Berlin to overtake Paris, which is now 800,000 ahead. Vienna is pressing Berlin closely, while St. Petersburg progresses more rapidly than the German capital. In Berlin there are now more than forty-five thousand apartments without tenants.

ITS latest census gives Boston only 494,000 people, and leaves it still behind St. Louis in population, but the suburban population of St. Louis is small. Within a few miles of most Western cities it is possible to find the primitive wilderness, while Eastern cities have suburbs often nearly as heavily populated as the city itself. Thus with its suburbs Boston now claims a population of 971,000.

HERR HAGENBECK, of Hamburg, the animal collector and trainer, urges that some practical steps be taken to protect the elephants of Africa, which, he asserts, are threatened with total extermination. He proposes that the exportation of tusks weighing less than twenty-two pounds should be prohibited by law, and that hunters be forbidden to kill females and young bulls, but rather encouraged to capture them alive and bring them into the trading stations.

ACCORDING to the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, the shoe manufacturers of Austria and Germany have been compelled to raise the price of shoes thirty per cent. on account of the dearth of leather, caused by the exportation of immense quantities of it to the United States. The demand in the United States is by some supposed to be due to vast exportation of skins and leather to Japan and China; others consider it fictitious.

THE bank of England rightly has the reputation of being one of the mightiest powers in the world of finance. But there are other institutions in Europe whose capital and transactions are not to be sneezed at even by the Rothschild aggregation. In its last monthly report the Austro-Hungarian Bank, at Vienna, states that the value of its notes in circulation is 529,408,000 gulden ($260,000,000), and that it has gold and silver to the amount of 340,405,000 gulden.

THE English elections in 1894 cost $5,220,000, a comparatively small amount of money, but in 1880, 1886 and 1892 the figures were much larger, being respectively, $9,000,000, $10,000,000 and $15,000,000. The cost of the last election will reach $16,000,000 at least, which means that each vote is worth $3. Truly the legislative functions are gratuitous in England, and corruption is unknown, according to the English press.

A Syndicate of Monsters.

Here are the names of the abominable trio that compose it, hated and abhorred by man and woman kind—dyspepsia, biliousness and constipation. What is the most successful way to attack and squelch these united monsters? Take Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and they will pull up stakes and make tracks for parts unknown, leaving no trace behind. The Bitters also exterminates malaria, rheumatic and kidney trouble and nervous ailment.

Banner Diamond Wedding.

This remarkable item comes from Kennebunkport, Me. The Manuel diamond wedding was celebrated there recently, and was a notable affair. Mr. Manuel is nearly 110 years old, and his wife is nearly as old. The wedding march consisted of a procession of centenarians, there being a number of Kennebunkport people who were over 100 years old. The children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren joined in the march. The ceremony was followed by an old-fashioned dance upon the green.

AGENTS of the Nickel Plate road are in possession of information which will enable them to quote special excursion rates to points in the Northwest, West, Southwest, and South, for tickets sold during September and October. Further information may be secured by applying to local agents of that popular low rate line.

THERE is no such thing as making a guilty man happy. He must first lose his guilt.

The Foundation of Good Health is Pure, Rich Blood

And the surest, best way to purify your blood is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla

Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists. 25c.

Love at a Cottage.

Mrs. McCue—Biddy, shtop thot kissin' at th' front dure, an' send Paddy Moiles off about his business.

Biddy (innocently)—An' did ye hear any kissin', mother?

Mrs. McCue—I heard phwat sounded as much loike a kiss as wan pig's squeal is like another.

Paddy (gallantly)—Sure, mum, it waz only me a-spittin' on me hands t' get ready fur me long walk home.—New York Weekly.

THE MODERN BEAUTY

Thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercise in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. If her system needs the cleansing action of a laxative remedy, she uses the gentle and pleasant liquid laxative Syrup of Figs.

MUGGINS—Never knew a man take so much interest in business as Closefist. Buggins—What is he? Muggins—A money lender

Home-Seekers Excursion During Sept. and Oct.

Agents of the Nickel Plate road will be pleased to furnish, upon application, complete information relative to these excursions. Bear in mind the elegantly equipped solid through trains via the popular route.

MAUD—Did you know that chaperon in French was masculine, not feminine? Marie—Really? How I wish I had been born in France!

I CAN recommend Piso's Cure for Consumption to sufferers from Asthma.—E. D. TOWNSEND, Ft. Howard, Wis., May 4, '94.

SHORT sermons make wideawake Christians.

Wabash Low Rate Harvest Excursions for 1895

Will be run from all stations on the Wabash Railroad on Sept. 10th and Sept. 24th, to the West, Northwest, South and Southwest.

For full particulars, apply to nearest ticket agent of the Wabash or connecting lines.

A STRAIGHT flush is hard to hold simply because the man who has it is apt to give his hand away.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

THE man who knows Christ well will not expect to find perfection in anyone else.

REMEMBER the Nickel Plate road has authorized a low rate Home-seekers Excursion to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, on Sept. 24th. Enquire of agents for particulars.

ART loses nothing by conceding modesty a fig-leaf.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is a constitutional cure. Price 75 cents.

GUNS without foresight shoot wide of the mark.

A healthful clearness is acquired by the sallow skin washed daily with Glenn's Sulphur Soap.

"Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye," Black or Brown, 50c.

BANK books contain many tales of fashion.

THE Nickel Plate road offers a splendid opportunity for visiting the West, Northwest, and Southwest, by authorizing excursion rates to points in that territory, on Sept. 24th. Ask agents for further information.

GREAT BOOK FREE.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now distributing, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this plete, interest- ing and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at the above address, this little COUPON with twenty-one (21) cents in one-cent stamps to pay for postage and packing only, and the book will be sent by mail. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. It contains over 1000 pages and more than 300 illustrations. The Free Edition is precisely the same as those sold at $1.50 except only that the books are bound in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away. They are going off rapidly.

COUPON No. 112

BEST IN THE WORLD.

RISING SUN STOVE POLISH. For durability and for cheapness this preparation is truly unrivalled.

THE RISING SUN STOVE POLISH in cakes for general blacking of a stove.

THE SUN PASTE POLISH for a quick after-dinner shine, applied and polished with a cloth.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

Friends' Oats (Kiln Dried)

Superior to any . . Rolled Oats... Sold only in 2-pound Packages

At All Grocers

MUSCATINE OAT MEAL CO. MUSCATINE, IOWA

RIPANS TABULES

Mr. Myrick Plummer, a wholesale paper dealer at 45 Beekman street, New York, relates that his first experience with Ripans Tabules began 18 months ago. Prior to that he could not recall a time when he was not troubled with constipation. Nothing gave more than temporary relief; but, since taking Ripans Tabules, however, nobody, Mr. Plummer thinks, has more perfect digestive organs than he. The bowels perform their functions with regularity; there is no distress after eating, no headache, no heartburn, no dizziness—nothing of a dyspeptic nature.

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

THE BEST TEST IS USE.

Below are a few condensed extracts from letters received:

"Used for my own babe, and can truly say that it is elegant, palatable, nourishing, and easily digested."—J. W. Lindstrom, M. D., Napoleon, Mo.

"I am feeding my baby by the 'Special Directions.' It has worked like a charm."—MRS. F. S. TURMAN, Boston Highlands, Mass.

Another physician writes,

After Trial of Ridge's Food:

"It meets my most sanguine expectations. I expect to use it whenever occasion offers."

"Everybody thinks he is a month older than he is—a great, fat, strong, healthy boy. . . A great many of my friends are trying to induce me to change, but if my baby thrives on Ridge's Food, that is enough."—MISS LENA G. VOSE, Lynn, Mass.

"I have used RIDGE'S FOOD the past six months, and find it just as recommended. In fact, would not be without it."—MISS DORA S. DAVIS, Rockford, Ill.

Send to WOOLRICH & CO., Palmer, Mass., for "Healthful Hints." SENT FREE.

WE SELL PRINTING OFFICE OUTFITS

at reasonable rates and upon liberal terms. WRITE FOR PARTICULARS. FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION, Fort Wayne, Ind.

"All women are beautiful —in telegraphic reports." (N. Y. Sun.) So all washing and cleaning is easy, quick and safe—if you believe what the peddlers and some grocers tell you about certain washing powders. Now, you can test the ease and the quickness very soon. But the safety—that is another thing. You can't prove that to yourself without a long, and perhaps expensive and disastrous, trial.

Better stick to the first-made, never-changing, best-known washing-compound—Pearline. Almost any woman can prove to you the safety of Pearline. And nothing that can be, and has been, thus proved will do all your washing and cleaning so easily, so quickly, and so economically.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 601 JAMES PYLE, New York.

"IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED, TRY SAPOLIO

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att'y fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

F. W. N. U. - - - No. 37—95

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

FOR 10 CENTS

A Wonderful Story of an Old Lady.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., May 9, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

I wish to congratulate you in being in possession of such a grand medicine as LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I was in very poor health for a long time, could eat no solid food, and scarcely anything else; had no appetite, but a continued distress in my stomach, and was very poor in flesh. Your remedy being recommended by one who had tried them, I got a box of same, and can cheerfully and gladly say, after using them, the distress in my stomach entirely ceased, my appetite increased wonderfully, and I gained in flesh very perceptibly. I am a lady seventy-four years of age, and can say that LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS have given me a new lease on life. I feel grateful toward you and your remedy. It does more than you claim for it, and no words of praise can do it justice.

Gratefully yours,
MRS. CYNTHIA RANSOM.

LYON'S WONDERS
A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00
Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.
FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

GIVEN AWAY

MY PROFITS

FOR TEN DAYS

COMMENCING

MONDAY MORNING, SEPT. 9, '95

AND CONTINUING TEN DAYS.

Everything at Cost, FOR CASH

LOOK AT THESE PRICES:

Granulated Sugar 4½c.
Extra C Sugar 4c.
Cut Loaf Sugar 7c.
Coffee A Sugar 4½c.
Coffee, 5 lbs for $1.00.
Lion, Arbuckle, Victor, T. & A. and many other excellent brands.
Teas from 10 up to 50c., best.
Ginger Snaps 8c per lb.
Shirts from 15c up.
Toweling from 3c up.
West Coast Fine Cut Tobacco 19c lb.
Lard 8c.

Soap, two cakes for 5c.
Rolled Oats 10c per box.
Pettijohn's Rolled Oats at 8c.
Soda 8c per lb.
Starch 8c.
Chocolate 8c.
Kerosene Oil 10c a gallon.
Good Brooms 10c.
Raisins 4½c per lb.
Crackers 5c per lb.
Flour per sack 90c.
Pants from 35c up.
Table Cloth 18c up.
Etc., etc., etc.

It is impossible to quote prices on everything in our store. Come in and carry these goods away at actual cost.

Farmers Bring Me Your Produce

Highest Market Price in Cash or Trade.

Keep Your Eye on This 10-Day Sale

Everybody is invited to come in and take advantage of this 10-Day Sale. Remember the Date.

J. L. KRUGER,

Look for the GREEN FRONT. Corner Main and 11te Sts.

DeKalb County Fruit.

Surveyor Van Auken came in from Franklin township last evening with the nicest lot of fruit we have seen produced in this county for many a year. There were peaches of the largest and choicest varieties, and plums more beautiful than those brought from a distance, being as large and of far better quality than those from California. And the Michigan fruit belt never sent us better peaches, or larger ones. This fruit was the raising of Mr. Kittridge, in Franklin township, where he has a farm of twenty acres, a part only being in fruit. He has been there but a few years, the most of his trees being planted but five or six years. His peach trees are three years from the planting, and will yield this year over one hundred bushels. Nearly all of his fruit is sold at home, as the people in that section prefer to buy of him rather than to buy fruit from a distance. All he has to do is to let them know when the fruit will be ripe enough for use, and they will be on hand to buy. Mr. Kittridge used to work in the shops at Garrett, but he has a better business now. He thinks he will plant the entire twenty acres to fruit. His success proves what we have often claimed, that if we would take pains with our fruit trees we could raise all we could use of the choicest fruits, and keep our money at home.

Not All Fun

TO BE A MEMBER OF THE INDIANA NATIONAL GUARD.

Ft. Wayne Times-Post.

The commanders of the several military companies in this city have much cause to complain of the dereliction of the members with reference to drill meetings, etc. Last evening a business meeting of the Zollinger battery was held and most of the members of the company were absent when the meeting was called to order. Captain Ranke at once dispatched a squad of men under command of Lieutenant Frank Alderman with orders to arrest any members they found and bring them to the armory. Several were found at a lawn social on West Superior street, and something more than a dozen were taken into custody at the entertainment at Berghoff park. In all 22 artillerists were arrested and taken to the armory. Not long since Captain Fonner was compelled to send out a squad to place a number of the soldiers of the Wayne True Blues under arrest in order to enforce attendance at drill.

Executor's Sale.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, executor of the will of Sophia L. Baird, deceased, will sell at public auction at the late residence of said decedent, corner of 12th and Jackson Sts., near the Presbyterian church, in Auburn, in DeKalb County and State of Indiana, on

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1895,

The personal property of the decedent consisting of household goods and other articles, Sale to Commence at 10 o'clock a. m.

TERMS:—All sums of less than $5.00 cash. On sums of $5.00 and over a credit of three months will be given, purchaser giving note with security to approval executor.

WM. H. LEAS, Executor,

TO CHATTANOOGA

Over the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway September 16th to 19th. Very low rates. For desired information write A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A., Cleveland, O., or apply to agents.

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs. Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts newlife to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed onreceipt of price, $1.00 per box.
WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O.
Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y30

The Indianapolis Daily and Weekly Sentinel

Circulation has reached immense proportions by its thorough service in receiving all the latest news all over the state and from its dispatches from foreign countries. Every reader in Indiana should take a state paper and that the THE SENTINEL.

Largest Circulation

IN THE STATE.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

Daily, one year	$6 00
Weekly, one year	$1 00

THE WEEKLY EDITION HAS 12 PAGES.

SUBSCRIBE NOW and make all remittances to THE INDIANAPOLIS

SENTINEL CO.,

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

☞This paper will be furnished with the Weekly Edition of the INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for $2 00 a year.

DEBS' HOPES.

Debs hopes to be the presidential candidate of the populists. Debs is a criminal, now serving a sentence in jail, and a very easy one, when his crimes are considered. Why any party should desire such a man for a candidate for any office, we cannot understand. While of course he could not be elected, but it would kill the party to have him for a candidate. There has been a good deal of maudlin sentiment and gush wasted on the "martyr" Debs. It is true he did not, with his own hand, fire trains of cars, or stop trains from running, nor did he, with his own hand, kill any of the score or two that lost their lives in that trouble. But he was the one man who made it all possible, and without him it would not have been done. Debs deserved hanging more than the ordinary murderer.

Went A Singing

Auburn can furnish talent for all the world and on all the world's subjects This can be easily shown by the diversity of talent that started out this forenoon to go to sing for the Sunday School picnic at New Era. E. T. DeLapp can sing a peon to the Lake Shore road, which without flattery is the greatest in the country; W. B Brown can give the keynote for farm implements: Vest and Ben Z mmerman are good at singing the praises of the Monarch Wind Mills; A. J. Rogers can sing to the sweet notes of the fine pianos he sells; Warrick sings to the success of the Body Works and their popular products. Rev. I. K. Waits is also one of the sweet singers of Israel and attunes his notes to the upbuilding of God's Kingdom all over the world; he has a good subject and an exhaustless one; Geo. Quince could tune his voice in praise of lovely homes made attractive by nice new coat of paint that George knows so well how to apply; Geo. Snyder's song might be tuned without straining the voice, in honor of the popular company, the Zimmermans in whose service he has been so long. Morris Widney can sing for anything, and with the best of 'em. All are good in their several ways. All went down to sing at Cedar Chapel, to-day, and when their several voices are attuned to the several subjects we have named a medley of no mean proportions will be the result. How would this do for a sample of their combined song.

And the nicest way to travel
Is riding on a rail,
But you'd better take a buggy,
If a bike you cannot sail.

* * * * * * * *

O, we sing in the praise to-day
Of the Monarch Twine Binder, Piano,
All painted up neatly like A.
Ward's lovely pea green ox.

And this rhymes nicely with buggy box.
(Belt slipped and broke the machine—wait till we mend it.)

Hicks on September

Predicts Storms, Frosts and other Serious Disturbance.

September, says Rev. Hicks, will be ushered in with a storm period which will be forcibly felt during the period 3rd to 7th. The indications are such as to forbode a very cold wave, with possible frosts in northerly sections, immediately behind the storms of the period 3rd to 7th. Be on the watch for the change, as it will begin in the far northwest two or three days earlier than it will reach other sections southward and eastward.

It will grow much warmer on and about the 11th and 12th, and storms will pass over the country from west to east from the 10th to the 13th, inclusive. Another rise in the barometer, attended by very cool nights, will follow from about the 13th to 15th.

A Venus pertubation begins about the 15th. The earth is nearing the center of her equinox, and a regular storm period, containing moon at perigee and new, runs from the 19th to 21st. This period promises dangerous storms, and we caution our readers to watch all threatening clouds, especially about the 16th to 20th.

Cool to cold days and nights need not anrprise for several days prior to the 23rd and 24th, which dates comprise a reactionary storm center. It will grow warmer as these disturbances cross the country from about 22d to 24th, and be followed bv a return of higher barometer and cooler on the heels of the storm.

The last four days of the month constitute a regular storm period.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

CHICKAMAUGA MILITARY PARK.

For the dedication of this park tickets to Chattanooga and return will be sold by agents of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway September 16th to 19th, at one cent per mile each way for the round trip, good to return until October 5, 1895.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
POWDERED AND PERFUMED
(PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.
PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

Mrs. Alice Buss.

Died at her home in Fairfield township August 23, 1895, at the age of 75 years, 8 months and 29 days. She had been a sufferer for a number of years, and especially for the few months past it was evident her sufferings would soon terminate. She was born at Exford, Essex County, England, and was married to Wm. Buss April 14, 1849. They soon after came to America. Soon after settling here she joined the Lutheran church, but on moving, in 1870, to the farm that was their home till she died, she united with the Presbyterian church at Hudson, remaining a consistent member until death. She leaves an aged husband, four daughters, two sons, and eleven grandchildren, besides numerous friends, to mourn her loss. The funeral services were at the home, being conducted by Rev. J. H. Albright, of the Reformed church at Hudson, and she was laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery at Waterloo.

'Tis hard to break the tender chords
When love has burned the heart,
'Tis hard, so hard, to speak the words,
We must forever part.

Dear mother, we have laid thee
In the peaceful grave's embrace,
And thy memory will be cherished,
Till we see thy heavenly face.

The bereaved husband and family wish to thank most earnestly the friends and neighbors who all did so much to assist and relieve the sufferings of our beloved dead. Their kindness will be ever remembered.

Mrs. Jacob Husselman.

Mrs. Jacob Husselman died at her home at the north end of town Sunday morning, after a short illness of only a few weeks. It is not known just what was the cause of her death, any farther than old age. She was born in Wayne county, O. June 12, 1830, being 65 years, 2 months and 26 days of age at her death. She came to this county 18 years ago. She leaves a husband and two daughters, Mrs. Sylvester Miser, who resides on the old farm and Mrs. Allen Bevard of Garrett. Her funeral will be held from the old home west town, Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, as the residence in town is being repaired. The interment will take place in Evergreen cemetery.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:21 am—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:04 pm—ex su
New York Limited	7:35 pm Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(53)	7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE--In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Freight
Fort Wayne, p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 40
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc	12 25	5 25	7 46
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 12
Angola	1 13	14	10 50
Jackson	a 2 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 30	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 25

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

WEST-BOUND.

Stations—
Bellaire lv	p m 7 15	a m *11 13	a m 9 42	p m *1 13	.....
Defiance	3 15	p m 5 16	p m 7 4	a m 1 20	11 00
Hicksville	.....	.....	8 22	.....	11 45
St. Joe	.....	.....	8 31	.....	p m 12 01
Auburn Jc	4 15	6 17	8 53	2 26	12 25
Garrett	4 28	6 30	9 00	2 40	12 55
Avilla	.....	6 40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion	‡4 50	‡6 55	.....	.....	1 20
Syracuse	.....	.....	.....	3 33	2 00
Chicago ar	9 00	11 00	.....	7 25	6 40

EAST BOUND.

Stations.
Chicago	p m *4 25	p m *7 20	a m †6 05	p m 3 00	a m 10 15
Syracuse	.....	10 50	10 45	.....	.....
Albion	.....	.....	11 25	6 57	.....
Avilla	.....	.....	11 45	7 15	.....
Garrett	a m ‡4 45	12 04	12 15	7 30	2 35
Auburn Jc	4 52	12 09	12 2	7 35	2 40
St. Joe	5 09	.....	12 43	7 50	.....
Hicksville	5 21	.....	1 00	8 00	.....
Defiance	6 03	1 10	1 40	8 33	3 36
Bellaire (EASTERN TIME)	3 55	.....	8 55	.....	11 36
Washington	a m 6 38	.....	.....	.....	.....
Baltimore	7 50	.....	.....	.....	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily Except Sunday. ‡Stop on Signal.
For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't, Chicago. City Office Auburn, Ind.

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg required to settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle. Is of more value than any other kithchen utensil. Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth, Kokomo, Ind.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

DIED.

Vera V. infant daughter of Alva D. and Philoma E. Pipher was born May 14 1895 and departed this life Sept. 4, 1895, age, 3 months and 20 day. She leaves a father and mother to her early death.

Funeral services were conducted from the house this forenoon at 10 o'clock. Interment took place in Woodlawn cemetery, J. D. Brosy officiating.

Must Take Beer

Mrs. Rosalie Wagner, at one time a prominent member of the Reformed church, Union avenue and Scholes street, Brooklyn, was in the Ewen Street Police Court Saturday on a charge of habitual drunkenness, preferred by her husband, Frederick.

"For twenty-five years," he said, "my wife never touched a drop of liquor. About three years ago she was ailing and was ordered beer by the doctor. Since then she has become a habitual drunkard."

Mrs. Wagner was in her bare feet and shaking, the very picture of a woman tramp. She is the mother of six children, and was arraigned in the same court on July 4th, but was discharged on her promise to reform. She was sent to the Wayside Home for six months. Ex.

TESTIMONIALS.

AUBURN, IND, July 27, 1895.

Hon. J. M. Pattison, President:

DEAR SIR—I take the pleasure in acknowledging this day the receipt of $1,010.86, in full payment of my policy, No. 14,100, in the Union Central Life Insurance Company. Twenty-four years ago to-day I took this Life Rate Endowment Policy paying an annual premium of $24.05. For these twenty-four premiums that I have paid I now have this $1,010.86, and I have had twenty-four years of good insurance of $1,000 besides. This is the second Life Rate Endowment Policy of mine which has matured in your company, both of which have matured two years sooner than the estimated time in your rate books. I shall ever take pleasure in recommending the Union Central to my friends for its fair dealings and successful business management, as well as for the genial and gentlemanly agents in its employ. I have two more of these policies not yet matured, and only wish that I had still more of them.

Respectfully,
J. B. CASEBEER.
GARRET, IND

Dr. J. B. Baer, Gen. Agt.:

DEAR SIR—It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the payment of $2,000 at the hands of your local agent, Enos L. Casebeer, of Auburn, Ind., and your Ass'st. Gen. Agt., Homer Kessler, of Logansport, Ind., which is in full of my husband, Albert Spurgin's policy No. 51,949, for $2,000, the check being dated July 31, '95. This policy of $2,000 enables me to pay a mortgage of $1,550 and leaves our home free of debt, which is more of a boon to me and the children than words can express. I believe every husband and father should have his life insured, for what he owes, at least. If he is not in debt, he could carry more insurance, and thereby make certain to his estate, what otherwise would depend on the most uncertain of all things, his living to accomplish. Every wife and mother should urge her husband to insure; and from my experience with the Union Central Life Insurance Company, I unhesitatingly recommend it, and their agent, Mr. E. L. Casebeer, who has always treated us with the most uniform kindness and courtesy, making up the proofs of death without any expense to me.

IRENE A. SPURGIN.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Award.

$1,000 for Nothing.

Curtis Buntin, President St. Brooklyn, N. Y., spent $1,000 with doctors and at famous Springs, in the effort to cure a bad case of rheumatism; but to no avail. Drummond's Lightning Remedy helped him from the start and by its use he was fully restored. It will do the same for you it you give it a trial. Send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will send to your express address a month's treatment—two large bottles of their remedy. Agents wanted. 36 37

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

AGENTS WANTED!
To Take Orders.

Trade established, position permanent, weekly pay. WE PAY LIBERAL SALARY AND EXPENSES TO SUCCESSFUL AGENTS. Now is the best time to start. For terms write quickly.
ELLWANGER & BARRY, Rochester, N.Y.
Mount Hope Nurseries. Established 1840.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $2.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed.
WILCOX SPECIFIC CO.,
228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Cheap Excursions to the west.

Bountiful harvests are reported from all sections of the west and northwest, and an exceptionally favorable opportunity for home seekers and those desiring a change of location is offered by the series of low rate excursions which have been arranged by the North-Western Line Tickets for these excursions, with favorable time limits, will be sold on August 29, September 10 and 24 to points in Northern Wisconsin, Michigan, Northwestern Iowa, Western Minnesota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and a large number of other points. For full information apply to agents of connecting lines, or address A. H. Waggener, T. P. A., 7 Jackson place, Indianapolis, Ind. 34 35 37

Right Arm Paralyzed!

Saved from St. Vitus Dance.

"Our daughter, Blanche, now fifteen years of age, had been terribly afflicted with nervousness, and had lost the entire use of her right arm. We feared St. Vitus dance, and tried the best physicians, with no benefit. She has taken three bottles of Dr. Miles' Nervine and has gained 31 pounds. Her nervousness and symptoms of St. Vitus dance are entirely gone, she attends school regularly, and has recovered complete use of her arm, her appetite is splendid."
MRS. E. E. BULLOCK, Brighton, N. Y.

Dr. Miles' Nervine Cures.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS.

We Offer You a REMEDY Which INSURES Safety of Life to Mother and Child.

"MOTHERS' FRIEND"

Robs Confinement of its Pain, Horror and Risk.

My wife used "MOTHERS' FRIEND" before birth of her first child, she did not suffer from CRAMPS or PAINS—was quickly relieved at the critical hour, suffering but little—she had no pains afterward and her recovery was rapid.
E. E. JOHNSTON, Eufaula, Ala.

Sent by Mail or Express, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed Free.
BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., Atlanta, Ga.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the Cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB The World's Largest Clothing Store, CHICAGO, ILL.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. SEPTEMBER 19. 1895. NUMBER 38.

REMEMBER THAT MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND. IN THE COUNTY.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE... FINEST LINE OF STOVES

OUR MOTTO IS, "WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD."

OUR GOODS ARE WARRANTED TO BE FIRST CLASS.

Cowardly Shooting.

JOHN FRETZ SHOT DOWN IN COLD BLOOD BY A COWARDLY SON-IN-LAW.

Frank Parrett, The Would Be Murderer. He Lodges A Big Load OF Buck-Shot In His Victim's Body.

Saturday's Daily:

One of the most cowardly and murderous deeds ever committed in Auburn, was the unprovoked shooting of John Fretz last evening by his son-in-law, Frank Parrett. About eight in the evening "Nibs" Refner came down on the streets and reported that John Fretz had been shot. At once there was great excitement and much discussion. The DAILY had a man at the scene in a few minutes and saw much of the operation of dressing the wounds, and next morning we got the facts from Mrs. Fretz herself and other members of the family.

Frank Parrett was married to one of the daughters, Mary, and while he worked as a painter in the Kiblinger factory, they lived in rooms at Milt Swisher's north of the Bechtel Mill. When he got out of work, he went to Laporte and worked there, the wife going to live with her people. He soon got out of work again and came back and went to work with Mr. Fretz, cutting wood, he and his wife still living at Fretz'. They got along well. But the other day, Mr. Fretz proposed to him to help him cut Fretz corn this week, and then next week Fretz would help him, Parret back in cutting wood. Parret did not seem to like the plan but said nothing, went and got a corn cutter, but did not come back. Yesterday, however, he came to the house about 11 a. m. and told his wife he had secured a house and they would now go to housekeeping again next week. She told him it would not be best till he got steady work so they would have something to live on and then she would go with him. He seemed to get angry and gave her till next week to make up her mind. He then went off, returning about 5 in the afternoon. He appeared to be drunk, and his wife told him to stay away till he was in proper condition. He agreed to stay away but came back again at about 7:30. The family had then gone to bed. He called Mr. Fretz out and asked him to go up stairs and have his, Parrett's wife, come down. Mr. Fretz refused, telling him he was not fit to see his wife, till he was nearer sober. Parrett then went off, but in about half an hour returned. He had in the meantime borrowed Mr. Hidy's shot-gun, saying he wanted to kill some rats. He took it to Davis' hardware store, and bought some cartridges of Hank Lesh. The latter asked him what he wanted to get such heavy cartridges for, and he said to kill rabbits. On reaching Fretz' it appears he leaned the shot gun up against the willow tree just at the north end of the porch, the house being on north VanBuren street. He called Mr. Fretz out onto the porch. The latter tried to have him go away but he would not, when Fretz told him if he did not go, he would send for the marshal and make him go. "You will eh?" said Parrett, and stepping back he picked up the gun and fired at Mr. Fretz, who had no idea of such a thing, was opening the screen door to go into the house. The heavy load of shot struck him squarely on the back of the left shoulder at close range, tearing a fearful hole in the flesh and bones at that point. Fretz did not fall but staggered into the room and was caught by Mrs. Fretz who just then rushed in from another room, and helped him to a chair.

Mr. Walborn and Will Kessler, attracted by the noise rushed over and helped care for the wounded man, and Drs. F. M. and L. A. Hines were sent for and later on Dr. Casebeer came and assisted. It was an ugly hole, large enough for the doctors to put in the hand to get out the shot, the wadding and pieces of cloth blown into the mass of torn flesh and crushed and shattered bones. It was a sickening sight, and strong men turned away with faintness. But the surgeons worked on patiently for a long time till all was gotten out of the gaping wound that could be. The patient stood it well and rested fairly through the night. Parret disappeared and has not been heard from.

Going back to the moment of the shooting. It appears that Mrs. Fretz who had not gone to bed had been joined by the daughter, Mrs. Parrett who had got out of bed when Parrett came the last time. They saw the gun standing against the tree, but did not think of any danger till it was too late. But when the shot rang out, they were in time to help Fretz into the house. The doctors got 30 heavy shot out of the wound, and 35 more had gone on beyond him and lodged in the casing and doors of the porch, a number going clear through the door and across the parlor and lodged in the plastering of the south wall. It looks as if he fired both barrels. But this can only be settled when the gun is brought back. And the gun being with Parrett, is likely to remain away unless the sheriff catches him, which he is not likely to do

The U. S. Gov't Reports show Royal Baking Powder superior to all others.

Floor Broke

Iron is heavy material so we are told. If your don't believe it look in at the Seventh street door of the middle room of the Kiblinger factory where so much iron is kept. Here they have been piling up stacks of rod iron, oval and round, and cords of buggy springs, not thinking any harm would result. But a few days ago the floor near the east side of this double room began to settle, and then went down. These were scores of tons of iron there that went down with it. Now they are putting extra supports under the joists toward the west side of the room, and when that is made strong enough, they will move the iron over onto that side, and then repair and strengthen the broken floor.

The Mora Claim

This claim has been paid at last through the vigorous measures taken by the administration. Cuban citizens settled in New York and became naturalized American citizens. But they owned plantations in Cuba, and these were occupied and wasted for several years, by Spanish troops during one of the Cuban rebellions years ago They asked several administrations to help them get pay for their wasted property, but in vain. Now they get their money and interest about a million and a half. The Mora family will get but a small part, as the expenses of years of litigation, and going to Washington, and paying attorneys, will take the most of it.

The Excursion

The "Jolly Sixty-five" excursion Sunday morning was a big thing, for $1.50 for round trip to Toledo was a great inducement to make the trip. About 120 tickets were sold at Auburn, and when the train of twelve coaches rolled into this place it was already full. Still the Auburn folks managed to squeeze in and after several efforts and backing up, the big train started off again and the crowd that was waiting to see them off went home. The day was all that could be desired, but it is a long trip. The return was made in two sections the first one reaching here about 10:30 and the other at about 12:30. They had taken on three more coaches at Waterloo, going out. They had a nice trip they say.

THE OPERA HOUSE

We took a look into all parts of the new opera house, the other day and found the work progressing rapidly, although there is still a great deal to do to make it ready to occupy. The main floor is partly laid, the boxes are about complete, and the galleries nearly finished. One can now get a correct idea of the way it will all look when finished. The stage will be one of the largest in the state, and a company that cannot be accommodated on it will be a large one, It will be done about Nov. 1.

"Any Port in a Storm."

That's a good maxim, but it will not work as a rule in the purchase of a remedy for rheumatism. Any of the cheap nostrums will not effect a cure—in fact none of them will. Get Dr. Drummond's Lightning remedy, and a speedy cure is certain. One bottle is worth a hundred of anything else, and for that reason it is the cheapest when a cure is wanted. The two bottles sent to any address by express upon receipt of $5. Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. Agents wanted. 38 39

The Blessings That Come Unawares.

It is always pleasant to do business with prompt, accurate and reliable people, whether at home or abroad. The Gold Leaf flatters itself that among its foreign advertisers it has many who come under this head. but none whose record for courtesy and promptness in remitting at the end of each quarter discounts that of the Miles Medical Company, Elkhart, Ind. They make it a special point to send New York or Chicago draft for advertising on maturity of bill without statement, provided advertising has been run according to contract. Such business methods must commend this house to publishers and others who have transactions with them.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

Pierceton Burned.

Tuesday, the little town of Pierceton on the Pittsburg road, eight miles east of Warsaw had a destructive fire. It started in Brown's tailor shop about two in the morning and the buildings being of wood, the slender means the town had for fighting fire proved useless. Warsaw was asked for help, but did not respond. Then they sent to Ft. Wayne, for a portion of their fire department, which on reaching the scene, did good work in staying the spread of the flames. The entire loss is about $40,000, and there was but little insurance. The office of the Pierceton Record was destroyed. It was owned by the publishers, Kist Brothers. Their mother, Mrs. Johnson, was also a loser. Butler people will remember her, as she lived there for a few years. The loss to herself and present husband was about $2,500. Kist Brothers were the only ones insured, of all the eighteen buildings burned. They had $650 on contents. It is strange that so many business men should cary no insurance. But they will know better next time. Still we feel sorry for the sufferers, some of whom are old time friends.

THE BUGGIES FLEW

AS FRANK MUTZFELT'S TEAM TURNED THE CORNER.

Wednesday's Daily.

At just 3 this afternoon Frank Mutzfelt's dray team ran away and done considerable damage. Mr. Mutzfelt had loaded a fine surrey at the Kiblinger factory and drove up to the Zimmerman factory to load another buggy and take the two to the Junction as they were to be shipped over the B. & O. The buggy at the latter factory was loaded and Mr. Mutzfelt went into the office to get the bills. He had scarcely left the team where they started. They followed the narrow track through A. Lewis' lumber yard and just as they made the turn at Lewis' office to come down 5th street the two fine buggies were thrown off, and the team came on down to Main street where they turned south. But two loads of logs were going south on Main street, and the team ran into the first load. They of course stopped and the nigh horse had one front foot in the rear wheel of the log wagon, and in a quick manner it jerked off a shoe taking with it part of the hoof. It bled quite freely and will undoubtedly make it a cripple. The two buggies were damaged a considerable and will have to be taken to the factory to be repaired. Only a few days ago this dray team started in front of Rumler's meat market and came near getting away. They are not fit to be left alone, as the driver probably knows himself by this time.

Rebecca Wilkinson, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: I have been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia and Indigestion until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which did me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the greatest medicine in the world." Warranted the most wonderful stomach and nerve cure ever known. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34ft

All diseases of the air passages especially catarrah and chronic, Bronchitis, as well as first stages of consumption can be cured. I am treating these diseases with great success by the use of the latest and most improved medicines and instruments. Dr. W H. Nusbaum, Auburn, Ind. 42tf

Ralston-Dills Suit

Several witnesses went down to Ft. Wayne this morning to be present again at this suit Among them were Mr. McIntosh. He gave his testimony yesterday but for some cause had to go again. At the beginning yesterday, both parties waived jury trial and agreed to submit the case to Judge Ed. O'Rourke. Both wills were read then, the one from the late S. W. Ralston to his wife, and then the will of Mrs. Ralston, to Mrs. Emily Dills, her daughter. The case is going on to day.

Italian Bees.

I have a few swarms of Italian bees for sale, in good condition with plenty of honey, combs all straight and removable. drone comb removed. Queens bred from most industrious stock. Sold cheap if taken soon. Call on me in McIntyre Addition. Auburn, 37-38

JACOB WAGNER.

Yacht Race Over.

As will be seen by news elsewhere in the DAILY the great yacht race is over, and the "America Cup," once the "Queen's Cup," remains with the Americans, as it has since 1851. The first of the five races was won by the Defender beating the Valkyrie by nearly 9 minutes the second, on Tuesday, by the Valkyrie running into the Defender and delaying her while her rigging had to be repaired, was given the Defender by the judges, as the delay caused in putting the rigging in shape was greater than the less than a minute which the Valkyrie got home first. Thursday they tried it again, but the Valkyrie, merely crossed the line at the start, and then turned and came back, protesting that too many vessels with spectators were crowding in the way. The Defender went ahead and made good time clear around. This gives her three straight heats out of the five. It is a pity all five of the races could not have been sailed in good nature so we would know which boat was really the best.

Per Aspera

When Julius Cæsar, as a young man acting as agent for the Tontine Lava Protective Insurance company, saw Mark Anthony swimming the swollen Tiber to secure of him an anti-flood policy on some of his trans-Tiber suburban houses, the future great Cæsar, is said to have exclaimed "Ad Astra, per Aspera," which being liberallly translated into U. S. may mean, "Through much difficulty we obtain our insurance policies." Since then this saying has been much in evidence among insurance men and has even been caught up now and then by graduates of our high schools. But we had our especial attention called to it yesterday afternoon, when we say a dignified old gentleman climb up a ladder into the second story of the Farmers Bank block, and drag himself in at the window and disappear. He had come to have Mr. Hastings renew his insurance policy, and could not get up the stairway, for the men were taking up West's safe just at that time, and the entrance was blocked. He got his insurance, and the episode reminded us of that simlar one that made Insurance Agent, J. Cæsar famous.

Rifles Will Participate

The Auburn Rifles have received an invitation to participate in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of Ft. Wayne, Oct. 15-16-17 and 18th. At their regular meeting Friday evening, they voted to accept the invitation and will drill each Tuesday and Friday evening until that time The people of Ft. Wayne will furnish quarters and subsistence for the companies. They expect to have a sham battle and numerous other attractions during the four days celebration. 10 years ago Gen. Anthony Wayne built the Fort on the Maumee and the people of the city which bears his name will celebrate the event in an appropriate manner.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Caillouette, Druggist. Beaverville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with Lagrippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at Robbins & McCord drug store. 2

Apples Wanted.

To buy apples in any quantity, cider apples and good picked winter apples of all kinds. Delivered at south end of VanBuren street, first door west of Trentman factory. The highest market price will be paid in cash.

Wm. H. Derthick & Co. 37 38

Relief in One Day.

South American Nervine relieves the worst cases of nervous prostrations nervousness and nervous dyspepsia, in a single day. No such relief and blessing has ever come to the invalids of this country. Its powers to cure the stomach are wonderful in the extreme. It always cures; it cannot fail. It radically cures all weakness of the stomach and never disappoints. Its effects are marvelous and surprising.—It gladdens the hearts of the suffering and brings immediate relief. It is a luxury to take and always safe. Trial bottles 15 cents. Sold by Robbins & McCord druggist Auburn Ind. 50t

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord. tf

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm, Winnesheik Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles.

MONDAY, SEPT. 23.

On Monday next we shall offer

Special Bargains

That will outdo anything ever before offered.

12 doz. Counterpanes (bed spreads) sold everywhere for $1, Our Price 58 Cts.
2000 yards Canton Flannel, 5c quality, Our Price 3 1-2c
2000 " " " 7c " " " 4 1-2c
1500 " " " 8c " " " 5 1-2c
10 pieces 38-inch all wool Cashmere in Tan, Myrtle, Navy, Cardinal, Drab, Brown and Black, former price 50c, Our Price 21c.

These are but a few of the many good things we shall offer. The above prices are good for this day only.

WE ARE HEADQUARTERS FOR CLOTHING, LADIES' WRAPS AND CARPETS.

OUR STORE IS CROWDED WITH

CHOICE NEW GOODS,

And every article is sold at the lowest possible margin of profit, and

GUARANTEED TO BE STRICTLY AS REPRESENTED.

We kindly invite you to take advantage of this BARGAIN DAY, and to call at any time that you are in need of Dry Goods. Clothing, Ladies' Wraps or Carpets. We will try very hard to please you.

Schaab & Bro.

Smoke THE "DINGER!"

E. M. BISHOP,

AUBURN.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?

Do You Know that Castoria is a purely vegetable preparation, and that a list of its ingredients is published with every bottle?

Do You Know that Castoria is the prescription of the famous Dr. Samuel Pitcher. That it has been in use for nearly thirty years, and that more Castoria is now sold than of all other remedies for children combined?

Do You Know that the Patent Office Department of the United States, and of other countries, have issued exclusive right to Dr. Pitcher and his assigns to use the word "Castoria" and its formula, and that to imitate them is a state prison offense?

Do You Know that one of the reasons for granting this government protection was because Castoria had been proven to be absolutely harmless?

Do You Know that 35 average doses of Castoria are furnished for 35 cents, or one cent a dose?

Do You Know that when possessed of this perfect preparation, your children may be kept well, and that you may have unbroken rest?

Well, these things are worth knowing. They are facts.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNES, PUBLISHER.

DOINGS OF THE DAY.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Eventful Happenings in Every Known Hemisphere—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Politics, Religion, Commerce and Crops, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

A BURNING STEAMER.

Six Passengers and the Stewardess Are Burned to Death.

A special from London says: The steamer Iona left Leith with a hundred saloon passengers and fifty second-class passengers. The part of the boat in which the second-class passengers slept was used as a saloon during the day and at night it was divided by a partition into sleeping compartments for women and men. At 2 o'clock Tuesday morning fire was discovered in the ladies compartment on the port side. The flames spread so rapidly and the clouds of smoke were so stifling that the crew were prevented from rescuing all of the passengers, being several times driven away from the burning part of the ship. The fire was gotten under control about 4 o'clock, when the charred bodies of seven persons were found in their berths so badly burned as to be unrecognizable.

The cabin on the starboard side of the ship, was only slightly injured, the spread of the flames to that side being checked by the protecting steel deck. During the progress of the flames the wildest excitement prevailed among the passengers. The saloon passengers, men, women, and children, rushed on deck almost naked, the women screaming and the children crying, and it was not until the flames were subdued that they could be pacified.

The ladies' cabin was completely demolished. Some of the killed appeared to have fallen from their berths in their efforts to escape, and their bodies were found lying almost in ashes on the floor. The fire originated in the lamp room, which adjoined the cabin.

SIX KILLED.

A Family Run Down by an Engine on a Southern Railroad.

Six persons were killed as the result of a railroad crossing accident at Lawyers station, 117 miles below Lynchburg, Va. A vehicle containing six persons supposed to be Joseph Callahan, of Rustburg, Campbell County, Va., two women, a girl about 16, and two small children, was crossing the tracks of the Southern railway when it was struck by the engine of No. 35 south bound passenger train. The occupants of the vehicle were killed outright, and the young girl was so severely injured that she died shortly afterwards. The parties are unknown in the vicinity of the accident, and it was only with difficulty and some uncertainty that they were identified as the family of Callahan, of Rustburg. The railroad officials are at a loss to understand how the accident occurred at the place named, as they say the track is visible for a distance of 200 yards or more, and the occupants of the vehicle could easily have seen the approaching train.

Spanish Outrage.

Key West (Fla.) special: Officers of the steamer Mascotte, which arrived here from Havana, report a high-handed act upon the part of Spanish officials recently. Shortly after the steamer arrived at Havana a package was carried off the vessel, which, upon examination, was found to contain cartridges. Threatened by the Spanish officials the person who had the package said that it had been given to him by one Lopez, a fireman on the Mascotte. The Spanish police then came aboard the steamer, arrested Lopez and took him ashore. It is stated the matter will be laid before the State Department.

Shot Dead in His Cell.

Irvine Tansey, a negro prisoner, was shot and instantly killed by A. B. Hutchings, one of the guards at the Work-house, at Danville, Ky. Hutchings entered a cell to stop a row in progress between Tansey and another negro, when Tansey turned upon him and was shot. About a week ago a plot to kill another guard and escape was discovered, and Hutchings, after entering the cell, believed that such a thing was about to be attempted.

Got His Deserts.

Isaac Edwards, of Hocking county, Ohio, was hanged in the penitentiary annex at 12:11 Tuesday morning. His neck was broken and the body was cut down 12½ minutes later. He murdered Mrs. Mary Sallers, of Murray City, who had cared for his motherless children, because she would not desert her husband and live with him. Edwards exhibited remarkable nerve.

Put Off the Cars and Killed.

Indianapolis special: Jno. Cravens was brought here from a point sixty miles north, where he was run over by a Monon train. He died soon after he had been taken to the City Hospital. He and his brother were riding without tickets, and were put off.

John M. Butler Dead.

Hon. John M. Butler, an attorney of Indianapolis, died at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York. Mr. Butler was one of the best-known lawyers Indiana has ever produced. He was for many years the partner of the late United States Senator Joseph E. McDonald. Mr. Butler was 61 years old. He left an estate valued at between $300,000 and $400,000.

Fight with a Burglar.

A man giving his name as Frank Smith broke into Joseph Emmon's house at Elwood, Ind., and became engaged in a desperate conflict. A sick child was scared to death, and Emmons presented a sickening sight when rescued by officers. Smith is in jail, and is playing insanity.

Carlisle to Speak in Chicago.

At a request of the leading officers of the various labor organizations in Chicago, Henry S. Robbins, president of the Honest Money League, has written Secretary Carlisle, asking him to deliver an address on some date in the near future, before the wage earners and laboring classes of that city.

The Porte Comes Down.

St. Petersburg special: It is learned that the porte has accepted the demand of the powers with regard to reforms in Armenia.

An Event of Great Interest.

The Fort Wayne races, the leading race event of Indiana, occur Sept. 23rd to 28th. All the great stables are entered. Twenty-five thousand ($25,000) will be divided among the winners. Robert J., 2:01¼, the pacing champion, and Azote, 2:05¼, have been engaged to go against the world's records on Thursday and Friday, Sept. 26th and 27th, 1885.

Fiends at Tiffin.

Unknown fiends made an attempt to demolish the home of Miss Minerva Strausborough, at Tiffin, Ohio, by throwing a dynamite cartridge into the cellar of the house. The damage will be about $300, but the occupants escaped unharmed.

A SET-BACK.

Which May Mean Much or Nothing According to the Outcome of Crops.

R. G. Dun & Co., in their Weekly Review of Trade, says: "A slight set-back which may mean much or nothing, according to the final outcome of the crops, is not unexpected at this season. If the government crop reports were correct, the situation would not be encouraging. But not much confidence is placed in the reduced estimate of corn, none at all in the estimate of wheat, and even the most enthusiastic bulls do not think it worth while to quote the government report as to cotton. The fact is that we are beginning to market not far from 2,200,000,000 bushels of corn, though only about 500,000,000 bushels will be moved from the counties where it is grown; about 450,000,000 bushels of wheat, of which the farmers are unwisely holding back a large proportion; and about 7,200,000 bales of cotton, if the later indications are not erroneous as they very easily may be, to add to the stocks carried over."

ROASTED

In Mid-Air By a Thousand-Volt Current.

Wilmington (Ohio) special: While Harry Taylor, son of Henry Taylor, Superintendent of the electric light plant, was at work on a pole, on the corner of Locust and Mulberry streets, he slipped, grabbed a live wire and was instantly killed. The wire was charged with over 1,000 volts at the time. The scene was a most sickening one. For more than five minutes before word could reach the power house he hung suspended about thirty feet above ground, his left hand and the right side of his neck in contact with the live wires, slowly roasting under the great voltage. When taken off the pole all the burned flesh peeled off. The current was turned on by the father at the power house without warning to the son on the line, and the father is almost crazed with grief. The deceased was about 23 years old, and married.

HORRIFYING

Torture Inflicted by Children on a Playmate.

Allen Baker and John Berry, 12 and 13 years, murdered Philip Simmons, aged 10 years, in a horrible manner at Tallahassee, Fla. The boys quarreled while playing and Simmons struck Baker and Berry and ran. He was pursued and caught, and Baker and Berry proceeded to murder him. They tied the child to a small tree and cut him to pieces with their pocket knives. They cut off his ears, split his nose, and slashed his breast a dozen times. The young fiends then mutilated their victim in a nameless manner and fled. The child was found tied to the tree and unconscious, but revived sufficiently to tell the story before death. Baker and Berry were arrested and jailed. The young devils say they were only having fun and didn't intend to kill Philip. In spite of their youthfulness there are threats of lynching them.

TRIPLE MURDER.

Supposed to Be the Work of Indians in the Far West.

San Diego (Cal.) special: Advices of a triple murder near Las Flores, an isolated hamlet fifty miles up the coast from this city, have been received here. A family from Falbrook were in camp at what is known as the Mussel Beds, on the beach near Las Flores. The family consisted of J. D. Borden, his daughter and son-in-law, named Stiles, and their child. The constable at Ocean Side received a message from Stiles to the effect that his wife, child and father-in-law had been murdered. The message was very brief, but it said that upon returning from a hunt Stiles found the bodies of his murdered family in camp. It is surmised to be the work of Indians, who have recently committed many crimes in the northern part of San Diego County.

MRS. BURNETT,

The Authoress, Separates from Her Husband.

Washington special: A sensation was caused here by the statement that Mrs. Frances Hodson Burnett, author of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," who has drawn so many pretty portraits of the happy side of domestic life, has at last to admit that marriage has been a failure in her own case and will hereafter live apart from her husband.

Mrs. Burnett is now in London, but her husband is in Washington and admits that a mutual separation has been agreed upon on the ground of incompatibility of temper. In anticipation of Mrs. Burnett's home coming, he has abandoned the family home on Massachusetts avenue and taken his personal effects elsewhere.

DESERTED

Is the Village, Because the Hermit's Ghost Haunts It.

Prescott (Mich.) special: The town of Shearer, which only a few years ago was a promising and prosperous burg, with saw-mills, salt blocks, etc., is now being abandoned. The removals of the saw-mills and other plants have caused the exodus, but there is said to be still another reason. A short time ago Hugh McKinnon, a hermit, was found dead, with bullet holes in his body. Ever since the village, it is said, has been haunted by his ghost. So great has been the agitation among the superstitious that many left town even before the mills were shut down.

Escaped Postoffice Robber Captured.

Henry McNeely, a postoffice robber, who is supposed to be one of the four men who escaped from the Ludlow Street Jail, July 4, was arrested at Williamsport, Penn., after a running fight. He was discovered blowing open the Postoffice safe by Joseph Bowers. As the latter gave the alarm, McNeely rushed out of the building. Bowers had his revolver and shot four times at the robber. Two citizens joined in the pursuit. McNeely turned six times and shot at his pursuers. He was getting away when a farmer came along with a fast horse and a shotgun. McNeely refused to halt, and the farmer fired, filling the robber's legs with buckshot.

Ran for His Life.

A riot was nearly caused at Toledo, by the killing of 19-months-old Eva Weenstein by an electric street car on Canton avenue. There have been numerous killings on that crowded thoroughfare, which is largely peopled by Hebrews and negroes. The little one ran to its death from the curbstone with so much swiftness that the motorman was unable to avert the accident. Nevertheless, an infuriated mob assembled as if by magic, and Motorman Lecklider was forced to literally run for his life. A patrol wagon load of policemen dashed up in time to prevent the crowd from wreaking its vengeance on the conductor of the car.

Disaster at Louisville.

By the explosion of a caisson belonging to Battery A, of the First Kentucky Artillery, four members of the company were instantly killed and two were wounded so badly that their recovery is doubtful. Battery A is one of the crack military organizations of the State, and the killed and injured—except the colored driver—were connected with the first families of Kentucky. The killed are: Corporal A. L. Robinson, Privats Charles Biechner, Private A. McBride, Driver William Adams (colored.) The wounded are: Fred Conn, eyes and face badly burned; William E. E. W. Hobbs.

Strange Accident.

A special from Elyria, Ohio, says: A remarkable fatal accident occurred at Avon, during a terrific thunder storm. Anson Jacox, Jr., had been sent after the cows by his father. He mounted his bicycle and hurried away. The storm came up rapidly and young Jacox not having returned, his father made search and found him in the road insensible, with his wheel lying twisted and broken by his side and blood oozing from his mouth. He was carried home, when it was found he had been struck by lightning while on his wheel. He died an hour after reaching home.

Tobacco Fire.

At Lancaster, Pa., the large double brick tobacco warehouse owned by Roland Brubaker and John F. Brimmer, and occupied respectively by Amos B. Hostetter and John F. Brimmer, were totally destroyed by fire of incendiary origin. The warehouses were valued at $5,000 each, and the one occupied by Hostetter contained leaf tobacco valued at $65,000. In the Brimmer building there were 1,500 cases of leaf tobacco valued at $55,000. Warehouses occupied by J. Bunzle & Son, packers, adjoining the burning buildings were only saved by throwing immense quantities of water on the roofs but, however, the tobacco in them was damaged by smoke and water to the extent of several thousands of dollars.

Gen. Schofield to go to Chickamauga.

Lieutenant General J. M. Schofield, U. S. A., accompanied by his personal staff and a party of friends, will leave Washington on Monday, for Cincinnati, and from there will go direct to Chattanooga to attend the dedication ceremonies of the Chickamauga Nation Park on Sept. 19 and 20, and from thence to Atlanta, Ga., to participate in the reunion of the blue and the gray at the Cotton States and International Exposition on Sept. 21, returning to Washington via the Southern railway.

Dogs on Their Trail.

A Frankfort (Ind.) dispatch says: The farmers of Perry Township have lost several hundred dollars in property by thieves, who raided the whole community. Farmers Kesterson, Mellin and Wyants lost in the neighborhood of 500 turkeys and chickens by the thieves, and they sent to Darlington for a pair of bloodhounds. A crowd numbering 300 people, led by the dogs, started in search of the pilferers, and serious results are feared if the guilty ones are captured.

Five Killed.

St. Cloud, (Minn.) special: Passenger trains No. 2 and 3 on the Northern, had a head-end collision at Melby. Both were running at a high rate of speed and came together with terrific force. The dead are: J. K. Emerson, engineer of No. 2; James Thibidau, fireman of No. 2; Ira Hines, engineer of No. 3; two baggagemen, one of whom is thought to be John H. Hawkins. Five are injured, including three mail clerks, one brakeman and one passenger on No. 3.

Found His Brothers's Body in a Medical College.

Charley Brooks, a furniture manufacturer of Goshen, Ind., found the body of his brother, George Brooks, in a pickling vat at Rush Medical College, Chicago. It was the first time he had seen or heard of his brother since the latter left Goshen three years ago, heart-broken because his brother had run away and married. He had died at the Bridewell, where he was being treated for delirium tremens. The remains were taken to Goshen.

Cholera in the Navy.

Dr. Rupert Blue, of the Marine Hospital Service in San Francisco, has received a letter from his brother, who is an ensign on board the United States Ship Bennington, stating there had been five cases of cholera among the crew of the Bennington. One death had resulted.

Raging Forest Fires.

A forest fire is raging near Halcomb City, Ohio, a small boom town on the C., P. and V. Railroad, where several new industries have recently been started. The town is threatened with destruction, and the people have turned out for miles around to fight the flames.

A Youthful Mother.

Lulu Seedam of Anderson, Ind., aged 11, gave birth to a perfect boy. She experienced but little trouble. Medical books do not show a younger mother for this climate. The father is over 21 years of age, but his name is withheld by the parents, who are trying to arrange matters.

Crushed to Death.

At Otway, Ohio, Henry Dorn, aged 65, was picking stone in the quarry of H. R. Smith & Sons, beside a high bank of earth, when, without warning, a huge mass fell, crushing him to death.

Sudden Death.

At Decatur, Ind., Conrad Anspaugh, wealthy stock dealer, dropped dead on the street. He had just disposed of a car load of hogs and was counting his money when he died.

The Corset as an Armor.

At Clifton, Ill., George Caplinger shot his wife, and then fired a fatal bullet into his own head. His wife's life was spared by the bullet striking a corset steel.

Holmes Indicted.

The Marion County grand jury has returned an indictment against H. H. Holmes for the murder of Howard Pietzel at Irvington.

Fooled the Bandits.

Four masked men held up a Santa Fe passenger train near Curtis, Oklahoma, but got nothing.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 59c to 60c; corn, No. 2, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 39c to 41c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 13c to 15c; potatoes, per bushel, 30c to 40c; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 3c to 5½c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 60c to 62c; corn, No. 1 white, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 59c to 60c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 32c to 33c; oats, No. 2 white, 18c to 19c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 38c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 63c to 64c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 43c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, $2.00 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 59c to 61c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 22c to 23c; rye, 41c to 43c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 red, 61c to 62c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 42c to 44c.

Buffalo—Cattle, $2.50 to $6.25; hogs, $3.00 to $5.25; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 65c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 39c to 41c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 27c.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 57c to 58c; corn, No. 3, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 21c to 23c; barley, No. 2, 42c to 44c; rye, No. 1, 39c to 41c; pork, mess, $8.25 to $8.75.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, $3.00 to $5.00; sheep, $2.50 to $3.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 63c to 64c; corn, No. 2, 38c to 40c; oats, No. 2 white, 23c to 24c; butter, creamery, 15c to 21c; eggs, Western, 14c to 16c.

ATLANTA'S BIG SHOW.

MARVELOUS BEAUTY OF THE SOUTHERN EXPOSITION.

Its Future Now Depends Upon the Public—President Cleveland Touched the Button to Put the Wheels in Motion—A Superb Exhibition.

All the World Represented.

The Atlanta Exposition is a reality. On Wednesday, at 3:30 p. m., President Cleveland, at Gray Gables, touched the button, and as quickly as the current could fly from the coast of Massachusetts to the inland metropolis of Georgia the buzz of machinery was heard, and the South's great show was open full speed.

Like all great enterprises of this kind, the Atlanta Exposition was not in a complete condition on its opening day. The finishing touches will have to be put on many buildings and much of the exhibits were not in place. But this is not discouraging to the promoters of the exposition. They do not expect to be in good running shape until Oct. 10.

The exposition's future depends upon the public. Atlanta brains, and pluck, and energy, and perseverance have done their best. The money of the citizens of the stirring Southern city has been invested in the enterprise without stint and without hope of profit. The universal desire is to better bring to the attention of the United States, to the attention of the world, the advantages of the "New South," its manifold resources, its enterprising business men, and its hospitable people.

The highly trained labor of the most advanced countries of the globe is to contribute its best endeavors to the show. France, Germany, Russia, England, and Italy have sent their best products in liberal arts and in the sciences. The fertile South has emptied the choicest fruits of its fields and hills and factories into the exposition.

The highest types of agricultural products possible to the rich lands of the Southern States are here in attractive arrangement. The products of the South's factories are heaped in abundance in the buildings. The great resources of mine and forest show the vast possibilities of this section.

The countries of South America will be most creditably represented. There is no doubt that one of the cardinal purposes of the exposition, the opening up of better trade relations between the South and the South and Central American countries, will be realized as a result of the enterprise.

Our own government is not behind. It presents its riches in a manner that will arouse the patriotic pride of very loyal American.

Eclipses New Orleans.

The exhibition at Atlanta will completely eclipse that given at New Orleans with its dearth of facilities of all kinds. Not withstanding the government helped it more than a million and a half of dollars, the latter was an unsuccessful local fair. That at Atlanta will represent all parts of the country, though naturally and appropriately it will be largely devoted to an exposition of the progress which the South has made since the war and of its resources not yet fully developed. A peculiarly interesting feature of it will be the section devoted to the negro. For the first time the colored people will have their own building and will show the world what they can do in the arts and industries and how much they have accomplished in the upbuilding of the South. Indeed, Atlanta has everything in its favor— a united people working harmoniously together, ambition, public spirit, business enterprise, and local patriotism.

Miniature World's Fair.

The Atlanta Exposition will be a World's Fair only on a reduced scale. Those who visited and admired the White City in Jackson Park cannot fail to find pleasure in a look from the entrance gate in Piedmont Park.

The Midway of the World's Fair is reproduced. It is not of the same magnitude. Some attractions are to be seen not on exhibit in Chicago and many of the old Midway features are missing on Atlanta's thoroughfare of nations. Over 200 Chinese arrived direct from the Flowery Kingdom. They were on exhibition opening day in the Chinese Village. They were as much astonished as were the early seekers after the sights, who paid a quarter to get inside the gates.

The scenic railway is doing business right along, and a second edition of the Ferris wheel is turning around with carloads of people. It is not nearly as large as the original. The streets of Cairo is an attraction, with its camels, donkeys, and dancing girls.

Shooting the chutes can be enjoyed, with all the accessories to be had at Coney Island, Atlantic City, or 63d street in Chicago. A roof garden will be constructed on the top of the Forestry Building, and an enterprising theatrical manager of Atlanta has built a theater on the Midway, where vaudeville shows of a high order will be given. The Mexican Village, with its bull fights, the Illusion Hall, and a dozen other attractions will tempt the dollars out of visitors' pockets.

At the east end of the Midway life in the South before the war is depicted by a troupe of colored people. A rude theater has been constructed of wood of historical interest. It was first cut in 1818 on Piedmont Park, where the exposition buildings are erected. A house was built from it, which remained in the park until Gen. Sherman took possession of the country. Gen. Sherman destroyed the buildings and used the lumber in the breastworks he built at Atlanta. At the close of the war the lumber was purchased by Henry H. Smith, an Atlanta cotton merchant. The lumber has been used in six buildings before being put in the present negro theater and has every evidence of hard usage.

There will be a continuous Georgia barbecue on the grounds and life in the mining camps in California in 1849 will be depicted true to life. Electric cars from the business center of Atlanta run to the main entrance of the exposition. At the entrance is the Administration Building and just east of it the Fire Department House, where several companies and apparatus will stay during the exposition.

History of the Fair.

Now that the exposition has thrown open its gates to visitors from all parts of the world the story of the conception of the enterprise will be read with interest. In a recent conversation on the subject Editor Clark Howell, who has been one of the hardest workers for the success of the undertaking in Atlanta, said:

"On the morning of the 17th of December, 1893, only two months after the closing of the World's Fair, Colonel William A. Hemphill suggested to me in casual conversation that Atlanta ought to inaugurate some movement which would act as an antidote for the hard times from which the whole country was suffering. I promptly acquiesced in the suggestion that something must be done. 'I do not know,' said he, and then, suddenly stopping: 'I have it; let's have an exposition!' whereupon he developed the idea that the best way to meet the general depression was by launching an undertaking which would bring our people together and give them something to do while others were talking about disaster and depression."

Mr. Howell then told how the people were inspired with the exposition idea, of the business men's meeting when the first active steps were taken, the appointment of a general subcommittee and the determination to raise a preliminary fund of at least $200,000. Continuing, he said: "But it was necessary that there should be some distinctive central idea, around which the exposition should be built. It would not do to go before the world that Atlanta was getting up an exposition with the sole idea of stemming the tide of depression. Out of the discussion was evolved the keynote on which the music of the whole movement was based. It was that the exposition should have as its leading purpose the establishment of closer trade relations between the United States and the Central and South American republics. The suggestion met the immediate approval of the industrial and commercial centers.

"The $200,000 needed as a preliminary fund had been pledged in cash subscriptions in less than a week, even the newsboys and the children contributing their mites, the city appropriating $75,000, the additional $125,000, being raised in personal subscriptions. To this the county added $75,000 in work, and when the Legislature met the following fall it gave $25,000 more, making the aggregate subscriptions from the city, the State and the county $300,000."

After referring to the work of permanent organization, when it was found that the movement had assumed such magnitude that it had even then far surpassed the most liberal expectations or hopes of its founders, Mr. Howell continued: "The story of the fight for congressional recognition and of the government's appropriation of $200,000 is too long to tell at this time, but suffice to say that we got it, and from that moment the success of the movement was assured, and the enterprice, already beyond the bounds of our most sanguine expectations, doubled in scope at once. Commissioners were sent to every State in the Union, to every South and Central American republic and to every European country. From April, 1894, for nine months, these commissioners traversed every part of the globe explaining the purposes of the exposition and inviting the participation of the world. Every State in the Union appointed commissioners, as did many European countries, and almost every South and Central American republic. The plans and specifications of the buildings were approved in the early part of the present year. Three hundred thousand dollars in bonds, guaranteed by the gate receipts, were issued, on which cash was promptly advanced, so that the exposition soon found itself in possession of ample funds with which to push the work of construction. The movement has progressed without a hitch from that day to this and the result will be seen by the more than 2,000,000 visitors who are expected this fall."

DUNRAVEN—"I won't play with you any more."

NO PROSPECT OF FAIR PLAY.

England Never Known to Take a Beating Gracefully.

The Chicago Post, discussing the yachting fiasco, says:

There is one rule of universal application in every department of this struggling state called life, and one that is in danger of being overlooked when contests run high, and that is that nobody can excel without somebody being beaten. In sport this is no more infallible than in anything else, but in sport the contest is proclaimed and made tangible and visible concretely before the world. In the interests of pure sport and for the love of its enhancement it is supposed that competitors enter the lists. True, love of gain has usurped the purer passion in many kinds of struggles for supremacy, but there are still cases, like those of great international yacht races, in which fairness is supposed to predominate. Gentlemen lay down huge sums of money and go to enormous trouble to show to the world the strides boat building has made in possibilities of speed, and each the advantage of his own nation's progress.

It is not a personal fight. The man who has the best boat built, or happens to own it, may not be a sailor. It is a victory for the boat builder and the sailing master if any personal element enters at all. It is a match for glory, really. How foolish, how mean, how stultifying then to delay or block fair issue. No one really believes, either in England or in America, that the British was the better boat, but England's policy in these international contests invariably appears to be to charge us, when defeat is imminent, with unsportmanslike conduct and mean motives. No matter what we do, it is all the same. If our contestants go to England they are scurvily treated; if the English come to us they complain of uncivil treatment here, though we do our best to be more than fair. Look at the records for years—England has "put up all the kicks." Fair international contests between England and the United States are impossible. It is to be hoped that attempts at having them will be given up altogether and forever. No matter to what fervent heat Anglomania may rage at Newport or in New York, the great British public, press and individual aspirants for contested honors are in antagonism, irrespective of the sporting issue, and will not let the fight be fair.

It is no use trying any longer to be patient. For years American has beaten England at sloop racing. England never will take a beating gracefully nor own it when she is licked. It is the John Bull quality, and nothing can eliminate it. Let the cup go to the bottom of the sea. We can sail and we know it, but a sulky, mean, graceless and tricky foe is not worth the trouble of defeating. Supremacy having been established, dignity now needs a little maintaining. Defender rules the seas at present, and if Lord Dunraven thinks not let him catch her and prove it.

HE'S READY TO RETIRE.

General Schofield's Farewell a Notable Event.

The officials of the War Department, at the direction of Secretary Lamont, made preparations for the farewell to Lieut. Gen. Schofield, commanding the army, on the 29th of September, the sixty-fourth anniversary of his birth. It had long been proposed to make his leave-taking a notable one, many officers, both in the army and navy, personally presenting the retiring old warrior with some token of the friendship and esteem they feel for him.

Personally Gen. Schofield has made a popular commanding officer of the army. He puts on no frills with those who are brought into social or business intercourse with him. His door has always been open to those who desire to call upon him in his office in the War Department, and while he is dignified and business-like in his dealings, yet his manner is at once courteous and even cordial to those who have even but a slight acquaintance with him.

With Gen. Schofield's retirement the title "lieutenant general of the army" dies. He has only held this official title since February last, when he was nominated to it by the President in accordance with an act passed by the last Congress. His former title was "major general commanding the army." His successor will hold that rank and title until Congress, if it chooses, creates him lieutenant general.

LIEUT. GEN. SCHOFIELD.

The examination of William E. Brockway, "king of counterfeiters," was continued before United States Commissioner Romaine, in Jersey City. The commissioner decided that a prima facie case had been made out against Brockaway and held him to the United States grand jury.

A popular actress announces that she will soon begin a starring tour in "The Queen of Liars." Will her leading man be Tom Ochiltree, Eli Perkins or Joe Mulhatton?

UNCLE SAM TO (JOHN BULL):

"Got any more records to smash?" —Chicago Times-Herald.

INDIANA INCIDENTS.

SOBER OR STARTLING, FAITHFULLY RECORDED.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes.

Condensed state News.

Minor State News.

Greenfield is to have a new $150,000 court house.

The glass works at Cicero have resumed operations and 300 men are employed.

Terre Haute has been chosen as the next meeting place of the Northwest Indiana conference.

The business men of Logansport are protesting against the erection of telephone poles in the streets.

John Leisure, of Arlington, was kicked to death by horses after being jolted from his seat on a wagon.

Henry Hale, who has been missing at Goshen, has been found dead in the woods. He committed suicide.

Delaware County Commissioners refused pool and billiard privileges to 25 saloon applicants at Muncie.

Fort Wayne will celebrate her centennail anniversary, Oct. 15, 16, 17, and 18, and will celebrate it right.

John Barillo and Michael Sabo, employed by the Standard Oil Works at Whiting, were suffocated by escaping gas.

David Markland, Kokomo, having a presentiment of sudden death, arose in bed, kissed his wife and fell back dead.

An epidemic of diphtheria is prevailing in Yorktown, and the opening of the public schools has been indefinitely postponed.

At Goshen, Miss Katherine Stutsman, aged 18, tripped as she was crossing her kitchen floor and fell, death resulting in a few hours afterwards from internal injuries.

John C. Stone, of Chicago, one of a trio of crooks who had a desperate battle with Deputy Sheriffs in Fort Wayne on May 28, was sentenced to serve 10 years in Michigan City Penitentiary.

By reason of the Nicholson law nine saloons have so far been forced out of business in Clinton County. Two withdrew at Kirklin, one at Sedalia, one at Colfax and three at Frankfort.

John Leisure, aged 34 years, while hauling school desks near Arlington, struck a rock and was thrown from the spring seat of the wagon under the horses' feet. They began kicking and trampled him to death.

Miss Mary Ward, school teacher near Farmland, was struck by lightning. It struck her on the forehead, circling the head, and then shot down the backbone to her feet, tearing her shoes off. Her recovery is doubtful.

At Rushville, Jesse Williams, a boy was leading a cow to pasture and became entangled in the rope, frightening the cow. It began to run and dragged the boy several blocks, injuring him seriously about the head and shoulders.

The Rev. P. J. Albright, pastor of the M. E. Church at Farmland, having been elected State Organizer of the Patriotic Order Sons of America, will resign from the ministry, and remove to Indianapolis for permanent residence.

Andrew Wallis was run over at Fort Branch while trying to board the midnight E. & T. H. train. He had both legs ground to pieces. He was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, Evansville, and the legs amputated, death following in two hours.

Well drillers near Brownsburg drilled through a twenty-foot layer of substance resembling India rubber. At a depth of 85 feet they struck a piece of pine timber in good preservation, then came a black deposit resembling very coarse gunpowder, followed by an indigo-blue substance, the water also being blue.

A lease war is said to be waging near Van Buren between the Grant County Oil Company and the Ohio Oil Company. Both companies claim a particular lease, and both have rigged timbers. The first-named company took out ten teams to remove the opposition company's timbers, but were repulsed with shotguns.

At Diamond Lake, about thirty miles from South Bend, a pleasure steamboat, the Leo Roy, had on board a party of people from Mishawaka, and when out in mid-lake the boat sprang a leak. The captain ran her into shallow water just as she sank and saved the lives of those on board, who were taken to land in a row boat.

A contract for building the Indiana electric railway between Goshen and Elkhart has been signed by the Chicago branch of the Whit-Crosby Company, of Baltimore, and J. J. Burns, of the Cosmo Buttermilk Soap Company, of Chicago, and president of the company. The contract stipulates that the road shall be completed within ninety days. The line when completed will unite the two electric railway systems at Goshen and Elkhart owned by this company.

Cora Teal, 13 years old, daughter of 'Squire P. J. Teal, of Oakland, was strangely afflicted, and the death which came to her a few days ago was a relief from terrible suffering. Her head had grown enormously, weighing, perhaps, more than all the rest of the body combined. She had never stood upon her feet during her lifetime, as the weight of her head over-balanced her. Her arms and hands were normal, but the lower limbs did not grow correspondingly.

Indianapolis capitalists are said to be behind an enterprise for the construction of an electric railway line from Huntington to Ligonier, by way of Columbia City. Ruch Bros., of the latter place, who represent the Indianapolitans have applied to the Common Council of Columbia City for a right of way through the streets of that place and the franchise was readily granted. The object of building the line is to tap a fine summer resort region, the territory for miles on either side of the proposed line being dotted with beautiful lakes. The distance between Huntington and Ligonier is about forty miles.

The first annual picnic of the farmers of Northern Indiana and Southern Michigan was held at South Bend with an attendance of about 6,000. Hon. Alpha Messer of Vermont, Worthy Lecturer of the National Grange, delivered an address.

Lewis Allen accidentally shot and killed Charles Sturrus at Brewersville, a small station near Holton. Allen playfully pointed the gun at his companion, telling him he would shoot him, at the same time pulling the trigger. The entire load struck Sturrus in the stomach, killing him instantly. Coroner Cox was called and viewed the remains. Allen is almost distracted over the deed.

During the reunion of old settlers of Tipton County, at Goldsmith, the first bell ever brought into the county was exhibited, as well as the first threshing machine, the first wooden mold-board plow, the frow that rived the clapboards for the old log court-house, the hand-made padlock on the first jail, and other articles of pioneer days.

Considerable excitment was caused when it was reported that a deaf and dumb man was frightening women by asking them, by writing in a note book, for something to eat and then drawing a revolver. The officers searched him, and the supposed revolver proved to be a large fog whistle. He was under the influence of liquor and was run out of town.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

The change to London was a pleasant one; every part of the castle at Bayneham was full of associations and memories; here, in London, it was different. Lord Bayneham could enter a room without remembering the last time he saw his wife there. It was pleasing to see Bertie every day; his society was bracing. Active, energetic, persevering, Bertie did more toward the young Earl's recovery than any one else.

"Cheer up, Claude," he would say; "all mysteries are cleared in the end. Take my word for it, the time will come when you will discover Hilda and understand all about her flight. Be patient and brave."

Neither Bertie nor Barbara would comply with Lord Bayneham's wish, and arrange anything for their marriage.

"We will wait until you are happier," said Barbara, in answer to her cousin's arguments; and he knew his two faithful friends would not rejoice while he was in sorrow.

One morning—it was the end of May, a morning when even to live and to breathe is a luxury—Lord Bayneham went out early. He strolled on toward Kensington Gardens, and attracted by the beauty and fragrance of the spring blossoms, he entered the gardens and walked leisurely up and down the paths. There was no fashionable crowd, it was too early for that; but there were many pretty, happy little children with their attendants and nurses. Light footsteps tripped to and fro; musical voices filled the clear spring air; silvery laughter rippled on the breeze. It was pleasant to watch the little ones at their play.

Lord Bayneham sat down upon one of the garden benches; there was a sad, wistful smile upon his face as he gazed upon the children. There was a sharp pain in his heart. No child climbed his knee and called him father; no little hands clasped his; no tender little lips touched his face. He would never hear the music of children's voices in his lonely home. Sad, solitary, and desolate he sat in the spring sunshine, wondering why Providence had dealt so hardly by him. The springing blossoms, the blue sky, the clear sweet air, the rich perfume of the music of the birds, the glory that reigned around him, smote him with pain. Life and love, beauty and happiness seemed to fall to every one's lot; he alone had no hope. Why, it was just such a morning as this when he had met his lost, loved wife in Brynmar woods.

Just then Lord Bayneham's attention was drawn to a most beautiful boy. He was seemingly three or four years old, with the charming face that the old masters used to give to angels—sweet red smiling lips, eyes of the darkest, deepest blue. The little head was covered with curls—beautiful golden tendrils—gleaming in the sunshine. He was a noble, princely boy, and the Earl watched him with great admiration. He was with a gentleman, but Lord Bayneham could not see the gentleman's face; it was hidden from him by the thick foliage of the trees.

The little boys' amusement consisted in gathering blades of grass, and running with them to his guardian. He evidently considered this a great feat, and indulged in cries of delight. A bright yellow flower grew in the green grass close to where Lord Bayneham was sitting. The child saw it, and ran eagerly to gather it, and the smile that broke over his charming face was so irresistible that Lord Bayneham stooped and raised him in his arms.

"You must not run away with me," said the child, in his pretty little way. "I am mamma's own boy."

"I will not," said the Earl, gravely; "sit here on my knee, and I will show you my watch."

The child was delighted with the glittering watch and chain.

"Will you give me these for my own?" he asked.

"We will see about that," said Lord Bayneham; "tell me what your name is."

"Lionel," replied the little one.

"Lionel—and what else?" asked the Earl.

"Mamma's Lionel;" said the little boy, raising his beautiful eyes to the sad face above him.

Lord Bayneham was strangely moved by that look; surely in some dream he had seen eyes like those. Then he bent down and kissed the little face, smoothing the bright golden curls as he did so.

"I wish I had a little boy like you," he said to the child; "I have no little son."

"And I have no papa," replied the child, quickly.

"Lionel," cried a voice familiar to Lord Bayneham, "where are you?"

"Your little boy is quite safe," said the Earl, courteously.

"I fear he is teasing you. Why, Lord Bayneham!—is it possible?"

"Captain Massey!" cried the Earl, rising in glad surprise. "I thought you were in India."

"I reached home last week," said Captain Massey.

"How long have you been away?" inquired Lord Bayneham.

"Three years," was the short reply, and the Earl wondered at the changed, cool manner of his friend.

"I am delighted to see you," he continued, holding out his hand, but, to his surprise, the Captain affected not to see it.

"Is this your little son?" asked Lord Bayneham.

"No," replied the Captain, a dark flush covering his honest face. "I am not married."

"I never saw a more lovely child," continued the Earl; "I cannot part with him just yet."

The Captain looked anxious and uneasy.

"Who is he?" asked Lord Bayneham. "I must make friends with his parents for the little boy's sake. I am charmed with him."

Captain Massey made no reply; there was a constrained, miserable silence.

"Massey," said Lord Bayneham, at length, "I cannot understand you. We parted three years ago the best of friends—now you will not touch my hand. You look shyly at me; you barely answer my questions. What has changed you?—in what have I offended you?"

The honest, fearless eyes that met his own had a deep shadow in them.

"There is no need for any explanations," he replied, shortly.

"But there is need," said Lord Bayneham. "I liked you, Massey, and have been proud to call you my friend. What have I done that you are my friend no longer?"

"Does not your own conscience tell you?" asked Captain Massey, gravely.

"My conscience!" said Lord Bayneham in utter wonder; "no, certainly not; I am at a loss how to understand you. I am very unhappy—no man living is so unhappy as I—but on my conscience there rests no stain."

"I have no right to speak," said Captain Massey, turning away; "come Lionel, it is time we returned home."

But the child clung with both arms round Lord Bayneham.

"I like this gentleman," he said; "I will not leave him."

Captain Massey's face grew strangely pale. The Earl saw his lips move, and he looked on in mute surprise.

"What is it, my old friend?" said Lord Bayneham. "What specter have you raised that stands between you and me?"

Then Captain Massey turned, and looked straight into the changed, worn face.

"I would not shake hands with you," he said. "I do not wish to speak to you; but if you will have it, you must. Answer me, Lord Bayneham! What have you done with your wife?"

Lord Bayneham started, and looked at his friend with wondering eyes. The question pierced him with sharp pain.

"My wife!" he repeated, with white, quivering lips. "I would give my life this moment to know where she is. I would gladly die if I might look on her face once more."

"But," said Captain Massey, surprised in his turn, "you sent her from you!"

"Never!" interrupted Lord Bayneham. "Only heaven knows what her flight has cost me! Who told you so, cruel a story, Massey? and how could you believe it of me?"

"Never mind who told me," said the Captain, "if it is not true. I never saw a woman so fair, so true, or so pure as your wife. You should have overlooked what she could not help—her parentage."

"I knew nothing of it when she left me," said Lord Bayneham, sadly. "I should have overlooked that, and much more, for love of my wife."

"You knew nothing of it!" said the Captain, still more surprised. "Then why did you send her away?"

"I did not," replied the Earl; "her flight was a mystery to me until I stood by her father's death-bed. I understood it then."

Captain Massey looked, as he felt, bewildered.

"I do not know what you have heard," continued Lord Bayneham, "but you are my friend. Years ago, Massey, you loved my wife. I pardon your words; will you listen to me while I tell you—what few know—the story of my darling's loss?"

With the little golden head pillowed on his heart, Lord Bayneham told his story.

"I have spent a fortune," he said, "in advertisements. I believe all England has been searched, but in vain. Whether she is living or dead, I know not. I know one thing—living or dead, I shall be true to her; no one shall ever take her place. I would freely, joyfully give all I have in the world to see her once more. It was all a mistake, Massey; a terrible mistake. I was jealous and impatient, and most bitterly have I suffered for it. Do you not see that I am old before my time—worn out with sorrow and suspense? God keep all from suffering as I have done."

"It is a strange story," said the Captain, musingly.

"No more strange than true," said Lord Bayneham. "Ah, Massey, I must reproach you. What have you ever seen in me that could lead you to believe me capable of sending my wife from me, because her father was not all he should have been? I should but have loved her the more for it. I knew nothing of and cared nothing for her family, when I married her. How could you think that, in the hour of her trouble, I should drive her from me?—I, who have never ceased praying, with weeping eyes, that I might see her again."

The two friends then sat and talked, unconscious of the swift passing time. Lord Bayneham thought his friend strangely reserved, even after his explanation. True, Captain Massey grasped his hand and begged his pardon for the suspicions so unjust and unfounded; but, after all, he was very quiet. He did not seem to enter into or sympathize with any of the Earl's plans for the finding of his lost wife. He listened with a far-off look on his face; and Lord Bayneham, whose heart was in his words, felt pained by his want of interest.

"We must go," said the Captain, at length, taking out his watch. "Come, Lionel; mamma will be frightened; we have been out three hours."

"You have not told me my little friend's name," said Lord Bayneham, as he unwillingly untwined the little arms from his neck. "I shall be pleased to see him again."

"He is called Lionel," said the Captain, carelessly. "His mother is a friend of my mother's. Come and dine with us to-morrow, Lord Bayneham; we are still living in the old house at Kew. My mother will be pleased to see you—you were always a great favorite of hers."

"No, I think not," replied Lord Bayneham. "I have no heart or spirits for visiting. Come and see me—that will be better. Lady Bayneham and Miss Earle will be delighted to welcome you home again."

"I shall hold little Lionel here as an inducement," said Captain Massey. "Come and dine with us to-morrow; then you shall be introduced to him in proper form, and perhaps be allowed the privilege of having him on a visit—a great favor, I assure you. What do you say, Lionel? Do you wish this gentleman to come and see me?"

"Oh, yes!" cried the child, clinging to Lord Bayneham's hand; "do come."

The pretty, childish voice prevailed, and the Earl said, with a smile, "I will. At what hour do you dine?"

"At seven," replied Captain Massey. "Call for me at my chambers," he continued, giving Lord Bayneham a card, "and we will drive down together."

"At your chambers!" said Lord Bayneham. "Why, are you not living at home?"

"No," said the Captain, and again a dull flush burned his face. "My mother has visitors in the house, and I have business in London. Call for me about five."

Then they parted, and Lord Bayneham returned home.

Lord Bayneham told the Countess and Barbara Earle of his meeting with Captain Massey, and of the beautiful little child who was with him; the finest, sweetest child he had ever seen. Lady Bayneham thought him in better spirits. He smiled as he described the boy clinging to him, and his face had not looked so bright for years. Lady Bayneham's eyes filled with tears as she listened to him.

"I am thankful for anything that arouses his interest," she said to Barbara Earle; "but my heart aches when I think that he will never smile upon a child of his own."

"We will hope for the best," said Barbara, "sorrow endures for a time. Joy generally comes after it, and if not joy, peace."

Lord Bayneham was haunted by the little face; it shone before him all day, he saw it in his dreams by night—the sweet trusting eyes, the bright clustering curls—and he smiled at his own folly.

"I must be in love with the child," he said. "I long to see him again."

(To be continued.)

HE MADE NO SALE.

The Persistent Young Man Failed to Accomplish His Purpose.

The young man was polite but persistent. He invaded the office, hat in hand, and waited patiently until the elderly man looked up from his work.

"Excuse me, sir," he said, when he saw he had the business man's attention. "I am taking orders for trousers."

"Don't want any," said the business man, shortly.

"Pardon me," persisted the young man, "but if you will kindly look at my samples——"

"It would only be a waste of time," interrupted the business man.

"I will measure you for them right here and you need not lose five minutes from your business," continued the young man, paying no attention to the interruption.

"But I don't want any," insisted the elderly man.

"Very well, sir. I regret——" Just then his eye fell on a smaller desk in the corner and he saw a possible opportunity to do a little business after all. "Might I ask who occupies that desk?"

"My private secretary," replied the business man.

"Do you suppose——"

"Why, yes, possibly you might." The business man was suddenly interested. "It's worth trying, anyway."

"When can I——"

"Come back in about an hour."

"Thank you, sir. I will."

Then the business man became so interested in some mental pictures that he conjured up that he forgot all about his work for nearly fifteen minutes.

It was just about an hour later that the young man came back. He entered in a business-like way and then stopped, stammered something in a confused sort of way and started to back out.

"Come in!" called the old man cheerily. "Anything I can do for you?"

"N-n-no, thank you." And he was gone.

"What a queer acting man," said the private secretary, looking after him.

"Isn't he, Miss Blank?" returned the business man innocently. "I think it must be one of the effects of woman in business."

A Distressing Incident.

It was a serious moment in the Jennings family. Helen Jennings was in tears, and tried to speak, but Mr. Jennings stopped her with a sad gesture, Mrs. Jennings wiped her glasses, and prepared to read a letter that she had just found in Helen's pocket.

To think that their Helen, who had not been long in her teens—their Helen, who was so sweet and good and straightforward, should have a letter like this.

Mrs. Jennings read in a trembling voice:

"'Angel of my existence——'"

"What!" exclaimed Mr. Jennings, "does anyone dare to address our little Helen like that. But go on, my dear."

"'Existence' spelled with an 'a,' too!" said Mrs. Jennings.

"Really! The idiot can't spell," exclaimed the indignant father. "But let us hear the rest."

"'It is impossible for me to describe the joy with which your presence has filled me——'"

"What does he try to describe it for, then, the ignoramus? But don't let me interrupt you," groaned Mr. Jennings.

"'I think of you constantly, and I bitterly condemn the obstinate, unfeeling purse-proud old party who will not consent to our union.'"

"'Old party! obstinate, unfeeling'—and I have been the kindest of fathers! When I see this young man I will—The man that could pen these words—But go on, my dear."

"Theodore, I did not see this overleaf till now," murmured Mrs. Jennings, faintly.

"Eh? Let me see. Hum! 'Yours, with all the love of my heart, Theodore. May 10th, 1835.' Why, bless my soul, it's one of my own letters."

"Yes, papa," said Helen, drying her tears, and taking advantage of the pause that at last gave her an opportunity to speak, "I found it just now, and I was going to explain, only you would not let me say a word."—Hartford Times.

Why Blackie Wore a Plaid.

Dr. Donald Macleod, in Good Words, tells a story about Professor Blackie. Professor Blackie frequently stayed at Dr. Macleod's house in Glasgow. One night, says the doctor, we were sitting up together. Blackie said in his brusque way, "Whatever other faults I have I am free from vanity." An incredulous smile on my face roused him. "You don't believe that; give me an instance." Being thus challenged, I said, "Why do you walk about flourishing a plaid continually?" "I'll give you the history of that, sir. When I was a poor man, and when my wife and I had our difficulties, she one day drew my attention to the threadbare character of my surtout, and asked me to order a new one. I told her I could not afford it just then, when she went, like a noble woman, and put her own plaid shawl on my shoulders, and I have worn a plaid ever since in memory of her loving deed."

A Harmless Joke.

Place a piece of cotton in the inside pocket of your coat, and having threaded a needle with the beginning of the cotton, pass the needle through the front of the coat; unthread the needle and leave about two inches of the cotton hanging as if it were only a stray piece. The first person you meet will be sure to pick it off you, and his astonishment when he finds there is no end to it will give plenty of innocent amusement.

The Emperor Napoleon made his own birthday, Aug. 15, a holiday in France, and facetiously called it the "Festival of St. Napoleon."

Thomas Jefferson was dubbed Long Tom, from his height, and the Sage of Monticello, from his place of residence.

THE LADIES' CLUBS.

HOW THE FAIR SEX IMPROVES ITS MIND.

Literary Clubs, Their Origin and Purposes—Philosophy and Fiction Regarded as Topics of Conversation—The Literary Woman at Her Best.

"New Woman" in Evidence.

The zeal of the "new woman" to excel in every line of enterprise in which men have distinguished themselves has, by a most easy and natural process, led her into the walks of literature, says a writer in the Globe-Democrat. It is not to be understood that she is now there for the first time, because, as everybody knows, there were literary women, and that, too, of a high order of merit, before the "new woman" was ever dreamed of, nor is it likely that the "new woman," try as she may, will ever succeed in doing better than Mrs. Hemans, or Mrs. Browning, or a dozen others that could be cited, who, in the most emphatic sense of the word, were "old women," and would have regarded the movement looking to the "emancipation of woman" as one to be heartily disapproved by the best of the sex.

Looked at with strictly unprejudiced eye, the literary bias of the "new woman" is but one indication of her tendency to societyism. She has become aware that far more can be accomplished by organized than by individual effort, and so, in literary as in other matters, she turns toward organization in order to secure the best results. In other words, societyism is the "fad" of the day, and the literary, social, benevolent and other organizations that have sprung up in such numbers among ladies, young and old, are manifestations of a tendency, rather than efforts toward a definite end in any one direction. But social organizations are of far greater antiquity than the "new woman," and have their origin in that natural desire for social amusement which must everywhere find its own gratification. Designed to afford opportunities to the young people to make acquaintances, to form friendship, they are, within certain bounds, highly commendable, nor can the most rigid do more than cavil at some forms of the amusements they furnish for a social evening. But dancing and cards and small talk, all good in their way, are not sufficient for the intellectual young woman of the present day, so she has gone to work and provided herself with means of sharpening her brains in quite a different direction.

A BOSTON CLUB.

Exactly when or by whom the first ladies' literary club was founded is generally regarded as uncertain, for, like the birthplace of Homer, the honor is striven for by more than one city, and Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington and Chicago lay claim to the credit of being the first to establish literary clubs of which ladies were the only members. Without taking the time to balance these rival claims, however, they may all be summarily swept aside with the statement that women's literary clubs are known to be as old as the year 1400, when a ladies' society for purposes of culture was formed at Venice, and, for some inscrutable reason, the ladies decided to distinguish themselves from other women by the color of their hosiery, and so came to be known as the "Blue Stockings." A hundred years later the organization appeared in Paris, where it became a rage, and in 1780 it crossed the channel into England, where it was still known as the Bas-Bleu Club. This was the original of all literary organizations of the fair sex, and claims of recent origin may be dismissed as unworthy of consideration.

Certain it is, however, that the Bas-Bleus have received a mighty accession to their numbers during the last few years, and that the results have been eminently satisfactory. The ladies' society or literary club has many forms and proposes to itself many objects. There are ladies' societies that do not hesitate to attack the weightiest problems of the day, and venture into the discussion of social, economic, political and religious questions with a boldness that would appall a member of Congress; but, it should be added, clubs so pretentious in their aims as these, are not very numerous. In general, the ladies' literary club proposes to itself no object more serious than that of hearing a series of lectures by a learned professor on some topic that appeals to the sympathies of most of the members, or the discussion of some popular work of fiction, with which most of the membership are familiar. The theory is, that, as the whole thing is done for effect, there is no use in overdoing it, so the membership do not expend any more brain tissue than is absolutely necessary for the comprehension of the lecture, or the elucidation of the plot and incidents in the novel chosen for study.

As a general thing, the subjects selected for consideration by the lecturer are such as he deems suitable to the mental capacity of his audience, for he understands well enough that his business is not to instruct, but to entertain, and if by chance he wanders from a topic they can understand into a dissertation on the cognizability of the incomprehensible, he will shortly find them with their thoughts so far away from the topic that he will never be able to get them back again. He is lucky, indeed, to hold their attention at all, for there is something about a woman's mind that renders it difficult to fix attention on anything but all sorts, kinds and conditions of finery, so the lecturer need not be surprised, if, while elucidating some dark point with all his might, he notices that his fair auditors are equally absorbed in the study of each other's raiment. But, after all, in a woman, particularly a young woman, this is to be expected, for, to her, theories of government, questions of politics, considerations of philosophy, of ethics, of social science, of humanitarianism, all dwindle into insignificance when brought into comparison with a matter of clothes, for all these are transitory, while the importance of finery is conceded by the whole feminine race to be eternal. But, in all probability, the learned professor is quite used to this kind of an audience, and is perfectly satisfied to lecture to the two or three who pay attention, while the rest look at each other's garments and speculate as to their probable cost, and how much better they would look if the goods had been made up in some other style. Indeed, he is in great luck to have only a negative attention, for once upon a time it happened that while a distinguished French chef was lecturing on the thrilling subject of soups, three or four of his audience became so little engrossed in the topic that one took off her hat to show it to the others, who duly crowded round to examine it, while the soup was relegated to the background.

Lectures, however, before a feminine club, furnish only a negative enjoyment to the membership thereof, for during a lecture the audience must make at least an attempt to refrain from talking, and everybody knows that nothing on earth so harrows up a woman's soul as the necessity of keeping still. In order to gratify the feminine love of conversation, therefore, a species of entertainment had to be devised, in which, at some time during its progress, everybody should have a chance to talk. If all could talk at once, of course, it would be so much the better, but as this plan, pleasant enough for the participants, had manifest drawbacks, certain restrictions had to be placed on the talking, as far as possible, to keep it within limits; to say, in effect, to the ocean of discourse, Thus far shalt thou come, but no farther. The essay and recitation were excellently well suited to the needs of the literary club, for after one member had held the floor for a season all could join in and talk to each other or to themselves until time for the next performance, but as even this plan did not prove entirely satisfactory, some genius hit upon the device of studying a literary work, generally a work of fiction, and the end was gained, for not only could the whole club talk together on the topic, but so wide is the field opened by an ordinary novel, that any subject on the face of the earth could be brought in and discussed from any standpoint, or no standpoint at all, until all concerned were tired out, and happy in their fatigue of jaw, could adjourn to their homes with the pleasing consciousness that the meeting had been a "howling success." Suppose, for example, that the novel chosen for elucidation were "Julia of Bologna," the discussions could range not only over the scenes of the famous Italian city where the plot of the story was laid, including the notable characters who had figured in the history of the same, from Julia's uncle, a respectable citizen, to the grand nobleman who presided over the destinies of the metropolis, not neglecting the unknown genius to whom the world is indebted for the toothsome dainty, which, even now, is justly famous under the name of bologna sausage. Historic allusions presuppose historic researches, and thus an additional end is subserved, for the fair literati can go to the libraries, call for all volumes contained therein, relating, so remotely, to Bologna, its surroundings, flora and fauna, sausage and the animals that reluctantly contributed to the making thereof, eat a package of caramels and depart, in the pleasing consciousness of superiority to all that groveling herd of humanity that is not literary and consequently has no soul.

PREPARING FOR AN ESSAY.

A step above the novel club is the club that says to itself, "Go to, let us study Browning," and when the young lady litterateur has taken this step, she feels at once that her mind has begun to develop, for, be it understood, studying Browning is the next thing to studying protoplasms, and ichthyosauruses, and biology, and the young woman whose mind can get a correct grip on these mysteries is but one grade below her who has written a book. It is true that the study of Browning is somewhat mystifying, but woman is fond of mystery—it is perfectly lovely, in fact; so the trifling circumstance that even Browning once admitted that he was at a loss to tell what he meant by some of his poetical profundities is a matter of no consequence. "It's nice to guess, even if you don't know," casually explained one of the sisterhood, and the statement generally receives a hearty assent from the entire quota. It is but just, however, to say that the study of Browning is most popular in Boston, where babies wear spectacles and children know more than men and women who had not the good fortune to be born on soil sacred to the muses. To Boston and her daughters, therefore, the rest of feminine America generally leaves the study of Browning, and Aristotle, and Kant, and Hegel, and

MILLINERY VS. SOUP.

THOSE WHO PREFER BROWNING.

Fichte, and Schopenhauer, and the whatness of the whichsoever, and contents itself with Dickens, and George Eliot, and Victor Hugo, and Lew Wallace, and other writers who can, once in a while, descend to the plane of every-day life, and think thoughts that people can understand.

But not all the young ladies of the present day are literary in their tastes, so the tendency toward societyism is by no means limited to literary objects. The percentage is also utilitarian and benevolent, and not a few of those fair ones who care nothing for Browning would not give a fig for all the theories of the universe that were ever devised, and to whom dissertations on the relations of the world objective to the world subjective are mere sound and fury, signifying nothing, find that they can keep in the fashion by turning their attention in other directions. To these the sewing schools for poor children, the mission schools, the clubs for working girls, and other lines of effort furnish a field at once broad and fertile, and in which they have the consciousness of knowing that their efforts are in the highest degree humanitarian and benevolent.

But while these last are not regarded by their literary sisters as of their own number, they are not despised, but are rather looked upon as worthy of commendation, for they are considered to be doing what they can and are not to be blamed if Providence has not endowed them with superior minds, able to grasp the problems presented by the masters of fiction and philosophy.

THE RECITATION.

"You say it was a runaway match?" "Partly. He tried to run away, but she brought him to time by threats of a breach of promise suit."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Three minutes for dinner!" yelled the railroad porter. "Good!" exclaimed the editor. "The last time it was $3."—Atlanta Constitution.

•HORSEMEN•
SAVE YOUR STOCK BY USING THE CELEBRATED
Morris' English Colic Powder
For Loss of Appetite, Constipation, Rough Hair, Hide Bound and all Diseases of the Blood. Price, 25c. per package.
Morris' English Stable Liniment
Cures Lameness, Cuts, Bruises, Scratches, Galls, Sweeney, Spavins, Splint, Curb, etc. Price, 50c. per bottle.
Morris' English Worm Powder
Warranted to cure any case of Worms in Horses, Cattle, Sheep or Dogs, also Pin Worms in Colts. Price, 50c. per box.
Craft's Distemper and Cough Cure
A Specific for Distemper, Coughs, Colds, Heaves, Pink Eye, and all Catarrhal Diseases of horses. Price, 50c. $1.00 per bottle.
Wells' Hoosier Poultry Powder
Makes Hens Lay, cures Cholera, Gapes and Roup, and keeps poultry healthy. Price, 25c. per package.
Every remedy guaranteed satisfactory or money refunded. Our new book, "The Horse: His Diseases and Treatment," mailed free.
Wells Medicine Co., Lafayette, Ind.
For sale by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

BE A MAN
Ajax Tablets
have cured thousands and will cure you if you are suffering from Loss of Vigor, Impotence, Sterility, Seminal Weakness or any of the other effects of Self-Abuse or excesses of early life. We give positive Written Guarantee to effect a cure in each case or to refund money in case of failure. Price $1.00 per box, or six boxes for $5.00. Sent prepaid upon receipt of price. Send for free circular. Address
AJAX REMEDY CO.,
70 Dearborn Street, CHICAGO, ILL.
For sale by F. E. Davenport, Druggist, Auburn.

DR. MOTT'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS
The only safe, sure and reliable Female Pill ever offered to Ladies, especially recommended to married Ladies. Beware of pills put up in tin boxes as they are dangerous. Ask for DR. MOTT'S PENNYROYAL PILLS and take no other. Send for circular. Price $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00.
DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Fisher & Son, Auburn, Ind.

FITS!
Brace Up! Don't Lose Courage!!
Your disease is not incurable because your Physician has given you up, and you have not received any benefit from the medicine you have tried, is not any reason you cannot be cured. We can positively cure all kinds of Fits, Epilepsy, Convulsion or Spasmodic. WE GUARANTEE A POSITIVE AND PERMANENT CURE IN ALL CASES. We have cured thousands, many cases of long standing, and given up by Doctors as incurable. In our "Allen's Fits Cure" you will find a medicine that has never failed to effect a speedy cure. We back our guarantee with an offer of $100 to any person we cannot cure. Highest Bank references furnished on application.
1 Qt. Bottle, $3.00. 2 Qt. $5.00.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

LADIES
Suffering from Retarded, Suppressed or Painful Menstruation and all irregularities of life nature, will find our FAMALE PILLS an infallible cure. They are entirely safe and can always be relied upon for speedy relief. We have yet to hear of a case where they have failed to produce the desired result. A box should be kept on hand at all times to provide for emergencies. Correspondence Confidential.
By mail, with full directions, securely sealed, $2.00 per box.
ALLEN MEDICAL CO.,
Washington & Water Sts., BOSTON, MASS.

Every Woman
Sometimes needs a reliable monthly regulating medicine.
Dr. PEAL'S
PENNYROYAL PILLS,
Are prompt, safe and certain in result. The genuine (Dr. Peal's) never disappoint. Sent anywhere $1.00. Peal Medicine Co., Cleveland, O.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

WE HAVE NO AGENTS
but ship from our factory at wholesale prices. Ship anywhere for examination; pay freight both ways if not satisfactory. 100 styles of Carriages, 50 styles of Harness. Send 4 cts. for 112 page catalogue.
ELKHART CARRIAGE AND HARNESS MFG. CO.
No. 7884 $35. W. B. Pratt, Sec'y, Elkhart, Ind.

Sex-ine Pills
RESTORE LOST VIGOR
Before and After Using.
New discovery. Will brace you up in a week. Sold with a WRITTEN GUARANTEE to Cure Nervous Debility, Loss of Sexual Power in either sex, involuntary Emissions from any cause. If neglected, such troubles lead to consumption or insanity. $1.00 per box by mail, 6 boxes for $5.00. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Address PEAL MEDICINE CO., Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

RESTORED MANHOOD.
DR. MOTT'S NERVERINE PILLS
The great remedy for nervous prostration and all nervous diseases of the generative organs of either sex, such as Nervous Prostration, Failing or Lost Manhood, Impotency, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors, Mental Worry, excessive use of Tobacco or Opium, which lead to Consumption and Insanity. With every $5 order we give a written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Sold at $1.00 per box, 6 boxes for $5.00. DR. MOTT'S CHEMICAL COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio.
Sold by Fischler & Son, Auburn.

TRY US
FOR JOB PRINTING!

NEW GOODS
ARRIVING

OUR STOCK IS NOW

-Complete-

CLOTHING, SHOES,
HATS and
FURNISHING GOODS

PRICES
LOWER THAN EVER AT THE

GLOBE
CLOTHING & SHOE CO.,

Gandy Block, North of Square, AUBURN, IND

Closing Out!
TAN SHOES AND SLIPPERS

JUST LOOK AT THE PRICES.

One lot Ladies' and Misses' Oxfords, mostly small worth $1 to $1 75, for	50c
25 prs. Ladies' & Misses' Tan Oxfords, worth $1.25,	$ .90
Ladies' " " " 2.00,	1.40
" " " " 2.50,	1.75

MEN'S TAN SHOES:

One lot Men's Tan Shoes worth $2.00 for	$1.50
" " " " " 2.50 for	1.75
" " " " " 4.00 fo	2.50
" " " Black Shoes, worth 3.00 to 4.00 for	2.00

These are all desirable goods and worth the marked price, but are broken lots and must go to make room for fall stock that is beginning to arrive.

Shull's Cash Shoe Store. AUBURN.

Have you seen
THE - LATEST
Thing in Photos
and Frames
J.G. CLAPP
WIDE AWAKE
PHOTOGRAPHER
Has the latest styles out.
Stop and see them. Auburn.
A full line of Artist's Material just received,

WALTER C. HARTMAN.

REAL ESTATE, FIRE INSURANCE AND LOANS.

Notes, Judgments and Liens
Bought and Sold.

Mortgaged Property Bought and Indebtedness Assumed.

Agency for Nine Old Line Fire Insurance Companies.

Dwelling Property and Town Lots for Sale. $75 to $2,500.

Town Property for Sale:—

A special bargain in a good building lot on South Jackson street.

One vacant lot in Ralston's Addition, $75. Come quick.

House and lot on Jackson street; good location. $700, long time, 6 per cent interest. Must be sold at once.

SPECIAL TRAINS.

For the Ligonier Fair, Sept. 25, 26 and 27. Half Fare Rate. Trains run as follows:

LEAVE	FROM THE EAST.
Butler	8:30 a. m.
Waterloo	8:46 "
Corunna	9:03 "
Kendallville	9:20 "
Brimfield	9:35 "
Wawaka	9:45 "
Arrive at Ligonier	10:00 "

Returning train will leave Ligonier at 6:00 p. m.

Non-Partisan and Interdenominational

Gospel Temperance Meeting
—IN—
GOOD CITIZENSHIP TENT
At Southeast Corner of Public Square, AUBURN, IND.
Commencing—
SATURDAY EVE, SEPT 21,
and continuing ONE WEEK

Hon. M. J. Fanning.....Speaker
Prof. W. M. Skinner.....Song Leader

Good Singing at All Meetings
Consisting of Solos, Duets, Trios, Quartets, etc.

Magnificent Art Illustrations
With Lime-Light Effects, produced by the Celebrated McIntosh-Binnacle Stereopticon at each night's meeting.

Everybody Invited.

CARRIAGE REPAIRING.

Campbell & Sons still on top. Best class of work promptly done. All kinds of carriage repairing, painting, trimming and blacksmithing of all kinds. Call on
CAMPBELL & SONS,
at Knoder's old stand, Auburn.

Money to Loan.

By F. L. Welsheimer. Best Building and Loan Association represented in Auburn. Money to loan in large or small sums on good security.

LINCOLN AS A LOVER

Abraham Lincoln's sentimental perplexities are to be shown in an article of singular interest in which John Gilmer Speed has written from unpublished letters of Lincoln to Joshua Speed, for the next issue of The Ladies' Home Journal. The article will show that the great President was not steady in his affairs of the heart, that he floundered in his love, and finallly induced his friend Speed to marry and tell him (Lincoln) whether marriage was a failure or not.

BARGAIN DAY.

Schaab Brothers have arranged for a big bargain day next Monday, Sept 23 at which they will sell a popular and extensive line of goods at prices greatly lower than usual. You can get a better idea of what they intend to do, by looking carefully over their ad. which we are publishing.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY.

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY,...SEPTEMBER 19, 1895.

Indiana's Back Seat

Illinois legislature gave $5,000 to pay the expenses of her governor and his staff and escort when they went south this week to assist in the dedication ceremonies at the Chicamauga Battlefield. Ohio gave $15,000 for McKinley's expenses, and he will take with him a whole regiment of Ohio soldiers. But the late lamented legislature of Indiana, evidently wanted to snub the best governor of the lot, and refused to appropriate a dollar for Gov. Mathews. He will go of course, but will have to pay his own expenses. Is not Gov. Matthews as worthy of a good showing in the great parade, as Gov. Altgeld? And we have enough faith in the people to believe they are willing to pay such items of expense. It is the narrow mindedness of Indiana legislatures more than the character of her soil or of her people, that has always made this great state look small, when compared with the people of other states. It gives to the world an impression that is just the opposite of the correct one. Indiana as a state, and her people as citizens are more than abreast of others. It is her fool legislatures that need changing.

Kutzner Reunion.

To-day at the elegant home of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Brandon, just north of town, occurred the Kutzner family reunion. David Kutzer, of Stark county, O., being here visiting, the remainder of the family thought it advisable to have all the children and other relatives present. The company assembled at about 12 o'clock, and an hour or so was spent in sitting around in the shade and listening to some of the older gentlemen tell stories of pioneer life. An invitation was given Mr. and Mrs. John Lochner of the COURIER and of course was cheerfully accepted. At a few minutes past one o'clock, the ladies announced that dinner was ready. The entire assemblage was escorted to the orchard where, under the shady trees a table was spread. And oh, what a feast for a newspaper man to sit down to. There were biscuit, butter, fried chicken, potatoe salad, celery, melons, cakes, pies, and a dozen other things that we didn't know the names of. About forty guests were served at this table and in an elegant names of. After all had done justice to the good things set before them, the guests returned to the house and most of them spent the afternoon in visiting. Of course a few of us were compelled to leave early and did not enjoy the afternoon's visit. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Brandon and Ulla and Artie, Geo. Wagoner and wife, John Grube and wife, Myron Kutzner, and wife, Cal. Kutzner and wife, Even Kutzner and wife, John Groscop and wife, Jeff Grube and wife, Mark Kutzner, and wife, Sylvester Kutzner and wife, Asa, Ora, Ira, Alva and Myron Brandon, with their wives, D. D. Moody, wife and daughter, Cal Grube and wife, Mrs Williman and daughter, Dell. Mrs. H. E. Richey, David Kutzner, Mrs. Ed. Wise and family, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Lochner. There were also present a large number of children whose names we did not learn.

MRS. G. P. KIBBE

Word came here this morning, that Mrs. G. P. Kibbe, formerly Miss Mattie Tomlinson, had died at her home in Indianapolis yesterday. Her father, Ex-Auditor T. H. Tomlinson had been with her and returned this morning. The case is a very sad one, as she was a bright, social young woman, one who had many warm friends here, and who made friends wherever she went. And it is but a year last November since her sister Laura, Mrs. Will Rose, died at New Carlisle and was brought home for burial. Mrs. Kibbe's disease was internal tumor that had been troubling her for a long time, and an operation to relieve her failed of the desired result, and she died in a short time. She was brought here on the 2:04 train over the Wabash this afternoon. Short services were held at the grave conducted by Rev. J. D. Brosy, under the auspices of the Rathbone sisters, she being a member of that order. The interment was in Evergreen cemetery.

PUBLIC SALE.

H. J. Mossey has a sale in front of Jno. Kruger's store Saturday of this week Sept. 21, at 10 a. m. Household goods, etc., etc.

J. E. Buchanan, who has purchased the Albion New Era, is the young man, who for some time studied law in the office of J. E. and J. H. Rose of this place. He is a young man of good character, and we think of fair ability. But the field he enters will try all his good qualities. As a friend to him and his family, the COURIER hopes he may succeed.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

WATERLOO FAIR.

This old and justly popular fair begins Oct., 7 and promises to be the most interesting meeting ever held on their grounds. Keep a sharp watch for next week's COURIER, and don't fail to read how $600 worth of prizes are absolutely given away to patrons of the fair. For information, write or call on the the secretary, M. Kiplinger at Waterloo.

Poor Journalism.

It is not often advisable for a newspaper to set itself against things that are in themselves, right. To sneer at religion or education, to belittlet hose who are trying to do good, is never wise and never right. Thus, in brief, we allude to a letter from New Era, in last week's Dispatch. Three items relating to the Sunday schools, etc. are:

"Small crowd at Cedar Chapel picnic, and the Butler Chapel carried the red ribbon of there was any to carry."

"Some of the Sunday School boys made some other Sunday School boys go home from the picnic with a bloody nose."

"Preaching at Cedar Creek Chapel Sunday, with a very small turnout. The Epworth League is still dragging along."

Such items are a slur on religion and religious things and even if true, are in bad taste. But the people down there, say they are not true in the main. A letter from one of our correspondents in Butler township calls them to account and we give the main part of it:

NEW ERA, IND., Sept. 13,

EDITOR COURIER,
Auburn Ind.,

DEAR SIR: I was very much surprised at the statements made in last week's Dispatch in regard to our Sunday school picnic, church services and Epworth League, for I don't see how they can be in any wise correct for our turnout on the picnic occasion was one of the largest at this point for several years past. And as to any one going home with a bloody nose that must have been made up out of nothing for there was the very best of order on the grounds all day. And as to any one school carrying the red ribbon I doubt if it could be told which was most entitled to such an honor for all the schools that took part did very nicely. But I think that the double quartet from Auburn were rather ahead unless it was that short address on Methodist ministers and chickens. I think that all of the Auburn folks who were present will bear me out in this.

As to the church services at Cedar Chapel last Sabbath afternoon I wish to say that we had more than usual in attendance and the Epworth League is growing stronger and more effectual each week.

I notice that the Dispatch correspondent is very liable to such mistakes as were made on the last week's items. I think if he would get out more and try to see some of the many goods things of life he would have less comments to make on others.

Since receiving this letter, we have had our attention called again to the article, by people of Butler township, as well as by church-going people in Auburn. And the COURIER agrees with them all, that journalism of this sort cannot be two earnestly protested against.

Tent Meeting

The Gospel Temperance Workers who open up a series of meetings in a large tent on the southeast corner of the public square next Saturday evening are winning praise from all kinds of people for the character of their work and the spirit manifested by them. At Ypsilanti Mich, after two weeks meetings the law and Order League of that city composed of men of all shades of political belief passed a series resolutions commending their work, citing the facts that their tent is large, well seated and lighted, the speaking eloquent: "the singing of a high and popular order, and their stereoptican exhibitions of a superior grade of art," and asking them to remain in that city "some days longer if consistent with their other engagements."

At Tecumseh, Mich., where the tent was located last week the business men of the city without regard to religious or political belief, closed their places of business earlier than usual on the date of the last meeting to give all person an opportunity to attend the meeting. The Tecumseh herald of last Friday, mentions their purpose to do so and adds:" "The willingness of our merchants to thus recognize the merit of Fanning's work, and assist in its execution speaks volumes for the regard in which he is held. Mr. Fanning has been clean and upright in his labors here and we predict a rousing house for him to-night.

The tent is at Jackson, Mich, this week where Messrs Fanning and Skinner reside, and is crowded nightly. It will be here in time for the first meeting of of the series on next Saturday night.

While no one will be refused admittance on account of lack of money, it is expected that all who can do so will put five or ten cents on plate at the entrance as they pass into the tent.

ROYAL Baking Powder. Highest of all in leavening strength.—U. S. Government Report.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BUTLER.

A report has gained wide circulation, that diphtheria prevails in Butler. A careful inquiry among our physicians fails to verify the truth. The health of the place perhaps was never better than at present.

Mrs. Ann E. Helwig was able to visit her son Jacob's family on the old farm last Sunday. The son and his two children, are confined to their beds by something approaching typhoid fever. This misfortune falls heavily upon him in his lonely condition, himself and all his family down sick with only hired help to care for them. Himself and little son, seem to be gaining, but his little daughter Florence is just commencing to be sick.

J. A. Campbell, wife and sons Charles and Emlin, visited the Hickfvillle fair last Thursday. The fair was well attended and the exhibits were decidedly good only the heat was almost 95 degrees in the shade, its anything but comfortable for strolling about a fair ground in the open sun.

A little son of James Love three miles north of town was very seriously injured one day last week by falling in front of mowing machine. His life is despaired of.

A very attractive young lady from Edgerton created a small sensation on our street last Sunday, by doing some rapid riding clad in rather close fitting bloomers. It was amusing to a gentlemen who accidentally accompanied her for a few miles to see the gentlemen on the walks turn their heads and watch her graceful movements. She seemed a perfect lady inspite of all of the gratuitous attention bestowed upon her.

Two of Butler's young ladies Miss Abrams and Miss Masters recently made a trip on wheels to Waldron, Mich. They speak in glowing terms of their trip and the enjoyment it afforded them They came home none the worse for the long ride only a little darker color in the face and hands.

John Baily has bought Eli Mutzfeld's south side residence and will take early possession. His wife remains in poor health.

Cosper Altenburg of Litle Rock Arkansas with his family are visiting Butler friends.

CORUNNA.

Miss Minnie Weimer visited Rev, and Mrs. Sumwalt of Orland last week.

Henry Quince is building a fine residence in Corunna.

Milo Thomas is rushing his new building along pretty lively.

Mrs. Jesse Shook who has been down sick for several weeks is up and around again. Dr. Phillips attended her.

Mrs. Jockins put in a new crossing in front of his property last week.

Mrs. John Griffith returned home last Saturday from an extended visit in Ohio

New Postal Laws

The following resume of some of the postal laws will be interesting to our readers:

A pair of onions will go for two cents.

Ink bottles must be corked when sent by mail.

It is unsafe to mail apple or fruit trees with the fruit on them.

Alligators over ten feet in length are not allowed to be transmitted by mail.

As all postmasters are expert linguists the addresses may be written in Chinese or Choctaw.

Persons are compelled to lick their own postage stamps and envelopes; many a good tongue has been ruined in the postoffice business.

Persons are earnestly requested not to send postal cards with money orders enclosed in them, as large sums are lost in this way.

John Smith gets his mail from 674,279 postoffices; hence a letter directed to John Smith, United States, will reach him.

Ducks cannot be sent through the mails alive. Their quacking would disturb the slumbers of the clerks on the postal cars.

It is requested that lovers writing to their girls confine their hapsodies to the inside of the envelopes.

Nitro-glycerine must be sent at the sender's risk. If it should blow up in the postmaster's hands he cannot be held responsible.

When watches are sent through the mail, if the sender will put a notice on the outside, the postmasters will wind and keep them in running order.

When you send a money order in a letter always write full and explicit directions in the same letter, so that any person getting the letter can draw the money.

When letters are received bearing no direction the persons for whom they are intended will please signify the fact to the postmaster that they may at once be forwarded.

The placing of stamps upside down on letters is prohibited. Several postmasters have been seriously injured trying to stand on their heads to cancel stamps placed in this manner.

AGENTS WANTED!
To Take Orders.
Trade established, position permanent, weekly pay. WE PAY LIBERAL SALARY AND EXPENSES TO SUCCESSFUL AGENTS. Now is the best time to start. For terms write quickly. ELLWANGER & BARRY, Rochester, N.Y.
Mount Hope Nurseries. Established 1840.

Good Business
DOESN'T COME OF ITSELF.

It comes by selling the Right Kind of CLOTHING
at prices that makes it an object to you to be a customer of Yesbera's Clothing House.

Did You Ever
hear of an advertiser that did not lay claim to having the BEST? It is not for your interest to let him be the judge.

WE MAKE NO SUCH ASSERTIONS,
But will state that our trade increases from year to year to such an extent that we felt justified in increasing our stock of Clothing and furnishings to more than twice the amount ever carried before. You can find no better assortment in the cities. We kindly invite you to inspect our stock and get our prices.

ONCE A CUSTOMER, ALWAYS A CUSTOMER.

YESBERA'S
MAMMOTH CLOTHING HOUSE.

ASTHMA, CATARRH, BRONCHITIS,
Are positively cured by
BOOTH'S HYOMEI "DRI-AYR"
TRADE MARK

326 West 33rd St. New York, July 22, 1895.

Dear Mr. Booth:
Mrs Stryker and I use the little Pocket Inhaler daily, and we regard it as a splendid companion. One of us has suffered many years with asthma, and the other from difficulty in breathing. After using Hyomei for nearly a month, we both find ourselves greatly relieved, and we are recommending the remedy to our friends.

REV. DR. PETER STRYKER
Pastor 34thSt. Reformed Church

THE AUSTRALIAN DRY-AIR CURE FOR HAY FEVER, BRONCHITIS, DIPTHERIA, CATARRH, ASTHMA. ETC.

The air, thoroughly charged with Hyomei is inhaled through the Pocket Inhaler at the mouth, and, after permeating the minutest air cells, is slowly exhaled through the nose. It is aromatic, delightful to inhale, inexpensive, and gives immediate relief. It stops all spasmodic coughing instantly, clears the voice, expands the lungs and increases the breathing capacity.

For sale by all first-class druggists, or POCKET INHALER OUTFIT COMPLETE, BY MAIL, $1 00,

With full directions for use. If you are still skeptical, send me your address, and my pamphlet shall prove that HYOMEI does cure Are you open to conviction?

B. D. ANGELL, No. 11 Arcade, Ft. Wayne, Ind.
Gen. Agent for Northern Indiana.

Scared by Cars

Mr. Sponhouer of Jackson township, and his daughter, Hattie were in town to day, each had a separate rig and the daughter being a little in advance, as she approached the point where the wagon road crosses the Wabash track, Mr. S. saw the train coming. He tried to make his daughter notice it. but being hard of hearing, she did not hear his calls, and the horse and train almost met. As the train tore past the horse, the latter swung around furiously, and threw the lady out down the embankment. She was considerably hurt, and was taken to Dr. Nusbaum's office where she received proper care. The horse got loose from the buggy and ran up through town and was only stopped by running into the delivery wagon of Hebel Brothers.

OBITUARY.

John Henry Dawson was born in DeKalb county, Ind., Sept. 24, 1879, died August 31, 1895, at the age of 15 years, 11 months and 7 days. At the age of nine years, he sought the Lord, and was converted, uniting with the U. B. church, of which he was an active, earnest member till death called him away from labor to reward. His life was an exemplary one, and his dying words, were "Weep not for me. All is well" He bade all farewell, saying he hoped to meet all with outstretched arms to welcome them to that blissful shore to dwell with Jesus.

The funeral was at the M. E. church in Corunna, Sept 2, at 10 a. m. services by Rev. Geo. Edgar of Wauseon and Rev. J. D. Snyder of Waterloo. He was laid to rest in the cemetery at Corunna.

We wish to thank one and all of our dear neighbors for their great kindness and sympathy in this grievous bereavement.

W. C. Dawson,
Laura McClellan Dawson.

First National Bank
AUBURN, INDIANA
Capital and Surplus, $60,000.00.
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest 4 per cent per annum, on time deposits County and town orders bought. Money to loan.
C. A. O. McCLELLAN, President.
CHAS. McCLELLAN, Cashier.

Notice of Attachement.

STATE OF INDIANA } ss:
DeKalb County.

Hubert S. Belden, William A. Keener, vs. The Burwell Shoe Co. } Before Jacob Walborn, Justice of the Peace of Union twp. in said county,

THE Burwell Shoe company is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them before said Justice of the Peace by Hubert S. Belden and William A. Keener on account wherein they claim the sum of $15 21 and that attachment has been issued and a summons in garnishee proceeding had and answer filed by garnishee with assets in their hands. That said cause will be determined on the 3d day of October, 1895, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of said day.

Witness my hand and official seal this 12th day of September, 1895.

JACOB WALBORN,
Justice of the Peace. (SEAL)

McClellan Garwood & McClellan Attorneys for Plaintiffs.
37-39

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIANA, DeKalb County, ss:

IN the DeKalb Circuit Court, October term, 1895

James Stuart, impleaded with others is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, on suit on assignment of claim by Frank Smith and that the same will be heard and determined on the 11th day of November, 1895, being the 31st juridical day of the next term of said court, which commences October 7th, 1895.

Witness, The clerk of said court, this 5th day of September, 1895.

37-39 DANIEL D. MOODY, Clerk.
Baxter, Brown & Mountz, Attorneys.

Administrator's Sale of Real Estate.

NOTICE is hereby given, that I, Samuel A. Squires, as administrator of the estate of Nathan Squires, deceased, will on on the real estate to be sold, pursuant to the order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, state of Indiana, offer for sale to the highest and best bidder, the following described real estate; to-wit: The southeast quarter (¼), of the northeast quarter (¼) of section twenty-two (22) in township thirty-three (33) north, range thirteen (13) east, in DeKalb county, state of Indiana, and also the southwest fourth (¼) of the northeast quarter (¼) of said section twenty two (22) excepting eight acres of land off the west end of said last above described tract.

Saturday, the 12th Day of October, 1895

Said real estate will be sold in parcels as above described at not less than two-thirds (⅔) of its appraise value, on the following terms, to-wit, one-third, cash in hand on the day of sale; one-third in twelve months, and one-third in eighteen month from the day of sale, the deferred payments to be evidenced by the purchaser's notes waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws and bearing interest at the rate of six per cent. per annum from the date of sale until paid and secured by a mortgage on the premises sold.

Said sale wil begin at the hour of ten o'clock in the forenoon of said day and continue until said real estate is sold.

Dated this 7th day of September, 1895.

SAMUEL A. SQUIRES, Administrator of the estate of Nathan Squires, deceased.
J. E. & J. H. ROSE, Att'ys for Estate.

Trustee's Notice.

I will be in my office for the transaction of township business on Saturday of each week. All who have business with me should bear in mind and call on that day.

W. S. DANCER,
Trustee of Jackson township.

B. & O. Excursion

On September 24 and October 2 the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will sell 30-day Excursion Tickets to points on Virginia on the Harper's Ferry & Valley Branch, south of and including Winchester, at rate of one fare for the round trip, plus $2.00. Excursion Tickets will also be sold to points in the West on September 24 and to points in the South on October 2 at very low rates.

On September 26 the B. & O. will sell excursion tickets to Mansfield, Mt. Vernon, Lodi Wooster, Creston, Warwick, Akron, Kent, Ravenna, Warren, Niles, Orrville and Massilon, Ohio at rate of $3.00 for the round trip.

Tickets will also be sold to Youngstown, Ohio, and return at rate of $6.60.

Tickets will be good for return until October 31, 1895

For full information in regard to rates, stop over privileges and time of trains, call on or address any B. & O. Ticket Agent, or L. S. Allen, Ass't. Gen. Pass'r. Agent, Chicago, Ill.

This Week the Fall Season gets its Beginning

BISHOP & LACKEY

were never before so thoroughly prepared to meet the season. Everything new, everything secured under the most favorable conditions. It's a September opening, calling out all our enthusiasm and finding us ready to awaken yours.

MEN'S UNDERWEAR.

Cotton and fleeced, natural and white wool, in plain and Jersey ribbed. Noted for their purity, elasticity and durability.

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR.

A choice collection of fleeced cotton, patent merino, merino wool, all wool, in plain and ribbed fabrics.

CHILDREN'S UNDERWEAR.

in attractive variety at a popular range of prices, in camel's hair, natural wool and bleached XX Australian wool.

INFANTS' UNDERWEAR.

Jersey ribbed wrappers in white merino and all wool of every desirable quality.

HOSIERY

An extensive line in domestic and foreign cotton, merino and cashmere, to which we invite your special attention.

BLANKETS.

Enough pairs to supply all the housewives of DeKalb county. Good, substantial blankets, with pretty borders, and the weight, widths and lengths are just as the ticket says. If you buy now there's considerable saving. In many instances more than you will expect.

EVERYTHING AS REPRESENTED.

Bishop & Lackey,

LEADING MERCHANTS

LOST - MANHOOD - RESTORED!

—BY THE USE OF—

Dr. LagrOes Nerve and Brain Pills.

The Greatest Remedy Known in Mental Overwork.

Sexual Debility, Nightly Emissions, Youthful Errors and Lost Manhood, Excessive Use of Opium and Tobacco all of which leads to insanity if not checked. Sent by mail or express prepaid on receipt of $1 per box; 3 boxes $2.50; 6 boxes $6.00. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded on receipt of price.

J. D. CAMPBELL, General Agent for Indiana, WATERLOO, INDIANA.

MONEY - TO - LOAN

On Real Estate Security,

In large or small ammounts at a low rate of Interest, long or short time. No Commission.

Inquire at Farmers Bank,

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE

To all lands in DeKalb County, Indiana at reasonable rates. I have the only set of Abstract Books in the County. Also Mortgages, Deeds and Notary Public Work of all kinds promptly attended to.

Inquire at Auditor or Surveyor's office, Auburn, or leave orders at Postoffice, Garrett.

J. P. Crimmins.
Abstracter and Notary Public.

Albert Robbins, Pres. J. C. Henry, V. P

FARMERS BANK.

Capital Stock.--
--$45,000.00.

—UNDER STATE SUPERVISION.—

Transacts a general banking business. Interest paid on time deposits by agreement. Collections receive careful attention. Business solicited.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

I. O. BUCHTEL, Homeopathic Physician and Surgeon.

Special attention given to chronic and obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.

Office and residence over Smith & Madden's marble works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, night or day.

DR. A. F. PHILLIPS,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

CORUNNA — — INDIANA

Office formerly occupied by Dr. Rudolph. Calls promptly answered at all times

DR. W. W. CAREY,

AUBURN, - - INDIANA

Office on Second Floor Kiblinger Building formerly occupied by the COURIER.

CALLS ANSWERED PROMPTLY.

Can be found in office both Day and Night.

CASH PAID FOR

SCRAP CAST IRON

AT THE

AUBURN FOUNDRY.

Used for Years.

John G. Mauger, editor of the Sunbeam, Seligman, Mo., who named Grover Cleveland for the Presidency in Nov. 1882, while he was mayor of Buffalo, N. Y., is enthusiastic in his praise of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says: "I have used it for the past five years and consider it the best preparation of the kind in the market. It is as staple as sugar and coffee in this section. It is an article of merit and should be used in every household. For sale by Robbins and McCord, druggists. 36-9

For Sprains and Bruises.

Irvin W. Larimore, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one half the time usually required. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists. 36 39

Sleepless Nights.

Who, but those who have had the unhappy experience, can tell the horrors or appreciate the unhappy exprience of persons troubled with sleeplessness? The damnable hatred of all the demons in hell for mankind must surely be appeased by the consciousness of such human suffering. The long, [illegible] unhappy hours, who can describ[illegible] why is it necessary? If [illegible] ten troubled you know [illegible] and if you have been spared [illegible] interest in the knowledge of such suffering.

Mrs. A. Bateham, Romulus, Mich., after describing her suffering from sleeplessness extending over a period of eight years, receiving at times only about twelve hours' sleep in a week, writes of Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer as follows: "I began taking it in common doses and the first night I slept eight hours and had a nap the next day. Every night since I have slept eight or ten hours. Oh, how thankful I am for having had Dr. Wheeler's Nerve Vitalizer brought to my notice and for the benefit received from it. Stop and think, eight years of sleeplessness, and cured in a day, does it not seem like a miracle?" This medicine is equally as effective in curing nervous prostration, spasms, fits, sleeplessness, mental depression, exhausted vitality, despondency, sexual and general debility. For sale by F. E. Davenport, druggist. 36 39.

Wednesday's Daily.

Remember a full line of school Books Indiana Series at Fischler's Pharmacy opposite Swineford House. d6w3

Miss Mae Bruce and Mrs. Nettie Madden of Butler were in the city to day the guests of friends.

New subscribers to the weekly show that people find it improved since we have a DAILY. It contains more original matter.

Severe griping pains of the stomach and bowels instantly and effectually stopped by DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure.

The following marriage license have been granted Sept. 5, John H. Luttman, and Lola Hamilton, Sept, 6, Chas. T. Rogers, and Sorah Vanzile, Sept. 7, Frederick Zentz and Malindy Oberlin, Sept. 11, Frank Bowman, and Vernie Kinney.

W. A. Austin, who took treatment some few years ago for long standing rheumatism of Dr. D. J. Swarts at the Sanitarium, in town to-day, and called on old acquaintances. He is now one of Ashley's popular business men and enjoying the best of health.

Diarrhœa should be stopped promptly. It soon becomes chronic. DeWitt's Colic and Cholera Cure is effective, safe and certain. Hundreds of testimonials bear witness to the virtue of this great medicine. It can alway be depended upon, its use saves time and money.

Thursday's Daily.

Geo Lanning has moved his office over Bishop & Lackeys' Store,

Mrs. Phil Plum came down from Waterloo this afternoon.

Frank Borst returned Tuesday evening, having remained till after his father's funeral.

Mrs. James Henderson is sick at the home of her son, Frank, in Jackson township.

The Waterloo Press is almost crazy over Cleveland for a third term. Such truck will do to fill up.

Mrs. W. L. Penfield returned to-day from Bucyrus, O., where she was called by the death of her brother.

The veterans are having a big time at Louisville. It is one of the largest meetings they have ever had, and the people there are giving them a royal welcome.

Word comes from all over the country that the heat is excessive. It certainly is here. But if we can stand it, the growing corn will soon be ripe, and then let the frost come.

Butler Free Street Fair Sept. 24, 25, 26, and 27. Half rates on the Wabash Railroad from all points. The fare from Auburn is 32 cents for the round trip.

Cholera Morbus is a dangerous complaint, and often is fatal in its results. To avoid this you should use DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure, as soon as the first symptoms appear.

Miss Anna Hotchkiss the trimmer of the Bishop & Lackey store is back and at her post again. She brings with her all the latest styles and ideas that are to prevail during the season now beginning.

D. Y. Husselman has moved his law office to rooms over Bishop & Lackey's store, and here his clients will find him hereafter. Mr. Gugerli will move his family into the rooms over the store.

A. G. Lodewick has over 12,000 strawberry plants, and all growing nicely. He keeps them well cultivated and they will no doubt produce a big crop next spring. He will soon have a fine, and we believe a profitable, fruit farm.

Mort Hilkey has nearly recovered from a long spell of sickness, and with his family will go out to his father's to-day and spend a week on the farm. We are glad to note, however, that he is rapidly improving.

I. M. Zent, the genial Wabash agent, is having some repairs made on his residence property at the south end of Jackson street. A second story will be added to a part of the house. A furnace will also be put in. When all is completed he will have a model residence.

George Boland left this morning for Lafayette where he will enter the Purdue University. George has been employed in the office at the Eckhart factory and is an industrious young man. We are glad to see him enter college and better prepare himself to battle with the world.

Ten years ago to day E. T. DeLapp took charge of the Lake Shore office, at this place. He has been a trusted employe ever since. When he took the office it only paid $35, but during the ten years business has increased to the extent, that justified the company in paying a larger salary.

Milwaukee is going to celebrate its fiftieth year, and the committee was instructed to invite all governors of states belonging in the original "Northwest Territory." The committee refused to invite the governor of Illinois as his state was not in that designated territory. Milwaukee should send for some primary pupils from Indiana.

A. M. Bailey, a well known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhœa and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

To Cure a Cold.

While in Chicago, Mr. Charles L. Kahler, a prominent shoe merchant of Des Moines, Iowa, had quite a time of it. He took such a severe cold that he could hardly talk or navigate, but the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough remedy cured him of his cold so quickly that others at the hotel who had bad colds followed his example and half a dozen persons ordered it from the nearest drug store. They were profuse in their thanks to Mr. Kahler for telling them how to cure a bad cold so quickly. For sale by Robbins & McCord, druggists.

Friday's Daily.

Cooler to-day. The change is very welcome.

They are cheap at 50c at Bishop & Lackey's.

Parties in Chicago are beginning to deliver goods on a tricycle.

We will take pleasure in showing them at Bishop & Lackey's.

E. S. Johns of Columbia City is here to day, visting his daughter, Mrs. Welsheimer.

A. B. Richard is collecting the delinquent taxes in this part of the county, for Treasurer Fair.

Col. I. N. Walker, of Indiana is the new commander-in-chief of the G. A. R. for next year. The next meeting will be at St. Paul.

Mrs. Milo Calkins returned last night from Aultman, O., where she was called by the sickness and death of her father.

Thomas Chandler has moved back to Waterloo again from Noble county as we see in a recent note from him.

Miss Alza Reynold of Butler was the guest yesterday of Miss Helen Ralston, a clerk at Bishop & Lackey's store.

There is no doubt, no failure, when you take DeWitt's & Cholera Cure. It is pleasant, acts promptly, no bad after effects.

Columbia City Mail:—Ralph Moody played with the Columbia City club at North Manchester and will be with them to-morrow in the game here. Moody is a sure hard hitter.

Easy to take, sure to cure, no pain, nothing to dread, pleasant little pills. DeWitt's Little Early Risers. Best for Sick Headache, Biliousness, Sour Stomach and Constipation.

Butter and eggs wanted at the PRINCESS store, four doors north of Farmers Bank. 37-39

Ex-deputy Sheriff R. Bloom of Garrett was in the city a few hours this morning. He took the 9:34 train for Ft. Wayne.

Kendallville fair is Sept 30 to Oct 4 They always have a good fair. For information address J. S. Conlogue, secretaro.

The Wabash railroad will sell tickets to the Butler Free Street Fair at a rate of one fare for the round trip. That's cheap enough! We'll all go.

Children, especially infants are soon run down with Cholera Infantum or "Summer Complaint." Don't wait to determine, but give DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure promptly, you can rely on it. Use no other.

Elkhart City has just been beaten in a suit for damages brought by Mrs. Mary Jenkins, for damages she sustained from a runaway team. The case had been taken over to Lagrange. She gets $1000.

The Epworth League of Ayrlla have secured Chaplain Lozier to give his lecture at that place some time during the latter part of September.

Thurston, the new Senator from Nebraska ate too much green corn and watermelon, and got the colic as bad as common people.

A farmer in Illinois has gone insane because he had refused to sell his corn when he could have got fifty cents a bushel, but waited and had to sell it for twenty cents. It is a thing that often occurs,—except the going insane.

The will of Mr. Borst's father, as we learn from the Canton, Ohio, Repository, divides his property into seven parts. One seventh goes to his second wife, one to a brother and the rest, a seventh each to his five children.

Henry Strouss, a saloon keeper at Columbia City has published a notice that he will prosecute Charles E. Brown and Joseph Brown, the latter the father of the former, for misrepresenting the age of the former, for the purpose of securing beer in his place of business.

Saturday's Daily.

Any size you want for 50c at Bishop & Lackey's.

A. Lewis returned to-day from his trip up to Petosky, Mich. He left Mrs. Lewis and Harry up there. Harry is much improved in health.

Mrs. James Lewis was up at Pleasant Lake several days this week, visiting her mother who has been quite sick but is now improving. Mrs. L. returned home to-day.

Thomas S. Lewis, of Albion visited his son, James Lewis, a few days this week. Mr. Lewis was postmaster at Albion under Cleveland's first administration, and is a prominent citizen there.

Mrs. Carrie Wright of Phœnixville, Pa. reached here to day, and will be a guest in the COURIER family, who are relatives She will be remembered as Miss Carrie Smith who has visited here several times.

Henry Wolf, Joe Culler, W. H. Fair and several others went to Lagrange to attend the reunion of their regiment the old 100th. They had a splendid time of course. The next year they go to Kendallville.

Word was received here to-day of the death of Miss Allie Ross at Ft, Wayne. She was a cousin of J. C. Lochner. Mrs. Ettie Potter, and Mrs. Annie Beaty. The two latter went down to Wayne this afternoon and will attend the funeral which will be held at the Berry street M. E. church to-morrow.

Some funny things happen now a-days. Recently one of the young ladies who teaches in our high school was somewhat annoyed by the prattling of a few of her scholars. She pleasantly said to them, "Hold your Tongurs." All was quiet for a short time when suddenly the children began to snicker all over the room. Upon inquiry, as to what was the matter, as every teacher would, she was informed that a boy was actually holding his tongue He had a firm hold with his right hand. She evidently knew that one boy was up to such tricks and exclaimed, "That's you again, is it, Paul?"

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
Awarded Gold Medal Midwinter Fair, San Francisco.

Monday's Daily.

Mr. and Mrs. John Zimmerman will go to Chattanooga, Tenn., Thursday.

Miss Jennie Showalter of Butler was the guest over Sunday of Miss Blanche Shilling.

Mrs. Luhman of Ft. Wayne, cousin of Mrs. Sophia Snell came up to-day to visit a week.

Martin Hook, an old friend of the COURIER was here Saturday for a short time.

Will Eckhart has returned from a trip through Wisconsin in the interest of the Eckhart Carriage Factory.

Mrs. L. D. Nelson, of Jackson township, was the guest Saturday of the Keeran Sisters.

Old Mrs. Timberlin a former resident of this county but now of Payne, O., was in the city Saturday.

Gov. Matthews has accepted an invitation to visit the Kendallville fair Thursday, Oct. 3.

Columbia City is to have a third daily paper. The Post will issue a daily beginning the first of next month.

Goshen and Elkhart will be connected by an electric railway in ninety days. The contract for building it was let last week.

Geo. M. Henderson went down to Columbia City this morning. He is reporting an important case that is in court there.

You are respectfully invited to attend the Kendallville fair Sept. 30 to Oct. 4. It will be the finest exhibition ever held by that association.

J. J. Martin and wife came over from Albion Sunday and spent the day with the COURIER family. They have many acquaintances and friends here.

Commissioner Hague and aged mother left this morning for Chattanoogo, Tenn., where they will attend the dedication of Chickamauga Military Park.

L. B. Fretz came down from Goshen Saturday, called here by the shooting of his father, John Fretz. We presume he will stay till the latter is out of danger.

Stomach and Bowel Complaints are best relieved by the timely use of DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. Insist on having this preparation. Don't take any other.

Miss Hotchkiss having just returned from the east, will be at home to her friends and the public generally during the Autumn months, in Bishop & Lackey's millinery department.

There was a heavy frost in Northern and Central New York State Sunday morning, and some damage was done to crops, especially to late grapes, of which they have an abundance.

October 15, 16, 17 and 18, are the dates for the Centennial Celebration at Fort Wayne. It will be 101 years from the time Gen. Wayne built the old fort near meeting of the two rivers. They expect to have the grandest blowout in the history of the city.

Cooks Hippodrome, an attraction consisting of 13 horses and 8 people, has been secured for the entire week of the Kendallville fair. Roman standing races, skeleton wagon races, tandem races, riderless horse races, horses vs. hounds, bucking horses, lassoing horses, race for a bride, and many other novel and thrilling events.

Ralph Moody went over to Columbia City last evening, to be there to-day, to join their ball club, which he will remain with the rest of the week. He plays with them in Huntington Monday and Tuesday and at Columbia City Wednesday and Thursday. Ralph is getting quite a name as a ball player.

Captain A. M. Atkinson, of Wabash, trustee of the Chase memorial fund has purchased for Mrs. Chase a fine residence in Wabash, Mrs. Chase will remove from Indianapolis the first of the coming month. Her home is in a desirable location and will be comfortably fitted up for her reception.

S. Z. Dickinson writes from Chippewa Lake, up in Michigan, that they have a very poor farming country up there, that there is so much sand, and so many hills, they cannot travel more than three miles an hour. Farmers do not seem to be prospering at all and there is no fruit DeKalb county is the place after all.

Albion begins work on a combined electric light and waterworks plant this week. The contract is let to the Fort Wayne Jenney company for $27,000. The citizens take stock to the amount of $10,000 and the Ft. Wayne folks take the rest. The town will however control the plant and eventually pay for it and own it. This is the proper way to do.

It is reported that the Lake Shore railroad is to have an early morning train out of Ft. Wayne an innovation which has long been wished for by Fort Wayne people. It is said that the "plug run" from Kendallville to Toledo will be changed making that city the starting point. Connection will be had with the main line at Waterloo, thence through to Toledo. The proposed change will meet with unqualified favor among our people, especially the business classes and traveling men, to whom the want of an early morning train to the north has long been evident.

A Chicago repairer of disabled bicycles announces his speciality in the following facetious handbill: "Bicycle surgery. Acute and chronic cases treated with assurance of success. Languid tires restored to health and vigor. Tires blown up without pain. Wind free. We understand the anatomy, physiology and hygiene of wheels, and give homeopathic or alopathic treatment as individual cases require. Sure cure guaranteed. Testimonials: My wheel had three ribs fractured and you cured it in one treatment.' 'My tires were suffering with a case of acute aneurism, which had been pronounced fatal by other bicycle doctors, but you cured the disorder, and I did not lose a day of my tour.' I was troubled with varicose tires, involving frequent ruptures and incontinence of wind You cured me.' "Thousands of testimonials like the above sent on application."

Tuesday's Daily.

"Auburn Day" at Butler in Sept. 27.

Kendallville fair Sept. 30 to Oct. 4.

Hippodrome riding every day at the Butler Free Street Fair by the youngest riders in the world.

Big drove of Shetland ponies at the Butler street fair next week.

Frank, Belle and Nellie Shoemaker drove to Waterloo Sunday and were the guests of friends.

The Fair at Ligonier begins Sept. 24 continues 4 days. Don't forget it.

The Butler Free Street Fair will run day and night next week.

Decorated dinner plates, 50 cents a set cups and saucers same, at Olds Bros'.

Premium lists for the Butler Free Street Fair can be had at Brown, Culbertson and Boland's.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Dawson of Richland were in town to-day.

Remember the Fair at Ligonier Sept 24 to 27.

Miss Elmyra Watson has taken a position in the Schaab Brothers Dry Good store as clerk.

Special trains for the Ligonier Fair Sept. 25 26 and 27. See time card in another column.

THE PRINCESS have added a full grocery stock to their department store. Don't fail to visit them. 37-39

Mrs. A. J. Carmer a mile and a quarter east of town, will have a sale of personal property on Saturday Sept. 28. Don't forget it.

Mrs. T. C. Ford and daughter Maggie, went to Fort Wayne this morning Maggie will enter Westminster Seminary.

Friday of next week is "Auburn Day" at the Butler street fair. All get ready and go over and see the sights, and enjoy the fun.

John Fretz is holding his own, but this hot weather will not be in his favor. He has the best quality of pluck and that will help him.

S. Z. Dickinson of Waterloo writes the COURIER from South Haven, Mich., where he and his wife have now gone, as a part of their Michigan visit.

A large desk blotter 20x24 free to business men at Walter C. Hartman's Leading Fire Insurance Agency. He has nine strong companies, with over $40,000,000 assets. dwlw

The Standard Sewing Machine is without a doubt the best machine for a family now on the market. Why? Because they run easy, fast, quiet and are the most durable. d3tw38-40

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Zimmerman and daughter Bessie, left to-day for Chattanooga, Tenn. They will also visit their son George Zimmerman at Sherman Heights. They will read the DAILY while there.

If the locals seem few to-day, lay it to the fact that J. C. Lochner of the COURIER is out at the Kutzner reunion, and what with a good time and a big dinner we presume he will come home like "granther's gun," "busted."

Rumor of a terrible tragedy comes up from Whitley county. A small postoffice not far from Columbia City was broken into last night, robbed, and the postmaster killed. Judge McClellan has just returned from there but could not remember the name of the postoffice.

Miss Helen Ralston was at Columbia City over Sunday, to attend the wedding of Miss Grace Baker, daughter of J. W. Baker of the Commercial. The fortunate groom is George Shaffer, of Monticello, White County, which place we suppose will be their home.

We found John Picker this morning apparently breaking into the First National Bank. He was opening a new door way through the brick wall into the bank office, giving access from the street. We believe the room will be fitted up for a law office for D. A. Garwood who is going again into the active practice of the law.

"Be regular and punctual in all things" was one of the old maxims, taught long ago. The last is not forgotten, but the first is scarce remembered, so irregular is the life of most people nowadays. The only corrector of this evil is Simmons Liver Regulator, which keep the liver active and prevents the ills of irregular living: Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Constipation, etc. It also cures these troubles.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

THE KING SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR

Reader, did you ever take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR, the "KING OF LIVER MEDICINES?" Everybody needs take a liver remedy. It is a sluggish or diseased liver that impairs digestion and causes constipation, when the waste that should be carried off remains in the body and poisons the whole system. That dull, heavy feeling is due to a torpid liver. Biliousness, Headache, Malaria and Indigestion are all liver diseases. Keep the liver active by an occasional dose of Simmons Liver Regulator and you'll get rid of these troubles, and give tone to the whole system. For a laxative Simmons Liver Regulator is BETTER THAN PILLS. It does not gripe, nor weaken, but greatly refreshes and strengthens.

Every package has the Red Z stamp on the wrapper. J. H. Zeilin & Co., Philadelphia.

Half Rates to Kendallville Fair.

Account of the Eastern Indiana Fair Sept. 30 to Oct. 4 the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets to Kendallville and return at one fare for the round trip. Ask Agents. 38 39

Ask to see them, at Bishop & Lackey's.

Kendallville fair Sept. 30 to Oct. 4.

Have you seen those pretty caps for the children at Cowan Sisters.

Attend the fair at Kendallville. Big premiums, fine races and great attractions.

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder
World's Fair Highest Medal and Diploma.

If you want a new hat that is "up to date" in every respect, go to Cowan Sisters. w1t4t

A special train will run to the Kendallville fair from Auburn Junction on Thursday Oct. 3.

There will be no preaching service at the Lutheran church next Sabbath Sept. 29.

If you are in need of a watch there is no better place on earth to buy one than at F. J. Yesbera's jewelry store.

If your bicycle needs repairing take it ty F. J. Yesbera's jewelry store and have it done right. d3tw38-40

Write to J. S. Conlogue, Secretary of the Kendallville fair, for a premium list and full particulars.

The fall is here and so are the new hats at Cowan Sisters.

If you try a Standard Sewing Machine and get the good points about it you will buy no other. d3tw38-40

Mrs. Leas has spent two weeks in the wholesale house and is amply able to show you the rarest novelties shown in the millinery for the coming season.

Best on earth only 50c at Bishop & Lackey s.

Kendallville fair Sept. 30 to Oct. 4.

F. J. Yesbera, the Auburn jeweler, sells the Standard Sewing Machine. He always handles the best of everything.

If you want to buy dwelling property or vacant lots see list following Walter Hartman's card. He has some bargains. dwtf

Why should a young man or woman ambitious to rise in life hesitate about expense when the Fayette Normal University at Fayette, O. offers such excellent educational advantages at so small an outlay? Any kind of literary, musical, or business training with many other lines of work is offered.

Arrangements were made to-day for the Wilde family to give their concert here in the M. E. church Sept. 28th. This family is composed of the parents and five children. The children range in age from 5 to 14 years. They all take part in the orchestra, with either violin, cornet, or violoncello. The 12 year old girl is a soprano soloist of rare ability, watch for further particulars.

ONCE MORE

The Fall is here, and with it the usual extensive line of

MILLINERY

for the coming season may be seen at

Cowan Sisters'.

We cordially invite you to

INSPECT OUR GOODS

and assure you satisfaction in Styles and Prices.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. [illegible] PUBLISHER.

They call it "cholerine" in Japan, but it kills just as cholera used to.

If the St. Louis is really a fast ship what would she have been with some other name?

Japan has agreed to civilize China. This seems to be an infringement on England's prerogatives.

Thirsty New Yorkers have to acknowledge Roosevelt is acting under color of the laws. This is why they're blue.

It is not surprising that President Cleveland is fond of sleep. No man can be the father of three babies without learning how to appreciate it.

James F. Knght and Miss Marie Day were married in Baltimore. It is, however, no evidence that the city needs a Civic Federation because it turns Day into Knight.

The Boston Herald editorially refers to "Joachim Miller, the poet of the Sierras." We don't blame Joaquin for making an advertising outbreak if he isn't better known than that.

Mr. Madison's hired girl has a new pair of shoes.—Grafton (N. D.) Record. The newspaper that wins is the one which keeps close to the people. The Record is headed in the right directon.

Japanese postmen, whose routes carry them into the country, use bicycles. Their wheels are made by local manufacturers, who have appropriated improvements from both British and American patents.

In Butte, Mont., the other day a bank clerk fired three shots at a robber, the robber fired four at a pursuing policeman, and the policeman shot five times at the fugitive. Nobody hurt. Times are not what they used to be.

Two Englishmen have been given $10,000 apiece for discovering argon in the atmosphere. If they will go to Chicago we believe they can easily discover more different things in the atmosphere than science ever dreamed of.

Many persons continue to doubt the efficacy of electricity as an agency for killing criminals. They assert that it merely stuns and does not kill. If New York could make arrangements hereafter to expose its murderers to a stroke of genuine lightning it might satisfy these doubters, even if it could not prevent the further use of that dreadful word electrocution.

The story is told that a Michigan woman had a very fashionable silk waist made, which she sent to her sister in a little Western Kansas town. She received in reply a letter of thanks, in which the sister said that she found the sleeves much larger than her thin arms needed, and she had cut them over, getting enough out to make her 5-year-old girl a dress. "You must have thought I had awful fat arms," the sister out West wrote.

A farm agent of Macon County, Missouri, has adopted a novel method of securing business. He has issued a general letter to residents of the county stating that he has not the time to call upon them nor the inclination to bore them regarding insurance, but if they happen in his city and are then needing or will require insurance within a reasonable length of time he will be glad to pay 25 cents for a fifteen minutes' interview. He states that $1 an hour is good pay and invites all to call.

If reports are to be believed there is valid excuse for the young unmarried men of Selma, Ala., to remain single for the rest of their natural lives. It seems that the new woman has assumed such imperious control in that town that the City Council has passed an ordinance making it a misdemeanor for married men to appear upon the streets after 9 p. m., unless provided with a written permit from their wives. At this rate it may soon become necessary for the establishment of a society for the prevention of cruelty to husbands.

There died recently in Moscow a man who, in the last twenty years, gave five millions of dollars to charity. He was State Councilor Jermakoff, who came from a poor family. His first public act which excited general attention was the purchase of the freedom of all the serfs living in his native village. This cost him one hundred and twenty thousand dollars. He came to the rescue of the poor people time and time again when the harvests failed. His funeral was one of the largest ever seen in the old burial-place of the Russian Czars.

A year or two ago there was a dispute between France and England over some lobster-canning factories erected on French territory by British subjects in Newfoundland, but it was patched up. The latest dispute is over the attempt of the English to run a railroad along the coast of George's Bay, where the French claim exclusive privilege. It is probable that dispute will be patched up also, but meanwhile the main contention remains—namely, the interpretation of the treaty of Utrecht, so that more quarrels are likely to arise. It seems strange that the two nations do not put their heads together and either decide what the treaty means or do away with it altogether. They probably would but for the absurd reverence that is felt for old and moss-covered agreements of this kind. We have one of our own with Great Britain, the Clayton-Bulwer, which is decrepit enough to have done with long ago.

Although the war for Cuban independence promised at first to be little more than a temporary insurrection it has without doubt assumed proportions that make it an extremely serious matter for Spain. Its progress has been desultory and much of the warfare has been that scattering, guerrilla mode of fighting which saps an enemy's strength but takes long to crush him. But that Cuba is making a good fight—that, indeed, Spain will have to make a vigorous exertion if the island is not to be lost—there can be no doubt. In a late article Mr. W. D. Howells, writing of his friend, the Cuban leader, Jose Marti, expressed his sympathy for the Cubans, but declared his inability to see in what way they could be much benefited were they to become autonomous. The doubt is justified. There has been no indication that the Cubans have within them the statesmanship to place a new republic on a prosperous basis. But the fact remains that they could hardly be worse off than they are under the despotism which now crushes every artery of Cuban trade under an intolerable burden of taxation. The sympathy of the lovers of liberty and humanity is with the Cubans.

At a time when Great Britain and this country are making every effort to secure greater speed in their naval and merchant marine it sounds strange to learn that in France they are seriously proposing to put an end to ocean racing. That part of the international regulations of 1883 limiting the speed of vessels has always been a dead letter owing to the lack of penalties for its violation. The new bill now being prepared under direction of the French Admiralty provides heavy penalties for any excess of speed above the limit, even for the shortest period. Such legislation ought to be futile, as it certainly is unwise. There is no special danger in a twenty-knot speed, which is proposed as the limit, and no reason except the fascination of round numbers in making that the limit, rather than nineteen or eighteen knots. For the present the limit of speed in passenger steamers seems to have been reached in the Lucania and the Campania. The problem is to determine whether the increased cost of such speed does not render it undesirable, and this is a question which can safely be left to the steamship companies to settle. They are not taking any unnecessary risks with vessels worth millions of dollars and involving the safety of thousands of lives. And they probably know their business better than the French Admiralty does.

Not since the transference of her sacred painted cod has Boston been so excited as she is now in the contemplation of a "greater Boston." It is a pleasure to note the enthusiasm with which the effort is undertaken. There has been a census recently, and the best that the State census maker could do for the Bostonians was a count of 494,205 inhabitants. Instead of being discouraged at a showing of less than the expected half million, the Bostonians have taken hold of the problem and, like their neighbors in New York, decided that the ordinary process of growth is behind the times. The esteemed Boston Herald, in outlining this policy, proudly points out that Boston has many more than 494,000 inhabitants. The census taker did not do Boston justice. In counting the people who live there he utterly failed to count also the people who live in Woburn, Waltham, Saugus, Swampscott and Nahant, not to mention a dozen more towns in the vicinity. He left out Belmont and Chelsea and the several Newtons—East Newton, Newton Center, Newtonville and West Newton. He omitted Brookline and Somerville. In, short, he counted only as much of Massachusetts as is included in the old-fashioned and untrustworthy boundary lines of Boston proper. Boston means to correct this, and the world will gladly cheer her on. The Herald ably shows that if you count in a good portion of the rest of Massachusetts Boston numbers nearly 1,000,000 souls. Therefore let Boston be set down at 1,000,000. But why stop at 1,000,000? Why not make it 2,000,000, or 5,000,000? There's a heap of New England yet unannexed.

The Revival of the Motto.

The motto, whose revival is noted in the above title, is the expression in architecture of some sentiment suitable to the place to which it is applied, and eternal is its significance, writes Alice Graham McCollin in the Ladies' Home Journal. It is more frequently and more noticeably in domestic architecture than elsewhere that the motto is found. Scarcely a country house of sufficient size to boast a hall and fireplace but announces in script or text a welcome to all guests or some appreciation of the comforts of its four walls. The favorite place for this motto is over the fireplace, either above or below the mantel shelf, and of all the old ones, "East or west, home is best," with its variety of expressions, is the favorite. "A man's house is his castle";

"Home is the resort
Of love, of joy, of peace."

"A man's best things are nearest him"; "Our house is ever at your service"; "You are very welcome"; "Take the goods the gods provide thee"—any one of these will as appropriately welcome the stranger as the friend.

A Literary Conductor.

The conductor leans over a passenger on the back seat of a car, whose interest in one of a number of books he carries probably suggests a literary employment: "Beg pardon, sir; I picked up an English book on astrology more than fifty years old, the other day, with colored plates. Was not that unusual, at the time? Are you interested in those things? Bulwer's views, now, of spiritualism, interest me very much, 'Zanoni' is a curious book! Speaking of plates, I have a rare copy of 'Fox's Book of Martyrs.' Collector? No, have a few books very fond of all good reading. Cooper, now, what an atmosphere! After all, Hawthorne is our great author. His 'Twicetold Tales' are like Mendelssohn's 'Songs Without Words.' Don't you think so, sir? Time to read? Oh yes, I get off at 5 o'clock, but when I was at school I used to live in the Public Library! Good day, sir." A literal transcription of the conversation, omitting the interjections of the rather stupefied passenger. Wonderful country!—Boston Transcript.

Its Crowning Feature.

The greatest improvement in the bicycle is woman?—Chicago Tribune.

There are times when a man has his most grateful moments in thinking that he doesn't have to live forever.

THE CUP AGAIN OURS.

VALKYRIE HAD NO CHANCE AND DUNRAVEN KNEW IT.

Beaten in the First Race, He Fouls the American Boat in the Second and Demurs to the Club's Decision—Sulks and Refuses to Play.

Story of the Fiasco.

New York correspondence:

GAIN the America yachting cup stays on this side of the Atlantic, and the Britishers who have vainly tried since 1851 to wrest it from our Yankee boats may this time add to discomfiture over failure chagrin attaching to childish behavior of their champion. In the first heat the Defender outsailed the Valkyrie so clearly on every point that it was confidently expected she would win three straight heats. Just before the start of the second heat, the British boat, possibly not intentionally, but none the less in violation of the racing rules, fouled the Defender, and crippled her so that she could not carry two of her sails. Valkyrie crossed the starting line nearly two minutes ahead of Defender; but crippled as she was, that gallant yacht gave her opponent such a chase that at the finish there was but 47 seconds between them; she was more glorious in apparent defeat than she would have been in a repetition of the first victory. But the club committee, conforming strictly to the rules, gave the heat to Defender, and it is believed this was what caused the remarkable display of pettishness on the part of Lord Dunraven in Thursday's contest. He made no attempt to put his boat in racing trim, but loafed across the starting line with short canvas, and what was spread was slovenly. Hardly had he made the start when he put about, and with the signal of acknowledged defeat flying, laid his course for the club house. The Defender sailed the course alone, and was awarded the cup. Dunraven alleges as cause for his action that he was hampered by excursion boats.

The incidents of Tuesday's race are worth recital. Both boats were standing for the line, wind on their starboard beam and booms to port. Valkyrie was leading by fifty yards, fully 100 yards to windward. The committee boat was about 200 yards ahead and somewhat to windward of Valkyrie, which was not at all close hauled. Defender was in no position to interfere with Valkyrie. The start was close at hand, and if, as has been claimed by some of the Englishman's apologists, Valkyrie was in danger of crossing before gunfire it could have avoided doing so by luffing, which would have put it still more to windward of Defender and in a still more advantageous position.

Instead, it bore broad off and run down on Defender so straight that to many spectators it seemed the English boat was going into the American. Then, by rounding up sharply on Defender's bow, Valkyrie's boom was made to describe an arc over Defender's deck, with the result that the American's starboard topmast shroud was torn from its fastenings at the spreader. The essential objection to this maneuver is that Valkyrie had no business to make it. It was forbidden by the rules of the New York Yacht Club and the sailing regulations of nearly every yacht club in existence, besides being contrary to the rules of the road on the high seas. How, then, could Defender be blamed for the accident? It must be said again the effort to place the blame on Defender was at once ridiculous and dishonest.

As to Dunraven's charge that the excursion boats interfered with him in Saturday's race it is well founded, but he suffered less from their interference than Defender, so that except for the expression of a querulous disposition he had nothing to complain of. In Tuesday's race the interference was much less, but again Defender suffered as much if not more than Valkyrie.

To sum up the evidence we have Dunraven resting apparently satisfied with the conditions of Saturday's race until Tuesday's race had demonstrated beyond a doubt his boat could not sail with Defender. Then he suddenly displays a querulous spirit while trying to back up a dishonest claim as a means of escape from an inexcusable breach of the regulations under which he was sailing.

The conclusion, therefore, seems unavoidable that, being satisfied by Saturday's race his boat could not win a race from Defender, and being chagrined at the prospect of returning a second time to England without scoring a single victory, he deliberately planned to foul and disable Defender so as to win at least one race of the series. Undoubtedly he foresaw the race would be protested and the protest would be decided against him and his boat disqualified, but that would give him the opportunity he was seeking—namely, to refuse to sail the last race of the series and thus throw up the contest. It is deplorable to be forced to this conclusion, but Dunraven's conduct fully warrants it.

Earl Dunraven gave an exemplification Thursday of the English sportsman that it not pleasant to American eyes. The attitude of the sulker and the churl is not a creditable one under any circumstances; in the field of international sport it is at once disgraceful and disgusting. By his action Lord Dunraven placed himself squarely in that attitude, and forfeited the respect of sportsmen the world over. By crossing the line with bare topmast, "en deshabille" as it were, and at once putting about, he deliberately intended to insult the American people, but he has injured himself and the name of English sportsmen far more than he has affronted his hosts.

AMERICAN YACHT DEFENDER. | ENGLISH YACHT VALKYRIE III.

THE AMERICA CUP—THE TROPHY FOR WHICH THE DEFENDER AND VALKYRIE III. FOUGHT.

FALLS LIKE A TRAP.

Grand Stand at Louisville Gives Way, Injuring Many.

Many persons were injured Thursday night by the falling of the section of the grand stand erected on the river front at Louisville, Ky., for the purpose of witnessing the fireworks in honor of the G. A. R.

The portion of the grand stand which fell was about 400 feet long and sixty feet wide. It was the lower part, and only elevated about two feet. Immediately behind this part were seats elevated eight to twenty feet. On the entire stand there were 50,000 people. That no one was killed is one of the marvels. As the stand careened the planks were forced together, and the feet and legs of hundreds of spectators were caught as in a huge trap. The noise of the exploding bombs and the fireworks and the cheering of the crowd was so great that only those adjacent to the portion of the grand stand which fell could hear it. Had it become generally known a panic would have followed. As to the exact number of people injured it will probably never be known. Four policemen who were standing at that part of the stand say that they saw from fifty to seventy-five persons taken away by friends in vehicles. They assisted at least as many more to get back on the street behind the stand. All the ambulances and patrol wagons in the city were summoned, and those only slightly injured were taken to the hotels at which they were stopping or to their homes.

On the portion of the grand stand which fell there was a scene of horrifying confusion. Mr. Vreeland, assistant city editor of the Courier-Journal, was present when the accident occurred.

"It was awful," he said. "I saw men and women falling everywhere. Whether they were fainting from fright or pain I could not say. Then a panic followed. Those who escaped being caught in the trap made a mad rush for the entrance, trampling over those who had fallen, while those who had been caught screamed for aid. Meantime the vast multitude on all sides continued to cheer and applaud the grand fireworks that continued to explode and light up the sky."

A number of Grand Army veterans who were witnesses of the accident said they aided a large number of people who had been bruised and injured about the legs to carriages and sent them to their hotels and homes.

THE EARTH GAPED OPEN.

Honduras the Scene of a Terrible Disaster.

The earthquake in Honduras was the most frightful calamity of the kind that ever befel that country. The shocks commenced Sunday in the Yetapan district, continuing all day at intervals, there being much damage. The city was filled by refugees from the mountains and outlying villages. Tuesday morning the shocks ceased, quiet was restored and people left town for their homes. At 9 o'clock that night heavy rumbling noises were heard, followed by a reappearance of the flames in the mountains, which shot up several hundred feet. Frightened people again flocked to town. At midnight the church tower fell, carrying with it the roofs of three houses. Nine people were killed and eighteen wounded. Just before daylight another prolonged shock rocked the whole town as if it were a cradle. Many fleeing people were killed by rocks, which fell in a shower like a hail storm.

Smoke from the mountains to the northwest rose to an enormous height, followed shortly after by the bursting of flames from the mountain sides and the throwing out of rocks and lava.

Shortly after streams of molten lava set fire to a number of houses on the mountain side. Cattle grazing near by fled and were killed, being engulfed in the lava which continued flowing in immense streams. It is reported at Yetapan that seventy-one houses were destroyed. One hundred and fifty-three dead bodies have been recovered and many more are missing. At Covajuanca thirty-seven houses were destroyed. Ninety-five bodies were recovered. At Cayuscat twenty-nine houses were destroyed, and eleven bodies were recovered.

It is impossible yet to give a full account of the disaster. Many small settlements are believed to have been destroyed. A company of soldiers which left in pursuit of bandits from Yetapan to the coast has not been heard from, and it is feared they are killed.

People are still leaving the scene of the catastrophe in fear of their lives. Help for the victims is being asked for from the capital.

Bringing Him to Time.

Our idea of a thoroughbred is a man who gets shaved in the morning.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

VALUE OF IMPORTS DURING THE LAST FISCAL YEAR.

Returns Indicate that the Reduction of the Tariff Has Stimulated Importations—Republican Press Endeavoring to Fool the Farmer.

Our Foreign Trade Last Year.

The total value of imports during the last fiscal year was $731,957,875, against 654,994,622 the previous year, an increase of $76,963,253. In view of the great industrial depression which prevailed last year the value of imports was large, it having been exceeded only five times in the history of the country.

On the other hand, the value of domestic exports was $793,397,890, against $869,204,047. Notwithstanding the large increase in imports and decrease in exports, the latter exceeded the former by $61,440,015. The exports of last year have been exceeded eight times in our history, and once—in 1892—by over $242,000,000.

In view of the fact that for ten months of the last fiscal year the imports came in under the new tariff law a comparison of some of the principal items with the same for the year before will be of interest.

Of art works, which were put on the free list by the new law, we imported to the value of $3,843,097 last year, against $1,724,394 the year before. Of chemicals, drugs and dyes, the duties on which were materially reduced, we imported $43,552,569 worth, against $37,553,170 the year before. Of cotton goods we imported $33,195,338, against $22,346,547 the year before. Of earthen, stone and china ware, 8,956,034, against $6,879,437. Of iron and steel, $23,037,237, against $21,314,489. Of leather and manufactures thereof, $13,819,019, against $9,416,145. On all these goods the duties were considerably reduced. But while there was a decided increase in the importation of all these articles, the duties on which were moderately reduced, there was also an increase in imports of goods which were free under the old law and still remain free. Thus there was an increase from $90,314,676 to $96,129,326 in coffee, from $16,786,152 to $26,122,954 in hides and skins others than furs and from $15,162,333 to $18,477,067 in unmanufactured rubber and gutta percha. And, again, there was a decrease in the importation of some articles the duties on which were reduced. For example, from $18,954,771 to $17,239,905 in fruits, including nuts; from $6,606,865 to $2,488,584 in lead and manufactures thereof and from $18,154,073 to $17,813,854 in wool and manufactures thereof.

The imports of sugar and molasses fell from $126,914,104 to $76,492,302. This decrease of more than $50,000,000 was due in part to the enormous importations in anticipation of the 40 per cent. duty, and in part, and principally, to the great fall in the foreign price of raw sugars.

The value of wool, which was put on the free list, increased from $6,107,438 to $25,556,421, and the value of woolen goods, the duties on which were reduced about one-half, increased from $19,391,850 to $36,542,391. But the increase in these articles, as in the case of others the duties on which were considerably reduced, was in no small measure due to restriction of imports in 1894 in anticipation of lower duties. On the whole the returns indicate that the reduction of the tariff has stimulated importations.

Fooling the Farmer.

Believing that the farmers will continue to swallow the kind of high tariff rubbish which has so long been doled out to them by partisan organs, the Republican press is picturing the ruin wrought to the farming industry by the deadly Wilson tariff. Gleefully pointing to the increased importations of farm products from Canada during the past year, these papers claim that the American farmer has been injured to the extent of all the goods imported, and that for this reason the farmers who in 1892 broke away from protection and elected a tariff reform administration, will next year return to their idol, McKinleyism.

Unfortunately for the prospects of Republican support by the farmers, the same papers which find fault because of increased imports of farm products also insist that the American consumer has not been in the least benefited by the reduced tariff. For instance, the New York Press complains that although the imports of hay from Canada have increased, the price of hay is not lower, but is really higher than under the McKinley tariff. The same, it says, is true of eggs, of which the imports have increased, while prices have not fallen. And the Press might have added wool, which has advanced from two to three cents per pound under the Wilson tariff; wheat, beef and other staple crops.

The intelligent farmer who is told that he is being ruined by foreign products will naturally ask: "How can I be injured so long as prices of my crops have not gone down? What difference does it make to me whether one ton or 1,000,000 tons of hay are imported, if the price has gone up, as the protectionists claim it has? If eggs have not been cheapened by the competition of Canadian eggs, then I can't complain. Wheat has advanced nearly 20 cents per bushel since the Wilson tariff took effect, and the price of beef has also gone up, in spite of lower duties. There is no law to prevent me taking advantage of these higher prices, and you bet I'm not going to stop selling things just because people along the northern border find it pays to buy some things in Canada. Haven't these fool Republican papers sense enough to see that if, as they tell us, prices have not gone down, but in many cases have advanced, under the Wilson tariff, that is the policy for us? We know that we are buying manufactured goods cheaper because of lower duties, and that our staple crops have gone up. Vote against the tariff which has brought about this state of affairs? Not much!"

Tariff.

Another vindication of tariff reform is supplied by copper. Under the abominable McKinley law there was a duty on copper ore, in spite of the fact that we are large exporters of copper, and that the mine owners had made enormous fortunes out of nature's bounty. The new tariff put copper on the free list, and instead of the ruin predicted, not only have our exports largely increased, but the price of the metal has advanced more than two cents a pound and the market value of the stocks of twelve leading copper companies has increased $30,000,000. The new campaign of education is educating.—New York World.

The Political Opportunity.

There is but one report from all the industrial and business centers. It is to the effect of increased activity in every branch of production and higher prices. The increase in wages keeps pace with the increased prices of products. In some departments of the iron industry orders from buyers are refused. The mills have more than they can do. The signs of greatest prosperity are in the industries of superior magnitude in which the investments of capital are immense, and in which, when growth commences, it is permanent. There is no interruption to the general and continuous report of improvement in all the branches of trade, commerce and industry. The universal revival has visited all parts of the country alike. The markets, the workshops and the farms all have felt the effects of the welcome visitation. Nowhere has the favorable business and industrial reaction been greater than in the agricultural States at the West and South. It has affected the wheat belt, the corn belt and the cotton belt with equally helpful influences. The great producing States are receiving the greatest benefit.

With these fruits of Democratic policy actually visible there can be no successful argument for disturbing the situation. The Democratic policy at this time should be that of awaiting opportunities, seeking every available approach to methods by which the freedom of commerce shall be established and by which a return can be effected to the traditional Democratic financial policy. The Government should never interfere, except as necessity dictates, with the business, industries or currency of the country.

The present era of revived prosperity illustrates this principle.

Guarding Against Prosperity.

The New York Tribune, the organ of Whitelaw Reid, late Republican candidate for the Vice Presidency, is one of the most partisan high tariff papers in America, and cannot be suspected of trying to cast ridicule on protection. In a recent issue that paper published an interview with Mr. John Saline Smith, a prominent New York lawyer and member of the Republican State Committee, who said: "I do not think there is any room to question our success in next year's campaign, if we can only hold on to our present chances." Asked what he meant, Mr. Smith replied: "I have just returned from a trip to the West. I was in Indiana, Illinois, and Minnesota, and the crop outlook there is almost marvelous. . . . If nothing interferes to injure that part which is yet outstanding, it will be a great year indeed, and the danger to be guarded against will be that of an overflowing prosperity, wherein the issue born of the last two years may be forgotten."

Here is a frank confession by a prominent Republican politician that he regards prosperity as a danger to be guarded against, for fear that the people will not again return to office a party pledged to a revival of the tariff issue and a restoration of the high duties of McKinleyism. Could there be clearer evidence of the calamity-howling, ruin-predicting sentiment which animates the Republicans, than this fear of good times? Do the business men, farmers and workingmen want an administration which depends on hard times as a reason for turning out the party under which Republicans confess we are threatened with "overflowing prosperity?"

Increases of Wages Multiply.

Unfortunately for the poor protectionists and calamity howlers, reports of revival of industry and increases in wages continue to come in.

Last week articles incorporating a large hat-manufacturing company were filed at Orange, N. J., and this business promises to be lively in the Oranges. At Norristown, Pa., on Tuesday last, woolen mills employing 300 hands raised wages 10 per cent., the increase to begin on Monday next, and the Pittsburg and Youghiogheny Gas-Coal Company advanced wages yesterday. At Great Barrington, Mass., a dispatch states, the Everett woolen mills, which have been idle over a year, will start up this month employing 300 hands. The Maryland Steel Company, at Sparrow's Point, will to-morrow increase the wages of 700 employes; the increase for many of the men will be 10 per cent. and for others a restoration of the rate before the hard times caused a reduction.

These are some of the hundreds of "knockdown" arguments in reply to protectionists, which are increasing almost daily. The "free-trade" Wilson tariff, which these theorists so blatantly asserted was to ruin industry and beggar wage-earners, continues and will continue to grow in popular favor. An ounce of fact is better than a ton of theory.—New York Herald, Aug. 2.

Lower Duties; More Revenue.

An unanswerable argument against further tariff tinkering and against the schemes of the McKinley propagandist, schemes of the McKinley propagandists, who threaten new tariff agitation as the issue in the next Presidential campaign, is found in the following brief and sound review:

"This increase shows that the new tariff, with its reduced duties, will yield the government more revenue than did the McKinley tariff with its high and almost prohibitive duties. Some 'protection' journals are clamoring for higher tariff rates, alleging that such rates would increase revenue. But it is now evident that a return to McKinley duties on imports would not increase, but would decrease, the revenue, and consequently would cripple the treasury."—Union, Atlantic City, N. J.

A Boom in Copper.

Against the protests of the protected interests the Wilson tariff reduced the duty on copper, exposing our infant copper industry (which dates back less than two hundred years) to the competition of the pauper copper of the rest of the world. The high tariffites wept over the ruin of another industry and prepared to witness the closing of our copper mines and smelting works. Strange to say, the predicted ruin has not yet appeared. On the contrary, the copper interests are enjoying a business boom unexampled in their history. The enormous consumption by the trolley lines and other electrical developments has created such a demand for copper that the production has had to be greatly increased to maintain the supply. At the same time our exports of copper have reached high water mark. Previous to 1894 our heaviest exports during any one year were 56,453,000 pounds. In the fiscal year 1895, during eleven months of which the Wilson tariff was in force, we exported 146,000,000 pounds. And this is the kind of ruin the Democratic tariff policy has brought on our copper industries.

Showing Their True Colors.

Tariff reformers have always contended that the theory of protection was opposed to all foreign trade, and that if its advocates were consistent they would entirely abolish international commerce by enacting a prohibitory tariff. But the McKinleyites have been ashamed of the conclusion to which their logic unerringly pointed, and have protested that they were anxious to extend our foreign trade. So while one set of high tariff orators was clamoring for a law which would keep the foreigner out of our markets, another set were contriving so-called "reciprocity laws" for the purpose of bulldozing the foreigner into trading with us.

The failure of "reciprocity" as a means of opening up foreign markets was so evident under the McKinley tariff that the trade-hating wing of the Republican party is coming to the front and boldly declaring for a policy of total exclusion of foreign goods. In a letter published in the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, Judge William Lawrence, President of the National Woolgrowers' Association, tells what the wool duties are to be if the protectionists are allowed to make a new tariff. Not satisfied with the old McKinley duties, the wool-growers will demand 12 cents a pound on class one wools, 14 cents on class two, "with an annual increase of at least three-fourths of a cent a pound until the duty shall be prohibitory." And he adds: "Protective duties are only valuable as they keep out foreign goods. All the foreign products should be excluded. Why not?"

That is the true position of the believers in the Chinese policy of trade exclusion. Judge Lawrence deserves credit for boldly stating the real principles of protection, even though his views are worthy only of a barbarian. If the rest of the McKinleyites will be equally frank there will be no mistake as to the issue between Democrats and Republicans in the next campaign. When the people are plainly asked to decide between a policy of free and extended commerce with all the world, and one of Chinese-like trade exclusion, there can be no doubt as to their answer. In 1892 an overwhelming majority voted against the doctrine of trade restriction. A still greater majority will overthrow the party which advocates trade prohibition.

Lower Tariff Reduces Trust Profits.

The operations of the Sugar Trust under the Wilson tariff, as set forth in the report of Willett & Gray, the well-known sugar statisticians, show that during the first six months of this year the trust made a net profit of $3,000,000. This is said to be the poorest showing made in any six months of the trust's history, and the report makes it clear that the German granulated sugar, which was about 32 cents per pound cheaper than the American, has been used to a considerable extent by fruit canners and preservers.

This decrease in Sugar Trust profits is proof of the wisdom of the Wilson tariff in reducing the protection on refined sugars. Had the trust no tariff advantage over foreign refiners the competition in refined sugar would have still further benefited the American people by reduced prices. Sugar can be refined cheaper in this country than in any part of the world, but it will be dearer than in other countries so long as the Sugar Trust is protected in its monopoly by even a small duty.

Changed Their Tune.

A few months ago all the Republican papers were crying: "Revise the tariff!" and "Wait until Congress meets; we'll show you how to make a tariff of enough revenue to support the Government!" And all the while column editorials kept appearing telling just how the wonderfully wise Republicans would fix up the schedules and bring back prosperity to a famishing people. Well, we've waited; and we've seen prosperity come immediately and impressively. We haven't had to wait for a Republican schedule or a Republican policy. The new tariff and Democratic rule have so revived the industries of the country that the Republicans have lost all their thunder. They've had to change their tune. The cry has now become: "Mend it or end it!" And in time this will give way to an awful silence on the part of the advocates of McKinleyism. The people will then take a hand, and set to mending and ending some of the wild vagaries of the Republican spell binders.—Philadelphia Record.

Sending Iron to England.

The shipment of 1,000 tons of iron from Youngstown, O., to England is one of the first movements in a current of trade that promises to assume in a short time very large proportions. We have not the least doubt that iron can be produced at lower prices in America than in any other part of the world, and we should make the same statement concerning steel if it were not for the limitations upon the easy procurement of needed raw supplies that the customs tariff has thrown and still throws in the way of the natural development of this industry.—Boston Herald.

Running Out of Issues.

The Republicans have quit discussing the wreck of American industry and are now turning their attention to the monthly deficit, which, by the way, is not as great as it was during the last year of that great revenue producing measure known as the McKinley bill. When the time for the fall and winter trade arrives they will also quit discussing the deficit.—Portland, Me., Argus.

A PARALYTIC CURED:

His Grandfather, a Revolutionary Soldier, and His Father, Both Died of Paralysis, Yet the Third Generation Is Cured—The Method.

From the Herald, Boston, Mass.

Like a thunderbolt from a clear sky, a stroke of paralysis came to Mr. Frank T. Ware, the well-known Boston auctioneer and appraiser, at 235 Washington street, one night about six years ago.

The interviewer sought out Mr. Ware to get the facts. He gave the interesting particulars in his own way.

"The first shock came very suddenly while I was asleep, but it was not lasting in its effects, and in a few weeks I was able to be about. A few months after, when exhausted by work and drenched with rain, I went home in a very nervous state. The result was a second and more severe shock, after which my left arm and leg were practically helpless.

"My grandfather, who was a soldier in the Revolutionary War, died finally of paralysis. My father died also of paralysis, complicated with other troubles, and so I had some knowledge of the fatal character of the disease which is hereditary in our family. After the second shock I took warning, for, in all probability, a third would carry me off.

"Almost everything under the sun was recommended to me and I tried all the remedies that seemed likely to do any good, but to no effect.

"The only thing I found that helped me was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I verily believe that if it hadn't been for those pills I would have been dead years ago.

"Yes, I still have a slight reminder of the last attack six years ago. My left arm is not as strong as the other and my left foot drags a little, as the paralysis had the effect of deadening the nerves. But I can still walk a good distance, talk as easily as ever, and my general health is splendid. I am over seventy years old, although I am generally taken to be twenty years younger.

"The Pink Pills keep my blood in good condition and I believe that is why I am so well, although cheerfulness may help.

"I have thought of it a great many times, and I honestly believe that the Pink Pills have saved my life."

Mr. Ware has every appearance of a perfectly healthy man, and arrives at his office promptly at 8 o'clock every morning, although he has reached an age when many men retire from active life. His experience is well known to a great many people in Boston, where his constant cheerfulness has won him hosts of friends. He thinks that both his father and his grandfather could have been saved if Pink Pills had been obtainable at that time.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50c per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

IF there is anything which will make a young man query whether evolution is not a failure it is to see a pretty girl kiss a pug dog.

$1.00 Added

To the low Rates offered by the Nickle Plate road, Sept. 21st, to Niagara Falls, will procure a ticket to Toronto. Ask Agents for the schedule of Niagara Falls Excursion train.

VERY few women ever make ice cream without sending their neighbors a bowl full of it.

Tickets to Chautauqua Free will be offered to all purchasers of Niagara Falls Excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate road, September 21. Toronto $1.00 extra.

VERY young people imagine that having a big ambition is all they need to become great.

THE Nickel Plate road will run a Niagara Falls Excursion, September 21. Ask agents for information.

IT takes a fortune to feed one race horse.

The Last of the Season.

September 21, the Nickel Plate road will run a Niagara Falls Excursion. Ask agents for time of train and rates.

Embarrassing Popularity.

At one time the Duke of Wellington's extreme popularity was rather embarrassing. For instance, on leaving home each day he was always intercepted by an affectionate mob, who insisted on hoisting him on their shoulders and asking where they should carry him. It was not always convenient for him to say where he was going, so he used to say: "Carry me home, carry me home," and so he used to be brought home half a dozen times a day a few minutes after leaving his own door.

A King's Plaything.

Playing cards were introduced into Europe by a crusader about 1390 to amuse Charles IV., King of France, who had fallen into a gloomy state of mind bordering on madness. The hearts were originally called Caesars, and were designated to represent the ecclesiastics.

Matilda Enham, Columbia, Pa., says:

"That Bearing-Down Feeling and dizzy, faint, gasping attacks left me as soon as I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was sick with womb troubles so long I thought I never could get well."

FRIENDS' OATS

Friends' Oats
FOR OLD AND YOUNG.
ALL GROCERS SELL
FRIENDS' ROLLED OATS

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

THEY MET IN PEACE

Mammoth Gathering of the Blue and Gray.

G. A. R. AT LOUISVILLE

One of the Most Successful Encampments.

Matchless Hospitality of the City—Enormous Crowds Well Cared For, and the Whole Town Inspired to Enthusiasm—Over 40,000 Veterans Parade Before a Quarter of a Million—List of State Departments Appearing—Barbecues and Camp-Fires the Scenes of Many Reunions.

Monday was the opening day of the twenty-ninth annual encampment G. A. R., held this year at Louisville. A warm invitation to assemble there was extended to the members by Mr. Henry Watterson. Many of them entered the State over thirty years ago bent on a very different mission, and much against Mr. Watterson's wishes.

About 60,000 old soldiers attended this encampment. This is only a melancholy fraction of the men who came out of the four-years' struggle with their lives, and yet it is a great number when one reflects that it is thirty years since that contest ended. These gatherings are better attended than were those held ten years after the war closed, when the number of veterans was so much greater than now. This is not because railroad rates are cheaper or the old soldiers are any better able to stand the expense and the wear and tear of travel, but because as the ranks are thinned out the survivors feel more strongly drawn toward one another. Each of them feels more keenly than ever before that this may be the last time he will be able to foregather with his comrades, so he goes himself, if it is humanly possible; and, if he can, he takes his family along, so that his children may see the men side by side with whom he fought.

THOMAS G. LAWLER,
Commander-in-chief G. A. R.

Drawing to a Close.

But the day of large gatherings is slowly and surely drawing to a close. Each year depletes the ranks. This was not so perceptible at first because the Grand Army has kept on growing long after the war was over. The men who did not join it at first, either because their attention was absorbed, in earning a living or because the war was still so near them that its memories had not ceased to be disagreeable, one by one joined that organization. So it grew while the number of old soldiers was decreasing. That period of growth is over now, and gradually these annual encampments will dwindle till tens meet where thousands meet now.

First South of the Ohio.

This encampment was a notable one, as it was the first held south of the Ohio River. The "boys" marched in a familiar direction and near to the locality of stirring scenes in their lives, but they went down there with different feelings from those of thirty years ago. The events in Chiago's Oakwoods Cemetery on Decoration Day, as well as the cordial invitations from Atlanta to Northern soldiery, go to show that the era of complete reconciliation is at hand. This year's encampment will expedite its fruition. The men of the blue and the gray will get better acquainted with each other, and will be better friends hereafter for this meeting. The extraordinary preparations which Louisville made and the cordiality of welcome all pointed to the same result. The encampment naturally attracted large numbers of the ex-Confederates also, and the commingling of the old-time enemies under the standard of peace added its influences also toward the cementing of kindly feelings.

Louisville's Hospitality.

Though many of the veterans during the year have replied to the last muster call, the encampment was one of the most successful the Grand Army has ever had. Certainly under the circumstances it was one of the most interesting. Kentucky is closely allied to Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, and thousands of its sons have settled in those States. The ties between them are strong, and to large numbers of these veterans the welcome was like a family one. Louisville did its best upon this occasion. Mr. Watterson and his starry-eyed girl did their best also, and if the blue invasion had threatened to be too much for the city the whole Blue Grass region would have come to the rescue. There was room enough, however, for all. Louisville never was known to get too full. The people of the city secured concessions from railroads and hotels, and even arranged for free sleeping quarters in schoolhouses and other buildings, with the additional provision of tents and barracks. The schools for the week were dismissed. Fully 300,000 strangers were in town during the encampment. While the influx from the Northern States was tremendous, yet that from the South kept pace. All the roads ran trains as close together as possible, and the most complete arrangements prevailed for receiving the visitors.

Ovation to Lawler.

The arrival of Commander-in-chief Lawler was the signal for the opening of the encampment. His special train bowled into the Union Depot on time. As soon as the Commander appeared at the door of his car the members of the Reception and Invitation Committees gave him a rousing cheer. The Louisville Legion was the feature of the parade. At the Galt House crowds were awaiting the Commander's arrival, and they kept him busy for a long time shaking hands. At 6 p. m. General Lawler and staff dined with Colonel H. S. Cohn, and at 8 p. m. were formally presented to President Shirley, of the Citizens' Committee. Ransom Post of St. Louis and the Cincinnati posts serenaded the party at President Shirley's house, where a brilliant social event was in progress.

At night camp fires were held in New Albany and Jeffersonville, as well as in Louisville, while receptions were given Commander Lawler, Admiral Allen, Mrs. Logan, Mrs. Wallace and others. At Camp Caldwell, where twelve State departments and thousands of unattached veterans were quartered free in tents, there was singing and story-telling and many informal camp fires. Most of the Indiana veterans were quartered at New Albany and Jeffersonville. The regimental reunions were held in the State headquarters Tuesday.

Distinguished Guests.

Among the distinguished visitors were: Corporal Tanner, S. D. Burdette, Gen. R. A. Alger of Detroit, Mich., Inspector General Pond of Lansing, Mich., J. C. S. Blackburn, W. G. Bradley, General S. B. Buckner and Colonel J. A. Buckner of Louisiana, Col. W. E. Bundy of Cincinnati, J. C. Burrows of Kalamazoo, Mich., General H. B. Carrington and General J. S. Clarkson of Iowa, General Cassius M. Clay of Whitehall, Ky.; J. M. Coney, Judge Advocate for Massachusetts; Captain T. Davis Cunningham of Blairsville, Pa.; W. H. Derby, Senior Vice Commander, of Massachusetts; J. I. Dorsey and N. S. Dudley of Flemingsburg, Bishop Samuel Fallows of Chicago, Rev. James P. Foster of Geneva, N. Y., General John B. Gordon of Reynolds, Ga., Rev. T. H. Hagerty of St. Louis, John M. Harkin and General Warren Keifer of Springfield, Ohio, J. Proctor Knott of Lebanon, Ky., William Lindsay of Frankfort, Ky., John A. Logan of Chicago, United States Senator Manderson of Nebraska, Governor Claude Matthews of Indiana, James Whitcomb Riley of Indianapolis, Adjutant Joseph W. Roberts of Warsaw, Ky., General D. E. Sickles of New York, John W. Thayer of Lincoln, Neb., General John G. Underwood of Chicago, Governor William H. Upham of Madison, Wis., Rev. T. D. Walker of Chicago, Colonel M. D. Wickersham of Mobile, Ala.

The New Commander.

The tread of the feet of the boys in blue had hardly begun before the contest for the office of Commander-in-chief was well under way. Every State represented seemed to have its favorite son, but the two men most prominently considered for the high honor were Major Thaddeus S. Clarkson of Nebraska and Colonel Ivan N. Walker of Indiana. The friends of these two veterans and of the other candidates were quickly hard at work. The opposing factions got together, and the result of the conference was the decision that Colonels Walker and Clarkson should be the only nominees. Then an Iowa delegate was to move the withdrawal of Col. Clarkson's name and the unanimous election of Col. Walker. This would serve to give Col. Clarkson prestige at the 1896 convention.

Ivan N. Walker.

Colonel Ivan N. Walker is a native of Indiana, and at the breaking out of the war, at the age of 21, was holding an important office, which he resigned to raise a company for the Seventy-third Indiana, of which he was chosen Captain. He was with his regiment in all its engagements, and for gallant conduct on Stone River's contested field won the rank of Major, and was promoted to Lieutenant Colonel in March, 1863, and on the death of the colonel became commander of the regiment. For a year he endured the horrors of Libby prison, and escaped through the historic tunnel in February, 1864. Afterward he rendered important service in the Army of the Cumberland, protecting the line of supplies between Stevenson and Decatur, on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad and Tennessee River, during the advance on Atlanta. At the battle of Nashville he received the personal thanks of General Thomas. After the war, owing to ill-health, arising from confinement in Libby, he resided in Nashville, Tenn., for six years, but returned to Indianapolis in 1871, where he has since lived. He became a member of the G. A. R. in 1867, and on the reorganization of the Department of Indiana served as Commander of George H. Thomas Post, the largest post in the department. He was appointed assistant adjutant general of this department in 1887, and reappointed three times. In 1891, declining a fifth term, he was chosen Department Commander, and at Indianapolis, in 1893, was chosen Senior Vice Commander-in-chief. He possesses in a high degree executive ability, and is in every way fitted to fill with honor the position of Commander-in-chief.

COL. IVAN N. WALKER.

Naval Veterans' Parade.

In the naval veterans' parade Tuesday morning thirty-seven different associations were represented and they made an imposing column. At their business meeting the following officers were elected: Rear Admiral, Samuel Allen, of New York; Commodore, E. C. Farquhar, Zanesville, Ohio; Captain, Geo. Fritschner, Louisville; Commodore, W. J. Ferguson, Philadelphia; Lieutenant Commander, E. D. Bliss, Brooklyn; Senior Lieutenant, D. B. Ungay, Rockford, Ill.; Under Lieutenants, James Stanley, New York; F. L. Ferguson, Thomas G. Henos, Cincinnati; Paymaster, E. F. Duston, Providence; Fleet Engineer, G. L. Seavy, Chicago; Judge Advocate General, Charles Cowley, Chicago; Chaplain, the Rev. A. S. McWilliams, Detroit.

Wednesday's Great Parade.

At least 40,000 men were in the great parade of Wednesday, and it was watched by over 300,000 people. Several circuses had sent their blue board seats, and there were review stands on the line of march to accommodate over 150,000 persons. The route of march looked like an immense amphitheater. Many hundreds of the boys had become worn out, and watched their comrades in the line of march. The following were among the State departments appearing: Department of Indiana, with 124 posts, the largest number of any department; Kentucky, with 90 posts; Illinois, 39; Alabama, 2; Delaware, 1; Iowa, 2; Kansas, 5; Louisiana, 11; Maine, 1; Maryland, 2; Massachusetts, 8; Michigan, 1; Minnesota, 2; Missouri, 10; New Hampshire, 1; New Jersey, 2; New York, 5; Ohio, 90; Pennsylvania, 11; Vermont, 2; West Virginia, 2; Wisconsin, 3; Oklahoma, 1; Washington, D. C., 3; Oregon, Idaho and Washington, 1 post each.

The crowning feature of the encampment was the great Kentucky barbecue and burgoo feast, at which over 200,000 participated.

Notes of the Encampment.

When the citizens had put the finishing touches to the street decorations and the triumphal arches, both the residence and the business districts presented a beautiful appearance.

The Iowa boys took along the A. O. U. W. band of thirty-five pieces from Cedar Falls. Col. J. K. Thompson, department commander, with his staff, was with the delegation.

One of the most pleasing incidents of the encampment was the presentation to Commander-in-chief Lawler by the aides de camp on his personal staff of one of the finest diamond badges ever made in this country. More than $4,500 was thus collected and the order for the badge was placed in the hands of one of the most famous jewelry firms in the country. The badge is said to be one of the handsomest pieces of work of the kind ever made. It is solid gold and imbedded in the metal are several large diamonds and other precious stones. All of the emblems of the order are engraved on it, and on the reverse side is an appropriate inscription giving the date of presentation and other data.

Two special trains were necessary to take Wisconsin's delegation.

Maryland sent a good crowd, and they had a cracking band which played with much vim "Maryland, My Maryland."

At different times during the week six national conventions were in session. These comprised the national encampment of the Grand Army and the national sessions of the Woman's Relief Corps, Ladies of the Grand Army, National Association of Naval Veterans, National Association Daughters of Veterans, and National Association of Union ex-Prisoners of War. In addition to these events there were a score or more of campfires, at some of which ex-President Harrison, Gov. McKinley, ex-Speaker J. Warren Keifer and other men of national reputation delivered addresses.

Each member from North Dakota carried some sort of weapon fashioned out of wheat straw in the big parade.

About 1,000 Chicago veterans attended, while the State at large sent 4,500 more. Michigan and Indiana boys went down together, much as they did thirty-five years ago. They had their own bands and drum corps, and mustered a big crowd.

The Missouri contingent filled thirteen coaches.

Buffalo, St. Paul and Denver made a hot fight for the next encampment.

At the big Jeffersonville, Ind., campfire Gov. Claude Matthews, Corporal Tanner and Gen. Lew Wallace spoke to 7,000 persons.

In the chapel at the Indiana prison south forty-five convict veterans held the most unique camp-fire of the week by special permission of Warden Hert.

The coat lapel buttons of the United Confederate Veterans were to be seen on every hand, but their wearers acted as guides, philosophers and friends to their guests of the week.

That latchstring concerning which the brilliant Henry Watterson talked so eloquently before the members of the Pittsburg encampment was very much in evidence. Not one alone, but a hundred of them, hanging on the outside.

It is doubtful if the city ever before entertained so many guests. Certain it is, the town never before had within its limits so many battle-scarred soldiers.

The reception by the Woman's Relief Corps to Commander Lawler was the leading social event of the week. Thousands of both the blue and the gray attended. For two hours veterans and their wives paid their respects to the receiving party. It is said by veterans who have attended every encampment that the reception surpassed anything of the kind ever held.

In the big parade was the old war horse Ned, aged 40 years. His present owner, B. F. Crawford, of Northeast, Pennsylvania, got possession of him thirty-two years ago and says Ned was then 8 years old, according to his mouth. Until five years ago Ned did his share of the work on Mr. Crawford's Pennsylvania farm. Ned was captured from Gen. Jubal Early's corps near Washington, and was given to his present owner to replace an animal which had been shot in a skirmish. At the close of the war Mr. Crawford left Washington on Ned's back. Ned has been conspicuous at former encampments. He gave out at Pittsburg last year, and in the Louisville parade he rode on a float.

The Chicago posts took the city by storm. The famous Columbia, that post so loved by Southerners, marched at once to the Galt House, and were wildly cheered as they passed through the streets. When they reached the hotel scores of ex-Confederates bid them welcome to Kentucky, and the Chicago men were toasted and feasted to repletion.

It is estimated that the Illinois visitors numbered 10,000.

GREAT BRITAIN MAY PROTEST.

Drainage Canal Likely to Give Rise to International Controversy.

The dominion government is considering what course it will be best to follow in protesting against the construction of the Chicago canal, by which it is contended the water level of the great lakes and in the harbors on the Canadian side of these waters is likely to be lowered. One of the government engineers who is looking into the matter said that the government had expected there would be no necessity for a remonstrance from Canada, as the harbors on the American side of the lakes, which would be as injuriously affected as the Canadian harbors by lowering the lake level, would use their influence successfully in preventing the construction of the Chicago canal. However, the Canadian Government is preparing a case to submit to Washington through the British Government, pointing out the disastrous effect the construction of the canal would have on Canadian shipping. The minister of justice says the law of nations governs the Canadian case in this question.

Minnesota Civilization.

A large number of Indians, who had been employed at Deer River, near Grand Rapids, Minn., by Frank H. Vance to harvest his hay crop, went on a strike for $4 a ton, and because their demand was not granted surrounded Vance and threatened to scalp him and burn him at the stake. Vance escaped and the Indians returned to their reservation.

Told in a Few Lines.

While drunk at Leadville, Col., Richard Sables shot and killed Matt O'Brien.

James Pique was waylaid by robbers near Brazil, Ind., and left on the railroad track to die.

Michael Finan, the outgoing treasurer of Paulding County, Ohio, has a shortage of $28,122.24 to account for.

Capt. Charles G. Culver, for years one of the best known merchants in the Northwest, died at Sioux City, Iowa, of fatty degeneration of the heart.

James Hensley, Jr., aged 17, was fatally burned at Anderson, Ind., by the bursting of a natural gas pipe on which he was working. This is the third accident of the kind that has happened at Anderson in ten days.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder
ABSOLUTELY PURE

A SUBMERGED FOREST.

Trees a Hundred Feet Tall Standing Upright in the Water.

Many years ago, even so far back that the traditions of the oldest Siwash extend not thereto, there was some vast upheaval on the shores of Lake Samamish that sent a portion of the big Newcastle hills sliding down into the lake, with its tall evergreen forest intact, and there it is to this day. About this time of the year the waters of the lake are at their lowest, and the tops of the tallest of these big submerged trees are out of the water, but never more than ten or twelve inches.

Unfortunately for the traveling public, the submerged forest is on the opposite side of the lake from the railroad and the station of Monohon, and very few people ever see the phenomenon unless they take the time and pains necessary to reach it.

The waters of the lake are very deep, and the bluffs back of the beach very precipitous, so that the only explanation of the freak is that by an earthquake or some other means a great slide had been started in early times, and it went down as a mass until it found lodgment at the bottom of the lake. At this time one can see down into the glassy, mirror-like depths of the lake for thirty feet or more. Near the banks the forest trees are interlaced at various angles and in confusion, but further out in the deep water they stand straight, erect and limbless and barkless, fully a hundred feet tall. They are not petrified in the sense of being turned to stone, but they are preserved and appear to have stood there for ages. They are three feet through, some of them, and so firm in texture as to be scarcely affected by a knife blade. The great slide extended for some distance, and it would now be a dangerous piece of work for a steamer to attempt passage over the tops of those trees. Even now the water along shore is very deep, and a ten-foot pole would sink perpendicularly out of sight ten feet from the shore line.

All over this country are found strata of blue clay, which in the winter season are very treacherous, and given the least bit of opportunity will slide away, carrying everything above with them. This is the theory of the submerged forest of Lake Samamish. It probably was growing above one of these blue earth strata, and heavy rains, or an earthquake, set it moving. The quantity of earth carried down was so great that the positions of the trees on the portion carried away were little affected. It is hardly to be believed that the earth suddenly sank down at this point and became a portion of the lake.

Few such places exist. There is a place in the famous Tumwater canon, on the line of the Great Northern, near Leavenworth, which is in some respects similar. At some early time a portion of the great mountain side came rushing down and buried itself at the bottom of the canon. Now there is a considerable lake, and in the center stand tall, limbless trees, different in species from those growing along the canon.

At Green lake, near Georgetown, Col., a lake which is 10,000 feet above sea level, is a submerged forest of pine trees, some a hundred feet tall, but not so numerous as in Lake Samamish.

In This Work-a-Day World

Brains and nervous systems often give way under the pressure and anxieties of business. Paresis, wasting of the nervous tissues, a sudden and unforewarned collapse of the mental and physical faculties are daily occurrences, as the columns of the daily press show. Fortify the system when exhausted against such untoward events with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, that most helpful medicine of the weak, worn out and infirm. Use it in rheumatism, dyspepsia, constipation and malaria.

Reproving Thomas.

In one of the largest and richest churches of B—— one Sunday the minister was very much disturbed during his prayer by the untimely shaking down of one of the large furnaces.

A little later both the minister and congregation were very much startled by hearing the familiar voice of one of their most prominent and godly deacons coming up the register. "Thommas," they heard, "Thomas, what in h—— do you mean by making such a racket in the middle of the minister's prayer?" —Boston Budget.

THE Nickel Plate road offers a splendid opportunity for visiting the West, Northwest, and Southwest, by authorizing excursion rates to points in that territory, on Sept. 24th. Ask agents for further information.

A Little Too Loving.

Bride—My dear, this hat has been crushed beyond redemption, and I must have a new one.

Groom—Very well, my darling. I'll stop in somewhere on my way home and buy you one.

[Bride faints with horror.]—New York Weekly.

It Is a Fact

That Hood's Sarsaparilla has an unequaled record of cures, the largest sales in the world, and cures when all others fail.

Hood's Sarsaparilla
Is the Only
True Blood Purifier

Prominently in the public eye to-day. $1; six for $5. Be sure to get Hood's.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

TRIED TO DROWN THE SOUND.

A Boarder's Experience with an Unusually Vociferous Alarm Clock.

An alarm clock, according to the habit of the beast, always goes off at the wrong time and in a thin-walled building it always succeeds in waking the whole house as well as its owner. The wear and tear upon the temper of the community is consequently greater than that caused by the combined efforts of a forgetful janitor and an intermittent elevator. A young man in an uptown house in Washington who has been in the habit of oversleeping himself, recently purchased an alarm clock of imposing proportions, and a bell like a fire engine gong. As usual, says the Post, the thing went off about 3 a. m., and the owner, who had just fallen into a sound sleep, leaped wildly from his couch under the impression that the house was on fire or some other dire calamity had befallen. Occupants of adjoining rooms followed suit, and the objurgations heaped upon that unhappy alarm clock were both loud and long. A policeman on the beat blew his whistle under the impression that a riot was in progress, and the whole neighborhood was aroused. Meanwhile the owner of the clock tried to stifle it with the bed clothes, but still it hammered away vehemently and made more racket than ever. Finally, in despair he plunged the riotous timepiece into a jar full of water, where, at the expense of ruining its inner mechanism, its voice was stilled. The young man now hires a newsboy to wake him.

Worth the Admission.

Farmer Makestraw—I say, Mariah, we must all drive into Squashtown next week. A feller named Professor Flyhigh is goin' up in a balloon, an' then he'll jump o', with nothin' but an umbrella to hold him.

Mrs. Makestraw—Is it a free exhibition?

Farmer Makestraw—No, it will cost us 25 cents apiece but if that umbrella ain't no stronger than most that's sold nowadays, we'll git the worth of our money.—New York Weekly.

Hall's Catarrh Cure

Is taken internally. Price 75 cents.

The Proper Thing to Do.

Stranger—For heaven's sake, what's that unearthly noise?

Host—Oh, that's my neighbor's oldest daughter. She has a desire to become an opera queen.

Stranger (meditatively)—Poor thing! Poor thing! And she is being treated for it.—Somerville Journal.

AGENTS of the Nickel Plate road are in possession of information which will enable them to quote special excursion rates to points in the Northwest, West, Southwest, and South, for tickets sold during September and October. Further information may be secured by applying to local agents of that popular low rate line.

THE man who has no friends generally enjoys himself by breaking up the friendship of others.

PISO'S Cure for Consumption has no equal as a Cough medicine.—F. M. ABBOTT, 383 Seneca St., Buffalo, N. Y., May 9, 1893.

WALL street is a poor stock pasture.

Home-Seekers Excursion During Sept. and Oct.

Agents of the Nickel Plate road will be pleased to furnish, upon application, complete information relative to these excursions. Bear in mind the elegantly equipped solid through trains via the popular route.

MANY a man rides to a race track and walks back.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

YOU have probably noticed that sober men seldom fight.

REMEMBER the Nickel Plate road has authorized a low rate Home-seekers Excursion to points in the West, Northwest and Southwest, on Sept. 24th. Enquire of agents for particulars.

DON'T bet is the only straight tip.

WOMEN'S FACES—like flowers, fade and wither with time; the bloom of the rose is only known to the healthy woman's cheeks. The nervous strain caused by the ailments and pains peculiar to the sex, and the labor and worry of rearing a family, can often be traced by the lines in the woman's face. Dull eyes, the sallow or wrinkled face and those "feelings of weakness" have their rise in the derangements and irregularities peculiar to women. The functional derangements, painful disorders, and chronic weaknesses of women, can be cured with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For the young girl just entering womanhood, for the mother and those about to become mothers, and later in "the change of life," the "Prescription" is just what they need; it aids nature in preparing the system for these events. It's a medicine prescribed for thirty years, by Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y.

LEWIS' 98 % LYE
Powdered and Perfumed.
(PATENTED.)
The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste-pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, paints, trees, etc.
PENNA. SALT MF'G CO.
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

PENSION JOHN W. MORRIS, Washington, D. C. Successfully Prosecutes Claims. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty since.

PATENTS Thomas P. Simpson, Washington, D. C. No att'y fee until Patent obtained. Write for Inventor's Guide.

"Brevity Is the Soul of Wit."
Good Wife, You
Need
SAPOLIO

BEST IN THE WORLD.

Morse Bros., Props., Canton, Mass., U. S. A.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

Beecham's pills are for biliousness, sick headache, dizziness, dyspepsia, bad taste in the mouth, heartburn, torpid liver, foul breath, sallow skin, coated tongue, pimples, loss of appetite, etc., when caused by constipation; and constipation is the most frequent cause of all of them.

One of the most important things for everybody to learn is that constipation causes more than half the sickness in the world, especially of women; and it can all be prevented. Go by the book, free at your druggist's, or write B. F. Allen Co., 365 Canal St., New York. Pills, 10¢ and 25¢ a box.

Annual sales more than 6,000,000 boxes.

Walter Baker & Co. Limited,
The Largest Manufacturers of PURE, HIGH GRADE
COCOAS and CHOCOLATES
On this Continent, have received
HIGHEST AWARDS
from the great
Industrial and Food
EXPOSITIONS
IN EUROPE AND AMERICA.

Caution: In view of the many imitations of the labels and wrappers on our goods, consumers should make sure that our place of manufacture, namely, Dorchester, Mass., is printed on each package.

SOLD BY GROCERS EVERYWHERE.

WALTER BAKER & CO. LTD. DORCHESTER, MASS.

TEXAS
— VIA —
Wabash Line

Do you know that the farmer has more opportunities for making money in TEXAS than almost any State in this great country? Interest yourself in the subject and see how true this is.

REMEMBER, THE WABASH

Is the Great Steel Rail Highway to all points West and Southwest. For Rates, routes, maps, and general information, call upon or address the nearest Agent of the Wabash System, or write to

R. G. BUTLER, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich.
F. H. TRISTRAM, C. P. A., Pittsburg, Pa.
P. E. DOMBAUGH, P. & T. A., Toledo, Ohio.
R. G. THOMPSON, P. & T. A., Fort Wayne, Ind.
J. HALDERMAN, M. P. A., 201 Clark St., Chicago, Ill.
J. M. McCONNELL, P. & T. A., Lafayette, Ind.
G. D. MAXFIELD, D. P. A., Indianapolis, Ind.
C. S. CRANE, G. P. & T. A., St. Louis, Mo.

RIPANS TABULES

Dennis Bernhard, who lives at No. 1188 Jefferson avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes under date of May 23, 1895: "Having heard of your Tabules, and having suffered for years from dyspepsia and biliousness, I thought I would try them. I have been using them now for about six weeks and they have given me great relief." Mr. Bernhard keeps a Bowery lodging house and the air is often very bad. He says that a Tabule taken now and then keeps him from getting sick in that air.

Ripans Tabules are sold by druggists, or by mail if the price (50 cents a box) is sent to The Ripans Chemical Company, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. Sample vial, 10 cents.

KIDDER'S PASTILLES. Sure relief. Price 25 cts. By mail. Stowell & Co. Charlestown, Mass. ASTHMA.

When writing to Advertisers say you saw the advertisement in this paper.

BATTLE AX

Plug Tobacco

A Great Big Piece for 10 Cents.

LYON'S WONDERS

A SPECIFIC For all DERANGEMENTS of the STOMACH. PRICE $1.00

Manf by THE LYON MEDICINE CO. INDIANAPOLIS IND.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

A Wonderful Story of an Old Lady.

ST. JOSEPH, MICH., May 9, 1894.

Lyon Medicine Co., Indianapolis, Ind.:

I wish to congratulate you in being in possession of such a grand medicine as LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS. I was in very poor health for a long time, could eat no solid food, and scarcely anything else; had no appetite, but a continued distress in my stomach, and was very poor in flesh. Your remedy being recommended by one who had tried them, I got a box of same, and can cheerfully and gladly say, after using them, the distress in my stomach entirely ceased, my appetite increased wonderfully, and I gained in flesh very perceptibly. I am a lady seventy-four years of age, and can say that LYON'S SEVEN WONDERS have given me a new lease on life. I feel grateful toward you and your remedy. It does more than you claim for it, and no words of praise can do it justice.

Gratefully yours,

MRS. CYNTHIA RANSOM.

101 PIECE

DINNER SET

—FOR—

$5.50.

OLDS BROS.

WARM AIR GENERATOR.

HOT WATER, ATTACHMENT FOR BATH ROOMS.

POSITIVE CIRCULATION OF HOT AIR TO DISTANT ROOMS.

Construction, Operation and Results essentially different from the Solid Fire Pot Furnace.

Write for Catalogue.

J. BEURET,

AUBURN, IND.

INSURANCE BUSINESS.

Talking the other day with one of our insurance agents, Geo. Lanning, we were surprised at the extent of this business Insurance is generally a quiet line that makes but little show but is mighty interesting when a fire strikes one's property. Just then it becomes the leading topic, and the business man who suffers a loss, but has no insurance wherewith to help him on his feet again, does not get the sympathy he would had his business methods been more careful. In talking with Mr. Lanning we were surprised, as we have said, at the extent of the business, for it looks as if about every business man in town as well as most farmers in the country carry a fair amount of insurance. He told us how many hundred dollars worth he had taken in premiums in the last month, which we do not now remember, but made a note of his companies and their capital stock or assets. He has the Connecticut of Hartford,

National of Hartford,
Northern Assurance of London,
Queen, of New York,

And the total assets of these is $20,334,396. Surplus to policy holders, $10,953,339 This is believed to be the strongest combination of insurance companies in Northern Indiana, and gives one some idea as to the excellent character of the fire protection he gives. And this excellent standing gives a reason for his excellent business. Men who pay out money for insurance, want to know how safe the investment is likely to prove. Mr. Lanning has some great advantages also. He is empowered to adjust and does adjust the local losses. It will be remembered that Dr. Fitch's loss was all paid up and over with in about a day. His line of business risks is very large, but he also makes a specialty of outside risks and farm property giving his entire time to work in this line.

Commissioners Court

There was considerable work done in regard to ditches and roads. The S. M. George highway in Jackson township came up for consideration but a remonstrance was filed against it, and reviewers were appointed to assess damages.

The Sarah A. Mortorff ditch in Smithfield had a remonstrance and reviews were appointed. They are: Jonathan Wilhelm, Wm. Kemedy and Wesley Jackman. Meet at source of ditch Oct. 24.

The Cal. Kutzner highway in Union township was established.

A petition came up for a highway from A. C. Cherry, but the report was unfavorable and it was dismissed.

The tax levy for county purposes for next year was fixed at 45 5 6 cen's on each $100

A Noted Minstrel.

M. T. Skiff formerly business manager for W. J. Scanlan, the Irish Comedian, suffered with rheumatism for years without relief until he bought a bottle of Drummond's Lightning Remedy. Two bottles made a well man of him. There are a thousand remedies for rheumatism, bue none have received the unsolicited testimonials from prominent people as shown by Drummond's Lightning Remedy. When a cure is wanted send $5 to the Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York, and they will ship to your express address two large bottles of the remedy—enough for one month's treatment. Agents wanted. 58-39

Special Trains To Hillsdale Fair.

On Oct. 2, 3 and 4 the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will run special trains to Hillsdale and return. For time of trains see small bills. Ask Tickets Agents. 38 39

DR. WILLIAMS' KIDNEY PILLS

A remedy that has no equal in diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, Have you neglected your kidneys? Have you overworked your nervous system and caused trouble with your kidneys and liver? Have you pains in the loins, side, back, loins and bladder? Have you a flabby appearance of the face, especially under the eyes? Too frequent desire to pass urine? No matter what the cause, we know Dr. Williams' Kidney Pills will cure you. Imparts new life to the diseased organs, tones up the whole system and makes a new man of you. Mailed on receipt of price, $1.00 per box.

WILLIAMS M'F'G CO., Props., Cleveland, O. Sold by FISCHLER & SON, Auburn. 1y30

The Indianapolis

Daily and Weekly Sentinel

Circulation has reached immense proportions by its thorough service in receiving all the latest news all over the state and from its dispatches from foreign countries. Every reader in Indiana should take a state paper and that the THE SENTINEL.

Largest Circulation

IN THE STATE.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

Daily, one year	$6.00
Weekly, one year	$1 00

THE WEEKLY EDITION HAS 12 PAGES.

SUBSCRIBE NOW and make all remittances to THE INDIANAPOLIS

SENTINEL CO.,

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

☞ This paper will be furnished with the Weekly Edition of the INDIANA STATE SENTINEL for $2 00 a year.

COMMISSIONERS' ALLOWANCES.

POOR.

Grueter Bros	$ 3 50
Boyer & Leas	1 70
John Hathaway	1 50
M. Tustison	6 00
O. P. Raber	2 50
Erick Bros	12 60
Reyher & Co	4 50
G. O. Denison	10 39
W. H. Fair	2 00
Ed. Kelham	6 00
Joseph Huet	3 00
M. E. Reynolds	3 00
Grueter Bros	10 00
W. Y. Johnston	15 74
M. Kooken & Son	4 75
Wm. Adams	4 50
E. Campbell	9 65
O. C. Hines	1 86
Wm. Adams	14 15
Henry Stomm	12 00
W. H. Crane	12 65
J. H. Knauer	2 00
J. H. Knauer	2 04
W. H. Crane	6 68
Hebel Bros	4 20
J. H. Knauer	10 71
R. H. McInturf	53 50
Beams Bros	11 50
R. K. McDonald	8 60
Sol. Barney	50 75
Isaac Hose	1 50
H. J. Crooks	14 00
E. C. Miller	5 50
H. P. Stroh	1 35
John Kruger	10 00
"	10 00
"	9 90
O. C. Hines	9 97
Hebel Bros	12 82
Jas. W. Sheffer	3 00
Ira Brandon	6 11
Schaab & Murphy	1 00
Mary Sawvel	6 00
F. M. Hines	275 00
B. A. Woodcox	7 85
Frank A. Hoff	10 84
John C. Barber	1 50
R. S. S. Reed	6 15
Fred. Schulthess	13 00
Henry Baker	2 00
R. S. S. Reed	7 00
A. Bartels	109 57
"	150 00
Frank Bowman	54 00
Isaac Anthony	30 00
Ellen Long	32 50
Robbins & McCord	23 80
John Kruger	18 44
August Bohtke	38 25
Joseph Singler	42 60
E. P. Kenyon	21 70
Chas. Snell	14 30
A. Lewis	30 38
Schaab Bros	28 60
A. J. & G. W. Ralston	9 20
Frank A. Hoff	46 32
Fred. Sodtman	16 85
Hebel Bros	26 16
Mrs. M. Jones	5 63
Raut & Co	21 20
Brown, C. & B.	76 30
Pioneer Hardware	69 59
C. C. Shaffer	29 25
J. Beuret	80 00
Campbell & Son	5 40
W. Sheffer & Co	2 35
J. W. Sheffer	32 45
J. Beuret	3 85
M. E. Garrett	25 97
John Groscop	44 50
Webster & Co	2 75
Emil Hill	11 25
M. Tustison	7 60
C. W. Camp	4 05
Filly & Bishop	2 25
Moore & Schulthess	12 50
J. Wilson & Son	5 25
Emil Hill	11 25
M. Tustison	7 60
C. W. Camp	4 05
W. H. Crane	15 00
J. H. Knauer	5 00
Schaab Fur. Co	31 00

STATIONERY.

E. W. Miner & Son	$ 2 00
W. H. Morrison & Co	11 00
W. B. Burford	488 48
C. M. Merica	14 60
M. E. Gardner	2 50
J. A. Barnes	54 55
G. W. Gordon	5 00
D. W. Fair	15 35
St. Joe News	2 00
Garrett Clipper	4 00
F. A. Borst	8 40

CRIMINALS

H. P. Stroh	208 40

BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

D. W. Fair	175 24

MISCELLANEOUS.

C. E. VanAuken	$ 17 35
H. D. Chamberlain	25 00
Joseph Wilson	8 00
Samuel Williams	16 32
James O. Blake	26 00
Fred Schulthess	40 00
G. O. Dennison	20 00
W. S. Morgan	16 00
R. S. S. Reed	29 00
F. E. Davenport	9 70

DITCHES.

C. E. VanAuken	$ 31 00
J. J. VanAuken	48 00

SALARY.

John F Shuman	$ 25 00
C. E VanAuken	234 00
G. C. Ralston	17 35
F. A. Borst	216 66
C. M. Merica	316 00
F. M. Hines	15 49
H. P. Stroh	122 95
D. W. Fair	1247 50
H. P. Stroh	513 60
D. D. Moody (fees)	107 30
F. A. Borst	416 66
John Hoffelder	38 50
Isaac Hague	37 50
J. M. Henderson	45 50

INSANE

W. R. Coburn	$30 00

PUBLIC BUILDINGS

W. H. Kiblinger Co	$ 3 00
Wm. Murphy	10 75
A. J. & G M. Ralston	40
McDowell & Carter	3 50
Charles Mitchell	90 00
Auburn Mining Co	51 40
Brown C. & B.	4 76
Henry Baker	17 55
Geo. L Lanning	307 50
L. D. Robbins	5 00
F. A. Hoff	1 85
Pioneer Hardware Co	5 20
Auburn Iron Works	36 81

BRIDGES

J. J. Eakright	41 87

Trustees' Allowances

At the August special session of the county commissioners, the several township trustees received pay as follows:

R. S. S. Reed, Union	$274 00
F. Schulthess, Keyser	235 00
W. J. Whetsel, Franklin	325.00
Joseph Wilson, Stafford	209 00
B. A. Woodcox, Concord	375.00
R. H. Sherlock, Fairfield	283.00
W. S. Morgan, Troy	165.00
G. O. Dennison, Grant	215 00
W. H. Fair, Butler	318.00
Leslie Strong, Newville	213.75
H. J. Crooks, Wilmington	421.00
M. E. Reynolds, Richland	260.00

The World's Fair Tests showed no baking powder so pure or so great in leavening power as the Royal.

Trustee,s Notice

I will have Monday of each week for office days. Persons having township business with me must call that day at the Auburn Marble Works, Corner Jackson and Seventh streets.

A. W. MADDEN,
Trustee Union Township.

Winter Oats

C. S. Plumb of the Agricultural experiment station at Lafayette—Purdue—sends out a circular as to winter oats. His conclusions are that it does not succeed in the north or central part of the state, but may at the south end, and in southern states. Those interested in the matter should write Mr. Plumb for his circular which will be forwarded to them.

A shower of Tomatoes.

Skeptical people now-a-days claim the days of miracles are past. but Mrs. John Keeran thinks differently. On retiring last Sunday evening she remarked to her husband that thein larden had run rather low, she was at a loss to know what they would have for breakfast, that if her faith was sufficiently strong she would pray for a supply. On arousing in the morning her faith was rewarded by seeing a bushel of beautiful ripe tomatoes on the porch under the cistern spout. She put up eleven cans and went up town this afternoon for more cans for she is looking for a shower of peaches this evening.

Wabash Line

GOING EAST.

Boston Express	5:21 a m—Daily
Detroit Accom'n	2:04 p m—ex Su
New York Limited	7:35 p m Daily

GOING WEST.

Logansport Accommodation	7:15 am—Daily
Mail and Express	12:23 pm—ex Su
Chicago & St. Louis Lim(S3)	7:35 pm—Daily

All these trains stop for passengers.

For rates, Tickets, Time Table, etc., apply to I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.

CHAS M. HAYS, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. CRANE, Gen'l Pass and Ticket Agent.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—In Effect Nov. 18, 1894.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations—	Mail.	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne, p	11 45 am	4 45 pm	6 10
New Era	12 14 pm	5 14	7 27
Auburn Junc	12 25	5 25	7 48
Auburn	12 29	5 29	8 37
Waterloo	12 41	5 41	9 24
Summit	12 52	5 52	9 45
Steubenville	12 56	5 56	.....
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	10 13
Angola	1 13	6 14	10 50
Jackson	†3 25	8 35	4 30

TRAINS GOING SOUTH

Stations—	Freight	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 55 am	11 20 am	6 30 am
Angola	12 25 pm	2 21 pm	8 51
Pleasant Lake	1 03	2 32	9 01
Steubenville	.....	2 40	9 07
Summit	1 25	2 44	9 11
Waterloo	2 50	3 00	9 24
Auburn	3 00	3 11	9 35
Auburn Junc	3 14	3 14	9 38
New Era	4 05	3 24	9 50
Fort Wayne	5 25	3 55	10 2

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address K. T. DeLAPP, Agent at Auburn.

Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Time Card in Effect June 30 1895.

Stations—	WEST-BOUND.
	p m	a m	a m	p m
Bellaire lv	7 15	*11 13	9 42	*4 13	.....
		p m	p m	a m
Defiance	3 15	5 16	7 40	1 20	11 00
Hicksville	.....	.....	8 22	.....	11 45
					p m
St. Joe	.....	.....	8 34	.....	12 01
Auburn Jc	4 15	6 17	8 53	2 26	12 25
Garrett	4 28	6 30	9 00	2 40	12 50
Avilla	.....	6 40	.....	.....	1 00
Albion	‡4 50	‡6 55	.....	.....	1 20
Syracuse	.....	.....	.....	3 33	2 00
Chicago ar	9 00	11 00	.....	7 25	6 40
Stations.	EAST BOUND.
	p m	p m	a m	p m	a m
Chicago	*4 25	*7 20	*6 05	3 00	10 15
Syracuse	.....	10 50	10 45	.....	.....
Albion	.....	.....	11 25	6 57	.....
Avilla	.....	.....	11 42	7 15	.....
	a m
Garrett	*4 45	12 04	12 15	7 30	2 35
Auburn Jc	4 52	12 09	12 2	7 35	2 40
St. Joe	5 09	.....	12 43	7 50	.....
Hicksville	5 21	.....	1 00	8 00	.....
Defiance	6 03	1 10	1 40	8 23	3 36
Bellaire	3 55	.....	3 55	.....	11 36
(EASTERN TIME) Washington	a m 6 38	.....	.....	.....	.....
Baltimore	7 50	.....	.....	.....	.....

*Trains run daily. †Daily Except Sunday.
‡Stop on Signal.

For further information call on B. & O. Ticket Agent or address L. S. Allen, Ass't Gen'l Pass'r Ag't, Chicago. City Office Auburn, Ind.

COFFEE 12½ Cts Per lb

By using Aluminum Coffee Filterer will save its cost every 3 months in the year; always bright; no egg requirto settle. Coffee is richer and stronger. Every big restaurant in the world makes their coffee on this principle. Is of more value than any other kitchen utensil. Price 75 cents prepaid. Money refunded if not satisfactory. Agents can make from $3 to $15 per day selling this and other novelties. W. M. Woodworth, Kokomo, Ind.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report

Royal Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

Out of Debt.

Saturday's Daily.

The Parlor Social of the Presbyterian C. E. at J. L. Davis' last evening was largely attended and generously patronized. The program was very entertaining, being carried out substantially as published in Thursday's DAILY. Our people have learned that many of these entertainments are as well worth seeing and hearing, as the more elaborate ones to which we pay full admittance. The receipts after paying expenses, netted about $12, As the society had a remaining debt of only $10 they joyfully paid it within ten minutes of the close of the entertainment. The C. E. folks are happy. Since they bought the organ three years ago, and went into debt for it, they have raised and paid for that and similar purposes about $1,000. Of course they are happy now. They should have a word of praise for their sensible business ability.

Auburn Junction.

Saturday's Daily.

Geo. Mann is on the sick list.

Clyde Woodcox's baby is improving rapidly.

The Page Woven Wire Fence Base Ball Team, from Adrian, Mich. that has been playing at Hicksville for two days, passed through here last night for Butler where they were to play to-day. They travel in their own car.

Sheriff Stroh, Deputy Platter and Marshal West were here last night looking for Frank Parrett.

Yesterday forenoon while Henry Mossey was packing up his goods Philip Mann got a holt of a bottle of sliced pineapple preserved in whisky he ate a few slices and drank some of the whisky, the consequences were a dead drunk. Phillip is about 15 years old. No one to blame but himself.

James McClurock moved here from Ft. Wayne the 11th.

Yesterday evening some fellows cut a hole in the back door of Francis Powell's house large enough to put his hand through and unlock it. He walked in and went through everything in the house. No one knows whether he got anything or not, as Mr. Powell has moved on a farm, but left a part of his goods stored in the house.

Cure for Headache.

As a remedy for all forms of headache Electric Bitters has proved to be the very best. It effects a permanent cure, and the most dreaded habitual sick headache yields to its influence. We urge all who are afflicted to procure a bottle, and give this remedy a fair trial. In cases of habitual constipation Electric Bitters cure by giving the needed tone to the bowels, and few cases long resist the use of this medicine. Try it once. Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord's drugstore. 2

Half Rates to Hillsdale Fair.

Account of the Hillsdale Fair Sept. 30 to Oct. 4, the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Ry. will sell excursion tickets to Hillsdale and return at one fare for the round trip with 25 cents added for admission to the grounds. Tickets will be sold on above dates good to return not later than Oct. 5. 38 39

Obituary

Clara Belle Dimond, daughter of Edgar and Sarah Dimond, was born March, 20, 1880, died Sept. 10, 1895, aged 15 years, 5 months and 20 days. The funeral was conducted from the house at the Junction Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment took place in the Woodlawn cemetery. Rev. J. D. Brosy officiating.

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder diseases relieved in six hours by the "New Great South American Kidney Cure." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its exceeding promptness in relieving pain in the bladder, kidneys, back and every part of the urinary passages in male or female. It relieves retention of water and pain in passing it almost immediately. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn Ind. 34t

Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder World's Fair Highest Award.

English Spavin Liniment removes all hard, soft or calloused lumps and blemishes from horses, blood spavins, curbs, splints, sweeney, ring-bone, stifles, sprains, all swollen throats, coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful blemish cure ever known. Sold by Robbins and McCord druggists Auburn. 34tf

LEWIS' 98 % LYE

POWDERED AND PERFUMED (PATENTED)

The strongest and purest Lye made. Unlike other Lye, it being a fine powder and packed in a can with removable lid, the contents are always ready for use. Will make the best perfumed Hard Soap in 20 minutes without boiling. It is the best for cleansing waste pipes, disinfecting sinks, closets, washing bottles, pails, tress, etc.

PENNA. SALT M'F'G CO.
Gen. Agts., Phila., Pa.

WILCOX COMPOUND TANSY PILLS

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS. The only safe and always reliable Relief for Ladies. Accept no worthless and dangerous imitations. Save money and guard health by taking nothing but the only genuine and original Wilcox Compound Tansy Pills, in metal boxes bearing shield trade mark, price $1.00, all druggists. Send 4 cts. for Woman's Safe Guard, securely sealed.

WILCOX SPECIFIC CO.,
228 South Eighth Street, Phila., Pa.

Strange Death.

That a small matter like the common little sand burr found in the sandy parts of the country should cause death, is remarkable. But here is what an exchange says:

Geo. Swarts' little son and daughter were playing at their home, four miles south of White Pigeon, Saturday. The boy, Daniel, aged 7 years, was lying on the ground on his back and his sister shook some grass over his face. A sand burr fell into his windpipe. He suffered intense agony and two physicians attempted to remove the obstacle by an operation, but the little fellow died in the midst of it.

Heart Disease 30 Yrs!

Short Breath, Palpitation.

Mr. G. W. McKinsey, postmaster of Kokomo, Ind., and a brave ex-soldier, says: "I had been severely troubled with heart disease ever since leaving the army at the close of the late war. I was troubled with palpitation and shortness of breath. I could not sleep on my left side, and had pain around my heart. I became so ill that I was much alarmed, and fortunately my attention was called to

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

I decided to try it. The first bottle made a decided improvement in my condition, and five bottles have completely cured me."

G. W. McKINSEY, P. M., Kokomo, Ind

Dr. Miles Heart Cure is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

For Sale by, Fischle & Son., Auburn.

"Mothers' Friend" Cures Rising Breast.

I have been a midwife for many years, and in each case where "MOTHERS' FRIEND" was used it accomplished wonders and shortened labor and lessened pain. It is the best remedy for RISING OF THE BREAST known, and worth the price for that alone.

Mrs. M. M. Brewster, Montgomery, Ala.

Sent by Express or mail, on receipt of price, $1.00 per bottle. Book "To Mothers" mailed free.

BRADFIELD REGULATOR CO., ATLANTA, GA.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

THE HUB'S BOYS' HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

THIS AND PREVENT THIS

THESE HEAD-TO-FOOT OUTFITS

Consist of One COAT, Two Pairs of PANTS, One CAP to Match and a Pair of Shoes.

And the price of the whole outfit is Only $5.00

If on receipt you do not consider them the greatest bargain you ever bought for $5.00 you can send back the outfit and we expressly agree to return your money.

Send for samples of the cloth and full description of the outfit, also for our new spring catalogue—all sent free on application.

THE HUB, The World's Largest Clothing Store, CHICAGO, ILL.

Recorder's Office

THE AUBURN COURIER.

VOLUME XXV. AUBURN, DE KALB COUNTY, INDIANA, THURSDAY. SEPTEMBER 26. 1895. NUMBER 39.

WATERLOO FAIR,

OCT. 7 to 11.

EXTRA PRIZES

The Waterloo Fair managers, have secured a large number of valuable special premiums of various sorts to be used in connection with the coming fair. These are all, over and above the regular premiums on articles placed on exhibition. Read this list:

AERMOTOR WINDMILL

The Aermotor Company of Chicago, will give one galvanized Wind Engine to the farmer making the best display of farm products.

BUCKEYE MOWER

This will be given to the four largest loads of people paying admission to the fair. Waterloo people are barred out of this, as well as loads of people drawn by traction engines.

OLIVER CHILLED PLOW

This Co. by H. D. Boozer, agent, will give a finely finished plow to the second largest load of people during the fair.

SUIT OF CLOTHES

G. H. Yesbera, the Auburn Tailor, will give a $15 suit of clothes to the third largest load of people during the fair.

FINE PARLOR LAMP

J. D, Campbell, the Waterloo Druggist will give a fine parlor lamp for the fourth largest load of people coming to the fair.

Eckhart Buggy and Coquillard Wagon

With each admmission or grand stand ticket purchased will be given a number entitling the holder to one chance on the buggy and wagon, at the grand stand on Friday, Oct. 11 at 3 p. m. Brown, Culbertson & Boland of Auburn will give away the Eckhart buggy, value $75, and H. D. Boozer of Waterloo donates the wagon.

CRESCENT BICYCLE

A $75 bicycle to the gent or lady making two miles in the nearest time to 9 minutes, 47 seconds. Write the secretary for particulars.

PUBLIC WEDDING

Clerk D. D. Moody will donate the license; Boyer & Leas Waterloo, a $15 wrap; Knisely Dry Good Co., Butler, will give a pair of bed blankets to the first pair married. J. M. Waterman, will give a fine extension table. Wedding will be at 1 p. m Thursday.

Additional list will be given in next issue.

WATERLOO Fair.

OCT. 7 to 11.

OUR MOTTO

IS, "WE WILL NOT BE UNDERSOLD."

OUR GOODS

ARE WARRANTED TO BE FIRST CLASS.

DON'T FAIL TO SEE THE:...

FINES TLINE OF

STOVES

IN THE COUNTY.

BROWN, CULBERTSON & BOLAND.

REMEMBER THAT

MONEY SAVED IS MONEY MADE.

En Deshabille

This we believe is a French word that originated in Dublin. It is not pronounced quite the way it looks, but it gets there just the same this hot weather. It might be added by way of explanation, that this is the best word to be used in polite society ——the society in which the DAILY circulates——to express the condition in which some of our business men have had to work during the terribly hot weather, It follows then, that it is a very polite way of expressing the condition of a rising Auburn attorney, who thought he had a quiet hour to himself and could get more work done in that hour by sitting in his under clothes. But he forgot the main thing——to lock the door. Learned men tell us it is "the unexpected that usually happens." It certainly was in this case, when two ladies called in suddenly, and without knocking. A lawyer is always supposed to be ready for clients. The first thing this one did was to grab a palm leaf fan and hand it to his callers, with an apology for not having two fans. But he would try and stand one spectator, for the sake of business. Then he was about to ask them to walk out backwards when a silvery voice——two silvery voices, in fact——made rippling laughter on the stairway, and he was alone. The beaded sweat was rolling down his face and went chasing down his spinal column. The clock ticked drowsily on the wall. The ancient spider looked out of his still more ancient web in the "right hand upper corner," and blinked lazily. The solitary blue bottle that had tormented him all the morning, dashed heedlessly about, fell into the yawning inkstand and went at once to his reward. The office mouse, that had caused many a frantic jab of a rusty pen, crept with twinkling eyes and agitated nose nearer and nearer, then went his way in peace and surprise. All were safe, and a sort of intuition seemed to tell them so. The lawyer slept——they thought——slept the sleep of the "just discovered."

* * * * *

When he awoke, the sun was sinking into the west, that is, it would have been sinking in the west if this dry season had provided anything out that way for it to sink into. He slowly rubbed his eyes, and gently arose. "Was it a dream?" He said in a hoarse whisper. No it was not a dream, or anything of the sort. He slowly adjusted himself into his unmentionables, put on his vest, then his coat, and sallied forth to his 25th street home.

And as he went, he blushed, and said "By jimminy! I'll wear clothes after this." And he hasn't undressed but once since,

A Year's Growth.

One year ago Sept. 17, E. M. Bishop started to make his new brand of cigars which he called the "Dinger," When the words were painted on the window "This man is making Dingers," passers-by stopped to gaze at the strange legend and wonder what it meant. It was in all mouths then, figuratively speaking. It is in many mouths now, literally speaking; now everybody knows what it means and thousands puff the fragrant cigar, Then, it read "This man" is making them meaning one man. Now, twelve months later it would have to read, if painted again, "Several men are making Dingers" for it takes about half a dozen to make enough to supply the demand. The Dinger has a queer name, and at the time he started we asked Mr. Bishop how he hit on on such an odd title, "Well" said he, "We boys used to have various amusements and pastimes and if one got up a thing that best all others, or made the best point of all, we would say, "Well, that's a dinger." So when I concluded to make a new cigar of my own, I called it the "Dinger" being determined it should beat all others." Mr. Bishop now admits the idea was a happy one, for the "Dinger" stands at the head of the cigars.

Awarded Highest Honors—World's Fair,

DR. PRICE'S CREAM BAKING POWDER

MOST PERFECT MADE.

A pure Grape Cream of Tartar Powder. Free from Ammonia, Alum or any other adulterant.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

A Plan Developing

The project talked of some time ago to build an electric street car line from Garrett and other points to this city is again being revived. We have been informed that the Garrett Electric Light Co will be strongly interested in a scheme of this kind provided they do not sell their plant to the city of Garrett. The council of the city have decided to put in a plant to be owned by the city. If they put in a new plant, the old company may have to look for fresh pastures when their present lease expires and they have already been approached on the subject to locate their plant at the Junction and from there they could compete for Incandescent and Arc Lighting business, in both towns, as well as be in shape to furnish power for the Electric street line. The plan is backed by parties with ample capital to put it through. We are of the opinion that a move of this kind would be a great benefit to Auburn as well as to our Sister City.

Patronize Home.

Newspapers all over the country are asking their readers not to patronize outside firms. Patronize home industry. Do not go to outside firms for household utensils, luxuries or necessities. You pay more in other towns for furniture, carpets and curtains than our home merchants ask. Money spent here may return like bread cast upon the waters, Money spent outside is never going to return. It is a dead and buried hope. If purchases are not as promised home dealers make the default good. The foreign merchant tells you to chase yourself around the block. The large stock of goods that is kept by Auburn merchants is equal to many of the largest and finest stocks in the cities. Patronize home merchants and they will patronize you.

County Treasurers

Recent decisions of the supreme court are to the effect that county treasurers cannot loan out the public funds in his hands and if he does so cannot collect it by suit. A late case was one in which a treasurer loaned money that belonged to his county, to an Electric Light Co. The company refused to pay back the money and the treasurer sued them. The court held he could not collect it, but must stand the loss by paying the money back into the treasury himself. Treasurers can dispose of the funds in their hands in two ways: Pay over to the state, the money that belongs to it; but other money can only be deposited in a bank, in the name of the county.

If it is deposited in the name of the treasurer, he commits a crime, for it is not his money. And the decision rested on the ground that no man can collect money he had no ownership in, and therefore had no right to loan. Of course he can keep the money in his office, if he cares to run the risk. But the decision is one it will pay county treasurers to study.

Apple Crop Ruined.

It was thought that there would be a large apple crop this fall but it is not true. The recent hot weather has ruined the crop. A Detroit firm has a man here buying apples and he went into the country and contracted for enough to fill two cars. He only received about three wagon loads. When the farmers went to gather the apples they found that the hot sun had baked them on the trees. After they were off a few hours they simply got soft, and were not fit to load up. This will be a great disappointment to many people as they thought the crop would be heavy this fall.

Did You Ever

Try Electric Bitters as a remedy for your troubles? If not, get a bottle now and get relief. This Medicine has been found to be peculiarly adapted to the relief and cure of all female complaints, exerting a wonderful direct influence in giving strength and tone to the organs. If you have loss of appetite, constipation, headache, fainting spells, or are nervous, sleepless, excitable, melancholy or troubled with dizzy spells, Electric Bitters is the medicine you need. Health and strength are guaranteed by its use Large bottles only fifty cents at Robbins & McCord. 3

BUCKLEN'S ARNICA SALVE.—The best salve in the world for cuts, bruises, sores, ulcers, salt rheum, fever sores, tetter, chapped hands, chilblains, corns and all skin eruptions, and positively cures piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction, or money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by Robbins & McCord tf usiness Change.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

The Eagle Manufacturing plant at Auburn Junction has been leased to Messrs. Bremer and McGuire, of Marietta, Ohio. Both are experienced and capable workmen in all lines of foundry and machine work. They will continue the manufacture of the same lines as heretofore made there, and will also, soon introduce new branches. We know of no reason why they should not build up an extensive business.

Will Disband.

South Bend's Military Company May Disband.

Company F of South Bend held an indignation meeting on Monday night. Captain Funston ordered in all property belonging to the State. The company abandons all drills and all duty but roll-call once a week in citizen's dress. The trouble grew out of silverware taken from the restaurant at Peru in July, on returning from the State encampment. The silverware taken was valued at $17, and was returned.

Adjutant-General Robbins held the money due Company F, averaging $10 a man, and $650 in all. Final arrangements to disband will be taken at the next meeting. The boys will sue the State for the money due if it is not soon forthcoming.

This Is A Dull Day.

News, news, news! It's enough to give a man the blues. Nobody married and nobody dead; nobody broken an arm or a head; nobody come in to talk of the "crop;" no one boozy and started a scrap; no one got run in for taking a horn; nobody buried and nobody born. Oh! for a racket, a riot, a fuss! Some one to come in and kick up a muss; somebody to stir up the peace laden air; somebody's comment to give us a scare. Somebody thumped within an inch of his life; somebody run off with another man's wife; some one come in and pay up his dues; anything, anything; just so it's news.

Out O'Sight.

Far be it from the purpose of the DAILY to use slang. When we do such a thing, may our right hand cleave to the roof of our mouth. But we use the above head as the only correct one. And thereby hangs a tale. Shorty Mochamer's mules got very thirsty Saturday as he was driving south of town, and he drove into the little stream at the old Dittmar farm to let them drink. There was a hole by the old dam that he did not know was so deep, and the mules, in their eagerness to get into the water far enough to let the water into their stomachs easy and without so much pumping went a little to far and plunged into the deep water and were for a moment, literally "out o'sight." But a mule does not always lose its head under difficulties of this nature and if their tuneful voices had not been drowned by the floods, they would no doubt have started in deepest baritones, the well worn hymn:

"Pull for the Shore."

And they pulled for the shore with all the ardor of skillful swimmers. The swimming motion lifted their nose above water, and they floated. The wagon box also floated but as luck would have it, the hind stakes caught the box and it got ashore with the rest. And there sat Shorty, high up on the seat as he could get, holding his legs out into the summer air and joining in the chorus, of

"Pull for the shore sailors,
Pull for the shore,
Leave this tarnal muddy creek
And pull for the Shore."

And Shorty lives. The mules are clean. The old "Swimming hole" still does business at the old stand, and is waiting for more mules and more fun.

"Any Port in a Storm."

That's a good maxim, but it will not work as a rule in the purchase of a remedy for rheumatism. Any of the cheap nostrums will not effect a cure—in fact none of them will. Get Dr. Drummond's Lightning remedy, and a speedy cure is certain. One bottle is worth a hundred of anything else, and for that reason it is the cheapest when a cure is wanted. The two bottles sent to any address by express upon receipt of $5. Drummond Medicine Co., 48 Maiden Lane, New York. Agents wanted. 38 39

Mr. A. A. Snyder, Supt. Poor Farm Winnebago Co., Ia., says:—Last winter Mr. Robert Leach used two boxes of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and cured a large running sore on his leg. Had been under care of physician for months without obtaining relief. Sure cure for Piles

Monday, Sept. 30

We were delighted with last Monday's special sale. Not alone that it made us a very busy day, but because we know we have gained a great number of new friends. and pleased our many former ones. We did exac ly as we advertised, and every customer obtained

Genuine Bargains

Feeling that at this season of the year you will the more appreciate these bargain days, we have decided to give you another

Even Greater Special Sale

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30.

In this sale we shall endeavor to interest one and all.

Men's Fleece Lined Underwear, heavy weight, sold everywhere for $1.50 per suit, our price 98c per suit.

Men's Underwear sold everywhere for 75c, per suit, our price 48c.

Ladies full size Wool Skirts, regular price $1.00, Monday's price 63c.

On this day we will open our Ladies' wrap department with a boom, by giving a Special Discount of 20 per cent on each and every garment.

We will offer $1.00 Lace Curtains for $ .75
2.25 " " " 1.25
3.00 " " " 2.00
4.50 " " " 3.25
5.00 " " " 3.50

Bear in Mind

that we carry the largest and most stylish stock of Clothing, and our prices are always the very lowest. We invite you to call.

Schaab & Bro.

Smoke THE "DINGER!"

E. M. BISHOP,

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

THIRTY years' observation of Castoria with the patronage of millions of persons, permit us to speak of it without guessing. It is unquestionably the best remedy for Infants and Children the world has ever known. It is harmless. Children like it. It gives them health. It will save their lives. In it Mothers have something which is absolutely safe and practically perfect as a child's medicine.

Castoria destroys Worms.
Castoria allays Feverishness.
Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd.
Castoria cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic.
Castoria relieves Teething Troubles.
Castoria cures Constipation and Flatulency.

Castoria neutralizes the effects of carbonic acid gas or poisonous air.
Castoria does not contain morphine, opium, or other narcotic property.
Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep.
Castoria is put up in one-size bottles only. It is not sold in bulk.
Don't allow any one to sell you anything else on the plea or promise that it is "just as good" and "will answer every purpose."
See that you get C-A-S-T-O-R-I-A.

The fac-simile signature of Chas. H. Fletcher is on every wrapper.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

Auburn Courier.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
JAMES A. BARNES - - PUBLISHER.

AROUND THE WORLD.

INTELLIGENCE FROM ALL PARTS OF THE GLOBE.

News from Foreign Shores—Domestic Happenings—Personal Pointers—Labor Notes—Political Occurrences—Fires, Accidents, Crimes, Etc.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

Insurgents and Spaniards Both Claim Victories.

News of a battle in which the Spanish were defeated by the Cubans and lost 400 men, was received at New York by President Palma. It came in a letter written August 14, by Pedro Rovira, a Cuban private, who deserted the Spanish ranks at Pera Lego, when Campos was defeated.

Havana special: Official reports have been received here of an important engagement which is said to have resulted disastrously to the insurgents. The column commanded by Lieut. Col. Teruel and Maj. Zubia, numbering 300, by a sceries of combined movements, penetrated into a thick forest and fought the insurgents' band congregated there. The report says that they captured their field hospital and medicines, while the insurgents took flight, leaving behind eighty-five with twenty-four killed. As a result of the three days' operations, the insurgents are said to have lost thirty-seven killed, fifty horses captured, forty-five saddled horses and three prisoners. The loss of the government troops is reported as two killed and seven wounded, two captains and two lieutenants being hurt.

Bold Intruders.

At 9 o'clock the other night three masked men entered the house of Michael Bechtol, in Woodbury township, Bedford county, Pennsylvania. The family were seated in the parlor, a daughter playing sacred music on the organ. The intruders demanded that she play dance music. This she could not do. The men then drew revolvers and demanded money. Bechtol gave them $10, which did not satisfy them. They then ransacked the house with deliberation, taking money, gold and silver watches and other valuable articles. There is no clue to the identity of the robbers.

Fearfully Gored.

Mrs. Julia Backus, of Riverside, a suburb of Parkersburg, W. Va., while crossing a pasture field above town, was attacked and badly injured by a cow. The woman was knocked down and gored, but held to the animal's horns and struggled with it for half an hour, and before help arrived her clothes were torn to shreds. A piece of her scalp was torn off, and she was trampled and bruised so fearfully that she may die.

Cost Him His Life.

While Robert Gilpin, aged 18, son of John Gilpin, living in Green County, Kentucky, was out hunting squirrels his dog got into a fight with another dog, and young Gilpin had some difficulty in separating the warring brutes. He at last grasped his gun by the barrel, and struck at the dogs with the butt of the weapon, when it was discharged, and he received the contents of both barrels in his breast. Death was instantaneous.

Gold in Kentucky.

News has been received from Pembroke, a station seven miles south of Hopkinsville, Ky., on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, that the most intense excitement prevails there over the discovery of gold in paying quantity at a depth of 300 feet. The find was made by J. C. Hollis, who was boring for a well. A stock company is being formed to operate the vein, and the needed machinery has been ordered.

Perished in the Snow.

Frank Nevins of Rawlins, Wyo., sent his two sons into the gulch, a mile away from home, to drive cows. Twenty horsemen who went to search for them have returned without finding any trace of them. They have probably perished in the snow, which is two feet deep. The Snake River stage picked up a sheep herder nine miles from Rawlins. He was completely exhausted and almost frozen.

A Steamer Lost.

Escanaba (Mich.) special: The schooner E. K. Williamson, iron ore laden, from this port to Toledo, sank in a big gale on Green Bay, with all on board. Of the crew only the names of Capt. Hutton and Maggie Bennett, the stewardess, are known; the crew, five men, have been strangers here.

Village Burns.

The town of Tiosa, ten miles south of Plymouth, Ind., was destroyed by fire. Saw mill, lumber yards, five stores, elevator and a number of shops are in ashes. The fire started in a burning pile of sawdust and was fanned into life by the storm.

Forest Fires.

A Santa Cruz, Cal., special says: Forest fires are sweeping through hundreds of acres of forest in this vicinity. Railroad traffic is interfered with by trees fallen across the tracks. The fire is the worst that has ever visited Santa Cruz County.

Lost His Life.

At Washington, Ind., William Walker, an estimable young man, was drowned in White River. Some fellows stole his skiff and left it on the opposite side of the river, and in attempting to swim for it he lost his life.

Watermelon and Rattler.

Cecil, the 12-year-old son of John Carson of Logansport, Ind., was bitten by a rattlesnake while gathering watermelons and may not recover.

Burned to Death.

Three men burned to death is the fearful record of a fire in the paint works of W. K. Freid, No. 95 Main street, Allegheny, Pa. The fatalities are the result of explosions of barrels of oil in the paint works which caught the men unawares.

Caused by a Cow.

A twenty-five-dollar brindle cow caused a $25,000 wreck on the Norfolk and Western Railroad at Ironton, Ohio, by derailing a freight train on a trestle over Storms Creek.

A Fatal Collision.

A railway train with 1,200 soldiers on board, came into collision with a freight train standing at the station at Oederan, Saxony, demolishing a number of cars of both trains. Twelve soldiers were instantly killed and sixty were injured. Many others are missing and the debris is being searched for their bodies.

Prairie Fires.

Perry (Okl.) special: Terrible fires are raging south of here and great damage has been done. Thousands of acres have been burned over and much hay and other crops destroyed. Several people had narrow escapes.

PEARY AND PARTY

Return From Greenland After the Usual Artic Experience.

A special from St. John, N. F., says: The Peary relief steamer has arrived here with Lieutenant Peary and his companions from Greenland on board. When the Kite reached Whale Sound, on August 8, Lieutenant Peary, Hugh J. Lee and their colored servant, Matt Henson, were found waiting for it. The party had only ten days previously returned from their great overland expedition, which had proved a comparative failure. Lieutenant Peary and the others started late in March and made their way to Independence Bay, which is the most northerly point of Greenland, which he had reached on his previous expedition. Independence Bay was reached early in June, but there were not enough men in the party to accomplish any bold ventures. They were further deterred from any great undertakings by the insufficiency of their food supply, an obstacle which was foreseen last year.

The Kite experienced splendid weather in the North, and attempted to explore the west end of Smith Sound, after picking up Lieutenant Peary and his companions, and discovered many new harbors. She traversed the whole coast, visiting Jones Sound, Cape Sabine and Littleton Island. Perhaps the most improtant discovery of this trip was two meteorites. Of large size and almost of pure iron, which were taken on board the Kite. Another meteorite weighing about 40 tons was found, but it was impossible to bring it home.

RUINED BY FLAMES.

Great Business Blocks in Indianapolis Burned Down.

Half a million dollars in buildings and merchandise went up in flames and smoke as the result of one of the most disastrous and stubborn fires in the history of Indianapolis, and parts of several blocks, including some of the finest buildings in the city, are in ruins, or badly damaged. Valuable stocks had to be flooded with water, to an enormous loss, to prevent their total destruction and a wider spread of the fire. Two million dollars in cash stored in the vaults of the Indiana National Bank, whose building was totally destroyed, was in danger, but the vaults are now believed to have withstood the flames intact.

Following are the buildings entirely burned or badly damaged: A. B. Pettis building, five stories, occupied by Eastman, Schleicher & Co., with china and furniture store; Indiana National Bank building; Candit building, five stories, occupied by the Western Union company; Pacific Express building, four stories; George Mansfield building, three sotries; Blackford building, four stories, occupied by the American Express company, Boston Clothing company, etc.; Mayer Stencil Company building, three stories; A. B. Pettis building, six stories, occupied by dry goods store.

SPANISH WARSHIP

Sinks in a Collision and Many Officers Drowned.

Havana special: The Spanish warship Sanchez Barcaiztegui, with Admiral Del Gado Parejo on board, was struck by the incoming coasting Steamer Mortera, in front of Morro Castle, and sank almost instantly. Admiral Parejo and four of the crew of the war ship, including Capt. Ybanez, and three others officers were drowned. The remainder of the crew, 116 in number, were saved. The bodies of Parejo and Captain Ybanez were recovered. The body of the captain was horribly mutilated, the head and arms having been eaten away by sharks. The Sanchez Barcaiztegui was an iron bark-rigged cruiser of 920 tons displacement and 1,100 nominal horse-power. She was built at LaSeyne in 1876. She was 203 feet long, 20 feet wide and had a draught of 12 feet. She carried seven guns.

Trolley Cars Collide.

Detroit special: Motor car No. 81, east bound on the Fort Wayne & Belle Isle Street Railway line, collided with the trailer attached to another motor car as it was rounding into Clark avenue from Fort street. The trailer was an open car and was crowded, many passengers being obliged to stand on the running board. Joseph Schaermetzki and Charles Michaels were caught between the two cars. The former suffered from compound fracture of the legs and died from the effects of the shock after being removed to Harper Hospital. He was about 60 years of age. Michaels suffered a compound fracture of one of his legs, but the physicians say they will be able to save it. The rest of the passengers were shaken up, but none were injured. The cause of the accident was the failure of the brakes to hold motor No. 81.

Trouble in the East.

A special from Tokio, Japan, per steamer Gaelic, via San Francisco, says: Tai Wan Ju, the old capitol of Formosa, and Chang Hwa, an adjacent fortified town, were captured by a body of 2,000 Japanese on August 26, after a short contest in which twenty-four assailants were killed or wounded. Of the Chinese garrisons numbering 10,000, 650 were either killed or wounded, the remainder dispersed in various directions. Fifty thousand Mohammedans are in active rebellion in the northwest of China. They are fighting with arms said to be supplied by Russian sympathizers, and their avowed purpose is to set up an independent government in the territory taken from Kansu Allier and Thibet. The authorities at Pekin are dispatching all the troops that can be collected to the scene.

Cyclones in Michigan.

Specials from Michigan cities tell of a cyclone that passed over a portion of the State Wednesday night. At Charlevoix a house was demolished and fences, trees, and outhouses were scattered promiscuously in the path of the wind, which covered but a small area. No one was hurt. Port Austin reports the heaviest storm ever known there. Considerable damage was done to buildings and three lives are said to have been lost by the collapse of a house in Hume township. At Sand Beach nearly every building was more or less damaged, two houses and twelve barns being entirely destroyed. Near Kinde, two children of Richard Tott were killed by falling timbers and three others injured.

A Schooner Seized.

Key West (Fla.) special: The United States Revenue Cutter McLane arrived here from Pine Key, having in tow the schooner Antoinette, with ten Cubans and three Americans on board. The Antoinette was seized under suspicious circumstances. When sighted the schooner attempted to get away, setting all sails, but ran aground on the banks and was easily captured. The men on board were heavily armed. The Cubans and Americans were taken before Commissioners Otto, charged with violating the neutrality laws, and released on bonds. It is thought the Cubans have large supplies of arms secured on Pine Key and that the Antoinette intended to get a cargo and sail for Cuba.

Fatal Boiler Explosion.

The large saw mill of Frank Weekly, located four miles back of Proctorville, in Lawrence County, Ohio, was blown to atoms by the boiler exploding. Frank Weekly, the proprietor, was blown to pieces, some parts of his body being found 100 yards away. George Matthews, an employe, was blown a distance of fifty yards away, and his mangled remains were lodged on top of a rail fence. William Turner, the engineer, was badly cut about the head and rendered unconscious. He cannot live. Several others were slightly injured. The cause of the explosion is unknown. Mr. Weekly and Mr. Matthews are both prominent and wealthy men and leave large families. Turner is single.

Train Held Up.

Waupaca (Wis.) special: Passenger train No. 2, on the Wisconsin Central road, Conductor Whitney and Engineer Blaine, was held up by armed men in a swamp three miles west of the city. The engine and baggage car were ditched by pulling spikes. Ties were also piled on the track. The passengers were not molested by the robbers, but only terrified by bullets which were fired through the coaches. Twelve sticks of dynamite were exploded on the safe without avail and the robbers fled without getting any booty. Conductor Whitney says there were ten or a dozen men in the gang. The passengers were taken back to Sheridan.

Burned to Death.

Mrs. Henry Nolan, living at 2054 Elizabeth street, Cleveland, O., was fatally burned, and her infant son, Henry, Jr., was burned to death. The mother tried to start a fire with kerosene, pouring the oil from a can into the stove. A terrific explosion followed, and almost in an instant she was enveloped in flames. She succeeded in getting out of the house with one child, Willie, who was also severely, but not fatally, burned. Henry was dead when found, and Mrs. Nolan will die. Several neighbors were badly burned in attempting to rescue the boy. The house was entirely consumed.

Desperate Fight Over a Game of Cards.

A special from McKinney, Ky., says: News of a terrific fight over a gambling game is reported here from Adams & Trobridge's distillery in Pulaski County, fifteen miles south of his place. Lee McKinney, who came directly from the scene, says that six men, one of them named Cain, of Mintonville, engaged in a game of poker in a room at a distillery. A dispute over the game arose and the shooting began. Cain alone escaped, and is accredited with slaying the other five men. Most of the slain were shot either through the head or heart. Cain is evading arrest, though the officers are hot on his trail.

Gold Bullion Being Coined.

Superintendent Kritz of the Philadelphia mint, has commenced the coining of the double eagles from the millions of dollars in gold bullion now stored in the vaults of the mint. The press has the capacity of 18,000 pieces a day, amounting to $360,000, which by working to its full capacity, will give an output of over $10,000,000 a month. This course will be pursued by the Superintendent, as the reserve gold fund in the institution is now quite low, and because of the weekly shipments to New York and other cities it is desired to replenish it.

Cyclone in Wisconsin.

Green Bay (Wis.) special: Thirty buildings were destroyed by a cyclone which swept over Door County peninsula Friday night. Farmers were the principal losers. The large Shiloh Church at Clay Banks was torn from its foundation and borne through the air several rods and dumped bottom up in a mass of debris. The cyclone swept a path for twenty miles through forest and farms, leveling all in its way. Only two persons are reported to have been hurt.

Skeletons Unearthed.

Workmen employed by the Garden City Sand Pit company, at Liverpool, Ind., have unearthed two human bodies in a pit about five feet under ground. The find created a sensation among the residents of that village. From appearances they have been buried about a year. All their clothing had rotted away, and nothing was found that could establish their identity. The officials are making an investigation.

Lineman Fatally Injured.

Eugene Denby, a telegraph lineman, started out to look for a broken wire along the G. R. & I. tracks. He was riding a railway velocipede, and, while going through the yards, south of Grand Rapids, he was run down by a freight engine and had both legs cut off. He was taken to the hospital, where he lies in a critical condition. It is thought that he cannot recover.

Overcome by Gas in a Well.

Charles James and John Jones, while cleaning a well for O. B. Chickering, at Winchester, Ohio, were overcome by gas. John Gillion and Samuel Hughes were sent down after them, and were also overcome. All four lay there unconscious for over an hour. They were drawn up by lassoing them. They cannot recover.

Rev. Talmage Accepts.

Rev. Dr. Talmage has decided to accept the call from the First Presbyterian Church at Washington. He has written to Rev. Byron Sunderland saying he will accept the associate pastorate of that reverend gentleman's church. It is understood that he will be installed about October 10.

Six Are Dead.

Forty-one colored people were poisoned at a religious gathering at Camilla, Ga., presumably by the pies, which stood a long time in the tin plates. Six of the poisoned have since died.

Broke His Leg.

Gov. Upham of Wisconsin, fell as he was going up Lookout Mountain Friday, and broke his leg.

The Hay Crop.

The hay crop prospects of our northwest coast are not good, and the market is uninviting.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.75 to $6.00; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2 red, 56c to 58c; corn, No. 2, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 39c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 13c to 15c; potatoes, per bushel, 25c to 35c; broom corn, common growth to fine brush, 2½c to 4½c per pound.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, common to prime, $2.00 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 57c to 59c; corn, No. 1 white, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 25c to 26c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.50 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 58c to 59c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 30c to 31c; oats, No. 2 white, 19c to 20c; rye, No. 2, 37c to 39c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $3.50 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.00; wheat, No. 2, 62c to 63c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 32c to 33c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 22c to 23c; rye, No. 2, 41c to 43c.

